KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula caused by a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that.

SCROFULA

can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Parulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It is so effective an alterative that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it enriches and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and rejuvenating the entire system. This great

Regenerative Medicine

Is composed of the genuine Hemiteros Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Sida, and Urtica, the Indules of Potassium and Lava, and other ingredients of great potency, carefully and scientifically compounded. Its formula is generally known to the medical profession, and the best physicians constantly prescribe AYER'S SARSAPARILLA as an

Absolute Cure
For all diseases caused by the vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest practicable degree, far beyond any other preparation for which like effects are claimed, and is therefore the cheapest, as well as the best blood purifying medicine, in the world.

Lawyer and Parson.

The Rev. Dr. Melton was just beginning to feel at home in his new parsonage when he was surprised one evening to receive a call from his classmate Harvey Leigh. In college days they had been friends, and for awhile after their graduation they had exchanged letters and visits; but the letters and visits had come to an end long ago, and it was many years since they had met. As they sat in the book-lined study, years sat lightly on Mr. Leigh, and he was dressed fashionably, almost youthfully. In his dark red neck scarf was thrust a gold dog's head with ruby eyes, and to the parson the scarf and dog's head suggested a sporting character, and he wondered mildly that a highly respectable, prosperous, middle-aged lawyer should thus adorn his person.

"Well," Mr. Leigh said, "and how do you fancy the idea of becoming a metropolitan preacher, and seeing your sermon garbled in Monday morning's paper?"

"The papers didn't garble my sermon this week," the doctor said. "On the contrary, the reporters picked out the best and overlooked the worst in the kindest and most flattering fashion."

Mr. Leigh laughed. "You won't be amiable to reporters when you know them better. This is quite a change from your old life, and an agreeable change, no doubt. Or do you believe that God made the country and man made the town?"

"I believe that God made them both, and man tries his best to spoil both," the parson answered.

"Ah, that's neat—very neat. By the way, I ought to call you doctor. I read your book on the Atonement with a good deal of pleasure." The parson winced, but Mr. Leigh did not observe that. "I don't wonder the college doctored you for it, though your ideas must seem rather liberal to the misty old fogies who peddle out Latin and Greek and theology."

"I came near being one of the misty old fogies myself," said Dr. Melton. "They wanted me to be a professor, but I prefer to be a parson."

"A city parson," said his guest. "I am not so sure about the city part," Dr. Melton said, slowly. "It was pleasant up there in the country; I was attached to my people; I liked to potter about in my garden. I was astonished when I received a call from New York. I don't know that I would have accepted it if one of my deacons had not had a promising son ready to fill my place, and I think that my congregation rather liked the idea of a young dominion. I had about come to the conclusion that I should live and die a country parson; but here I am."

"With six thousand dollars a year and a comfortable house," added Mr. Leigh.

The parson frowned. "A man with four children has no right to slight a chance of bettering his fortune; but it was not the money that brought me to New York. There is work here—"

He broke off suddenly, perhaps because he saw the shadow of a sneer on Mr. Leigh's lips. "And you are still living in Philadelphia?" he asked.

"Yes, indeed; I would not live anywhere else. New Yorkers may turn up their noses and call it a village, but Philadelphia suits people who belong to the old Quaker stock."

"You have a son, I believe, to perpetuate the name?" the parson remarked.

"One son—an only child. Morton is twenty-four, and reading law in my office. A bright fellow too; never gives me a moment's uneasiness; always at work; steady going; no boyish nonsense about him."

"Twenty-four," the parson repeated, "and no boyish nonsense about him? There is a good deal of nonsense about my boys, I am hap-sorry to say. Still, I hope they won't disgrace me. Their mother thinks they are all right, and I am learning every day of my life that my wisdom, as compared with others, is beneath contempt. I can hardly believe you have a son twenty-four. Why, you are a spruce young man yourself."

"Thanks to a life free from excesses of any kind," said Mr. Leigh. "And I married early—I advocate an early marriage, if a man has money enough to support a family. This waiting to scrape together a paltry income is terribly hard on a young man. Yes, I married early, and I have every reason to believe that my son will follow my example."

"And when is your boy to marry?" asked the doctor.

"Oh, it is not quite arranged yet."

"So you arrange marriages in Philadelphia? And this particular marriage is not quite arranged?"

"Humph! I don't understand that sort of thing. Up in the country it is, 'Mary, I love you,' and 'Jack, I love you in return,' and then my services are called for. How does one arrange a marriage in Philadelphia?"

The touch of sarcasm was quite lost on Mr. Leigh, who had crossed his legs and sat absorbing in thought, frowning at the patent leather tip of his next shoe. His host watched him until he uncrossed his legs and looked up.

"Have you any daughters, doctor?" he asked.

"Two of them."

"I beg your pardon," said the doctor, interrupting him, "but I want to speak in his behalf. He must be industrious, and no fool, and prospering; or he would not have jumped into this new position. I confess I don't think you have made out a clear case. Of course you want to see your son happy; but if she does not love your son, that ends the matter. And if she does love this other man, and he is honest and upright, why should he not have her?"

"He is not her equal," said Mr. Leigh. "You know in Philadelphia—"

The parson rose up with a stifled exclamation.

"It is warm in here," he said. "I want a little fresh air; I am not used to a furnace heated house. Poor girl! The city has not yet claimed me for its own, and I miss the fireplace in my old study. Poor fellow!"

He threw up the window, and looked out on a wide expanse of tiny high fenced back yards; but overhead was the clear sea of sky, where the moon rode at anchor amid the fleet of stars. He stood there, drawing in the crisp December air, until a tap sounded on the door. "Come in," he cried, and one of his daughters entered—a tall, slim girl with her father's blue eyes.

