The Bank Vault.

Annan, Horner & Co., received their bank vault some days ago, and it created not a little interest in our town where we are not accustomed to the arrival of the loading and hauling and unloading of such large and heavy bodies. Our "blasted bond-holders" will now have a sure place of security for their bonds and stocks, &c. We found Squire Webb highly felicitous over the matter the other day.

We see it stated that while a number of soldiers were looking over the Gettysburg battlefield for relics during the late encampment a member of the Thirteenth regiment caught sight of a belt plate. He reached down to lift it. It was attached to the belt, and strangely enough the belt was about the body of a soldier who fell on the spot during the famous fight. The scheme of taking that relic home was abandoned and the remains removed to the cemetery and buried.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., August 19.—The barn of Henry Baer, located four miles north of Hagerstown, was burned this afternoon, together with sixteen hundred bushels of wheat, forty tons of hay, farming implements, several wagons and carriages, and all the outbuildings near by. Lee Green, a colored man, who was badly burned, saved all the stock except twenty hogs. The roof on the dwelling-house was partially consumed. The barn was almost new. Loss $4,000, no insurance.—Baltimore American.

FREDERICK Aug. 19.—This afternoon while the family of Capt. H. Clay Nail, surveyor of the port of Baltimore, visited the mountain on a pleasure trip, the pole of the carriage, while coming down a steep hill, broke, and caused the carriage to upset. The occupants were thrown out, and Mrs. Angel, Capt. Nail's mother-in-law, sustained a sprained wrist. Mrs. Nail was considerably bruised, while the other members of the party sustained slight injuries. The carriage was a total wreck.—Baltimore American.

Another Cave Discovered.

The inhabitants of Washington Co., Md., are exercised over the discovery of a cave near Eagle's Mills. The opening was made by the discharge of a blast, and explorers have stated that beautiful stalactites from three to five feet have been seen. Many visitors have entered and it is proposed to investigate further, so if there is anything of interest it may be made known to the public as soon as possible.

Note Well.

The columns of this paper are always open to respectful communications on all subjects that are unobjectionable. We aim to be just and desire to be useful. It may be understood once for all, that we never have replied, and do not expect to reply to any uncommunicated criticisms of articles published by us, that appear in any other publication. Our work must be free and unhampered, and not involve other parties.

Seriously Injured.

John Whisner a mason by occupation, while in an intoxicated condition on Saturday night last met with an accident which may cost him his life. He was in Brewers Alley and in approaching the bridge on Carroll creek stepped from the foot-way to one side and over the wall into the creek. He fell on his head and it is thought fractured his skull. He was taken to his home in Klinehar's Alley and Dr. Wm. C. Johnson summoned.—Morning Call.

The Low Price of Wheat.

It is due to the abundance and the excellence of the present crop, and the absence of demand from Europe where the yield is represented as large, that prices for grain are so low. "The year 1884 is a phenomenal low year," many of the staple products, as well as wheat, averaging lower than at any time in the recollection of our oldest merchants. In 1846 prices for wheat at Baltimore ranged about the same figures as now, and in 1851 fell ten cents lower than at present, good to prime selling at 75 to 80 cts. per bushel of 60 pounds.

GEORGE NELSON, colored, met with a fatal accident, on Tuesday afternoon, whilst assisting with Willard Bros' steam thrasher on the farm of Mr. Jere Baughitz, about two miles from Union town, on the Middleburg road. In attempting to adjust something about the straw-carrier the carrier fell upon him breaking his neck. Mrs. Weaver and Martin were summoned, but the unfortunate man died in fifteen minutes after the accident occurred. Nelson was raised in the neighborhood of Uniontown, but went to Harrisburg, Pa., and recently came back again. He was about twenty-five years of age.—Westminster Advertiser.

Our worthy constable, called the next day after the article appeared in the CHRONICLE, charging him with unwarranted intrusion on private premises, to say that, he could prove that he did not touch things about as was stated, but only stood in the yard, whilst the other man was inside searching; but admitted that neither of them had legal warrant to come there. If he had come to the owner of the premises stated the facts of the case in hand, and asked permission to investigate, there would have been no objection made to his doing all that was necessary in the matter, even without his showing a warrant to do so, and he could have been spared the reflection cast upon him as an officer of the law.

To Sell Valuable Property.

