THANKSGIVING.

Come one, come all! Come home, come home!
From desert sands, and ocean foam,
Beneath the honored home roof-tree,
Join hands and hearts, and you shall see

Sweet thoughts, pure love, and honest living
Flow from the keeper of Thanksgiving.

'Tis then the dead become most dear;
'Tis then the living bring most cheer;
'Tis then the best within us seems
Aspiring toward our youthful dreams,
And life looks really worth the living,
In the old homestead at Thanksgiving.

Thanks, grim old Puritans, to you,
Who "built better than ye know!"
True, ye were hard and stern, 'tis said,
Intolerant and bigoted,
But one sweet gift is of your giving—
Thanks, sad old pilgrims, for thanksgiving!

MOUNT ST. MARY'S,
EMMITSBURG, MD.

ITS PART IN THE CELEBRATION OF THE BISHOP'S JUBILEE.

The Rev. Dr. Allen Comes to Brooklyn to Join in Paying Tribute to Bishop Loughlin's Life and Work. The Hon. William McSherry Speaks in Behalf of the Old Mountain Home.

From the Brooklyn Citizen of Nov. 9.

The fiftieth anniversary of Bishop Loughlin's ordination as a priest, which was so magnificently celebrated a few weeks ago, was observed with special ceremonies at Mt. St. Mary's Emmitsburg, the alma mater and ecclesiastical birthplace of the Right Rev. Bishop. In addition to celebrating the event at the college, its executive head and president, the Rev. Dr. Allen, came on to Brooklyn to join with the prelates and people in paying tribute to the life and work of Bishop Loughlin.

At the solemn Pontifical mass, which was celebrated in the pro-cathedral in Jay street, the Rev. Dr. Allen acted as deacon of honor. He attended the dinner given by the bishop at the episcopal residence to the visiting prelates and there congratulated the bishop in behalf of "the Mount" for his many years of usefulness to religion and humanity. Accompanying the Rev. Dr. Allen was the Hon. William McSherry, a fellow student of bishop Loughlin at the Mount. Mr. McSherry had been billed to speak at the Rink, but owing to a railroad delay was unable to reach Brooklyn in time for that purpose.

In response to many requests he, however, consented to speak at the dinner on Sunday at the episcopal residence when the cardinal and the visiting prelates were present. When the toast, "The old mountain home and her alumni," was proposed, Mr. McSherry arose and spoke as follows:

"Beloved Bishop of Brooklyn—From beneath the shadow of the massive buildings of Mt. St. Mary's College, within sight of the emblem of man's redemption, which glistens in the morning sun on the summit of the unpretending little white church which adorns the brow of Mt. St. Mary's hills, comes the humble representative of the faculty and alumni of your own old mountain home to join in the 'Te Deums' of joy and thanksgivings which are ascending to Almighty God on this, the fiftieth anniversary of your elevation to the priesthood."

"In the month of June, 1840, a youthful graduate received his diploma from the hands of the Rev. Dr. McCaffrey, then president of the college, in the presence of the Right Rev. Archbishop Eccleston, of Baltimore, and Bishop Fenwick, of Boston."

"A few months later another son of that mountain home, who had been teacher, friend and prefect, was ordained by holy hands, and went forth into the world 'a priest of God, to minister to His Holy Church, to be a father to the flock committed to his charge, to labor for the honor and glory of his God."

"And now here, on this joyous day, meet again the graduate of fifty years ago and that priest of God elevated to one of the most important bishoprics of the United States, loved, honored and revered by all who know him."

"Oh, who can recount all the good which has been accomplished by him during those fifty years, and who can describe the joyous feelings which must fill his heart when looking back upon the past he sees on every side the grand and glorious results of his trials, toils and difficulties during that period."

"Through his labors, perseverance and prayers the number of priests committed to his paternal care has been largely increased, magnificent temples have been erected to the honor and glory of the living God, homes for the friendless, the destitute and the orphans. Hospitals for the poor and afflicted, whose inmates are watched over and nursed with almost a mother's love by the brave, self-sacrificing sisters, whose heroic deeds of mercy and charity attract the admiration of the world, have arisen around him. Schools where education for the soul as well as for the body is freely and faithfully given by the noble band of men and women who have abandoned bright and worldly prospects and devoted their lives to the welfare of their fellow creatures, are to be found in all parts of his diocese."

"Look around this beautiful city and everywhere you find proofs of the faithful and devoted manner in which he has discharged the fearful responsibilities of his duties of priest, pastor and bishop of the Church of Christ."

"No wonder, then, that the venerable Bishop of Brooklyn, on this, his Golden Jubilee, is surrounded by thousands of devoted and loving hearts of his own children, who, on this joyous occasion, unite in thanking Almighty God for having preserved and blessed their Bishop for so many years, and who are now sending up to the throne of Almighty God, from warm and grateful hearts, earnest supplications that his useful life may be spared for many years to come."

"No wonder that cardinals, archbishops, bishops and priests of the Catholic Church from all parts of the United States, should gather here on this most interesting occasion to honor the kind, good and holy Bishop of Brooklyn."

No wonder that Mt. St. Mary's College, the alma mater of John Loughlin, the student, seminarian, teacher, professor, priest of God, and Bishop of His Church, should not only take part in the honors paid here, but should also celebrate this festival of love and respect at his old mountain home; for there, too, at this very hour, prayers of gratitude and thankfulness are ascending to heaven from the young and the old, asking for blessings on this son of Mt. St. Mary's."

"How well I remember when the fiftieth anniversary of Bishop Dubois' elevation to the priesthood was celebrated in the month of September, 1837. What a grand occasion it was for all the inmates of Mt. St. Mary's. After a day's holiday a grand concert was given in the evening in the large study hall by the St. Cecilia Society of the college, when I had the great honor of reciting a poem prepared by one of the seminarians for that festive occasion."

