STONEWALL JACKSON.
His Belief in Absolute Obedience to the Letter of an Order.

"As an illustration of Stonewall Jackson's belief in the matter of absolute obedience to the letter of an order," said a Confederate veteran, "I have heard a story told of an incident that occurred during the Mexican war. General Jackson was then a lieutenant of artillery, commanding a section composed of two guns. In a certain action he was ordered to occupy a certain position and open fire upon the enemy. His two guns were started for the place, which was very exposed, and before reaching it he saw that he could not remain there 10 minutes without losing every horse and man he had. At the same time he saw that by moving some 300 yards away his fire would be more effective. But his orders to open fire must be obeyed, so, reaching the designated position, the two guns were fired. Then they were limbered up and moved to the new position, and fire was opened in earnest and with effect.

"I could tell of several incidents in which Jackson figured," he continued, "which came under my notice while a student at the Virginia Military Institute, where Jackson was a professor. I remember once how a student tried to kill him. Some fellow—I forget his name—had a fancied grievance against Jackson. He took a bag which was used to hold solid clothes and filled it with bricks. His room was in the top story of the building, and one day as Jackson was passing under his window he dropped the bag of bricks. It passed so close to Jackson that it grazed his cap, tilting it to one side. Without pausing or looking around, he straightened his cap and passed on as if on parade, the only notice he seemed to take of the occurrence being to step over several of the bricks that had rolled out of the bag. Several of us who were standing near rushed up to him, remarking upon his coolness. 'Gentlemen,' said he, 'the bricks were on the ground when I saw them, and they could not hurt me then.'"

CHASED BY A TORNADO IN SUBMARINE ARMOR

A LOCOMOTIVE'S TERRIBLE RACE WITH A BLACK TERROR.

An Engineer's Experience With a "Twister."—The Fireman Knew What Was Behind Them and Shouted, "Make the Bend!"—The Engine Broke Her Record.

Henry Wetherell, an engineer on the Jersey Central railroad, told a reporter his experience with a tornado in Kansas and said that if fear always turned a man's hair white his locks ought to be like snow.

It happened this way: It was some time in July. The weather had been pretty hot, and it was just the sort of a day for breeding a tornado. I was working on a one horse railroad in southern Kansas. The superintendent wired me to fetch my engine a distance of about 70 miles to a place called Peterstown.

Well, I got up and water aboard as quickly as possible and started for Peterstown, taking it rather easily, because the truck wasn't in condition to stand fast running well. It was an hour out from my starting place, and I had gone 10 miles per hour, when I noticed some queer looking clouds on the western horizon.

The day was extremely sultry, and there was a curious sort of a glare over the landscape which made it look sort of feverish. I can't think of a better word for describing it. There was something unnatural about the appearance of everything. My fireman was a boy who had been brought up in that region, and he said that it looked like a tornado coming. He ought to have been a good judge of the symptoms because the whole of his family, together with all their property and live stock, had been wiped out by such a "twister."

By the time we had gone maybe eight or nine miles farther a dense bank of clouds had spread around toward the southwest. It was black as night, but began to show a black streak of white, like a comet, and their property and live stock, had been wiped out by such a "twister."

"The time we had gone maybe eight or nine miles farther a dense bank of clouds had spread around toward the southwest. It was black as night, but began to show a black streak of white, like a comet, and their property and live stock, had been wiped out by such a "twister."

It seemed as if something awful was going to happen. It was the boy who called my attention to the pointed cloud, and he said it was a tornado being born. On one side it was white, and the other side was black, and it was coming straight at us. I saw it pull away from me, I guess, said I, pulling the throttle wide open. But the boy, he said nothing—only watched the clouds in the distance.

By this time the pointed cloud had got very much bigger, the lower end of it nearly touching the ground. It grew rapidly larger and larger and seemed to be approaching at a great rate of speed, while the rest of the view toward the west and southwest became blurred to the eye, so that nothing could be made out very clearly. I saw that it was a tornado, and was coming, and no mistake, for the strange cloud, which had the shape of a gigantic peg top, was distinctly outlined in its inky blackness against the general blue.

I began to feel pretty badly frightened myself. Now and then when I could take my eyes off the cloud, I looked at the boy, but he only sat silent in the cab, staring at the great peg top with starting eyeballs and white lips. Finally I said:

"Do you think we are going to escape it?" "We are right in its track," he said, without looking at me.

