back and Eugene L. Rowe, trustees, sold the Mountain View Cemetery, at this place, to Mr. Daniel H. Wiegand for the sum of $420.00.

It excels all others. She speaks from long experience. Mrs. S. T. Moore, Jerseyville, Ill., writes "I can truly say that Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup excels all other preparations of a like nature. We have used it for over five years, and would not be without it."

A PETITION has been filed asking that the county commissioners of Washington county be attached for contempt of court in refusing to pay over the school funds, as ordered by the court, the commissioners having appealed.

Worn and Weak and Weary.
Ho! ye women, worn and weary, with wan faces and so indifferently weak. Those distressing, dragging-down pains, and that constant weakness and weariness are also members of the encampment by virtue of their offices. The newly elected officers will be installed at the first regular meeting in January which will be Tuesday night, Jan. 3.

Good ADVICE.—The editor of the West Branch, Iowa, Record, gives his readers some good advice: "We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our family in cases of sudden colds and sore throat, and find it all that is claimed for it. One bottle or less, if taken according to directions, will, we believe, effect a cure in any ordinary case and save the expense of large doctor bills. Especially do we recommend it in families where the children are threatened with croup, as it will afford immediate relief, if taken in time, which can always be done if the medicine is kept on hand, as we are convinced it should be." For sale by C.
D. Eichelberger.

Nine Times out of Ten Dr. Fahrney's Peerless Liniment will prevent Pneumonia and Croup, if used in time. So say hundreds who have used it. Sold by all druggists for twenty-five cents.

The Prison Congress made a trip to Annapolis, discussed corporal punishment, heard a report on what the censals will show with regard to crime and then adjourned to meet next year in Chicago.

Cough Syrup.—Yes I am tired of hearing and seeing the word; yet if you want a good, reliable, pleasant-to-take, Cough Syrup, and a large bottle for the money, ask your druggist for Dr. Fahrney's and take no other.

Cheap Trip to Baltimore.
From Emmitsburg to Rocky Ridge and return, 40¢; From Rocky Ridge to Baltimore and return, $2.70. Total $3.10.
Buy round trip tickets from W. M. R.
R. Agent at Rocky Ridge.

A Big Catch.
On Tuesday night Mr. B. C. Gilson, of near town, set an old rabbit trap, and the next morning when he went to see what kind of luck he had, was greatly surprised to find two large rabbits in the trap.

MA. JOHN F. NITTEHOUSE, a well known citizen of Waynesboro, was found dead on the Leitersburg pike, near that place, about 4 o'clock on last Friday morning, of heart disease. Deceased was 39 years, 7 months and 26 days old.

Mr. Nagood a Bank Director.
At the regular meeting of the board of directors of the First National Bank last Wednesday, Mr. Frank C. Norwood was elected a director of said bank in the place of Mr. Lycurgus E.
Hedges, deceased.—News.

Enlarged.
The Weekly Herald and Torch Light, published at Hagerstown, Md., appeared this week enlarged from a four page paper, as heretofore, to an eight page sheet. The Herald is always brim full of bright and interesting reading matter.

Surprise Party.
A surprise party was held at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Weant, an aged citizen of this place, on Tuesday evening, which was really a surprise in reality, for they presented to Mrs.
Weant a lot of the necessities of life, and also a purse containing five dollars, all of which was greatly appreciated.

A Child Enjoys
The pleasant flavor, gentle action and soothing effect of Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be constipated or bilious, the most gratifying results follow its use; so that it is the best family remedy known and every family should have a bottle.

Found Dead in His Stable.
Mr. Jacob Harshman, of Millbrook, north of this city, was found dead in his horse stable at 9 o'clock Monday morning. He had gone to the stable for the purpose of hitching up preparatory to coming to Waynesboro. It is supposed he died of heart disease.—Waynesboro Record.

If you are offered a bottle of Salvation Oil, without wrapper or mutilated or defaced, don't buy it at any price, you may be sure there is something wrong—it may be a worthless or dangerous counterfeit. Insist upon getting a perfect, unbroken, genuine package, in a yellow wrapper. Be on your guard!

