RETROSPECT.

"O conquering poet, thou that hast
The whole world at thy feet,
What laurel garlands crown thy past!
Is not the present sweet?"

Poet—
"I'd fling away my crown of bay, Lose it without one throw,
To feel beside my own to-day
The tender heart I flung away
Long, long ago!"

"O statesman, thou that guidest things With godlike strength of will,
Thou art more regal than earth's kings;
They hear thee, and are still."

Statesman—
"I shape the world continually,
I lay its monarchs low,
And yet I'd give the world to see The dead eyes smile that smiled at me
Long, long ago!"

"O warrior, thou that carriest high Thy gray victorious head,
What peans echo to the sky
At thy war-horse's tread!"

Warrior—
"I heed them not. I long to hear The child's speech, soft and slow,
That used to sound upon my ear,
So sweet, so pure, so silver clear,
Many and many and many a year ago!"

REMINISCENCES OF A SUMMER TRIP.

[Written for the Emmitsburg Chronicle.]

After this S. left us for a season, being obliged to go to Cambridge to do some preliminary work and arrange for her autumn term at Newnam College. G. and I feeling that our time was short, endeavored to improve each shining hour. Though if we had improved only the shining hours we could have accomplished little, for most of our London days were gray.
Faint streaks of dawn appear soon after midnight, but the sun does not seem to rise till about nine o'clock, and then comes timidly, not as "a giant to run his course."

One day G. spent with some friends, and I went on an antiquarian tour with a gentleman who knows London well and can tell the history of everything. We saw many streets and buildings described by Dickens, and did special homage to the Old Curiosity Shop, and the house of Sairey Camp. We paused at Mrs. Jellyby's door, and I could easily imagine poor little Peepy squeezing his head through the railings of the area steps. (All London houses have basements and area steps.) We went into the little building that contains the old Roman bath, which is not now used, but there is a new marble bath under the same roof and supplied by the same spring. The comical old guide made me drink from the Essex spring (named by the famous Earl,) in the same building, and I found the water cold and delicious.

We visited several of the oldest churches in London. In St. Giles, Cripplegate, we saw Milton's tomb under the floor of one of the pews.
This church has an exquisite window, amber-tinted glass with angel heads. Part of the London Wall still stands in the church-yard. I greatly admired the Temple Church built by the Knights Templar seven hundred years ago. We entered through a beautiful doorway, the carved door rich with the tints of time. The tiles of the floor are traced with the device of the Templars —a Lamb and a Cross. The church consists of two parts ingeniously brought together, the Round and the Choir. Some of the Knights are buried in the Round, their effigies lying cross-legged on the tiled floor.
Oliver Goldsmith rests in the burial ground of this church.

We went into some of the famous law buildings of the Temple, seeing the magnificent Hall of the Middle Temple, with a lofty screen across one end richly carved, and oak beams across the roof. The Hall contains portraits and several long oak tables, and the floor shows greasy spots from the feasts which have been spread there. It is a royal room, and I don't wonder that kings and queens of old assembled there to see tragedies and comedies. We looked into the Temple Garden, a peaceful green enclosure, where the unhallored foot of a stranger dare not tread. We saw some of the Old Benches, for Law was taking its vacation; indeed, when we arrived at the Temple Church its doors were just about closing for the summer.

We also went to Bunhill Fields, a place with a strange history. The old name of the ground was bone hill, from the bones thrown there three centuries ago from the charnel-house of St. Paul's. When the Great Plague ravaged London its victims were buried in this ground.
Afterward it was enclosed by a wall and leased by the Dissenters, who used it for their burial ground till it was full of graves. It is now thrown open to the public, and poor people find recreation in strolling under the trees and sitting on the shady benches.

Among the famous dead who rest in Bunhill Fields are George Fox, Daniel De Foe, Dr. Isaac Watts, and Susannah Wesley, mother of John; he preached her funeral sermon standing on top of a neighboring monument. We visited the grave of John Wesley in the little ground behind the Wesleyan Chapel. We saw many amusing epi-taphs, one of which I must repeat, though I don't remember whether it is in Bunhill Fields or the Temple church yard. The tomb is lofty and substantial; on one side are the words:

Here lies dame Mary Page

Wife of Sir — Page, Baronet.

The other side contains the amazing statement:

In 67 months she was tapped 66 times, and lost 240 gallons of water, but always without complaining or dreading the operation.

I forget the dates and the first name of the Baronet, but the other particulars are fixed in my memory.

My friend took me into the public rooms of the Bank, but I saw nothing peculiar or interesting. I was amused at the pompous Beadles who guard the entrance, wearing gorgeous robes of crimson and gold, and pointed hats of black velvet.
The Bank is familiarly spoken of as the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street."

I must now mention some of the pilgrimages I made with G. One morning we took a bus to Westminster Bridge, walked slowly across, I attempting to quote Wordsworth, G. repressing me; we sauntered up the broad new stone quay called the Albert Embankment (there is a similar quay on the other side of the river lower down called the Victoria Embankment), past St. Thomas' Hospital and Lambeth Palace. Then we embarked on a little steamboat and went down the Thames. A trip on this watery highway is very interesting, but the boats are so uncomfortable and so crowded that few sight-seers would take the journey a second time. I said: "Oh, if John Wanamaker lived in London he'd have a fleet of observation-boats on the Thames." This part of the river is narrow, and can lay no claim to beauty. The boats stop at all the bridges, and passengers get on and off at these stations just as I mentioned when speaking of the boats on the Seine. We got off at London Bridge, and went up on this famous thoroughfare. Such throngs of dirty people, such confusion of vehicles, such odors, were beyond our endurance, and we did not linger. We crossed to the Southwark side, and went into the old church of St. Saviour. Here our guide was a fair English girl, and we said to her: "It must be dreadful to live in such an unhealthy neighborhood." She looked surprised, and said: "Why it's very 'ealthy; we've lived 'ere nineteen years." We were glad to return, by means of various omnibuses, to sweeter airs.

