THE SEEKING.

By ways of dreaming and doing.
Man seeks the bourne of the blest:
Youth yearns for the Fortunate Islands,
Age pines for the haven of rest.

And we say to ourselves: "Oh, surely,
Beneath some bluest horizon,
Just over our black horizon,
The land of our longing lies."

Each seeks some favored pathway,
Secure to him alone;
But every pathway thither
With broken hearts is strown.

The Giver of Sleep breathed also,
Into our clay, the breath
And fire of mirth to save us
From indolent lies in death.

Fair is the opening rosebud,
And fair the full-blown rose;
And sweet, after rest, is action,
And, after action, repose.

But indolence, like the cow-bird,
That's hatched in an alien nest,
Crowds out the native virtues,
And soon usurps the breast.

Better the endless endeavor,
The strong deed rushing in,
And happiness that, ere we know her,
And name her, smiles and is gone.

We wait for the willing of waters,
That never pass the brink;
We pour our lives in the fountain,
But cannot stay to drink.

"To-morrow," says Youthful Arden, Taming the vine and the tree,
"I will couch in these braided bowers,
As blithe as the breeze that blows."

"To-morrow," says earnest Marhood, Yet adding land to land,
"I will walk in the alleys of leisure,
And rest from the work of my hand."

"To-morrow," says Age, still training
The vine to the crumbling wall,
Till the Dark Sweet slumps upon us,
And the shadow that swallows all.

Ebb-tide chased by the flood-tide,
Night by the dawn pursued,
And ever contentment hounded
By fresh inquietude!

Not what we have done avails us,
But what we do and are;
We turn from the deed that is setting,
And steer for the rising star.

We may wreck our hearts in the voyage;
But never shall sail or oar,
Nor word of enchantment, wait us
Nearer the longed-for shore.

In vain each past attainment;
No sooner the bound appears
Than the spirit ever aspiring,
Spreads sail for untried spheres.

Whatever region critics,
Whatever siren sings,
Still onward beckons the phantom
Of unaccomplished things.

—J. T. Frothingham in Youth's Companion.

A REPORTER'S VISIT TO THE BOSTON
TELEPHONE EXCHANGE.

Any one who has often used the telephone must have had occasion to be impressed with the mysterious-ness, the sense of maternal non-existence, of that part of the machine and its belongings that lies beyond one's own instrument and that of the person at the other end, whom one is talking to, says a writer in the Boston Post. My own material existence I am reasonably assured of. I can imagine my friend at the other end of the line. But between us two there is an airy nowhere, inhabited by voices and nothing else—Hello! Hello! I should call it. The vocal inhabitants of this strange region have an amazing vanishing quality. Even while you are talking casually with one or another of them, you may become aware that you have been unaccountably "cut off" and if you become impatient, and raise your voice in earnest demand or protest, the more you bellow, the more you become aware that you are idiotically shouting yourself black in the face against a mere inanimate box stuck against the wall. Nothing else than the supreme invention of the nineteenth century could make man so supremely ridiculous as he is when he is shouting oburgations into a telephone transmitter that isn't "connected." The conscien-

ness of such an experience produces in sensitive men, I am sure, a sensation of nervous shock, somewhat akin to seasickness. And sometimes, when you are talking blithely enough through your central office intermediary, you hear the confused murmur of a hundred voices.

You catch more expressions from private conversations than your nerves can transmit to the central office of your brain; and if you are imaginative you may undergo, as I have, a feeling as if you had a hundred astral bodies that were guiltily listening at as many keyholes. The central office is not like any other business establishment whatsoever.

The telephone seems to you to have no visible agency. If you have business with the company, you telephone it. Your applications and complaints go over the wire to that one impersonal, impalpable voice.

In the first place, there is something besides a voice at the central office. I beheld, as the door was opened, twenty comely young women sitting in a long row, in easy arm chairs, before tables with endless apparatus before them. That was the first fact that I grasped.

