"BOYS WILL BE BOYS."

"Boys will be boys." We resent the old saying, Current with men; Let it be heard, in excuse for our straying.

Never again! Ours is a hope that is higher and clearer, Ours is a purpose far brighter and dearer, Ours is a name that should silence the jeerer!

We will be men!

"Boys will be boys" is an unworthy

slander;

Boys will be men!

The spirit of Philip in young Alexander,

Kindled again!

As the years of our youth fly swiftly away,

As brightens about us the light of life's day,

As the glory of manhood dawns on us,

we say:

We will be men!

"Boys will be boys" Yes, if boys may be pure

Models for men;

If their thoughts may be modest, their truthfulness sure,

Say it again!

If boys will be boys such as boys ought to be—

Boys full of sweet-minded, light-hearted glee—

Let boys be boys, brave, loving and free,

Till they are men!

—Christian Union.

One Woman's Ways.

"It's no use; I've worn all the cast-off clothes I'm going to."

There was no sign of irritation or ill-nature in the girl's bright face as she made this assertion. She sat in the center of a heap of discarded finery. There were frayed and spotted velvet skirts, satin and silk waists, strained out and threadbare in almost every seam, flounced and bedraggled gros grains and nun's veilings, crumpled ribbons and torn laces.

"What do you propose to wear?"

Florence Annable's only companion on this occasion was her married sister, Mrs. Paul Grenman, in whose pretty ears sparkled valuable solitaires, and whose fingers were crowned with costly jewels.

Mrs. Grenman's tone was cold, and the smile on her faultless lips was a most a snarl.

"I don't mean anything unkind,

Julia," Miss Annable replied, "but the truth is, I am not comfortable in second hand clothing."

"Blanche would be edified at your remarks, Florence," said Mrs.

Grenman; "it was no easy task to get these things together," she added, with increased hauteur. "You know very well that my maid expects every garment that I discard,

and so does Blanche's."

Notwithstanding her protest, the young lady had selected the least injured of the velvet skirts and had begun to rip off the braid. But she threw down her scissors now and stepped out of the debris.

"That settles it, Julia," she said,

with shining eyes, but with no other indication of excitement. "I will sort those 'rags and jags' and velvet gowns' into bundles, and you and Blanche need not disappoint

your maids."

"What stupidity, Florence!"

Mrs. Grenman hastened to say.

"You know we want you to have our things. You have made lovely costumes many times out of poorer material than that."

The lady's tone was a little more conciliatory. She evidently had

THE TRAMP NUISANCE.

Our citizens were again called upon to discuss the tramp nuisance on Monday evening by the affair which happened with Mr. Bell, yet no conclusion can be arrived at as to the best means of getting rid of it. Many persons think as a rule the tramps are a harmless set of creatures, owing to the comparatively few depredations committed at their hands, as compared with the large numbers which infest this community.

There is no doubt that we have more tramps to bother with than any other portion of the state, coming as they do in squads, and remaining several days at a time. The turnpike bridge over the meadow just above it on the South bank of Tom's creek is a rendezvous for them, where they remain for days at a time, sheltered in one of the prettiest spots nature ever produced, and taking their meals regularly at St. Joseph's where they are always provided for. That this bridge is a dangerous place on account of the tramps all will admit, but the problem of how to get rid of them remains unsolved, while the recent act of the Legislature in regard to carrying concealed weapons places citizens more at their mercy than ever. According to our interpretation of the law, if a citizen should be accosted by these idle, worthless vagabonds and produce and use a weapon in self defence, these same tramps could secure his arrest for carrying concealed weapons, and under the law have a fine imposed, one-half of which would go to them as informers, and in addition the citizen who thus defended himself would be committed to jail. We don't favor the carrying of weapons by private citizens, but insist that when the means of defence is taken from them, they should also be relieved of the necessity thereof.

THE FARMERS' LEAGUE.

The movement started on Monday in the formation of a Farmers' League here is exactly in accord with our views on the subject. The farming interest in this country is the basis upon which all other industries are framed and maintained, and it seems high time that the farmers themselves should branch out and try to make their influence felt; demand just treatment at the hands of the general government and of those by whom it is controlled. By adhering to the sentiments expressed at Monday's meeting more can be done towards overthrowing bossism and political corruption than by any amount of newspaper comment. At the primaries is the place to begin. Let them be attended by honest men, having the interests of the agriculturist uppermost in their minds, and after securing the nomination of the right kind of men to fill our public offices, let the farmer cast his ballot for men, laying aside his party feelings. For years the farmers of this country have been supporting a set of smooth-tongued politicians, who after securing their ballots on election day, care nothing for them until their support is again wanted at the polls. These columns will ever be found ready to support any movement which has for its object the advancement of the farmers' interests.

THE CENSUS OF 1890.

As the census enumerator will begin his work in a few days the citizens of our free and independent republic had better prepare themselves to meet with firmness the inquisitorial ordeal to which they will be subjected.

If they can keep their faces straight and answer seriously when the government inquisitor gravely asks them if they are black, white, indian or quadroon? if they can speak and understand English, if they are deaf or dumb or blind, if they are males or females? &c., they will do well, and silly as the thing may seem they can accept it as coming from the wise law-givers of the land. But when by the authority of these same law-givers, their agents seek to invade the privacy of individual life, to compel free-born Americans to reveal personal or family secrets which even Russian despotism would not attempt, it is hard to imagine how the men and women throughout the country will nerve themselves to answer even though the penalty of refusal be fine and imprisonment.