We went up to the South Kensington Museum, and spent an afternoon among the treasures of ancient and modern art. One morning we jogged along in omnibuses and trains to Richmond, then rode through the beautiful Park and saw the old fashioned haunts of the aristocracy. There was a regatta on the Thames that day, and Richmond was agog with gaiety. This part of the river, around Richmond and Trickeenham, is lovely. G. wondered why we did not see some of the immense trees we had always heard of as the boast of England.

I said, "I suppose they are not in this part of the country; we shall see them after while." But I will say here that we never saw them.
We saw many large beautiful trees, but none that would attract special attention on account of size. Still, the giants of the forest may be there, in places which we did not visit.

In deference to old Richmond customs G. ate two Maids of Honor at a pastry-cook's shop. They looked two rich for me, but now I am sorry that I restrained myself, and feel that I was recreant to duty.
During our meanderings through London G. and I occasionally fortified our drooping spirits with crossbuns and scones, two sorts of plain cake which, when made by a genuine pastry-cook, are very grateful to the hungry soul.

We went up by train to Windsor, seeing on the way the famous Al-dershot Camp and Eton. The Castle gates are not far from the station, but it is a long walk from the gates to the Castle. We stopped at the two Chapel's which stand side by side. St. George's Chapel is a fine old place, hung with royal banners, and full of royal tombs. The Prince Imperial is buried here.
The Albert Chapel is the new name given to the Wolsey Chapel restored and beautified in memory of the Prince Consort. You cannot imagine the splendors of this place.
The roof is enamel mosaic, the walls and floor are marble and alabaster of different colors. Marble panels contain exquisite etchings in gold of Scriptural and allegorical subjects, with appropriate texts.
There are no seats, but a dark green marble bench runs all around the wall. The door is guarded by two marble statues, the Angel of Life and the Angel of Death. The chancel is resplendent as a jewel-casket. In front of the chancel is the elaborate cenotaph of the Prince Consort, his effigy on top. Angels guard him, and his epitaph is: "I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course." Back of this, near the door of the Chapel, is the tomb of Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany. Though the Chapel is so magnificent it is not gaudy; every thing is chaste and pathetic. The Royal Mausoleum at Frogmore is also within the Castle walls, but not open to the public. Prince Albert is buried there.

Leaving the Chapels we went into the Castle, for the Queen had gone to Osborne. We went through all the State Apartments, but not in a satisfactory manner. We went a dozen other visitors, a guard in front to lead us and a guard behind to drive us. A narrow path through the halls and rooms is marked by two ropes, from which there is no turning aside. The floors are polished wood, the ceilings are frescoed, the walls covered with paintings and tapestry, the Grand Staircase is marble. The Armory is interesting; among its treasures is the "harmor of the Heart of Essex." At one side of the Armory is a fine bust of the Duke of Wellington, and opposite is a bust of the Duke of Marlborough; over each is a small flag.
The descendants of the famous Dukes have to send new flags on the anniversaries of the two battles, as a sort of rent for the vast estates given by Parliament. As we were at the Castle on the anniversary of Blenheim, the Marlborough flag had just been put in place.

MY LADY'S WATCH.

The great ocean steamer Anstralia came slowly steaming up New York harbor one evening in the winter of 1876. The tide had been out, and she had been unable to come into the harbor during the daylight, and the massive steamer was now carefully picking her way up the river to her dock. The steamer's cabin was filled with the usual assortment of passengers in winter, a theatrical troupe, several commercial men and others, with but few or no pleasure-seekers.
The most notable people in the ship's company were a couple who had come aboard the ship at the last minute and were booked as Lord Clancairn and wife. They had engaged a room in the intermediate for two servants, but at the last moment decided to travel alone.

Another passenger that would have attracted the attention of the observer was a firmly built young man with a handsome, intelligent face. The quiet, reserved air with which he moved about, and the quick way he turned his grey eyes upon one's face, with a penetrating gaze drew the attention and curiosity of most of his fellow travelers to him, but with none did he make friends excepting with a middle-aged commercial man returning from London. These gentlemen had come up out of the cabin and were standing behind one of the boats, keeping out of the cold wintry wind while watching the distart lights of the great city. In this position they stood hidden from view, while themselves commanding a full view of the deck. While they thus stood looking out over the water the door of the companion-way opened and a moment later Lord Clancairn and his wife stepped out on the deck and commenced walking rapidly. As they walked up and down they carried on an excited conversation in low tones.
To the men looking on from behind the boat it bore the appearance of a family quarrel. The couple disappeared down the deck and the young man and his companion were about to go below when there was a shriek and a loud splash, then Lord Clancairn's voice broke out:

"Help! For heaven's sake, help; my wife has killed herself!"

In a moment all was confusion on the deck, and the steamer was stopped and a boat lowered, but to no purpose, for no trace of the woman could be found, and with heavy hearts the sailors rowed back to the ship. When the men returned Lord Clancairn seemed utterly beside himself with grief and immediately retired to his cabin.
While the confusion lasted on the deck, the young man whom we last saw behind the boat had disappeared and now could not be found.
Let us see what had become of him.

When his companion rushed from him in the excitement, he seized one of the life buoys on the rail; it was tied. Drawing a knife quickly from his pocket he severed the lines and threw the buoy into the water, and a moment later, as the steamer's people were shouting and causing considerable confusion, he took a magnificent header into the icy water. A moment later he came to the surface and shaking the water from his face struck out for the buoy, which, having secured, he swam rapidly toward the wake of the steamer. In the whirling eddies of water his quick eye discovered the object of his search.
It was the body of the woman just coming again to the surface. A few more strokes and he had propelled the buoy to her and she convulsively clasped it.

"Keep quiet, now, or I'll shoot you," were the strange words this young man addressed to the half-drowned and frozen woman.

The woman turned upon him a look of fear, and gasped:

"What do you mean?"

"Mean? Nothing, only I am Si Slocum, the detective; and now do you know what I mean?"

The woman appeared about to fall from the buoy, but he seized her and swam as rapidly as possible away from the steamer. Meanwhile, as the reader knows, the boat had been put off, and failing to find them had returned to the Australia.

Slocum, keeping the woman aloft, pushed into the track of one of the numerous ferry boats, and attracting the captain's attention was taken aboard, and half an hour later was safely landed in New York, where he and his charge disappeared. A plausible story about a row-boat sinking, aided by a gold-piece effectually closed the captain's mouth.