The next one was that those girls were not shouting at all. There was a low, indistinct murmur, and that was all. As I approached nearer, I could hear, in tones not much above a whisper, like ever-monotonous "Hello! Hello!"

"Yes! Yes!" "Good-by!" but one clear voice in a good speaking tone might have been heard plainly across that whole room above all the business of making the connections for 2,000 people. Every girl had strapped upon her head, or rather held there by its own grip, an apparatus

composed of crossed steel bands, which held a small telephone receiver to her ear. Before her, dangling by a long wire in just such position as to hang exactly in front of her mouth, was the transmitter. Each girl leaned back in a comfortable attitude, and seemed entirely cool and totally unconcerned, while both of her hands were occupied in inserting wires with metal plugs at their ends into certain holes before her, and pulling them out again. There were rows upon rows of these little apertures, and every one of them represented somebody's telephone number.

Each girl takes care of a limited number of calls, which are signaled to her by the dropping of a little metallic tablet with the number of the caller's instrument upon it; but she has within her reach, in those little apertures that I have mentioned, every one of the telephone numbers within the radius of the exchange.

"These seem to be young women of excellent physique," I said to the superintendent.

"We insist upon that," said he.
"We have found that girls of good physique, healthy young women, are much less liable to irritation and impatience, much less likely to 'get rattled,' than those who are a little weak or ill. It is not that the work wears upon them, so that only women of unusual physique can stand it, but that we must have operators who are likely to keep their tempers and maintain coolness of demeanor.

Does it deafen them? I have never known but one case of an operative's hearing being affected, and that might easily have been from some other cause. They do not seem to suffer much nervously, though there was one case of hysteria here last week. One of the girls —that one with the slender figure and dark hair near the end of the line—got confused and 'rattled,' as we call it, over a series of vexations, and asked to have a substitute placed in her chair. You see that we keep five substitutes in the room to relieve those who desire to be relieved at any time. Well, this young woman went into the girl's waiting room and had an attack of hysteria there. Not infrequently something occurs on the line—somebody gets impatient and loses his temper—which troubles the girls.

They generally go out into their room and have a good cry, and come back feeling better. They certainly seem to like the work, though the pay is only $7 a week.

The hours are not long; they sit all day; they are relieved when it is useful, and the actual work seems to be agreeable to them."

There was a straining sound under the superintendent's table.
He held a telephone receiver to his ear, and talked through a movable transmitter on the table. "Certainly," he said in a low voice, "I will relieve you." He summoned a young woman from the window, and motioned her to take the chair of one of the operators. He had been talking with one of the girls, not 15 feet away, over the telephone!

She could have spoken to him through the air by turning her head, but would have made a little bit of noise and confusion in the room, and this modern tower of Babel, this vocal sensorium of a whole city, is as quiet as a public library reading room. The substitute girl took the other's place, and two "calls" came tumbling down at the same instant, and somebody was undoubtedly vexed because he was

SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1887.

IS IT PROGRESS?

His physical conformation as well as the record of his creation, show that man was made to labor. In sending him forth to till the earth and control the lower orders of creation, the Creator ordained: "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread." For the countless multitudes of his descendants, there has been no exemption from the penalty thus laid upon him.

Generation after generation has left its record of toil and sorrow, sickness and death, endured in the conflict for subsistence.

Those who philosophically, and with a wise regard for the heavenly mandate, have willingly and cheerfully obeyed it, have in the main reaped the rewards of well doing. Those who have been negligent, indifferent or unregardful, have had for their portion, poverty, degradation and sorrow.

However impelled, the gifts of intelligence have always been exercised for relieving the burden of work, and bettering the personal condition. The command to "subdue the earth" has had its realization advanced, through the innumerable inventions and processes whereby labor has been lessened and the highest civilization of the world has been reached.

The conflict between good and evil still proceeds as from the beginning. No matter how rapid may have been the advances of the former, there has never been any intermission in the efforts of the latter to oppose every work of a meritorious character, tending to dignity, upbuild and ennoble the race, sparing no means to pull down, degrade and destroy its integrity.

