THE SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

The Republican Citizen of Frederick, has, more or less energetically, for some years past, been agitating the question of the official fees of the Sheriff of Frederick county.

Now that the questions are before the tax-payers, there can be no evasion of the issues, let there be the most searching investigation of the facts, and let it be decreed that our county business shall be conducted in accordance with the rules of business by which men in private life govern themselves.

We believe, the Citizen is actuated by the honest desire to promote the public interests; but the facts in the case are so apparent, that everyone must see the impotence of working to such a purpose, that the issue shall be squarely met.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

The Legislature assembled on Wednesday at Annapolis. Senator Henry Loyd, of Dorchester county, was elected President of the Senate, and the other officers were appointed by resolution as follows:

Secretary, John M. Miller, of Cecil; reading clerk, John W. Baughman, of Frederick county; journal clerk, Wm. G. Purnell, of Cecil; sergeant-at-arms, Oliver Wood, of Baltimore city; doorkeeper, Benj. F. Shafer, of Washington county; assistant doorkeeper, Dr. Robert Wright, of Queen Anne's; engrossing clerk, George W. Bell, of Wilcomico; committee clerks, Charles A. Walsche, of Carroll, James W. Dijen, of Baltimore city, and Charles G. Keller, of Garrett county; folder, John T. Toll, of Dorchester; janitor, Thomas Sears, of Worcester; postmaster, Levi Webb, of Howard; messenger to the printer, James D. Powell, of Baltimore county; chaplain, Rev. Wm. A. McDonald.

The Governor's message, says the Baltimore Sun, covers sixty-seven book pages. He retires from office with the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens.

Gotham Gossip.

New Year's Day is it was and is—Fashions in Calling.—Private Detectives.—The Curse of the Age.—Their Methods of Work.—The Nourishing Asylum.—A Noble Charity.

New York, January 2d, 1884. New Year's Day was spent much more quietly this year than for many seasons past. That system of making calls, which in former years used to be carried on to an excessive extent in this city seems to be dying.

Gentlemen are no longer required to be on the go from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M., wandering from house to house to wish their lady friends a Happy New Year, and to make their stomachs receptacles for the most heterogeneous combinations of food and liquors.

The arrest of the man Kohlfahl, who under the pretense of educating men as detectives, and providing them with lucrative employment swindled a score or more gullible persons out of sums ranging from twenty to two hundred dollars, shows to what an extent the private detective business prevails, and when one considers its many ramifications, one is almost horrified.

GREEN peas are selling in the Gainesville (Florida) market. JOHN WANAMAKER has 125,000 trade dollars which he took in at full value. The new postoffice building in Philadelphia, which has cost nearly eight million of dollars, is nearly ready for occupation.

THE records of the Post Office Department show that Henry Beardsley, of North Lansing, N. Y., is the senior post-master in the service. He has held his office since June, 1823, having served all of that time under his original commission.

er's fondness, but in after life how keenly must they feel the stigma which rests upon their birth. Family during the few years that the institution has been in progress, nearly fifteen thousand children have been taken care of. But for the Sisters of Charity they would have perished. Utilitarians may say that this would have been the best thing for them, but when one considers the value of human life, and the benefits some of these waifs may yet confer upon the world, the Sisters deserve the highest credit for their self sacrificing charity.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C. Jan. 1, '83. The National Capital has rarely seen a duller holiday season than that just closed. Coupled with wretchedly disagreeable weather was the almost deserted condition of the large hotels and the general appearance that nearly everybody had gone away somewhere to enjoy their good dinners and good cheer.

It is noticeable what a number of Congressmen go to housekeeping of late years instead of living in the hotels and boarding houses. Before the war there were about twenty-five Senators and Representatives, generally from the South, who hired houses here and entertained hospitably during the session.

Ladies' Dining Rooms in the city Private entrance to the same. We are now ready to cater to the public anything the market affords, at the lowest prices. Call and examine our bill of fare.

Oysters Every Style.

Norfolk Shell Oysters, 30 cents per dozen. Families supplied by the pint, quart or gallon.

Sensible Men and women know that the many ailments of the body each needs a different method of treatment in order to effect a cure, and a no-nonsense remedial must convince that any one of the remedies hereinafter mentioned upon the plan claiming to cure all of a number of diametrically opposite diseases must prove failures, even if we do not call them humbugs.

Poor People and people of moderate means, who do or wealthy find themselves poor and afflicted, should know that in fact they have thrown their money away. To overcome these evils, we offer Wheeler's No. 96 Rheumatic Remedy, which is not positively effected. The remedies are entirely vegetable, can do no harm, and will positively cure every disease for which they are prescribed.