As soon as the Australia touched her pier several police officers came aboard, and one of them, stepping up to the captain, informed him that he should be obliged to detain his passengers long enough to be looked over.

A couple of detectives then stepped forward, and as the passengers were assembled looked at each other, but with no success. A whispered consultation was then held with the captain, whose looks betoken

THE REFORM MOVEMENT.

The Reform meeting that was held last week at Frederick, has attracted considerable attention. If the movement is an earnest effort to secure purity in the regulation of party action, and such consideration as men of affairs give to the conduct of their personal business relations; honesty, earnestness, justice, then it will result beneficially, not only in the interest of one but of all parties.

It is not right therefore that one party should just look on, and note the efforts of the other to free itself of internal disturbing influences, and use the knowledge thus gained simply as a weapon of offence against the adverse party. The injunction "physician heal thyself," applies here with great force.

To err is human. There is a downward tendency in all the movements of life, requiring at all points, the most preserving watchfulness to arrest its course. The tendency to corruption, above all in matters of politics is an inherent one, that has to be contended against wheresoever the possession of power is reached. The principle primarily, not so much as the agents is the point to be met, for no form of government, and no mere party organization, has been known to remain long free of such influence.

A party by whatever designation known, that will of its own self-determining principle turn in and sweep its premises clean of the foulness that has accumulated within, must more and more consolidate its forces, and more and more command the respect of the public whose good opinions it would conciliate. The people are not slow to discern the motives of those who seek their attention. When selfishness, personal animosities, and ambition, govern those who come before them, they will not fail to recognize the eleven-foot and manifest their disapproval; but at the same time, will be quick to recognize and give the seal of their approbation to that which is honest, just and for the public good.

In this wise we look upon this reform movement as it is called, and we implicitly trust the people to give it such direction as may lead to good results. The mere assertion of corruption however is not proof of its existence; the mere substitution of one set of agents for another, if the evil complained of, essentially rests in the body of the party, does not by any means imply its removal, but rather its more dangerous development. The honor and good name of glorious old Maryland, is to a greater or less extent involved in the unfolding of the plans and motives of the agitation that promises to follow. No good party ends are likely to be subserved by any such arguments as may tend to reflect upon her good name, or to make our home affairs a matter of reproach in the eyes of others.

We must have honest government, pure elections with a free and unobstructed ballot, and the instrumentalities that lead thereto must be planned and made effective by agencies above suspicion.

Nothing short of this will satisfy the popular demands, and the honor of those who gain it, and the infamy of false accusers, on the one hand or the other, will duly appear.

THE ARBOR DAY PROJECT.

It is pleasing to note that the suggestions, here and there, for an Arbor Day in our State, meet the approval of the press on all sides. It will be necessary therefore to send in the petitions to the Legislature next winter and get the matter in due form of law. Let the day be a general holiday for young and old, and let the living monuments be planted everywhere in memory of the busy workers, who may thus adorn our streets, our high ways, and give rise to pleasant groves on now barren fields. A concerted movement among the people must ensure the good work.

If Baltimore City is "ruled by criminals" as has been so persistently asserted, then they are an exemplary sort of criminals. Witness the prompt conviction of the election judges for corrupt practices at the elections. This surely shows that justice will be meted out, whatever the political complexion to the contrary notwithstanding. Now let this view be prominent, and don't pervert it to mere party prejudice.

A BIG RISING CONTEMPLATED.

The Anarchist conspiracy grows more and more bold by reason of the freedom of our institutions. The Anarchists have fixed upon the year 1889 for a great socialistic revolution, and have boldly announced the programme according to which the country is to be captured by the party of blood and rapine. We gather the following from the New York Herald of April 17th:

It is now authoritatively announced by an organ of the socialists that the leader of the "reds" proposes there shall be an uprising in 1889. The mode of operations is thus outlined: "The circumstances which may permit decisive action will probably be these:—In 1889 the present panic approaches a climax. It will be widespread and alarming, accompanied by closed factories, starving workers, rioting and the use of military force. It may even be complicated by a bitter class feeling and result in a suppression of the rights of free speech, free meeting and free press. Until then, unless the whole people are aroused, it is the duty of the wise socialist to hold aloof from riots in special localities.

"The time is not yet ripe for success. We have counted our heads and we know it. To strike this year would be to uselessly slaughter our best people and put back the cause a hundred years. No; at present we must be wise as serpents, but harmless as doves. We must take advantage of it for agitation and education only. We must speak much and act not at all. When the working people are hungry their brains weaken. One year of panic means a trebling of our forces at the very least. And while with our present 100,000 socialists forcible action is impossible, with 400,000 (what the next panic will give us, if we manage wisely) we hold the game in our own hands. We have, perhaps, until 1889, time in which to perfect our plans. That year in Europe will surely bring grave results. In America, if figures lie not, another panic—greater, deeper and more widespread than the preceding—will be upon us. Then, and not till then, may we risk a cast of the iron die. Then may we strike the stroke to win."

The article states that they expect to have in the United States in 1889 at least 500,000 earnest socialists, divided somewhat as follows:—Chicago, 25,000; New York, 25,000; in the New England factory States, 100,000; in the central coal and iron region, 100,000; in Colorado and the Western States, 50,000; in the Atlantic and Southern cities altogether, 100,000, and scattered at various points in towns and villages, 50,000 more. Chicago is to be the headquarters of the uprising.

"The panic comes, the public are excited, outbreaks occur, the large centres revolt, the places where but few socialists exist are made points for rallying of the conservative element. In these small places it should be made the duty of the socialists there residing, secretly and with all the aid of science in destructive warfare, to raise sufficient turmoil to keep the conservatives busy at home. Meanwhile, in large centres, bold measures should be taken. Our people should lead and control the popular revolt, should seize the places of power, should lay hands upon the machinery of the government. Once installed in power the Revolutionary Committee should follow up this course of action. The decree should at once be promulgated and enforced."

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE LAW.

