SOME DAY.

Some day—so many tearful eyes Are watching for thy dawning light!
So many faces toward the skies Are weary of the night!

So many falling prayers that reel And stagger upward through the storm;
And yearning hands that reach and feel No pressure true and warm!

So many hearts whose crimson wine Is wasted to a purple stain;
And blurred and streaked with drops of brine
Upon the lips of pain?

Oh, come to them—those weary ones!
Or, if thou still must bide awhile, Make stronger yet the hope that runs Before thy coming smile.

And haste and find them where they wait,
Let summer winds blow down that way,
And all they long for, soon or late, Bring round to them—some day.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

A Trap For a Witness.

Many years ago I took a trip through what was then called the "Far West." My course, for the most part, lay through an unbroken forest. Though a settler's cabin here and there broke the wild monotony, many a day was passed without the sight of a habitation or meeting a human being.

One day I came up with two men who had dismounted at the wayside, and were seated on a log chatting, while their horses browsed sociably at a little distance. One of the two, like myself, was evidently a traveler, while the tow cloth hunting shirt and coonskin cap of the other—to say nothing of his long rifle and weather beaten face —betokened the genuine back-woodsman.

For some time I had been waiting an opportunity of inquiring the way to a distant settlement, at which I proposed making a temporary stop, and here, doubtless, was the very man to supply the information.

"Just 'light an' rest your critter a minit," said the woodsman, when I had put my question; "me'n this gen'lman 'll be through presently.

Accepting the invitation I soon discovered that the business I had interrupted was a horse trade, which, of course, took precedence of every other matter.

The "swap," which had already made substantial progress, was speedily concluded. The traveler, whose animal was somewhat jaded —his reason probably for seeking the exchange—gave the frontiersman $20 "boot," and, mounting his new hackney, took a hasty leave, apparently desirous not to give the other party time to "rue."

I repeated my inquiry, and was told there was no road, not even a bridle path, within many miles of where we were, leading to the place I wished to reach. I offered to pay the man liberally to guide me to some point whence I could find my way alone. A bargain was at once concluded, and in less than half an hour we were jogging along like old acquaintances.

That night we camped out, sup-ping on some jerked venison my guide had in his pouch, and tether-ing our horses in the edge of a small prairie which afforded good grazing; and the next afternoon but one we struck a traveled track, which, my companion assured me, I had only to follow straight ahead to reach my destination.

Here we shook hands and parted; and it was a month afterwards at my own home that my western journey was vividly called to mind by the following paragraph:

"A Traveler Murdered.—By our last advices from — we learned that an unknown traveler was found murdered on the 1st of June last.
The act was at first attributed to some marauding bands of Indians who have lately shown themselves troublesome. But later developments fasten the crime on John Stover, a white man, found in possession of the dead man's horse and some money identified by a tavern keeper who had changed a note for the traveler the day before his body was discovered. The latter was last seen alive in Stover's company, and with a torch of dried bark, which one of them held, I distinguished the features of the three men seen at the inn, one of whom had volunteered to be my guide.

They found the tracks of my horse where he had gone over the brink, and gave a laugh of satisfaction.

"Now, Stover must hang beyond a doubt," said one, "and we may breathe freely; for had his innocence been proved the suspicion more than once whispered against ourselves would have been revived, and who knows what might have happened?"

Then they discussed among themselves the sickening details of the murder, of which they had been the real authors, and chuckled over the money they had gotten by it.

At last they went away, and as soon as it was safe I left my hiding place, and after several hours wandering came upon a settler's cabin.
Arousing the proprietor, I made known my circumstances. He was a frank, honest fellow, disposed to give every assistance; and, saddling a couple of horses, we started at daylight for the seat of justice.

The last witness had given his testimony when I entered. Poor John Stover had nothing to offer but his steady assertion of his innocence, and his unsupported explanation of his possession of the horse and money.

"Are there any witnesses for the defense?" the judge inquired.
"There is one," I answered, at the end of a painful pause.

The prosecutor and the prisoner's counsel both looked surprised.
"Does any one know this gentleman?" asked the former.

"I do," said the judge, in whom I recognized an old college friend and classmate. "Come forward, Mr. Wythe."

My testimony soon released the prisoner from his peril, and put in his place the real criminals, who, in addition to the murder actually lying at their door, had come so near having another to answer for.

The American Woman.
The American woman does lack the repose of her English sister, but in place of it she is rich in virtues unknown to the British matron.

She is generous and considerate.
She is not a bit afraid to say what she likes or what she dislikes.
She knows wherever she may be, or in whatever position she may be placed, that at one word from her the American man is by her side ready to protect her.

She believes this is the greatest country in the world, because its women are good-looking and its men adore them.

She is not used to waiting on herself, for ever since she can remember something that wore trousers attended to all her wants.

She is quick to see and good at remembering, and doesn't disdain a bit of advice.

In whatever strange land she has gone she has been a success, and today if an American girl were asked to be Czarina of Russia she would not be a bit surprised, and she would combine mercy with justice in her rule.

The American woman is the product of the finest plant known to civilized world. She is the flower of independence, and no matter what flag may wave over her, no matter whether the skies are blue or gray, she always has a smile for the happy, a cheery word for whoever may be in sorrow, and for your boy and mine we will take for a wife—the American girl. BAB.

Poe's first thought of "The Bells" when walking in the streets of Baltimore on a winter's night. He rang the bell of a lawyer's house (a stranger to him), walked into the gentleman's library, shut himself up and the next morning presented the lawyer with a copy of his celebrated poem.