"I have never met with any person who was educated at Mt. St. Mary's College who did not love his mountain home and always speak in terms of warmest affection of his alma mater; and she, too, loves and is proud of her children, for they are the jewels in her crown which have made her so honored and distinguished throughout the world. Well may she be styled the mother of bishops, for from her hallowed walls have gone forth one cardinal and many illustrious archbishops and bishops, as faithful shepherds of their flocks throughout the length and breadth of the United States."

"Way back in the far-distant past, in connection with the founding of Mt. St. Mary's College, 'there was a man sent from God whose name was John,' a good and holy priest driven from his home in sunny France, by the bloody revolutions of 1790. He it was who after years of toil, of disappointments and superhuman efforts, aided by Archbishop Carroll, of Baltimore, and the saintly Bishop Brute changed the wild thickets and wilderness on the sides of the lovely Blue Mountains of Maryland into a beautiful spot for the erection of the little white chapel on the mountain's crest and 'established buildings for the education of the youth of his adopted country."

"After having most successfully presided over the college for a few years and in a great measure placed the Church of St. Vincent of Paul in St. Joseph's beautiful valley, on a firm and solid basis, the good, the humble, paternal priest, the Rev. John Dubois, was called to the see of New York as its first bishop. Time will not permit me to recount his successful career as bishop, for every Catholic student is certainly familiar with the history of this great and good man."

After years of faithful devotion to the charge imposed upon him, he died as he had lived, patient, devout and resigned to the will of God."

"When advancing years and the infirmities of age began to show that the labors of his diocese were becoming too burdensome for the venerable bishop, another priest whose name was John was called from Mt. St. Mary's College to aid and assist him, a man who afterward became known as the noble and eloquent champion of the doctrines of the Catholic Church and the fearless defender of the just rights of the members of that Church under the constitution and laws of the States, the Most Rev. Archbishop John Hughes."

"The kind, paternal John B. Purcell, president of the college had previously been chosen bishop of the diocese of the Queen City of the West, Cincinnati. Archbishop Purcell was one of the most lovely characters I ever knew, and I shall never forget the kind manner in which he received me on the day I was placed under his care a little boy student, 12 years of age. A few years ago he was called to his reward."

"And there was yet another man sent from God whose name was John, called from Mt. St. Mary's College, Cardinal Archbishop John McCloskey, who, whilst at the college, I am proud to say, taught me to read that beautiful act of atonement and consecration of the soul to God prepared by Bishop Dubois for the occasion of children's first communion."

"And there was yet another John called the kind and amiable Bishop John I. Conroy, much beloved by college boys for his uniform kindness toward them. And yet another, Bishop John Watterson, of the diocese of Columbus, Ohio, who so admirably filled the position of former president of the college."

"Who is the person who has ever heard of Mt. St. Mary's College and has not heard of the names of its three presidents—the learned and brilliant second father of the college, the Rev. Dr. John McCaffrey; the kind, hospitable, whole-souled Father John McCloskey, and the learned and gentle Father Allen, who now guides its destiny?"

"This day we honor and rejoice with another person sent from the old mountain home whose name is John—the venerable Bishop of Brooklyn, John Loughlin. Other names shine in the crown of our dear Alma Mater whom she loves and reveres; archbishops, bishops and holy priests and men of all professions and occupations in the various walks of life, who have done her honor, but none of whom she regards with more kindness or respect than she has for the first Bishop of Brooklyn."

"Most reverend bishop, teacher of our youthful years, in a few hours we part; I to return to my home to discharge whatever duties may devolve upon me in life, and you to resume the work of your diocese, when I shall see the president and faculty of Mt. St. Mary's College, the learned and worthy representatives of our Alma Mater, under whose careful guidance she is flourishing and prospering. I will say to them I have seen the venerable bishop of Brooklyn with that calm spirit of meekness and resignation which marked his younger day, surrounded by thousands of loving hearts, by which he is beloved and revered. I will add I have seen him accorded such honors and proofs of affection as no civilian or military chieftain has ever received, for the honor and love shown to him on the fiftieth anniversary of his elevation to the priesthood was a genuine outburst of affection from all who knew him, without regard to race or creed."

"May God grant that your life and strength will be long spared as an ornament to our holy religion, the kind and paternal guardian of your clergy, the father of the orphan, the protector of the poor and the true bishop of Christ's church, and after many, very many years, when the master calls, then can you truly say with holy Simeon of old: 'Now, dost Thou dismiss Thy servant, O Lord, in peace according to Thy word, for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation which Thou hast prepared before the face of all people, a light to enlighten the Gentiles and the glory of Thy people.'"

He Couldn't Explain It.
A little boy was often whipped by his father for lying. He usually took it as a matter of course, but on one occasion it seemed to excite him to reflection. After it was all over he stood before his father in a thoughtful way, which attracted his father's attention.

"My son," said the father, "What are you thinking about?"

"Father," said the son, "when you was a little boy did you used to tell lies?"

"No, my son; when I was a little boy I did not tell lies."

"Father," returned the son, "when mother was a little girl did she used to tell lies?"

"No, my son," replied the father, "when your mother was a little girl she did not tell lies. But why do you ask me these question?"

"Well," said the little fellow, drawing a long sigh. "It is the most mysterious thing in the world to me that a father who never told lies when he was a little boy, and a mother who never told lies when she was a little girl could have a boy that tells as many as I do."

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Thursday of next week is the day set apart for National Thanksgiving in view of the manifold blessings which have been showered upon us as a nation during the past year.

Not only as a Nation but as States, Communities and Families, have we abundant cause for gratitude in view of blessings received and of misfortunes averted.

As a nation surely we have been singularly blessed notwithstanding the failure of crops in some sections, the stringency of the money market, railroad and maritime disasters, conflagrations and explosions; all of which have brought ruin and desolation to many a family, for the clouds have never been so dark that the light of God's controlling influence could not penetrate them, and though sorrow, suffering and disappointment have come to many hearts, these have been exceptional cases, whilst throughout the length and breadth of our glorious land, health, happiness and prosperity have been the rule.