ANOTHER FLOOD.

The heavy rains of Sunday and Monday were pretty general throughout the country and floods are reported at different places. At Johnstown about fifty houses were flooded up to the second story, the water was very high at Pittsburgh and other points in Pennsylvania. New York was also visited and a large break occurred in the Utica Canal. In Maryland along the Potomac considerable damage was done. At Williamsport the river rose over twenty feet and flooded its banks. Several streets in Cumberland were also flooded. No serious damage has been reported.

JOHN M. SHARPE will erect, at a cost of two millions of dollars, a nine-story hotel in Philadelphia, which will be the largest building of its kind in that city.

AN IMPORTANT CENSUS ORDER.

Superintendent of the Census Robert P. Porter has issued this order to all census supervisors: "You will please instruct enumerators, in cases where persons refuse to answer the questions on the Population Schedule relating to physical and mental disabilities (22 and 23), or of questions relating to farms, homes and mortgages (26 to 30, inclusive), to enter in the proper column, the words 'Refused to answer.' No further steps will be necessary on the part of the supervisor or enumerator, and all legal proceedings will be instituted by the Washington office, through the Department of Justice."

The accident on Wednesday caused by Mr. Kerschner's horse scaring at a loose piece of paper on the street, should have the effect of breaking up this nuisance. Some horses will scare at loose pieces of paper that don't mind anything else. This is an easy matter to keep such things off the street and we hope never to be called upon to comment on this matter again.

GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN completed his trip around the world Saturday evening, arriving at Tacoma, Washington, at seven o'clock. The time from start to finish was 67 days 13 hours, 3 minutes and 3 seconds. This beats the record of Nellie Bly 4 days, 12 hours, 47 minutes and 57 seconds.

Scrivener's Magazine for June furnishes its readers with a portrait of the celebrated African explorer, Henry M. Stanley and also accounts of the expedition undertaken by him for the relief of Emin Pasha. Russell Sturgis writes of "The City House—East and South"; there is a story commenced to be continued through the year, with the unpretending title of "Jerry," and as the author's name is not given, the mystery attending his or her personality enhances the reader's enjoyment of the pathos and naturalness of a deeply interesting history. FARMERS' LEAGUE ORGANIZED.

A Meeting of Representative Farmers, who have decided to Consolidate and use their combined influence to Advance the Farmers' Interest.

In pursuance of a call made through these columns last week, a meeting of representative farmers of this vicinity was held at Gelwicks' Hall on Monday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the election of Mr. Wm. P. Gardner as chairman; R. E. Hockensmith, secretary; and S. W. Clark, treasurer.

The object of the meeting was stated, as being that of forming a permanent organization, the combined influence of which was to be exerted in the interest of the farmers, mechanics and laboring classes, securing for them equal rights with the monopolists and professional men.

The chairman then requested Mr. Theodore McAllister, president of the Gettysburg League, to make a statement in regard to the workings of that organization, and give such information as he could in regard to the benefits that would accrue from this movement.

Mr. McAllister started by giving his reasons for favoring the League rather than other organizations, which were, its simplicity, its cheapness, and the fact of its being devoid of all secrets, stating that "the farmer needed no secrets, no pass word, no grip, his horny hand being sufficient assurance of his avocation." He further stated that the League was an independent, non-partisan organization, working in harmony with the Alliance, Farmers' Union, Grange and kindred associations, agricultural societies, farmers' clubs, etc. He also spoke of the rapid growth the League had attained in New England, and spreading throughout the entire country. In the State of Pennsylvania alone over seventy branches had been organized this spring, and a meeting is to be held on Saturday to form a State League. Mr. McAllister closed by saying that he thought it was high time for the farmers to organize and look after their own interests, and draw the line against professional politicians. While no party is recommended the farmers and laborers are called upon to attend the primaries and see that their interests are taken care of. They are called upon to have more liberal political views, they are in the majority and can control the political parties. Here Mr. Mc. stated that the only fear he had was that these parties would be too easily controlled and they would have to guard against the possibility of having a crowd of political burners dropping in and filling up their ranks [Laughter]. In reply to the question whether mechanics and laboring men were admitted in the League, Mr. McAllister said that was left entirely to the local organizations.

Mr. James W. Troxell then read the League's plan of work, as follows:

The Farmers' League is a non-secret, independent, non-partisan organization, in harmony with the Alliance, Wheel, Farmers' Union, Grange and kindred associations, agricultural societies, farmers' clubs, and similar organizations. But the League goes a step further. Its object is the farmers' political welfare. The work of the League is directed toward securing a just representation and influence of the agricultural interests in Congress and in the Legislatures, and due recognition of farmers in all public affairs, without conflicting with the best interests of the entire people. It consists of a National League and of State Leagues, with County and Town Leagues where desired. The National League has general supervision of the affairs of the Farmers' League and the work of organization, and attends specially to its interests in Congress. The State Leagues, as soon as organized, push the work of organization in their respective States, and attend to the farmers' special interests in the Legislature. The County League attends to the farmers' interests in County matters, and the Town League attends to the farmers' interests in Town matters. The Town Leagues furnish the delegates who constitute the County Leagues, and attend to the farmers' interests in local districts, and in each election precinct. Town and County Leagues are not compulsory. The payment of Fifty Cents constitutes life membership in the Farmers' League.—State and National Leagues are recommended, especially where no other organization exists.