WHISTLING doesn't make the locomotive go. It is the silent steam.

LADIES
Needing a tonic, or children that want building up, should take
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It is pleasant to take, cures Malaria, Indigestion, and Biliousness. All druggists keep it.

The Loss of the Nose.
The presence of mind shown by an Ohio physician saved a man, a nose. That useful member was severed by a fall upon a sharp corner, and the attendant M. D., by promptly placing the sundered piece where it belonged, secured a healing "by first intention," and the subsequent restoration of the organ, plus an ugly scar.

Less successful was the replacement of a nose by a young man of this city many years ago. While engaged in playfully "fencing" with a companion, a reckless pass cleanly cut off the young fellow's nose. He had not studied physiology for nothing, and, acting upon this knowledge, grabbed the severed organ and clapped it on the bleeding surface it had just quitted.

Then his nose was bound firmly on and nature was left to take her course. She did this admirably.

When the bandages were removed the two parts were found to be grown together beautifully. Nothing could be nicer, except that the unfortunate young man had put his nose on upside down! The nostrils stood as open to Heaven as the flues at the apex of a chimney.

The memories that come down through a vista of thirty years since this sad affair took place are a trifle misty and unreliable as to the subsequent career of the man with the inverted nose. He is believed to be dead. During his life, however, he was known to declare that, for purposes of snuff-taking, he had the very finest nose in the world, but that to be caught in a heavy shower without an umbrella was tantamount to drowning. Those that are suddenly deprived of a nose should be careful to replace it with the perforations down. Human life is made up of trifles, and some of these have power to engender discomfort, when it comes to an upside-down nose.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Insects in Drugs.
At a recent meeting of the Chemists' Assistants' Association, C. J.
Stronther showed a number of drugs infected with animal life, and remarked that the first, a fair-looking sample of crushed linseed, supplied about three weeks before by a large wholesale firm and kept in a wooden cask with a cover of wood, was seen under a lens to be literally alive. The next was ac-nite root, of which the parasite was quite different. Nux vomica and cantharides were the remaining specimens. With the last named it is usual to put camphor, though with doubtful effect, but it is possible that washing hard substances in solution of salicylic acid, and quickly drying them, might protect them. The question naturally arises, What would be the effect of a poultice containing thousands of insects applied to an open wound, especially if the poultice be made with hot instead of boiling water?

A Disgraced Cat.
In some manner a cat found its way into a cyclorama building several days ago. The man in charge attempted to chase the trespassing feline through the door, but the cat evidently thought there was a better way of escaping the rising of the irate man. It looked cautiously about, as if to avoid stepping on the prostrate forms of heroes slain in the battle. Finally his eyes caught sight of a tree. A projecting limb hung very low, and here the cat thought to find a place of safety. It gave one leap, and, no doubt, was the most disgraced cat in Portland when it learned by sad experience that the tree was on the canvas. It picked itself up and slowly slunk thro' the door, down the stairs and out of the building.

AN explosion in one of the coal mines at Wilkesbarre, Pa., on Monday last set fire to the mine in which eight miners were at work, and every effort to rescue the unfortunate men proved unavailing.

A MAN named Harry S. Frankland shot Miss Lillian Moore on the street in Washington on Sunday morning. Frankland was in love with Miss Moore, but his attentions were rejected. Miss Moore is in a critical condition.

A MAN living in Iowa writes to the Secretary of the Interior as follows: "Is there any law to give the parents of triplets a piece of United States land? If so I am entitled to it. We have had five born to us in twenty-one months."

THE Washington Board of Promotion of the World's Fair proposes now to ask Congress to have a celebration at the national capital in 1892 and to mark it by the erection of a national museum, memorial bridge and statue of Columbus.

ABOUT two o'clock last Friday afternoon ex-Congressman Talbot of Kentucky, was shot by Charles E. Kincaid, a Kentucky newspaper correspondent. The shooting occurred in the capitol building on the stairway leading from the main floor to the basement. The men have been on bad terms for over a year and shortly before the shooting occurred Talbot pulled Kincaid's cork. Although the wound is not necessarily fatal, the wounded man is in a critical condition. The bullet entered just below and a little to the right of the left eye.

Deafness Can't be Cured by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous membrane. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

JAMAICA TO HAVE A FAIR.

An International Exhibition in Honor of Columbus.

A New York special to the Philadelphia Times, dated March 1st, contains the following:

While New York has been squabbling and wasting her time and energies to secure the World's Fair, one of the West Indian colonies has jumped in and started a real Columbus Exhibition. And how quietly it has been done. The Government of Jamaica, after consulting with the home government, has appropriated £25,000 sterling to defray costs. Six members of the Colonial Council and seven representatives of the British Foreign Office form the commission. Special committees have been formed in London and New York to secure and forward exhibits, and just here is where American interests especially appear.

The whole plan was developed at a meeting held here on Thursday evening. As soon as a paid secretary had been appointed the committee went to work. Rates of freight were agreed upon for exhibits at eight cents a cubic foot or twenty cents a hundred pounds. Thus it will be seen that at the very outset they determined on success, because the cost of transportation was reduced to a minimum. Of course, the English Government, which is interested especially in the marvelous and historical portion of the show, will make up the difference to the steamship people.

The next move was to put the matter plainly before the American public. Consul General Booker, in a signed statement, makes these points:

This international exhibition is to be opened in Kingston next January, and will be strictly under the auspices of the Colonial Government.