Though banks, fail, colossal fortunes crumble into dust and dishonest officials bring poverty on a trusting public, though the columns of the daily press teem with records of robbery, murder and suicide, yet all these in comparison with the good everywhere accomplished, with the strides we have made as a nation toward a higher plane of civilization, a broader charity and a deeper intellectual culture, we can but feel that good has far out-balanced evil and admit, that in looking back over this eventful year we have been surrounded with such manifold blessings, that gratitude towards Him whose mercy thus protects and prospers us, should spring spontaneously in every heart and find expression in a season of general Thanksgiving.

LIGHT VERSUS DARKNESS.

That "Men love darkness rather than light," does not, we feel assured, apply to the respectable portion of the citizens of this place, and why they submit to the inconvenience and insecurity of a town shrouded in almost Egyptian darkness so much of the time is a mystery rather difficult to understand. Surely the individual appointed to attend to the lamps ought to be instructed as to the time of lighting and also extinguishing them.

Instead of following any regular rule as the matter is left to his own convenience, he lights up long before dark, sometimes before sundown, and cooly turns out every light, when he wants to go to bed, utterly indifferent to the fact that other people are abroad long after he and his chickens have gone to roost.

There have been many nights this fall when at ten o'clock the only gleams of light on our streets were those showing out from the liquor saloons, and the effort to grope one's way through the darkness was appalling.

There is, as we have often said, no better safeguard to a community at night, than brilliantly lighted streets, and it is time that our citizens demand such protection. The economy which withholds from law-abiding citizens the protection they have a right to expect, because it will cost a few more dollars a year, should have no place in the administration of municipal affairs, in this era of intelligent advancement, and we ought to compel our lamp-lighter to attend to his work at a suitable time which should be fixed by a town ordinance. The lamps should not be lighted till dusk nor extinguished before midnight. But the better and proper plan would be to keep them burning till morning dawns. If the town authorities are afraid to take the responsibility of using a few more gallons of oil in the interest of the public, let them take a vote of the people on the subject; and if the lovers of darkness should prove to be in the majority those who prefer to walk in light can "hold their tents" and depart in search of homes where the privilege will be accorded them.

The Brightest Jewels

In a mother's diadem are her fair, healthy children—the pride and ornaments of her home. But a mother cannot bear and nourish such children while she is the victim of suffering and disease. By a course of self-treatment with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, every woman can thoroughly eradicate those excruciating periodical pains and functional weaknesses incident to her sex, and at the same time build up and invigorate her whole system by its health-imparting influence. A trial bottle will convince. "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, to give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

There is some consolation in not being a stockholder in these troublous times, for the non-stockholder does not have to worry about the condition of the market.—American.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Workmen are getting the Capitol in ship-shape order for the session. Carpets are down, upholsters, painters and cleaners are at work, and the desks in both Senate and House will soon be in place. In short everything will be in the same position as left by the people's representatives not much more than a month ago, only looking nicer and cleaner. The same carpets and other equipments will be used, as Uncle Sam does not furnish oftener than once in two years.

While these preparations are making Senators and Representatives themselves are appearing on the scene. Senator Sherman led the van amongst his brethren. He spends most of his time here where he has large property interests and a fine residence, which, by the way, he is going to enlarge. Wonder if "Old Financier" intends opening up shop for the next presidency? It is said you know, that an icicle seems warm by the side of the Ohio Senator, and he can be frigid, but whenever so disposed no man can make others feel more comfortable. Sherman's hair and beard are now white, but he is still as erect as a telegraph pole, and he began public life early enough to know that Buchanan went into the White House at an advanced age. The Senator is sixty-seven years old.

Spooner of Wisconsin, has been here, too, not yet fifty, and soon to be retired from the Senate where within six years he has earned a commanding position, a rare occurrence in senatorial history, as a man does not usually amount to much in that select body of distinguished men in his first term.

For the Democrats, Voorhees, of Indiana, comes the soonest, but only to secure the quiet of home as he is a sick man.

So far as the house is concerned, the committee on appropriations will begin its labors next week. It is the rule for the Chairman, Cannon, of Illinois, in this instance, to get his men together at least ten days before the session opens so that the smaller appropriations can be put in shape for action ere the Christmas holidays are reached.

There is not three months of legislative time at the best, and Congress cannot afford to dawdle away the early days of this limited period.

President Harrison is hard at work on his message. He has the members of his Cabinet furnish him with a synopsis of what they are going to say in their annual reports so that he can get the "hang" of things in the different departments. Nothing startling is expected from the President, however, and they say at the White House that it will not be very long. Some curiosity is felt here about the attitude President Harrison will assume on the subject of an election law, if any reference is made to it, but the more general opinion is that it will be left to Congress "in its wisdom", to use the set phrase, to determine, without Executive interference. It can be said, though, that the scheme of reciprocal trade with Southern nations will receive an unqualified endorsement, and Congress will, in consequence, perhaps liberalize the act of last session to make more certain beneficial results.

One of the most important lines of legislation to be considered this session are public buildings. There are now on the House calendar over one hundred and fifty bills making provision for public buildings, and involving appropriations of tens of millions of dollars. Even if all were passed it would not give an average of four buildings to each State, and in the usual course of things it will be years before all these cities and towns are supplied, meanwhile new requests for similar favors are coming in by the score.

This has set officials thinking. Postmaster General Wanamaker will urge Congress to adopt his plan for a general system of public buildings of moderate cost in all cities and towns where the gross annual postal receipts are at least $5,000 dollars. Under this proposition 1681 places would be provided with adequate postal accommodations, the total expenditures for which would be $26,355,000. The yearly interest on this amount at three per cent, government rates, is $790,650, whereas the government is now paying an annual rent for postal quarters in the same cities and towns, of $845,080. If the United States owned its buildings, therefore, an annual saving of $54,430 would result, and every important city and town would have a decent post-office building costing not less than ten thousand dollars, according to requirements of postal business. These buildings, too, would be so constructed as to permit of extension when needed.

Under this plan each town would know when it becomes entitled to a public building, as the postal revenue would show it.

The pension bureau is now grinding out pensions under the dependent act of last June at a rapid rate, a member of the Board of Appeals having told me that he individually passed over fifty cases yesterday.