The secretary then read the constitution of the National League, after which speeches were made by Messrs. Jos. Byers, John Donoghue and James W. Troxell. Mr. Byers.—After stating the position of the farmer of to-day as being deplorable, and alluding to the entire finances of this great country being controlled by a few individuals, said that we needed more farmers in our Legislative bodies and in the halls of Congress, who would enact laws so plain that any school boy could understand them. He then gave an illustration of how the time of the Legislature was consumed by long debates on local bills, and the expense of the same to the State.

Mr. Donoghue said that he knew nothing about the workings of the different organizations, but thinks it high time for the farmers to consolidate and work together. The Farmers' League is a non-secret, independent, non-partisan organization, and its supporters only such party or such men as will look after their welfare.

Mr. Troxell believes that with a proper organization of the farmers one or the other of the two great political parties would be subverted, as it is responsible for three parties to exist. That farmers should lay aside their party feeling and vote for men, instead of adhering to the parties to which their fathers belonged regardless of their own welfare. All other crafts have organized as has capital, to the detriment of the farmers and mechanics, and now it is high time for the farmer to go earnestly to work and in his own behalf. Mr. Troxell spoke at length upon the time consumed by our Legislatures at a great expense to the State, the evil influence of the lobbyists, and of the unjust and unequal taxation; stating the fact that the twenty-eight railroads in the State of Maryland paid into the Treasury annually the paltry sum of $28,000. He also stated that the taxable basis of this county had within a comparatively short time been reduced $2,962,000, which is accounted for by the money being invested in Mortgages which are exempt from taxation. He said that he wanted to see was the farmer and workingman taxed for what he is actually worth, and the same applied to the capitalist. Under the present law if a man buys a farm for $10,000 and has but $5,000 to pay on to one, after taking two bottles of this medicine, the eruption began to disappear, and with the third bottle it left me entirely.—Louis Depehndt, 125 Sumner ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. Traveler for G. H. Buck & Co., Lithographers, 116 Centre st., New York.

Mr. Absalom Smith then moved that they organize a Local League at once, which was carried. Unfortunately it was growing late at this stage of the proceedings, and a large number had left the hall during the tedious part of the meeting, and consequently many who would have signed as members at once, will not be enrolled until the next meeting. The following have already signed: Wm. P. Gardner, Joseph Byers, Absalom Smith, D. S. Gillelan, James W. Troxell, Geo. L. Gillelan, A. H. Maxwell, N. C. Stansbury, Wm. T. Smith, J. J. Hockensmith, W. E. Fisher and R. E. Hockensmith. The following officers were then elected: President, Wm. P. Gardner; Vice-President, James W. Troxell; Secretary, R. E. Hockensmith; Treasurer, D. S. Gillelan.

In order to secure a charter and outfit from the National League it is necessary to send the names of five charter members, with 50 cents each and $2 to pay for the charter. The initiation fees of all other members is divided between the State and Local Leagues.

The secretary was authorized to apply at once for a charter, with James W. Troxell, Wm. P. Gardner, Joseph Byers, Absalom Smith, and N. C. Stansbury as charter members.

The next meeting will be held on Saturday, June 21st, at 2 o'clock, p. m., in Gelwicks' Hall this place.

May Crop Report.

The May crop report of the Department of Agriculture furnishes the following in regard to the condition of wheat in Maryland: Harford—Looking well. Kent—Is looking remarkably well; a small green bug has appeared on wheat, but so far has wrought no injury. Queen Anne's—Never looked better; very little winter killed or injured by wet weather. Somerset—Owing to the very mild winter, wheat is more advanced than ever known at this date. Cecil—In excellent condition. Baltimore—Looks very promising. Caroline—Some trouble from insects, causing plants to turn yellow; otherwise looks well and bids fair for a good crop. Howard—Was never so far advanced at this date. St. Mary's—With exception of a little blight looks very promising. Talbot—Fallow wheat heavy and two weeks in advance of ordinary seasons; later seeding, on corn land, of less growth and backward; no dry or other trouble thus far.

JOHN SMITH is the happiest man that I know. But wasn't he blue, though, not three months ago? "My life's running down just as fast as a steam train." And the doctors can't help her," and then this poor man. Almost cried as he thought of the poor, suffering wife. Who seemed to be losing her hold upon life.

"Smith, I know just how you feel," said a friend to whom he told his sad story. "My wife was troubled precisely as yours is. I don't just understand it, because I'm not a woman, but her back pained her, and she complained of dragging-down feelings, and a general weakness and I know that she had some of those diseases women are subject to, and had 'em bad, too. I read about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription one day, and the first time I was at the drug store I bought a bottle of it and took home to her. It worked wonders. In a short time she said she felt like another woman, and she began to hope that there was relief for her after all. She kept on taking the medicine for a time, and now she's well. Get a bottle of the 'Prescription' and try it on your wife." "I will," said Smith. And he did, and it cured her and that's why he's so happy to-day.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Grand Celebration—Appropriate Address by Hon. Milton G. Urner—Large Procession—How those Mechanicstown Boys Drill—Tribute to Thinks.

