"A word to the wise is sufficient," but it is not always wise to say that word to one who is suffering the tortures of a headache. However risk it and recommend Bradycortine.

MR. W. L. McGINNIS has our thanks for a liberal supply of the product of his fine orchard, in the form of apples and cider. Mr. Mc. has beyond doubt the most productive orchard in this section, and from the sample so liberally bestowed upon the printer we pronounce the fruit first class in every respect. His crop is exceedingly fine this season.

A great blood purifier for all domestic animals, Biggs Bros. Crown Stock Food.

MR. FRANK DUBOIS has our thanks for a copy of The Harper Sentinel, published at Harper, Kansas, dated Sept. 18. Among the interesting items we note that one farmer raised 3,000 bushels of wheat on 147 acres. Another reports 62 bushels of oats to the acre and 65 bushels of corn. Still another raised 32½ bushels of wheat to the acre on land that cost $20 an acre.

It is rumored that the democrats of Emmitsburg, Mechanistown and Creagerstown will hold a grand tournament and picnic at Rocky Ridge in the near future. We have understood later that arrangements are being made to hold the picnic and that it can no longer be called a rumor.

Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers the California Fig Syrup Company.

Twenty-nine Baskets.

Columbus Baskold of Ringgold, will come in for one peach premium at least, raising the biggest pick from a single tree. He has a tree in his orchard, the spread of which is 28 feet. From this he gathered the other day 29 half-bushel baskets of peaches, or a good one-horse load in itself. This probably exceeds the greatest record of this marvelous peach year.—Keystone Gazette.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., Sept. 21, 1891. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Mrs. Lou Fink, Miss Moselle Latham, Miss Annie M. Welty, The Mutual-Live Stock Insurance Co., Rachel Mellon.

S. N. McNAIR, P. M.

EDITOR D. B. ALLEMAN of the Littlestown Independent went to Hanover with a horseback party recently and on the return trip his horse fell with him, breaking his left arm and seriously straining his right leg. This thing of editors trying to ride real live horses should not be tolerated, especially when they are of the falling-down kind. We hope he will recover rapidly and suggest that he stick to the paper horses in the future.

That Fair and Concert.

The Fair of the Mt. St. Mary's Catholic Benevolent Association has been attracting large crowds every evening this week. The attractions have been popular and catching. A special announcement has been made stating that the Fair will close next Wednesday evening, the 30th inst., with a musical concert by Prof. G. Koehenbach, the Lanninger Family and Guy Hoppe. The concert will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents; children under 12 years, 15 cents.

The Cardinal at Frederick.

Cardinal Gibbons was given a grand reception upon his arrival at Frederick Saturday evening, by the Young Men's Catholic Union, assisted by the St. John's Benevolent Association and Father McElroy Council No. 70, Catholic Benevolent Legion. On Sunday he confirmed a class of twenty-two at St. John's Catholic church. Monday he held confirmation services at Liberty, Tuesday at Petersburg, Wednesday at Urbana and Thursday at the Manor church, returning to Baltimore to-day. He spent part of his time at Col. L. V. Baughman's residence.

A Good Thing.

The Real Estate Agency established by Mr. Cassell, of the Mechanistown Clarion, and Mr. Motter of the Emmitsburg Chronicle, is certainly a good thing, and should be encouraged by parties having property to sell. The advantage to the property holder desiring to sell is that it costs him nothing if they fail to make him a sale, and but little if they succeed in selling.—Banner of Liberty.

The Excursion to Washington.

One of the veterans who visited Washington on the recent excursion writes as follows:—"The old soldiers had a very pleasant time on the excursion to Washington. Many of them had not been there since the war, and noted with pleasure the many changes that have taken place at the Capital during the past twenty-six years. The writer, who had not been there for seventeen years, was none the less interested in the improvements. One man of the party, who is nearly seventy years old, although not a soldier, visited the capital for the first time on this occasion, and was delighted with the trip."

Dr. Waters Endorsed.

At a meeting of the Mechanistown District Tariff Reform club on Saturday evening last, the club adopted the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, The members of this Club believe the nomination of Dr. Jas. K. Waters of this district for Register of Wills by the Democratic Convention of this county will inure to his sure election in November, as his popularity among the voters, his acquaintance throughout the county, and his fitness to fill the position to which he aspires and the flattering vote he received by the convention six years ago, make his claim first to be considered by the convention which meets on the 23rd of September, 1891. Therefore be it Resolved, That the members of this club use all honorable means to further the nomination of Dr. Jas. K. Waters for Register of Wills of Frederick County, Md.—Clarion.