All experience teaches that the Printer is the most important aid to effect a good sale; Get good large bills, that convey the idea, as they should, that the property is worth examination. A small sale bill gotten up on a cheap basis, conveys the impression that the goods are worth little, or the owner would not try to dispose of them in a cheap way. The Printer will earn his money, and nothing can pay better than the return on the small sums invested with him. But the sales should be printed in your home paper too; through them, many learn of the sale to come off, who never see the sale-bills. The economy that saves from the printer is wasted a thousand fold in sales that go under their just value. You go to the merchant for merchandise; give the printer his due in what pertains to his calling.

Sudden Death from Apoplexy.

WESTMINSTER, Md., August 18.—Mr Joseph Cover, of Union Bridge, Carroll county, aged about 62 years, was stricken with apoplexy in Westminster this afternoon and died at 7 o'clock to-night. He was registered of voters of the twelfth district, and came here on the 133 P. M. train to meet the other registers to prepare a collective notice of their September sittings. On his way up Main street he was stricken with apoplexy opposite the Union National Bank. Drs. Shaw and Hering were speedily summoned, but he remained unconscious and in a critical condition at the residence of his cousin, Mr. Samuel Cover, cattle-wheeler whose residence is near the spot where he was stricken, until 7 P. M., when he died. He had many relatives in Carroll county, of wealth and influence.—Sun.

THE Union published at Frederick entered upon its thirtieth volume on Thursday, and Editor Wareheim gives his greeting to the public in a very graceful and appropriate manner. The event is celebrated in the way of an entire new dress of type, and a new heading, in which the word "Maryland" is dropped from the old title. The change is excellent and appropriate; long titles are a constant worry to an editor. We are pleased to note the evidences, and wish him continued success. Whilst we should regret to detract from the merits of our County papers, we hesitate not to accord to the Union the position of being Primus inter pares; courtesy marks the character of the journal throughout, and in its political aspects, it proves just without acrimony in its deliverances. We trust that success may attend the worthy Editor in ever increasing ratio.

Regulating the Use and Abuse of Water.

R. L. Blondell, superintendent of the Washington Co. Water Company, has issued a notification, rendered necessary by the inconsiderate waste of water, prohibiting the use until further notice for the washing of vehicles, animals, spittoons, fountains, pavements, and street sprinkling with h-o-e. For any violation of this order, the company will cut off the water and thereafter furnish it to such persons only by meter measurement.—The Mail.

The above shows how matters work across the mountain. The Reservoir of the Washington County Water Company street sprinkling with hose. For finally liable to leaks, and has given many trouble. Our Reservoir is on a clay base, and is not likely to give way. The Springs of the Washington County Company are said not to give the expected flow of water in this time of drought; ours flow with but an inappreciable diminution.—Ed.

In the current number of The Eclectic Magazine, the reader will find a variety of matter to please all cultivated tastes, ranging from the severe and philosophical to what is light and descriptive. Two powerful articles by Herbert Spencer are respectively entitled "Retrospective Religion" and "The Great Political Superstition." The latter of these papers will specially commend itself to political thinkers for the depth and clearness of its reasoning. W. H. Wallock's article called "General Gordon's Message," gives an authoritative statement of the strange religious views of a man who is now so prominently in the public eye. The brilliant article "Pecuniators of American Finance," is a pungent indictment of some of the magnates of Wall Street. Papers that will attract special attention too are "The Letters of Heinrich Heine," by Walter S. Siegel, and "Newspapers," by T. E. Bowles. Among the lighter prose articles that on "Mrs. Aphra Behn," from Temple Bar and the criticism, "McNair's Last Volume," will be read, we think, with great pleasure. Swinburne's verses "On a Country Race" and "Heine's Monkish Idylls" contribute the poetry of the number, which, all in all, is a very attractive one. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond Street, New York Terms, $5 per year; single numbers, 45 cents; trial subscription for 3 months, $1.

Is its contents the September Century Magazine rivals the August "Midsummer Holiday number" in entertaining summer reading, as well as in articles of unusual importance. Pictorially, it is also of a popular character. In the frontispiece Mrs. Mary Halle's Poole has given a romantic story, which Thomas A. Janvier contributes to the number. The other short story of the number is a humorous dialect story of southern life, called "The Brief Embarrassment of Mr. Iverson Blount," by Richard Malcolm Johnston. Charles G. Leland's "Legends of the Passamaquoddy" Indians (with illustrations drawn on birch bark by a Quadi Indian), has the interest of fiction as well as a value to students of folk-lore. Henry James's two-part story, "A New England Winter," is concluded, and Hjalmar H. Boyesen's longer novelette, "A Probable Character," is continued. Mr. Cable's novel, "Dr. Sayer," approaches the conclusion, which will be printed in the October number. "From Coventry to Chester on Wheels," the opening illustrated paper, recounts the experiences of Mr. Joseph Pennell, the artist, during a trip on a tricycle in England.