You see, we were running in an air line over the prairie, directly northeast, and pursuing the very path in which the tornado was coming. Any other course, with the steam I had on, would have carried us out of the way.

The boy shoveled more coal on. He had already done so three or four times since the strange cloud was sighted. But it was no use. The engine was doing its best, and she was capable of more than about 38 miles an hour.

"It's gaining on us," I said. "How fast does such a thing as that travel?" "About a hundred miles an hour," replied the boy, white as a sheet.

If that had been true, I would not be here to tell the story. The engine cannot do 80 miles an hour is supposed to be the best a tornado can do. My belief is that this one was going at about 60 miles. Anyway, it wasn't more than six or seven miles distant by this time, and gaining on us rapidly.

As you may well imagine, I was awfully that the rumbling of the locomotive was lost in it. Of the destruction it was accomplishing I could get no notion from my point of view. Fortunately there were few settlements in that part of the country, but as we passed by a few hamlets at full speed I could see the people running about trying to find some place of safety.

The boy staggered at my side—the rocking of the engine made it difficult to keep one's feet—and clutched my arm. I stopped my head and he yelled into my ear the words, "Make the bend!"

I knew what he meant on the instant. Less than 10 miles ahead of us was a bridge over a river, after crossing which the road turned abruptly southward. It was a freak of nature, but it was a sign of things to come. He intended to pass through as many supposed centers of future population as possible. The only long stretch of it in a straight line was just where we got caught by the tornado. If we could get to the bend ahead of the monster, there might be saved.

As you may well imagine, I had no opportunity to consider the plan calmly and in detail, but it struck me like a flash. It was a race for life sure enough. If that engine never did her 40 miles an hour before, I think she must have done it and more, too. Then, with the crowd heaving and cloud racing on behind us, steadily approaching, we tore over the rails.

Six miles passed as well as I could estimate, and the monster was only four miles behind. Three miles more, and it lessened the distance by a mile at least. But we were near the river. A minute later and we were crossing the bridge. No time then to heed the warning that "trains must run slowly over this stream."

We flew around the curve and dashed southward, just in time to see a mighty balloon pass by with a whirl and a roar, as if all the demons in the infernal regions were let loose. We could not make out anything very distinctly, the sky being darkened and the air filled with dust, but we knew that we were safe. A few minutes later the clouds rolled away, and everything was as quiet and peaceful as before the storm. We ran back to the bridge, but it wasn't there. It was clean gone. The road was so badly torn up, the track for considerable distances being twisted and broken to pieces, that the expense of repairing it nearly bankrupted the company. Eleven people lost their lives in that terrible wreck, although my own experience which I would not repeat for all the money in the world.

HARRIET BEECHER STOWE.

How She Was Once Not Escorted Home From a Railroad Station.

"Speaking of bad breaks," said the lawyer, "Jack Berkeley, a friend of mine, was telling me the other night of an experience of his which he looks upon as a record breaker."

"He was attending college during the time that Professor Stowe occupied a chair at Bowdoin, and one stormy night the learned gentleman, being loath to leave his comfortable quarters, asked Jack if he wouldn't go down to the station to meet Mrs. Stowe."

"Jack didn't know the lady, but he willingly accepted the honor of escorting so great a celebrity as Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe and hastened down through the snow and sleet to wait for the train."

"After a time he presented himself before the professor without the expected guest."

"Where is she?" demanded that gentleman.

"She didn't come, sir," said Jack.

"Oh, but I know she did. She wrote me she was coming, and Mrs. Stowe never disappoints me," was the very positive answer.

"But, sir," protested Jack, "there was only one person got off the train, and that was an old Irish woman."

"Strange," mused the professor. "What can have happened to her?"

"At that moment there was a knock at the door, and Mrs. Stowe entered."

"Aha!" exclaimed the professor gleefully. "There you are! I sent this young gentleman down for you, and he protested you did not come."

"I think I remember seeing him, too," said Mrs. Stowe.

"Poor Jack! The cold perspiration stood upon his brow. He had taken the immortal name of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' for an old Irish woman."

"He stammered out something and fled. He never could look Professor Stowe in the face after that."

"Mrs. Stowe never cared much for dress," which is a very true statement, she spoke of with a stony night, she had paid less attention than usual to her personal appearance.