There seems to be a disposition on all sides to find fault with the above named Act of Congress. How far this attempt to forestall the enforcement of the law may be instigated by the great corporations for the correction of whose sins of omission and commission it aims, we have no means of judging, but it would seem that in some cases measures have been taken to provoke prejudice in the case. It is said that the best way to get rid of obnoxious laws is to enforce them. It may well be to make a fair trail in this business before final judgment is passed. Considering the high character and judicial experience in some cases of the commissioners, who have been appointed for those reasons to execute the law, it becomes us to say little in the premises, and to own up once for all, what we think others who are free in their comments might also gracefully do, that we know nothing about the business and can readily await future developments.

ANOTHER BRIDGE JUMPER.

Emanuel De Pretas a Brooklyn printer aged 19 years, jumped from the Brooklyn Bridge on Wednesday and escaped without apparent injury. He is small for his age, weighing not more than 120 pounds. After being fished out the water he was arrested.

BISHOP KEANE has received the papal brief approving the plan of the proposed Catholic University.

THE cyclone season in the West has begun with the usual accompaniment of ruined towns and homeless people and the sacrifice of an indefinite number of lives. In the presence of one of these circular storms humanity and all its achievements seem to be of as little account as so much chaff. It is all very well to moralize on the necessity of building substantial dwellings, but when one of these destructive tornadoes comes along with a gyrating motion that will suck the water out of the bottom of a well, the solid structure is no more than a house of cards in its path. If science should ever become equal to the task of warning the unfortunate inhabitants of the cyclone districts in advance of their appearance some lives would be saved, as people would have time to get into cellars or other excavations in time to be safe from the flying debris, which is the fatal accompaniment of these violent atmospheric disturbances. But nothing less than a dwelling excavated out of the solid rock would ever with stand the destructive force of a cyclone. There seems to be nothing for the people living in the districts subject to cyclones to do but to pray that the tornadoes may lodge them, as they cannot dodge the tornadoes.—Philadelphia Times.

IN HONOR OF CALHOUN.

The statue in honor of John Caldwell Calhoun was unveiled at Charleston, S. C., on Tuesday, amid vast crowds of people. An eloquent tribute to the great South Carolina Statesman was delivered by Secretary Lamar of the Interior Department.

THE MONUMENT.

The base of Carolina granite is thirty-six feet square, the height of the stone work thirty-three feet, and of the statue fifteen, making the whole forty-eight feet in height. The statue bronze, cast in the Michele foundry in Rome, represents Mr. Calhoun in the act of addressing the Senate; he has just risen from his seat, and the cloak which he wore has fallen upon the chair behind him. The allegorical figures which surround the base represent Truth, Justice, the Constitution and Honesty.

GRANT'S BIRTHDAY.

Wednesday, the 65th anniversary of the birthday of the late Gen. U. S. Grant, was appropriately celebrated in Frederick city at night by a special meeting of Reynolds' Post, No. 2, G. A. R., held in Armory Hall. The addresses of the evening were delivered by Dr. William H. Purnell, principal of the Frederick Female Seminary, and ex-United States Marshall E. Y. Goldsborough. The Frederick Riflemen also held a meeting in the room below Armory Hall.—News.

MAJOR JAMES RANDOLPH, a well known man of letters and a member of the American editorial staff, died after an illness of four months, at his residence in Baltimore on Thursday, of paralysis of the heart, in the 50th year of his age.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

EX-GOVERNOR PATTERSON has accepted the presidency of the new Chestnut street National Bank of Philadelphia.

WHAT you need is a medicine which is pure, efficient, reliable. Such is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It possesses peculiar curative powers.

ENGLAND goes ahead of America in the number of sects. Whittaker's Almanac for last year gives two hundred and twenty in England and Wales alone, besides others in Scotland.

A NEW vault is to be constructed in the Treasury building at Washington to accommodate the accumulation of standard dollars. It will have a storage capacity of 100,000,000 of those coins.

A. G. SPALDING, President of the Chicago Base-ball Club, is said to be worth over $250,000. He has made his money from his sporting goods business. He has a big factory in Michigan, which turns out ball-bats by the million.

DR. GUILYASSE of the French navy, in a paper on typhoid fever, says: "Coffee has given an unhopd-for satisfaction; after having dispensed it, we find to our great surprise that its action is as prompt as it is decisive. No sooner have our patients taken a few tablespoonfuls of it than their features become relaxed and they come to their senses. The next day the improvement is such that we are tempted to look upon coffee as a specific against typhoid fever."

A TWO-MONTHS-OLD child of Ambrose Singleton, storekeeper at Mechanics' Grove, Lancaster county, Pa., was attacked by a rat and perhaps fatally injured. The animal forced its way into the child's mouth, stifling its cries, and ate away the flesh from the roof of the mouth and the lower jaw. The child is in a critical condition, but the physicians express hopes of its final recovery.

OF the amount of silver in existence $4,000,000,000 is estimated to be in coin and bullion, $1,200,000,000 in watches, and the remainder in plate, jewelry and ornaments. Of the amount in existence, $4,745,000,000 is estimated to have been obtained from North America, $736,000,000 from South America, $63,000,000 from Europe, $47,000,000 Africa and $31,000,000 from Asia, including Australia, New Zealand and Oceania. The amount of precious metals in existence is estimated to be $13,947,000,000.

LATER reports from sections of Missouri, Kansas and Arkansas swept by the terrible cyclone Friday show the loss of life and property to have been greater than at first reported. In Bates and Vernon counties, Missouri, the destruction was very great. West and South of Rich Hill the storm raged with terrible violence, and its track is strewn for miles with all kinds of debris, including crushed and splintered dwellings and outhouses, dead animals and poultry, bed-clothing, wearing apparel and all kinds of farm property. The estimated loss to property is upwards of $100,000. Six people were killed in the neighborhood of the towns of Hume and Sprague, and a number seriously, and some fatally injured. Humble Station, on the Pacific road, was destroyed, only one house being left standing.