"Papa," she said, pressing close to him, and smiling mysteriously, "there are some people in the parlor."

"Drawing-room, my dear," said the doctor. "We are in Philadelphia."

"We are not, but no matter," she returned. "I tell you there are some people in the parlor, and I think it is our first town wedding. She is very pretty, and she has on the loveliest little bonnet you ever saw. Go marry 'em quick, and let me be a witness, only they have two witnesses with them."

He passed his arm about her and kissed her, she did not know why; then led her to his guest.

"Mollie, this is a classmate of mine. My daughter, Mr. Leigh—Mr. Harvey Leigh, of Philadelphia. You must excuse me for a few minutes."

He went into the adjoining parlor. "Yes, it was a wedding-party, no doubt, but the would-be bride and groom did not look like the brides and grooms that seek out a parson in such a fashion. The man was a gentleman, with a fine face and dignified bearing. The girl was pretty, but more than that, she had an air of courage, of self reliance; she was not a weak piece of pink and white flesh. An older couple was with them, a somewhat frightened middle-aged man and a very nervous middle-aged woman, evidently his wife, for she clung to his arm helplessly.

"I am William Dunbar," said the young man. "And this he added, turning to the young lady, 'is Miss Kate Perry. We are both of age—in fact, I am thirty three—and I hope you will be good enough to marry us.'"

Dr. Dunbar was very much in earnest, but he smiled a little. "Our marriage is sudden," he added, "because I must sail for Europe to-morrow, and I want to take my wife with me."

"The person looked at him, then at the girl. Her eyes met his steadily, though a faint blush stole into her cheeks.

"Where is your home?" he asked.

"I have none," she answered. "I have been living in Philadelphia with my guardian." The words were spoken softly, but her eyes flashed. "I am free to do as I please," she went on, "my guardian has no right to dictate any longer."

"Hum!" said Dr. Melton, passing his hand over his beard. "And you are from Philadelphia, too?" he added, turning to Mr. Dunbar.

"I am," was the curt response.

"Your name sounds familiar," said the parson. "Could I have seen it the other day in a list of passengers for Europe?"

"He scanned the faces before him. The man's jaws clicked; the girl's flush deepened into crimson.

"We are free to marry," said Mr. Dunbar. "There is no reason why we should not be man and wife. If you won't perform the ceremony, I shall find some one who is willing. We have with us my uncle and aunt; but there is no use in wasting words. Will you marry us?"

"Yes," said the parson. Then he asked a few formal questions, and married them according to the ritual of the Dutch church. He begged them to be seated for a minute, while he filled out the certificate. This made it necessary for him to return to the study.

"A runaway country couple?" said Mr. Leigh.

"I can't swear to the country part," the parson answered, as he drew a certificate out of his desk.

"I wonder you are willing to perform the ceremony," Mr. Leigh remarked. "I should think it was a great risk to marry runaway couples."

"The risk is greater without it," said the parson. "If I don't tie the knot, somebody will, and it is generally a satisfaction to one to know that the knot is tied. In this case however, I am quite sure I am doing right."

He went back to the parlor with the certificate, taking pen and ink, so that the witnesses might sign their names. Mr. Dunbar shook him by the hand, leaving a note in his palm. The bride smiled shyly upon him, and the elderly woman bowed; but the elderly man, who so far had not spoken a word, said, suddenly, "I will tell you, sir, that you will never regret having helped this marriage."

"I don't believe I could have helped it," said the parson, with a droll glance at the new-made husband. "I might have been the means of deterring it, but Mr. Dunbar intends to take his wife to Europe in spite of a dozen tyrannical guardians and a dozen more reluctant clergymen. God bless you and make you happy!" he added, taking the young wife's hand.

Her eyes filled with tears, but her husband drew her hand through his arm and led her away.

Two carriages were waiting outside. One went to the north, the other to the south; but that parson watched the one that went to the south, for in that sat a man and woman whom he believed he had made happy for life, so far as wedded bliss brings happiness.

He returned to the study and gave the wedding fee to his daughter, who bore it off in triumph to her mother.

"Does this sort of thing happen often?" said Mr. Leigh.

"Not precisely this sort of thing. The bride and groom were not girl and boy; neither did they belong to what you would call the common class. By-the-way, it was a Philadelphia party—a William Dunbar—"

Mr. Leigh started from his chair. "Dunbar!" he repeated. "And the girl?"

"Kate Perry—Katherine, rather."

Mr. Leigh stared at him vacantly. "My ward!" he cried, in sudden anger. "And after all I told you! Why didn't you call me in there?"

"How was I to know that?" said Dr. Melton. "You never mentioned the name of your ward or her lover. You simply called him the hardware man."

Mr. Leigh walked out of the library, took his hat and stick, struggled into his overcoat, and left the house without vouchsafing another word to his host. The parson showed him out, and looked at him walking swiftly down the moon-lit street. When he went to his study again he had by no means the craven air of a man who has done a dastardly deed. On the contrary he laughed outright as he sat down at his desk, whereon lay the notes of his sermon.—Harper's Weekly.

President Tyler and his Witty Coachman.

A Washington letter recalls a story told of John Tyler who, it will be remembered, got to the White House through the death of President Harrison: Tyler was very fond of a fine turnout, but his pocket was not deep enough to correspond with his tastes. One day one of the leading members of the diplomatic circle was recalled from Washington, and his magnificent establishment had to be sold. An important part of this was his carriage, which was at the time the finest by all odds in Washington. Tyler had looked at it many times with longing eyes as its owner had driven it up and down Pennsylvania avenue, and as it had stood now and then in front of the White House. He feared, however, the criticism which was sure to attend the buying of anything by the President at auction, and called his coachman, with whom he was familiar, to advise with him in regard to it. The coachman liked the carriage and was anxious that Mr. Tyler should buy it. "But Pat," said Tyler, "what will the world say at the President's riding in a second-hand carriage?" "Och! your honor," was the reply, "they'll say nothing about it at all. You know you are but a second-hand President, any way, and it seems to me nothing could be more fit." Whether the President bought the carriage or not the reports fail to state.