In consideration of the immense trade between the colony and the United States the committee have set apart a large space for such American manufactures as may be sent, with the view of further extending trade with us.

No charge is to be made for space in the exhibition building, nor will duties be levied on any exhibit, unless sold on the island.

An immense new American hotel, built by American capital and run under American management, has been already put in operation near the exhibition site.

An American company has reorganized the railroad and street car service, which is now equal to that in most American cities.

All the plans for the buildings have been accepted and they are now in course of construction. There will be separate buildings and bazaars representing all the countries and manners and epochs of the Western Hemisphere. Everything has been carefully planned and considered and the affair will attract tens of thousands of our Pan-American cousins, who will glory in the past, tread the paths on which Columbus walked, visit the places where he lived amid hope and despair, and live over again the scenes which four centuries ago started the ball rolling in the direction of American liberty that has become the envy of the world.

Albion De Cordova, one of the commissioners, was for many years a merchant in Kingston, and his father before him and his father's father, going back to the Portuguese invasion. Speaking of this exhibition, he said: "We want to make it a grand representation of the past and present; the result of centuries of labor, in bringing our country from abject barbarism to a place among the great and intelligent of the world. When Columbus finally visited Jamaica, after having added Cuba to the domains of Ferdinand and Isabella, of Spain, he thought he was on the Eastern end of Asia."

"It was in this colony that tobacco was first used and when the Spaniards discovered what the 'firebrands' really were which the natives used to stick into their mouths they were not long in making it pay. The coloba of the Indians was simply tobacco. The dress and religion of the Indians, their idols of Jochanna and his Xemes, or smaller gods, the exorcisms of their buitos or priests, their houses, feasts and dances—just as they were the day Columbus was among them—will make a most charming and extraordinary exhibit. However, these are matters of detail; but I have briefly touched on these historical points to prove that Jamaica has a perfect right to celebrate the quadri-centenary of Columbus and she will do so, though this exhibition has not altogether that object."

The exhibits will be placed in six great groups, viz.:

1. Raw materials.

2. Implements for obtaining raw materials.

3. Machines and processes used in preparing and making up raw materials into finished products.

4. Manufactured goods.

5. Education.

6. Fine arts, literature and science.

The one striking feature of this whole affair is the quiet, earnest, systematic, business-like way in which everything is being done and planned. No politics in it. No bickering. Columbus, the father of the country, is to be commemorated, and the government and people are working to have it and will have it next year.

SILK-WORM EGGS GIVEN AWAY.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington has just received from Europe a consignment of choice silk-worm eggs, which will be distributed gratuitously to all persons who desire to raise silk-worms in this country, and, in this connection, it will also be able to furnish books of instruction in silk culture before the season begins. For three seasons the department has been purchasing cocoons from American silk-growers at an average price of 90 cents per pound, and wishes a still further supply in order to continue experiments now being made in Washington in the reeling of silk from the cocoon. All persons, therefore, who seek a market for their cocoons or desire any information regarding the silk industry will, upon application, be furnished by the Department of Agriculture.

A CHICAGO newspaper says: "Now that Chicago has won the prize, Tom Platt, of New York, wants a slice of Chicago property, and his agent, Mr. Irwin, has bought for him twenty-five acres of land on the corner of Stewart avenue and Sixty-third street, paying for it $75,000."

DURING the recent cold spell hundreds of cattle were frozen to death in Texas, and great damage was done to truck crops in Georgia and Florida. In Alabama the orchards were all in full bloom when the freeze came, and an immense amount of damage was done to fruit and vegetation.

THE House of Delegates passed the gas monopoly bill last Friday.

The first consignment of mackerel caught in Africa arrived in Baltimore on Tuesday.

A bill has passed the U. S. Senate appropriating $75,000 for a public building at Annapolis.

Fire in the cigar factory of Fowler & Himler, Westminster, on Monday night, caused a loss of $800.

Trailing arbutus is blooming on Gray's Hill, near Elktion. It seldom blooms before late in March or early in April.

Jas. R. Stockett was knocked unconscious Saturday and robbed in his store at Pumphrey's, Anne Arundel county.

Rev. Charles A. Reid, a well known minister of the M. E. Church, died suddenly at Westminster last Sunday, aged 70 years.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company's rolling mills at Cumberland have been sold to the Cambria Iron Works, of Johnstown, Pa.

Mine Inspector Browning says the decrease in the output of Maryland coal last year was due to lack of transportation, and largely to the canal stoppage.

The Columbia and Port Deposit Railroad was sold at auction in Philadelphia on Tuesday for $1,800,000, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company being the purchaser.

Judge Alvey has appointed Richard D. Johnson, of Cumberland, Joseph D. Baker, of Frederick, and Robert Bridges, of Hancock, receivers for the Chesapeake and Ohio canal.

Albert Zehn, aged twelve years, of Franklinville district, Carroll county, shot and instantly killed his five-year-old brother on Tuesday evening, with a gun supposed not to have been loaded.

Thomas Worrick was shot and fatally wounded at Port Deposit on Sunday by Seldon F. Craig. Worrick was considered a dangerous character and the shooting is said to have been done in self-defense.

The Governor has signed the bill relating to drunkenness, which takes away the jurisdiction of magistrates in cases of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and offenders are committed to await the action of the grand jury.

The three old dromedaries in Druid Hill Park, Baltimore, have been sold to a traveling show for $400. They are the survivors of the four dromedaries presented to the city of Baltimore in 1880 by the late John W. Garrett, to whom they were presented by the King of Italy.