Officials of high and low degree have run over to Baltimore the past week to see Edwin Booth act. Booth has never been to Washington, since the great tragedy in which his brother, John Wilkes Booth played such an atrocious part, and he says he never will come here again. Mrs. Harrison occupied a box at Booth's performance last night. The great tragedian is fifty-seven years old and in declining health.

Secretary Windom says the New York stock panic cuts no figure in government affairs, but he will ever be ready to come to the rescue of legitimate business operations should a crisis arise. IRVING.

ARE THEY MAKING THE LAW ODDIOUS?

A few days ago an effort was made to prevent the transmission of a western newspaper through the mails because it contained a reference to a raffle at a church fair, on the ground that the publication was a violation of the lottery law recently passed by Congress. Yesterday Postmaster Denning, of Augusta, Ga., refused to allow the Augusta Chronicle to be mailed to subscribers because in an article on the races of the Augusta Jockey Club it stated that "pools are sold every night" at a certain place. The Postmaster-General's attention was at once called to the matter and he promptly telegraphed Postmaster Denning that "the publication of the result of horse races or pool selling in connection with horse races" does not come within the provisions of the lottery act, and therefore does not render a newspaper unavailable. It would seem that it ought not to require any message from Washington or anywhere else to make such a proposition obvious to even the most stupid of postmasters. The lottery law was intended to suppress lotteries, not newspapers, but many of the subordinate officials of the Postoffice Department appear to imagine that its design was to establish a censorship of the press, and to lodge in their hands the power of deciding whether such and such publications are detrimental to public morality.

Abundant applications of the law to cases it was never aimed at will simply make it odious and ineffectual, and the extraordinary zeal displayed in some instances not unnaturally gives rise to the suspicion that the object in view is to disgust the public and render the lottery act unpopular. Whether this is so or not, postmasters should constantly bear in mind the fact that this is a free country with a free press, and that the tyrannical methods and narrow interpretations which might suit a Russian censor are not applicable to this country. —Bullo. SUMMARY OF NEWS.

"BUFFALO BILL" made $500,000 by his Wild Show in Europe the last two years.

The heavy armored cruiser Maine was successfully launched at the Brooklyn Navy-Yard on Tuesday.

SAVE the boys and girls from acrobatic and other forms of impure blood by giving them Hood's Sarsaparilla.

COL. W. F. CORY, "Buffalo Bill," has come back from Europe and denies the charges of cruelty to the Indians of his show in Europe.

By the premature explosion of dynamite in a stone quarry at Linia, Ohio, last Friday, three men were blown to pieces and two others seriously injured.

A BRAZILIAN squadron has reached New York, with a medal and a letter of thanks to our government for its prompt recognition of the new republic of Brazil.

WALL street had a new shock on Monday in the announcement on the Stock Exchange of the suspension of the banking and brokerage firm of Mills, Robeson & Smith.

That old and conservative firm is ruined, by the forgery of one of the firm, Albert H. Smith, the junior member. Smith, upon his own confession, is guilty of forgery in the first degree. The amount he has stolen by his hundreds of forgeries is estimated at $350,000, a stupendous sum, greater than the amount secured by any other forgery in New York.

SETTLERS on the border of the Sioux Reservation bring stories of the arming of Indians, which are borne out by Joseph Buckley, who speaks their language. Buckley says every Indian on the reservation will shortly go on the warpath, and that they have got possession of Custer's rifles, which the United States Army have never found. Local hardware men have in the last few days sold their entire stocks of ammunition to the Indians. The Indians say if they are unsuccessful in the raid they will get double rations, and they have nothing to lose.

THERE is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

BLUE RIDGE SUMMIT ITEMS.

BLUE RIDGE SUMMIT.—The great election is over! The returns are all in! Everyone seems satisfied save the defeated candidates and the foiled ring-leaders. In no case, however, has the republican party had greater cause to feel proud, and wholly satisfied, than at the present time; and especially is this assertion true of the Pennsylvania branch of the organization. Republicanism of the Abraham Lincoln, Charles Sumner, Henry Wilson, John A. Andrew, William Pitt Fessenden, Roscoe Conkling and Thaddeus Stevens school, could not conscientiously support certain nominees who had been thrust upon them by some of its usurpation directors. Their action is endorsed by the better element of their own party as well as appreciated by all right-minded democrats. (Mr. Eyster's defeat alone is a source of wonderment and rejoicing to the general public.) Now, if additional glory is desired, let Judge Paxton, General Hastings or some other able and moral republican be sent to the U. S. Senate in the place of the son of the late Hon. Simon Cameron; then nothing will remain to be done.

The democrats are likewise in a position to rejoice. Not only have they held their own nobly, but they have captured many republican states which were naturally regarded as impregnable strongholds of their opponents. And, strange to say, "The Ohio Bay State" was one of their easiest won and most valuable prizes.

The case of Jacob Fittz vs. the Baltimore and Harrisburg R. R., Western Extension, came up for trial at Chambersburg last week. Ex-Judge Rowe and Alexander Stewart, Jr., of Chambersburg and Hon. David McConaghay of Gettysburg, appeared for the plaintiff, and David Wills, Esq., and Mr. Brown for the defendant. An interesting trial was anticipated; but owing to some technicality respecting the manner in which the suit was entered, it has been postponed to another term of court. "It is not dead, but sleepeth."

Ever since the construction of this railroad certain individuals who, in a pecuniary way, are interested in its success, have been endeavoring to increase the value of the lands through which it passes. To be sure, since the beginning, the fallacy of these assertions has been known to the unfortunate owners of the lands, whose position seems to be strengthened by the following recent transaction in real estate.

Just prior to the building of this railroad Mr. E. L. Keyes offered Mrs. Margaret Zielfinger five hundred dollars for four acres of her land. This sum was refused, and she was told that through Mr. Keyes, Mrs. Zielfinger sold the identical acres, above referred to, for fifty dollars per acre, and she considered it a fair price.

