A BRIGHT FUTURE POSSIBLE FOR THE C. AND O. CANAL.

From the Baltimore Sun.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 2.—The question of the restoration of the canal seems to be settled. After twenty-three years' struggle the bondholders of '44 have gotten control and possession of the company's franchises and its property, and are entitled to operate it under the supervision of the Circuit Court for Washington county and of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, until all the debts of the canal company are paid; provided they operate it so as to show yearly progress toward paying its debts. If they do not pay off the expense of repairs, say $250,000, in four years from May 1, 1890, and do not thereafter each year reduce the debt, then the whole property is to be sold at public auction.

The B. and O. has substantially the control of the canal. The question that is vexing the minds of the brokers and dealers in bonds is whether the B. and O. will operate the canal so as to earn profits, or whether they will wreck it so as to destroy its competition with the B. and O. as a coal carrier.

This altogether depends on which side the interest of the Baltimore and Ohio lies. It does not carry on the transportation business for the amusement there is in it or for the sake of exercise, but the sole motive of its existence and operation is to make money. It is folly to expect a great corporation to be operated on any other principle.

It is therefore the interest of the Baltimore and Ohio to wreck the canal or to operate it so as to make it a great coal carrier to aid its traffic. By the time the repairs are completed the Baltimore and Ohio will have put fully one million of dollars into the work. If it is suffered to remain useless that money will be sunk and the work will be sold and the Baltimore and Ohio be forced to pay five millions in competition with the West Virginia railroad and coal and timber interests. Therefore, in order to save the money already in it and to prevent being required to put more in it, it will be for the interest of the Baltimore and Ohio to make it pay.

The coal trade is beyond the present capacity of the B. and O. to handle. The Pennsylvania Railroad carried a million of tons per annum to Jersey City, and last year two hundred thousand tons were not shipped because transportation could not be furnished for them. The transportation of coal pays a profit of about one-fifth of a cent per ton per mile, which requires the use of great capital in rails and engines. It can be carried by water much more economically than by rail, and the canal will be equivalent to a double track for the B. and O. from Georgetown to Cumberland. It will give the B. and O. a haul of not over half as far as the Norfolk and Western hauls Pocahontas coal to Lambert's Point, or the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad hauls Kanawha coal to Newport News. Cumberland coal can be sent by water from Cumberland to Hampton Roads for one-fifth the cost of the Pocahontas or Kanawha coal, and thus be put in competition with them on the most favorable terms. The B. and O. can do this and make more money out of it than it can by carrying coal by rail. Therefore the bondholders of '44 believe that the operation of the canal by their trustees will inure to the advantage of the B. and O., the State, the coal interest and themselves.

The Hagerstown Mail, speaking of the outlook for the canal, says the only difficulty the trustees cannot surmount "is the want of boats on the canal, but they believe that they can carry 1,000,000 tons of coal next year and that the certainty of good employment will create boats with all necessary promptness. The trade on the canal will gain from year to year. It will be used by the Baltimore and Ohio as a double-tracked coal carrier and relieve its tracks from wear and tear and leave them open for general traffic, and this will develop the coal product of Western Maryland so that it will be so largely increased that it will be put on the market to compete with the coals of West Virginia. The prospects of the canal have never been as bright as at present, nor has its future prosperity been so well assured. The administration of James O. Clarke demonstrated what it could do in competition with the Baltimore and Ohio. The present managers will show much greater results, operating as they will with the assistance of the Baltimore and Ohio Company and interest."

The trustees have appointed Bradley B. Johnson, one of the trustees, secretary, to take charge of the canal office required by the court to be kept at Hagerstown; Major H. D. Whitcomb, a distinguished engineer of Richmond, Va., to be chief engineer, and H. C. Winship, of Georgetown, general manager.

THE SESSION OPENED.

The second session of the Fifty-first Congress, opened at Washington on Monday with an unusually large attendance. President Harrison submitted his annual message in which he discusses at length our foreign relations and the conditions of various domestic interests. The message contains no particularly striking points, and the subjects treated are too numerous for us even to publish an epitome of the document. The President is, however, firm in his approval of the actions of the present Congress at its first session.

