DAZZLING SPLENDORS.

CHICAGO, May 9.—A large crowd of people visited the fair. The numbers were far greater than on any day since the opening week ago. The bright sunshine was accountable for this. The avenues had a holiday appearance, lined as they were by thousands of gaily dressed women and men.

Lovers of music enjoyed a festival at the White City, which was undoubtedly the finest and largest ever given on its grounds. Adolph Leisegang's band to possession of band stand No. 1 and so had a good sized audience.

When Michael Brand's orchestra from Cincinnati began to pour forth melody upon the scene of splendor there was a rush of people to the south side of Music Hall where the musical extravaganza continued under a cluster of arc lights. The music rendered was of a patriotic and popular, including "America."

In the philosophy of a World's fair director, there is no room for a thought of half rates for children who go to Jackson park. All over 6 years of age pay 50 cents, just the same as the bearded six foot of 40. All children under 6, accompanied by parents or guardians, are admitted free. There is a good deal of dissatisfaction. Fathers of large families are seldom millionaires, and the charge of 50 cents for half a dozen children is an important item when the family starts out to see the fair.

Queen Isabella's Will.

There has been removed from the vaults of the Auditorium hotel to the Convent of La Rabida one of the most precious documents in the world. It is the will executed and signed by Queen Isabella of Spain, whose name and fame are so closely allied to the great navigator that they never can become separated.

The climax in electrical's upward march through the eighteenth century was reached at the World's fair, and the grounds were illuminated in honor of the "first opening" of the exposition. The whiteness of the buildings gave added lustre to the rays from the million and more lights in the grand plaza while the golden statues of the "Republic" and "Diana" upon which the light from the west end of the Administration plaza poured in blinding showers, sent back a happy response, which blended harmoniously with the whole. The different buildings were illuminated to a certain extent, but the Administration building on the west and the Peristyle in the east, enclosing the Grand Court of Honor, held the multitude spellbound and easily carried off the honors of the night.

Spellbound In Admiration.

Administration building was the first to be electrified and its beautiful exterior from base to tip of dome was gilded with rows of incandescent lights. At the base of its dome as 32 incandescent lamps on bronze stands were ranged equidistant around its circumference, gilding much to its splendor and appearance. The Peristyle soon added its row of lights and this was the signal for the triple row of arc lamps along either side of the lagoon to lend their aid and in instant they were sending bright rays across the waterway, completing the band encircling the grand plaza. The main lagoon lay under the sheet of the thousands of lights like a great mirror. The arc and Peristyle lights formed its gilded frame, and around the sides about a foot from the water's edge a row of electric bulbs lent the added beauty of a golden glow to the splendid plate. Its surface was dotted here and there with the electric launches and the bright gondolas. Gaily dressed girls, gaudily attired, swam the storm of their craft and as their oars dipped silently in and out of the water, and their bodies swayed to and fro, the romantic looking boat and its crewmen formed a novel silhouette in the sparkling basin, disappearing a moment later as it passed under the shadow of a bridge. Powerful search lights on top of the Manufacturers' and Agricultural buildings and Music Hall brought out new beauties in the scene for the benefit of the spectator.

Gilded Diana perched on the dome of the Agricultural building with arrow pointed directly to the Music Hall light, came in for a share of inspection. The three search lights were then by preconcerted arrangement directed to the magnificent MacMonica fountain, situated immediately in front of the Administration building. The marble figures were rendered immaculate in an instant, and the glare falling full and powerful upon the handsome women at the cars and in the seat of honor, sent dazzling rays of crystal purity down and across the silvery lagoon.

The Chicago city council has passed a resolution to open the World's fair on Sunday.

WHITE HOUSE RULES.

Pressing Public Duties Require the President to Restrict Callers.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The following has been issued by the president:

"It has become apparent after two months' experience that the rules heretofore promulgated regulating interviews with the president have wholly failed in their operation. The time which under those rules was set apart for the reception of callers and prospective guests has been almost entirely spent in hearing to applications for offices which have been bewildering in volume, perplexing and exhausting in their iteration and impossible of enumeration.

"A due regard for public duty, which must be neglected if present conditions continue, and an observance of the limitations placed upon human endurance, oblige me to decline from and after this date all personal interviews with those seeking appointment to office, except as I, on my own notion, may especially invite them. The same considerations make it impossible for me to receive those who merely desire to pay their respects except on the days when the presidents especially designated for that purpose.

