THE STRENGTH OF THE HILLS.

[Louise Chandler Moulton, in Harper's Magazine for September.]

My thoughts go home to that old brown house,
With its low roof sloping down to the east,
And its garden fragrant with roses and thyme,
Where the honey-bees used to feast.
That blossom no longer, except in rhyme,
Where the honey-bees used to feast.
Afar in the west the great hills rose,
Silent and steadfast and gloomy and gray;
I thought they were giants, and doomed to keep
Their watch, while the world should wake or sleep,
Till the trumpet should sound on the judgment day.

I used to wonder of what they dreamed
As they brooded there in their silent night,
While March winds smote them, or June rains fell,
Or the snows of winter their ghostly spell
Wrought in the long and lonesome night.
They remembered a younger world than ours,
Before the trees on their top were born,
When the old brown house was itself a tree,
And waste were the fields where now you see
The winds stir in the tasseled corn.

And I was as young as the hills were old,
And the world was warm with the breath of spring,
And the roses red and the lilies white
Budded and bloomed for my heart's delight,
And the birds in my heart began to sing.
But calm in the distance the great hills rose,
Deaf unto raptures and dumb unto pain,
Since they knew that Joy is the mother of Grief,
And remembered a butterfly's life is brief,
And the sun sets only to rise again.

They will brood, and dream, and be silent, as now,
When the youngest children alive to-day
Have grown to be women and men, grown old,
And gone from the world like a tale that is told,
And even their echo forgets to stay.

Lining of Wild Jake.

The little mining town of Shakspeare, New Mexico, nesting high in the pyramid range, and so called, as Russian Bill suggested, because "only a little Hamlet" was wrapt in sleep. It was just about that little hour when, according to military writers, that concrete mass of ignorance—drill, ball and chain, and bullying—the common soldier sleeps upon his post and the drowsy policeman becomes oblivious of crime. Yet late as was the hour, and palpable as was the darkness, a number of men were silently wending their way to the rear of "Rocksey's" saloon, through the chinks in the closed door of which issued a ray of light. Each man as he approached gave a peculiar knock and the door was instantly opened and quickly closed behind him. The light shone for an instant on the barrel of a Winchester rifle and revealed the fact that each man also carried a six-shooter in his cartridge belt. When about twenty had assembled the door was blocked, and after all hands had taken a drink the company seated themselves on barrels, old champagne cases, one long form and a few conventional cane bottomed chairs made in Old Mexico, and marvels of ease and cheapness. It was a picturesque crowd in the dull light of two kerosene lamps and would have delighted the heart of a Salvador Rosa. There was the grizzled old prospector who had come to California in "The days of old, the days of gold, The days of Forty-nine," and who had ever since been leading a wandering life, "making strikes," "blowing in his pile," "getting down to bed rock," and rising "flush" once more. There was "Racksey" himself, who, as he laconically expressed it was there to "sell whisky, not to give it away." There was the tenderfoot Eastern clerk out of the stage company office, on whose upper lip the microscope, with care, might discover some incipient vegetation, together with a few determined looking men of middle age—cattlemen who were being deprived through the "rustlers" of their fair and just thirty-three per cent. increase every two years of their hoarded wealth. "Shorty" Smith opened the meeting in a few words. He said: "Gentlemen, I see as ye've come on the dead square for business an' I ain't goin' to make no speech. We all 'lowed as this town ain't got no further use for Wild Jake or any of his kind, an' that it's about time he stacks his chips and quits. He's run this town long enough, an' he got fair notice not to come back here after he got clear of killing Mulligan," and he wouldn't take it. He's here again at his old tricks. He's locked up in Moreno's old abode an' the Sheriff's home in bed. Let's go up there!"

"Let's take a drink first," suggested the young clerk, fresh from the peaceful associations of a refined far-off home.

"I'll go ye," cried several, and "Rocksey" set them up once more. "Here's success to crime," exclaimed one of the cattle men, and with a subdued laugh every glass was emptied. The old Californian remarked that "twas wonderful how whisky turned a man when he wasn't used to it," apropos of the fiery stuff having gone against the tenderfoot's breath, and there was more subdued merriment.

"Vamoose," cried "Shorty," as he turned out the lights and the whole party filed into the darkness.

Down the hill they went toward a small two-roomed abode a short distance from the office of the Great Expectation mine. At some thirty yards from the office a few men silently detached themselves from the party and took up their position as guards to prevent the approach of strangers. The rest moved silently on. Outside the door they halted for a whispered consultation which lasted but a minute. Then two men took from the woodpile close by a heavy piece of timber. With terrific force they drove it against the wooden door of the calaboose. It held. The noise, though, awoke their victim. The rattle of his shackles as he roused himself from his blanket was distinctly audible. "In with her," yelled a dozen voices and at the second blow of the impromptu battering ram the door fell shivering from its hinges. About a dozen men entered. Wild Jake stood before them in the rays of a dark lantern completely at their mercy. A tall swarthy, well-built fellow of about 36. The face was open and frank, but the long waving black hair and piercing dark eyes recalled Joaquin Miller's description of Walker, "half angel and half Lucifer."