The Baltimore Sun of last Friday, says: "Wheat in Talbot is 15 inches high; peach orchards are in full blossom, early peaches are blooming, trees are putting forth foliage and spring flowers have forced the season. It looks like the first of May rather than the last of February."

Noah Ward, a farmer residing near Pocomoke City was fatally trampled by mules at that place last week, while he was engaged in loading a wagon at the depot his mules frightened at a locomotive, and Mr. Ward was thrown under their feet in his efforts to restrain them. He lived three days.

Mr. Calvert Orem, a merchant of Cambridge, who has been missing from his home since Feb. 11, was found wandering about the streets of Baltimore in an aimless manner on Friday night. Sometime ago he received a slight injury to his head, which is supposed to have caused his derangement.

Rev. Mr. Brian, pastor of the M. E. church at Middleburg, Carroll county, has been held for the action of the grand jury on the charge of ordering the cutting down of an ornamental tree in the church graveyard on a lot in which a child of Mr. David Mackey had been buried, Mackey having refused to pay for the lot. Until recently the graveyard was a free burying ground. Some persons claim that there is no legal warrant for exacting payment for lots.

The number of lives lost by the bursting of the dam near Wickenburg, Arizona Territory, is now estimated at forty-nine. Thirty-nine bodies have been identified, while ten more are known to be lost. The dam was not constructed properly, adequate means for the escape of water in time of flood not being provided.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the sympathetic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—looked three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. I gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." The March issue of the Eclectic has its usual supply of suggestive papers, a large proportion on topics of vital interest. The opening paper, "The State and the Sermon on the Mount," by the Bishop of Peterborough, is a remarkable article which has excited the keenest interest in England. Dr. Bamberger (of the Germ in Reichstag) contributes a study of the German Press. The Symposium by Besant, Hardy, and Mrs. Lynn Linton on English fiction.
There are two papers on Africa, one by Lovett Cameron on Portuguese claims, the other by J. Scott Keltie on Stanley's contribution to African geography. Professor Freeman on "The Origin of English," and Professor Nicholson on "Profit-Sharing," contribute masterly essays in different lines. Herbert Spencer's article on "Absolute Political Ethics" will attract the attention of all thinkers. "The Future of English Monarchy," is ably treated by Frank H. Hill.
There are four poems by Swinburne, Cosmo Monkhouse, Peter Bayne, and Yussuf, and a short story, "The Ring of Truth."

relief.

Mothers should take warning and stop dosing their babies with laudanum while teething. Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup answers the same purpose and it is known to be perfectly harmless.
Price 25 cents.

MARCH came in somewhat like a lion on Saturday and thus far has given us the only seasonable weather we have had all winter. Several inches of snow fell on Wednesday night. The thermometer registered 4° this morning.

G. A. R. Notes.

The largest and one of the most interesting meetings of Arthur Post No. 41, G. A. R., was held at their Hall on Tuesday evening, Mar. 4. Seven new members were mustered in and other important business transacted.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Company.

Another Painful Accident.

Little Teddie Kerschner, youngest child of Rev. J. B. Kerschner, had two of his fingers terribly lacerated, on Monday last, in the cog wheels of an ice-cream freezer. His aunt was turning the freezer and did not notice the little one's hand on it, till the rapidly moving cogs had caught and crushed two of the little fingers. Dr. Wrigley dressed the wounds and they are healing rapidly.

Everybody Knows.

That at this season the blood is filled with impurities, the accumulation of months of close confinement in poorly ventilated stores, workshops and tenements.
All these impurities and every trace of scrofula, salt rheum, or other disease may be expelled by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier ever prepared. It is the only medicine of which "100 doses one dollar" is true.

An Incorporated Company to Buy the Canal.

There is some foundation for the report copied from Thursday's Baltimore Sun to the effect that an incorporated Frederick company would put in a bid for the canal. A number of Frederick and Baltimore capitalists are interested in the matter and the articles of incorporation will be filed at an early date.
The arrangements have been in progress some days past and are now approaching consummation.—News.

From Ocean to Ocean.

Over thirty-two years ago, Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, imported from the banks of the Douro, in Portugal, a few of the Port Grape vines, and commenced careful experiments for the purpose of producing a first-class American Port, both fermented and unfermented. He has been eminently successful, and now Speer's wine and unfermented juice is known from ocean to ocean, and endorsed by the best medical talent in the world as the best now produced for the use of invalids. For sale by druggists.

Gone West.

Although the removal of people westward is a common occurrence in this section, it is seldom we are called on to record such a wholesale departure, we might say, as has occurred this week, and no family has left the community whose loss will be more deeply felt than that of Mr. Wm. S. Guthrie, who with Mrs. Guthrie's sister, Miss Hallie Smith left Emmitsburg on Wednesday, to take up their residence in St. Joseph, Mo.
Mr. Guthrie being an enterprising and public spirited citizen, his removal leaves a vacancy in the community that it will be hard to fill, while the other members of the family will be missed to even a greater extent in the social circle and especially in the church, where, for so many years they have been closely identified with all its interests. While a large circle of relatives and friends join in wishing them prosperity in their new home, a feeling of regret at their departure pervades the community, which words are inadequate to express. The CURIOUS can but join in this universal sentiment and trust that the move will in the end prove advantageous, and wish them a safe and pleasant journey to their chosen western home.

The National Capital.