A SPECIAL from Monticello, Ill., says: "A singular and fatal accident, in which two men lost their lives, occurred near Mansfield, in this county, on Tuesday afternoon. J. H. Burns, a wealthy and highly respected farmer, was engaged in painting the shingles of his new barn, which three men were nailing down. All four were standing on a bracket scaffold, twenty feet from the ground. A calf, running at large, with a rope around its neck, managed to wrap the rope several times around one of the posts used to support the scaffolding at an angle of fifty degrees. One of the workmen noticed the fact, and was about to descend the ladder and liberate the calf, when the animal made a sudden spring, jerked the support from under one end of the scaffolding, precipitating all four of the men to the ground. Mr. Burns fell with the back of his head on a foundation stone, crushing his skull and died instantly. Robert Newton was so badly injured that there is no hope of his recovery. The other men were not seriously hurt.

Home Evidence

No other preparation has won success at home equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. In Lowell, Mass., where it is made, it is now, as it has been for years, the leading medicine for purifying the blood, and toning and strengthening the system. This "good name at home" is a "tower of strength abroad."

People of Lowell have said in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mr. Albert Estes, living at 28 East Pine Street, Lowell, for 15 years employed as boss carpenter by J. W. Bennett, president of the Erie Telephone Company, had a large running sore come on his leg, which troubled him a year, when he began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The sore soon grew less in size, and in a short time disappeared.

JOSEPH DUMPHY, 214 Central Street, Lowell, had swellings and lumps on his face and neck, which Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured.

Mrs. C. W. Marriott, wife of the First Assistant Fire Engineer of Lowell, says that for 10 years she was troubled with stomach disorder and sick headache, which nothing relieved. The attacks came on every fortnight, when she was obliged to take her bed, and was unable to endure any noise. She took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after a time the attacks ceased entirely.

Many more might be given had we room. On the recommendation of people of Lowell, who know us, we ask you to try PROMISING men generally mean it all. But the courage of their convictions alas! oozes out at the critical time of action.

Mrs. DANIEL BIKLE, aged thirty-five years, died suddenly at Hagerstown on Monday. The cause of her death was paralysis.

AFTER to-day the oyster will rest securely in its bed till September. Thus by a figure of speech it has a long summer vacation.

We had frequent light rains here this week. On Thursday afternoon the down-pour was continuous, and vegetation has been greatly advanced.

The ice cream men are growing impatient over their hopes deferred, and the coal-dealers laugh at them, and they reply: "Every dog has his day."

The gardens are going straight forward, no nipping frosts, no battering rains, all lovely without opposition. Peas and onions are very promising.

The graduating class of the Hagerstown Female Seminary, this year numbers 22, and is the largest class ever graduated in any one year by that institution.

THERE is very little gain in setting out tender plants before the ground has become warm, unless you prefer to worry with frequently covering and uncovering them.

REV. GEORGE W. KENNEDY whose first charge, about 1830, was in the Presbyterian churches at New Windsor and Taneytown, died in Delaware, 4th inst., in his 80th year.

PRESIDENT HOOD, and a committee of the W. M. R. L., last week viewed property in Westminster, and contemplate erecting a new and handsome passenger depot in that place.

It is economy in a town to elect only good officials. Incompetence may entail unlooked for outlays, and the people have only themselves to blame for their indifference or neglect.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Feb. 19, 1887.—I am personally acquainted with the members of the "Black Pill Co.," and know that they are responsible and trustworthy persons. Their pills have been sold in Adams county, Pa., for several years and are universally recommended.

Fruit on the Mountains.

A Smithsburg correspondent of the Williamsport Transcript asserts that about two hundred thousand peach trees are now being planted between Boonsboro, Md., and Quincy, Pa.

The Cumberland Times says it is understood that a meeting will be held in this city in a few days, and that steps will be taken to organize a canal league throughout the State, similar to that in New York State.

A bit of paper turned into a funnel shaped form when placed around a cabbage plant and inserted with the plant into the ground, will cause the cutworms to avoid the plants. They can't penetrate the paper.

In buying trees it will be found most prudent to get such as are native to the soil. Acclimation is as important here as in persons. Plants grown in a distant section do not thrive as a rule, as well as those grown at home.

The storm of Sunday morning that so frightened many, suddenly aroused from sleep, appears to have had its course high in the upper currents, for besides some fences overturned there have been no damages reported.

Ready to Flow.

Under the efficient direction of Dr. Bond the fountain on the square has been thoroughly washed and put into summer trim, ready for the turning on of the water. The fishes will soon begin their gambols.

The great longing for spring weather resolves itself into the desire of persons to cast off their colds, rheumatisms and winter clothing. The love of change governs all classes and conditions. Even if it does involve storms, thunderings and lightnings dire.

We have the pleasure of welcoming to our office the Cumberland Daily Times. Bright and newsy and redolent of the pure mountain air in which it vegetates, to the upbuilding of the local interests, and with an enlightened view of those of the state at large.

The Masonic Celebration.

The Centennial Celebration of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Maryland, to take place in Baltimore May 11th, 12th and 13th, will be an imposing affair. Preparations have been in progress for several months and are now about completed.

Church Improvements.

St. Joseph's Catholic Church has been furnished with new pews. They are of ash and popular finished in oil, and are a great improvement, both in comfort and appearance, on the old ones.

The Lutheran Church will be repainted soon, a much needed improvement.

Where is the Report?

We have not seen any report of the Town Treasurer this year, surely it has not been placed in out of the way localities. All other towns use their local papers for such purposes. The people should know how their affairs stand. The report was due the third Monday in April.

The Democratic State Central Committee of Maryland will meet in Baltimore on May 12th. The body will name the date for the meeting of the State Convention, which will nominate a candidate for Governor, Comptroller and Attorney General, and take action with regard to the question of a convention to revise the State Constitution.

I RECOMMEND Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy for Gravel. It cures me.—S. J. McCormick, U. S. Dep. Mineral Surveyor, Bliss Station, Idaho. My head and face was a mass of putrefaction. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy purified my blood and I am now well.—J. A. Parker, Sunderlandville, Pa. Price $1. Send 2-cent stamp to Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. A Salvation Army Building.

The Salvation Army of Frederick has purchased a lot of ground on the southwest corner of Bentz and Fourth streets, and will erect a handsome building thereon, in which to hold their religious exercises in the future. Ground was broken on Wednesday night with impressive ceremonies and in the presence of a large congregation of people.—Sun.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., April 25, 1887. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

G. T. BRAWNER, Miss Anna Bowling, Miss Florence Clinging, Miss R. E. Dooley, Mrs. Effie Shaw, Miss Mary Withrow.

ASTONISHING SUCCESS.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 80,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada.