"Just Hear That Child Scream" said Mrs. Smith to her sister, Mrs. Davis, as the sound of a child's shrieks came across the garden from a neighbor's house. "What kind of a woman have you for a neighbor? Does she abuse her children?" "No, indeed," replied Mrs. Davis. "She is one of the most tender mothers existence. But you see, she believes in the old-fashioned in styles of doctoring. When a child needs physic, she fills a spoon with some nauseous dose, lays the little victim flat on her lap, holds his nose till he is forced to open his mouth for breath, when down goes the dreadful mess. Then comes the yell." "No wonder," said Mrs. Smith. "Why doesn't she use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets? They are effective without being harsh, and are as easy to take as sugar plums. I always give them to my children." "And so do I," said Mrs. Davis.

DISPATCHES received at the War Department on Monday put a graver aspect on the Indian trouble than at any previous time, and Secretary Proctor has decided on a general concentration of troops. There is a growing belief in the assertion that the Indians have been defrauded out of a large percentage of their rations and that the Mesquah craze is not altogether responsible for the outbreak.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

The new hotel which Mr. Wm. W. Astor is building at New York City will be seventeen stories high. The king of medicines—Hood's Sarsaparilla. It conquers scrofula, salt rheum and all other blood diseases.

An effort will be made to have Congress adopt a bill for the purchase of a site and the erection of a new United States mint in Philadelphia.

Dr. Joseph J. Kinyoun, a marine hospital surgeon, has been commissioned by the United States government to visit Berlin and study Dr. Koch's lymph.

One of the most important discoveries made in the West for a long time is that of the onyx deposit near Prescott, Arizona. It covers an area of fully 80 acres and the strata range in depth from 8 to 35 feet.

The height of the New York World building from curb to highest point of roof is 194 feet, and the top of the tower is 309 feet. The top of the tower of Chicago's auditorium is 270 feet. The Madison Square Garden tower, now building, will be 300 feet.

On Thanksgiving Day, John P. Tobin, of Long Island City, N. Y., smashed up an old chest which he purchased at a second hand store in London some years ago, and under a false bottom he found a box containing twenty-two sparkling diamonds. The stones weigh over ten carats.

PERRIN H. SUMMER, a real estate agent, who caused a sensation a few weeks ago by pretending to identify a man who committed suicide at Yonkers, as a wealthy Englishman, has been arrested on a charge of forgery alleged to have been committed for the purpose of obtaining $300,000 insurance on the life of the suicide.

For every variety and phase of the many diseases which attack the air passages of the head, throat, and lungs, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will be found a specific. This preparation allays inflammation, controls the disposition to cough, and prevents consumption.

The Thanksgiving Eve Play—Purcell Lyceum—Toasts—Our Patriots—A Legacy—A Wedding.

Thanksgiving Eve, the terraces presented an animated appearance. The students walking to and fro, and waiting impatiently for the big tower-clock to strike seven. Carriages were rumbling into the spacious grounds and discharging their occupants, while nearly a hundred illuminated Chinese lanterns glimmered in the darkness, lending an added charm to the scene.

The occasion which called forth all this display was the presentation of Wm. Ellsworth Steadman's five-act Military Drama, "The Confederate Spy," by the members of the Mountain Musical and Dramatic Union. The play was staged splendidly, the costumes being costly and elegant, the scenery realistic, and the stage settings superb. The performance was a decided success; the credit for which is evidently due to Mr. Fitzhugh Lee, '91, upon whom devolved the numerous and ever-increasing duties attendant on a production of this kind.

To the right of the stage the orchestra was stationed. The members were Professor Koehnebach, Leader and 1st Violin; Thos. Grasselli, Chas. Nolan, 2nd Violins; M. Conrad O'Shaughnessy, Flute; Hugh Dolan, Cornet; Wm. F. Cullen, Piano. Facing the stage were the members of the Faculty; Rev. Dr. Allen, Rev. Father Tierney, Rev. Father O'Hara, Rev. Father Quinn, Rev. Father Ward, Rev. Dr. McSweeney, Professor Lagarde, Mr. Edmund J. Ryan, A. M., Mr. Jno. J. Crumlish, A. M. To the right of the faculty were the Juniors, and back of the Juniors the Seminars were seated. On the left were the invited guests, among whom were visitors from Pittsburgh, Altoona, Brooklyn, Mr. William McSherry, Jr., of Gettysburg, and Mr. Stubs, of Gettysburg, and ladies and gentlemen from Emmitsburg. The space farther back was occupied by the Seniors, while the gallery was crowded with greatly interested mountaineers.