The City of Washington is an object of perennial interest to all patriotic Americans. Not alone because it is the great throbbing heart of the mightiest and grandest Republic the earth has ever known, but also on account of its material magnificence. All Americans take pride in its beautiful avenues, majestic architecture, stately homes, and well stored galleries and museums as things of grandeur and beauty in themselves, apart from the historic interest with which they are invested. It is a hope and aspiration of all "Young America," at least, to some time or other visit the Capital of his country.

The Baltimore and Ohio R. R. offers unequaled facilities in aid of this desire.
All its through trains between New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore on the east, and Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, St.
Louis and Chicago on the west, pass through Washington. Its fast express trains are vestibuled from end to end and heated with steam. Pullman's latest and best productions in the way of sumptuous Drawing Room Sleeping Cars are attached to all its through trains. The present management of the B. & O. have made vast improvements in the last two years, and the road is to day one of the foremost passenger carrying lines in the country.
Through tickets via B. & O. R. R. can be procured at all the principal ticket offices throughout the United States.

Prof. BAUGHER, who is well known in this place, has resigned his position as principal of the Cambridge Female Seminary, to take effect August 1st.

A BILL to remove the restrictions in regard to the sale of liquor within a mile and a half of Mt. St. Mary's College, was passed by the House of Delegates last week.

Mr. W. S. GUTHRIE sold a tract of land at Poplar Ridge known as the Kime property to Rowe & Hoke for $300. The tract contains a little over six acres and has a small house on it.

Bond Approved.

At a special meeting of the Board of County Commissioners on Monday, the bond of Mr. Isaac M. Fisher, the newly appointed tax-collector, was approved.
The amount of the bond is $400.00.

Business Change.

As will be seen by their notice in another column the firm of Helman & Rowe has been dissolved. Mr. Rowe will continue business at the old stand, and Mr. Helman has opened a store in his room opposite the Reformed church.

Some fashionable ladies are not satisfied with ready-made fashions, but must have them made to order; they are, however, satisfied with Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup at 25 cents and take it regularly.

"One fire burns out another's burning," and most pain suffers more to be cured, but Salvation Oil is painless and certain. It costs only 25 cents.

From the Gettysburg Star and Sentinel.

Mr. H. T. Weaver, of the firm of G.
W. Weaver & Son, the leading dry goods merchants in this county, is now in the market buying goods.

On last Thursday the trustees of Lafayette College, at Easton, conferred the honorary degree of LL. D. on the Rev.
Dr. H. W. McKnight, President of Pennsylvania College, this place. It is an honor worthily bestowed.

A Serious Accident.

Cecil Taney, a little boy nine years of age, youngest son of Mr. Edward S.
Taney, whilst playing with some gunpowder in a box, one day last week, managed to ignite it unexpectedly, when an explosion followed which burned him terribly about the head and face. His eye brows and eye lashes were burned off and it was feared at first, that his sight had been destroyed, this, however, was not the case, but his eye lids are fearfully burned, also his lips, ears and in fact his whole face.
Dr. Brawner was summoned, and the wounds of the little sufferer were dressed at once, and through careful and skillful attention, he is rapidly recovering.

550 for a Guess.

The Boys' Holiday offers three prizes in gold, of $50, $25 and $10 respectively, for the best three guesses on a simple question. It doesn't cost anything to make the guess, and boys and girls, men and women, young and old alike stand an equal chance of winning. The particulars are given in No. 11 of The Boys' Holiday, for sale everywhere, or sent for 5 cents by the Publisher, 19 Beekman St., N. Y.

B. M. F. C.

The March meeting of the Blue Mountain Farmer's Club was held last Saturday the 1st inst., at the residence of Mr. Samuel G. Ohler. The discussion of the subject carried over from the February meeting was postponed owing to the absence of two of the members who were booked for speeches on the subject. The members present were entertained in a sumptuous manner and after dinner walked to the residence of his son, Mr. J. Rowe Ohler, and after examining his fine stock and noting the condition of his premises, complimented him on the same. The Club adjourned to meet the 1st Saturday and 3rd day of May, at the residence of Mr. A. H. Maxwell, when the discussion of the former subject will be resumed.

The Story of Johnstown.

James L. Place the publisher of this interesting work, deserves the thanks of the reading public, for the manner in which the story of the founding, progress, and awful destruction of this far famed manufacturing town is presented to the public. The story is interesting and thrilling as a romance from first to last, whilst the artistic and masterly finished style of the work, makes it an ornament as well as a valuable historical account of the rise and fall of an important city whose inhabitants were regarded as friends and almost neighbors. As the work is being sold for the benefit of the sufferers by the flood, the publisher has not only shown taste and judgment in getting it out, but a large share of christian benevolence which should claim the recognition of a generous public. Mr. Wm.
H. Weaver is agent for this place, and has already sold a large number of the books. Mr. Weaver being one of the sufferers in the terrible Johnstown calamity, having with his family been in the water for a length of time, is enabled to explain the work and its illustrations as only one can who was a witness.

Waked Up Effectually.

A lethargic, dormant condition of the liver is hardly to be overcome with drastic cathartics and mucous enemas. A gentler, plastic and far more effective means exists of arousing the organ when so moribund. This is Foster's Stomach Bitters, vouches for by the medical fraternity, tested by the public for many years. A re-constitution by the billary organ of its secretory function, with the activity attendant upon health, a return to regularity of the bowels, and a renewal of digestion, are the no less happy and certain results of using the Bitters systematically. Its laxative effect is more painful and lessening. Its tendency being rather to perpetuate regularity than to produce a copious action. Malaria, nervousness, debility, kidney troubles and neuralgia it subdues effectually.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., March 1, 1890. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Miss Kate Bentz, Miss Arieta Burgere, Miss Emma Flenner, Isaac Miner, (col.)
William Maclin, Miss Myrtle Sipes, Chas. F. Smith, Miss Martha Tirpen.

