PRESS ON.

BY BAYARD TAYLOR.

Press on! Surmount the rocky steep,
Climb boldly o'er the torrent's arch:
He falls alone who feebly creeps,
He wins who dares the hero's march.
Be thou a hero! Let thy might
Trump on eternal snows its way,
And through the ebon walls of night,
Hew down a passage unto day.

Press on! If once or twice thy feet
Slip back and stumble, harder try;
From him who never dreads to meet
Danger and death, they're sure to fly.
To coward ranks the bullet speeds,
While on their breast's a never-quail
Gleams, guardian of chivalric deeds,
Bright courage, like a coat of mail.

Press on! If fortune play thee false
To-day, to-morrow she'll be true;
Whom now she sinks, she now exalts—
Taking old gifts and granting new.
The wisdom of the present hour
Makes up for follies past and gone;
To weakness strength succeeds, and
From frailty spring—Press on! Press on!

Therefore, press on! and reach the goal,
And gain the prize, and wear the crown!
Faint not for the steadfast soul
Comes wealth and honor and renown.
To thine own self be true, and keep
Thy mind from sloth, thy heart from soil;
Press on! and thou shalt surely reap
A heavenly harvest for thy toil.

REMINISCENCES OF A

SUMMER TRIP.

[Written for the Emmitsburg Chronicle.]

I must say a few words about the services in English Churches. The Cathedrals and large Churches have daily prayers morning and afternoon, but the week-day congregations are generally very small. The people performing the services are more in number than the audience. A black-robed verger bearing a cross leads the way to the choir of the Cathedral, and is followed by two or three clergymen; behind them come the surpliced chorists boys and young men. These youths belong to some school connected with the Cathedral, and so are available for church services. (I suppose the little country churches have no music except on Sunday.) The boys who possess good voices receive a thorough musical education in return for their vocal services at church.

The clergymen and chorists occupy certain stalls in the choir, and the remaining stalls are left for the congregation. The singing is beautiful, but it never seemed to me like anything more than a concert. Singing seems appropriate for hymns and anthems, but not for creeds and petitions. Many of the people make no further effort to participate in the services than to stand or kneel at the proper times. The parts undertaken by the clergymen are either intoned or mumbled, with very little regard to sound or sense. The entire service is rushed through at breathless speed and in a business-like manner. I know there are some Episcopal Churches in America where worship is conducted in this fashion, but it is not the universal custom. In our country there may still be found Episcopal Churches where the service is conducted for the benefit of the congregation, and clergymen who think good reading suited to the word of God.

After our visit to the Cathedral of Durham we began our journey to Edinburgh. The first part of the trip was through a country made smoky by mines, mills, and factories, but as we approached Berwick-upon-Tweed we caught sight of the sea, after which the ride was beautiful. After travelling five hours, the longest journey we had taken since our arrival in England, we saw the Castle of Edinburgh on Castle Rock.

On account of the Exhibition the City was crowded with visitors, and we had some trials and tribulations before we found a resting place at the Cockburn (Coburn) Hotel, near the Princes Street Gardens. Edinburgh is the loveliest city that could be built. You can imagine other places from pictures and descriptions, but no one can imagine Edinburgh. Built on hills, Castle Rock toward the west, Arthur's Seat toward the east, the quaint old buildings, the handsome new ones, the terrace-streets, all combine to form an enchanting picture. In some parts of the city long flights of steps lead from one street to another, and must be used unless the pedestrian prefers to go half a mile out of his way.

The Scotch people did not receive us cordially; they seemed glum, chary of their words, in some cases rough and disobliging. The only pleasant individuals we met were two cabmen, one in Edinburgh, the other at Melrose. The weather was horrible. The first day it rained in torrents. The second day it was fair in the afternoon, and we seized the opportunity to take a ride in order to get a general view of the city. Our driver was a courteous, well-informed young man, named John Pringle. He showed us various objects of interest in our neighborhood, and the beauties of Princes Street. He seemed so proud of "Robbie Burns, our Scotch boy." He showed us the National Monument to which the people of Glasgow wanted to contribute, but the people of Edinburgh refused the assistance, and afterward had to leave the Monument unfinished. In its incomplete state it is called by the people of Glasgow, "Edinburgh's pride and folly."