Black Pills remove costiveness.

Soda Fountain.

There should be a soda fountain in this place. There are several locations admirably adapted to the purpose. All that's wanting is an active operator, not afraid of the work nor of being blown up occasionally; but the risk is not greater than in many other occupations. e. g.—Handling gunpowder, dynamite and such like lively substances.

THE Frederick News of Saturday says: "It is understood that the regular democrats will hold a meeting here within the next two weeks as an off-set of the reform demonstration of Thursday night, and that a number of prominent speakers will be invited to deliver addresses. The reform meetings, it is said, will be continued throughout the county."

The Town Election.

Every good citizen should be sure and vote at the Town Election on Monday. As the polls are only open from 9 o'clock a. m., till 2 p. m., the time is short, and should be improved by voting early. The offices being without compensation, it is but right the vote should be such as may indicate the appreciation of the voters, for those who are called to fill them.

Lost.—"I don't know where, I can't tell when, I don't see how—something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz.: a good appetite."

FOOD.—"Health and strength, pure blood, an appetite like that of a wolf, regular digestion, all by taking that popular and peculiar medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. I want everybody to try it this season." It is sold by all druggists. One hundred doses one dollar.

A MYSTERIOUS murder occurred near Hagerstown on Saturday night. Mrs. Catharine Cump and an invalid son, 25 years of age, were both shot. The former was shot in the body, the latter in the brain. The son will die and the mother is in a critical condition. Some suspicions are cast on her other son Emanuel, but people do not believe him guilty as his reputation is good, and there was no motive or provocation for the crime.

List of Patents.

The following patents were granted to citizens of Maryland, bearing date Apr. 19, '87 reported expressly for this paper by Louis Bagger & Co., Mechanical Experts and Solicitors of Patents, Washington, D. C. Advice Free.

W. S. G. Baker, Baltimore, dust-guard for car axle boxes.

E. C. Lindemann, Baltimore, roofing tile.

T. W. Russell, Union Bridge, hen's nest.

GEO. S. SPRINGER has the sale of the Cornelius Stump Pullers, and District rights, for either the sale or use of them, and will sell a District and a Puller for $300, or a Puller alone for $250. Every farmer should study his own benefit, and save his implements and clear his land. There is more money to be made with a Stump Puller in this District than can be made with a grain separator. Remember the stump crop has never failed as yet.

THEY have been having a high time at Gettysburg of late, entertaining the Legislature with an eye to some $81,000 to be devoted to monumental use on the battlefield, and visitors of distinction from various States interested in like projects. It took one of the greatest battles of history to wake up that staid and self-sufficient old town, and with all the parade and extraordinary lavishments of honor upon the place since then—to thrust greatness upon it. The people are yet slow to catch to the invitations of "manifest destiny."

Our Wealthy Men.

Much has been said in newspapers of men who have made large fortunes in comparatively a few years in various business industries. Many of these articles are written by correspondents of prominent newspapers, and copied into others of lesser note. Correspondents generally are seldom men of business qualifications and wrongfully picture these men and their business as a thing of accident: this is not the case with those we have met. We find that where men have made large fortunes by their own business talent and industry they chose with sagacity and forethought such businesses as would lead to success when handled with business judgment. No man has been brought before the public as an example of success, both in wealth and magnitude of his business (outside of stock and railroad men) more prominently than Dr. G. M. Green of Woodbury, N. J. He is at the head of many large business industries, and yet comparatively a young man. When the fact that August Flower, for dyspepsia and liver complaint and Boschee's German Syrup, for coughs and lung troubles, has grown to a wonderful sale in all parts of the world, it proves that it was not an accident or spontaneous strike at wealth. His medicines are recognized as valuable and established remedies and the business has grown gradually and permanently during the last eighteen years on account not alone of Dr. Green's abilities as a business man or his "good luck," but on the actual merits of the two preparations.—Copied from the N. Y. Weekly Sun, of Dec. 22, 1886.

A SUGGESTION to the Traveling Purplé. Tourists, emigrants and mariners find that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicinal safeguard against unwholesome influences, upon which they can implicitly rely, since it prevents the effects of vitiated atmosphere, unaccustomed or unwholesome diet, bad water, or other conditions unfavorable to health. On long voyages, or journeys in latitudes adjacent to the equator, it is especially useful as a preventive of the febrile complaints and disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, which are apt to attack natives of the temperate zone sojourning or traveling in such regions, and it is an excellent protection against the influence of extreme cold, sudden changes of temperature, exposure to damp or extreme heat, and other causes of a malarial type, but eradicates them, a fact which has been attested for years past in North and South America, Mexico, the West Indies, Australia, and other countries.

Mason & Hamlin Pianos.

Mason & Hamlin bid fair to become as famous for their pianos as they have long been for their world-renowned organs. The distinguishing feature about the Mason & Hamlin Piano is an important improvement in the method of holding the strings. They are secured by metallic fastenings, instead of by the friction of pins set in wood, as has been the case, and the advantages resulting are highly important. Wonderful beauty and musical quality of tone; far less liability of getting out of tune; greater reliability in trying climates; and greater solidity of construction and durability are secured.

PERSONALS.

ANAPOLIS, April 27.—A certificate of incorporation of the Baltimore and Western Railway Company has been filed for record at the Executive Chamber. The corporation is formed for the purpose of constructing and operating a railroad in Maryland, beginning at Cumberland, Allegany county, and running thence in an easterly direction to a point at or near Hancock, Washington county, and thence in an easterly direction to Hagerstown, Washington county. The capital stock is $2,000,000, divided into 40,000 shares, par value $50 each. The incorporators' names are Henry G. Davis, Stephen B. Elkins and Thomas B. Davis, of Mineral county, W. Va., and Edwin W. S. Moore, Wm. J. J. Read, Wm. H. Gorman and Wm. Pinkney Whyte, of Maryland.—American.

Injured by the Explosion of a Shell.