MANY of the splendid pine trees, in the National Cemetery along the Western wall which it took years to grow, have been ordered by the Department to be removed and the work is now being done under direction of Superintendent Hamilton. The removal of some would have been an improvement but this wholesale destruction was unfounded for and was done against the judgment of the landscape gardener. The cemetery is awfully bare and does not look like itself. Some one has blundered.—Gettysburg Star and Sentinel.

Grand Army Notes.
Arthur Post No. 41, G. A. R., held their annual election on last Tuesday night and the following officers were elected for 1893: Com. and Maj. O. A.
Horne; Senior Vice Commander, S. N.
McNair; Junior Vice Commander, H. G.
Winter; Quartermaster, Geo. T. Gelwick; Officer of the Day, W. H. Weaver; Surgeon, E. C. Wenschoff; Chaplain, Samuel Gamble; Officer of the Guard, Samuel Wagman; Council of Administration, Abraham Herring, P. H. Riley and F. C. Niadell; Elected Delegates to State Encampment, H. G. Winter, and Samuel Gamble; Alternates, Geo. L.
Gillelan and Geo. T. Gelwick. Commander Horne and Past Commander Weaver are also members of the encampment by virtue of their offices. The newly elected officers will be installed at the first regular meeting in January which will be Tuesday night, Jan. 3.

Good ADVICE.—The editor of the

The new ice machine purchased sometime ago by I. S. Annan & Bro., of this place, from The Automatic Refrigerator and Ice Machine Co., of Lancaster, Pa., has been put in position at their Creamery and the first ice was made on Thursday.

PROF. BARRETT of St. Lawrence county, N. Y., speaking of pulmonary diseases, says not one death occurs now where twenty died before Down's Elixir was known. Over fifty years of constant success places Down's Elixir at the head of the long list of cough remedies. For sale by J. A. Elder.

List of Letters.
The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., Dec. 5, 1892. Persons calling will please say advised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Mrs. Bernard Little, Sylvester Star-ner, (2) Miss Kate Vannah, S. N. McNAIR, P. M.

Mrs. CATHERINE SHELLMAN a well known lady of Westminster, and widow of the late Col. James M. Shell-man, was stricken with paralysis on Wednesday morning, her face, tongue and right arm being affected. Although advanced in years, she has been a remarkably vigorous woman, and has recovered somewhat from affliction.— Advocate.

FOR SORE THROAT.—Saturate a flannel bandage with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on the throat. It will cure any ordinary case in one night's time. Mr. W. B. Fuller, the leading merchant at Greenacres, Iowa, says:
"Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a good one. It cured me of a violent sore throat. I have sold a number of bottles for rheumatism, and always with good results. 50 cent bottles for sale by C.
D. Eichelberger.

Tin Wedding.
Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Beam, of this place, celebrated their tin wedding on Tuesday evening. Quite a number of invited guests were present, who extended to them their good wishes for a long and happy life. Mr. and Mrs.
Beam were the recipient of a lot of valuable tinware. The guests before leaving were presented with a tin spoon, as a souvenir, with white ribbon tied around them, on which were the dates "1882-1892."

Cole's Cavalry.
The Fifth Annual Reunion of Co. C, Cole's Cavalry, will be held at this place on Thursday evening next, Dec.
15th. The association will assemble at the Grand Army Hall at 6 p. m., where the business meeting will be held. At 8 p. m. they will adjourn, and march to the Western Maryland Hotel Parlors, where the banquet will take place, after which a "camp fire" will be held.
Quite a number of members have already notified the president of the association of their intention to be present and a very interesting meeting is anticipated.

Death of Mr. Geo. W. Lawrence.
Mr. George W. Lawrence, an aged and respected citizen of this place, died at the residence of his son, Mr.
Philip D. Lawrence, at an early hour on Tuesday morning. He had been a sufferer for a long time from a complication of diseases, being confined to the house, more or less, for several years. Mr. Lawrence leaves a wife and three sons to mourn his loss.
His sons are, Messrs. Philip D. Lawrence, of this place; Harry and John Lawrence, both of whom reside in Dayton, Ohio. His funeral took place this morning at 9 o'clock, from St. Joseph's Catholic Church, the pastor, Rev. H.
F. White, C. M. officiated.