HELMAN.

Will be found at his new store, opposite Reformed Church, where he intends keeping a general assortment of goods at prices to commend them to all. Ladies Dress Goods a specialty. Nice cassimeres and fine china. The celebrated Perry Clark custom made shoes for ladies, every pair warranted, also general line shoes, Dry Goods, Groceries,

Tuesday morning for Johnstown, Pa.

Mr. Joseph F. Baker and wife started for St. Joseph, Mo., on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. David Weaver of Hanover is visiting his son, Mr. Wm. H. Weaver in this place.

Dr. J. H. Hickey went to Reading, Pa., on Monday, and will practice his profession in that city.

Mr. George Wivell and sister, Miss Margaret Wivell have returned to their home in Prince George's county.

Mrs. Geo. B. Resser and daughter Alice, of Lebanon, Pa., are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Motter.

Masters Motter and Stewart Annan, and Miss Anna Annan of New Windsor College are visiting their parents in this place.

Mr. William S. Guthrie and family, consisting of his wife, four children and Miss Hallie Smith, Mrs. Guthrie's sister left for St. Joseph, Mo., on Wednesday afternoon, where they will make their future home.

We had a pleasant call on Monday evening from Mr. James H. Fier, of the Clarion, Mechanicsstown, who with his sister, Miss Beth Fier made a short visit at Mr. J. H. Stokes.

Mr. Harry M. Troxell of St. Joseph, Mo., is visiting among his old friends in this place. He left here 14 years ago and this is his first visit to the

ITEMS FROM LOYS.

The annual examination is in progress in the school at this place.

Mr. James Laymon is moving this week to Howard county.

There will be a sociable at Mr. Samuel Beitlers this (Wednesday) evening.

Messrs. Frederick Mori, C. W. Loy and Jos. Devilbiss have gone to Frederick to-day.

Miss Minnie Geiser, of Waynesboro, is coming to-day on a visit to Mr. Jeremiah Martin's.

Messrs. C. V. Fisher and Jer. Martin are at work filling up the ugly rats in the road between Creagerstown and the station.

The weather since Saturday has been quite cold although not making much ice. Last night we had rain and snow and to-day the mountains are white.

The revival in the Lutheran Church, Creagerstown, began this week. The revival spoken of two weeks ago was in the Winebrenarian instead of the Lutheran Church.

Easter eggs are coming soon this year. Those we have seen were wooden ones, and cost a nickel or a dime a dozen. The eggs were nearly as large as a goose egg and had a slot in them for putting in the money. The device is for the aid of the Lutheran church in Creagerstown.

Real Estate Transfers.

Death of Mrs. Sheets.

In the obituary column of this issue is the notice of the death of Mrs. Savilla Sheets, an estimable former resident of this place. Mrs. Sheets was born and raised near Sell's mill on the Monocacy, and lived a number of years in Emmitsburg. From here she removed to Dayton, Ohio, and returning east took up her residence in Baltimore. She leaves two children, Dr. L. D. Sheets of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. E. D. Miller, of Baltimore. Her death occurred at the residence of the latter and was the result of pneumonia following an attack of la grippe. Notwithstanding her advanced age, Mrs. Sheets retained all her faculties unimpaired to the end. Her remains were brought to this place on Tuesday and buried in the Lutheran Cemetery.

From the Gettysburg Compiler.

In response to a petition of the Junior Class of Pennsylvania College, the Faculty have decided to do away with the Junior Exhibition recently held at the end of the second term. This year it was announced for the 21st and 22d of the present month.

Mountjoy Lutheran church, on the Taneytown road, about six miles south of Gettysburg, was destroyed by fire on Sunday morning last. The pastor, Rev.
Mr. Heilmann, had just announced his text, when the roof was found to be on fire. The people rushed out of the building, and water from the parsonage was carried in buckets and tubs, but with no effect. It was a brick building, and the fire left nothing but the bare walls. Some of the pews were saved.
The church was insured in the Adams County Company for $1,000. The fire is supposed to have caught from the pipe, although that was repaired only a few weeks before.

FREDERICK COUNTY ITEMS.

Clipped from the columns of our Exchanges.

There is talk of building a town hall at Creagerstown.

Postmaster Keefe took charge of the Frederick postoffice on Saturday last.

Mr. John Stover has 1600 peach trees of bearing age on his farm near New Midway.

Frederick county will be entitled to about a dozen census takers, one for every 4,000 people.

A postoffice has been established at Ridgeville, this county, with Jesse P.
King as postmaster.

Henry Sigler has been appointed postmaster at Petersville and Wm. S.
Ray, at Pearl, this county.

The meat house of Jonas V. Summers, at Harmony, was robbed of about twenty pieces of meat, last Saturday night.

Edward Albaugh, of Liberty, one day last week slipped and fell, breaking both bones in his right arm, near the wrist.

"Aunt" Hetty Dorsey, probably the oldest colored woman in the county, died near Monrovia last week. She was over 100 years old.

A number of business men at Berlin have employed hands to sink a shaft for coal, and prospects are considered favorable toward coming in contact with a good vein of bituminous coal.