"I earnestly request senators and representatives to aid me in securing for them uninterrupted interviews by declining to introduce their constituents and friends when visiting the executive mansion during the hours designated for their reception. Applicants for office will only prejudice their prospects by repeated importunity and by remaining at Washington to await results."

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of the CHRONICLE will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address,

DISASTERS OF ONE DAY.

CAIRO, Ills., May 8.—One of the worst catastrophes which has occurred in the region for years took place on the Mississippi river at Wolf Island, 120 miles below this city. A rear end of one of the boilers of the steamer Ohio blew out, filling the deck cabin with steam and boiling water. Several of the deck hands and deck passengers, who were eating breakfast at the time, were literally cooked alive, and a large number received serious burns. Following is a list of the dead:

William Hurstman (colored), fireman, St. Louis.

Hampton Collins (colored), Memphis.

Thomas Woods (colored), residence unknown.

Cyrus Meyers, second mate, of Cincinnati, was drowned in the river and was drawn ashore.

Two colored men unidentified.

Following is a list of the injured, many of whom will die:

R. W. Crewe, Danville, Va.; Fred Neal, Columbus, Miss.; Charles Jackson, fireman, Cincinnati; James Howard, Rockwood, Mo.; Gilbert Childress, fireman, Nashville; Colter Taylor, Memphis; William Jackson, Washington, Pa.; William Henry, Memphis; Albert Robinson, Cincinnati; George Washington, Memphis; John Ralph, Cincinnati; C. J. Patterson (white), cook, Memphis; William H. Dickey (white), deck passenger, Newport, Ky.

Terrible Scenes Witnessed.

The wildest consternation reigned on board the boat, and the screams of the passengers and the groans and appeals of the victims made the scene a terrible one. The boat could proceed no further, and for several hours it lay at the bank, while the unfortunate victims lay on the deck writhing in agony and calling aloud for aid.

At last the tug Augus hove in sight. She was haled and the sufferers, 22 in number, were transferred to her deck and she immediately headed for this city. Work had been telegraphed to every physician in town was on the wharf to meet her. The suffering of the victims was alleviated as much as possible, before they could be removed from the boat, four of them were dead. The remainder were transferred to the United States Marine hospital. Another died soon after reaching there, and the surgeon declares that 10 of the 19 now in the hospital will die. Cyrus Meyers, the second mate, was terribly scalded. He was insane with pain and to relieve himself he jumped into the river. He went to the bottom at once and was seen no more. W. H. Dickey of Newport was seriously injured and may lose the sight of both of his eyes. Asaro Burr Johnson, a white boy of Memphis, Tenn., was severely beaten and is not likely to survive. C. J. Patterson of Orange, N. J., will recover.

None of the cabin passengers were injured. The boat was badly damaged by the accident. She was towed up the river and reached here. Her passengers will be forwarded to their destination by rail.

Another Cyclone in Texas.

GAINESVILLE, Tex., May 8.—A cyclone did considerable damage to property in the city. Many residences were unroofed and small houses were demolished. Several business houses had stocks of goods ruined by water. Three miles south of the city Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn were probably fatally injured by their residence collapsing.

Near Fair Plains on the Santa Fe trail was completely lifted from the track with the exception of the engine. The locomotive and tender were turned over into a ravine 50 feet away, the car being turned completely over twice in their track. Brakeman Gunn was killed outright; Conductor Terrell received a scalp wound; Roundmaster Maple was cut on the head and injured internally; Trainmaster Byrne received a scalp wound and his wrist was broken; Conductor F. A. Taylor was badly cut over the eye and will probably die. At Howe several frame houses were destroyed. At the town of Bean, O. T., three business houses were unroofed and stocks ruined. At Luella the school building was completely destroyed.

Terrible Railroad Wreck in Indiana.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., May 8.—The Big Four passenger train from Chicago, in crossing the Wabash river here, got away from the engineer. The air brakes would not work. The front car left the track after reaching the bridge, and the rest of the cars on the east side of the track. The engine, baggage, mail and express cars were thrown off the track, hurled some distance, broken to pieces. Michael Welsh, engineer, of Indianapolis, has not been found. The engine left the track a minute sooner the entire train would have been thrown into the Wabash river. owing to a sharp curve in the track on the west side of the river the airbrakes could not be applied until near the bridge. When the engineer tried to apply the air the brakes would not work and the train dashed into the station. The injured have been taken to the hospital.