MORE serious sickness is produced by allowing the bowels to remain in a torpid or partially constipated condition than from any other cause. In many instances diseases are produced, from which people never wholly recover.
Dyspepsia, piles and nervous disorders are three of the most common and most serious. They are caused by neglecting the bowels, and can be prevented by an occasional dose of St. Patrick's Pills, which always produce a pleasant cathartic effect, and not only physic, but cleanse the whole system and regulate the liver and bowels. 25 cents per box, for sale by C. D. Eichelberger.

IN MEMORIAM.
On Nov. 17, 1891, in Highland township, Samuel Lawson Dubs, aged 3 years, 3 months and 3 days, and on December 11, 1891, Queena Bruce Dubs, aged 7 years, 8 months and 5 days, children of Samuel and Catharine V.
Dubs.

In the year of our Lord they left us, Eighteen hundred and ninety one, Left this world of sin and sorrow;
For a clime of brighter sun, Our darling dear has gone to rest, Numbered with all the good and best,
Their work is done, their sorrows o'er,
And they have gained the heavenly shore.

Their hearts were purified by grace,
And now they see their Saviour's face;
A glory crown their brightly worn, A victor's palm on high their throne.

Now with the holy, happy throng, They join the new eternal song,
And sweep a robe of shining gold,
To useful strains on earth untold.

All clad in robes of purest white, They mingle with the saints in light;
Their Lord has wiped all tears away, They sing and soar through endless day.

They passed from earth with heaviness in sight, Faith saw their hands in realms of light;
All praise to Him who died to save,
And bore our darling's dear dark wave.

The loved ones left on life's bleak shore,
To which our darling can return no more, Now wearily say, God's will be done,
And haste to meet them near the throne.

THEIR ANCHOR H. M. W.

A Herald of the Infant Year.
Clasp the last thirty years or more from the century, and the segment will represent the term of the unbounded popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The opening of the year 1892 will be signified by the appearance of a fresh Almanac of the Bitters, in which the uses, derivation and action of this world-famous medicine will be lucidly set forth. Everybody should read it. The calendar and astronomical calculations to be found in this brochure are always astonishingly accurate, and the statistics, illustrations, humor and other reading matter rich in fact and full of profit. The Hostetter Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., publish it themselves. They employ more than sixty mechanics in the mechanical work, and more than eleven months in the year are consumed in its preparation. It can be obtained without cost of all druggists and country dealers, and is printed in English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish.

FAIRFIELD ITEMS.
Mr. A. C. Musselman is very ill.
Mr. Jacob Weaver cut one of his fingers with a hatchet.

A valuable horse belonging to Mr.
C. H. Walter, died last week.
Miss Belle Wilson, of Baltimore, is visiting Mrs. Shearer, of this place.

Mr. Warner McCreary who moved to Waynesboro, is visiting at this place.
Miss Ida Wisotzky, of Gettysburg, is visiting the family of Mr. Samuel Walter.

Dr. J. E. Glenn, has moved into the house which he bought from Warner McCreary.

Mr. John Hoofnagle who has been farming for W. R. White, Esq., moved to Fairfield.

Miss Jennie Bigham, of Greenmount, is visiting her sister, Mr. W. J. D.
Shearer, in this place.

Mr. Madison Shingledecker has been granted a pension of $12 per month, with $18.40 back pay.

Miss Ida Krug, who has been at her home near Hanover, has returned to her sister, Mrs. A. Grove.

One day last week Mr. Frank Manahan shot seven birds at one shot. Mr.
Adam Snyder and son, shot 18 rabbits in one day.

Mr. James Donaldson is at it at this writing. Mr. John Cunningham is quite ill. Mr. Joseph Kittinger's family is able to be about.

Mr. John Clark who has been clerking or running the business at the Station, quit last Thursday. Mr. G. E.
Brown has taken his place. We wish him success. Mr. Clark is going to Smithsburg, where he will go into business. He has had 16 years experience in business.

At the Station is a pair of scales in the shape of an old grandfather's clock, with face and hands. You stand on the platform and at the top of the clock is a hole where you drop a cent, as soon as the penny falls, the hand points to the figures giving the correct weight. It will not work unless a penny is dropped.