"A friend of mine who knew her very well one day asked her if she preferred a white or a black dress, and she said she would wear either, as it was so stormy that night, she had paid less attention than usual to her personal appearance."

A MENAGERIE BREAKS LOOSE.

Wild Beasts Terrify the Community Until Captured by the Circus Men.

A most exciting episode occurred near Dunlap, Mo., the other day and promised for a time to upset the country for miles around. The woods were full of lions, tigers, panthers and other wild beasts.

Sells Bros.' circus showed at Milan, Mo., Wednesday last and was on its way to Trenton. About 2 o'clock Thursday morning one section of the circus train turned a curve near Dunlap, a few miles the other side of Milan, and three cages on the flat car broke the blocks which held them and toppled off the car. The fall hurst the cages, and the animals in them bounded off to the woods. In one cage were two lions, in another three tigers and in the other two leopards.

As these animals bounded into the woods they uttered the most terrible screams and roars, which alarmed the entire countryside. Terror struck the people when day broke, when it was learned that the woods were filled with wild beasts. Women and children remained indoors, while the men went round carrying loaded guns. All through that day and the following night the howls and screams of the wild animals could be heard, and a cow was killed by them, torn to pieces and partially devoured.

While the population hereabouts were keeping pretty well indoors, the circus men were endeavoring to capture their valuable property. Although the animals were wild, yet they acted very much frightened at their unexpected freedom. Some of the beasts had never known freedom, while others had been in captivity so long that they forgot how to act in the woods except to howl more in fright than anything else. The circus boys corralled the brutes, however, in a commonplace way by taking the empty cages into the woods and baiting them with huge chunks of juicy meat. They would locate an animal, set a cage near him and then "shoot" him into it as an old lady would drive chickens. In this manner all the beasts were finally captured, and peace once more reigned in the country.—Cor. St. Louis Republic.

BOTH WANTED THE SCHOOL.

The Woman Took Things as They Came, the Position Included.

Rather an amusing race for a school occurred the other day when the passenger train was wrecked about a mile west of here. Only one school in the county remained not contracted for.

Two teachers living in San Diego wanted the school. Both obtained their certificates Monday. The trustees lived at Penn and Realitos, in the west end of the county. The teachers must see the trustees at once. One was a strong man; the other a young lady. Both learned that the other was an applicant for the school. Both boarded the train Tuesday to see the trustees. Both were on the wrecked train when out a few miles from town. Both were in a predicament.

The man said to himself, "I am a man. I can walk," and he started out foot to see the trustees.

The lady, being a woman, sat quietly and waited developments until the train would go.

The strong man walked to Bonavides, 10 miles. On his way he obtained a mule and took the road 35 miles farther for the home of the trustees, certain he was the lucky one, as he was a man. And he thought of his opponent sitting back at San Diego in the wrecked train.

But the weak of 10 miles, and made the ride of 35 miles took time. In the meantime the wrecking train at San Diego had done its work, and to make a long story short as the solitary mule rider loped up to the home of the trustees whom did he see but the young lady, with the trustees before her, who had just signed the contract? She had secured the school, having bid her time, and reached the place on the wrecked train, feeling happy that in this progressive age woman is obtaining her rights.

The mule rider came back to San Diego and takes it in good part.—Dallas News.

Tramps May Hide Free.

Vice President Crocker of the Southern Pacific has announced that his company does not propose to make any fight against the horries of tramps who are beating their way westward on freight trains. He has arrived at the conclusion that it is useless to send these rickety, less tourists, because they get aboard again in sufficient numbers to overpower the trainmen. Therefore Mr. Crocker believes that time can be saved and bloodshed averted by allowing the tramps to ride so long as they are peaceable. No proclamation to that effect has been issued from the company headquarters, but it is to be mutually understood that the trainmen are not to molest the "hobos" except in self defense.

It is likely that the other lines extending from the Rockies to the Pacific will follow the Southern's example in this respect, if they have not already done so.

Prof. Koch, the Berlin Bacteriologist,

who recently secured a divorce from his wife and married an actress, has told his friends that if they want his society in future they must receive also his wife. Berlin has made no outspoken objection, but in the little Harz mountain village of Clausthal, where Professor Koch was born, the women have torn down the tablet which had for years marked his birthplace.—Dunlap Correspondent.

A New Postage Stamp.