Earthquake shocks are reported from many places in the Dakotas.

The International Broommakers' association is in session in St. Louis.

The biennial convention of the supreme council, American Order of Steam Engineers, is in session in Philadelphia.

L. S. Bash, one of the most prominent citizens of Carthage, Tenn., committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart.

The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows from Alabama met in Montgomery in fifty-third annual meeting with the largest attendance in many years.

Miss Rosalie Dahlberg, who was among the American ladies presented to the queen as a granddaughter of the late Admiral John A. Dahlberg of the navy.

Thomas Nelson Page of Richmond, well known as a southern novelist, will be married June 8 at Elmhurst, Ills., to the widow of the late Henry Fields of Chicago.

On the morning of the 31st the public school children of the city will visit the capitol in a body, and passing through will place garlands of flowers upon the bier. The reinterment ceremonies will take place in the afternoon. Mrs. Davis and both of her daughters, Miss Winnie and Mrs. J. A. Haynes, will be here, as will Mr. Haynes also. Mrs. Davis is in feeble health and will not go to New Orleans. The governors of the states through which the funeral train will pass have been requested to meet it at the lines of their respective states and to escort it to the edge of their territory.

Action Taken at Richmond.

Richmond, May 10.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Jefferson Davis Monument association held here further details were agreed on in reference to the reinterment of Mr. Davis' remains in this city, as follows: It was decided to request the governors of the states through which the funeral train passes between here and New Orleans to accompany the cortège to this city and act as honorary pallbearers; the public school children are requested to pass the bier while lying in state at the capitol in a body and strew garlands of flowers thereon. Citizens along the route of procession to Hollywood cemetery are requested to drap their residences and places of business in black and white. Protection was made for the attendance of the Rev. Dr. Brown of Mississippi, and James R. Jones of Raleigh, both colored servants of President Davis during the war. Governor McKinley will meet the train at the border line of Virginia. He will also have the capitol building suitably draped for the reception of the remains. A great many prominent people throughout the country have signified their intention of being here May 31st.

Sent to Prison for Forgery.

NEW YORK, May 11.—William B. Van dyke, about 25 years old, who was a confidential clerk for the Radford Pipe company of Cincinnati, pleaded guilty to forgery and was sent to the Elmira reformatory.

He was born in Richmond county, Ga., about 45 years ago. Shortly after the war Mr. Van dyke came to Baltimore, where he has resided ever since. He graduated at the law school of the Maryland university in 1874, and after his graduation he studied for some time in Leipzig, Germany.

Bishop Kain Appointed Coadjutor.

WHEELING, May 4.—In speaking of the confirmation from Rome of the report that Bishop John J. Kain of this diocese will be appointed coadjutor to Archbishop Kerck of St. Louis, Mgr. Sullivan stated that the bishop had been expecting the appointment for some time and the news from Rome is no surprise. His departure from Wheeling will be a source of great regret, as he is very popular among Catholics and Protestants alike in his diocese.

Captain James M. Tyler Dead.

CHARMONT, May 9.—Captain James M. Tyler, one of the best known detectives in the state, died suddenly in his office, it is believed of heart disease. He was noted for gallantry during the war, and since that period in the defense of Richmond. He has filled the offices of police captain and city sergeant.

Observances at Columbia.

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 11.—Memorial day was observed here and in other South Carolina towns. Addresses were made on the life and character of General Beauregard and Kirby Smith.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS.

New Letter From Our Regular Correspondent Covering Late Events.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Not since President Cleveland gave out his celebrated tariff message has any act of his created so much talk and excitement as the announcement that hereafter office-seekers shall not be introduced to him at the hour devoted to receiving calls from congressmen. Its effect on the ranks of the office-seekers was as paralyzing for the time as the anarchist's rooms in Chicago, but when the sober, second thought came to mind, many instances such calls were extremely unsatisfactory.

Next to the president it is probable that Senator Smith has the most influence with him. Senator Smith has been most instrumental in getting the Vajen block, Indianapolis, caused a loss of $20,000 to G. W. McKee, wholesale notion dealer, and $5,500 to D. P. Erwin.