Do You Know a Man

Whose wife is troubled with debility, nervousness, liver complaint or rheumatism? Just tell him it is a pity to let the lady suffer that way, when Brown's Iron Bitters will relieve her. Mrs. L. B. Edgerly, Dexter, Me., says, "Brown's Iron Bitter cured me of debility and palpitation of the heart." Mrs. H. S. McLaughlin of Scarborough, Me., says the bitters cured her of debility. Mrs. Harding of Windham Centre, in the same state, says it cured her of dizziness in the head. So it has cured thousands of other ladies.

The more perfect the sight is, the more delightful the beautiful object. The more perfect the appetite, the sweeter the food. The more musical the ear, the more pleasant the melody. The more perfect the soul, the more joyous the joys of heaven and the more glorious to us that glory.

"What is the German method of treating?" inquired an old physician of a fresh young medical student.

"I really don't know, doctor, but I suppose it's beer every time."

"If bees come after you," says an exchange, "stand still with head bowed." That's a pretty way to give in! Swing your hat and run like blazes.—Burlington Free Press.

SHADOWS OF COMING EVENTS

This issue being Number 52, of Volume VI, completes the year of the Emmitsburg Chronicle, and in the ceaseless current of events, our next movement is to project, initiate and carry forward our course of duty in the days and weeks to come.

We abhor all underhand and secret manoeuvrings, and deal not in mysterious ways; but our aims for the immediate future are not a little involved in contingencies, so that we cannot lay down a definite plan of operations, because we would not hold forth hopes that may prove delusive to others, and for ourselves, we cannot afford to occupy the position of the builder who began, and did not finish.

We had hoped that as the passing years have brought us to a sort of dies non, leaving an interval between the date of the day when this paper was organized, and that of the year just ended, that we could take a recess in the publication for one week, and then pass onward to the New Volume in its regular and proper date, and we were the more intent on this plan, because contrary to the custom of former times which is not by any means yet obsolete, we have never omitted an issue of the paper since we began. But all the world knows how the best laid plans do sometimes, if not often, fail.

At the extremely low price of one dollar a year, every body can afford to have a copy of his or her own clear and discharged of all obligations that inhere in borrowing; and not only so, but many can readily feel justified in subscribing for the benefit of absent friends at a distance, whose fond memories yet linger tenderly around the scenes of their nativity. Send us your subscriptions, we offer you our work at the minimum of cost, but that must be in advance, all deferred subscriptions will be charged $1.50 a year, without partiality or favour, all dealers having their modes of business, we have stated ours, we cannot for their explain their necessary bearing in this connection, and trust this announcement may be sufficient.

Gazing at the weighty file of the past years' work before us, we own to a feeling of sadness as the remembrance of its stern, and unrelenting exactions passes before us, and yet we are cheered by the fact, that however great may have been our shortcomings, we tried earnestly and honestly to do our duty; and hope with smiling countenance beckons us onward still; thus therefore dear readers catching on to the vision so cheering, we give the parting look at that mass of work, and as the Volume closes the curtain falls. (Excerpt Omnes)

JAMES GRAHAM PEARRE, son of the late Judge Pearre of Cumberland was found guilty in the Criminal Court of Baltimore on Wednesday, of assault with felonious intent upon Mrs. Estelle M. Kirkland at the Allison Hotel, Baltimore, March 14th 1885, the penalty is from two to ten years in the penitentiary. Notice of appeal by the counsel for the defendant was given.

THE MEN FOR OFFICE.

With the details of the Civil Service Reform movement, we have not familiarized ourselves, and for all practical purposes have been satisfied that the demands of the times for rigid examinations into the character and fitness of applicants to fill the offices are deeply grounded in the consciousness of the people, who are determined that public office shall be regarded a public trust, the duties pertaining to which are to be executed with the strictest regard to capacity, fidelity and efficiency, and that positions of responsibility shall involve accountability such as is required by men of business in private affairs.

The peculations, extravagance and recklessness that have wasted such vast amounts of public treasure, it has been decreed by that supreme power, shall cease and a new era of economy order and correct business methods shall govern. Thus far these regulations have had regard mainly to the subordinates of the leading and most important positions. The principle in the case admits of indefinite expansion, and the complete effects of the movement for good, will not be made manifest, until the application becomes universal.

With the people of course lies the determination of the sort of men who are to fill the elective offices, the determining choice, is first and last, in their hands; if they make the selections on the basis of a reward for party services, of course the offices will be composed of partisans, who in turn will dispense their patronage to the advantage of party favorites; if on the contrary men are selected for their integrity, honesty, intelligence and general fitness for the places they are expected to fill, we may expect the service to work for the best interests of the public untrammelled by irrelevant issues. Are we ready for such a course of action? Shall the nominating conventions be composed of persons, who are simply intent on perpetuating party domination, and to secure to themselves the offices. We must have parties, for only by concentrated work, can policies be established, and through the watchfulness of a vigilant opposition only, can the work be restrained within safe limits; but every party has its adherents of manifold grades of capability for duty. We are looking to the point, that solemn regard for the public good shall inculcate the lesson, that none but good men shall be put on guard, that the parties shall bring their best materials into exercise.