At a meeting of Post 83, G. A. R., of Fairfield, the following officers were elected: Commander, John F. Low; Sergeant, P. C. George; Junior V. P., C. John Sites; Quartermaster, Wm. H.
Low; Surgeon, G. A. Sanders; Officer of the Day, John F. Peters; Officer of Guard, C. Hoffman; Trustees, J. C.
Shertzer, E. McGinley and T. Stoops; Delegate to State Encampment, P. S.
Harbaugh; Alternate, C. Hoffman; Chaplain, E. King.

Cataract in the Head.
Is undoubtedly a disease of the blood, and as such a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood-purifier, and it has cured many severe cases of cataract. It gives an appetite and builds up the whole system.

Hood's PILLS act especially upon the liver, rousing it from torpidity to its natural duties, cure constipation and assist digestion.

Consecration of the New Altar.
The work of putting the handsome new marble altar in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, in this place, which was purchased some time ago by the pastor, Rev. H. F. White, C. M., has been completed. It was made and placed in its present position by Charles E. Hall & Co., of Boston, Mass. The material is marble, composed principally of statuary marble and onyx, and is in itself a fine piece of workmanship. It will cost, probably, $1,500.

The altar will be consecrated next Sunday morning, by Bishop McGovern, of Harrisburg, Pa. The ceremony will commence quite early, as the services will last about two hours. A Solemn High Mass will be celebrated at 10 o'clock, a. m., by the Rev. Father Kelly, of Mt. St. Mary's College.

Fathers Manley and Bradley, also of the College, will act as Deacon and Sub-Deacon; the sermon will be preached, it is expected, by Bishop McGovern.
There will be also Solemn Vespers in the evening, with a sermon by one of the clergy from the College. A number of priests from other parishes are expected to be present.

Besides the consecration of the new altar, the Golden Jubilee of the church will be celebrated. In 1842, fifty years ago, this church was formally opened for divine service, and on that occasion the sermon was preached by the then famous preacher—but long since gone to his rest—Dr. Moriarty. The ceremony was performed, we believe, by Archbishop Eccleston, of Baltimore, Md.

All for a Barley Corn.
LaFontaine, in one of his fables, tells of a barnyard fowl that scratched up a gem, while scratching for corn. Not knowing its value, he gave it to a stone-cutter for a barley corn. Thus do many people throw away the priceless pearl of health. A "trifling cough is neglected, then comes Consumption, then death. Stay the cough or look out for a coffin. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure catarrh in the head, bronchial or throat affections, or lung-scrofula commonly known as the consumption of the lungs. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it will cure, or the money paid for it will be refunded. It is the only guaranteed cure.

Big Fire.
Fire broke out in the Public Ledger building, owned by Mr. Geo. W. Childs, in Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening.
The fire was confined principally to the composing room, and almost as much damage was done by water as by fire.
The loss is estimated at $200,000 fully covered by insurance. The Ledger was published the next morning at the usual time, and as though nothing had happened to its building. On Wednesday Mr. Childs sent his check for $6,000 to Mayor Stuart. $5,000 of which is to be distributed among the firemen for their efficient work, while the remaining one thousand is to be divided among the members of the police force for their valuable services rendered at the fire.

MT. ST. MARY'S COLLEGE NEWS.

The Science Club.

The Science Club met in its club room Wednesday evening. Rev. Dr. Byrne, V. G., of Boston, Mass., did the club the honor to call. The papers read were as follows: "Evolution," by Wm. T. Cashman, '93 and "Philology," by John J. Gordon, '93, both papers being the first of a series on these two interesting subjects. Mr. Cashman dwelt mostly upon the principles of Darwin, Huxley and Hegel, and in his refutation of their systems drew both upon science and religion for his arguments, quoting principally from Archbishop Vaughan and St. George Mivart.

Mr. Cashman's paper was discussed at length. Dr. Byrne then gave an address of congratulation to the members and also dwelt at length on the subject matter of each paper. The Reverend Critic, too, pronounced both papers excellent in style and conception and their subjects well treated by the respective writers.

The Societies.
The Philomathesian Society held its regular meeting Sunday evening in the reading room. The meeting was exceedingly interesting, rendered so, by the manner in which the program was carried out. Mr. Jas. O'Reilly '93, recited "The Barney Stone" in a manner highly creditable, and Mr. P. English '94, gave an effective rendition of that most pleasing of John Boyle O'Reilly's poems, "The Cry of the Dreamer."