An explosion of a bombshell occurred in the house of a colored family living on Bolivar Heights, a mile and a-half from Harper's Ferry, Sunday. The explosion was caused by two negro men forcing an iron rod into the shell to get the powder. There were several persons looking at the operation when the explosion took place. Agnes Willis, 14 years old, had her right leg blown off below the knee, and is not expected to live. Her brother George, 6 years old, had his left leg broken. Frank Willis, father of the children, was badly burned about the face. Jesse Jones had his hand broken; Bill Turner a foot blown off; Edward Poles, leg and jawbone broken, and received other wounds about the head, and is in a dangerous condition. The house was slightly injured by pieces of shell.—Sun.

A GOOD story at the expense of one of Franklin county's horse dealers has leaked out within the past few days, says the Chambersburg Spirit. It occurred a year or a little more ago. The horsedealer went to Philadelphia with some horses on one occasion and received a thousand dollars in payment for them. Accordingly he went to the office of the Adams Express Company and inquired the rate of expressage upon the money. The figure was too high for him and he left the office with his hands but all the money it had contained was gone. Further telling is unnecessary. He consulted an attorney but his money to this day has not been recovered.

THE Bankers in Washington County. An interesting letter from Hagerstown on the Dunkers in Western Maryland appeared in the Baltimore American of Tuesday. After mentioning the origin of the name from the German, tunken, "to dip," and giving a brief account of the founding, doctrines and ceremonies of this sect, the writer says: "In their early history, in this country, nearly all the men were long beards, some over half a yard long; but this was not a requisite to membership. There are but few now who wear beards at all. Their style of dress is odd, not unlike that of the Quakers, whom they follow in their nonconformity to the world in this respect. There are members even at the present day who discard buttons entirely too gay, and fasten their coats with hooks and eyes. They are neither allowed to take an oath nor to engage in war. During the war of the Rebellion a number of young Dunkers enlisted in the Union army. Of these some were killed, the survivors returned, and were obliged to answer for it to the church. The Dunker is opposed to slavery, and with a strong sentiment that way in the church, the case of these wayward sons was finally satisfactorily settled, none of them being punished.

"In 1733 a company of them emigrated from Pennsylvania and established themselves in Western Maryland, where their numerous churches and large numbers at the present day are proof abundant of their religious activity and zeal. There are in Washington county no less than fourteen churches, with a considerable membership. Those at Keedysville and Beaver Creek are the oldest in the county. The latest addition is the one on East Washington Street, in Hagerstown. The one at Sharpsburg has become famous because of the part it played in the battle of Antietam; for it was about this old building that the battle raged most fiercely. Here it was that the thrice-cursed of Hooker, Mansfield and Sumner were completely shattered while attempting to turn Jackson's flank; four generals and nearly all the commissioned officers were slain, and brigades were reduced to mere handfuls. The walls of the old church were shattered by shot and shell, but they have since been repaired, and show no marks of the deadly conflict in which they took so conspicuous a part.

"Many of the most prominent citizens in Washington county are descended from old Dunker families: the Newcomers, Millers, Welty's, Suirely's, Rohrer's, Middlekauffs, Funks and Withers were originally members of the Dunker Church. They are still a large and influential denomination, and it is a well-known fact that they have, in one district, the wealthiest congregation in the county."

THERE is no more pleasing object of beauty on a landscape than a thriving walnut tree, and they come so surely from the nuts that we recommend everybody to plant them wherever it may be convenient. Besides the wholesomeness of the fruit, the timber grows more valuable as the years advance. It is even now being largely sought for transportation to England. Other nut-bearing trees should also receive attention. The boy who raises the trees may live to enjoy the results of his little trouble in the nutting times to come.

A Golden Jubilee at Frederick.

The fiftieth or golden jubilee of St. John's Catholic Church at Frederick was celebrated on Sunday with appropriate and highly interesting ceremonies. A large congregation was in attendance. The interior of the church was handsomely decorated with arches and garlands of evergreen, and potted plants filled the windows. The altars, brilliantly illuminated with about five hundred candles and jets and adorned with many vases of beautiful flowers, presented a fine spectacle. The music was a special feature. The mass by Haydn was rendered by the regular choir, and some fine selections were sung by a special choir of about sixty schoolboys. High mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Buckley, with Rev. Father Brand and Mr. Clifford as deacon and sub-deacon. Rev. Father Pardow, of New York, preached an interesting sermon. Among the visiting clergy present were Very Rev. R. Fulton, S. J., provincial of the province, Rev. R. W. Brady, S. J., and Rev. Fathers Brand and Buckley. The jubilee services were continued at night. St. John's Church was built by the late well-known Father John McElroy, and it enjoys the distinction which is referred to by its officers and members with pride, of being the first Catholic church consecrated in this country, inasmuch as it was the first church to be entirely free from debt at the time, which is a necessary requirement before consecration.—Sun.

Does Poultry Pay?

This subject has been aired so often that it seems almost superfluous to say anything on the subject, but I feel that my experience may be a value in guiding others to more extensive and therefore more profitable experiences than my own. I commenced with a small capital two years ago, my stock consisting of five partridge cochin and one cockrel, the cockrel weighing eleven pounds and the hens seven pounds each, and at that time were selling for thirty-five cents each at this place. With this report, I commenced with January, 1886, during which month I received sixty-five eggs; in February twenty-eight eggs, equivalent to three dollars; in March they began to set, and in April had eighty chicks, which I gave to three of the hens to rear, keeping the mothers in coops, and gave the chicks the run of the whole yard. I was very fortunate, only losing two of them, and these by accidentally treading upon them.

In July the hens commenced hatching again, and by the middle of August they had a second brood of seventy-five chicks. The chicks were worth twenty-five cents each at five months old. Late in the fall I set two hens, from which setting I raised twenty-three chicks, principally from scraps from the table, which would have otherwise been wasted.

This last litter came in as good broilers in February, and were worth $1.00 a pair, equal to $11.50. Summing up we have first brood of seventy-eight chicks $19.50; second brood of seventy-five chicks $18.75; third brood of twenty-three chicks, $11.50. The amount paid for food, $10.00, deducted, leaves net profit, $39.25. Total, $49.25. I will admit I was exceptionally fortunate with my venture, but there is no reason why others should not be equally so, and I for one am fully convinced that raising poultry "does pay."