This morning dawned bright and clear, nature seeming to have entered into the spirit of the beautiful custom to be observed to-day, that of honoring the memories of our fallen heroes and strewing their graves with beautiful flowers. At an early hour crowds of people began coming to town, and it was at once realized that the spacious Opera House would not accommodate half of the vast assemblage, so it was decided to hold the services on the public square. Seats were arranged on the Western Maryland Hotel porch for the accommodation of the Choral Union, and others taking part in the service. The band escorted the two horse companies from firemen's hall, to the square, when the service was opened by singing "The Star Spangled Banner," which was rendered as a solo and chorus by the Choral Union with Mrs. J. Kay Wrigley as soloist. Then followed the Invocation by Rev. Luther DeYoe, after which the Choral sang the "Decoration Hymn."

Hon. Milton G. Urner, the orator of the day then delivered an appropriate and touching address, which although brief, was full of feeling. He started by showing the growth of sentiment in favor of the beautiful custom of celebrating this day and the general observance of it now as compared with the time of its inauguration, twenty-two years ago, when the first celebration was held, in pursuance of an order issued by Gen. John A. Logan, then Commander-in-Chief of the G. A. R. Stating further that it was gratifying to know that Memorial Day had now been added to the list of legal holidays in Maryland, and that the credit for this was largely due to the earnest exertions of Maj. O. A. Horner, Commander of Arthur Post, Emmitsburg. He made brief allusion to the causes of the civil war and the fact that the bitter past had been forgotten. He spoke of the difference between the laboring man to bare his breast to the enemy's bullets and that of the man with a military education and the consequent ambitions; cited the custom of erecting monuments to the memory of our distinguished dead and referred to the delay in the erection of a suitable memorial to that gallant commander, Gen. U. S. Grant, who concluded his remarks by saying that as the old heroes passed away the beautiful customs of decoration day would be taken up and carried on by the Sons of Veterans and with a few remarks upon the duty all men owe to their country and society he earnestly efforts toward securing purity of the ballot box. Mr. Urner finished by reading the following appropriate poem:

Ye veterans from many a hard fought battle-field,
Who came this day to yield
Your hearts' deep tribute to your comrades brave,
You saved your country in her darkest hour;
Her voice still calls; again she bids you save
Her liberties.
From all her enemies,
And with a freeman's power
Fight her great battles now at home in peace
'Till every wrong shall cease;
And when in joy returns each fair November's sun,
Let your pure ballots keep what your bright
Let us keep fast what Freedom here has Gained;
The ballot true from every fraud unstained,
Guarded by bands well trained,
Impartial, equal to each citizen.
The strength of our liberty;
This is the fortress of our liberty;
Who keeps this post secure we are free,
While over the land unnumbered schools, like flowers, shall rise,
And countless spirits point upward to the skies.
Oh, words are weak beside the grave,
When patriots die our liberties to save!
Yet here we may rejoice
Our vows to Freedom and her consecrate
Ourselves to the great service, firm and true.
Above our heads our country's banners wave
Their stars of stainless white in their bright fields of blue.
Sulking like stars around heaven's morning
glare,
Here we may pledge each faithful heart and hand,
To stand
By Freedom's sacred cause; that all the land,
From green Niagara's rainbow-crowned spray,
To the Arabian shores of Tampa's placid bay,
From Alaska's peak of snow-capped mountains,
To the wide fields of far off Mexico,
Shall never, never more be trodden by a slave.
We shall the people, true to Freedom's cause,
Live under equal laws;
And every trait of tyranny shall fade,
Nor race nor color shall their rights degrade;
That all may live in peace till life's bright sands are run.
In happy Freedom's home the happiest death
the sun.

The service at the square was concluded by the chorus "Drop the Anchor." The parade was at once formed on the square in the following order: Chief Marshal Maj. O. A. Horner, with his staff composed of Messrs. John C. Late, Samuel J. Maxwell, Ad. D. Reimer, Emmit Cornet Band, O. E. Horner, leader; Arthur Post No. 41, G. A. R., in charge of S. N. McNair, senior vice-commander, Harvey G. Winter, junior vice-commander, and Geo. L. Gillen, adjutant; Sons of Veterans, commanded by officers of the day, Wm. A. Fraley of Arthur Post; Sunday School Children, presided over by Mr. Joseph Waddles; Vigilant Hose Company, Capt. Geo. T. Eyster in command; Massachusetts Tribe, O. B. M., Geo. T. Gelwick, marshals; Carriage containing Hon. M. G. Urner, Rev. Dr. Simonton, Rev. U. H. Heilmann and Rev. Luther DeYoe; Guardian Hose Company of Mechanicstown, commanded by Capt. Frank Stokes. The rear was brought up by a number of Citizens in carriages, and Harry Hoke with his goat team.

The procession moved down Main street to Federal, up Federal to Green, Green to Gettysburg street, halting at the Catholic Cemetery, where a detail from Arthur Post directed the strewing of graves at that place by the children of the Catholic Sunday School. Para then moved to the square and up Main street to the West End and returning to the Lutheran Cemetery, where a halt was made and after the chorus "Let Them Rest" had been sung by the Choral Union, the Grand Army Ritual was read by Commander O. A. Horner.

The soldiers' graves at this place were then strewn with flowers by the Sunday school children. Procession then moved down the Lutheran Church alley to the square, where it disbanded. A committee from the Presbyterian, Methodist and Tom's Creek Cemeteries and decorated the graves there.