Postage stamp collectors are hereby notified to look out for a possible rarity. The French government is about to establish a postal service by means of the French territory of Obok and the Somali coast. In the center of a triangular stamp will be a mountain, or rather a camel, and in the background a desert. As the route is only for experiment the stamps issued may be very few.—New York Sun.

Faddy's Explanation.

Minister—I have noticed, Patrick, that the vane on our church spire has not changed its direction for several weeks, though the wind meantime has blown from all points of the compass. Can you explain the reason of this?

Patrick—I'm thinking I can do that same, yer reverence. It needs something as the people that sit under it o' Sundays. Minister—And what is that?

Patrick—A little grace, yer reverence.—Boston Courier.

Judge Lynch's Term Extended.

The resolution extending the term of Judge Lynch, of the sixth judicial circuit, came up in the House of Delegates, at Annapolis, Tuesday, and was passed by the Accisive vote of 68 to 9.

The resolution did not get through without a struggle. When it came up for passage Mr. Lamar, of Montgomery, contended that there was no good reason for the extension and he did not think it was desired by the people of the circuit generally.

TO MAKE FARMERS OF THEM.

New York's Poor Boys to be Trained by the Children's Aid Society.

Mr. Joseph M. White of this city has bought for the Children's Aid Society a 125 acre farm. The society purposes here to establish a farm training school for the older boys who come under its charge.

The question of what to do with lads of from 14 to 18 years old has long troubled the society. Many farmers are unwilling to take city boys of that age who have never had any training.

A committee of the board of trustees advertised for a suitable farm and soon had about 40 under consideration.

She made one other condition—that the boys on the farm should receive daily religious instruction.

The boys will be kept under a firm discipline. It is not expected to keep them on the farm more than a few months each.

On one or two practical farmers will be handed to direct the efforts of the boys. The produce raised will be sold in the neighboring villages or sent to this city for sale.

How fast the exposition will fall cannot of course be told now. Many elements of uncertainty enter into the question, not the least of which is the state of the weather during the closing days of October.

Curious Effects of a Slight Hurt. Alfred Cook, who was hurt in the railway accident near Marshfield, is still in a precarious state.

Frogs, whether blind or not, become dark green or black if they are kept in a dark vessel in a sparingly lighted room, but when a larger branch with green leaves is introduced into the vessel they all recover their bright green color, whether blind or not.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gave Robust Health and Strength.

Mr. Wm. W. Otis is a well known blacksmith of Trenton, N. J. He writes illustrating the great building up blood purifying powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla after serious illness:

"I am pleased to make a statement of my experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am a blacksmith and contracted a severe cold which developed into pneumonia. Before I got over the illness, two large abscesses gathered on my lungs. Different medicines failed to do me any good. Catarrh and dyspepsia.

Made Me Very Weak and Lost flesh. I was advised to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before I had used a bottle I began to feel better. I continued and have taken five bottles and it has cured me of all my troubles and made me perfectly well. I now have a good appetite and weigh five pounds heavier than ever before. I cannot recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla too highly." Wm. W. Otis, 609 Reeling Street, Trenton, New Jersey.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver, Biliousness, Jaundice, Indigestion, Sick Headaches, etc.

When War is Declared. Against a man's happiness by his stomach, the enemy may be surprised and brought speedily and easily to terms. That potent regulator of digestion, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, dissolves the rebellious organs thoroughly, indicating relief from weakness of the stomach, and the food in it, for want of the power to digest, decomposes and acidifies, giving rise to indigestion, flatulence and pain, besides a multitude of symptoms both chronic and perplexing.

The following persons have been appointed road supervisors for this district: James M. Neely, E. L. Frizell and F. C. Fisher.

In Olden Times. People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Woman a — ? Woman is a conundrum most decidedly. Still we do not propose to give her up. Let a woman have her health and spirits and she is the sunshine of the home. But suppose she is sick, what then? Why, then there is a shadow over all the house. Happily in thousands of homes, such shadows have been removed. Thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the diseases and weaknesses incident to their sex have been removed, and with health restored, their bright spirits have come back, and the household has passed from the winter of its discontent to a glad summer of comfort. O, suffering women, for your own sakes, and for the sakes of those about you, use these simple means and be healed. The only remedy so effective in nervous and general prostration, "Female Weakness," periodical pains, irregularities and kindred ailments, that it can be guaranteed or sold on trial.