"What do you want of me, gentlemen," he asked in tones utterly free from the slightest suspicion of border slang. "Ye know what we want," said Shorty. Ye've got to go where that ain't no new trials, no Supreme Court, an' where writs of habe-you-his-corpus ain't no account. Hurry up. We can't stay here all night."

"Well, gentlemen, I supposed it would come to this sooner or later. If I had not been drunk I would have taken a fair warning and stayed away. I can't go fast with those shackles on, but I'll go as fast as I can."

Surrounding their prisoner they led him to the hoisting works of the mammoth mine. A rope was quickly thrown over a beam and the prisoner was asked if he had anything to say or any confession to make. He had neither; he only wanted the small favor of being allowed to die with his boots off. It was a small favor to a dying man and at once granted. A blacksmith belonging to the vigilance committee procured a hammer, and telling Jake to put his left and then his right foot on a small anvil, used to sharpen miner's tools, knocked his shackles off in a few minutes.

"Now," said Jake, seating himself on the anvil, "draw off my boots and I am ready."

On his unprotected head. He fell like an ox. Almost at the same instant Jake drew the unfortunate man's pistol from his belt, and before any one had time to realize what had happened, he disappeared with a shout in the darkness. With an equally wild shout his captors followed, spread out as skirmishers, so as not to miss the trail. A few of the older men went back to get horses, while the younger ones continued the chase. With the gray dawn Jake's trail was discovered. It led toward Lordsburg, about four miles distant, to which point the construction train of the Northern Pacific had reached. "Shorty" thought that if Jake could get a horse at Lordsburg and get in there ahead, he might escape. The mob pressed on all the harder. Soon Jake could be seen down on the mesa, running along with the peculiar dog trot of the Apache Indian. He was well out of range.

Soon he was seen to enter the town near the Ralston House and run across toward the railroad track. The crowd increased its speed, and rifles in hand rushed into the plaza in front of the hotel. An engine attached to two flat cars stood puffing on the track. In the cab stood Wild Jake, while the engineer lay at his feet, Jake's right foot resting firm upon his heart. Jake was covered by a dozen rifles, while several voices called upon him to surrender.

"Gentlemen," he cried, "before you fire just look in the direction my pistol is pointed."

The company had been digging for water. Near the excavation were several long wooden boxes of the kind in which they pack dynamite. "Lower your rifles," he continued, "or I'll fire into the giant powder, and we'll all go together."

Every man in the crowd felt that Wild Jake would be as good as his word, and every gun was instantly lowered. Without giving the mob time to think, the train with Wild Jake in charge pulled out from the station at speed and disappeared round the curve going southward. While the train was in sight not a word was heard nor a movement made by the men from whose clutches the desperado had escaped.

"Bust my skin!" at length exclaimed Poker Joe, "if he hasn't seen our pile and called us."

"Well, he had the dead drop on us sure," said Shorty. "There was nuthin' for it but to own up."

Meanwhile some of the party approached the well to look at the boxes. They were all empty. Wild Jake restored his machine to the engineer near Fort Bowie, A. T., started off on foot, and has never since been heard of, although rumors as to his whereabouts have been indulged in by the local papers.—Detroit Free Press.

WHAT OF THAT.

Tired! well, and what of that? Didst fancy life was spent on beds of ease, Fluttering the rose-leaves scattered by the breeze? Come, rouse thee! work while it is called to-day. Coward, arise, go forth thy way!

Lonely! and what of that? Some must be lonely; 'tis not given to all To feel a heart responsive rise and fall— To blend another life into its own. Work may be done in loneliness: work on!

Dark! well, and what of that? Didst fondly dream the sun would never set? Dost fear to lose thy way? Take courage yet. Learn thou to walk by faith and not by sight. Thy steps will guided be, and guided right.

Hard! well, and what of that? Didst fancy life one summer holiday, With lessons none to learn, and naught but play? Go, get thee to thy task. Conquer or die! It must be learned. Learn it, then, patiently.

—Every Other Saturday.

The Old Doctor's Story.

"I have a little story to tell you, boys," the old doctor said to the young people the other evening. "One day—a long, hot day it had been, too—I met my father on the road, to town."

"I wish you would take this package to the village for me, Jim," he said, hesitating.

"Now, I was a boy of twelve, not fond of work, and just out of the hayfield, where I had been at work since day break. I was tired, dusty and hungry. It was two miles into town. I wanted to get my supper, and to wash and dress for singing school."

"My first impulse was to refuse, and to do it harshly, for I was vexed that he should ask me after my long day's work. If I did refuse he would go himself. He was a gentle, patient old man. But something stopped me; one of God's good angels, I think."

"Of course, father, I'll take it," I said heartily giving my scythe to one of the men. He gave me the package.

"Thank you Jim," he said, "I was going myself, but somehow I don't feel very strong to-day."