No farmer or dairyman can afford to be without Crown Stock Food. It is a boon to breeders of all domestic animals.

HONORING TAMMANY'S DEAD.

Unveiling of the Monument on Gettysburg's Field This Morning.
GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 24.—Four hundred veterans of the old New York Forty-second, known as the Tammany regiment, marched to the Gettysburg battlefield this forenoon to participate in the unveiling of the monument recently erected to the memory of those of the regiment who lost their lives on that noted field.

The dedicatory exercises commenced at 10 o'clock. The orator of the day was General Daniel E. Sickles, and brief addresses were also made by General Ely S. Parker, General Martin T. McEmmittsburg, Pa., Sept. 24.—Four hundred veterans of the old New York Forty-second, known as the Tammany regiment, marched to the Gettysburg battlefield this forenoon to participate in the unveiling of the monument recently erected to the memory of those of the regiment who lost their lives on that noted field.

THE TAMMANY MONUMENT.

Mahon, Judge Gildersleeve and Mr. Barlow S. Weeks. The monument was unveiled by Colonel Fellows. A feature of the occasion was the reading of the Tammany's Forty-second Regiment Infantry, New York Volunteers. The main part of the memorial is of bronze, and is seventeen feet in height. It consists of a wigwag or tepee mounted upon the granite base. Before the door of the wigwag stands the figure of an Indian of heroic size. The warrior is dressed for the war path. In his left hand he holds a long bow, and with the right he is pointing to the field below. On either side of the figure, leaning against the walls of the wigwag, are crossed spears.

Bigger, Better and Brighter than Ever.

The North End Real Estate Agency is making up another list of properties for a circular that will be sent out early in October. Those who are considering placing property in their hands should determine the matter at once. They are in receipt of numerous inquiries and have not as yet properties to meet all requirements.

A NEW RAILROAD.

The Reading to be extended to Frederick. It is stated on very good authority that the Reading Railroad has in contemplation the extension of its road from Gettysburg to Frederick, the line to run several miles east of Emmitsburg. The purpose is to secure new markets for Reading coal. Should it be built, its further extension to Washington would be only a matter of time. Several parties have been spoken to about securing rights-of-way and subscriptions. If encouragement is given in these two things, the Reading will willingly embark in the enterprise.—Frederick News.

The above will no doubt be very interesting, to both those who had hoped to get such a line through Emmitsburg and to the Reading officials themselves. However, for the benefit of our readers, we assure them that the Reading is not even contemplating the construction of such a line, but if our people are ready to go to work, they will find that company willing to co-operate with them in every way possible. That the road will ever pass Emmitsburg by several miles is as unlikely as that we will have a direct communication with the Moon in the near future. If it passes us it will be at a distance of a good many miles, but we have the assurance, that if we are ready to go to work the Reading will stand in with us. What say you railroad men, shall it come? As our information comes direct from Mr. A. A. McLeod, president of the Reading company, it is beyond question.

Base Ball.

The Blackstockings of Mt. St. Mary's played a game at Union Bridge last Friday, with the team of that place, which resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 33 to 10. We are informed that the Blackstockings could not stand the galling inflicted upon them, and from our information we infer that the boys got rattled. We know that they can "put up" a good game of ball, but unless they learn to "keep their heads" they will never hold the championship. The Frederick News says the Union Bridge club now holds the championship of Carroll and Frederick counties, and will play any club in either county.

Another game played here yesterday resulted in a victory for the Blackstockings by a score of 5 to 4. We regret not having the official score of either game but as we expected the boys did better at home.

A Mystery.

How the human system ever recovers from the bad effects of the nauseous medicines often literally poured into it for the supposed relief of dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism and other ailments, is a mystery. The mischief done by these medicines is scarcely less than that caused by disease. If they were weak, bilious, dyspeptic, constipated or otherwise, would they be guided by the experience of invalids who have thoroughly tested Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, they would in every instance obtain the speediest and derivable relief from rational medication. This medicine is a searching and at the same time a thoroughly safe remedy, derived from vegetable sources, and possessing, in consequence of its basis of pure spirits, properties which render it a powerful and efficient agent in the very local bitters and stimulants often resorted to by the debilitated, dyspeptic and languid.

BASE BALL AT THE COLLEGE.