On we went, out to the Calton Hill, Holyrood Palace, a venerable stronghold with the ruins of Holyrood Abbey beside it, into the Queen's Park, which includes St. Leonard's Hill, Salisbury Crags, and the giant hill called Arthur's Seat. This wild and varied bit of country, though called Queen's Park, is not enclosed or made private in any manner. Old and young wander there for health and recreation.

John Pringle told us that the lads and lasses go out to Salisbury Crags on May Day at sunrise and wash their faces in the dew. He showed us the places mentioned in the "Heart of Midlothian," and many other places of historic interest, for Arthur's Seat commands far-reaching views. We came back through the street called the Canonage, saw in the pavement a blue stone called the Debtor's Strand, which in olden times, if a debtor could cross he was safe from the law and could claim sanctuary from Holyrood Abbey. We passed the Tolbooth, but the old part of the prison referred to by Scott, has disappeared, and is represented only by a heart cut somewhere on the site of the old building. We did not see this device, so I cannot speak of it definitely. We passed the tiny house of John Knox, rode down the famous High Street, and went to get a near view of the Castle, and the street below which serves as a market-place, and retains its old name, Grassmarket.

The Princes Street Gardens occupy a valley and terraces in the centre of the city, and are adorned with statues and monuments of Scotland's famous sons. Here is the beautiful Gothic cross erected in memory of Sir Walter.

The next day it rained again, but we paddled around and looked at the shops. Edinburgh is a grand place for books. The jewellers make a tempting display

THE excessive dampness of our evenings for some time past, no matter how warm the day may have been, has certainly been unfavorable as a healthful condition. The temptation has been to enjoy the evenings out doors, and there-in have lurked dangers to those of weak lungs or tending to throat ailments.

THE American Agriculturist for June is exceedingly interesting in every department, particularly in its accounts of the great Dairy and Cattle Show, held in New York at the beginning of this month. During that week it issued a daily edition on the grounds, each number containing eighteen pages, describing the scenes and incidents from day to day, and presenting illustrations of the various cattle and farm implements as premiums were awarded them. Every number contained from thirty to forty engravings of cattle, &c., etc. It was generally regarded as a novelty in agricultural journalism.

NOTWITHSTANDING the heavy rains of Tuesday evening, when our streets were flooded; in the storm of Wednesday noon, the dust flew before the high wind as in a summer gale. "The wind bloweth where it listeth."

THE talk about impure water, the bacteria and other horrid inhabitants of it grows wearisome. They say the drinking water should be boiled, and then of course you must cool it with ice; but the ice also is sometimes alive, next that will likewise have to be boiled. Oh! for the good old days of the fathers, who never endured the persecutions, that too much learning imposes upon us their worthy (?) descendants!

Second Accident.

Wednesday evening a horse belonging to Mr. Carl Snieringer, residing near Mt. Rock, ran away and whilst passing through the town, a little son of Mr. Geo. Clunk, who was playing in the road, was struck down by the vehicle and ran over, and has been lying in an unconscious condition ever since, with poor hopes of his recovery.—New Oxford Item.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., May 23, 1887. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Miss Maggie Bowers, Emanuel Eck-enrood, Mrs. Julia A. Fisher, W. P. Hunt, William Stansberry, Miss Addie Upperman, Mrs. Mollie Valentine.

An Imperative Necessity.

What pure air is to an un-healthy locality, what spring cleaning is to the neat housekeeper, so is Hood's Sarsaparilla to everybody, at this season. The body needs to be thoroughly renovated, the blood purified and vitalized, the germs of disease destroyed. Scrofula, Salt Rheum, and all other blood disorders are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the most popular and successful spring medicine.

DR. ROBERT WARD, State Inspector and veterinarian, on Monday slaughtered seventeen cows and one bull belonging to Joseph M. C. Barton, dairyman, in North-eastern Baltimore, because of chronic pleuro-pneumonia among them. The cattle had been quarantined last November by order of the United States authorities, and the owner refused to have them killed. Of course the owner will be paid for them. They were all buried. This seems the only way to stamp out the dread disease.