During the evening there were several pleasing interludes which blended nicely with the general effect of the play. The first was the baritone solo, "Love's Golden Dream," by Mr. Wm. F. Cullen. This was sung as only Mr. Cullen can sing it. It is needless to say more. Between the second and third acts, the "Fantasia (for the flute)" from Gounod's Faust was well rendered by Mr. M. Conrad O'Shaughnessy. After the fourth act Mr. Lawrence McBride recited "The Drunkard's Crime." Mr. McBride surpassed all previous efforts, holding his audience spellbound and receiving a perfect whirlwind of applause.

The drama itself is a short sketch relating to, and occurring during the late war. The plot is clever, the dialogue smooth and pleasant, the scenes realistic.

Phil Bradley (Mr. F. H. Lee) is a daring Confederate spy in the service of General Jackson. Having acquired information concerning the Federal Troops, he gives his written report to Fred Ainsley (Mr. J. T. Rahilly) an aide-de-camp of General Jackson. While conversing they are startled by a loud snoring near by. Seeking the cause of it they stumble across Sockery Schneidebecker (Mr. Chas. Kessler) an ever-bragging Dutchman, who recites poetry at intervals and never leaves home without kissing his wife, mother-in-law and his little dog "Schneider" good-bye. They attempt to capture Sockery but, hastily seizing their pistols he holds his would be captors at bay, until the arrival of a company of soldiers who quickly make the two officers prisoners. The two officers are sentenced to be shot by Major General Banks, U. S. A., (Mr. W. D. Madden), and upon this incident the plot hinges. Many opportunities are given for the displaying of histrionic talent, and several pretty scenes occur; in all of which the students appeared to great advantage. The grand finale was very pleasing, the whole company joining hands and singing an air from Ouverture. The curtain descends upon an affecting scene. The given-up-for-lost son Geo. Waterman (Mr. M. J. O'Shaughnessy) is clasped in the arms of his mother, Mrs. Waterman (Mr. W. F. Casey) and the daring spy Phil Bradley (Mr. F. H. Lee) is in the arms of his sister, the Southern belle, Maud Bradley (Mr. W. F. Cullen). The pardon of Bradley having been obtained by the young Unionist Geo. Waterman, who is now the fiancé of his sister Maud.

Mr. Fitzhugh Lee as Phil Bradley the Confederate spy easily bore off the honors of the evening. In his action natural and vigorous, he showed both careful training and experience, and in his plea for mercy when he is sentenced to death by Major General Banks, he appeared at his best. Mr. M. Joseph O'Shaughnessy as Geo. Waterman is an amateur of great promise, and made a pleasing impression. In the parting from his mother in the first act he was tender and affectionate, showing evidences of careful study. Mr. Jas. T. Rahilly, as Fred Ainsley, made a handsome and dashing Southern officer. His acting was faultless throughout. In the duel scene, over the body of Major-General Banks, which led to the pardon of Bradley and the release of Waterman, the Unionist who managed his escape, Messrs. Rahilly and O'Shaughnessy were particularly strong. Mr. Wm. D. Madden as Major General Banks, U. S. A., enacted a difficult role. Mr. Madden's creation of the character was quiet, dignified and full of effect. Mr. Jos. E. Ingoldsbay as Col. Willard, U. S. A., was very good. He infused life into the character. The representation of Maud Bradley a Southern belle, and sister of the spy was a clever piece of emotional acting on the part of Mr. Wm. F. Cullen. His performance stamps Mr. Cullen as peculiarly fitted for the difficult roles which he undertakes. In the love scene with the young Unionist (Mr. M. J.

O'Shaughnessy) Mr. Cullen's talents appear to good advantage. Mrs. Waterman (Mr. W. F. Casey) was a part well adapted to draw forth Mr. Casey's best efforts. In his hands they proved a splendid success. Norah McLeggin a Chinese hater, (Mr. W. F. McConnel) was a delightful piece of character acting. The brogue was perfect. The comedy parts in the production were assigned to three clever comedians. Sockery Schneidebecker (Mr. C. F. Kessler) is a Dutchman who recites poetry every where and any where. He is drafted into the army and his adventures while a soldier give rise to many laughable situations. His chief conspirator in the fun-making is Officer Mulgury, Hibernian (Mr. W. J. Campbell). Officer Mulgury is a cleverly drawn specimen of the Irish officer, and is a host of fun in himself. In his more tender passages with Norah McLeggin he was very comical, and it was when preparing to fight Sockery that the Officers symmetrical form appeared to best advantage. The character of Clay, a darkey, (Mr. E. J. Donohue) was in the hands of a born comedian. Mr. Donohue did not have a great deal to do, but his was a finished performance. His impersonation of a darkey is perfect, and in this play he fully sustained his merited reputation as a fun-maker.