The dramatic reading of a "Selection from Addison's Cato," by Mr. Ed. J.
Saunders '94, and the reading of "The City Streets," by Boyle O'Reilly, by Mr. Chas. Carroll '94, were favorably commented upon by the Reverend Critic. The debate was: "Resolved, that the popular vote should elect the President." The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. Wm. T. Cashman '93 and Jos. J. McCloskey '94, while Messrs.
Wm. A. Kerrigan '94 and Edw. A. Mc-Veigh ably championed the negative.

The Purcell held its regular meeting Thursday evening in the Library. This meeting was devoted to general declamations. Rev. Dr. McSweeney visited the society. Some excellent pieces were declaimed, and the work of Messrs. Bigley, Burkhardt and Rice was of the highest order. Mr. Bigley recited "Asleep at the Switch." His gestures were appropriate and pronunciation distinct. The Purcell can congratulate itself on the possession of such material as displayed itself Thursday evening.

The Carroll.
The Carroll Lyceum held its regular meeting in Carroll Hall Thursday evening. The following program was rendered. Debate: Resolved, that newspaper reading is beneficial to students.
Affirmative: Messrs. F. Combs, W.
Miller, and W. O'Neill. Negative: Messrs. James Malloy, C. Kelley and J. Hussey. Recitations were given by T. Garvey and J. McKenna, the former reciting "The Uncle," the latter, "Indian Names." The debate was awarded the affirmative.

A lecture was given in the Music Hall, Wednesday, by Rev. J. J. Tierney, A. M., on a "Trip to the Yellowstone." We will give a synopsis of the lecture with a list of the stereopticon views next week. The lecture was exceedingly interesting. Rev. Wm. O'Hara had charge of the stereopticon which he manipulated in his usual excellent manner.

During the past week the boys have been playing Celtic football on the terraces. The Gaelic or Rugby ball is not suitable for this game and the Association would do well in securing a round leather ball.

Now since the football season is over, those who while training, enjoyed the "cross country" runs, should not give them up. A good run and a rub-down go a great way in insuring good health.
Keep it up, boys, you can easily get a teacher.

Gettysburg's defeat still rankles in the breasts of the Pennsylvanians. Some of their members are indulging in a great deal of "small talk" to their own injury and discredit. The idea that a team of 170 lbs. average, as the Gettysburg team was, should allow Mt.
St. Mary's 155 lbs. to bully, and maltreat them. Stuff! Gettysburg "ain't built that way." We have never seen persons evidently more able to take their own part than those same Gettysburg players and even if they should fail, the usual crowd of bruisers found in their train, one would suppose, would give them confidence.

PERSONALS.
Mr. F. D. Troxell was in Frederick this week.

James F. Hickey, Esq., of Hagerstown, was in town this week.

Miss Byrde Elder, of Peoria, Ill., is visiting Miss Fonce White, near this place.

Mr. Walter D. Willson, of Hagerstown, made a visit to his mother, Mrs.
Julia Willson.

His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, made a visit to Mt. St. Mary's College on Thursday.

Mr. T. W. McNeill, Traveling Passenger Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was in town on Wednesday.

Rev. I. M. Motter, of Adamstown, Md., was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Motter, this week.

Rev. R. F. Gass, of West Millville, Pa., preached in the Reformed church in this place, last Sunday morning and evening.

LUXURY.

For the Chronicle.

The history of almost all nations shows that the worst enemies it has to fear, are not those from without but from within. As soon as public virtue is corrupted and luxurious tastes creep into the habits and life of the people, ruin soon follows. Take as an example the Roman Empire. The people of Rome had raised themselves from obscurity to grandeur; they won for themselves the title of the conquerors and sovereigns of the world, and yet in the height of their pride and power we can trace the symptoms of decay in the increasing luxuriousness of both rulers and people. They ceased to be the industrious, frugal people they had once been. They looked to the government to do every thing for them, even in the matter of feeding and amusing them.