"He walked with me to the road that turned off to the town; as he left, he put his hand on my arm, saying again, 'Thank you my son; you've always been a good boy to me, Jim.'"

"I hurried into town and back again."

"When I came near the house I saw a crowd of farm hands at the door. One of them came to me, the tears rolling down his face."

"Your father," he said, "fell dead just as he reached the house. The last words he spoke were to you."

"I'm an old man now; but I have thanked God over and over again in the years that have passed since that hour that those last words were, 'You've always been a good boy to me, Jim.'"

How Much Sleep?

On this question every one is a law to himself, says an exchange. The only rule is, take enough. Old Mother Means in Eggleston's "Hoosier School master" advised her husband when buying cheap land, "While yer a-gettin', get a plenty." So say we in regard to sleep, a full quantity of which is more valuable than the grandest prairie farms the sun ever shown upon.

It is during the wakeful hours that the muscles and the nervous system and brain expand their energies. Muscles are partially recruited during the day by nourishment taken, but the great recuperating work of the nerves and brain is done during sleep. Such recuperation must at least equal the expenditure made through the day or else the brain is ill-nourished, wastes, withers. Persons who, in early English history, were condemned to death by being prevented from sleeping, always died raving maniacs. Persons who are starved to death suffer brain starvation also, and pass into hallucinations and then into insanity.

Get plenty of sleep, then. Better an hour too much than half an hour too little. Don't carry to bed a day's business, the supper of a gourmand, the whirl of a ball room or the cares that should be passed over to God's merciful keeping. Free mind and body from these, lie down and rest in quietude, and so awake refreshed next morning for the duties of the day.

The best of all rules for successful housekeeping and making both ends of the year meet is, "Pay as you go." Beyond all countries in the world, ours is the one in which the credit system is the most used and abused. Pass books are the bane and pest of domestic servants at the store and the house, disputed constantly by the housekeeper and dealers, they are temptations to both parties to do wrong. "I never had that!" "We neglected to enter this!" "I forgot to bring the book!" "Never mind, we'll make a note of it!" and so it goes. But the worst of it is, that housekeepers are tempted to order what they have not the means to pay for, and when time for settlement comes they are straitened. A family can live respectably on a very moderate income, if they always take the cash in hand, and buy where they can buy to the best advantage. Then they will be careful first to get what is necessary. Extra comforts will be had, if they can afford them. But it is bad policy to buy on credit. No wise dealer sells so cheaply on credit as for cash.

Law and Medicine.

"Stop that coughing over there," cried a New York judge. "Such coughing disturbs the business of the court."

There was a short, painful silence, writes Eli Perkins, during which a pale, consumptive man struggled with himself, then coughed again, and continued it for several minutes.

"I'm bound to stop that cough," exclaimed the judge. "I'll fine you $10. I think that will stop it."

"Jedge," said the cadaverous man, "I'd be willin' to pay $20 to have

JAMES HEDSON'S flouring mill, 3 miles from Mechanicsburg, was burned on Wednesday with its contents. The bridge near the mill was saved with difficulty. The loss is $10,000. It is partially insured. The fire was caused by friction of machinery. —Star and Sentinel.

THE Hagerstown Fair composed of the Maryland State Fair, the County Association of Washington and Carroll, Md., Franklin, Pa., and Jefferson, W. Va., will be held at Hagerstown, October 20th, 21st, 22nd and 23rd, and will be highly attractive. See advertisement in another column.

EVERY now and then there is a sort of an outbreak in the matter of foot-walk improvements in our village. We have had extensive improvements in that direction of late. The ground being dry, as well as the sand must be favorable to the durability of the work. Keep it up, good walks are a pride to any place.

AMONG children there is no plague that eats away life's energies so rapidly as that of worms, which are the outgrowth of blood impurities. They are detected by nervous restlessness, unnatural appetite for food, hollow, sunken eyes, and a general bodily meanness. Parents should note these symptoms, and relieve the little ones by the use of Vinegar Bitters.

OUR esteemed friend and former fellow citizen Hon. John M. Sweeney of Helena Mont., wrote us a letter dated the 25th ult., enclosing $5 for his subscription, which pays for several years in advance. He says "continue sending my paper, it reaches me regularly, and is as welcome as a letter from home." It is cheering to the Printer to receive such evidences of kindly interest in his work.

PECK'S SUN, published at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, is the most humorous paper in America to-day. Geo. W. Peck, its editor and proprietor, stands without an equal as a humorist. He believes in making people happy, and no one can be otherwise who reads his most excellent paper. Our readers are invited to read the prospectus of Peck's Sun, in another column. ### A Luscious Peach.

Mrs. Rebecca Wely sent us a peach on Wednesday that measured 9 1/2 inches in circumference one way and nine inches the other. The tree had but three on it. Think of peaches as large as big oranges, and so filling!

The Outlook in Delicacies.

After all, there has been a considerable amount of apple-butter, stirred up, and there will be quite a showing, even if little snell of sewer trout; what a great country it is after all—however poor the crops, here and there the favored ones turn up in time.