During the evening the orchestra played the following selections: "Overture," "Chimes of Normandy," "Pianquette," Gavotte, "Forget me not," "Gypsy Song," "Sweetheart Waltz" from "Gypsy Song," Strauss; March, "Kameke," C. Faust.

Taken all in all, the production was the most successful in years. The different characters were in the hands of earnest and pains-taking students who did the parts ample justice. But to Mr. F. Hugh Lee, '91, is the chief credit due, for he has worked early and late in order that the successful presentation of the play might be ensured. The play was a decided success in every respect. The applause was generous and deserved, and Mr. Lee and his co-workers may well feel proud of the success which they have attained. After the play, Rev. Dr. Allen gave a supper to the students. The Dramatis Personae were as follows:

Geo. Waterman, (a young Unionist) M. J. O'Shaughnessy; Phil Bradley, (a Confederate spy) F. H. Lee; Fred Ainsley, (aide-de-camp to Gen. Jackson) J. T. Rahilly; Major General Banks, U. S. A., W. D. Madden; Colonel Willard, U. S. A., J. E. Ingoldsbay; Officer Mulgury, (Hibernian) W. J. Campbell; Clay, (a darkey) E. J. Donohue; Sockery Schneidebecker, C. F. Kessler; Mrs. Waterman, (mother to George) W. F. Casey; Maud Bradley, (Southern belle and sister to spy) W. F. Cullen; Norah McLeggin, (a Chinese hater) W. J. McConnel; Confederate and Union Soldiers.

Act I. Home of the Watermans; Act II. Scene, Union Camp; Act III. Home of Maud Bradley; Act IV. Scene, Union Camp; Act V. Home of the Watermans.

The different companies of soldiers were drilled by Mr. Jos. E. Ingoldsbay. PURCELL LYCEUM.

There was an unusually lively time at the meeting of the Purcell held last Thursday evening, 27th ult. The debaters had promised to make things interesting and they were as good as their word.

Joseph X. Gormly recited "Mac-laine's Child" in a very impressive manner. Hugh Dolan followed with an excellent rendering of "The Chimney." Both speakers were warmly applauded. The subject for the debate was, "Resolved, that Intemperance caused by Intoxicating liquors is the Chief Source of Crime." The speakers for the affirmative were Messrs. Lawrence McBride, Edward Mullen, Jas. Reilly, Negative, Frank Sullivan, Frank Baldwin, Robert Byrnes. The critic gave special praise to Messrs. Reilly, Baldwin and Byrnes.

These three speakers, he said, were very well prepared and deserve great credit, not only for the studious research made, but also for the keen interest in the subject. He awarded the debate to the affirmative because the numerous statistics brought up by Mr. Reilly were not disputed by the negative. In closing his remarks he said the speakers on the negative did exceedingly well and praised them for the mastery way in which they handled their side of the question. The debate for Thursday, Dec. 4, is "Does Columbus deserve more honor than Washington." Mr. Arthur Keegan leads the affirmative, assisted by Edward McVeigh and Jas. McCoy. Messrs. McDonald, Gordon, J. Cashman are on the negative. Declaration, Messrs. Donohue and Edwards.

The Rev. Dr. McSweeney was an interested listener at the last debate. He likes to come in and hear the young philosophers talk.

The toasts in 3rd Elocution Class have been a great success. The appendix is the response to the toast "Our Patriots," by a member of '94.

OUR PATRIOTS.

As we are gathered around the festive board this evening just after the enjoyment of a hearty repast, and consequently on the best of terms with ourselves and with all the world, it is but just that we should have some thought for those who in the endowment of many and bitter hardships, obtained for us these inestimable privileges which we enjoy as citizens of a great and prosperous republic—that is, those of us who are citizens, as well as those of us who wish to be. And I know that we all hope to be citizens one day—even the Juniors have great expectations of arriving, some time in the distant future, at this much-wished-for state.