It needs but proper and earnest care on the part of the people to attend the meetings, to see that none but good and reliable men are sent to the conventions, and thus ensure trust-worthy nominations and the work will become an accomplished fact. We do not think there should be haste in holding the conventions, a short, sharp and decisive canvass of a few weeks duration may prove everywhere more effective for good than the maintaining of the excitement of opposing elements, for months. Give us a short canvass, gives us as candidates, men of influential standing and real worth, and the interest will not flag; without doubt the people will rally to the support of representative men as they can not and will not to those of mediocre pretensions.

The New York World had a circulation of 157,172 for last Sunday, the total for the week being 967,603. About two years ago Mr. Joseph Pulitzer going from St. Louis took charge of the paper, when its circulation did not exceed 15,000, and by dint of his most wonderful ability, and perseverance has brought it to 150,000, and constantly increasing. Besides this he was elected to Congress from New York City last fall.

Not only this, but the World has also distinguished itself by the interest it has shown in completing the work of the pedestal for the statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World" that is now on the ocean, and to be landed in a week or so, at New York from the French frigate Isele. The World has been industriously working up the fund necessary for the completion of the statue in its position. The issues are of eight pages, full of news from every quarter, highly condensed and interesting throughout. The whole for $6 a year for the Daily.

PARIS, May 27.—The Official Journal publishes a decree restoring the Penitentiary to its original use—a receptacle for the remains of great men—and ordering that the body of Victor Hugo be buried there. The funeral has been fixed for Monday next, June 1.

Mr. E. M. T. HUNTER, the new collector of customs for the district of Tappahannock, Va., has had a remarkable history. Forty years ago he was Speaker of the House of Representatives, and was subsequently elected to the United States Senate, where he served for fourteen years, until July, 1861, when he was expelled on the ground of participation in the civil war. He was Secretary of State of the Confederacy, and a member of the Confederate Senate. He was afterwards elected treasurer of the State of Virginia, which office he held until about the year 1880, since which time he has been living in retirement on his small farm in Essex county. He is now about 76 years of age. In 1860 he was a candidate for the presidency before the Charleston convention. The office to which he is appointed pays $250 a year, with fees and commissions, amounting in all to less than $1,000. Mr. Hunter was very much impoverished by the war, and was appointed to the office on his own application.

DEATH BY FIRE AND SMOKE.

In the afternoon of May 21st a muffled explosion was heard from a house on sixth street in Cincinnati, then followed puffs of smoke from the open windows in the second story to the roof, soon there followed terrible scenes of women leaping from the windows, and meeting a terrible death below. Fire and Smoke did their work, fifteen lives were lost. In the haste and confusion the place of exit was forgotten or could not be found. An escape through the roof could have saved every soul. A can of benzine started the fire. The old story of insufficient means of egress from the building again presents its ghastly result.

GEN. GRANT'S condition has had no marked change this week. He has been driving out, walking, and working betimes on his book.

VICTOR HUGO.—The famous French poet, dramatist and novelist died on the 22d inst., in the eighty-fourth year of his age.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

THE number of postoffice clerks in the United States is placed at 8,240.

ONE of the most remarkable men of this or any age is General Von Moltke. He is eighty four years old, and takes long walks every day for exercise.—Chicago Herald.

GRASSHOPPERS accumulated in such quantities at a gate on a ranch at Wheatland, Cal., a few days ago, that it was necessary to remove them with a shovel in order to open the gate.

CHINESE doctors induce faith in their prescriptions by making them of gigantic size. A writer in the Fortschritt describes one of them two feet long and calling for twenty different ingredients.

CASSIUS M. CLAY, of Kentucky, now nearly one hundred and ten years old, is still able to attend personally to the business of his large estates, and takes a keen interest in current affairs, including politics.

HOUSE stealing is not uncommon in Dakota. Last week James Guey, in Aurora county, was absent a few days, and on his return found his house gone. He traced it to another county, and had one James McGuire arrested and fined $20 and costs.

A NEW ORLEANS doctor calls attention to a very simple fact which merits attention from medicine takers. If the medicine is mixed with very cold water, and a few swallows of the water be taken as a preparatory dose, the nerves of the organ of taste become sufficiently benumbed to make the medicine nearly tasteless. This method will not disguise bitter tastes, but acts well in oils and salines.

THE Emperor William of Germany, who recently celebrated his 89th birthday, is still erect, tall military-looking man, full of the opera and of society. His mode of life is simple almost to austerity. Last year, in defiance of the advice of his physicians, he changed his hour of rising from 7 to 9. He likes old convenient clothes and in rising dons a worn uniform. He gives the morning to business, lunches at 1 on eggs and a cutlet, rides or drives in the afternoon, dines at 6 with the Empress, the repeat rarely including more than three courses. He retires at 11 o'clock, after a cup of tea. Engel, his body servant is in his seventies, and the aged Emperor asks him daily about his health, and treats him with a consideration of his infirmities that would suggest to a stranger that Engel and not the Emperor were the older man.

THE general manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has issued a circular to the employees of the company giving sanitary directions to be followed during the approaching season, with a view of combating the appearance of cholera. Disinfectants will be supplied by the company.

A HAIL STORM at Corsicana, Texas a week or two ago dropped hail stones that are declared to have weighed nearly twelve ounces, and wild geese and small birds were showered around town promiscuously. A local paper thinks that "in competition with other States" Texas could do even better than this.