Death of Mr. Edward G. W. Stake. Mr. Edward G. W. Stake, a prominent citizen of Washington county, died very suddenly at his home in Williamsport, on Thursday last week, in the 74th year of his age. For more than twenty years he was cashier of the Washington County National Bank at Williamsport, but a short time ago resigned the position on account of failing health. He leaves a wife, four daughters and three sons, one of whom is Hon. Edward Stake of Hagerstown.—Sun.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boecher's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 80,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada.

IN MEMORIAM.

The sad news of the death of Mrs. Mary E. Patterson, relict of the late Dr. Wm. Patterson of this place, reached Emmitsburg on Thursday morning. Intending to make a visit in Brooklyn N. Y., she left here, in apparent health, on Saturday last for Taneytown, whence in company with her sister-in-law Mrs. Crapster she started for Philadelphia, expecting to spend some days there, but died in that city on Wednesday night.

Mrs. Patterson was born in Emmitsburg, April 2, 1814, and was the only daughter of Patrick Lowe, an influential citizen and among its earliest settlers, and also the granddaughter of James Hughes, one of the founders of the village. She was educated at St. Joseph's Academy, and was married in 1831. Her husband died May 27, 1876. Mrs. Patterson was a devout Catholic and always earnestly intent upon doing good, and was esteemed and respected by all who knew her. She possessed considerable literary ability and frequently contributed to the newspapers in various ways. It was through her collection of data, extending back to the founding of Emmitsburg, in which her family, as already intimated, had part, that we were enabled to present the "History of Emmitsburg" in these columns some years ago.

Her death makes a vacancy in the connecting links of the present and the past of our local society, that will long be felt.

The remains were brought here on Friday, and the interment will take place from the parish church of Mount St. Mary's College to-day, (Saturday) according to the following order:—Solemn High Mass of Requiem; the celebrant will be Rev. Edward P. Allen, President of the College; deacon, Rev. Jas. F. Callaghan; sub-deacon, Mr. James J. Smith; master of ceremonies, Mr. Thos. F. Ryan. The college choir will sing the Mass, under the direction of Mr. Domenick Brown.

Decoration Day.

HEADQUARTERS ARTHUR POST No. 41. G. A. R. DEPARTMENT OF MD. EMMITTSBURG, MD., MAY 17, 1887. GENERAL ORDER No. 1.

In accordance with General Order No. 13, from Department Headquarters, the following named comrades have been appointed a committee on Decoration and Flowers, to appropriately decorate all the graves of ex-Union Soldiers in the several cemeteries in Emmitsburg and its vicinity, viz:—Samuel N. McNair, Harvey G. Winter, Joseph W. Davidson, E. C. Wenschoff, George T. Eyster, William A. Fraley and George L. Gillelan.

The ladies of Emmitsburg and its vicinity who are interested in this patriotic custom are requested to contribute flowers for the occasion, and will kindly leave them with any of the members of the committee on the morning of May 30th inst., by 7.30 a. m., or at the Hall of the Post by that hour.

No formal ceremonies will be held by this Post on the occasion, but the committee will meet at 7.30 A. M., sharp, and proceed forthwith to the graves.

O. A. HONNER, Commander, Arthur Post No. 41.

A GENTLE shower of rain on Tuesday noon, broke the drought that prevailed for many days. Though the weather was warm, it was still a time in which the zephyrs breathed sweetly, and the nights were sufficiently cool to invite quiet and refreshing sleep, hence the shower coming as it did in sympathy with the preceding conditions of the air, brought refreshment and gladness to every living thing, but afternoon there was another shower and towards evening another, a long continued and almost terrible down pour. There was an accompaniment of lightning. The effects of the storm on vegetation were conspicuously fine, causing the tiny blades of the recently planted corn to appear, and everything that grows has since luxuriated in its renewed life forces.