Now these are facts not open to contradiction, and if one sees increased valuation" in this woman's property—when she lost seventy-five dollars on each acre—such a person must look through spectacles possessing wonderful magnifying powers.

In the death of Brevoort Big. Gen. David H. McMillan, U. S. Army, retired, not the service only, but the community at large recognize the loss of a gallant officer and an honorable gentleman. Gen. McMillan was a native of Pennsylvania. He entered West Point in 1857, served as Colonel of different volunteer regiments during the war of the Rebellion, was brevetted Brig. Gen. for heroic conduct, and his whole history is an enviable one. He was very generally known, universally respected and loved by all who knew him. He will be mourned from Maine to California.

AYER'S PILLS
Are everywhere considered the most effective remedy for constipation, indigestion, and sick-headache. Being sugar-coated and purely vegetable, they are without equal as a family medicine. For all derangements of the digestive and excretory organs, no other pills are so universally approved.

"For a long time my wife was a sufferer from dysentery, the best physicians in this section being unable to afford her any relief. At length we concluded to try Ayer's Pills, and after taking three boxes she was cured."—J. B. Smith, Blue Ridge Springs, Va.

"During the past 28 years I have used Ayer's Pills in the family for all derangements of the stomach, liver, and bowels, and also for colds. They have never failed to cure."—Prof. Chauncey Herdman, A. M., Business College, Woodstock, N. J.

"Ayer's Pills are the best I have ever used for headaches, and they act like a charm in relieving any disagreeable sensation in the stomach after eating."—Mrs. M. J. Ferguson, Pullman, Va.

"I am never without a box of Ayer's Pills in the house."—Mrs. Edwin Barto, 425 Bristol st., Buffalo, N. Y.

PRIVATE SALE.

The undersigned having decided to remove to the north west will sell his valuable property at private sale. This farm is well known as the residence of the late Col. Robert Annan, and later as the Taylor property, and contains more or less, of good farming land, all under cultivation and in a highly fertile and productive condition. The improvements consist of a containing thirteen rooms, three large halls, and two pantries. Large Bank Barn, an excellent spring of water near the kitchen door, spring house and running water through the washhouse.

2 TENANT HOUSES,

which can be easily rented, and all other necessary outbuildings. This farm has two water powers, one of which is an upright saw mill in good running order. Ten acres are in choice fruit, including the most productive Apple Orchard in the district.

Any one wishing to buy a nice home and easy terms, call on or address

W. L. MCGINIS, Emmitsburg, Md.

PRIVATE SALE.

THE undersigned offer at private sale the House and Lot occupied by Fred K. Brown, situated on the Emmitsburg town ship along the line of the Baltimore and Annapolis R.R., about 3 miles from the former place. The Lot contains about

10½ ACRES OF LAND

Improved with a good 2-STORY FRAME HOUSE.

There is also a stable, on the place, an abundance of choice fruit, such as apples, peaches and grapes. There is a good well and a spring near the house. Terms easy. n.1460. McNAIR & PATTERSON.

A SPECIAL dispatch from Lincoln Neb., says: The yield of corn is much less than anticipated, the average in this part of the State being less than ten bushels to the acre, and farther west even less. Farmers have nothing to feed with, and vast quantities of hogs fattened are being rushed to market and sacrificed at very low prices. Corn is selling on the streets for from fifty to fifty-three cents per bushel. It is impossible to disguise the fact that in western counties there is much destitution. Many homesteads are heavily encumbered, and a few have been abandoned. Women and children are suffering for food, clothing and fuel. The churches and benevolently inclined people are quietly organizing for their relief.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional and not a local disease, and therefore it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires a constitutional remedy, such as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which works through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the disease, and effects a permanent cure. Thousands of people testify to the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh when other preparations had failed.

Catarrh

"I will say I have been troubled for several years with that terribly disagreeable disease, catarrh. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the very best results. It cured me of that continual dropping in my throat, and stuffed up feeling. It has also helped my mother, who has taken it for run down state of health and kidney trouble." Mrs. S. D. HEATH, Putnam, Conn.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wausau, O.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Miss Mary L. Stahl, eldest daughter of Mr. H. J. Stahl, editor of the Gettysburg Compiler died suddenly on Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock from congestion of the bowels. She had been on the street the previous afternoon, was taken suddenly ill at eleven that night, and after suffering terribly, died within twelve hours. The funeral, which was largely attended, occurred Sunday afternoon, the Rev. T. F. Barkley officiating. Miss Stahl was a consistent member of the Reformed church and her death will be deeply regretted by a large circle of friends.—Star and Sentinel.

We have received from Mr. G. H. Worthington, Secretary of the Board of School Commissioners of Frederick county, a report of the condition and working of the schools during the past year. The report is published in pamphlet form and embraces an account of the number of schools of different grades, studies pursued, teachers employed, and salaries paid to them, as well as amount expended in the way of school houses, books and other things connected with public instruction in the county. The summing up of the school record for the year shows a very gratifying condition of affairs in Frederick county's public school administration, though the salaries paid to teachers is in most cases far below the proper remuneration for such service.

Railroad Meeting.

The committee having charge of the arrangements for the railroad meeting tomorrow evening have their plans perfected, and the meeting promises to be a good one.

Last night, about twenty bushels of corn were stolen from Elijah Leech's stable, in this place, and two of his horses turned loose, by which one of them was badly kicked.—Gettysburg Compiler.

Do not suppose that because it is recommended for animals that Arnica & Oil Liniment is an offensive preparation. It will not stain clothing or the fairest skin. For sale by James A. Elder, Emmitsburg, and A. C. Musselman, Fairfield, Pa.

Thanksgiving Services.

The usual Union Services on Thanksgiving Day, will be held in the Presbyterian Church this year, at 10 o'clock, a. m. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Luther DeYoe, pastor of the Lutheran Church.

New Time Cards.

Attention is called to the change in the time tables of W. M. and Emmitsburg railroads, which took effect on the 9th inst. As the new cards did not reach us until after the out-side of this issue was printed, we reproduce the corrected one on the second page.

More Large Turnips.