Suffering Women. Many a woman who is afflicted with a pretty face, beautiful figure, fair complexion, as well as the sweetest of temper and faultless manner, grows gradually pale, thin, and gray and withered, her form loses its perfect contour, the complexion becomes sallow, the brightness leaves the eyes, and she is obliged to take the place of the once beautiful girl.

A New Celery.

Novelties in vegetables are certainly novel things. Unlike flowers, it is a difficult matter to change the character of a vegetable, either in its outward appearance, or in its esculent properties sufficiently to warrant the significant appellation "New." "Henderson's Celery White Plum," is so entirely distinct from any other form of this popular vegetable, both in its appearance and manner of growth, that we consider it justly entitled to the name they have given it, with the prefix "New."

They describe it as "being so easily cultivated, that the most inexperienced can grow it blanching in the proper condition for the table, just as easily as Cabbage or Lettuce, its peculiarity being that naturally the stalks and portions of the inner leaves and heart are white, so that by closing the stalks, either by tying them up with matting or by simply drawing the soil up against the plant and pressing it together with the hands, and again drawing it up with the hoe or plow so as to keep the soil that has been squeezed against the Celery in its place, the work of blanching is completed, while in all other kinds the slow and troublesome process of high banking with a spade is a necessity in addition to this.

"It is well known that Celery is highly valued for table ornamentation, especially by hotels and restaurants, and for this purpose it is claimed the 'White Plum' is admirably fitted, the inner leaves being disposed somewhat like an ostrich feather, which suggested the name. In addition to this, they say that its eating qualities are equal to the very best of the older sorts, being crisp, solid, and having that nutty flavor peculiar to the 'Walnut' and some of the red sorts. Last season a few thousand bunches were sold for the first time in the New York markets, and were quickly disposed of at nearly double the price of the ordinary kinds of the same size. It was purchased exclusively by the purveyors for the leading hotels, and, from its beautiful appearance created an interest in this vegetable which never had been shown before. Its only drawback is, that from its tenderness it will not keep as well into late winter as the green sorts, but as it can be had through the Christmas holidays, the time when Celery is in greater demand than at any other season, it will, without doubt, at once be largely grown."

Its remarkable whiteness, without blanching, is caused probably by what is termed leaf variegation, or a "spot," which is generally considered a diseased condition of the plant, although no such condition is manifested in its growth, for more healthy plants of any vegetable we never saw growing. As for its quality, we do not think its flavor as high as some of the well-known varieties, and herein we differ from others who have given it considerable attention. But from its attractive appearance and its ease of cultivation and preparation, it must become very popular with the market gardener. After we have grown it a season, as we certainly shall do, we shall be better able to judge of its merits.—Floral Cabinet.

MUFFINS.—Melt two ounces of the best butter in one quart of warm milk, and set aside until cold; beat four eggs until very light, and make a batter by adding alternately and very gradually a little of the milk and butter and a little flour until the batter is of a proper consistency, which is quite thin; then add a large tablespoonful of compressed yeast or two teaspoonfuls of Hock's yeast, and beat well. Bake them in buttered muffin rings, set upon a hot griddle that has been rubbed over with beef suet. Bake them first on one side then upon the other. They must be torn asunder to butter, as cutting them open renders them heavy.—Cutler.

SUPPER DISH.—Brown to a crisp in the oven several slices of bread. Pound to crumbs in a mortar, and having thoroughly buttered a baking dish, sprinkle it with the crumbs. Then put in a layer of oysters that have been slightly stewed in milk and butter thickened; put next a layer of macaroni that has been boiled twenty minutes; then succeeding layers of oysters and macaroni to the top of the dish. Sprinkle more crumbs on the top, strew about bits of butter, and brown quickly in a hot oven.

Some Facts About Peanuts.

If, as some people believe, Africa sent a curse to America in slavery, she certainly conferred a blessing in the universally popular peanut which grows so well throughout the Southern regions that we shall soon be able to cut off their now large importation altogether. In Virginia they are called "peanuts;" in North Carolina, "ground peas;" in Mississippi, "pinders;" in Alabama, "ground-outs" and in Tennessee, "goobers."

The preparation of peanuts for the market is an interesting operation. They are first put in an immense cylinder, from which they enter the brushes, where each nut receives fifteen or sixteen feet of brushing before it becomes free. After this cleaning process the nuts drop on an endless belt, which revolves very slowly. On each side of the belt is a row of girls—black, white, tan colored and crushed strawberry, some of them—whose duty it is to separate the poor nuts from the good ones.

Those of the nuts that "pass" go on to the next room, where more girls await their arrival and put them in bags which, when filled, are sewed up and branded as "cocks," with the figure of a rooster prominent on each sack. These are the "No. 1" peanuts. The poorer nuts, which were separated by the girls at the endless belt, are all picked over again; the best are singled out and branded, after being put in the sack, as "chips" are not so large or so fine in appearance as the "cock," but are just as good for eating.