Forty-five yardmen employed in two of the Panhandle shops at Columbus are out on strike, which is expected to become general.

The Episcopal convention chose Dean Lawrence of Boston (the Broad churchman's candidate) as bishop of the diocese of Massachusetts, to succeed Bishop Brooks.

The governor of Maryland has appointed Friday, June 30, as the day for the execution of William Pinkney and Daniel Barber, convicted of the murder of Francis M. Bowie of Marlboro.

A steamer boat, twenty feet long, painted black and sharp at each end, was found on the beach at Beaufort, N. C. It had evidently been overboard for a long time. No name.

Saturday, May 10.

J. N. Blych, a turpentine operator, was brutally murdered by a negro servant at Wilcoxcochee, Ga.

Antonio Martinez, Antonio Jose Borlos and Vicente Arazon, murderers, were hanged at Lunas, N. M.

Allan Harris, brother of Carlyle W. Harris, the condemned murderer, says that he still hopes to save his brother.

The Belgian government has sent out invitations for the reassembling of the monetary conference on May 30.

The city of York has voted the Duke of York and the Princess Royal of Teck a sum of $25,000 in view of their near bereavement.

"I Am So Tired."

Is a common exclamation at this season. There is a certain bracing effect in cold air which is lost when the weather grows warmer; and when Nature is renewing her youth, her admirers feel dull, sluggish and tired. This condition is owing mainly to the impure condition of the blood, and its failure to supply healthy tissue to the various organs of the body. It is remarkable how susceptible the system is to the help to be derived from a good medicine at this season. Possessing just those purifying, building up qualities which the body craves, Hood's Sarsaparilla soon overcomes that tired feeling, restores the appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, imparts vigorous health. Its thousands of friends with one voice declare "It Makes the Weak Strong."

Mr. ALBERT SMITH has opened his ice cream saloon at his residence on West Main street, in this place. Read his new advertisement which appears in another column.

The contract for furnishing uniforms for the Union Bridge Fire Company has been awarded to Messrs. J. Tranh & Bro., the wide awake clothiers of Union Bridge and Emmitsburg.

Four horses abreast will draw it. The wheels are made of pressed iron, with steel tires 2 by 10 inches. The axles are of hammered steel, 6 inches square. The circle plate or fifth wheel is 5 feet 6 inches by 34 feet. The wagon is two poles 5½ by 7½ inches. The woodwork is all carry 60 tons. It took twelve men three weeks to build it and its cost is $1,700. It was built for L. H. Peidigard and will be called "Hercules."

ACCIDENT AND ROMANCE.

On last Sunday evening whilst Mr. Edward Hobbs and Miss Maude Ohler, of near this place, were returning home from a visit to Taneytown, and when about one mile from that place, the horse became frightened at an approaching team, causing a bolt to break. The horse started to run with the front part of the buggy attached to him, the remainder of the vehicle upset, throwing the occupants to the ground, and partly demolishing the buggy. Fortunately they were not seriously hurt, but received some very bad bruises on their faces and hands. Mr. Hobbs found the horse in the woods near his home the next morning. Neither the horse nor the part of the buggy attached to him were injured.

At a meeting of the Frederick city board of aldermen, held Wednesday evening, Messrs. G. W. Smith and C. V. S. Levy appeared before the board and made application for a franchise for the use of the streets for an electric railway between Frederick and Middlebury. Assurances were given that the franchise would be granted by the board, but it was decided to defer action on the question until the next meeting.

The distance between the two points is about 8 miles and will cost about $225,000 to build the road. The most of the money will be furnished by New York capitalists.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The Committee of arrangements for Arthur Post, No. 41, G. A. R., are rapidly pushing the arrangements for Memorial Day, May 30, to completion.

Massasoit Tribe, No. 41, I. O. R. M., and the Vigilant Hose Company have already accepted invitations to participate in the exercises and join the parade.

The Choral Union will furnish the vocal music, and the Emmet Cornet Band the instrumental music and lead the parade.

In accordance with the rules and regulations of the Grand Army, Arthur Post will attend divine services on Sunday previous to Memorial Day. The Choral Union will furnish the vocal music, and the Emmet Cornet Band the instrumental music and lead the parade.

Funeral services will be held at the house of the deceased, on Friday evening, at 9 o'clock, after which his remains will be brought to this place, and interred in Mountain View Cemetery.