Use of Lime.

Professor Caldwell said in the New York Tribune:

"Hence the first and one of the most important rules to be observed in the use of lime is that it should be applied in those large doses only to soils comparatively rich in humus or strong clay soils rich in finely divided silicate. It has been proved by experiment that lime will convert plant food from the insoluble to the soluble forms in either case. We find the proverb current in France and Germany, as well as in our own language, that 'Lime without manure makes the father rich but the children poor,' which means, plainly enough that not only should we start with good soil in using lime, but should maintain its good condition by the liberal use of manure, and we find that whenever in this country or elsewhere lime is used intelligently, manure is used freely."

EARLY POTATOES should now be exposed to light where there will be no danger from a sudden freeze; they will start stronger shoots than if kept in the cellar until planting time; some few for real early could be started in sand in a moderately warm place, and by the time the ground is ready they will have fine roots and tops, and can be set out without the least injury. For the main crop do not hesitate to plant any time the land can be made ready for them; an early potato cannot be planted to early, if you keep in mind the rule—the earlier planted the deeper planted.

CHARLES E. SANFORD.
Cozy Dell Gardens, Fred'k Co., Md.

THERE should be in each garden a portion set apart for a full supply of the best varieties of all sorts of small fruits, unless these have a place in the orchard or some other part of the farm. To the small fruits your attention is drawn this month, such as currants, &c., they ought to be trimmed, thinned, shortened and arranged for the year, by tying up, or trained to trellises, &c., worked about, manured and mulched with straw or leaves. The strawberry beds cleaned off and the plants regulated; the beds looked up, manured with well rotted manure. This need not be done before the last of the month.

SMALL chickens should never be kept or fed with bones. They are apt to be injured. Have two or three yards, and separate them according to size and strength.

MIKE—"Faith, an' Oi know that as well as yerself. But it is both inds or the car Oi want ter stop."

—The Judge.

"WHAT pretty children you have," said the new minister to the proud mother of the little ones. "Ah, my little dear," said he, as he took a girl of five on his lap. "are you the oldest of the family?"

"No, ma'am responded the little miss with the usual accuracy of childhood, "my pa's older'n me."

"Ah! what's this?" exclaimed the intelligent compositor, "Sermons in stones, books in the running brooks?" That can't be right. I have it! He means 'Sermons in books, stones in the running brooks.' That's sense."

AND that is how the writer found it. And yet he was not happy.—Boston Transcript.

A HARVARD professor has made the calculation that if men were really as big as they sometimes feel there would be room in the United States for only two professors, three lawyers, two doctors, and a reporter on a Philadelphia paper. The rest of us would be crowded into the sea and have to swim for it.—Detroit Press.

ONE day in the reading class they came across the word "magnet." The teacher asked how many knew what a magnet was. All the class were motionless for a moment, and then one little girl put up her hand. "I don't know," said the little girl, "as I know what it is, but I have seen 'em at home in mother's cheese."—American Magazine.

THE depths of wickedness to which even a Quaker child can sink makes one readily believe in the doctrine of total depravity. Two little Quakers quarrelled, and after saying words at each other, one of them in a tremendous burst of rage, with clenched fists and blazing eyes, shouted to the other: "You wicked little girl, look at him in the eye!" The other boy looked at him in the eye, and then he said: "I don't know what it is, but I have seen 'em at home in mother's cheese."—New York Sun.

MARVELOUS CHANGES.

What the Future Will be to those who Refuse to Believe.

Is this country unconsciously undergoing a wonderful change, is the change to take place before we are aware of the fact, and when it has taken place will we wonder why we did not see it before it was too late?

Those that see the changes early avail themselves early, and thereby receive benefit.

The shrewd iron man sees the iron interest transferred from Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania to Birmingham, Alabama, and in his far-sightedness sees the furnaces in Pennsylvania torn down and deserted for this new and prolific field. It is claimed by the iron men of Alabama that the low price at which iron can be produced there will revolutionize the iron interests of the world.

We have seen the grain-growing centers of this country shifted to the West. We have seen the pork-packing industry flit from Cincinnati to Chicago, and from thence to Kansas City, and Omaha. Southern cotton mills undersell New England and American markets, and challenge the world.

We have seen and are seeing all this take place before our eyes, and know that other changes are taking place equally as prominent, and we wonder as we behold them. Ten years ago the insurance companies only required an analysis of the fluids when they were taking insurance for very large amounts. To-day no first-class company will insure any amount unless they have a rigid analysis of the fluids passed, and if any traces of certain disorders are apparent, the application is rejected. In their reports they show that the death of sixty of every 100 people in this country, is due either directly or indirectly to such disorders. The Brompton Hospital for Consumptives, London, England, reports that sixty of every 100 victims of consumption also have serious disorders of the kidneys.

Among scientists for the treatment of this dread malady the question is being discussed: "Is not this disorder the real cause of consumption?"

Ten years ago the microscope was something seldom found in a physician's office; now every physician of standing has one, and seldom visits his patients without calling for a sample of fluids for examination.

Why is all this? Is it possible that we of the present generation are to die of diseases caused by kidney disorders, or shall we master the cause by Warner's safe cure, the only recognized specific, and thus remove the effects? All dealers keep it. It is within the reach of all. It is established beyond a doubt that a very large percentage of deaths in this country are traceable to diseased kidneys. For years the proprietors of Warner's safe cure have been insisting that there is no sound health when the kidneys are diseased, and they enthusiastically press their specific for this terrible disorder upon public attention. We are continually hearing its praises sounded. This means wonders!

Cannot the proprietors of this great remedy, who have been warning us of the danger, tell us how to avoid a disease that at first is so unimportant, and is so fatal in its termination? Are we to hope against hope, and wait without our reward?

The most significant of all changes, however, that we of to-day can note in this radical change of view to which the public has been educated: It was formerly thought that the kidneys were of very small importance; to-day, we believe, it is generally admitted that there can be no such thing as sound health in any organ if they are in the least degree deranged.