Gort has various names, according to the parts affected, as podagra, when in the feet; chingra, when in the hands, &c.; but whether the attack is first felt in the feet or the hands, rub with Salvation Oil at once. It annihilates pain. Price 25 cents.

Popular trials shows the worth of every article, and 45 years constant use has proven the great efficacy of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup; it has no superior.

Hog cakes and coffee will be furnished free to visitors to the Hagerstown Fair this year, the managers having made arrangements with the Messrs. Hecker & Co., of Philadelphia, to furnish the cakes and Messrs. Levering & Co., of Baltimore, to furnish the coffee. —Herald and Torch Light.

Hay Fever Specific.

I found it a specific for Hay Fever. For ten years I have been a great sufferer from August 9th till frost. Ely's Cream Balm is the only preventive I have ever found.—Frank B. Ainsworth, of E. B. Ainsworth & Co., Publishers, Indianapolis, Ind.

The Janitors will wear white caps, buff ties and blue shirts. The company expects to parade to-day (Saturday) at 4 o'clock, P. M., with the Drum Corps in front of the procession. No doubt it will be a pleasing scene, and a lively time may be expected.

A Valuable Poster.

The Immediate Delivery System of the Postoffice Department took effect on Thursday, October 1st. By affixing a special stamp of 10 cents to a letter in addition to the regular postage, it will have an immediate delivery at all offices in any city, town or village having a population of 4,000 or over. The Department has issued nicely gotten up sheets giving the names of all places, coming within the provisions of the law. We have received with thanks two copies of the tables. One from the Washington Department and the other from our polite accommodating and very efficient Postmaster. The tables are very valuable for reference giving desired information at a glance.

From the Frederick News.

The Western Maryland Telephone and Telegraph Company with principal office at Frederick, Md., was incorporated this week for the purpose of doing a general Telephone and Telegraph business; also for erecting lines for experimental purposes, &c., for owning operating and manufacturing, electric goods of every description. The Capital stock of the company is $100,000 in shares of 50, each, par value. The incorporators and directors for the first year are: Jesse W. Downey, of New Market; Melvin P. Wood, Monrovia; Chas. R. Hardt, Edgar L. Miller, Geo. H. Morgan, Jacob Rohrbach, Messrs. Miller, Tyson and Morgan were formerly employees of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. The policy of the company proposes to pursue has not been decided upon.

John Speak, of Creagerstown, was thrown backwards out of a wagon on the street at Creagerstown last Wednesday by the sudden starting of the horses while he was standing on the bottom of the wagon. He fell on his head and was picked up in an unconscious condition. His physicians pronounce his life to be in danger.

The committee, appointed at the Frederick Prohibition Convention for the purpose, has nominated a full county ticket and made it public. They also adopted a platform, which among other things demands a reduction of the salaries of the Clerk of the Circuit Court, the Register of Wills and the Sheriff, to a sum not exceeding $1,500 per annum.

Burning of a Repair Shop.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 30.—The repair shop of the Baltimore and Cumberland Valley Railroad Company, a small frame building situated at Shippenburg, Pa., was destroyed by an incendiary fire on Sunday night. The building together with a hand-car and a quantity of repair tools, was consumed, causing a loss of about $500.—Frederick News.

WHAT torture the sufferer from dyspepsia endures no tongue can tell. Dr. Bull's Baltimore Pills promptly relieve the pain and cure the disease. You can give your baby Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup without the least injurious effect. It costs 25 cents.

As a cleanser and invigorator for hogs Day's Horse Powder has no equal. Farmers should use it.

Deer in Maryland.

On Tuesday, whilst Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, were preparing to enter their carriage in Hancock, to drive to Hagerstown, a deer dashed down the street, almost touching Mrs. Henderson as it passed. It continued its flight down the street, entirely through the town and disappeared in the country beyond. It is supposed that it had been chased by dogs and was driven by fright to make its novel visit to Hancock.—Hagerstown News.

At the Postoffice. Postmaster Williams was busy to-day arranging matters in the postoffice, of which he took possession this morning. His bondsmen are Messrs. John H. Williams and Charles W. Ross, the bond being $12,000 and the bondsmen qualifying for double that sum. No changes are contemplated in the clerical force at present. Mr. Miller will assist Mr. Williams for a week or two in acquiring a knowledge of the routine work.—Frederick News, Oct. 1st.

The accessions of new students in Pennsylvania College this year are highly gratifying. The Juniors have added 6 to their roll, the Sophomores 5; 28 have already been admitted to the Freshman class, and 25 new students have entered the Preparatory Department. The summary by classes, which is likely to be increased, is as follows: Seniors 22, Juniors 22, Sophomores 19, Freshmen 28, Preparatory 37, special instruction 1—total 120.—Star and Sentinel.

W. M. A. Cole, Baltimore, canopy. Ferdinand Polster, Baltimore, repeating action for square and grand pianos.

A Strange Result.