It is but right, therefore, that we should remember the great debt we owe to those brave defenders of our country in its infancy and to pay them the tribute which their memory deserves.

Who is there among us, who, having taken up his abode in the United States, does not then read with flashing eye the thrilling tales of the gallant heroes who fought and bled, aye, and sometimes died for their country.

Can any one read the stirring account of the capture of Ticonderoga, whose memory does not bound with the thrilling pulsations of affection and enthusiasm, when Ethan Allen, at the head of his brave Green Mountain Boys, compels the British General to surrender "In the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress."

Can any true American follow the trials of Washington, from the obscure envoy sent by Gov. Dinwiddie to the French Commandery at Lake Erie, to the recipient of the highest honor which an admiring people could confer upon him—the first President of the United States—without reverencing the plodding perseverance, the stern sense of duty, the determination to succeed—all through the Revolution—the Father of his Country.

Is there one among us, who, when he sees in his mind's eye the towering figure of Patrick Henry standing before the Virginia Assembly, and thundering out, in stentorian tones, the words, "Give me liberty, or give me death!" but feels awakened in his own breast a responsive chord of that same patriotism and love.

Let us read upon the immortal pages of our histories of the terrible sacrifices, the maddening pain, the bloody conflicts, all the awful consequences of war, which these noble men of bygone days endured for their country, and then say that their memories do not deserve to be honored by us.

Let us then, drink, not only to the memory of those brave patriots whose brows have been crowned with the laurels of victory and whose praises have been sung by the poet and the minstrel, but also to the immortal glory of those countless thousands who died on the battle-field, unhonored, unwept and unused.

"Forget not our wounded companions who stood in the day of distress by our side; While the moss of the valley grew red with their blood; They stilled not, but conformed and died! They said that now blest our arms with their light. Saw them fall upon Osborn's plain, Oh! let him not blush, when he leaves us to night, To find that they fell there in vain."

The following toasts have been arranged for this week. Toast-master, E. McDonald.

"Our Iron Industries," Wm. Costello; "America," Patrick McCallum; "College Days," Samuel Swearingen; "Music," Edward Weissner; "The Editor," Chas. Sullivan; "Our Sisters," Wm. Nolan; "The Press," Walter Edwards; "The Catholic Citizen," Arthur Keegan.

A LEGACY.

By the terms of the will of the late Rev. John Grogan, of Lake Forest, Ill., who was buried here a short time ago, the sum of $1,500.00 has been left to Mount St. Mary's College. Fr. Grogan entered the College in 1853 and was ordained a priest in 1859 for the diocese of Chicago. Fr. Grogan built St. Bridget's Church in Chicago and was pastor of it for more than 20 years. During the past few years of his life he was pastor of a Church in Lake Forest, one of the suburban towns about Chicago.

Fr. Grogan was greatly attached to his Alma Mater and when dying he requested his friends to take his remains back to his old Mountain home and lay them to rest beside his beloved friend, Dr. John McCaffrey, R. I. P.

The New York World of Wednesday, Nov. 26, 1890, has this to say of James McK. Sample of the class of 1871:

"McKenzie Sample is more than busy these days obliterating all traces of a happy bachelorhood. His large coterie of male friends have not enjoyed his presence for some time and his marriage to Miss Coudert at St. Francis Xavier's Church, on West Sixteenth street, next Tuesday, is the cause of his change of habits. His large coterie of male friends have not enjoyed his presence for some time and his marriage to Miss Coudert at St. Francis Xavier's Church, on West Sixteenth street, next Tuesday, is the cause of his change of habits."

After graduating at the Mount, Mr. McK. began the study of law in Montgomery, Ala., with his father. When he had completed his law studies and was admitted to the bar he went to Chicago. He remained there for a short time, when he concluded to go to New York, which proved to be a good move for him, as he immediately received an appointment as one of the assistants to the District Attorney. He has always fulfilled his duties there with great satisfaction, proving his ability in the preparation and trial of the cases submitted to him. He deserves credit for his success and we congratulate him upon it and wish him joy and prosperity in his new venture.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional and not a local disease, and therefore it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes the disease, and effects a permanent cure. Thousands of people testify to the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh when other preparations had failed.