His Elixir for the cure of coughs and colds has already outlived him a quarter of a century, and is still growing in favor with the public. For sale by Jas. A. Elder.

Leonard's Appeal for Mercy. William Leonard, the prisoner in jail at Frederick, under sentence of death for killing Jesse Anderson, of this county, has nearly recovered from his recent attack of quinsy, and on Monday wrote to the British ambassador, Sir Julian Pauncefote, asking his assistance to secure a reduction of his sentence. Leonard says: "That I killed Mr. Anderson in a premeditated manner I can honestly say is not true, nor was this act committed by me in any other than a drunken condition—almost insanity from a long debauch."

Blessings are not always sugar-coated. No, neither are pills—but Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are, and they are genuine blessings in (sugar-coated) disguise to the sufferer from biliousness, constipation, indigestion and all derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. Buy them and try them. You can't make a mistake. They're powerful, yet painless, and pleasant to take.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

They called their brother, who found his horses in the yard and the stable door broken open.

It will be remembered that the horse was on trial and that Mr. Grimes was to report to the constable what he could afford to pay for the animal. Instead of offering to buy the horse, the constable has been notified that it is no good and to take it away.

Brandenburg, vice-president; S. C. Brandenburg, Secretary; C. E. Routhahn, treasurer.—Evening.

Peculiarly Formed Cabbage. Mr. John F. Adelsberger, of near town, brought to this office on Tuesday, a very peculiarly formed head of cabbage. Under each leaf was a well formed head. The seed from which the cabbage was raised was sent to Mr. Adelsberger by a friend and the name of the variety is unknown. Mr. Adelsberger informed us that on one head of cabbage he counted one hundred and thirty-nine small heads.

The Frederick correspondent to the American says: A peculiar condition of affairs exists in the farming communities of this county. The farmers are going ahead with their work the same as if it were spring, and many of them think there will be no winter at all. Notwithstanding there has been a great deal of dampness, wells and springs are going dry, and the wheat would be benefited by a fall of snow. Fruit buds have so far not matured enough to be damaged by a sudden frost.

A Pleasant Gather. On the night of January 25th Mr. Will Maxell and sister, Miss Ella, gave a party to quite a host of their friends, who came and helped them to have a jolly good time in general. The evening was very pleasantly spent in social chat and games. About 11 o'clock a splendid table of refreshments was spread and all partook very freely of the same, after which the guests extended their thanks to Miss Ella and her brother for their kindness and disbanding for their respective homes. There were 28 guests present.

Death of Miss Margaret A. Odell. Miss Margaret A. Odell, well and favorably known by many of the people of Emmitsburg, died suddenly on Friday, Jan. 19th, 1894, in Stoytown, Pa., at the residence of Rev. E. S. Johnston, with whose family she had made her home for the last twenty years. She was born in Columbia, Lancaster county, Pa., and had lived in Lancaster city for several years. In the year 1874, she began to make her home with the family of Mr. Johnston, who was then pastor of the Lutheran Church of this place. During her residence of fourteen years or more in this town, she made friends of all who knew her by her kind disposition and lovable Christian character.

She died sometime between four and five o'clock in the evening. When found she was in her room, sitting in her rocking chair, her sewing on her lap, her glasses properly adjusted, her eyes closed and her head resting on the back of the chair as if asleep. The funeral services were held in the Lutheran Church, in Stoytown, on Tuesday, January 23rd, at two o'clock, Rev. J. J. Welch, of Friedens, Somerset county, Pa., officiated.

A German Patriot. Mr. Abraham Rose, who died in Hagerstown, recently was buried at Chambersburg, Pa. Mr. Rose was born at Halle, Prussia, in 1818. In 1848 he joined the revolutionary party which revolted in Germany, and being a leader, $5,000 reward was offered by the King of Germany for the head of Mr. Rose. He remained in exile among the Alps until amnesty was declared by Germany, and the political fugitive returned to his native country. In 1854 he removed to Hagerstown where he successfully engaged in business.

Earthquake at Annapolis. An earthquake visited the State capital, at Annapolis, Md., Wednesday night. At twenty minutes to 9 o'clock two distinct shocks were felt. They made the houses shake and the windows rattle. The shocks were felt at the State House and at the Naval Academy. They seemed to have come from the west and passed to the east. The tremor was felt throughout the city and caused some alarm in private houses.—Sun.