By regulation, the flag of the United States is in length one and one-half times its width. It has thirteen stripes, beginning with red and alternating with white, and a square blue field in the upper left hand corner, beginning above the sixth stripe from the bottom and containing thirty-eight white stars.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so tried with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unobtrusive exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured. "In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed eight days without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me. HORACE BROTHER, Rookingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup—A Mother's Tribute. "While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup. It seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the child began breathing easily. The doctor told that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours, MRS. EMMA GEDNEY, 150 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL thirty years for all kinds of colds, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effective remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried. Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. JOSEPH WALLEN, Dyalia, Miss., April 6, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles." T. BRADGON, Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine. PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists.

THE new fire alarm bell was placed in its position on the Engine House, on Monday afternoon, and when the Coupla is finished, it will be quite an improvement to the ancient building.

THE opinion of the general public in regard to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is confirmed by clergymen, lawyers, public speakers, and actors. All say it is the best remedy that can be procured for all affections of the vocal organs, throat, and lungs.

AN AGED MAN'S SERIOUS FALL.—Mr. Peter W. Shaffer, Sr., an aged and wealthy citizen of Middletown, while descending a flight of stairs at his residence at 4:30 p. m. on Wednesday, slipped on the landing and fell headlong to the bottom of the steps, sustaining severe injuries. He was rendered unconscious by the fall and remained in that condition until Thursday evening. Mr. Shaffer is in his 85th year.

It is painful and annoying to be disturbed in public assemblies by some one coughing or sneezing especially when you know that there is a remedy like Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup easily to be obtained.

Thunder and Lightning. We had a thunder storm on Monday night which lasted about 2 hours, ending at midnight. The thunder was not heavy, but the Electrical display was extremely bright.

Something Brighter. A few gleams of Sunshine on Thursday morning, served to relieve the gloom and oppressive dampness of the week in these parts. It was dampness that was breathed, seen, felt, and almost audible.

Strikes are Occurring. All over the country, but if you have a cough or cold the best thing you can do is to strike for C. D. Eichelberger's drug store, and get a bottle of DuLac's "Swiss Balm."

THE Western Maryland Railroad Company intend running a siding from Pen Mar station into the park grounds which will be of great convenience to excursionists, and will also render a collision impossible from an abundance of cars on the track.

A HAGERSTOWN man who tried the experiment, says that the English Sparrow can be kept out of gardens by simply sprinkling cayenne pepper at the places they frequent or over the rows of peas and lettuce where they feed.—Leeper.

Wont that make the vegetable rather hot for domestic use.—Ed.

Rewards Offered.

Read the Notice of the County Commissioners in another column regarding the incendiary fires, for which they offer large rewards, to discover and convict the guilty parties. The old common law processes about wolves, and such like things, should apply to this crime.

The Commencement exercises will be held at Mt. St. Mary's College, on Wednesday, June 24th. A large number of distinguished members of the Alumni are expected to be present on that occasion. His Grace the Most Rev. Archbishop Gibbons, D. D. has promised to be present, and will preside on that day.

Distribution at St. Joseph's Academy.

We are happy to announce that the Annual Distribution of premiums will take place at St. Joseph's Academy June 25th, on an occasion that we hope will prove gratifying to our many friends and patrons. We rejoice in the assurance that we are to be favored with the presence of His Grace the Archbishop of Baltimore.

SISTERS OF CHARITY.

Nearly Every Case.

Of consumption can be traced to a neglected cold that finally became seated in the lungs, when by a timely use of a few doses of DuLac's "Swiss Balm" the danger could have been averted. MILL BURNED.—About 3 o'clock on Tuesday morning the Steam Roller Mill of Mr. J. S. Whitmore, in Merceburg, was destroyed by fire, and with it 150 bushels wheat and 200 bushels corn. Mr. W. purchased the mill last September from Messrs. Hollinger & Bro. for the sum of $12,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. There was but a light insurance on the property.—Waynesboro Record.

Gored to Death by a Bull.

LAUREL, Md., May 25.—A farmer named George L. Downey, about sixty years of age, living in Howard county, near Laurel, while engaged at fencing on his farm was attacked by an infuriated alderney bull, while his back was turned and gored to death. His back and ribs were broken. He was taken unawares, and the bull tossed him about as a cat would play with a mouse.—American.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., May 27, 1885. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Vigilance! off at the Handle!

A vigilant hose man overdid things on Tuesday morning; Looking out from his work shop, and beholding smoke issuing from a small hen house, he forthwith gave the cry of fire, without regard to consequences. The town turned out of course; The reels were brought half way up town, and then it was found out that the owners were fumigating the house; and for the passing hour Charlie held the fort against all opposition to his enterprise.

The Cash House Open.

Having bought the well known Cash House, formerly R. H. Gedwicks, the undersigned hereby announces that the store is now ready for trade and opens, with a full line of new and desirable goods, of every description. The demands of the trade will at all time be met; all sales made at Bottom Prices. Call and examine the stock and learn the prices. Buyers will find it to their interest to purchase here. Respectfully,

D. S. GILLELAN.

Life is Bliss.

All through the winter, we seek to offset its dreariness, by the hopes of the joyous Summer days to come. No one sighs for the coming of Winter as a relief from the Summer's warmth; but all earnestly strive when Summer arrives to "keep cool," and countless are the inventions to that end, so that it may be true, that two-thirds of men and women have to sweat that the other third may escape "boiling over."

Would Not Be Without It.

EAST NEW MARKET, Md., Dec. 5, 1883. G. H. Hildestein:—I deem it a privilege to recommend your valuable medicine—"Aromanna." I have been troubled many years with liver and lung disease. One year ago I was taken with ague and fever. I tried other remedies, but nothing helped me until I obtained your "Aromanna." I commenced its use and it completely broke up the chills, leaving me with good health. Would not be willing to be without it in the house.

Mrs. LORINA THAYER.