THE June number of The Eclectic has an attractive table of contents. Prof. Huxley has a paper entitled "Science and Pseudo Science," which severely attacks the Duke of Argyll. Carl Rosa discusses English opera, and Robert Louis Stevenson, in his article, "The Day after To-morrow," attempts to show what would be the result, should Henry Georgeism or Socialism be victorious. H. D. Traill contributes a discussion of the uses of Parliament, which would apply to the United States. The author of "John Halifax" talks very sensibly under the head of "For Better or Worse," "Fluctuation in Trade and Wages," by George Howell, "The Decline of the Drama," by Harry Quilter, and "The Making of Britain," by Archibald Geikie, are all articles of noticeable interest. Baron Tennyson contributes a jubilee poem, "Carmen Seculare," and Sir Theodore Martin gives a new version of Schiller's "Song of the Bell."

Scribner's Magazine for June completes the first volume, and the publishers can be congratulated on the unparalleled success achieved in the six months of its existence. This number has "Some Illustrations of Napoleon and his Times," by John C. Ropes, with numerous pictorial illustrations from the author's collection, and has a fine portrait of the famous Corsican as a frontispiece; among the other contents are "An Art Master," by John B. O'Reilly; "The Ethics of Democracy," by E. J. Stimson; continuation of "Unpublished Letters of Thackeray," by Miss Pringle's Neighbors; a short story by Mrs. R. L. Stevenson; also one by Sarah O. Jewett entitled "Miss Peck's Promotion," continuation of "Seth's Brother's Wife," by Harold Frederic, and a short story by Nora Perry, called "Two Russians," a poem by Elizabeth Akers, and an interesting article on "The Magic Flight in Folk-Lore," by E. H. Warner. Published by Charles Scribner's Sons, 743 and 745 Broadway, New York.

MT. ST. MARY'S 9—FREDERICK'S 8.

The long spell of victories, with which the Frederick's have, thus far this season, been accredited, convinced their admirers that they were without doubt, the strongest Amateur Base Ball Club in the State. The members of the club thought likewise, the only team they seemed to fear was that of Mt. St. Mary's College, whose fame was far-spread having, during the past few years, defeated the principal crack clubs of the State. For several seasons past, the Frederick's were negotiating for a game with the College Club, but being unable to satisfactorily agree on dates, they never met. This year, however, they were more fortunate and on the 19th inst., they crossed bats for the first time. The game was one of the most interesting and hotly contested that has taken place on the College grounds for some time; and resulted in a defeat for the visitors. A large and enthusiastic crowd from Emmitsburg, Mechanics-town, Frederick and adjoining places witnessed the game.

The fielding on both sides, with one or two exceptions was sharp and brilliant throughout, but the great feature of the contest was the fine exhibition of curve pitching by Brady. The visitors made only seven hits, with a total of nine off his delivery, three of these were made in the first inning, the other four were scattered. He struck out ten of Frederick's "Champions," while Campbell, for the visitors succeeded in retiring five. Brady was well supported by McCoy, who took every chance and made some remarkable foul-tip catches. McGarity's brilliant playing at first, called forth frequent and well merited applause, and Morley's well-judged coaching was also a remarkable feature of the game. Campbell pitched a steady game, having no wild pitches and giving no one his base on called balls, while Brady had three wild pitches and gave the same number of bases to the visitors. Campbell was well supported by Champlin and Esterly's playing at short was excellent.

The Frederick's opened the game at the bat. Champlin hit safely for first, reached second and third on errors, and crossed the plate on McAuley's long hit to right center, Masz's two bagger brought McAuley home, and Gittenger's timely hit sent Masz safely across the plate. Things looked kind of bad for the College Boys, and Brady casting one of his, this-will-never-do sort of looks at his team, commenced that effective work which was so prominent throughout the remainder of the game. Kauffman sent a hot liner to Gleason, which was quickly handled but poorly fielded to McGarity, who made a brilliant one-hand catch and put "Kauff" out in his attempt to reach second. Esterly struck out and Hull was retired on a hot foul-tip to McCoy. This closed the inning and run-getting for the visitors for the next six succeeding innings. Reagan struck hard for a clean base hit, neatly stole second and third much to the chagrin of Champlin, and came home on McGarity's corker to short, which was deflected in time to shut McGarity out. Brady sent the sphere twirling for a three bagger, Greenwell struck out, and Brady's fruitless attempt to reach home closed the first inning.