Among the many things going the rounds is the following, which we notice in a number of our exchanges: Take a piece of paper, and upon it put in figures your age in years, dropping months, weeks and days. Multiply it by two; then add to the result obtained the figures 3,708; add two, and then divide by two. Subtract from the result obtained the number of your years on earth, and see if you do not obtain figures that you will not be likely to forget.

Important.

From want of time G. W. Weaver & Son, the live Dry Good and Notion merchants of Gettysburg, Pa., were unable to write out an advertisement for this week, they have however reserved the space, and you can look for it next week. They are the pioneers of the one price Cash system for Adams county, which they say works admirably, and their large business is the testimony of the low prices they are enabled to give on good goods. They invite the people of this section to call and see them. oct 18-1y

Innocent Sum's.

Mamie, the only surviving child of Mr. Penrose Myers, of Gettysburg, was accidentally shot, in her father's store, on Wednesday last week, by Freddie Tate, a little boy, seven years old, who picked up a pistol belonging to a young man who sleeps in the store, which went off unexpectedly, sending the ball into the head of the little girl, near the corner of the eye. The child, who is about six years old, was supposed at first, to have been killed, but recovered consciousness in a short time and is now improving, though the ball has not been found.

Seeding Time.

Many farmers have delayed sowing their wheat by reason of the dryness of the ground, fearing the possible effects of a packing rain if it should come. But the chances may be just as much in favor of its not coming, otherwise than beneficially. We suggest whether upon the whole it is not best to do the work you are ready to do, rather than delay on doubtful points? The one great consideration to the farmer is to give his crop a good and vigorous start, that being "rooted and grounded" it may have the best possible prospect to withstand the frosts and other obstacles to growth of the winter. "He that regardeth the wind shall not sow."

Saw his Child Slain.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Oct. 1.—As David Appenzeller, of the dry goods firm of Hoke & Appenzeller, was driving across the Western Maryland railroad track near here this morning, his horse balked immediately in front of an approaching passenger train. His two sons, one of seven the other of four years, were in the carriage with him. Mr. Appenzeller leaped out and seized the horse's head, but the next moment the carriage was struck by the train and shivered into splinters. One of the boys was instantly killed and the other so shockingly mutilated that he cannot live. Mr. Appenzeller escaped injury. The horse was considerably injured.—Balto. News.

Decision of Interest to Magistrates.

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 28.—A decision has just been rendered in the Circuit Court here in the case of Magistrate Tyler against the County Commissioners, which may be of general interest. The claim of the magistrate for the commitment of tramps to Montevue Hospital, which was disallowed by the commissioners some time ago, was for $300. After hearing the case the court allowed $87, which was a deduction of one hundred dollars for judgment and ten cents for affidavit in each case. The court held that vagrancy is not an offense of which justices of the peace have jurisdiction under the act of 1880, and therefore the charges in the bills sued for—service, judgment and trial—could not be recovered, but that magistrates are entitled to recover for ministerial services, such as issuing writs, making out commitments, as provided for in criminal cases under the code.—Sun.

From the Hanover Citizen.

All the pavements in McSherrystown will be laid this fall—the borough authorities doing the work where property owners neglect or refuse to do the same.

Emanuel Herman, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Manchester township, died suddenly while at the supper table Thursday evening.

One day last week Charles, a five-year-old son of William Stenson, residing on Loucks' Mill road, this county, fell from a wagon, and in his descent struck a corn stalk, which penetrated through his hip, making a very painful wound.

The oldest man in this community, Samuel Mumma, Sr., of Mumma's mill, was found dead in his bed Wednesday morning. He had not been well for several weeks, but was not considered dangerously ill at the time of his death. He was aged 98 years, 11 months and 5 days.

Fall Opening.

From the Gettysburg Compiler.

Under the new marriage law which goes into effect October 1st, the man who persuades a girl under age to become his wife, unknown to her parents or guardian, can be sentenced to seven years imprisonment in the penitentiary. Mr. J. Harry Slaybaugh, of near this place, recently cut off 20 acres heavy (drilled in row) corn in 9 days, and wants to know who can beat it.

Mr. Jacob Comfort, of Lathrope township, this county, drove in a spring wagon to Dillsburg on Saturday, and whilst there his horse frightened and ran off, throwing him out and causing very painful if not serious injuries. At Warren, Pa., on Thursday, A. G. Merrill, teller of the Warren Savings Bank, blew out his brains with a pistol. Great excitement ensued, and a report that he was a defaulter to a large amount and that his letters involved several prominent businessmen became current.

His Drill Struck Dynamite.

YORK, Pa., Sept. 25.—A terrific explosion occurred this afternoon at the excavations being made for the erection of the paper mills at York Haven. There were eight blasts to be made with dynamite. Seven of the blasts went off, and while the one that failed to do so was being examined by the workmen it was fired by the careless use of a crowbar. Five men who were in the immediate vicinity were blown some distance. All received injuries of a frightful character. Some had arms and legs broken, besides being terribly lacerated in the face and body. Two are so badly hurt that it is thought they will die. The men are strangers in this locality, and as they are known on the pay-roll by numbers their names could not be learned.

