FOUR DROWNED WHILE SAILING.

Four men were drowned Sunday afternoon by the capsizing of a pleasure boat in the middle branch of the Patapsco river. They were: Harry Stiner, a ferryman; Fred Valkman, a bartender; William A. Reynolds, a baker and James Huston, occupation unknown.

All the men were residents of Baltimore city, and together with two companions, attempted to cross the river from Ferry Bar to Metes' pavilion, in Anne Arundel county.

A strong east wind made the water very rough, and when about half way across the boat began to fill. The men became frightened, and in a moment the frail craft went over, leaving the pleasure-seekers struggling in the water.

A number of rowboats went to the rescue, but before they reached the capsized boat the men named had gone for the last time. Their companions were rescued with difficulty, and taken to their homes. The bodies have been found and buried.

VALUABLE LAND.

Mr. Geo. A. Reynolds, of Cavetown, Washington county, stated to a representative of the Hagerstown Herald that land in the peach belt has quadrupled in value in the last twenty years. Twenty-five years ago, when Mr. Nicodemus, the pioneer peach grower, cleared off chestnut sprouts in order to plant peach trees, the venture was regarded as utterly foolish by the older residents of the neighborhood. Time verified the wisdom of the venture and the native inhabitants were not slow to profit by the lesson. Land began to stiffen in price and the peach industry was spreading far and wide. Mr. Reynolds began to negotiate for the purchase of a small tract of land lying between Cavetown and Smithsburg, the price of which was $700. Before he completed the purchase he paid $1,000 for the land and at once set it in peach trees. The amount of sales from his orchard each year almost double the price he paid for the land.

PEGGY STEWART.

The anniversary of the burning of the Peggy Stewart this year, October 19, finds that great event very admirably depicted in a large and careful picture by Mr. Frank B. Mayer, which approaches completion in his studio in Annapolis. It promises to be an attractive contribution to the illustrations of Maryland history, which this artist has chosen as his favorite theme. The painting is on the same scale as "The Founders of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad" and "The Planting of the Colony," two of the best known of Mr. Mayer's works. The figures, though not so numerous as in these works, form a very spirited group, the subject being one of action and earnestness. The facts of history are adhered to and the characters and costumes attest accuracy of study. Anthony Stewart, an authentic portrait, is a prominent figure, and the other actors in the scene represent the men of the revolutionary period.

A loud ring of your doorbell in the dead hours of night is alarming. So is the first hollow sound of a cough from one's husband, wife, son, or daughter. It is disease knocking, with perhaps a certain silent visitor waiting not far away. Arrest that cough. Stop it. Stop it at the start. A few days use of Ely's Pinocle Balsam and the danger is past. Relief is immediate; a cure certain. This remedy is rich in the curative principles of the balsams and also contains certain ingredients that are new.

TO LAUNCH TWO GUNBOATS.

The most elaborate preparations have been made by the Newport News Shipbuilding Company and Navy Department for the launch of the two gunboats, Nashville and Wilmington, on Saturday next. It is expected that the Secretary of the Navy, with a large party, the congressional delegation from Virginia and the Governor, Senator Gray and daughters, the mayor and city councilmen of Wilmington, the mayor and city council of Nashville and several members of Congress will witness the ceremonies, which will be the most beautiful of their kind yet held in a Southern port. The entire North Atlantic fleet, under Admiral Bance, has been directed to proceed to Newport News and there fire a salute in honor of the event.

President Oroult, of the Newport News Company, has chartered one of the large Washington Steamers, which has been placed at the disposal of the Secretary for his party. Another large contingent will meet the Secretary from Wilmington, and a third party will come on from Nashville in charge of Congressman Washington. Among those who will be the guests of Mr. Herbert are Admiral Ramsay and wife, Commodore Hichborn, Melville and Sampson, Captains Chadwick and Lemley, Commodore Howell, Admiral Walker and nearly all the leading naval officers on duty in Washington. The two young ladies christening the ships, daughters of Senator Gray and the mayor of Nashville, will also accompany the Secretary.

CHURCHES AND CLERGY.

Right Rev. William Paret, Bishop of Maryland, will issue a call in a short time for the assembling of the first diocesan convention of the new Diocese of Washington, of the Episcopal Church. This convention will have to transact a great deal of business, as it will have to put the new diocese in complete working order, and will have to elect a bishop, as Bishop Paret has decided to remain in Baltimore. There is considerable discussion as to who will be elected the bishop of the new diocese. It has been widely reported that the Rev. Dr. R. H. McKim, of Epiphany Church, Washington, will probably be elected the bishop, and he is undoubtedly in the front rank of possible candidates. Still, others are prominently spoken of for the bishopric, and among these are the Rev. Dr. Mackay Smith, of St. John's Church, Washington; the Rev. Dr. Nevitt Steele, assistant to Dr. Dix, at Trinity Church, New York, a Marylander; Rev. Dr. John S. Landay, formerly of St. John's Church, Washington, now of Boston; the Rev. Dr. Thomas Addison, of Trinity Church, Washington, and the Rev. Dr. John W. Elliott, of the Church of the Ascension, Washington.—American.