Catarrh

"I will say I have been troubled for several years with that terribly disagreeable disease, catarrh. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla with the very best results. It cured me of that continual dropping in my throat, and stuffed up feeling. It has also helped my mother, who has taken it for run-down state of health and kidney trouble." Mrs. S. D. HEATH, Putnam, Conn.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh with very satisfactory results. I have received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I have ever tried." M. E. READ, of A. Read & Son, Wausau, O.

When The Face

Is constantly covered with eruptions, the need of a blood-purifier is plainly indicated. Washes and external applications are of no avail. The poison must be thoroughly eliminated from the system by stimulating the action of the liver and kidneys, which organs have become sluggish and inactive, thereby throwing upon the skin the unnatural work of cleansing the system of its impurities. What is needed is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Three bottles of this medicine effected a thorough cure. I can confidently recommend it to all suffering from similar troubles."

"I had been troubled for some time with an eruption of the skin which, till I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, defied all efforts to cure. After taking two bottles of this medicine, the eruption began to disappear, and with the third bottle it left me entirely."

CAPT. SETON, U. S. A., Fort Spokane, Washington, has our thanks for a copy of the beautiful souvenir of the Northwestern Industrial Exposition, held at Spokane Falls, Washington, from Oct. 1st to Nov. 1st, 1890. It is entitled "Spokane Falls and Its Exposition," and contains over fifty pages illustrating the City of Spokane Falls and its tributary resources.

Newspaper for Sale.

Mr. J. S. L. Rodrick, the esteemed editor and proprietor of the Banner of Liberty, published at Libertytown, this county, offers that paper including good will, etc., at private sale. He says "It was established in 1850, and in charge of thirty-eight consecutive years in charge of it, we feel like taking a rest." The Banner bears the marks of thrift and prosperity, and an opportunity is offered to a practical newspaper man to engage in a good business. Those of us who have been engaged in the starting of a newspaper can well appreciate the advantage of taking up a well established business.

Halted in the Highway.

Rev. Wm. Harris, of Harper's Ferry, has been holding protracted meetings at Knoxville and returns home each night, part of the way on foot. A few nights ago, at a lonely spot on the road, he was halted by three colored men, who demanded the lantern he was carrying. Mr. Harris told them they could not have it, but they insisted on his giving it up until the minister was compelled to persuade them at the point of a good sized revolver to desist and depart. A trusty shooting-iron with a cool head behind it is sometimes a very necessary and effective argument.—Frederick News.

What Does This Mean?

Mr. Oliver Morrison is our authority for the following: Some time recently Peter Gerhart, tenant on Morrison's farm at the "Old Factory" posted notices on the place warning hunters not to trespass thereon. One day recently Gerhart found a placard on a post, on which was a threat of some kind, to be carried out in event that the trespass notices were not removed within a certain limit of time. Several days ago a reaper in one of the fields was set on fire and burned, and Morrison looks upon this as a carrying out of the threat. The story as told us is too vague for an intelligent report, but nevertheless, he is considerably agitated over the matter. However, it is well enough for the person or persons who put up the notice to understand that even if it was done in a joking manner, they are trifling with what may prove a serious matter. As regards the burning of the reaper, Mr. Morrison says that really did occur, but he failed to say why the reaper was in the field. If the grain crop is ready to harvest out there at this season, can it be called early or late? Perhaps they'll tie the sheaves with icicles.

The Little Seed.

A little seed lay in the carter's path; A little seed bowed in the strong wind's wrath; A little shrub grew, by its roots held fast; Then a stout tree braved all the winter's blast. A little cough started—'twas only light; A little chill shivered the hours of night; A little pain came and began to grow; Then consumption laid all his brave strength low. Be wise in time. Check the little cough, cure the little chill, dispell the little pain, ere the little ailment becomes the strong, unconquerable giant of disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, taken in time, is a remedy for these ills.

How to make money in Wall Street is what troubles the average New Yorker. We were troubled however with catarrh until Old San's Catarrh Cure cured us. Sold for 25 cts.

Nothing stupefying or dangerous, no laudanum or opium, enters into the composition of that famed remedy, Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. Price 25c.

Entertainment To-night.

The entertainment by the public school children at the Opera House to-night will be an interesting affair, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the public school library. We bespeak for them a large turn-out. Admission 15 cents. Doors open at 7.30.

Tried In Philadelphia.