Later to-night it is learned that John Morrisey, of Washington, began drilling out the hole and with his drill struck the dynamite with which it had been charged, and the explosion followed. Morrisey's right hip was crushed and the flesh was torn from his limbs. He died this evening. Thomas O'Brien was cut about the head and was badly and severely injured. Patrick Hagerty had his left eye blown out and was also severely injured, and John O'Connor was badly injured about the body.—N. Y. World.

DR. J. SHELTON M'KENZIE.

Oculist and Optician. Graduate of the University of Edinburgh, College of ophthalmology, and Royal Eye Infirmary has opened an office, in the Telephone Exchange Building, East Patrick street, Frederick, where he may be consulted by those suffering from diseases of any difficulty of their eyes. Dr. McKenzie has made a special study of diseases of the eye and having had an active practice of ten years in Europe and America believes he can successfully combat the diseases which are so destructive to this delicate organ. All examinations are made with the ophthalmoscope and other scientific instruments used in modern ophthalmology. A correct diagnosis is made of each person's case and an accurate statement given of the exact condition of their eyes, where diseases are indicated, the doctor cuts, grinds and adjusts them for each person thus insuring perfect vision, ease and comfort to the wearer. These glasses are free from the imperfections usually found in glasses, viz: Mud specks, cracks, flaws, waves, blisters, etc. They are made from pure quartz, very white and as transparent as the purest spring water. These goods are not put on sale in the shops. They are only ground and fitted to order. Thousands of people who are suffering with their eyes from over lachrymation, pain over the eye and lachrymation, a dull heaviness of the eye itself, a morbid feeling as though there were sand imbedded in the mucous membrane of the lids, very sensitive to light and air and a desire to partially close the eyes, or an incipient inflammation in the globe of the eye. These and a great many more troubles may be cured which can be entirely overcome if the person so afflicted will consult an oculist who understands physical and physiological optics, the laws of light, refraction, etc. There are very few cases of eyes or vision but can be brought to approximate nearly normal vision with properly adjusted glasses. Testimonials of the most substantial character. Cases treated since the Doctor has been in town can be readily ascertained by any person who will take the trouble to inquire. Office hours from 7 to 9 a. m., 12 to 5 and 6 to 8 p. m. Aug. 15-ly.

Don't neglect the chance to enable the Collector to meet promptly the indebtedness of the county. DANIEL Z. PADGETT, Collector. oct. 3-3t.

NO. — ROADS.

WHEREAS, William Motter, William H. Motter and other citizens of Frederick County, aforesaid, after having given thirty days notice of their intention to do so, as required by law, have petitioned the County Commissioners of Frederick County to open a public Road, commencing for the same, at the division line between the farms of James P. Martin and the heirs of Samuel Morrison, or near that point on the public road leading to Maxell's Mill, and extending thence to a point on the Dry Bridge road, near the forks of the Bruceville road at Mr. Harner's farm in Emmitsburg District.

Now, notice is hereby given to all persons and parties concerned, and to the public, that we, the undersigned Examiners, will meet at the place of beginning on the farm of James P. Martin aforesaid, on Tuesday the 10th day of November, 1885, at 9 o'clock, a. m., and will proceed to examine and determine whether or not the public convenience requires that the said road shall be opened and if upon examination we should be of opinion and so determine in our judgment, that the public convenience requires the said road to be opened, we will proceed to open the same agreeable to our commission and the code of Public General Laws in such cases made and provided and will continue in the execution of said commission from day to day if necessary, until the same shall have been fully completed.

JOHN S. MOTTER, LEWIS M. MOTTER, SINGLETON DORSEY, Examiners. Freeholders in Frederick county, and not interested nor holding lands through which said road is proposed to pass. oct 3-3t

Poisonous Lard Oil.

To the Editor of the Scientific American:

A recent experiment with what is termed low grade lard oil, or bolt oil, has convinced me that machinists and others cannot be too careful to keep it from any slight abrasion of the skin, as the following will prove. Having to fit some new dies to my bolt cutter, and testing their operation, my hands became covered with this so-called lard oil. A slight and almost unnoticed abrasion of the skin below the nail of my left thumb allowed it to come in contact with the flesh beneath: in about an hour it became, first red and painful, then tumid, and finally black, showing unmistakable signs of blood poisoning, which resisted all remedies until cauterized with caustic potash.

Upon this becoming partially healed, I returned to my experiments, having taken the precaution to well protect the injured part by wrappings; but some of the oil found entrance under the edge, and remained in contact with the skin all day, the consequence of which was that the animal poison was again absorbed by the sound but tender skin, and became diffused all over the thumb and as far as the wrist. It could only be checked by further cauterization and poulticing, bathing the wrist and arm with iodine and aconite, and at every renewal of poultices bathing the broken skin with a tepid weak solution of carbolic acid, viz., 3 drops saturated solution (20 per cent water to crystals) to 1 pint of soft water. The skin has separated from nail to wrist, and after intense suffering for two weeks is slowly healing under a covering of old linen dipped in "cosmoline." Query: Was this oil made from the fat of diseased animals, that is, "boneyard oil?" OPERA MUNDI.