Each of the parties paid a fine of $3.32.—Waynesboro Record.

Hessmiller, of this place, and Miss Barbara Saffer. The brides being daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. Saffer, of this district. The bridal parties acted as waiters for each other. After the ceremony the happy couples went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Snouffer.—Mrs. Snouffer is a sister of the brides—on Gettysburg street, where a sumptuous breakfast was served. After which they went to the home of the brides parents near town.

A Reception. A wedding dinner was given on Wednesday, the 24th inst., at the residence of Mr. James E. Baker, at Bakersville, in honor of the marriage of his son, Mr. Charles H. Baker and family, of Bakersville; Miss Kate R. Wivell, Mr. Frank Iloke, Miss Annie Wivell, Miss Maggie Riley, Mr. Vincent Riley and Master Harry Troxell. The day was pleasantly spent, and as night came on the rain began to fall, which probably prevented the shrill notes of the calithumpian band from reaching the ears of the newly wedded couple.

Children Should be Present at Roll Call. The following named pupils in the Primary Department of the Public School deserve special mention for being present every morning and noon for the past two weeks when the last bell rang, and it is to be hoped by the teachers that in the future there will be more names to publish. If the parents of the children of the Public School would only co-operate with the teachers in this matter and start their children from home at the right time and see that they go direct to school and not loiter on the way (as some pupils are in the habit of doing) then, and only then, will every pupil be present at the hour for opening. There is nothing more annoying to a teacher when he is hearing a class recite, than to have children straggling in, one by one, for a half hour or more. It always makes more or less confusion, and besides that, the attention of those in the class is taken away from the recitation.

Parents, see to it that your children are in their seats at the required hour and you will save the teacher much annoyance, and more than that, it will be a good lesson to the children, by teaching them to be prompt. The teachers can not do everything and if you would only co-operate with them, then the next time we can report the name of every pupil in the school for being prompt. True there is excuse for some being late at certain times, and if it can not be helped we are willing to excuse them, but in most cases there is no excuse for the children to be from 15 to 30 minutes late. This not only applies to the Primary Department, but also to the Principal's Department.

The hours for opening are 8:45 a. m., and 1 o'clock, p. m. Those present at roll call were: Lizzie Gelwicks, Rhoda Gillelan, Mary Jackson, Bessie Agnew, Lucy Adelsberger, Mary Shuff, Mary Maxell, Anna Agnew, Alexander Wrigley, Harry Maxell, Isaac Gelwicks, Harry Whitmore, Teddie Kerschner, Willie Agnew, Murray Hardman, Reynolds Caldwell. Di d at Montevue Hospital. Mr. Eli Sheets, a former resident of this district, and who went to the Montevue Hospital, at Frederick, the latter part of July last, to be cared for by the county officials, died at that institution on Monday, the 22d inst., of senile debility, aged about 91 years. His remains were expressed to this place, on Wednesday forenoon in care of undertaker M. F. Shuff, who after preparing the body for burial, took it to the residence of Mr. Wm. Koontz, near town, in the afternoon. From which place the remains of the deceased were taken to Taneytown, on Thursday, for interment.

Leonard's Appeal for Mercy. William Leonard, the prisoner in jail at Frederick, under sentence of death for killing Jesse Anderson, of this county, has nearly recovered from his recent attack of quinsy, and on Monday wrote to the British ambassador, Sir Julian Pauncefote, asking his assistance to secure a reduction of his sentence. Leonard says: "That I killed Mr. Anderson in a premeditated manner I can honestly say is not true, nor was this act committed by me in any other than a drunken condition—almost insanity from a long debauch."

Blessings are not always sugar-coated. No, neither are pills—but Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are, and they are genuine blessings in (sugar-coated) disguise to the sufferer from biliousness, constipation, indigestion and all derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. Buy them and try them. You can't make a mistake. They're powerful, yet painless, and pleasant to take.

On last Tuesday morning a double wedding was solemnized in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, in this place, by the pastor, Rev. E. J. Quinn, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The contracting parties being Mr. Charles H. Baker, of Liberty twp., Pa., and Miss Catherine M. Saffer, and William M. Hessmiller, of this place, and Miss Barbara Saffer. After the ceremony the happy couples went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Snouffer.—Mrs. Snouffer is a sister of the brides—on Gettysburg street, where a sumptuous breakfast was served. After which they went to the home of the brides parents near town.