In the fourth the College Boys commenced their run-getting. McGarity hit safely for first, stole second, reached third on Brady's single and both came home on "Cousin Ben" Greenwell's long hit to left. Gleason was fielded out by Esterly, Morley struck out and McCoy's short hit to Campbell closed the inning with even score. From this out the game may be said to commence anew, and the enthusiasm of the spectators, especially the "Mountain Boys," with Eugene Wharton at their head, was great.

The visitors failed to score during the next four innings, while the College, added three more well earned runs to their score.

In the eighth the "Champions" put a damper on the enthusiasm which, at the time, was at its height by getting three men on bases with none out. Bauer sent the ball twirling to far centre, which Cullen failed to judge properly, thus allowing three of the visitors to score. Campbell struck out, Gittenger reached first on balls, stole second and third, but caught in his attempt to do the same at home, and Champlin's out at third closed one of the finest and most hotly contested innings of the game.

In the ninth Brady's command "To look sharp" was not without the desired effect. Masz, the Champion's best batter struck out, Gittenger reached first on called balls, and Kauffman's foul-tip to McCoy, afforded the only double play during the game, "Mac" seized the opportunity and threw the ball to Morley in time to catch Gittenger on second, thus concluding the game in the College Boys' favor.

The applause which accompanied this play was deafening. Brady was carried to the College, on the shoulders of his jubilant companions, while McCoy availing himself of Mr. W. Wilson's kind offer was driven there in his buggy. The score is appended:

The Frederick Team left the College about five o'clock, after partaking of a hastily prepared lunch. We were sorry to learn that on their way home they lost one of their fine horses, and equally so to learn that some evil minded individuals attributed their defeat to other sources than the superior playing of the College Club. In justice to the members composing the Frederick Club and to their genial manager Mr. J., we must say that we never met more gentlemanly set of ball players. We would be pleased to meet them again and sincerely regret that our College Rules will not permit us to give them a return game on their own grounds. R.

The Maryland Class.

This old and well known Classis of the Reformed Church met in annual session in the Glade Church, Walkersville on Friday evening the 20th inst. The opening sermon was preached by Rev. C. Clever of Baltimore from the text "Why are you fearful?" &c.

Rev. C. F. Sontag of Washington D. C., was elected president for the current year, Rev. T. P. Hoffman of Middletown recording secretary and Rev. E. R. Dietrick corresponding secretary.

The various committees were then appointed, communications were referred and the reading of the parochial reports began, on Saturday afternoon services preparatory to the administration of the Holy Communion were held, after which the reading of the reports was continued.

Monday afternoon the report of the trustees of the Classis was read and adopted, and Mr. W. H. Lakin was elected a member of the Board to fill the vacancy occasioned by the expiration of the term of Elder J. M. Gwinn. The report of the treasurer of the Classis of the amounts received by him during the year was as follows: For home missions, $1,401.52; foreign missions, $731.53; contingent fund, $917.79; for sustenance, $506.98; beneficiary education, $1,150.14; for lot at Woodberry, $510.29; for orphans' homes, $238.36; for Wichita University, $636.87; Roanoke apportionment, $12.76; harbor missions, $15; miscellaneous, $406.90; Sabillasville apportionment, $137; relief society, $175.90—total amount contributed, $7,230.18, which is about $1,000 more than the preceding year. $600 were appropriated towards the next annual payment on a lot purchased in Woodberry, on which $2,083.74 is still due. A communication was read from the congregation at Union Bridge, recently organized, asking for the loan of $2,637 to cancel a debt, for which a deed of the church building will be given to the Classis. The request provoked considerable discussion, and was finally laid on the table for future consideration. At the session on Monday night the interests of Franklin and Marshall College and Theological Seminary were discussed by Rev. J. S. Kiefer, D. D., of Hagerstown, Rev. Dr. Eschbach, of Frederick Revs. Rossiter, Clever and Firor, of Baltimore, and others.