Rev. G. A. Whitmore, of Mechanicsburg, will attend the services in a body in full uniform. The Sons of Veterans accompany them.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

At a regular meeting of the Vigilant Hose Company on Friday evening last, an election for officers to serve during the ensuing year was held and resulted as follows: V. E. Rose, President; G. W. Bushman, Vice President; W. H. Troxell, Secretary; J. Henry Stokes, Treasurer; George T. Eyster, Captain Charles R. Hoke, First Lieutenant Samuel L. Rose, Second Lieutenant W. E. Ashbaugh, Chief Nozzlemaster, and Albert Smith, Hose Director. The roll numbers forty-three members, and the reports of the different officers showed that the Company was in a flourishing condition. Emmitsburg has not been visited with fire since the evening of January 12th, 1890, although an alarm of fire was given on December 8th, 1890, but the fire was extinguished without the aid of the Company and no property was damaged. We congratulate our citizens upon the careful manner in which they have guarded against the outbreak of fire.

LETTER FROM ROCKY RIDGE.

The farmers and business men in this section are much elated over the bright and pleasant weather of the past few days. Trade being revived and the farmers able to proceed with spring plowing and corn planting.

The wheat and grass present a fine appearance. All indications are for an abundant crop.

The peach trees, and in fact all fruit trees with every twig apparelled with bloom. All the fruit which we have examined looks unjoined.

Vegetation is somewhat retarded by the unfavorable weather, but the present warm sunshine will greatly benefit it.

Several cases of sickness are reported.

Mr. W. H. Black returned from Baltimore, Monday evening, having been away for a few weeks. His health is improved.

Services were held at the church on last Sunday morning, by Rev. J. H. Barth, at which time there was confirmation and the Lord's Supper was administered. A large congregation was present. The services were continued at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

BIRDS OF PASSAGE.

Between this and the other side of the broad Atlantic in shape of tourists, commercial travellers and mariners, the "road," sea-boat captains, ship's surgeons and mates, and settlers apprivate and testify to the preventive and remedial properties of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in sea-sickness, nausea, grippe, biliousness, dyspepsia, and disorders of the stomach, livers and bowels.

Against the prejudicial influences of climate, change of diet and improper water, it is a sovereign safeguard. No form of malady for which the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is not a remedy. The broken nose fever of the Mississippi to its mid流 types can resist the curative action of this brilliant power and restorer of health, a certain boon to persons in feeble health to conquer disease.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

NOTICES.

The Stockholders of the Charlotte Milling Company are hereby notified to meet at the office, in Emmitsburg, on Monday, June 5th, between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of electing seven Directors to manage the affairs of the company for the ensuing year. By order of the

BOARD,

PIERCED TO THE HEART AND KILLED.

Olie Brown, the six-year-old daughter of Noah Brown, a merchant residing near Bixler's Postoffice, in Cranberry Valley, Carroll county, Md., met with a sad and fatal accident about noon on Sunday. She was playing in one of the rooms upstairs with a part of an old-fashioned spinning-wheel, when she accidentally lost her balance falling down the stairs. The needle of the wheel penetrated her left breast about three inches, piercing the heart and causing instant death. She was the only child of her parents.—Sun.

THREE HORSES ABREAST.

John Wolfrum, at his shop, on York street, is putting the finishing touches to the largest wagon ever built in Baltimore.

The vehicle is an extension truck, which can be coupled at from 7 to 50 feet. Four horses abreast will draw it. The wheels are made of pressed iron, with steel tires 2 by 10 inches.

The axles are of hammered steel, 6 inches square. The circle plate or fifth wheel is 5 feet 6 inches by 34 feet.

The wagon is two poles 5½ by 7½ inches.

The woodwork is all carry 60 tons.

It took twelve men three weeks to build it and its cost is $1,700.

It was built for L. H. Peidigard and will be called "Hercules."

ANOTHER WAY.

"Fare, please!" said the conductor of a South Side street car one day last week to a passenger who was clinging to a strap.

The passenger took out his pocket book, looked through it and produced a ten-dollar bill.

"It's the smallest I have," he said.

"I can't change it," rejoined the conductor gruffly. "If you expect to ride you ought to go prepared to pay."

"I am prepared to pay, sir. You're not prepared to make change—that's all."