Last week Harry W. Martin, of Littlestown, was convicted in the U. S. District Court at Philadelphia, of fraudulent use of the mails in the sale or exchange of ferrets, poultry, &c. Sentence was deferred. In the same Court Albert Sherman, of the same place, was acquitted of the same charge, evidence showing that his transactions were properly carried on.—Compiler.

Life is Misery

To thousands of people who have the taint of scrofula in their blood. The agonies caused by the dreadful running sores and other manifestations of this disease are beyond description. There is no other remedy equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula, salt rheum and every form of blood disease. It is reasonably sure to benefit all who give it a fair trial. Be sure to get Hood's.

The residence of Francis P. Phelps, Jr., recently erected on a part of Eldon farm, Dorchester county, was burned on Thursday night, with its contents. Mr. Phelps' family are visiting in Washington, and he, having retired, barely escaped from the burning building in his night clothes. Forty dollars in cash lie in the pocket of his clothing was burned. The fire is supposed to have been accidental.

THE RAILROAD PROGRESSING.

Incorporators Selected—A Company to be Organized on the 20th inst.—Southern Connection Booming.

A meeting of the Committee having in charge the selecting of charter members for organizing the Emmitsburg and Gettysburg Railroad, met at the Western Maryland Hotel last Saturday afternoon and selected the following: A. F. White, Frederick Rhodes, J. C. Plank, W. S. Dutcher, Joseph Redding, John Bigham, I. M. Fisher, J. S. Biggs, O. A. Horner, I. S. Annan, Rev. Mandine, E. R. Zimmerman, E. L. Rowe, J. W. Eichelberger, Jr., John McAllister, Aaron Rohrbach and D. S. Gillean, with John Donoghue and Paul Motter, Chairman and Secretary, as auxiliary members of the board. It was then decided to postpone the meeting for organization from Dec. 6th, to Saturday, Dec. 20th, at 2 o'clock. This change was made on account of the absence of persons interested in the project.

It was the opinion of those present that a company should be organized with a capital stock of $70,000. While most of the projectors are of the opinion that the money can all be raised on stock subscriptions, it is considered likely that if $45,000 of the amount is raised the work will go forward at once.

SOUTHERN CONNECTION.

A dispatch from Middletown to the Baltimore Sun, dated Nov. 30, says: "A largely attended railroad meeting was held in this place yesterday afternoon, at which the question of building a railroad from Middletown to connect with the Western Maryland Road at Rocky Ridge, in the northeastern section of this county, was thoroughly discussed. A large number of the most influential farmers and business men of this section were present, and the meeting was an enthusiastic one. Dr. J. E. Beatty acted as chairman and C. E. Niemeyer, secretary. A committee was appointed to make all necessary arrangements preparatory to securing a charter. The road as projected, will pass through the northeastern section of the valley, crossing Catoctin mountain at Mt. Kataupa better known as High Knob, three miles from town, and from this point on through Frederick and Creagerstown districts to Rocky Ridge, a distance of about eighteen miles. From Rocky Ridge a branch road extends to Emmitsburg, and a public meeting was also held at the latter place yesterday to further plans for the extension of that road from Emmitsburg to Gettysburg, a distance of eleven miles. The people in this section, as well as all those living along the line of the contemplated roads, are thoroughly aroused in the matter, and a determined and united effort will be made to secure the construction of the roads. At 'Mt. Kataupa,' or High Knob, the scenery is equal to that of Pen-Mar, and a grand summer resort will be located there. To the east from this point the entire Frederick Valley spreads out hundreds of feet below, while to the west the Middletown or Catoctin Valley charms the beholder. There are also rumors that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company contemplate building a road from Brunswick to Middletown, about twelve miles distant. Should these roads be constructed it would open up the valuable iron ore belt near this place, on which a Baltimore syndicate has leases, and at the same time there would be a direct route from Gettysburg and the North, crossing the Western Maryland at Rocky Ridge, to Washington city, something long desired. Another meeting will be held here shortly, at which further interesting developments are expected.

MT. ST. MARY'S ITEMS.

We are glad to state Mr. A. Althoff is improving. Mr. P. J. Corry has returned home from Baltimore. Mrs. Clark Schaffer spent last week with her Mother.

Mr. Grafton Beager of McKeesport is on a visit to his parents. Misses Nan and Team Adlesberger spent Sunday at Mr. P. Hemler's.

Mr. John Peters of Pikesville is spending some time with his family in this place.