Letters of regret at not being able to attend were received by Commander Horner, from Hon. Wm. M. Marine, Collector of the Port of Baltimore; Dr. H. A. Maughlin, Assistant Adjutant General, Department of Maryland, G. A. R.; Mr. John W. Kaufman, Deputy Naval Officer of the Port of Baltimore and Commander of Reynolds' Post, G. A. R.; and J. G. Maynard, Recruiting Sergeant, U. S. Army.

This afternoon Arthur Post, G. A. R., Massachusetts Tribe, O. B. M., and the Emmit Cornet Band went to Mechanicstown to take part in the services at that place.

The manner in which the Guardian Hose Company of Mechanicstown drilled and manoeuvred on the drill-ground, was commended by all who saw them. Many of their movements are very pretty and the precision with which they were executed is remarkable and highly commendable. 'Tis a pleasure to see such work.

TRIBUTE OF THANKS.

Arthur Post, G. A. R., returns heartfelt and most sincere thanks to:

First—To Hon. Milton G. Urner for his fine and patriotic address.

Secondly—To the members of the Choral Union for the fine music rendered.

Thirdly—To the organizations who so kindly took part in the service and parade.

Fourthly—To the Ministers and Citizens generally who assisted in the service and the committee of ladies and all who furnished flowers in such profusion.

Fifthly—To the CHRONICLE for the programmes and notices of the occasion, and to Mr. Bowers of the Western Maryland Hotel, who so kindly gave us the use of his porch and organ for the services.

ONE of Mr. Stieff's tuners will be in town next week; persons desiring to have their pianos tuned would do well to avail themselves of the opportunity.

Troublesome Tramps.

On Monday evening Mr. John Bell, Jr., was passing through the turnpike bridge over Tom's creek when two tramps accosted him and asked to ride. Not thinking of any harm Mr. Bell took them in and drove out the pike as far as Mr. E. S. Taney's, where he stopped to deliver some milk feed, leaving the tramps in the wagon on his road to the house and wagon going up the road at full tilt. Mr. Bell procured a horse and followed, catching up to him near the College, where the horse was tied to the fence, one of the wagon wheels having broken down. The tramps, who were the services of Constable Hahn, residing in that neighborhood, who captured both the tramps and brought them to town. When arraigned before Justice Stokes they were discharged, because there was no charge against them upon which they could be committed, and a while after a crowd of citizens assisted them in beating a hasty retreat out the pike.

Eugen D'Albert to William Knabe & Co. (Translation from the German.)

During my sojourn here I had frequent opportunities to make myself acquainted with the Knabe pianos, and from fullest conviction I declare them to be the best instruments of America. I should not have a piano of any other make, which may be the case very soon—I shall most certainly use the pianos of this celebrated make. I give this testimonial with pleasure, voluntarily, and entirely unsolicited by the house of Knabe & Co. D'ALBERT.

Killed by Lightning.

During the storm of Tuesday last week, lightning struck the barn on Mr. Joseph Byers' farm just west of town, and killed a cow in the stable. Although the barn had three lightning rods on it, the current took effect on the roof, near the eaves, breaking one of the rods and damaging the roof and wall, and killing a cow in the stable below. Mr. B. says he has lost all faith in lightning-rods. Why the barn was not set on fire remains a mystery. The fire was not in the stable, but at the time but none of the others were affected.

Veterans of the Civil War.

As a part of the census of the people to be taken during the month of June, special provision has been made by Congress for ascertaining the names of surviving soldiers, sailors, and marines who were mustered into the service of the United States during the war of the rebellion, and of the widows of soldiers, sailors, and marines who have died. In connection with this special census of veterans the organization or vessel in which they served, the term of service in each case, and present residence will be ascertained by the census enumerators. In the case of widows, information regarding the service of their deceased husbands is also required.

The importance of accurate statements concerning the military record of each participant in the war, and the fact that the records are now being made, is underestimated. It should be the duty, moreover, of every veteran soldier or sailor to see that the enumerator is placed in possession of the necessary information concerning his own service. He should call at his home, or the enumerator calls he should leave a proper memorandum in the hands of his wife or other member of his household, so that the work of the census may not be delayed, and also that there may be no ambiguity in the statements made by the census enumerators.

That there may be no question as to the points to be covered by this memorandum, it may be well to state that the special inquiries to be made concerning the service of the civil war include the name, the company, and the regiment or vessel in which they served, their late rank, the dates of enlistment and discharge, the length of service in years, months and days, and their present place of abode. Where a soldier or sailor re-enlisted or served in more than one organization or vessel, he should be very careful to give the term of service in each instance, and to cover each enlistment. In giving the organization or vessel he should be taken to distinguish the arm of the service, as infantry, cavalry, artillery, etc., and if a person served under an assumed name, his statement should be made to cover both the name under which he served and the true name by which he is now known.

Veterans of the war generally will recognize and appreciate the value of this special census to them, and they should aid the census enumerators in every way possible. Without their co-operation correct results can not be reached. This personal appeal is made to them, therefore, in the hope that their attention may be specially directed to the importance of the census, and that the necessary information may be promptly supplied to the census enumerator when he calls some time during the month of June.

Don't Go Off Before you are Ready.