For the past three years the Seminary's nine has endeavored to beat the Mountaineers'. But victory found it by the clock-like battery work of Mr. Howard and Mr. Peter Walsh, and backed up by Mr. Bradley's fine field work, it came to the long-expectant ones and was cheerfully welcomed. The "Mountaineers" won the toss and sent the Seminary to the bat. Mr. Peter Kelly, of whom it was said that "Spherical mathematics knew him for a master," stepped to the plate and, after a few ineffectual attempts, smashed the ball to center. Centre-fielder Seton was waiting for it and shut off Mr. Kelly's chance of scoring. Mr. Howard made a clean single, successfully stole second and third, and scored on Mr. Bradley's sacrifice to Donohue. Mr. Walsh, in the meantime going to first on balls, stealing second and third, and scoring on a short passed ball. Mr. Martin went to first on balls but was thrown out by Seton.

Seton flew out to Mr. Kelly. Donohue struck out. Williams T. reached first on a fumble by Mr. Howard, stole second, went to third on Mr. Bradley's overthrow, and home on Tobin's cracking two-bagger to left. Tobin was left as McCloskey fled out to Mr. Kelly. Mr. Coad was a good waiter and went to first. He reached third on Donohue's bat throw to catch him napping at first and home on Mr. Ryan's fly which, strange to say, was muffed by young Mr. Cashman. Mr. Watterson struck left, went to second on Seton's bat throw to first and home on Mr. Howard's four-bagger to left. Mr. Kelly fouled-out to Seton. Messrs. Walsh, Bradley and Martin made singles but the bases were left filled. Mr. Coad longed to right being captured by Cummeen after a hard run.

Emmett Farrell hit a pop-up fly to pitcher. John Cashman struck out but went to first on Mr. Walsh's missing the third strike. J. Seton hit a fly to Mr. Watterson who caught it and quickly fielded the ball to first, double-playing Cashman out.

Mr. Ryan was back a new twirler. This was J. B. Menelans McCloskey. "Bottle" struck the batter out. Mr. Watterson flew out to left field. Frankie and his glove holding the ball this time. Mr. Gallagher hit to pitcher who threw him out at first. Cummeen struck out. So did W. Seton. Donohue went to first on an error by Mr. Howard, second on Mr. Kelly's left field, and stranded there at Mr. Martin, after a beautiful pick-up of Willy Cashman's "Lawford stroke," sent the ball to first ahead of the fleet first-baseman.

The fourth opened with a deservedly applauded play. Mr. Kelly sent a sharp grounder between first and second. Cashman ran for it but fell down while stopping the ball. He recovered himself in time, however, to cut off the runner at first, McCloskey running over and covering the base. Mr. Howard lined out a single and stole second. Mr. Walsh hit to Tobin who threw Mr. Howard out at third. Mr. Walsh scored on Cummeen's overthrow home. Mr. Bradley arrived at first, the short-stop fumbling the ball. Mr. Martin went out at first on Tobin's clever stop and throw to Cashman.

Tobin reached first on four bad balls, stole second and scored on McCloskey's hit to left. Farrell went to first on balls, was advanced to second on J. Cashman's grounder to Mr. Watterson and home on Cummeen's dropped fly. McCloskey was forced out at third. John Francis stole second without the aid of his big glove and J. Seton went to first on balls. W. Seton succumbed to Mr. Howard's twisters and three were left on base. Donohue going out Mr. Bradley to Mr. Kelly. Mr. Coad knocked a long fly to right where it was captured by Cummeen. Mr. Ryan fled out to McCloskey and Mr. Watterson to Will Cashman. Gentle Willy, flushed with success at capturing a hard fly, now stepped to the bat and inquired whether he would knock a home run or a three-bagger, struck out. Tobin made a base hit but was forced out at second on McCloskey's hit to Mr. Howard. McCloskey reached third on a wild throw by Mr. Walsh. Farrell went to first on balls. Both scored on J. Cashman's hit to left. J. Seton made the third out. Mr. Gallagher making a pretty running catch in left.

Mr. Coad flew out to Cummeen. Mr. Ryan to McCloskey and Mr. Watterson to Will Cashman. Cummeen reached first on Mr. Kelly's failure to hold a throw by Mr. Martin. W. Seton went to first on balls. Donohue was thrown out at first by Mr. Howard. Willy not gauging properly Mr. Howard's wild curves, again bit the dust. Tobin did likewise.

Mr. Walsh went out, Tobin to Cashman. Mr. Bradley reached second on a left-field hit. This unversed "Bottle" who sent Mr. Martin to first on balls. Mr. Bradley tried to score on Mr. Coad's single to right, but was thrown out at the plate by Cummeen. Mr. Coad was thrown out at second by Donohue.

McCloskey knocked a grounder to Mr. Howard and was retired. Farrell reached first on balls and stole second. John Francis hit to Mr. Watterson and went out at first. Farrell was thrown out at the plate by Mr. Bradley. Score, 7-5.

NOTES.