The largest turnip yet comes from Rev. Prof. J. B. Kerschner at Locust Grove Mills. It weighed 6 lbs. 9 ozs. Mr. John Keilholtz, of Rocky Ridge, also sent us two huge turnips, which weighed respectively, 4 lbs. 13 ozs., and 3 lbs., 12 ozs.

Syrup of Figs.

Produced from the laxative and nutritious juice of California figs, combined with the medicinal virtues of plants known to be most beneficial to the human system, acts gently, on the kidneys, liver and bowels, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds and headaches, and curing habitual constipation.

Thanksgiving Dinner.

The ladies of the Benevolent Society of the Reformed Church will have a public dinner, as usual on Thanksgiving day and hope to have an opportunity of entertaining all their friends whose wants will be provided for on the occasion with the most liberal hospitality.

Changed Hands.

Mr. Edwin H. Gernand has disposed of his saddlery and harness business to Mr. Charles L. Stokes. Mr. S. is a thorough workman having been engaged in the business for about 12 years. He will keep a supply of robes, whips and other articles pertaining to the business and will endeavor to give full satisfaction in the way of workmanship and prices.—Chronicle.

Mr. Stokes resided in Emmitsburg for a number of years, and we are joined by a number of his friends in wishing him success in his business venture.

Bold Robbery.

The boldest robbery that has occurred in Emmitsburg during many years was that of the residence of Mr. M. F. Shuff on Monday night. The thief or thieves effected an entrance by forcing open a cellar window, and after making a meal on bread, butter and milk, which was found in the cellar, passed up to the diningroom and carried off half a dozen each, of plated forks, tablespoons and teaspoons, besides several solid silver spoons, a child's knife and fork and a butter knife. Leaving the diningroom, the door they locked, and from there the robber went to Mr. Shuff's bedroom, where a bright light was burning, and carried off his clothes, which were found next morning in the hall, with the pockets turned inside out. The thief departed through the front door, leaving it open. Fortunately, Mr. Shuff had only a very little money in his pockets, and the loss was consequently be light. He says he was up several times during the night attending to the children, and thinks the robbery must have occurred between the hours of three and four o'clock, A. M.

Bread! Bread! The Cry for Bread.

A million leaves, not enough for one city! Five millions, not enough for one State! Fifty millions, not enough for this country a single day, yet often what sour, soggy stuff it is, nevertheless it is eaten, and the result is dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, impure blood, pimples, blotches and scurf. For the correction of all this, and as a general tonic for the system, take Gold-on Medical Discovery prepared by Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo. Its action is like a charm, a benediction that follows after prayer. A remedy for stomachic and liver troubles, as well as a specific for throat and lung disorders. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure, or money refunded.

MT. ST. MARY'S COLLEGE NEWS.

Debates.—Tennis Notes.—Doings of the Athletes.—Tennis.—Visitors.

Nov. 14.—The Parcell Lyceum met last evening in the Reading-room of the College. After the routine business was disposed of, an animated discussion concerning the duties of the censor took place. Nearly all the members had something to say on the subject, and it was some time before regular business was in order.

Mr. Lawrence McBride, '93, recited "A Christmas Story," by F. R. Holmes. The speaker's intense dramatic power, his forcible gestures, his loss of self in portraying the different characters, his articulation, and resonant voice, all deeply impressed his hearers.

The critic warmly praised Mr. McBride and congratulated the Society upon having in its ranks, a member who would yet reflect credit upon it.

The debate was in harmony with the declaration. The clear and forcible arguments, the deep interest shown by the debaters. Mr. Behen's earnestness and Mr. McCloskey's humor, rendered the debate an attractive one. The question debated was—"Resolved, that the Printing Press is more beneficial to Mankind than the Steam Engine." On the affirmative were, Messrs. D. E. Behen, '94, Allen R. Lakin, '94, Thos. Grasselli, '93. Negative, Messrs. Jno. J. McCloskey, '94, Patrick McGuinness, '94, E. E. J. McDonald, '94. The latter taking the place of Mr. S. J. Codori, '94, who was not present.

Mr. Behen who was first to face the critic, laid down his suppositions and developed them logically. Mr. Lakin devoted himself to the task of criticising the arguments made by Mr. McCloskey. Mr. Grasselli's fine arguments well-merited the applause which they received. Mr. McCloskey, who followed Mr. Behen, dwelt with considerable effect upon his side of the question. He presented numerous arguments tending to favor his side. Mr. McGuinness asserted that the Printing Press is doing considerable harm, and offered statistics to prove his assertion. When the debate was handed to the critic, the President called for volunteers. Among those who responded were Jno. J. Ferry and Wm. J. Cashman. Before deciding the debate, the critic expressed his pleasure at the great interest attending it, and commented upon the evident improvement over the last debate. In summarizing the different arguments, he pointed out the strong and weak points in each, and, regretting that the affirmative did not pay more attention to the little word is, decided the debate in favor of the negative.

Next Thursday evening will be general declamation night. There will be no debate, but all the members are expected to declaim. It is amusing at times to see the "fencers" rush for the tennis court. The players, who are on the court, are greeted with: "Hey! Barney, lend us your racket next, will you?" "Emmett, is yours taken for next set?" "Say, Joe, I'm on that after you!" and other like exclamations. Mr. F. Hugh Lee of the M. L. T. A. is practicing daily, and, whenever the coming tournament is mentioned, smiles and says, "Oh! I'm in it!" Will McConnell and José Molina played a set of singles last Thursday. Set won by McConnell. Score, 6-3, 6-2, 2-6.

The toasts of the 3rd Elocution Class this week are appended. They were arranged by Toast Master Jno. J. McCloskey.

"The Laborer," Francis Byrnes; "The Poets," P. J. Campbell; "Ireland," J. J. O'Brien; "Our Country," J. A. Teague; "The Catholic Press," J. F. Cashman; "Our Mechanics," J. J. Monaghan; "Capital," J. J. Driscoll; "Our Great Men," T. B. Wilson.