When we pause to note the character of the most successful teachers, it is often saddening to find that ambition, avarice and other unworthy motives manifest themselves in the most exalted positions, though here and there, as shining lights in the world's vast theater, appear those whose aims are goodness, philanthropy and knowledge for its own sake; the love of their fellowmen for their best interests.

The speculative spirit that received such a mighty impulse in the period of our late civil war, spread itself to almost every department of industry, and left its baneful influence wherever it went, is yet everywhere manifesting its presence. The accumulation of wealth in the hands of the few to the disadvantage of the many, the greed and overpowering influence of great corporations that seek to control legislation and to magnify their own interests; knavery on all hands, fraud growing more and more brazen faced, and crime becoming more and more unrestrained, are among the evils that have escaped from the Pandora's box, opened by the war.

Among the varied projects in which speculation has appeared, we doubt whether there is any in which it has run riot more than in the printer's business. The mighty lever of civilization, the fulcrum over which business and science and art and everything is moved. That which in former times was dignified, and recognized as among the most respectable and influential of professions, enlisting always the best talents, in these days has been reduced to a mercenary art, whose success depends upon contempt for its past honors, indifference to the public good, and disregard for all principles except what may promote pecuniary advantage. Unblushing in its presumption upon the ignorance of those it seeks to dupe, talents of the most brilliant order are subsidized, the best developments of art, and every conceivable influence is brought to bear for the enrichment of the projectors of the schemes for popular deception. Instead of the conventional sheets, well filled with interesting, useful and instructive knowledge that used to come before us, we have now the manifold, immense productions, disfigured with hideous pictures, falsely said to represent persons whose names are under written; personal controversies, sensational news put forth today to be contradicted tomorrow; boastful representations of unexampled progress, and unrestricted license, which excites but does not elevate the public taste; and in all quarters, many with no qualifications save the mechanical skill to set type, conceive themselves fully competent to become editors. Incapable of literary effort, their only aim can be to secure the possible emoluments to arise from the mechanical side of the art, and too late they learn the folly of having essayed a warfare in ill-fitting and unwieldy armor.

Just now newspapers are going through their latest phase of fashion, which like other fashions, have their day and pass away. It is not according to the usual course of things that the present order will be perpetuated.

THE RIVIERA HORROR.

ROME, Feb. 27.—Heartrending details of the disasters caused by the earthquakes continue to arrive. At Diano-Marino to-day, a child of twelve years and her father were extricated from the debris, when the latter expired upon the spot. The survivors at Diano-Marino say that a majority of the victims were killed by the second shock, the people having re-entered their houses to procure clothing. The sum of $15,000 has been found in the ruins there. Bodies wrapped in shrouds lie in the middle of the streets.

At Bussana only a church steeple remains standing. The soldiers there are still searching the ruins. They have rescued twenty-seven persons, all of whom are more or less injured.

The panic was renewed at Genoa to-day on a false report that Father Denza had predicted another shock. Both there and at Savona the people refused to return to their houses. They sleep in carriages and improvised places of shelter.

Signor Genala, Minister of Public works, has visited Bajardo and attended the funeral of 230 victims of the church collapse, who were buried in a common trench in the cemetery. He also made arrangements for a temporary hospital for the injured.

Slight oscillations were felt to-day at Albenga and Porto Maurizio. Relief committees are being organized throughout the country, but it is impossible to supply the numerous wants. A bill will be introduced in Parliament for the credit of $1,000,000 for relief purposes. Signori Denza and Bianchi, experts, say that there need be no further fear.

San Remo is deserted. There were 303 persons killed and 150 injured in that town.