Price 25 and 75 cts. Sold by C. D. Eichelberger.

FREDERICK, Md., May 22.—In view of the fact that a number of fires of a supposed incendiary origin have recently occurred in Frederick city and county, the commissioners yesterday decided to offer a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons who may set fire to either private or public property within the county. A reward of $200 has also been offered by the mayor of the city.

During the coming summer new public school-houses will be erected at the following places in this county: Adams-town, New Baltimore, Cragers-town, Point of Rocks, Flint Hill, Putnam's, Friends Creek, Kemptown, Brookhill, Woodville and Ebenezer.—Sun.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 27.—The General Synod of the Lutheran Church met this morning in thirty-second biennial convention in Zion Lutheran Church.

The synod consists of 195 clerical and lay delegates, representing 23 district synods including a membership of 128,103 communicants. A large body of visiting clergymen are present. The opening sermon was delivered by the president, Rev. J. G. Morris, D. D., LL. D. of Baltimore. He sketched the work of the Lutheran Church, the difficulties encountered, and alluded to the doctrinal differences separating the general Lutheran bodies in this country.

After the biennial sermon the election resulted in the choice of Rev. M. Rhoades, D. D., of St. Louis, president; Rev. J. S. Detwiler, of Omaha, secretary; and Alex. Gebhardt, of Dayton, treasurer. The president in an eloquent speech assumed the duties of his office.

Rev. G. W. Wenner, of New York, in behalf of the committee of the General Synod on order of uniform service in the churches, read a report embodying the result of the committee in joint conference with similar committees from the General Council and the General Synod South. The reading of the report was received with marked favor. Provisional copies were distributed, and pending the reception of the report the synod adjourned for the day.—Baltimore Sun.

Our neighbors in Pennsylvania, are on their annual excitement, over the cross road sign-boards. Being of short memory, they need the signs to show them where they want to go, and half the time they even forget all about the boards. In Maryland we just go right to the spot; or if we go wrong we try again. Sign-boards breed selfishness, they don't leave room for way side talk. There are two boards between this place and Littlestown, a considerable distance apart; but both read "2 miles to Littlestown."

THE three daughters of the late Jacob Forney, Miss Mary Forney and Mrs. George Young, of this place, and Mrs. S. Young, of Baltimore, have contributed $1000 toward the endowment of a theological professorship in Franklin and Marshall college, at Lancaster. This goes to the fund of $25,000 named by the Reformed Synod for the above purpose while in session in this place last fall Henry Wirt is one of the committee to collect the amount and headed the list with $5,000.—Hagerstown Citizen.

An Old Salt Decided.

The case of George A. Krouse and Cornelius Bollinger vs Henry Drechsler and Jas. Purdie, of this county, and David Miller, of Frederick county, says the Westminster Advocate, which began in the U. S. Court, Baltimore, on the 11th inst., closed on the 21st by a verdict for the defendants. The suit was an infringement of patent on a horse lay rack and was tried before a jury, Judge Morris presiding. Messrs. Bonaparte and Stead were counsel for the plaintiffs, and McKellip & Claiborn and Marshall and Hall for the defendants.

Blizzard Convicted of Larceny.

WESTMINSTER, Md., May 25.—Philip Blizzard was tried in the Circuit for Carroll County, to-day before a jury for the larceny of a trunk and goods valued at about $110. A verdict of guilty was rendered. D. N. Henning appeared for the State and W. L. Scabrook for the prisoner. Blizzard is the man arrested some time ago on suspicion of complicity in the Russell murder at Reisterstown, and whose house was found to be filled with articles supposed to be stolen. The trunk was identified with its contents by the owner, a lady living in Annapolis ten years ago. None of the articles found in Blizzard's house connected him with the Russell tragedy.—Sun.

A Long Journey.

Mr. Howard Waddles, having spent several weeks with his parents and among the friends who always greeted his presence in this place, left on Wednesday, for his field of business in San Antonio Texas. Mr. Samuel D. Shesley, recently a popular clerk in the establishment of I. S. Annan & Brother, of Emmitsburg, accompanied him, and intends to make his home hereafter in the Lone Star State. These young men have the best wishes of hosts of friends here, who regretfully took leave of them, that their future may be bright, and that success may attend them. Desiring to keep pace with the progress of events here, they each have ordered the EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE to be sent to them, direct from the press. Long life and prosperity attend you dear friends!

From the Gettysburg Compiler.

The great annual Dunker meeting near Mexico, Juniata county, opened on Friday, Bishop Fitz, of Ohio, conducting the devotional exercises. The encampment occupies a field of twenty-five acres and provision has been made for thirty thousand people.

Forty young ladies of Wilson College, Chambersburg, visited the Gettysburg Battlefield on Friday, and took in every important point by railroad and hacks. They had a most enjoyable time.

Fifty tons of water cress have been shipped by growers about Chambersburg this season, mostly to New York.

An old inhabitant says that during the year of the reign of the seventeen year locusts the exchange is always cool and pleasant.—Exchange.

We have seen the seventeen year locusts once, certainly—twice, probably, and come to think of it more carefully, three times it may be—and we don't believe the old man's story. He talks too much anyhow.

You're right, young man, we are especially reminded that the years were far from cool, we were there and did some driving around, and nearly gave up when resting once, under a tree, on which the insects were holding one of their raucous concerts. Let him that hath ears to hear, go on.—Ed.

COMMUNICATED.