Particularly on a long journey. Be fully prepared. You cannot be permitted to say: unless you are accompanied with the traveler's and tourist's robe, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, most genial of appetizers, acclimatizers, promoters of digestion. Against sea sickness, malaria, cramps and colics, biliousness of badly cooked or unwholesome food and brackish water, nervousness, increased by travel, chronic biliousness and constipation, the Bitters is a sovereign preventive. It imparts a relish for food not altogether to your taste, and prevents all danger from disagreeing with you. Never was there such a capital thing for the unfortunate dyspeptic who stands in dread of the best cooked food, as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It purges without alarming, soothes the stomach, and restores healthy blood, which gives quietude to the system, and cures all ailments, such as rheumatism, kidney troubles and indigestion.

AN INTERESTING SPECTACLE.

First Communion Services at Mr. St. Mary's College Church—Eighty Children Made happy.

The children of the parish made their first communion in the Mountain church last Sunday at the 10 o'clock Mass, and it was a beautiful and interesting ceremony.

The children had been under instruction for some time previous and concluded their preparation with a retreat, lasting from Thursday morning till Saturday evening. There were in all about eighty children, half of whom were girls. The boys, under the care of one of the lady teachers of the Sunday School, occupied the first pews on the right of the main aisle, while the girls robed in white, with wreath and veil of same color, supervised by another of the teachers were seated in the pews to the left.

During the Mass the Rev. Jno. J. Tierney delivered an eloquent sermon on the great feast of the day, Pentecost, concluding with an earnest exhortation to the children to beg the Holy Spirit to pour into their hearts his divine peace, that they might worthily welcome the great guest who was about to visit them.

At the conclusion of the address three of the Junior college students, Masters Hugh F. Charles, Robert L. Johnston and Lucius Fungest, entered the sanctuary, and kneeling at the foot of the main altar, Master Charles read in a clear, well modulated voice, the renewal of the baptismal vows, which usually accompanies the ceremony of first communion, while his two companions knelt one at either side of him holding a lighted candle. At the communion time, the children in an orderly manner approached the altar rail, the boys to the right, the girls to the left of the altar, and having received the sacred Host, modestly retired to the places where they remained making their thanksgiving for some time after the service was over.

It was altogether a beautiful and touching sight, and one that will long be remembered by the large crowd which had assembled in the church to witness it. Upon leaving the church the children repaired to the college refectory, where, as usual upon such occasions, a roast had been prepared for them. Revs. Francis J. McCardle, Philadelphia, Pa., James J. Smith, Ivy Mills, Pa., and Pius P. Hemler, Chambersburg, Pa., visited the Mountain this week.

The inclemency of the weather on Sunday afternoon interfered with the annual May procession at St. Joseph's Church. While it was not raining at the appointed time, the dampness of the ground and threatening condition of the sky prevented the usual march around the church and through the parsonage grounds. The procession marched around the aisles inside the church. The attendance was very large.

New Buildings.

Mr. Isaac F. Bowers has erected a new house on his place, about half a mile north of town.

Mr. W. Ross White is having a new barn built on his farm. The frame was raised last week and is a very large one, having three threshing floors. The timber was all cut and saved on the place and is unusually fine.

Important.

An exchange says: "It is reported that the following questions are to be added to the census enumerators' list of inquiries: 1. To what extent are you indebted to your local newspaper? 2. Don't you feel ashamed of yourself? To avoid going on the list of persons who are indebted to their newspapers should see that their subscriptions are paid before June 1. The census enumerators begin their labors on June 2."

Box Ball.

The game of ball between the Reverses of St. Mary's College and the Gettysburg nine played yesterday, resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 31 to 11. Want of space and the late hour at which the report reached us makes it impossible to give a full account of the game.

The St. Mary's nine has made no definite arrangements yet for another game of ball, but its thought one will be obtained shortly with the well known amateurs, The Pastimes, of Baltimore.

Preparing for the Festival. On Monday evening at the invitation of the Vigilant Hose Company, a number of ladies met at the First ward hall for the fair and festival which will be held on the 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th of July. Miss Annie McBride was chosen as manager, and appointed Misses Maria Helman and Carrie Motter, and Mrs. DeYoe as her aids. Ladies also appointed to take charge of the ice cream, cake, confectionery, fruit and fancy tables and lemonade stand.

From a Former Resident.

Mr. Frank Hobbs, of Omaha, Neb., has our thanks for copies of the Bee and World-Herald of that city. Mr. Hobbs writes that he has resided there for a paper from home, so full of familiar names, and giving as the CHRONICLE does so much more news than letters do. In speaking of Omaha, he calls it "the Great City of the West," and in the time you have resided there he has seen it grow in population from 50,000 to 150,000, having also seen the first block of pavement laid in the city, while now it has 160 miles of beautifully paved streets.

A Former Student's Downfall.

Francis J. Holland, a Harvard law student, was arrested at Boston last Friday, charged with stealing a gold watch and seven bicycles from the Harvard gymnasium. He not only confessed to these thefts, but also admitted that he had been pawned.

Holland, whose home is in Boston, graduated at St. Mary's College in the class of '88, and was awarded the gold medal of the class, also the second premium in Metaphysics, first premium in Latin, second premium in Greek, second premium in English Literature and first premium in Astronomy. His speech at the Commencement exercises that year on "Capital and Labor" was highly commended, and young Holland was supposed to have a brilliant future before him. His unexpected downfall is not only a surprise but a source of deep regret to his former associates.

Disinfect Your Air.