PARIS, Feb. 27.—Cannes has resumed its usual appearance. The town has a thousand more inhabitants than it had before the earthquake, and refugees are still arriving there. The government architect has examined the principal buildings, and found that little damage was done. The mayor of the town announces, on the authority of scientists, that there will be no recurrence of the shocks. Some houses at Bouillon have fallen down, owing to damage sustained during the shocks. In several places springs have become turbid.

The death list in the earthquake region, has reached 600.—America.

REACTION AGAINST PENSION FRAUDS.

In a dispatch to the Philadelphia Times from Washington, Mr. Alexander K. McClure, the editor of that paper, expresses the opinion that the defeat of the dependent pension bill will mark a new departure in the pension system of the Government. It will be likely, he thinks, "to bring future legislation on pensions down to an honest practical, patriotic, business basis." Hereafter pensions will be granted "as the actual needs of worthy veterans shall arise, but there will be no wholesale invitation to idleness and dependence such as the defeated bill presented. There will be such absolute safeguards as will defy even the ingenuity of perjury and greed, and the whole pension system will be recalled to honest business principles." One of the results which Mr. McClure thinks is likely to result from the "great pension battles of the present session" is a "thoroughly earnest and systematic effort to revise our present pension list, and prune it of its large percentage of pension frauds." He deprecates the fact that the Grand Army posts have not "promptly and fearlessly exposed pension frauds where they were known to veterans. There is not a Grand Army post in the Union," adds Mr. McClure, "that could not expose and strike from the pension list more or less of utterly undeserving pensioners who have obtained their pensions by perjury or other fraud."—Sun.

A LARGE AND RAPID FIRE.

On Friday last the large five-story iron building on the South East corner of Baltimore and Howard Streets, in Baltimore City, caught fire early in the morning and was completely destroyed in less than twenty minutes. The inner supports were quickly consumed and the falling in of the outer walls extinguished the fire. The building was owned and occupied by the well known candy manufacturers Darby & Co. The loss was estimated at $150,000 the insurance on building, stock, &c., amounting to $100,000 the firm will rebuild at once.

PLACED ON THE PEDESTAL.

The colossal bronze statue of John C. Calhoun was, on Tuesday last, successfully placed on the pedestal in Marion Square, Charleston, S. C. The figure faces to the south. There remains now only four historical figures and the ornaments to the panels to complete the monument, the corner-stone of which was laid 35 years ago. When the Calhoun monument is completed there will be few handsomer works of art to be seen in the United States. The formal unveiling will take place April 26.—Sun.

PROMPTLY HANGED.

Mrs. Druse, who killed her husband on December 18, 1884 and afterward cut up and burned the body in the parlor stove, was hanged at Herkimer, N. Y., on Monday. The efforts to have her sentence commuted to life imprisonment of course failed, but the pressure brought to bear in the case was scarcely ever exceeded. All which speaks well for the firmness of Governor Hill.

ADDIS EMMET CARR, grandson of David Dudley Field the eminent New York lawyer, took a dose of muriatic acid in Baltimore on Wednesday eve, in a mistake for medicine he used for the relief of headache. He went to his laboratory in this instance for his medicine, and swallowed a large draught of the acid, which, notwithstanding all efforts for his relief, proved fatal in two hours. He was aged 28 years.

CARDINAL JACOBINI, died at noon on Monday, the announcement of his death for Saturday, was premature, from the comatose state into which he had fallen. The Pope spent some time with him on Friday and afterwards the last sacraments of the church were administered. His sufferings at times were intense until death came to his relief.

THE Deadlock in the election for U. S. Senator in the Legislature of New Jersey, was broken on Wednesday by the election of Rufus Blodgett, democrat, a superintendent on the Jersey Central Railroad. His election was secured by Republican votes. The contest had continued for eight weeks.

AN EARTH TREMOR.

The towns on Long Island's South Shore were badly shaken up on Wednesday afternoon by a heavy earthquake shock. The big tower there swayed to the verge of falling. But the shock was not felt in New York City.

HANGED.