"Trum Little's Aes in Big Oaks Grow"

Is most aptly illustrated in the growth of one of the leading manufacturing businesses of the country. Some years ago an old German farmer in western Pennsylvania, who was a regular subscriber of one of the "Faderland" agricultural journals, was noticed by his neighbors, always before seed time both spring and fall, mixing small quantities of white substances or chemicals in earth he regularly gathered from the wood pile, sides of the streams, or fence corners; but to no one would he impart his secret. This comparatively—to all appearances—worthless compound he with great care, applied to the soil while cropping. His universal success in making large yields only added fuel to the fire of curiosity aroused in his neighbors, but his invariable answer when questioned on the subject was "I do not tell." At last, owing to the earnest solicitation of his neighbors, he commenced selling the recipes for making his fertilizer compound, always stipulating that the chemicals should be bought of the old reliable drug house of Wm. H. Brown & Bro., Baltimore. Another one of the provisions of sale was that no part of the formula should be divulged. At last the old man died, leaving the secret of his chemicals with Mr. W. S. Powell, one of the above named firm. Mr. Powell, noticed certain objectionable features, commenced experimenting, and after many failures succeeded in producing Powell's Prepared Chemicals for composting, which is probably the most successful crop producing agent known. The business commenced to grow, at last a large stock company was formed the Brown Chemical Company, of Baltimore, the present owners, who, owing to the demand for their products, have been obliged to use every means and scientific application for turning out pure fertilizers.—Farm and Garden.

THE FOUNTAIN WILL FLOW.

On the 9th inst., we wrote a short article entitled "The Fountain Finally" and thought to have taken leave of the subject; we remarked, "There must arise some extraordinary occasion, before we again, revert to it." Very unexpectedly the occasion did arise, before the next issue of our paper. True to the suggestion we made but recently, the women of our village (we prefer not to use the term ladies in this connection, for it fails to represent the dignity due, the true descendants of the woman created by God, as companion to the man) took up the matter and got to work with an energy and determination, that implies the certain accomplishment of the intention to make the Fountain on the square a fixed fact. A meeting to take preliminary action towards raising the necessary funds, was held at the Engine House on Friday the 15th inst., for procuring a Fountain to adorn the square, and after the meeting was called to order in due course of business. The officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Samuel Motter; Vice Presidents, Mrs. George P. Beam, Mrs. Isaac Hyder, Mrs. S. N. McNair, Mrs. Geo. R. Ovelman, Miss Kate Sweney, Miss M. L. Motter; Treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Ehrehart, with Miss Annie McBride, Assistant Treasurer; Secretary, Mrs. E. L. Rowe. The following resolutions were then adopted. Resolved that a Festival be held for raising money towards buying a Fountain for the Public Square in Emmitsburg. Resolved that the Festival be held in Mr. Jno. G. Hess' carriage shops to begin on Thursday night August 21st inst., and to continue during the week. Many ladies present volunteered to take charge of the cake, Confectionery, Fancy, Flower, and Ice Cream tables. After the meeting active preparations at once commenced, and the majority of the citizens were quite enthusiastic in the matter, now that the thing is really started, and those engaged in the work have felt much encouraged by the general disposition to contribute to and aid the cause. It may be that the fact of its being leap year, made it necessary for the women's hands to begin the work, but they could not have gone very far without the assistance and co-operation of the sterner sex, which they have had in as full measure as gallantry and public spirit could dictate. The Festival opened on Thursday night, and presented a scene of attraction, such as has scarcely been witnessed in this place; the room which could only be obtained for this week, on which account the preparations were necessarily much hastened, is quite long and conveniently wide, and well adapted to the occasion, was handsomely decorated with flags, vines, flowers and evergreens, tastefully arranged, about the tables on which were ready for sale, confectionery, fruits, nuts and a fine collection of fancy goods. The cake table was a marvel of sweetness arranged and aggregated in its line, well adapted to please all tastes. The attendance was large and the young ladies in their poliest moods being intent on business made the occasion enjoyable to all. The result of the evenings work much exceeded the expectations of the officials.