Mr. James Seybold who has been in Baltimore County for some time is home on a visit.

Miss Emma Rosensteel who has been in Baltimore for some time has returned to her home at this place.

The Oyster Supper held by the Mt. St. Mary's Benevolent Association in their Hall last week proved a success. The society thanks the public for its attendance.

A very pleasant surprise party was held at the residence of Mr. Albert Walter last Friday evening. Quite a number of young folks were present and all enjoyed themselves very much and returned thanks to host and hostess for their kind attention to all.

DECEMBER ECLECTIC.—The last number of the half-year volume of this excellent Magazine will recommend itself to our readers. The opening article is a striking installment of a powerful story of early Christianity by Count Tolstoi, the great Russian novelist. Dr. B. W. Richardson, writes about "Working Hours and Workmen," and Mr. Gladstone contributes another striking paper on the "Sea Power in History," a striking review of Capt. Mahan's book (U. S. N.). Mr. Carnegie's "Gospel of Wealth" is keenly criticised by Mr. Gladstone. Vernon Lee's story of "A Worldly Woman" is completed. Prince Peter Kravtchik continues his studies of the proofs of Socialism among the brutes and lower orders of creatures. Dr. Carl Peters, the great German filibuster of Africa, has something to say on Stanley and Emin Pasha, which will be read with interest. One of the most charming papers of the number will be found in the lecture read before the last annual meeting of the Royal Geographical Society by a woman traveller, Miss Menie Muriel Dowie, which made such a sensation by its freshness, its style, and ability.

The Magazine is enriched with short stories, essays, sketches, poems, etc., and is a most engaging holiday number.

Mrs. Jones hasn't a gray hair in her head and is over 50. She looks as young as her daughter. The secret of it is, that she used only Hall's Hair Renewer.

Mr. T. J. C. Williams who has been connected with the Hagerstown Mail for nearly seventeen years, has been elected to and accepted the position of Business Manager of the Washington Critic. Whilst Mr. Williams has retired from the active Editorship of the Mail, he will continue to hold for the present, his old position of Secretary and Treasurer of the Mail Publishing Company, and will be in the office on the afternoons of each Saturday.

In Possession of the Canal.

The C. & O. Canal receivers turned over the Canal and all the property belonging to it to the trustees of the bond holders of 1844 on Monday night. The trustees will take charge of the office in Hagerstown at once, and it is said the repairs will be started promptly. The receivers retained the books containing claims of the canal, and will proceed to collect the same. The trustees deposited $200,000 to satisfy the holders of liens on the body of the canal.

Serious Accident.

John Eline met with a serious accident last Saturday morning while engaged with Mr. Wm. H. Ashbaugh in putting a new foundation under the house owned by Rowe & Hoke, at Poplar Ridge. Eline was in the cellar at the time and Mr. Ashbaugh on the outside of the house. They were placing a large stone in position, when Eline, thinking it was going to fall on him, tripped and fell while trying to get away, and struck his head on a rock. It was several minutes before Mr. Ashbaugh discovered his predicament, and on going to his assistance found him lying on the ground, with blood flowing from his mouth and nose. Eline was removed to his home near by and is now doing well. At first it was feared that he had received internal injuries.

Fountaindale Items.

Mr. Jos. E. Kelly has purchased the Hardman property, and will occupy it in the Spring. Nearly every one has finished butchering around here. We have been feasting on rabbits for quite a while. They were very plentiful.

In a contest at a Catholic Fair last week, in Washington, D. C., between four young ladies for a beautiful Henrietta cloth velvet dress it was voted to Miss Jennie McIntire, a grand-daughter of Mr. Fred. McIntire.

Mr. Samuel Young on Thanksgiving day gave a sumptuous dinner to a number of his friends. Amongst his guests were Mr. George Stock and Wm. McSherry, Jr., Esq., of Gettysburg, Mrs. Harry Bahman and family, Mr. Fred. McIntire and his son Charlie, and many others.

Something for the New Year.

The world renowned success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and their continued popularity for over a third of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by The Hostetter Company, Pittsburg, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing 50 hands in that department. They are running about 11 months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1891 will be more than ten millions, printed in the English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. It is a very good thing for a valuable and interesting reading concerning health, and numerous testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, amusement, varied information, astronomical calculations and chronological facts, etc., which can be depended on for correctness. The Almanac for 1891 can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.