On Monday last the examination of the pupils in the public schools throughout the county began. The examinations are being conducted according to the schedule of questions prepared by Examiner Worthington.

Jacob Shoemaker of Ceresville, was struck and crushed by a falling tree which he had just cut, at Harmony Grove, on Wednesday of last week, and sustained injuries from the effects of which he died next day.

The Valley Savings Bank of Middletown, has been handsomely frescoed.
The ceiling, side walls and directors' room are beautifully and artistically done, and with the new and attractive furniture makes the finest banking room in the county.—News.

Valley Register: During the high wind which prevailed on Friday last as Mr. George Rensburg stepped out of Mr. Luther Dorr's store door his hat was blown from his head and in making a grab to catch it the back of his left hand struck the blade of a hay knife which was hanging outside the store.
A gash, though not very deep, was cut across the entire hand.

Mr. John W. Merchant a few days ago left at the Wolfsville News office a copy of the Frederick-Town Herald, dated January 4, 1812, which was printed at Frederick, Md., by John P.
Thompson, at two dollars per annum.
It contains an account of a destructive fire at Richmond, Va. It also contains a "Run-away" notice by Isaac Lyons of Liberty-town, this county, offering six cents reward for the return of an apprentice boy, who ran away from the subscriber.

A LITTLE BOY'S TEMPERANCE SPEECH.

Some people laugh and wonder What little boys can do To help this temperance thunder Roll all the big world through;
I'd have them look behind them, When they were small, and then I'd like just to remind them That little boys make men!

The bud becomes a flower,
The acorn grows a tree,
The minutes make the hour—
'Tis just the same with me, I'm small, but I am growing As quickly as I can;
And a temperance boy like me is bound To make a temperance man.

SULEJMAN PASHA'S GAME OF CHESS.

On a summer afternoon almost fifty years ago, Sulejman Pasha, Commander-in-chief of the Egyptian artillery, sat at coffee in a cafe on the Nile terrace in Cairo. At tables near him were many soldiers who had helped him fight the armies of Sultan Mahmud not many months before. Several of them had been with him in the battle of Nizib, when he routed the Turkish army under Hafiz Pasha and Col. von Moltke, then in the Sultan's service. But Sulejman Pasha was not thinking of the soldiers about him, nor of Hafiz Pasha, nor Col. von Moltke, nor the battle of Nizib. His whole attention was concentrated on a chessboard before him.

Sulejman Pasha was a famous chess player. In the first few weeks after his return to Cairo he had beaten dozens of times Ulema Reschid Aga, formerly the champion chess player of northern Egypt. He regarded his reputation as a chess player as somewhat akin to his reputation as a warrior. He considered chess to be pre-eminently a soldier's game, and never tired of making elaborate comparisons between strategy on the chess board and strategy on the field of battle. Every afternoon he met Ulema Reschid Aga at the cafe on the Nile terrace and beat him two or three games.

On this particular afternoon, almost fifty years ago, Ulema Reschid Aga was a little late in coming to his Waterloo, and Sulejman Pasha was having a preliminary skirmish with himself while awaiting his opponent's arrival. His diversion was interrupted by the appearance on the terrace of a long, gaunt, bony young stranger. The stranger strolled right up to the Pasha's table, and after making a half-military salute, said so loudly that every one on the terrace could hear:

"Pasha, I challenge you to a game of chess."

All the officers on the terrace sat quite still and stared at the thin, pale young man who stood before their great commander. The Pasha looked him over curiously.

"I am at your service," was his answer, after a long pause. "How high do you usually play?"

"You fix the stakes, Pasha."

"Well, a hundred ducats will not be too much."

The stranger nodded and sat down. The lots were cast. The game was begun. All the officers in the cafe left their coffee to crowd around the players. The first few moves convinced them that the long bony fingers of the stranger had moved chess men many times before. At the end of twenty minutes the Pasha's eyes suddenly brightened and he smiled. He had an invincible combination. He placed his queen before his opponent's queen. The officers began to grumble, for they thought their commander had lost his head. Only Reschid Aga, who in the mean time had joined the crowd of spectators, looked happy. He had guessed his friend's combination, and he, too, was sure that it was invincible.

"He will take the queen," commented the spectators.

"Then he will be checkmated in eight moves," whispered back Reschid Aga, his eyes fixed on the board.

"And if he doesn't take her?"

"He will lose his own," said the ex-champion.

The stranger moved a pawn. Sulejman took his queen. The officers thought it was all up with the gaunt young man, and started back to their coffee. They were called back, however, by the first words the Pasha's opponent had spoken since he sat down to the table.

"Pasha, in twelve moves you will be checkmated."

The interest of the Pasha's friends became intense. They counted each move aloud. One—two—three—four—and the Pasha was already hard pressed. Five—six—seven—eight—nine—and his men were hemmed in on all sides. Ten—the Pasha tried in vain to break the blockade by sacrificing his queen. Eleven—he drew back his king into a corner. Twelve—"Checkmate."

There was a dead silence, all stared at the Pasha. He thought hard for several minutes, without a word. Then he looked searchingly at the stranger and said:

"Once before I have seen chess played as you play it. Your strategy is not new to me, although I cannot cope with it. The game that your playing reminds me of was much finer than this. It was played with cavalry and infantry and heavy artillery, till the ground shook under our feet. The great chess player from the North who was then against me had 150,000 men. In his hands they were invincible. The mad and envious interference of Hafiz Pasha ruined his combinations, however, and, happily for our side, gave us the game."