KNOW THYSELF.

How important this injunction to every young man! How many ruin their health and future happiness through pernicious practices contracted in ignorance, and repented of when too late. Parents, guardians and humanitarians can do no better service to the rising generation than to place in their hands the information and warnings contained in a little book carefully prepared by an Association of medical gentlemen, who have had vast experience in dealing with the grave maladies here hinted at, and who feel that they owe it to humanity to warn the young of the land against certain destructive habits which are far more prevalent than any layman can possibly imagine, and which, if persisted in, gradually undermine the constitution and health and destroy the future happiness of the victim. Cut out this notice, and enclose it with ten cents in stamps (to pay postage) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 662 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and the book will be sent, secure from observation in a plain sealed envelope.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 14th, 1895.—There is little doubt among the best informed people in Washington that the administration considers the cause of the Cuban revolutionists hopeless, but why it takes that view of the matter is unexplainable, except upon the theory that the chances are always against revolutionists succeeding, or that Secretary Olney places more faith in the words of the Spanish minister than he does in the news from Cuba printed in the newspapers. When the Attorney General wrote that letter several days ago advising against our citizens publicly expressing their sympathy for the revolutionists because it would be "discourteous" to Spain—a bad break on his part, in the opinion of many—he convinced numerous people that which ever way the individual sympathy of members of the administration might lean, their prejudice was against the revolutionists. Those who support the administration right or wrong say that this is but caution to save the government from being embarrassed or having to pay out a lot of money for indemnity in case it took a wrong step and Spain afterwards succeeded in putting down the revolt.

It can be stated on good authority that the administration will make no change in its attitude towards Cuba before Congress meets, unless there are some radical changes in the situation in Cuba. The Spanish Minister has told Secretary Olney that it was absolutely certain the revolution would be at an end before that time. If his prophecy be correct that will, of course, be the last of the whole business, until it be revived by an other revolution. But, on the other hand, should the Cubans still hold their own in December, Congress will take the matter up, and, if expression of opinion from Members and Senators count for anything, it will direct the administration to recognize the belligerency of the revolutionists, if it goes no further. The idea of going the whole hog and recognizing the independence of Cuba does not and will not lack advocates, both in and out of Congress.

Senator Peffer, of Kansas, is in Washington. He says the farmers of Kansas have made good crops and are very prosperous, and that there is no political agitation in the state this year, as only county officers and a Justice of the Supreme Court are to be elected. Speaking of next year's contest he said: "Nationally it will be the old fight—Republicans against Democrats—and it looks like the Republicans have a sure thing. I think they will elect the President and a majority of the House of Representatives. Then their troubles will begin. They will soon be in the same predicament the Democrats are now in. A breaking up is sure to come, and both the old parties may collapse before 1900. It will depend largely upon the action of Congress. When the break up comes about 75 per cent of the Democratic party and 25 per cent of the Republican party will become populists and we shall control every department of the government, which will then be administered in the interest of the people and not of the shysters and speculators."

Republican and Democratic senators have made it plain that they do not propose to allow the populists to realize any benefit, so far as the reorganization is concerned, through their holding of the balance of power in the Senate. No exact programme has been arranged, but an agreement has been reached under which the Democratic and Republican senators are to divide the chairmanships and patronage of the Senate among themselves and not give the populist senators anything, unless it might be the chairmanship of an unimportant committee or two. The populist senators who have been in Washington since this supposed deal became known say they do not care to discuss it at this time, but express their ability to take care of themselves.

Although this is often referred to as the age of electricity there is no place in which the use of electricity has not been the success that was expected of it. That is upon the big armored vessels of the Navy. Experience has demonstrated that nearly all the wires are almost constantly out of order, and that it is an impossibility to repair them when they are most needed. Few people have any idea of the quantity of electric wires there are on some of the ships. On each of several of the new cruisers there are ten miles of wire used for electricity. An official of the navy Department speaking of this matter said: "We have simply overdone the electric business on the cruisers, and finding that the wires cannot be depended upon, owing to the use of so much metal in the construction of the vessel, we shall retrace our steps to a certain extent. There will probably be wires enough left on the cruisers to furnish all the electric lights needed and perhaps for other purposes, but the wires put in to be used for signaling orders will be taken out, and speaking tubes, which can always be depended upon, put in. We have to learn by experience, just as people do in everything else."