The surest way to disinfect the air you breathe is to wear the Aunt Rachel Herb Pad. The vapor arising from these pads disperses the germs of disease from the air about your nose and mouth. The germs are driven away, so that the air you breathe is free from contagious microbes. You can go into any sick room of contagious disease, and if you wear one of these pads and keep it moistened with the tincture of Eucalypti, you will be free from catching disease from breathing the air.

The man who robbed the residence of Mr. Thos. W. Fisher at Gaithers, Carroll county is supposed to have passed through here on his way to Gettysburg. On Saturday he also stole a number of articles from the residence of James Weaver in Adams county and was caught by a constable from whom he broke away.

The Traction Company of Philadelphia has bravely undertaken a labor apparently as difficult as those of Hercules, and very much resembling one of them in character, by inaugurating a vigorous crusade against expectoration in the company's cars. It is time to call a halt somewhere. This vice is assuming immense proportions—even the house of God is not always sacred from its pollution.—American.

Officers Elected.

At the annual election for officers of the Ev. Lutheran church, this place, held on Monday, Mr. John Close was re-elected Elder and Martin Valentine, R. E. Hockensmith and Henry Keilholtz, deacons.

Mr. Geo. W. Miller was recently elected a deacon in the Reformed church to fill the vacancy caused by the removal west of Mr. W. S. Guthrie.

Painful Mishap.

Whilst Mr. Wm. C. Scott was carrying his horse on Wednesday morning, the animal raised his hind leg as though about to take a step, striking Mr. S. under the chin with the front of the leg. The force of the blow knocked two Mr. Scott's teeth loose and on his lower lip clear through besides inflicting a wound in the upper lip. He of course is experiencing considerable soreness from the mishap.

Runaway.

On Wednesday morning Mr. E. M. Kerschner went into Philip D. Lawrence's shop, leaving his horse and mill wagon standing in the street, when a loose piece of paper blowing towards him frightened the horse and turning around he started down town at a rapid rate, striking a sand pile in front of Mr. Kretzer's new building. There the wagon upset and the horse turning across the street ran against a post at Mr. D. Lawrence's, where he fell. The wagon was badly broken but the horse escaped with a few bruises.

COUNTING THE PEOPLE.

Some of the inquiries to be made by the Census Enumerators in June.

The Eleventh Census of the United States will be taken during the month of June. The census enumerators will begin their work on Monday, June 2, and will visit every house and ask questions concerning every person and every family in the United States. The questions that will be asked call for the name of every person residing in the United States on the first day of June, with their sex and age, and whether white, black, mulatto, quadroon, octoroon, or Chinese, Japanese, or Indian. Inquiry will be made also of every person as to whether they are single, married, widowed, or divorced, and, if married, whether married during the census year. The place of birth of each person, and the place of birth of the father and mother of each person, will also be called for, as well as a statement as to the profession, trade, or occupation followed and the number of months unemployed during the census year. For all persons ten years of age or over a return must be made by the enumerator as to the number able to read and write, and also the number who can speak English. For those who can not speak English the particular language or dialect spoken by them will be ascertained. For children of school age, also, the number of months they attended school will be recorded by the census enumerators. In the case of mothers an inquiry will be made as to the number of children they have had, and the number of these children living at the present time. This inquiry is to be made of all women who are or have been married, including all who are widows or have been divorced. Foreign-born males of adult age, that is, 21 years of age or over, will be asked as to the number of years they have been in the United States, and whether they are naturalized or have taken out naturalization papers. Of the head of each family visited the question will be asked as to the number of persons in the family, and whether his home is owned or hired; also, if owned, whether the home is free from mortgage incumbrance. If the head of the family is a farmer, similar inquiries will be made concerning the ownership of the farm. In addition to these inquiries, all of which are made on the population schedule, the law under which the census is taken makes provision for special inquiries concerning such of the population as may be mentally or physically defective in any respect, that is, insane, feeble-minded, deaf, blind, or crippled, or who may be temporarily disabled by sickness, disease, or accident at the time of the enumerator's visit. Certain special inquiries will also be made concerning inmates of prisons and reformatories and of charitable and benevolent institutions. Besides this, a statement will be called for concerning all persons who have died during the census year, giving their name, age, sex, occupation, and cause of death.

This official count of the people comes but once in ten years, and every family and every person should consider it to be their duty to answer the questions of the census enumerators willingly and promptly, so that definite and accurate information may be gained concerning the 65,000,000 people living within the bounds of this great country.

Vinegar for the Sick Room.

There is a French legend connected with the preparation called Vinagre a quatre Voleurs. During the plague at Marseilles a band of robbers plundered the dying and the dead without injury to themselves. They were imprisoned, tried and condemned to die, but were pardoned on condition of disclosing the secret whereby they could ransack houses infected with the terrible scourge. They gave the following recipe, which makes a delicious and refreshing wash for the sick room: Take of rosemary, wormwood, lavender, rue, sage and mint a large handful of each. Place in a stone jar and turn over it one gallon of strong cider vinegar, cover closely and keep near the fire for four days, then strain and add an ounce of powdered camphor gum. Bottle and keep tightly corked. It is very aromatic, cooling and refreshing in the sick room, and is of great value to nurses.

HOW JIM WAS FOUND.

A Pathetic Story That Will Touch the Stoutest Heart Tenderly.