The Pasha stopped a moment to scrutinize the stranger's face. It was expressionless. Then he said: "Young man, you remind me of that great chess player from the North who all but routed us at Nizib, as you routed me here. Only one man in the world can play chess like that. He is Col. von Moltke."

"You have it," answered the stranger, reaching the Pasha his hand across the chess-table, "I am Moltke."—N. Y. Sun.

A Story of Sheriff Biedler.

Biedler was as intrepid as he was fertile of resource in danger. One time at Miles City he came out of the door of a saloon to find himself within twenty inches of the muzzle of a 44-calibre revolver in the hand of a noted desperado on whose trail the Deputy Marshal had of times camped.

"I'm going to blow the innards out of your skull, you vigilante hound," quoth the bad man.

"Not with that thing," said X., in a conversational, but semi-querulous tone; "it ain't cooked."

The bad man threw up the pistol to see if Biedler was right, and made the mistake of a life which ended right there.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

STRANGER—There doesn't seem to be any choir this morning.

Texas Sexton—No; the organist and tenor are both laid up with pistol wounds.

Stranger—Has there been any trouble hereabouts lately?

Texas Sexton—Oh, no. Them two fellers just got into a little friendly dispute over the hymns to be sung to-day? that's all.—Exchange.

PHILANTHROPIST. "You have a horrible cough, my man."

Mendicant. "Yes, sir! Terrible."

Philanthropist. "Come with me and I'll cure it."

Mendicant (scornfully). "Get out! If it wasn't for that cough I'd starve or have to go to work."

—Lowell Mail.

"MAMMA, what's hereditary?" asked Bobbie, laboriously tripping over the syllables of the long word.

"Why, it is it is anything you get from your father or me," replied the mother, a little puzzled for a definition suited to his years.

Silence of two minutes.

"Then, ma," he asked, "is spunkiness hereditary?"—Health Monthly.

SMALL BOY—Say, how do you sell your white liver?

Butcher—Hav'n't got no white liver.

SMALL BOY—You have, too, cause mother said this mornin' that the white-livered butcher had sent her a bill.

"WHAT do you mean, sir, by swearing before my wife? You must apologize!"

"Pardon monsieur? Pardon! I do make an apology. I did not know ze lady wish to swear ze first."—Courrier des Etats-Unis.

Blaine's Unlucky House.

The death of Mrs. Coppinger, Secretary Blaine's daughter, directed attention anew to the unlucky house in which the Blaines live. The house is the old Seward mansion and in it Mr. Blaine has met his keenest personal sorrows. There were fears of calamity overtaking him or his family when it was announced that he had leased the old building, and gossip, superstitions and tragic, was heard among all who knew the history of the place. Had it been a haunted house, had ghosts been seen there in convention, there could not have been more talk. Some folks there were, though, who believed that the look of Blaine would offset everything and when the family of the Secretary of State gave a reception to their hosts of friends and the rooms were filled with a gay, fortune-favored throng the protestants against superstition declared that the spell, if ever there were any, was broken.

Yet within a week the eldest son of the secretary, Walker Blaine, fell sick and died. That made talk about the house and people said it was an unlucky spot. Now Mrs. Coppinger, Blaine's daughter, is dead, and once more the story of calamity is told. There may be something, there may be nothing, in the tale of superstition, but certain it is that if the house was in the real estate market to-day it would be long before it got a taker. The house stands on Lafayette Square. It was built before the war, and one of its earliest occupants was Secretary Spencer. Upon his family the evil spirits of the house first visited their fate. The Secretary's son was a lieutenant in the navy and while his father was in the house his son was hanged to the yard arm of his ship for his alleged participation in a mutiny. Then the Washington Club had the place during President Buchanan's administration. The men about town belonged to the club, and Philip Barton Key, the reckless, adventurous District Attorney of the District of Columbia, was one of the members. There had long been talk connecting him with the handsome wife of General Sickles, then a Representative in Congress. The Sickles house was on Lafayette Square, and one February morning, when the sun was shining, a handkerchief was seen fluttering from one of the windows in the house of General Sickles. Young Key answered it and stepped buoyantly up the square. Sickles, who had seen the signals, caught him in front of the house, and in a moment Key lay on the walk wounded to death. It is only a few years since the tree against which he fell was cut down.

Secretary Seward next occupied the place. On April 14, 1865, while he lay ill in bed, a man came to the house saying he had been ordered to fetch some medicine and deliver it in person to Mr. Seward. This was denied him, but the stranger knocked down Frederick W. Seward and a servant, rushed into the Secretary's room, and tried to kill him with a dagger. He was captured, but he escaped and rode off on his horse, which had been standing in the street. His name was Lewis Payne, and after awhile he was caught and put to death. The War Department, fearing that other attempts might be made to assassinate Mr. Seward, ordered that a sentry patrol before the house night and day. This was done, and for four years was continued, even though for a long part of that time the Searwards were not there.

Next the mansion was taken by Secretary Belknap. He had not been there long before his wife died. That ended the occupancy of the house as a residence. The government rented it and used it for the Commissary General's office. When the Commissary General's staff was moved to the new building of the War Department the house was left vacant, and no one dared to face the evil fates by taking it until Mr. Blaine leased it. He tore down the partitions that made rooms where the Seward assassination had occurred, and with a lavish spending of money transformed the musty old office apartments and made them beautiful with the furnishings of a rich man's home. But the decorations have seemed more like those of a tomb, and men want to know what will be next in the series of misfortunes that appear to come to those who inhabit this historic home.—N. Y. Sun.