Syracuse, Aug. 21, 1885.

EVERY one knows how difficult it is to remove weeds from the garden walk when they have once become rooted and grounded. Salt is one of the remedies most frequently employed, and the following is said to be the best way of applying it: Boil the salt in water, one pound to the gallon, and pour the mixture boiling hot out of a watering pot with spreading rose. This will keep weeds and worms away for two or three years. In subsequent applications the solution may be somewhat weaker. It will be as well to take care that none of it falls on the garden mold.

WINTER wheat should be sown early enough so that it will get a good start before winter sets in. It should get well rooted, and of course will, in doing this get a very fair growth of top at the same time. This top growth is needed as well as the root growth. It helps to cover and protect the roots from thawing and freezing—not so much by its bulk alone as by its service in catching and holding snow. The snow will sift in about the roots where there is even a light growth of top to hold it in place, while the ground would no doubt be swept bare without it.

MAJOR E. B. HILL, Culpeper, Va., who has handled Powell's Fertilizers for several years says: "I enclose you a few certificates; you can mention Mr. P. Aylor, a good farmer, who recommends the Powell Fertilizers. I could send you more if necessary, but the Powell's brands are so well and favorably known in this section no advertising is required." Address Brown Chemical Co., Manuf'rs, Baltimore Md.

In pruning trees aim to distribute the cuttings sufficiently throughout the entire tree. If there is twice top much top it might be reduced by cutting off all the branches on one side, leaving the other half untouched. If a tree looks too thin another year's growth will fill it up.

If a farmer desires to know how a cow feels that jumps fences to get something to eat, let him put himself on half or quarter rations for a month or so. He will have more sympathy for her, and will see that she has a full supply.

A FRENCHMAN has patented a process of making butter by passing a current of electricity through milk, thus rendering the operation of churning unnecessary.

Miscellaneous.

ENGLISH HISTORY IN RHYME.

First William the Norman,
Then William his son;
Henry, Stephen and Henry,
Then Richard and John.
Edwards, one, two and three;
And again, after Richard,
Three Henrys we see.
Two Edwards, third Richard,
If rightly I guess;
Two Henrys, sixth Edward,
Queen Mary, Queen Bess;
Then Jamie the Scotchman
Then Charles whom they slew,
Yet received, after Cromwell,
Another Charles two.
Next Jamie the Second
Ascended the throne;
Then Good William and Mary
Together came on;
Then Anne, Georges four,
And fourth William all passed
And Victoria came—
May she long be the last.

To Get Rid of Cockroaches.

A correspondent writes as follows: "I beg to forward you an easy, clean, and certain method of eradicating those loathsome insects from dwelling houses. A few years ago my house was infested with cockroaches (or 'clocks,' as they are called here), and I was recommended to try cucumber peeling as a remedy. I accordingly, immediately before bedtime, strewed the floor of those parts of the house most infested with the vermin with the green peel, cut not very thin, from the cucumber, and sat up half an hour later than usual to watch the effect.

Before the expiration of that time the floor where the peel lay was completely covered with cockroaches, so much so that the vegetable could not be seen, so voraciously were they engaged in sucking the poisonous moisture from it. I adopted the same plan the following night, but my visitors were not nearly so numerous—I should think not more than a fourth of the previous night.

On the third night I did not discover one; but anxious to ascertain whether the house was quite clear of them, I examined the peel after I had laid it down about half an hour, and perceived that it was covered with myriads of minute cockroaches, about the size of a flea. I therefore allowed the peel to remain till morning, and from that moment I have not seen a cockroach in the house. It is a very old building, and I can assure you that the above remedy only requires to be persevered in for three or four nights to completely eradicate the pests. Of course it should be fresh cucumber peel every night."—Confectioner's Journal.

Anti-Fat Methods.

Ridance of undesirable fat has been achieved of late by a number of actresses; and they are said to have done it by dieting, and not by the use of drugs, as many suppose. The directions are simple enough, and yet rather hard to follow. They are substantially the same as recommended by Banting, the Englishman, who reduced his weight from 204 to 167 pounds in six months, and then published his experience for the guidance of others afflicted by corpulence. The system consists in abstinence from food that contains starch or sugar. This excludes bread, butter, milk, potatoes, beer, and all the preparations into which sugar enters. Unfortunately for this purpose, women almost invariably have sweet teeth; but they cannot part with their excess of flesh without giving up sugar. They must consent to live chiefly on meat that isn't fat, and vegetables, excepting potatoes. The quantity of food eaten may be as great as the appetite calls for, so long as starch and saccharine matter is eschewed. This does not leave a woman so badly off as she might at a glance imagine, if she can only make up her mind to live without candy and pastry. She may drink sour wines, or sherry, but no port, champagne, or beer. Distilled liquors are not objectionable in small quantities.