"The company doesn't expect me to make change for $10. I haven't $10 about me."

"Then what's to be done? I've got to ride."

"You've got to pay for it if you do."

"I've offered to pay you."

"And I've told you that I can't change that bill. You turn out something smaller than that or get off."

"I have told you, my friend, that I haven't anything smaller."

"They got off."

The conductor reached up to pull the bell rope.

Hold on!"

With the fire of honest indignation blazing in his eyes the man turned to his fellow-passengers.

"Gentlemen," he said, "it's a shame to put a man off a car when he has plenty of money to pay his fare and is willing to pay it. If this conductor makes me get off can I depend on your love of fair play to help me see that justice is done? Just as sure as he puts me off I shall sue this road for damages and I'll need you for witnesses."

"There's an easier way out of it than that," suggested a sympathetic man in one corner of the car, taking out his pocket book. "I'll lend you five cents and it doesn't make any difference whether you ever pay me or not."

"No, no," replied the other struck by an idea, "but I shall be obliged if you will give me change for $10. Any kind will do."

The sympathetic man in the corner counted out small bills and silver coins to the amount of $10, handed them over and took the bill in exchange, the passenger clinging to the strap paid his fare, rode a few blocks further and got off.

And now the sympathetic man is hunting for him with blood in his eyes and something heavy in his right-hand coat pocket. The $10 bill was a counterfeit.—Chicago Tribune.

THE CARELESS CREATURES.

He came home last night a bit tired from a busy day's work and his wife waited until he had got off his overcoat and sat down.

"Did you get that piece of silk I asked you to bring up to-night?" she inquired, seeing that he had not laid it before her.

"Yes, dear, I left it out there in the hall."

"Did you get the pins?"

"Yes, dear."

"And the ribbons."

"Yes."

"And Bobbie's shoes?"

"Yes."

"And a wisp broom?"

"Yes."

"And a wick for the kitchen lamp?"

"Yes."

"And some matches?"

"Yes, they are with the other bundles."

"And did you see the man about the coal?"

"Yes; it will be up Monday."

"And the man to fix the grate in the dining room?"

"Yes, he's coming as soon as he can."

"Did you see Mrs. Smith about the sewing society meeting?"

"She said she'd come."

"And—and—oh, yes, did you get a new shovel for the kitchen stove?"

"N—n—no," he hesitated, "I forgot it."

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "What did you do that for? You know we needed that shovel and I told you about it the very first thing when you went down town this morning. I think you men are the most forgetful and careless creatures that ever lived." And she flopped out to see about supper.—Detroit Free Press.

DROP THE CHICKEN JOKE.
But Give the Negro Credit for Loving a Watermelon.

You people in the North, with all your professed affection for the nigger, do him an injustice in at least one particular," said Colonel John Adams, of Alpharetta, Ga., last night, at the Tremont. "Why is it that the darkey always is pictured in the press as an inveterate chicken thief? I suppose that is a newspaper tradition, like the mother-in-law gag and the goat joke; but it isn't founded on fact. Mind you, I don't say that our colored brother will not steal, but I am sure he has no especial liking for chickens, and a hen roost has no unconquerable attraction for him. Why not drop the chicken joke now and substitute the watermelon instead? The watermelon really deserves the place in literature now held by the pallet. No darky can resist the temptation to eat a tunnel through one of our Georgia 'sugar-hearts' whenever he gets a chance.

"Last year I became aware that many of my melons were being stolen and determined to put a stop to it if possible. So I called in old Uncle Mose, one of the old standbys of the neighborhood, and said to him:

"Uncle Mose, do you like watermelons?"

"Yis, sar; yis sar," he replied.

"Well, Mose, you know I've forty acres in my melon patch this year."

"Yis, sar."

"Now, suppose some of these low-down common niggers should take a notion to steal my melons and I should object to it and should fill a few of those melons with poison—strychnine, or arsenic, or rough on rats—so that any nigger who took a mouthful would drop right in his tracks—what I want to know is this: Do you suppose you could tell by the feel of one of those poisoned melons in the patch at night that it had been tampered with?"

"I?"

"Well, yes—you. Do you think you could tell any difference between the poisoned melons and those that were all right?"

"Why ask me dat fool question? I wouldn't be in your patch nohow. Pisoned millions won't 'feet me' cause I wouldn't be dar."