Mr. Howard is developing into a second class pitcher. He is rapidly getting over his wildness. Cummeen and Tobin are showing up well. They are promising candidates for the school nine. Donohue made several clever stops. Mr. Watterson attracted every attention by his singular adventures in getting out of the way of hot liners. J. Frankie and his big mit are inseparable; as much so as are his brother Will and the "Lawford." Mr. Nagle's decisions were unquestioned. He will probably officiate at the Seminary, Mountaineers and Revers. Emmett Farrell is a good waiter. He went to first on balls three times. Mr. Gallagher made a beautiful catch of Seton's fly. Mr. Walsh's catching made him the observed of all observers.

brand over his watch. This information was greeted with a chorus of groans.

"This has been the very longest night of my life," said Lou, wearily, some three hours later.

"It's engraved on my memory for all time," declared Carrie from her corner. "I think camping out is a great mistake."

"Tell you what," blurted Lex suddenly, with a view to reviving the flagging spirits of the party. "Tell you what; John Lee does make good coffee, though, doesn't he? He's just about making it now," he added, dreamily.

"And such superb turn-overs," said Carrie plaintively, with a contemptuous glance at the piled-up pans outside.

"Poor father! He'll be so lonely. We are so seldom all away like this," sighed Aunt Bertram nervously. "Come, children," she went on briskly, for memory is a painful thing at times, "get out the towels and we'll go and freshen ourselves up with a wash."

"But where are the towels?" questioned Lou, wrinkling up her brows.

"Who put them in the wagon?" said Aunt Bertram, followed by an ominous silence.

"Out on the prairie there is a ranch, and in that ranch there is a linen closet, and in that closet there are about a hundred towels," drawled Lex suggestively.

"Well, then, suppose we each go and get one," said Harry, firmly, with a defiant glance at the four haggard faces in the wagon.

"Fifty cents!" they shouted, with one accord.

"I don't care," retorted the victim, recklessly; "you all thought the same thing, anyway, only you were afraid to say so."

"Three cheers for Bertram Ranch!" cried Lex, the irrepressible, and they were given with good will.

About 8 o'clock that same morning Jim, from his post on the Bertram porch, suddenly gave a short yelp of delight, and John Lee, cosily ensconced in the hammock, threw up his arms in despair, for coming down the lane at a terrific rate was a well-known wagon, filled with wildly exuberant people.

Jim had seen them the night before—at Birch Creek.

A YOUNG GIANT.

A Baltimore boy who is growing at a great rate in Allegany. From the Baltimore Sun.

Allegany can boast of perhaps one of the largest boys of his age to be found in the State. His name is Wm. W. Wittig, and he resides with his parents in Frostburg. Throughout the county he is looked on as a giant. He was born in Baltimore, Md., at the corner of Broadway and Chase streets, December 57, 1874, therefore is a little over sixteen years and eight months old. With his parents he moved to Frostburg in March, 1876. For the past two years he has been growing at the rate of one half an inch per month. His height is 6 feet 4 1/2 inches and he weighs 185 pounds. He wears a No. 7 1/2 hat and No. 11 shoe. His hand measures 13 1/2 inches around the knuckles when closed. His chest measure is 44, and his waist 41 inches. He has always enjoyed excellent health and possesses an appetite which would alarm most people, as it calls for about what would satisfy three ordinary laboring men at each meal. He lifts 350 pounds with ease, is of a happy disposition and a great favorite with the boys of the town. When angered he is a terror. He is the son of ex-Mayor Wittig, a leading citizen and Elizabeth Wittig, both of whom are large persons. The father is 6 feet 3 inches in height and weighs 200 pounds, the mother is of medium height and weighs 220 pounds. The family is well-to-do and highly respected. Mr. Wittig, with the assistance of his sons, carries on a bakery and confectionery establishment. The young giant is still growing.

Dearly Loved a Dog.

There are few public men in Missouri who do not know Ed Silver, erstwhile the handsome young private secretary of Governor Chas. H. Hardin, but now one of the bright and shining lights of the Missouri bar. Like most bachelors of, say thirty or "thereabouts," Ed dearly loves a dog.

Ed's dog's name is Boze, and many are the stories told at Ed's expense about that dog.

A month or so ago, for instance, Ed and Will Zevely took an afternoon drive in Ed's buggy, with Boze, as usual trotting along in the rear of the vehicle.

While going up a long hill west of the capital city, and at a point near the Water Works, Ed suddenly discovered that Boze had disappeared.

"I say, Zev," said he, "durn me if I don't believe somebody's stole Boze."