On Tuesday, the reports were continued and routine business was continued.

Rev. A. B. Stoner, supply of Sabillasville charge, presented his report which was adopted.

The pastor of Sabillasville charge was granted authority to organize a congregation in the neighborhood of Blue Ridge Summit, if the way be open.

An appropriation of $250 was made to the support of the pastor of Sabillasville charge for the coming year, beginning with this meeting of Classis, and $50 for the three months he has already labored there.

The Glade charge was ordered to be divided and a new charge organized, Union Bridge, Carroll county, was selected as the place for the next annual meeting.

The Classis transacted the regular course of routine business and adjourned on Wednesday morning.

BLACK PILLS dispel melancholy.

It is well betimes to consider the nature and the ends aimed at in things to be eaten or drunk. Ice water may be injurious in various ways; taken in large quantities it arrests digestion, and may lead directly or indirectly to serious derangement of the system. As a cooling draft the effect is for the tongue and the throat; the stomach don't need cooling, therefore prudence will dictate the use of the water in small quantities; and that it is better to take a little in repeated swallows than to gulp much at a time. The one third part of an ordinary tumbler divided into several swallows will satisfy most needs and leave no sense of oppression.

The Effect of Mental Exhaustion. Many diseases, especially those of the nervous system, are the products of daily renewed mental exhaustion. Business avocations often involve an amount of mental wear and tear very prejudicial to physical health, and the professions, if ardently pursued, are no less destructive to brain and nerve tissue. It is one of the most important attributes of Hatter's Brain Bitters that it compensates for this undue loss of tissue, and that it imparts new energy to the brain and nerves. The rapidity with which it renews weakened mental energy and physical vitality is remarkable, and shows that its invigorating properties are of the highest order. Besides increasing vital stamina, and counteracting the effects of mental exhaustion, this potent medicine cures and prevents fever and acute rheumatism, chronic dyspepsia and constipation, kidney and uterine weakness and other complaints. Physicians also commend it as a mild and effective stimulant and remedy.

Respectfully,
MRS. M. TOURNAY.

BLACK PILLS aid digestion.

At a recent meeting of the Emerald Beneficial Association of Emmitsburg, the following officers were elected: President, F. A. Adelsberger; Vice-President, William Roddy; Secretary, Chas. N. Baker; Assistant Secretary, Geo. Seybold; Treasurer, James V. Rider; Marshal, Chas. F. Smith; Assistant Marshal, E. L. Adelsberger; Librarian, J. F. Shorb; Assistant Librarian, Anthony A. Wivill; Stewards, S. R. Grindler and G. Seybold; Messenger, J. M. Stoutter; Finance Committee, N. Baker, J. M. Stoutter and Geo. Seybold.

From the Boonsboro Times.

The Western Maryland Railroad Company has begun to survey a line for a road beginning at a point near Horse Shoe Curve, Frederick county, and extending to Gettysburg. The line starts a quarter of a mile from Sabillasville.

Bumblebees make clover seed. A farmer who reports this says it is a fact that a strong nest of bumblebees in a clover field is worth $10 to the owner, for these insects are the chief agents in fertilizing the blossoms, thereby insuring a heavy crop of seed. In Australia there are no bumblebees of our kind and they could not raise clover seed until they imported bees.

In a Bad Plight.

Messrs. Harvey S. Zimmerman and William Barriok, of this city, hired a horse and buggy from Mr. Sol. Stern, on Sunday, and started for Loy's Station via Walkersville and Creagerstown. They reached Walkersville all safely, went on to Creagerstown in good order, at which point Mr. Barriok laid off while Mr. Zimmerman went on to Loy's station to visit a friend. While engaged in making his call the horse and buggy, which were hitched on the outside, were cleverly stolen. Mr. Zimmerman telephoned the circumstances to this city, on Monday morning and Mr. Stern immediately started in search of the missing team.—Frederick News.