The third grade of nuts is known as "eagles," and the cullings that are left from the "eagles" are bagged and sent to a building where the little meat that is in them is extracted by a patent sheller. This "meat"—for by this name it is known to the dealers—is put up, clean and nice, in 200 pound bags and shipped for the use of confectioners and manufacturers of peanut candy.

There is also an oil made from some of the nuts, and in this specialty, I am told, a large trade is done by wholesale druggists. Of the peanuts there is nothing wasted, for even the shells are made useful, being put in immense sacks and sold to livery men for horse bedding, and a very comfortable, healthful bed they make.

I see by one of the Atlantic papers that a mill is to be built for the manufacture of peanut flour, which it is said makes most excellent biscuit.

In parts of Georgia I have eaten pastry made of peanut flour, and it was excellent, resembling cocoanut in taste somewhat, although much more oily and sweet.

The cultivation of the peanut will, before long, be one of the industries of the South, and bids fair, in time, to rival cotton growing as an occupation, the profits of each acre of land being about the same, and peanuts are much easier to grow than cotton, requiring less care and attention.

There is one objection, however, to peanut flour as a steady diet. It is said to be very injurious to the teeth, causing them first to turn yellow and then decay.

Humorous.

"I'm always getting things mixed," as the man said who had hash set before him thirteen times a week.

Last year England imported over eight hundred million eggs. She not only means to be mistress of the sea, but boss of the hatchway.

Messrs. Hall & Atkinson, druggists, at Drieheld, Md., say: "We hear many words of praise from our customers in favor of Brown's Iron Bitters."

During the past seven years Germany has sent 10,000,000 corsets to this country to squeeze our women, and thousands of gallons of Rhine wine to make our men tight.

"Yes, sir," said the detective. "I'll look up his character. By the way: Do you wish to ascertain that he's a nice or bad person? I always like to please my customers."

"What's use play poker," remarked an almond-eyed denizen of Tucson, Nevada, the other day. "Me hold four kings and a ace; Mexican man hold all same time four laces and a king; whole week was hee gone."

"That a blessing it is," says Pat lightly muddled, "that night never comes on 'til late in the day, when a man is all tired out, and he couldn't work no more, anyhow, at all; at all; not even if it was morning."

"I tell you," said the bad boy, confidentially, to a group of youthful friends, "my mother may seem small—don't believe she'd weigh more than I do in her stocking feet—but her slippers is heavy, though, you bet!"

The Queen of Spain was asked how she could endure to sit through a bull fight. "Ah," said Dona Christina, "you know I am very near-sighted, and whenever I go to a bull-fight I always forget to take my eye-glasses with me."

"What's the child crying so for?" "I don't know; he's been crying for an hour." "I thought you said you didn't know what he was crying for?" "So I did; and I don't." "But you said he'd been crying for an hour!" "Oh, I see! Well, I think he won't get it."

At the tailor's: "I want a mourning costume; I have just lost my uncle." The tailor brushes away a tear. "Well, why that tear?" "Because you lose only an uncle, while I lose a customer."

LIGHTNING itself cannot escape the photographer's art. Dr. Hiesel, of Germany, has succeeded in getting good negatives of many fishes. It is believed they'll yet be able to photograph a boy putting a stick of candy in his pocket when he sees his chum coming round the corner.

A Sunday-school teacher, who had almost become discouraged over the listlessness of her class, at last felt rewarded by an interested look from a little girl. But the reward was lost when the little creature touched a bracelet on the lady's arm and asked, Teacher, are them threaded or lastic?

'D was petter,' said the German tourist at Watkins's Glen who fell over a precipice into a gurgling brook, 'tid was petter dat Watkins pud up some of does warning dangers pill poards so dem prides and grooms abond here doaned attend dere funerals.—New York Mail and Express.

There's a house in the country was raised a few feet from the ground, and Tommy, to escape a well-deserved whipping, ran from his mother and crept under the house. Presently the father came home, and hearing where the boy had taken refuge crept under to bring him out. As he approached on his hands and knees, Tommy asked, "Is she after you, too?"—Baptist Weekly.

"Pa," said Rollo, looking up from "Roughing It," "what is gold-bearing quartz?" "Well my son," replied Rollo's father, who was glancing in a troubled manner at the milkman's bill for October, when a man sells diluted water for zinc cents a quart, I think he has struck better gold-bearing quartz than ever Mr. Mark Twain dreamed of.

Young Spoonbill: "An, my dearest Miss Shillimworth, if I may have long wished for this sweet opportunity, but I hardly dare trust myself now to speak the steep emotion—But, a short, I love you—and your smile would shed—would shed—would—" Miss S.: "Oh, never mind the wood shed! How your sun's money invested? And where are the securities deposited?"