Then both Ed and Will stood up in the buggy and surveyed the country, including the bold and beautiful bluffs on the Callaway side of the river, for at least a mile and a half in every direction. Then Ed turned the outfit round, drove down the hill and made a thorough search of Goose creek bottom. Still no Boze.

Zevely suggested that, as it was a very hot day, Boze might have grown weary of the long trot, and concluded to go back home. Ed sadly and solemnly responded that he had never known Boze to do such a thing before.

"I fear Zev," said he, "that it is worse than that."

Just then they met a small colored boy.

"Say, boy," said Ed, "have you seen anything of a yellow dog with white spots on his neck and shoulders around here?"

"A yaller dog with white spots on him?" responded the boy, with what Zevely thought was a peculiar twinkle in his eye.

"Yes," said Ed, "and I'll give you a great big dollar if you'll find him for me."

The boy smiled. "I say, mister," said he, "mebbe that's your dog under the buggy thar."

And sure enough it was. In fact, Boze had been trotting along under the buggy all the while; it afforded him protection from the hot rays of the sun.

Ed paid the dollar and made Zevely promise that he wouldn't say a word about it "up in town."—Hannibal Journal.

Ample Protection.

It had been a terribly oppressive night, following a day of fiercest heat, a day that boiled the tar out of the granite pavements in long threads and bubbles. During the close, stifling hours of darkness an unknown man, who had been sun-struck the day before, and had lain delirious upon a pallet in the corridor of the police stationhouse crept from his couch, stripped himself of every stitch of clothing and fled into the streets.

Patrolman O'Brien had captured him after a hard chase.

And now the patient and the policeman were in the Police Court before his Honor Judge Gregg, disposing of the case, the sun-stricken being airily attired in a single sheet thrown around him and pinned together.

"Patrolman O'Brien, three separate complaints have been lodged against you here for indecent conduct."

"Indecent conduct? Holy smoke! Who, yer Anner yerself, beggin' yer Anner's pardin'—yer Anner is a rigger skurt-dancer along side o' me, shpaken o' decency! Who is the omadhaun—"

"Silence, sir! Respectable persons have lodged the complaint that you caught a man stark naked at the corner of John and Fifth streets, and brought him all the way down here, along the lighted streets, just as the theatres, were out, in an utter and shocking state of nudity."

"It's a loy, yer Anner—a dur-rty loy!"

"The man was clothed, then?"

"Not a strap more clothes than yer Anner has fleas."

"Did he have this sheet on him then?"

"No, yer Anner, he'd no need av no sheets; he were completely covered."

"Covered? How?"

"Covered wid moy rayvelleiver, yer Anner."

The next case was called.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Ice Cream.

This ice cream eating of to-day is without doubt a nineteenth century amusement, as in all probability our colonial ancestors were unacquainted with the manufacture of ice cream, or if they did possess the secret of the "freezer" it was not given out publicly, as no doubt it would have been considered by the Philadelphians of one hundred years ago too expensive and luxurious a food, and would have been combined with the plain substantial diet of those early days.

It was not until the opening of this century that any one had the hardihood to start up an ice cream saloon in Philadelphia, the "Quaker City," or in its vicinity. Bosio, an Italian confectioner, deserves the honor of having been the first man to start an "ice cream house" in this city. His place was out in Germantown, opposite the old Spruce Eagle tavern. Although Bosio's place was a good long ride from the city proper, in those days it did not take long for the young people of our town to find it out, and they soon determined that they liked the new dish very much indeed.

Bosio's place therefore shortly became a Mecca for the Philadelphia beaux and belles, and the Italian was soon on the high road to fame and fortune. Unfortunately he quickly had several competitors, as his success induced a number of confectioners to embark in the ice cream trade. It is probable that the first ice cream manufactured in Germantown by Bosio was without flavor, but about the time of its introduction the cultivation of strawberries had commenced to attract the attention of our early gardeners, and the confectioners soon discovered that the flavor of this fruit added greatly to ice cream. There were several places which became famous as strawberry and ice cream gardens, where during the summer afternoons and evenings Philadelphia's were wont to partake of strawberries and cream. Strawberry Hill was one of the best known of these resorts. It was opened about 1808 and from that time until the present day strawberries and ice cream have been sold during the season in Strawberry Mansion and vicinity.—Philadelphia Times.

A Noted Event.

"What are the days of the week?" The scholar gives them all correctly except Sunday.

"What day is it your mother goes to church?" asked the teacher.

"The day she gets a new dress or bonnet."

The nurse of James I., having asked him to make her son a gentleman, he replied: "My good woman, I might make him a lord, but I could never make him a gentleman."

ALLOW ME to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in Grand Opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, Leading Bass of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.