HOUSE CLEANING ON A NEW PLAN.—On Wednesday evening the Firemen undertook to clean the unoccupied store room in which their Festival is to be held, and to a quiet looker-on who has had some experience in the semi-annual disturbances so much inveighed against by the sterner sex, the performance was, to say the least of it comical in the extreme. About twenty-five able-bodied young men, were collected at the scene of labour, most of them armed with brooms, brushes or other articles of domestic warfare, some even bringing two or three brooms in their valiant determination to cleanse the place, or perish in the attempt. The hose was attached to the pave-wash, outside and run into the room and soon floor, windows, walls and ceiling were deluged with water; whilst amidst shouts, yells and uproar generally, that could not have been greater if the building had been on fire, the work went on. The whole street was blocked up with the energetic labourers, in the cause of cleanliness, and to the looker-on who realized that all this turmoil was caused by a masculine effort (successful let us hope) to clean one room, but lately vacated, which had been used as a furnace room, that two women would have cleaned without any one outside knowing what was going on, also could not but wonder how these "Lords of Creation" would manage a regular spring house-cleaning.

A LOOKER ON.

Fell in the Race.

On Wednesday Mr. Charles Landers, of Liberty township, came near losing a horse. By some unaccountable means the horse got his foot between the spokes of the wagon wheel as it was crossing the bridge over the race, and he was precipitated into the water; when the spokes were cut away, he was released, and thus escaped with simply a sprained leg.

Incorporated.

Wednesday of last week, articles of incorporation were filed with the Clerk of the Court of "The Catoctin Iron Company of Frederick county." The incorporators named in the articles, are: John Kunkel, Charles E. Kunkel, and William P. Kunkel, of Catoctin Furnaces; Dr. Steiner Schley, of Frederick, and John K. Wilson, of Baltimore. The capital stock of the company is $50,000, divided into 7,000 shares, at $50 per share. The company will do business at Catoctin Furnace, this county, they having purchased from the estate of the late Col. J. Baker Kunkel, all the furnace property owned by the deceased, which embraces the Catoctin Furnaces and about 12,000 acres of land, all located in this county. The price paid was $350,000. These furnaces are well-known and have in the past been one of the leading industries of the county, giving employment to a large number of people who reside in the vicinity.—Union.

Sudden Death.

Judge Lowe, of the Orphan's Court, received an urging telephonic message at the Carlin House at 4:30 o'clock this morning to the effect that his wife had just expired. Scarcely had the Judge realized the situation when a colored messenger arrived from the family home in New Market this county confirming the melancholy intelligence. It appears that the deceased lady, who was between 50 and 60 years of age retired to rest last evening in her usual health. Early this morning one of the Judge's daughters was startled by hearing a loud snoring noise proceeding from her mother's room, and becoming alarmed, she hurried thither to find Mrs. Lowe grasping for breath and evidently dying. Dr. Downey was summoned, but although he arrived almost immediately, life had passed away. The deceased lady was a sister of Col. J. P. Creger, formerly of Johnsville and now of Schleyville this county. Heart disease is assigned as the cause of death.—Frederick News May 16th.

The Seventeen Year Locust Harmless—They Suck, but Don't Bite.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Prof. C. V. Riley, chief of the entomological division of the Agricultural Department, receives many letters from the West and Southwest, which indicates that the farmers of those sections are alarmed in consequence of the predictions of a visitation of seventeen-year locusts in California and Texas in very destructive numbers adds to the alarm. Prof. Riley says the seventeen-year locusts whose visit he has predicted are harmless to growing crops, and do no injury except to the twigs of forest and fruit trees. Wherever young orchards have been planted on land which has been cleared during the last seven years the trees are liable to suffer somewhat, but it is probable that the use of kero-cene emulsion sprayed upon the trees will protect them. The ordinary locust, which is so destructive to growing crops has jaws which cut, while the seventeen year species, more properly called the cicada, has only a beak, through which he sucks his nourishment.—American.

Maryland Tract Society.

The forty-first annual report of the Maryland Tract Society has just been published. The work in Baltimore is arranged in districts, with a force of voluntary distributors, numbering two hundred or more, by whom religious literature is distributed to the poor once in each month. In addition, the shipping is visited, while penal institutions, hospitals, reformatories, associations, churches and individuals are from time to time supplied. Outside the city, where application has been made or the way provisionally opened, literature has been cheerfully and promptly furnished. Five colporters have been employed in the past year. Despite the reigning business depression, a good work has been accomplished. Families visited, 15,446; families converted or prayed with, 9,082; families destitute of religious books, 2,227; families destitute of the Bible, 1,864; families who neglect evangelists, 3,058; books sold, $438.64; tracts distributed, pages, over 2,000,000; prayer-meetings held or public meetings addressed in the State, 613. The society is non-sectarian, and appeals to all denominations for help. The Rev. R. Scott Norris is agent.—Baltimore Sun May 21st.

A VENERABLE PASTOR.—REV. I. W. HARKEY, D. D. a prominent minister of the Lutheran Church will be present at the Lutheran General Synod at Harrisburg this week, and efforts are being made to induce him to preach in the Lutheran Church here next Sunday. If the doctor consents to come, he will have such a crowd to hear him as does not often gather together in one church. Dr. Harkey is a North Carolinian, and graduated in the Theological Seminary at Gettysburg in 1834. He was pastor of the Lutheran at Williamsport, Md., for several years and afterwards pastor of the church at Woodsboro, this county. In January 1837 he took charge of the Lutheran Church in this city and continued in that relation for nearly fourteen years, till August 1850. He resigned his position here to take the presidency of a newly-established college at Springfield, Illinois, in which Abraham Lincoln was one of the trustees. Subsequently the doctor became pastor of the Lutheran Church in St. Louis, Mo. For some years he has been pastor of a church in Washingtonville, Ill. Dr. Harkey, although over 70 years of age is still active.—News.

Shall We Stand Still.