James Stevens the negro who was convicted and sentenced to death, for criminally assaulting the aged Mrs. Mary Trehearne on the night of July 11, 1886, in Princess Anne County, was hanged on Friday last.

THE Trade Dollar and the Anti-poligamy bills have become laws without the President's signature, the limit of ten days for so doing having expired.

THE Senate passed the Pleuropneumonia bill on Monday. It was amended to include the diseases of swine.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

THE Forty-ninth Congress closes its sessions to-day, March 4th.

GENERAL LOGAN'S remains are to find a permanent resting place in Jackson Park, a very beautiful common on the west side of Chicago.

PROF. FALB, of Vienna, who predicted the earthquakes which have just taken place from solar observations, now prophesies that we may expect twenty-seven more days of similar disturbances, accompanied by terrific storms. The 9th and 24th of March, 7th and 8th of April and the middle of September and October next are mentioned as the dates on which the worst may be anticipated.

Mrs. CLEVELAND's grandmother, Mrs. Ruth H. Harmon, is dangerously sick at Jackson, Mich.

EDWARD WOOTTEN, associate judge of the Superior Court of Delaware, died on Tuesday morning at his residence in Georgetown, Del., aged about eighty-two years. He had only been ill since Sunday.

THE steamer Gaelic, Captain Pearne, from China and Japan, via Honolulu, which arrived at San Francisco on Tuesday, reports another outbreak of lava from Mauna Loa. All the craters were in a state of great activity when the steamer left Honolulu.

THE ninetieth anniversary of the birth of Emperor William of Germany, which falls on March 22nd, will be observed with unusual ceremony in Vienna by the Austrian Court. A state dinner will be given in honor of the event, and the entire staff of the German Embassy will be invited to attend.

MR. JOHN WANAMAKER has purchased the double brownstone building at Broad and Brown streets, Philadelphia, and in addition to it will erect a four-story structure. His purpose is to make it a home with nominal board for the women employes in his several stores in that city. There will be twenty-four bedrooms, each accommodating two persons. They will be 7 by 11 feet. On each floor there will be a large sewing room, matron's room and bath rooms, the tubs being marble lined, with floors and partitions of marble also. Dumb waiters will run from the basement to the fourth floor. Fire escapes will be placed at suitable points. The roof will be a promenade protected by an ornamental wrought iron railing. The stairway throughout the building will be of marble. The entire building will be heated by steam. In the basement will be a gymnasium, 16 by 40 feet, and a swimming tank, 16 by 31, lined with marble.

Old Newspapers.

Our thanks are due to Mr. Frank Caldwell for a lot of old papers extending back as far as the year 1833, among them are the Iron Age published at Harrisburg Pa. from Nov. 1839 to May 1840. The Union of the same place embracing a good part of the year 1844. The Republican Compiler of Gettysburg from 1842, with numbers extending down to 1864 and over. And as if to sweeten the perusal she kindly added some beautiful luscious large apples.

The New Princeton Review for March 1887 maintains the high standard of excellence in literature which it aims to present to its readers. The subjects of the number are: "Napoleon Bonaparte," Henri Taine; "Some Political and Social Aspects of the Tariff," E. L. Godkin; "The Essentials of Eloquence," W. M. Taylor; "Of the Study of Politics," Woodrow Wilson; "The Course of American Architecture," W. P. P. Longfellow; "Victor Hugo," John Safford Fiske; "George Meredith," Flora L. Shaw; "Don Finimond," E. Cavazza; "Idle Notes of an Uneventful Voyage," Brander Matthews; "Criticisms, Notes and Reviews," "The Land and Labor Party," "Fruit from an Old Tree," "The Half-Century of Victoria's Reign," "The Reform of Student Life in Germany," "Lowell's Democracy and Other Addresses," "Alexander's Problems of Philosophy," "Richardson's American Literature," "Book Notices," "Books Received." The Review is published six times a year by A. C. Armstrong & Son, 714 Broadway, New York, at $3.00 a year in advance. Subscriptions received at this office.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cts. a large bottle.