Public games were opened in every part of the city, the theatres were embellished in the most splendid manner; the world was ransacked to provide wild beasts for the cruel sports which were there daily exhibited. Slavery was introduced, magnificent palaces were erected, and the manner of living of the rich became extravagant to an almost incredible degree. At last the once sturdy, patriotic Romans became utterly regardless of what their rulers were doing, caring for nothing but the continuance of their daily round of pleasures. Their emperors became tyrants, the army was recruited with mercenary troops, and their was neither the spirit nor the ability to meet the great flood of barbarian invasion which soon swept over Italy from the North and East. In 476 this mighty empire fell to pieces. And what is true of nations is true of individuals. Luxury enervates the character and the body, and brings swift ruin to both. In many a family whose forefathers a generation or two ago were hard working, contented people, and by their industry and frugality raised themselves to a position of comfort or wealth, we find that their children very often have not reaped any benefits from this change of condition, but become effeminate in character, and in many instances have become grossly immoral and wicked. At a distance it seems an altogether good thing to have

A NARROW ESCAPE.

LIEUT. COL. THORNDIKE.

Shipwrecked?

Yes. Three times, in all. Once on a steamer. That only amounted to a little excitement and the loss of my luggage. Once on a Japanese junk, resulting in a vigorous swim for half a mile. Once I was shipwrecked in good earnest. I shall never forget it.

Our staunch schooner went ashore in the straits at Cape Horn. The wind blew a gale. It always blows there. The night was black as ship's coffee. We had all fast to the steady her. The sea was running so hard that no anchor could have held us. It was going on, going down.

We did both. One who had passed through the straits by daylight, and admired that hardness of rocks and ledges and islands, may perhaps imagine that it would be to fly through at night, before a gale of wind, without a light anywhere, and in such dense darkness that one could not see the rope that he was working. Two men were at the wheel, two at the prow and all hands stood waiting.

I was making my way forward, when suddenly the jib flapped against the stays.

The wind was gone! Nothing but a cliff close upon our starboard side could have done it. I shouted to put the helm hard down, but before the first man could repeat the order there was a blinding flash of lightning. It was years ago, but I would give all I possess to obliterate the memory of that night to-day.

There was a great cliff to starboard; giant rocks were to port; jagged ledges rose dead ahead. They were all white with angry foam, and we were making at least eight miles an hour where no power under Heaven could stop us but those rocks.

I yelled an order to let go the anchors, foolish as it was, and started for the helm.

There was another fearful flash, and the whole ship was a white glow. The mast beside me flew in splinters. I saw two men at the wheel fall senseless. A ball of fire danced along the deck and burst under the water-cask. I saw the great cask thrown from its fastenings and coming directly toward me.

I remember the cask striking me and knocking me down. I remember grasping it to prevent its rolling upon me. Then a loud report aroused me. I was still clinging to the cask, but the cask was in the water striking furiously against the rocks.

It saved my life. It did more; for the water in the cask kept me alive on that barren rock for eight days, until I was rescued.—Wide Awake.

Real Estate Transfers.

We copy from the Frederick News, the following transfers of real estate which have taken place in this county, as recorded in the Clerk's office during the past week:

Joseph H. Bussard and wife to the Frederick City Life Co., limited, 37 acres, 1 road and 100 perches of land, $10,000. Charles Hooper and wife to Jacob G. Altman, 22 perches of land, more or less, $40. James A. Rowe and wife to Franklin B. Welby, 30 acres of land, more or less, $262.50. Reuben Morrison to Oliver Morrison, all right and title to real estate in Emmitsburg, $225. David Lowenstein and wife to William O. McCutcheon, a lot in Lovensstein's addition to Frederick, $200. Lavinia C. Wenner to Charles M. Wenner, real estate in Brunswick, $1,100. Charles M. Wenner and wife to Lavinia C. Wenner, real estate in Brunswick, $1. Charles Hooper and wife to Charles H. Hooper, 7 acres, etc., of land, $100. Frank L. Stoner to George W. and Sallie E. Spurrer, real estate in Frederick county, premises, etc. David C. Holtz, executor, etc., to Josiah B. Zimmerman, 113 acres, etc., of land, $11,367.50. John A. Peldier and wife to Silas Ferguson, a lot or parcel of ground in Frederick county, $60.