Last Thursday afternoon, several prominent athletes were discussing Dyer's record of 101 for 100 yard dash, which was made on Barbecue Day. One prominent athlete said it could not be lowered. Whereupon W. J. Campbell, '94, said it could and started in to break the record. To the surprise of many, he succeeded in making the 100 yards in 10 1/2 seconds. Jno. J. Madden, '92, the same day, in a standing broad jump cleared 9 ft. 4 in. The house record is held by Farrell, 9 ft. 7 in.

Congressman E. J. Dunphy, of New York, '76, visited the Mount this week. He was accompanied by Rev. Daniel P. Ward, of New York, '73. The debate which took place last Sunday evening in the Philomathian Society, was by no means as interesting as was that of the previous evening. The subject discussed was: "Could the time devoted to the study of the Classics be better employed?" The speakers on the affirmative side were, Messrs. William Madden, Kessler and Echeverria, and on the negative, Messrs. Rahilly, McGovern and John Madden. The leaders on both sides, certainly deserve credit for the excellent manner in which they spoke. The other gentlemen did not seem to grasp the meaning of the subject thoroughly, and while they all showed evidence of having done a great deal for their side, yet they did not confine themselves to the subject, and consequently their remarks went for naught. The Reverend Critic rendered no decision. He said that the speakers differed so much in their remarks about what was meant by the Classics that he did not think it would be right to give the debate to either side. In all probability this question will be discussed in some future meeting. A very interesting debate is expected next Sunday night.

The Great Majority

Of cases of scurvy and other blood diseases are hereditary, and therefore difficult to cure. But we wish to state in the most positive, emphatic manner that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scurvy in every form. The most severe cases, too terrible for description, have yielded to this medicine when all others failed. If you suffer from impure blood in any way, take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

FATHER GROGAN BURIED.

Heretofore is a disease particularly common amongst mountaineers. The reason of it lies perhaps in this: they are freemen, "Montani Semper Liberi," as West Virginia's motto runs. "Where freedom is there is my home." Ubi libertas ibi patria. Now liberty is man's divinest endowment, and freedom to use it his dearest right. This seems to be more easily secured in mountainous regions than elsewhere. Hence the love of the inhabitants of such districts for home. This tells too why those who have had the happiness of being educated at Mount St. Mary's show such attachment to their early dwelling place.

Father John Grogan left here a young priest, in 1859. He went to Chicago, worked there with zeal and success, and built up one of the largest and best equipped parishes in the western metropolis. But while he willingly, nay cheerfully, toiled in the field appointed him, and loved his people, and was beloved by them for his warm charitable disposition, his heart was still at Mt. St. Mary's. Twice during the past seven years he had covered the thousand miles of distance that lay between, and his delight was to chat with the professors and watch the boys playing on the terraces, as their predecessors used to do thirty years before under his prefectship.

Last Monday, Nov. 10th, he died, having attended as usual his duty as pastor at Lake Forest, Ill., up to eight days previously. His last injunction to Father Hayes who was called to assist him in his last hours, was to take his body to Emmitsburg. It was a long journey for his brother priest, but he was determined to fulfill the trust. So on Tuesday after the Requiem at the Cathedral of the Holy Name, Chicago, the body in its oak casket was carried to the Limited Express, and at 5 p. m. rolled out of the city eastward at the rate of 50 miles an hour. Father John P. Power of Peru, Ills., himself an alumnus of the Mount, also accompanied the remains, and so did Mr. Morwick of Chicago, a relative, and two ladies, nieces of the deceased.

At seven a. m. the next day they were in Pittsburg, and Father Powers knowing the train could not connect at Baltimore for Emmitsburg that same evening, telegraphed for a special to meet the party at Union Bridge. The answer reached him a couple of hours later at Altoona, and so having sent word to the College that they would arrive late that night, they reached Baltimore at 5:40, left it again at 6:25, and arrived at Union Bridge at 8:30. According to agreement the train kept right on to Rocky Ridge, where the coffin and its guardians were transferred to the Emmitsburg road, and at 9:45 found themselves at its terminus. Here Dr. Allen with several of the faculty met them. The body was placed in Mr. Sweeney's hearse, and with the priests and other friends, set out for the College.

The night was pitch dark, the rain was pouring down, the country invisible to the travellers who, especially when entering within the forest grove which lies in front of the institution, must have felt that it was a novel and romantic funeral indeed. Meanwhile the Seminarians were up beyond their time, waiting for its coming, and frequently peeping out through the darkness and the storm, until at last about half past ten the first lights were visible among the nearly leafless trees. At once they put on their surplices and descended to the South Parlor, which had been tastefully fitted up by the housekeeper to receive the body of one of her old student-acquaintances. It was brilliant with gas-lights, candles, and the latest flowers of the dying year; the furniture and carpet had been recently renewed by the Alumni Association, and the walls and ceiling decorated with the portraits of the illustrious men who formerly guided the fortunes of the Mountain hung upon the walls. The Seminarians stood around the room, the officiating priest ready in his place, and the coffin was borne from the hearse into the middle of the group. John Grogan was at home again. It was indeed a most striking and beautiful contrast; from the thirty hours of headlong speed, on the Limited Express, the Western Maryland and the Emmitsburg roads, ending in the journey along the pike and in under the skirts of the forest; from the darkness, cold and rain into light, warmth and holy welcome, the mourners suddenly passed.

As soon as the coffin, plentifully sprinkled with God's blessed rain, was set down, all knelt and the Vespers of the Dead were chanted, after which certain of the clerics took their place as watchmen and the others retired to rest, while the wants of the guests were attended to in the hospitable style native to the place.

Next morning the students with the clergy in surplices wound after the corpse, in slow procession up the mountain side, the solemn chant of the De Profundis and the Miserere resounding thro' the woods, the Office of the Dead was performed in the Church on the Hill, and Requiem Mass was sung, by Father Power, Dr. Allen and Father Tierney, President and Vice-President of the College acting as Deacon and Sub-deacon, while the other priests assisted in the Sanctuary.