Ask your druggist for Black Pills.

Died of Paralysis.

On last Wednesday morning Mrs. Barbara Black, aged 80 years, died of paralysis at the residence of her son-in-law, M. F. Marble, on North Market street, this city. Mrs. Black was the widow of the late William Black, formerly of Rocky Ridge, this county, and on Thursday morning her remains were taken to that place for interment. She was an estimable lady.—Frederick Union.

As March came in calm, and the sun shone brightly and the temperature rose above 40° and only declined 4° by 4:30 o'clock. We presume, the lamb is to be accorded the ruling influence and so the lion is to govern at its close. But to some the storm of Saturday night and Sunday, with the cold snap of Monday may require recognition and thus reverse the actual state of things. There are exceptions to all rules, from the ground hog theory, to the locust blossoms.

A Good Citizen Gone.

In the death of Mr. James Hoshorn elsewhere announced in this issue, this community has lost a good citizen, esteemed by all who knew him, for his integrity, kindness of disposition and fidelity in all the relations of life in which he acted. He was long an officer of the Ev. Lutheran Church, of which he was an active member from his early life. He will be greatly missed. The funeral took place on Friday morning in the blinding snow storm.

A Burglary.

On Friday night the 25th ult., burglars pried open the front door of the store of Messrs. Geo. W. Rowe & Son in this place, and then blew open the safe, and carried away its private drawers containing some deeds, insurance policies and other private papers, also 3 pairs of coarse shoes from the store and between three and four dollars in money from the cash drawers. The noise of the explosion was heard by some of the neighbors, but not in such a way as to attract particular attention. They left behind them a large sledge hammer, belonging to a blacksmith in town. No clue to the parties has been discovered.

The internal disquietude of the earth is perpetual, and somewhere every day the agitations find an outlet in one form or another; it may be a volcanic eruption at one point, or an earthquake at another, and no locality in particular may claim exemption, if the course of the convulsion is in its direction. The occasion of terror is when a particular part of any territory becomes overthrown or engulfed. But for our ordinary occasions, we are at all times liable to death in many forms, as from this one.

The German Detective Company which appears at Eyster's Opera House, next Monday evening, is composed of some of the best actors on the American stage, and is headed by that prince of vocalists Frank S. Davidson who assumes the role of "Hans," the German detective. The play is a bright, comedy highly illustrative of the different phases of human nature with the right triumph in the end, Mr. E. J. Southwick as Jube the colored servant keeps the audience in a continual state of laughter throughout the entire performance, and the songs that Mr. Davidson introduces are something wonderful, as he introduces that peculiar warbling which originated with the Swiss. Prices of admission are 25 and 35 cents, reserved seats 50 cents, for sale at the Western Maryland Hotel.

The Century Magazine for March opens with quite a life-like portrait of the late Edwin M. Stanton. Another old Louisiana story by George W. Cable entitled "Grande Pointe," commences the reading matter, which is in his characteristic style and is complete in this number. "Abraham Lincoln's History" is continued, illustrated by portraits of quite a number of public men prominent in political life years ago; Frank Stockton's "Hundredth Man" continues to fight his way towards the front and has nearly reached the point at which he can be clearly recognized by the average reader. The introductory paper to "The Cathedral Churches of England," by Mrs. van Rensselaer is admirably illustrated and proves very attractive reading, then we have "Camping-Out in California," by John R. G. Hassard; "Composite Photography," with some fine specimens of the art; an article on "The White Man of the New South," by Wilbur Fisk Tillett; "Faith Healing; Pro and Con," by R. Kelso Carter and J. M. Buckley; "The Coinage of the Greeks," by W. J. Stillman, and of course "Memoranda on the Civil War," with the usual discussions of "Topics of the Time," "Open Letters," and a fine collection of "Bric-a-Brac." The Century Co., N. Y.

A Genial Restorative.