A Reception. A wedding dinner was given on Wednesday, the 24th inst., at the residence of Mr. James E. Baker, at Bakersville, in honor of the marriage of his son, Mr. Charles H. Baker and family, of Bakersville; Miss Kate R. Wivell, Mr. Frank Iloke, Miss Annie Wivell, Miss Maggie Riley, Mr. Vincent Riley and Master Harry Troxell. The day was pleasantly spent, and as night came on the rain began to fall, which probably prevented the shrill notes of the calithumpian band from reaching the ears of the newly wedded couple.

The G. A. R., of Fairfield, raised a pole at Grayson's schoolhouse, in Liberty township, on last Wednesday night. A large crowd had gathered and after the raising of the pole, a camp fire was held in the school house. The evening was pleasantly spent.

Your correspondent witnessed the execution of Henry Heist on the 17th, at Gettysburg. Heist pleaded innocent until the last. He said he would die an innocent man. He said he promised George Reese that he would not tell on him that he killed the boy, unless he was put on oath. Heist smiled after the rope was put around his neck. He made a remark about the State's Attorney and then he smiled. He said the attorney, Mr. Duncan, would have to give an account of what he had done against him. After the jury were all on hand, the sheriff came out of the jail followed by Heist bareheaded with his hands tied behind his back, a minister and the State's Attorney. After reaching the scaffold Heist stood firm, never quivered and there was no change in the color of his face. He was game until the last. About 11:13 A. M., the drop fell. After which the large gates were opened and 400 or more persons rushed in to see Heist hanging.

In the afternoon the doctors held an autopsy and it was found that the neck was not broken, and death was due to strangulation. Mrs. Henry Barnes, a relative of Heist, claimed the body and had it buried at the almshouse.

A Very Peculiar Accident. The Hagerstown Herald and Torch Light of Thursday says: An accident occurred at the Hotel Hamilton Friday afternoon a few minutes before five o'clock that was very uncommon and singular. Jerry Dorsey, colored, one of the hotel waiters had entered the office with a bundle of clothing and walked to the elevator shaft, intending to get in the elevator and go up stairs. The shaft is located just back from the main portion of the lobby in a hallway leading to the bar and toilet room and is encircled by the stairway. It is a little dark there and a light is kept burning part of the time. Dorsey believed that the elevator was down and pushing back the gate stepped in—not into the elevator but into the dark shaft and fell headlong to the bottom, a distance of about fifteen feet. His right ear was completely severed from his head the same as though a knife had been used to cut it off close up. He was also slightly bruised about the head and body.

He was found shortly after falling down with a blazing newspaper in his hand searching for his lost ear. Arthur Lee and William Keys went to his rescue with a lamp and wanted him to go up stairs and lay down until a doctor could be sent for. Dorsey calmly said "No, I will wait until you find my ear and then go home, and have a doctor come there." After his ear was found he took it and walked to his home on West Bethel street. Dr. E. A. Wareham was sent for in the meantime. He went to Dorsey's home and put the ear back in its place. The doctor does not know whether he can get the ear to grow fast again or not.

Death of Miss Margaret A. Odell. Miss Margaret A. Odell, well and favorably known by many of the people of Emmitsburg, died suddenly on Friday, Jan. 19th, 1894, in Stoytown, Pa., at the residence of Rev. E. S. Johnston, with whose family she had made her home for the last twenty years. She was born in Columbia, Lancaster county, Pa., and had lived in Lancaster city for several years. In the year 1874, she began to make her home with the family of Mr. Johnston, who was then pastor of the Lutheran Church of this place. During her residence of fourteen years or more in this town, she made friends of all who knew her by her kind disposition and lovable Christian character.

She died sometime between four and five o'clock in the evening. When found she was in her room, sitting in her rocking chair, her sewing on her lap, her glasses properly adjusted, her eyes closed and her head resting on the back of the chair as if asleep. The funeral services were held in the Lutheran Church, in Stoytown, on Tuesday, January 23rd, at two o'clock, Rev. J. J. Welch, of Friedens, Somerset county, Pa., officiated.