Cremation Gaining Ground.

"Pa, some of these people who are buried here haven't gone to heaven."

"Pa. 'Hash, Tommy, how do you know they haven't?"

"Because I read it on the tombstones."

"Read what on the tombstones?"

"On ever so many of them I read 'Peace to his ashes.' There ain't no ashes except where it is very hot is there?"—New York Times.

FLYING THROUGH SPACE.

At a height of 200 feet in the air, rushing past with tremendous velocity, gives one the impression of leaning out of the car window of a limited express, the sounds of earth die away in a murmur, and it is then that the balloon seems stationary, the earth falling away from it.

Looking down from the height, all surfaces appear level, mountains and valleys alike, and the world looks as if spread out and flattened by a rolling pin. Roads and rivers resolve themselves into narrow ribbons; forests, fields and meadows are clumps of green, red and black, with green as the dominant color. At two miles earth is lost to view, as in a fog.

Presently the balloon begins to sail, driven by the air current. There is now no apparent motion. The aeronaut experiences a feeling of oppression; the air, deprived of its vital principle, exhausts at each inspiration; ringing sounds are heard in the ears, and one can, so to speak, hear the stillness. The breath comes in quick, successive gasps that do not satisfy the lungs. It is like going to one's death.

Looking upward, the horizon is bounded by the high black ball—the balloon—dark against the milky opaqueness of the atmosphere. The airship is swaying and swinging, while the clouds, floating in a contrary direction, produce a vague giddiness. There is, however, no time for tremors. Seconds seem hours, the mind and memory traveling with electric flight.

Conjectures, recollections and retrospection flash across the bewildered brain as one reels through space. Suddenly the top of the balloon comes in contact with a cloud, there is a slight jar and the next instant all is enveloped in fog, from which the aeronaut emerges soaked with spray. And now for the spectacle! Sublime, dazzling, mountains of iridescence, fleecy clouds tinged with creamy pink, like the plumage of the cockatoo. Swirling combinations of color, blending and shifting as in a gigantic bubble. Golden greens that melt into purple and bronze and crimson, with the sun dissolving and overflowing on their tops. Wonderful tints, such as an artist never dreamed of. To comprehend color it is necessary to have seen the magic canvasses of the clouds. The balloon sails on and drops slowly away from this panorama once more into the colorless atmosphere.

With the descent the earth appears to rise and the balloon to remain fixed, and now the operator is occupied with one idea—speculation as to where and how he will reach earth, for distance is incalculable and perspective a myth. The balloon is the sport of chance and is liable to deposit its passengers anywhere from the top of a church steeple to the bottom of a ditch.

The aeronaut takes his life in his own hands when he ascends with the airship. Should it take fire, burst in midair or cool off too suddenly in striking a cold current the result is collapse and disaster, for there is no safety valve to the first balloon. The aeronaut is invariably an enthusiast until he meets with an accident, after which discretion becomes the better part of his valor, and he is content to rally substitutes for an ascension. After a few years he is apt to retire altogether, and leave to others the hazardous occupation. Up to a period of six years ago there numbered but twenty aeronauts in this country, and they were in great demand at country fairs, settlers' and soldiers' reunions and upon legal holidays, rural celebrations being considered incomplete without the daring balloonist, who, for the time being, was of more importance than the President and the entire Senate, and it may be added that no occupation is more conducive to conceit and self-sufficiency than that of the aeronaut.

There is less profit in the business now than formerly; the novelty of the ordinary balloon ascension no longer exists for Americans. Realizing this, nearly every aeronaut now makes the sensational parachute descent. On reaching the desired altitude this is effected by cutting the connecting rope. There is a rapid fall, the resistance of the air forcing open the parachute, which is nothing more than a ribbed umbrella, 38 feet in diameter. The operator, on cutting loose, flirts downward, as if fired from a catapult, until within a few hundred feet of the earth, when he is sustained by the parachute. Should this fail, a fatal catastrophe is inevitable.—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

The unhappy fate of Absalom came near being that of a young woman on the elevated train yesterday. She had a long golden braid hanging down her back picturesquely, and she was clinging to a strap after the manner of women on cars.