QUARANTINE AGAINST CATTLE.

Governor Brown has issued a proclamation establishing a quarantine against the importation of Southern cattle into Maryland. The purpose of the quarantine is to prevent the introduction of cattle liable to be affected with Texas fever, and it is issued at the request of the live stock sanitary board. Information has been received by the board of the appearance of a number of cases of cattle so affected in different counties. The quarantine is to last until December 15.

SUING A GRAVEYARD.

Mrs. Barbara George has begun a suit in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn against the Cypress Hill Association for $10,000 damages for injuries received by handling some poisonous ivy in the cemetery while visiting the graves of her husband and two children.

In her complaint she says that she visited the lot on June 30 last and was poisoned by handling the ivy, which grew in profusion around it. She avers that she is still suffering from the effects of the ivy. Her lawyer has presented numerous affidavits as to the presence of the poisonous ivy in the cemetery.

A STATEMENT of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company Relief Department for June shows receipts amounting to $32,318 and disbursements of $25,070. For accidental deaths $4,500 were paid out, and for accidental injuries, $4,272; natural sickness, $6,895 and natural deaths, $8,750.

WILLIAM PORTERFELD, a prominent farmer and president of the Williamsport Turnpike Company, died of pneumonia at Martinsburg, W. Va. He was sixty-five years old, and leaves a wife and five children.

BECAUSE of their request for higher wages was refused, 100 weavers in the Givernand Silk Mill struck Wednesday. They were paid five and seven cents per yard, respectively, on French and jacquard looms and demanded ten and twelve cents.

TEN thousand miners were represented at a convention held at Clearfield, Pa., to take steps toward securing an increased wage scale, and while no decision was reached, it is likely there will be a general strike throughout the region.

Two Slick Rascals Sell a Farmer a Bottle of Colored Water for $117.

Two alleged sharpers secured two checks for $75 and $42, respectively, from Isaac O. Swain, who has charge of the large Nathan Trail estate at Piney Grove, Md., twelve miles west of Hancock, for some concoction, which, they said, would cure a cancerous growth with which one of Mr. Swain's household was afflicted. After the men had departed, Mr. Swain perceived that the remedy was nothing but colored water, and he started at once to Hancock to stop the payments of the checks. He aroused the telegraph operator at 3 o'clock in the morning and notified banks in various towns not to honor the checks. Later in the morning while Mr. Swain was at the Hancock Bank, upon which the checks were drawn the men drove up and presented the checks for payment. Mr. Swain protested, and the checks were handed back to the men by him. They then called him on the outside as if they wished to speak to him, but instead, rushed in great haste to their buggy and drove hurriedly away with the checks in their possession. Both men had been in Hancock several days previous, putting up at the Light House. They feign to sell medicine, but are believed to be first-class rascals. One is said to hail from Chestnut street, Philadelphia.—Examiner.

New Coats & Capes.

The latest (established) idea of skilled garment workers are found in our cloak room. The swell sleeves, (mandolin, melon and leg o' mutton) the ripple and coat back, the natty lengths, tailor-made throughout, made from the newest fabrics, Boucle, Wide-wales Chevots, Mohair-knotted, Astrakans, also plain cloths, others may claim as good but they don't show one-tenth as many and not the distinctive something and besides we save you from 50 cts. to $3 on a garment, so that make, out, style, fit and price are right.

Now about the price saving. As every garment we sell is made especially for us, we know whereof we speak when we say that contracts for the cloths were made before we got through with selling last winter's coats and at the lowest prices ever known for woollens. Contracts for the labor (a very important factor) were made, and the garments made as soon as styles were fixed in July, before the rush of the busy season when labor demands and receives the advantage and off-times, we are told, prices that at other times are exorbitant. This foresightedness, or rather keeping ourselves in touch with the foremost manufacturers in these lines enable us, not to make a greater profit, but to place the goods into your hands, (our business principle,) at a much less price than others who have not availed themselves of these early advantages.

We hold the key-note in cloth capes, rough and smooth effect cloths, trimmed and plain. We court the searchlight of ladies' judgment posted on values and styles on our cloak stock. To give you an idea of what we can and will do for you, we compare our last year's prices with this year in both Jackets and Capes.

A Storm at Sea

Increases the discomfort of the voyager. But even when the weather is not tempestuous he is liable to sea sickness. They who traverse the "gigantic wetness" should be provided with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which quiet disordered stomachs with gratifying speed and certainty. To the hurtful influence of a tropic, malarious or too rigorous or damp climate, as well as to the baneful effects of unwholesome diet and bad water, it is a reliable antidote. Commercial travelers by sea or land, mariners, miners, western pioneers, and all who have encountered vicissitudes of climate and temperature, concur in pronouncing it the best safeguard. It prevents rheumatism and pulmonary attacks in consequence of damp and cold, and it is an efficient remedy against all forms of malaria. It can be depended upon in dyspepsia, liver and kidney trouble.