"But suppose you were there?"

"No use sposin' anything when I knows all erbout it, I tell yo'. I jest wouldn't be dar, dat's all. I'd send my boy Sam.—Chicago Mail.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Final arrangements for the Sale of Tickets via the B. & O. R. R.

For the benefit of those desiring to attend the World's Fair the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion tickets to Chicago and return, at all stations on its line, at low rates. Tickets will be on sale until November 1st, and will be valid for return journey until November 15th, 1893. They provide for a reduction of 20 per cent below regular rates. These tickets will be valid only for continuous journeys. Tickets at higher rates will be sold that will permit holders to stop over at Baltimore, Washington, or any other point, going and returning.

Besides the opportunity of visiting Washington, a privilege afforded by no other route, tourists via the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will traverse the historic Valley, the theatre of the war between the States. At Cumberland they will be offered a choice of routes, via Pittsburgh, or across the Allegheny mountains, 3000 feet above the level of the sea and via Deer Park and Oakland, the famous summer resorts. The scenery along the Baltimore & Ohio route is the most picturesque in America. Pullman accommodations may be reserved in advance of journey. For rates and information apply to nearest B. & O. ticket Agent, or Chas. O. Soull, General Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md., May 5th.

TEMPERANCE.

The Drunkard.

BY E. E. EDWARDS.

I saw a man Deal death unto his brother. Drop by drop The poison was distilled for cursed gold. And in the wine cup's ruddy glow sat Death.

Invisible to that poor trembling slave; He seized the cup, he drank the poison down,

Rushed forth into the street—home had he none—

Staggered and fell and miserably died. They buried him—ah, little recks it where.

His bloated form was given to the worms.

No stone marked that neglected, lonely spot.

No mourner sorrowing at evening came To pray by that unhailed mound; no hand.

Planted sweet flowers above his place of rest.

Years passed, and weeds and tangled briars grew.

Above that sunken grave, and men forgot Who slept there.

Where is he now?

Lives he still? If dead, still where is he?

Where? In heaven? Go read the sacred page.

"No drunkard shall inherit there?"

Who sent him to the pit? Who dragged him down?

Who bound him hand and foot? Who smiled and smiled.

While yet the hellish work went on?

Who grasped

His gold, his health, his life, his hope, his all?

Who saw his Mary fade and die? Who saw

His beggar'd children in the streets?

Speak coward! If thou hast a tongue Tell why, with hellish art, you slew a man.

Accursed was the name Of him who slew an honest man, whose soul Was ripe for heaven: thrice accursed he whose art malignant sinks a soul to hell.

—Methodist.

A Sample of County Prohibition.

Sixty-three citizens of Huntingdon, Pa., in January, 1889, signed their names to the following testimony of the good results of county prohibition:

"Drunkenness has diminished very greatly; that it is an exceptional thing to see an intoxicated man; that crime and disorder have almost entirely disappeared; that the county prison has had fewer inmates than at any former period, at times being entirely empty; that His Honor, Judge Furst, at a recent term of Court, in discharging the grand jury said to it: 'Crime has greatly diminished in this county; that if this state of affairs continues, you will have no duties to perform, except to see to the public buildings and county bridges.' We further certify that we believe the sentiment against liquor selling has greatly increased, because the refusal of licenses has diminished drinking and drunkenness. In two years local prohibition saved to the county in criminal expenses $7,750, and probably as much more in pauper expenses. Without license we have fewer prisoners to board in jail, In 1887 there were 55 commitments to jail during the year; in '88, 55; and in 1889 only 39. While in 1879, with all the license the people desired, there were over 150 commitments during the year. An ex-sheriff says he has had as many as 30 boarders at one time. To-day we only have two. It costs the taxpayers about 45 or 50 cents a day to board a prisoner in jail, and about 25 cents a day to keep him in the penitentiary. On a certain day within the last three months Cambria county had 44 prisoners in jail; Blair county 25; Centre county 15; Mifflin county 9, and Huntingdon county 2. All of these counties but Huntingdon had all the liquor license they could wish or desire."—Heart and Hand.

"Here," he said to the boy who responded to the bell, I want some soap—I can wash with."

"What's the matter with what you've got?" inquired the boy.

"It's not good."

"It ought to be. It's the best castile soap."

"Oh, is it?" sneered the guest.