The car was very much crowded, and at Hanover Square a young man, wishing to leave the train, had occasion to push his way violently through the standing passengers. As he passed golden locks a bar on his watch chain caught in the braid. He tugged, not knowing the cause of the delay, and she whirled about, with blazing eyes, and reprimanded the villain who was taking liberties with her tresses. These movements complicated matters by getting the watch adorned more firmly twisted in the lady's hair. Another jerk only intensified the discomforts of the position and threatened to behead the victim of man's haste. It finally took five minutes and the assistance of a kindly disposed matron to right matters. The man glared and apologized as he rode on to South Ferry and the girl blushed and tried to look less like the defeated member of a family quarrel, by tucking her braid under her hat. But as she joined her mother at the end of the crowded car she was heard to remark, pleadingly:

"Please, Ma'mma, don't you think I am old enough now to do my hair up?"

She was a Wellesley girl, with just a faint suggestion of pity for all who were not Wellesley girls in her manner, and an excellent vocabulary. She was boarding at a pleasant, old-fashioned farm-house down on the Sound and the farmer was interested in her from the first. "So you've been to college?" said he.

"Yes," said she, smiling amiably. "I'm a Wellesley girl."

The farmer, looked puzzled, but asked no question concerning that seat of learning. By and by he went on:

"And don't you like the country like you do town?"

Whereupon the gracious boarder stated that she did, adding that she was quite catholic in her tastes—information which was received in silence. The next morning she dipped into the pages of a Wellesley girl's summer literature—Herbert Spencer or Mill—she overheard the farmer saying to his wife:

"I guess she ain't just right. It seems a pity; nice looking and bright as she is! But when I asked her if she'd been to college she said 'somethin' about bein' a Wellesley Methodist, and in five minutes she changed clear round and said she was a Papist.'"

How to Wash Trousers.

"Anybody can wash trousers, either white or colored," said a tailor the other day to one of his customers. "The process is perfectly simple if certain plain directions are carefully followed. First, wash them thoroughly in warm soap-suds, only rubbing the soap on very bad spots; when well washed rinse in cold water twice, taking care that no soap is left in the goods. Then hang out to dry in the shade, never in the sun. Let the water drip off, but do not wring them. They should be hung by the waist and the moisture that collects at the end of each leg pressed off from time to time with a towel. When nearly dry, but still damp, they should be turned on the wrong side and ironed dry; and finally turned on the right side and creased. If these directions are followed there will be no material shrinkage, and the woolen will be as soft and bright-looking as ever."—Boston Gazette.

I HAVE been a great sufferer from catarrh for over ten years; had it very bad, could hardly breathe. Some nights I could not sleep and had to walk the floor. I purchased Ely's Cream Balm and am using it freely, it is working a cure surely. I have advised several friends to use it, and with happy results in every case. It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and it is worth its weight in gold. I thank God I have found a remedy I can use with safety and that does all that is claimed for it. It is curing my deafness.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

It was a small boy over in Jersey who became interested in the recent discussion concerning the planet Mars. He listened attentively to the conversations of the older members of the family, and by putting two and two together arrived at a somewhat unique conclusion, which he stated to a friend lucidly: "You see, Tommy," said he, "it's a star what people live on. Not all people, but some people. People better'n us."

"Don't b'lieve it," said Tommy. "That's heaven."

"No, it ain't. Unless—with a sand on waverin'—unless it's the heaven where dead mothers go and so they call it Mars."

A Fine Legal Point.

The tramp was before the examining court for stealing a horse.

"Guilty or not guilty?" asked the Court.

"Not guilty. Yer Honor," was the prompt response.

"Wer'n't you caught ridin' the horse?"

"Yes, Yer Honor."

"Did you buy him?"

"No, Yer Honor."

"Or borrow him?"

"No, Yer Honor."

"Then you must have stolen him."

"I didn't, Yer Honor."

"What do you call it, then?"

"I don't know, Yer Honor," and the prisoner was puzzled. "It's this way: I was goin' along the road and the horse was goin' the same way, an' I just got on him an' rid him. Now, if I had got on him an' rid him t'other way you might call that stealin'; but I didn't. Now, what do you call it, Yer Honor?"

The Court took it under advisement.—Detroit Free Press.