Hoshtetter's Stomach Bitters are emphatically a genial restorative. The changes which this great botanical remedy produces in the disordered organization are always agreeable, though sure, progressive, never abrupt and violent. On this account it is admirably adapted to persons of delicate constitution and weak nerves, to whom the powerful mineral drugs are positively injurious. That it initiates those processes which result in the re-establishment of healthy vigor is conclusively shown in cases where it is taken to overcome that fruitful cause of debility, indigestion, coupled, still, usually, with biliousness. It constipates, it cleanses the bowels, it evacuates and abundant secretion is re-established promptly and invariably attend its systematic use. It is a safe and reliable remedy against malaria, and a first rate diuretic.

Houses to be Built.

Mr. Felix Foller has bought a lot on Annan's addition to Emmitsburg, adjoining that of Mr. Oscar Fraley and will build a house thereon this spring. Mr. Joseph Snouffer intends to raze the house where Mrs. Favorite lives and to replace it with a new one; and Mr. Ed. Favorite will build on Mr. Geo. Rider's lot opposite Peter Kimmel's. Mr. Rider will divide off the rest of the field from Favorite's house to the alley at Settemeyer's into building lots and place them on the market. Let the good work go forward! Next?

New Stamp Design.

The postoffice department is preparing to issue a stamped envelope with a new stamp design. The old design is considered antiquated, and the new one, besides being a better representation of Washington is more symmetrical in form, with better lettering and general appearance. A new design for the stamp of the one cent envelopes is being prepared. It will be an improved head of Franklin, with a change of lettering. Government officers say that the stamped envelopes are of better quality and lower in price than any other envelopes furnished to the public.

The Dearest Snow of the Winter.

A snow storm set in here about 5 o'clock, a. m., on last Saturday, and the descent continued very furiously until near noon, reaching a depth of 9 1/2 inches, the storm then changed to rain, and the conglomeration of snow and mud shut off locomotion very completely, dampness ruled the rest of the day with the wind from the South. Sunday was cold and the wind blew fiercely and Monday morning found everything solidly frozen. The mercury stood at 22° at 8 o'clock. Since then we have had considerable sleighing, with an upward tendency of the thermometer that has been restrained by the immense body of snow on the ground.

Look-out for Them.

The following article has been published in our columns before, but the same being applicable at this season as a reminder, we again make room for it: As the spring approaches sharpers and swindlers leave the haunts in the cities and large towns and go to the rural districts to fleece and swindle the inhabitants. They have all sorts of goods, machinery, seeds, etc., for sale, and are always possessed of smooth, oily tongues. We advise our readers against buying or dealing with strangers, unless they are well endorsed. In any event, it is always best to buy of home people, and you are sure not to be swindled. If articles don't turn out as represented, the person with whom you dealt is close at hand to rectify the matter.

The great agricultural interest of Maryland will be alive to the necessities and importance of a new Constitution. For years the farmers of this State have borne their heavy burden of taxation in silence. To-day they realize their strength and believe in the justice of having other interests bear their fair share of taxation. This, they assert, can be done without any injustice to any one. Whilst the farmers in other sections of the country have demanded recognition, and have made railroads respect their rights, they, at the same time, have contributed more to the wealth of railroads than any other class of people in the land. The rights of both the farmer and the railroads should be cared for, and neither oppressed.—Frederick Citizen.

A Mammoth Order.

The Antietam Paper Company, Hagerstown, have been awarded the contract by Hostetter, the patent medicine man of Pittsburg, Pa., to furnish ten thousand rems of printing paper. This order aggregates 600,000 pounds, or 330 tons of paper. This paper will be used exclusively for the Hostetter Almanac for free distribution, and is an illustration of the immense amount of money expended in this way by manufacturers of patent medicines. The order was secured over a large number of competitors. Antietam Company is to be congratulated upon so successfully meeting competition. The fulfillment of the order will create considerable labor and will result beneficially in putting into circulation a good, round sum among the mill employees.—Globe.