The Water Works being now completed to the full requirements of our present wants; and the Fountain playing delightfully on the square to the satisfaction of our citizens; The street lamps glowing excellently well when they are lighted, and that always, except when the moon ought to shine; The fire Company being well organized, and soon to put on dress clothing; and the streets being passable (when dry); are we therefore to sit down and say, "Soul take thine ease?" "After us the deluge?" All the demands of the age call for progress, for stagnation is death. We hear the cry from all sides onward! onward! the next thing, the great need of the day, must come, that need is the Tower Hill.

LAST week one day Charles Butler, colored, whilst cleaning a fence row between the lands of Mr. Thos. H. Hammond and Mrs. Cashour, near the road leading from here to New Market, came across a box in the fence corner, which either through fear of a dynamite explosion or on account of some other suspicion in regard to it, he did not open the box, but called to his aid Mr. J. David Wright who was at work near by. Upon opening the box Mr. Wright discovered a colored infant child, whose body had just begun to show signs of decay.

A hole was dug near by and the child buried. The proper and legal way would have been to have held an inquest over the body, but we doubt the necessity of it, or that the guilty party could have been detected by so doing. As it is the county has saved some expense.—Banner of Liberty

MARRIED.

KNIGHT—HUNTER.—On May 28th 1885, at Locust Grove Mills, near this place, by Rev. Wm. Simonton, Frank H. Knight, of Washington, D. C., to Mary J. second daughter of Mr. William Hunter.

The defendant Amos Feser, a son who is unmarried, of full age and resides in Frederick County aforesaid.

The defendant Lydia A. Feser, Jr., a daughter who is unmarried, of full age and resides in said Frederick County.

The defendant William Andrew Wolford a son who is unmarried, and an infant and resides in Jefferson County, West Virginia.

The defendant Julia A. Wolford, a daughter, who died intestate in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-three, and leaving surviving her a widower, the defendant, Charles Wolford, who is of full age, and resides in Jefferson County, West Virginia, and leaving the following children, viz:

1. Francis J. Flesner, a son who has conveyed all his interest in said land to the Plaintiff by a deed not yet recorded.

2. Martha H. Davis, a daughter, who is married to a certain James Davis, who has conveyed to the Plaintiff all the interest of said Martha H. Davis in said land by a deed not yet recorded.

3. Naomi Flesner, a daughter who was also married to the said Charles A. Flesner, (now deceased) and who jointly with her said husband conveyed all her interest in said land to the Plaintiff as will appear from an Exhibit.

4. Amanda Wantz, a daughter, married to Charles F. Wantz.

5. Sarah A. Hamberg, a daughter, married to Francis Hamberg.

6. Mary E. Shriver, a daughter, married to Isaac Shriver, whose three interests in said lands have been conveyed to the Plaintiff, as will appear from one of the Exhibits.

7. That the said Julia A. Wolford and the defendant Charles Wolford, her husband, received from the Plaintiff the sum of Six hundred dollars on the first day of June in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-two in full payment of the said Julia A. Wolford's interest in said lands and for which she was always ready and willing to execute a deed to the Plaintiff, but her husband the said Charles Wolford failed, neglected and refused to unite with her in said deed to the Plaintiff but she and her said husband both united in a receipt to the Plaintiff which receipt said Six hundred dollars as being the full amount due the said Julia A. Wolford from her father's estate, which said receipt is filed as an Exhibit.

8. That afterwards, to-wit on or about the ninth day of August in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-three, the said Julia A. Wolford died intestate without having made any conveyance of her interest to the Plaintiff.

9. That said real estate owned by the said Jacob Feser at the time of his death descended to his said five children, upon his decease and that five undivided ninth parts thereof have been conveyed to the Plaintiff by the respective parties entitled thereto.

10. That said real estate is not susceptible of partition or division among said parties now entitled thereto and that it cannot be divided without loss or injury to the parties interested, and that it is necessary, and to the interest and advantage of all the parties entitled thereto that the same be sold and the proceeds divided among them according to their respective rights.

The Bill prays for the following relief: 1. That a decree may be passed for the sale of said real estate.

2. That the proceeds of sale may be distributed between the parties according to their respective rights and interests.

Horse Stables.

The condition and health of a horse depends very much upon the kind of stable it is kept in. There are horses which suffer from disease of the eyes, from coughs, from scratches and other skin diseases, all of which are produced by the pungent foul air in the stables.

The man who thinks he can communicate freely by telephone, is laboring under a hallucination. "Provisions are dull and lifeless," says a Memphis reporter. Is there no cheese in the Memphis market?

"WERE you a bull or a bear?" asked an acquaintance of a speculator. "Neither," he replied; "I was an ass."

It is said that lovesickness checks the growth of young people. We don't believe it. They increase in sighs all the time.

TEACHER: "So you can't do a simple sum in arithmetic? Now let me explain it to you. Suppose eight of you have together 48 apples, 32 peaches and 16 melons, what will each one of you get?" "Cholera morbus," replied Johnny Fizzletop, an Austin boy, who is addicted to that malady.

"I WOULDN'T worry about the cholera, dear," said a wife to her husband; "it isn't at all likely that it will reach this country." "I don't know about that," he replied nervously; "it might break out at any moment, and we might have a frightful time; I—I think I had better pay the back pew rent, any way!"

Absence of Mind. Professor Simpson of the University of Texas, takes the premium for absent-mindedness. He was sitting at his desk writing a few rights after when one of his children entered.

DR. JOHN BULL'S Smith's Tonic Syrup FOR THE CURE OF FEVER and ACUE Or CHILLS and FEVER, AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, of Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILIAR PILLS will be sufficient.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections.