A German Patriot. Mr. Abraham Rose, who died in Hagerstown, recently was buried at Chambersburg, Pa. Mr. Rose was born at Halle, Prussia, in 1818. In 1848 he joined the revolutionary party which revolted in Germany, and being a leader, $5,000 reward was offered by the King of Germany for the head of Mr. Rose. He remained in exile among the Alps until amnesty was declared by Germany, and the political fugitive returned to his native country. In 1854 he removed to Hagerstown where he successfully engaged in business.

Earthquake at Annapolis. An earthquake visited the State capital, at Annapolis, Md., Wednesday night. At twenty minutes to 9 o'clock two distinct shocks were felt. They made the houses shake and the windows rattle. The shocks were felt at the State House and at the Naval Academy. They seemed to have come from the west and passed to the east. The tremor was felt throughout the city and caused some alarm in private houses.—Sun.

An Expensive Toll. Toll gate keeper David R. Miller, on the Sharpsburg pike, has brought suit against three boys for defrauding him out of toll. When the pole was raised the boys whipped their horses and passed through the gate without paying. The fine for the offence is not less than $1 nor more than $25, and imprisonment in jail for not more than five days in case the fine is not paid. Each of the parties paid a fine of $3.32.—Waynesboro Record.

Thieves Set a Table and Have a Square Meal. Burglars plied their trade in quite an active manner in Westminster between midnight and daylight last Friday morning. Three dwellings were entered and some booty secured from each of them. In every case an entrance was obtained by forcing open a window. At the home of Miss Mollie Reese the burglars ascended by a ladder to a balcony, but were baffled in their efforts in that direction and finally forced a window of the dining-room. Finding an abundance of provisions they deliberately set the table, laying covers for two, and enjoyed a good square meal. Then they turned their attention to business, but were frightened away without securing much plunder. The residence of Justice William J. Mitten, on Webster street, was robbed of a silver watch belonging to his son, Theodore, and two pistols and a pair of handcuffs belonging to his son, Assistant City Bailiff John Mitten. At the residence of Mr. Charles Stonifer, a silver watch worth twenty dollars, was carried away and a child's bank was taken, but containing nothing it was cast aside. Attempts were made to break into several other places, but were unsuccessful.

The State Encampment. Gen. George R. Snowden and several members of his staff, together with Adjutant General Greenland and Col. C. T. O'Neil, of the Harrisburg Arsenal, were at Gettysburg last Tuesday, to select the ground which will be occupied by the National Guard of Pennsylvania at the division encampment next summer. It was finally determined to pitch the tents on the same ground that was occupied for the same purpose in 1884, being that over which Pickett's troops made their famous charge. Special inquiries was made concerning the water supply. The 8,000 troops who are expected will require about 40,000 gallons per day for eight days. The animals will require an indefinite additional quantity which, it is thought, can be supplied from ponds near the site. The Water Company is actively engaged, and has been for some time engaged in trying to increase its supply. At present, the daily home consumption is nearly equal to the daily pumpage—so great has been the increase in the number of consumers and in the amount consumed.—Gettysburg Star and Sentinel.

SABILLASVILLE ITEMS. Mr. Chas. Harbaugh, of near Emmitsburg, spent last Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Harbaugh. Mrs. David Crawford and little granddaughter, Blanche Watson, are visiting relatives in Washington county.

Mr. Hiram Harbaugh, who has been afflicted with rheumatism for the past two years, is now in a critical condition at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Geo. Rutts, of Waynesboro.

Mr. Geo. Manahan was in Baltimore last Friday. Mr. Clayton Manahan, who had his hand badly crushed while coupling cars at Hagerstown, about two weeks ago, went to Baltimore on Friday and had a portion of one of the metacarpal bones removed which had caused intense pain. Mr. Manahan suffers little pain since the operation and is improving slowly.

Sudden Death. After a lingering illness of about eighteen months, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Hobbs, wife of Mr. Joseph A. Hobbs, died rather suddenly at her residence near town, between 7 and 8 o'clock on Thursday morning, aged 72 years. Mrs. Hobbs had been a sufferer from paralysis for about one and a-half years, being most of the time confined to bed, and no doubt, death was a welcome visitor to her, as she told her family that she was going to leave them shortly before she breathed her last. Mrs. Hobbs leaves a husband and a family of grown children. Funeral services will be held at St. Joseph's Catholic Church on next Monday morning, when a Requiem High Mass will be solemnized.