After Mass the Sun having now lifted the mists from the valley, the landscape on which Father Grogan had so often gazed, and which he so much loved, was exposed to the delighted view of the visitors, the procession took place to the adjoining graveyard, and the body of the old Student-priest was laid in the sacred soil, beside that of the men whom he had esteemed most in life. Dr. McCaffrey, Father John, Father McBride and his other old professors and prefects, to await with them the rising up of the Last Day. Truly if Father Grogan was conscious of the reception his body met with, his spirit must have rejoiced once again at this return to his Alma Mater, and at her open-hearted welcome. Happy indeed was his choice of a resting-place. May he sleep there in peace!

The ghost at the White House is said to walk half of every night, but he could do double that amount of work, if he wasn't afraid of the morning air and knew that Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cured all kinds of troublesome coughs and colds.

She stood at the gate in the late Spring twilight, and when she said good-bye, she felt neuralgia kiss her rosy cheek; but she only smiled, for she had Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain.

Thanksgiving Dinner.

The ladies of the Benevolent Society of the Reformed Church will hold their annual Thanksgiving Dinner this year at the residence of the late Wm. Peoples, on W. Main street. A turkey dinner with the usual accompaniments will be furnished for 30 cents. Dinner will be ready immediately after services, which will be held this year in the Presbyterian Church.

Attempted Suicide.

On Sunday evening week a young man named Levi Snyder, aged 18 years, living in Freedom township, near Green Mount, attempted to take his life with a razor, partly opening the windpipe but reached none of the arteries. He had for several months been an inmate of the county asylum, but his mental condition showing marked improvement, at the importunities of himself and friends he was allowed to be taken home, but kept under watch. Being missed on the above evening, search was made for him and his condition found as stated. Medical aid was summoned and Drs. Charles Horner and Walter O'Neal are in charge of the patient, who is improving.—Compiler.

"That Miss Jones is a nice-looking girl, isn't she?"

"Yes, and she'd be the belle of the town if it wasn't for one thing."

"What's that?"

"She has catarrh so bad it is unpleasant to be near her. She has tried a dozen things and nothing helps her. I am sorry, for I like her, but that doesn't make it any less disagreeable for one to be around her."

Store Broken Into.

About half past 10 on Saturday night Mr. Francis R. Schriver noticed one of the shutters open on the alley side of his store, and believing something wrong, quietly opened the front door and waited for developments. In the dark he heard a person at the money drawer. Going up to him he took hold of the party and striking a match recognized Paul F. Kappes, of this place. His prisoner begged Mr. Schriver not to "give him away," saying he had a wife and child. Kappes then broke away and ran out into the back room, then up the stairs and jumped from the second story into Miss McGovern's yard, fourteen feet, and escaped. Officers Myers and Rupp arrested him on a warrant from Justice Hill, at his home about 3 o'clock on Sunday morning and took him to jail. The hearing took place in the Sheriff's office Monday morning, when the bail was fixed at $1,000, in default of which he was remanded to prison for trial in January.—Gettysburg Compiler.

Do you notice that fine head of hair at church last Sunday? That was Mrs. B. She never permits herself to be out of Hall's Hair Renewer.

The Buccaneers of Old

Flaunted the skull and cross bones, their ensign, defiantly at the masthead. Your modern pirate, not on the high seas, but upon the high reputation of standard remedies skulks under various disguises. His hole and corner traffic has never to any degree affected Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, although that standard invigorant and corrective has long been the shining mark at which his shafts have been directed. Cheap salt-liters composed of filthy, unrefined chemicals with an infusion, or extract, possibly of some tonic bark, assailed sometimes recommend it as identical with, or superior to, or possessing virtues kindred to those of America's chosen family medicine. These perish speedily, while the great salubrious and preventive of disease pursues its successful career, overcoming malaria, dyspepsia, nervousness, kidney troubles, constipation and rheumatic ailments, not only on this but on many continents.

MARRIED.

EIKER—LINN.—On Nov. 18, 1890, at the residence of the bride's mother near this place, by Rev. Luther DeYoe, Mr. John V. Eiker to Miss Alice M. Linn, both of this vicinity.

Rev. C. Randolph Page, rector of the P. E. Church, at Adamstown, while gunning one day last week, with a friend, was accidentally struck in the neck with a load of shot, and was painfully, though not seriously, wounded.

A large barn on the farm of Messrs. George and Stephen Font, a short distance southwest of Frederick, was destroyed by fire of supposed incendiary origin at an early hour Saturday morning. About three hundred bushels of wheat, fifty tons of hay, several binders, lot of harness and various farming implements were consumed. All the live stock was saved except one bull, which perished in the flames. Loss, about $2,500.

MARYLAND ITEMS.

Mr. Nathaniel Holmes Morison, provost of the Peabody Institute, died at his residence in Baltimore last Friday afternoon, in the 75th year of his age.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Baltimore sugar refinery last Friday, measures were completed for having all the machinery put in within a few months.

The straw-board mill at Chestertown is to be shut down as soon as the present stock is worked up. One reason for discontinuing is the large outlay required for coal. Straw-board, it is said, can be made in the West for $2 per ton cheaper, because of the use of natural gas.

Secretary Windom has refused to ratify the recent sale of the old United States courthouse in Baltimore, and has ordered that the building be resold by public auction on December 6. The courthouse was sold to L. M. McCabe and George W. Shanks, of Baltimore county, for $3,000, on the 29th of last October. It cost $235,000.

Judge Stewart, of Baltimore, has decided that he will have a sentence Mary Metzendorf to be hanged. The girl, who is only fourteen years old, caused the death of two persons. Dr. John Morris made an investigation, at the request of the Judge as to her mental condition, and decided that her mind is not unbalanced.

Last Friday, Byrd Disharoon and Ellis Doward, two Salisbury boys were loading an old-fashioned four-barrel pistol, when it was accidentally discharged, and the ball pierced the hand of the Disharoon lad, who was holding the weapon, and keeping on in its course it entered the head of Ellis Doward through the eye socket, just beneath the frontal bone, and imbedded itself partly in the brain and partly in the skull. The lad, it is thought, cannot recover.