After the Old Man.

A small son of a Raleigh man, when asked if he was not very much frightened when the lightning struck his father's house, replied: "No, de Lord wasn't gwine to hurt me; it was daddy he was after."

A CHARTER has been obtained for the establishment of an institution for the education of colored girls, after the model of Mount Holyoke, Mass. The site has been secured and paid for. The college is to be located at Aia, on the Northern Central Railroad, about 30 miles from Baltimore.

"Yes," said the high-school girl, "I removed the letter surreptitiously." "No, you didn't," replied her brother Jim; "you sneaked up to the parlor table and jabbed it into your gripsack."

"SEVEN per cent. net, security guaranteed," said Mrs. Benton, reading an advertisement. "I believe I'll call in and look at it. I'm awfully bothered lately about keeping up my back hair."

A good old Quaker lady, after listening to the extravagant yarns of a person as long as her patience would allow, said to him: "Friend, what a pity it is a sin to lie, when it seems so necessary to thy happiness."

WIFE—"Can't you take me to the Yahoo restaurant some evening, my dear?" Husband—"No, darling, it is disreputable." Wife—"Then, dear, why do you bring home its marked napkins in your pockets?"

It is impossible for a boy to keep still if he is ordered to do so; but if the suggestion is made that he should go down to the cellar for a hod of coal, he can become as motionless as an Egyptian mummy.—Boston Courier.

THERE was once a clergyman in New Hampshire noted for his long sermons and indolent habits. "How is it," said a man to his neighbor, "that Parson —, the laziest man living, writes these interminable sermons?" "Why," said the other, "he probably gets to writing and is too lazy to stop."

"WOULD you like to have us sing something, something sweet and low?" said the minister to the dying Scotchman. "I would like to hear some music," the dying man feebly replied, "but I dinna care for singin'." Ye might send for Donald and get him to play me a tune on the bagpipes.—Boston Courier.

AN instance of the ruling passion strong in death is thus related of an old cook, who was known as a miser, and had amassed a large fortune. On his deathbed, when the gasp was approaching, a tallow candle was burning upon the stand, and a flickering flame in the fireplace. Suddenly he called to his son, saying: "Woodbury, come here."

The son approached the bedside, when the old man whispered: "Woodbury, blow out that candle; tallow's most as dear as butter."

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
STOMACH BITTERS

The invigorating and tranquilizing operation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is most powerfully developed in cases of indigestion. The first effect of this agreeable tonic is comforting and encouraging. A mild glow pervades the system, and the nervous restlessness which characterizes the disease is abated. This improvement is not transient. It is not succeeded by the return of the old symptoms with superadded force, as is always the case when unmedicated stimulants are given for the complaint. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

Only Temperance Bitters Known.
VINEGAR BITTERS
FREE FROM ALCOHOL
PURELY VEGETABLE
VINEGAR BITTERS

No other medicine known so effectively purges the blood of deep-seated diseases. It is a purely Vegetable Preparation, made from the native medicinal roots of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. It is the only safe and certain remedy for the sick of every age and sex, and the patient recovers his health.

It is the great Blood Purifier and Life-giving Principle, a Gentle Purgative and Tonic; a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the power of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease, and in restoring the vigor of every system.

The Alternative, Aparent, Diaphoretic, Counter-irritant, Sudorific, Anti-Bilious, Solvent, Diuretic and Tonic properties of VINEGAR BITTERS exceed those of any other medicine in the world.

No person can take the Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bowels are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs vested beyond the power of repair.

Bilious, Remittent, Intermittent and Malarial Fevers, are prevalent throughout the United States, particularly in the valleys of our great rivers and the hot trillaries during the summer and autumn, especially during seasons of unusual heat and dryness.

These Fevers are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. In their treatment, a purgative, clearing a powerful influence upon these organs, is absolutely necessary.

There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. A. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as it will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fortified.

It invigorates the stomach and stimulates the torpid liver and bowels, cleansing the blood of all impurities, imparting life and vigor to the frame, and carrying off without the aid of Calomel, or other minerals, the poisonous matter from the system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Pneumonia, Dizziness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are at once relieved by VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, the Bitters have no equal. In these, as in all constitutional diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS has shown its great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

It cures Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Pains in the Limbs, Stiff Joints, Dropsy, Swellings, Ulcers, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scalds, Sores, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurs, Discolorations, Humors and diseases of the Skin, of whatever nature or nature, are literally blown up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of the Bitters.

Flatulency and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no antispasmodics, will free the system from worms like VINEGAR BITTERS.

Measles, Scarlet Fever, Mumps, Whooping Cough, and all children's diseases may be made less severe by keeping the bowels open with mild doses of the Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, this Bitters has no equal.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood when its impurities burst through the skin in Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when; and the health of the system will follow.

In conclusion: Give the Bitters a trial. It will speak for itself. One bottle is a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Around each bottle are full directions printed in different languages.