The search began in May and ended in November. It was made within the four walls of a country newspaper office and through the medium of its exchanges. No "exchange fiend" has bored me since that search, for I have always remembered that perhaps there was, even in the person whom I detested, a sorrow or a longing that made his actions warrantable.

I first heard of Jim when one May afternoon, the doors and windows being open and the "copy" rustling in the breeze, a bent, white-haired settler entered the Weekly Palladium office.

"You paper feller's got each other's paper's, I s'pose?" he asked timidly.

"Yes, sir; we exchange with one another."

"Could ye let a person see some of yer papers? I'd pay yer fer it," he added, as if afraid that he was asking too much.

"Oh, that will be all right," I replied, as I piled fifty or more exchanges before him.

"Ye see, I'm lookin' fer Jim," my visitor said, apologetically, as he was adjusting his steel-bowed spectacles. "Jim, my son. We came West two years ago an' took up a claim. 'Twas pretty hard work, I know, an' Jim was high strung. Bein' the baby of the family he hed ben petted a good deal, an' he workin' com'hard on him. 'Did he run away?' I queried, wishing to appear sociable and interested.

"No, that's the worst of it; I drove 'im away. I got mad at 'im one day 'cause he wouldn't mind, an' I told 'im to clear out. He went, an' I ain't seen 'im since. I'm thinkin' I'll find somethin' of 'im in the papers—you feller's seem ter write up everythin'."

With that he began to look through the local columns of the journals before him. It was an hour before he had finished his task and laid by the last one with a sigh. "I'll look ag in next week," he said sadly as he departed.

The next week and the next he was there, each time chatting with me and revealing more of the longing for a chance of reparation for his harshness.

All through the hot summer months he was faithful to his task, and I, too, began to feel an interest in the missing boy and look for his name in the papers that went through my hands.

October, with its Indian summer had gone. The prairies had taken on their robes of brown, and nightly the prairie fires gleamed in a ragged line at the far horizon. Then November. On the third Saturday my visitor came through a bitter, blustering wind, and his hands looked white and pinched with cold.

The tears dimmed his glasses as he took up his task as usual. He had gone about half through the pile of papers when he suddenly straightened up, brushed the page out smooth, and fixed his eyes intently upon it. He handed the paper to me and I read:

"A stranger giving his name as James Meserve was found in the depot this morning sick. He is scarcely more than a boy, but seems to have hard times. He says he has friends in Kansas, but will not give their names. He was taken to the Merchant's hotel, where he is being cared for by the city authorities."

The paper was published in a small city in Northern Iowa, and was dated three days previous.

"I've found him!" ejaculated the father gladly. "I'm goin' ter get him!"

That night he left for his son's side, and in a week the two alighted from a train, the father joyous and happy, the son pale and emaciated.

As they rode over the prairie toward the old man's claim he called back to me: "Come an' see us some time."

I did so shortly afterward, and, as we sat up to the well-supplied table, though our chairs rested on the bare earth, and the walls of a dugout were around us, I found as happy a host as presided in any palace in the land.

The old man bent his white head, and in fervent tones thanked the Giver of all good for the return of his boy—thanked him in such words as only the full heart can prompt.

"NOBODY WILL EVER SEE IT."

A Story for the Benefit of Those Who "Don't Believe in Advertising."

The advantages of thoroughly advertising whatever one has to sell have been set forth by the newspapers in the strongest light, so that most people acknowledge the evidence to be overwhelming. The Vallejo (Cal.) Chronicle contains the following, which illustrates this subject, and proves that a man may be a doubting Thomas, yet have considerable faith when it becomes aroused by some extraordinary circumstances:

A short time ago we called upon a certain man in business in Vallejo, and asked him why he did not advertise in The Chronicle.

"Oh, because," he answered, "what's the use? Nobody will ever see it."

"You're mistaken," said we; "every page in our paper is read."

"Nonsense," he replied; "even if they did read my 'ad.' people would never think of it again. I don't want to advertise."

"But—"

"No buts at all. I don't want to advertise and don't bother me any more, I'm busy." And he walked back into his store and strangled a poor little fly that was helping itself from a barrel of sugar.

Time passed, and we never again intimated "advertisement" to him, although meeting him daily. Yesterday the gentleman called at our sanctum, looking a little uncertain as to how he would be received. We cherished no hard feelings, and motioned him to a chair.

"I suppose you heard of that little affair of mine before?"

"Oh, yes," said we; "that little escapade on Kearney street night before last."

"Yes, we've got all the particulars."

"Hush! Not so loud, please," said he; "of course, you are going to say nothing in the paper about it."

"And why not? It's a matter of interest to your friends and the people generally."

"Heavens! Why, it would ruin me?"

"Oh, no, guess not. Nobody will ever see it."

"Yes, they will. And it will ruin me as sure as I'm sitting here. I'll be the laughing stock of the town. They will see it!"

We rose and touched him impressively on the shoulder.

"Well, we will admit that the people will see it, but then, you know, they will never think of it again."

His words came back to him like a flash and he trembled so violently that his eyeballs fairly jingled; and he was an object of commiseration that we promised to keep mum. This little moral, as drawn from the above, is applicable the world over. Ask a man to advertise and he will immediately say, in the majority of cases, that "Nobody will ever see it," but advertise gratis some little indiscretion he may commit and he immediately grows indignant over the certainty that the whole world will know it.