Parish, La., says: "I was lying sick for sometime with female complaints, and all the medicine my friends gave me did me no good. Death was approaching; all my friends had given me up to die. I heard of your wonderful medicine, and I bought two bottles of it, and before I had taken the last, I got entirely well. I am still enjoying good health, and expect to praise your medicine every where I go."

Quite a Patriarch.

Mr. Tighman Grossnickle, residing east of town, found on his farm last Saturday, a turtle, on the shell of which was engraved "E. W. and J. W., 60." It is supposed that it was engraved in the year 1860 by Messrs. Eli and James Weddle, who worked for Mr. Samuel Thomas, who at that time lived on the farm.—Myersville Guide.

The Deadly Barbed Wire Fence.

A couple of thoroughbred colts belonging to Col. Edmund Blunt, which took premiums at the Frederick Fair, ran into a barbed wire fence while being unloaded near Antietam station and three of them were so badly injured that they cannot be exhibited again this season. The others were taken to Hagerstown.

ADAM KENDALL, aged about nineteen years, living near Smithsburg, Washington county, was run over by an east-bound freight train on the Western Maryland Railroad, at Smithsburg, last Saturday afternoon while attempting to board a train. The wheels passed over both legs near the knee. His body fell on the outside of the rail. He was employed as switchmen on the road. He was taken to Baltimore, where he will have his legs amputated.

Don't Want to Be Lynched.

Charles William Wilson, the cook at the Franklin House Hotel, Hagerstown, walked into Mayor M. L. Keedy's office Saturday and demanded that the Frederick county authorities be sent for and take a look him, stating that he was not Charles Wilson, the assassin of Miss Jeans, and wanted to be identified for fear of being lynched by mistake. Officer Brien, of Frederick, arrived and said Wilson was not the assassin.

Democratic Barbecue at Wolfsville.

About one thousand persons were in attendance at the Democratic Barbecue on Saturday last at Wolfsville, this county. One beef, two hogs and two sheep were slaughtered for the occasion. Bread, rolls, cheese and apple butter, together with thirty gallons of good strong coffee, were also on the bill of fare and entirely consumed. To say that all enjoyed the treat does not express it. Prof. Stottlemeyer, of Wolfsville, was master of ceremonies, and after a neat little speech introduced the other orators.—News.

Corn-Field Fire in Montgomery.

Fire got into the corn-field of Mr. James A. Boyd, at Boyd, Montgomery county, Friday evening last, caused by a passing railroad train, and burnt about 500 shocks of fodder. The wind was blowing fiercely at the time, spreading the fire quickly, and before it could be gotten under control had burned over or nearly half the fodder in the field and threatened to destroy the town. It was only by hard efforts of thirty men fighting the fire that it did not entirely consume the dwelling of James A. Ganley. The flames swept right in front of this dwelling and set it on fire, but it was put out by Mr. Ganley and saved by constantly pouring water on the building.

Lights of Other Days.

James H. Anderson, of Williamsport, has in his possession a relic of olden times which is rarely seen nowadays and which is said to be over two hundred years old. It is a reflector for a "Witch." It is of glass, about an inch thick, and measures 18 inches in length and 12 inches in width and is framed like a picture. In colonial times one of the methods of procuring lights in remote neighborhoods was by placing a rag in a saucer full of tallow, allowing the end of the rag to protrude over the edge of the saucer. This was what was called in those days a witch. The end of the rag was lighted by means of a flint, and the reflector was placed behind the saucer, thus giving forth a splendid light. Mr. Anderson has had several good offers for this relic, which is an heirloom, but refuses to part with it. There are very few of them in this country at the present day.

A Highway Robbery.

Nailor road, leading from Anacostia, D. C., into Oxen Hill district, Prince George's county, was the scene of a bold highway robbery Wednesday night of last week, in which Miss Netta Roberts, daughter of Squire Roberts, of Oxen Hill district, and her grandmother, Mrs. Edith Roberts, were the victims. They were driving along this road, just outside of Anacostia, when two negroes suddenly came into the road and at the point of a pistol compelled the ladies to get out of the carriage. They were searched, and fortunately possessed but $1 at the time, which the robbers took. Miss Roberts and her grandmother returned to Anacostia and notified the police, and now a vigorous hunt is being made in the woods near Oxen Hill for the robbers. The ladies were very much frightened, and it was with difficulty that they told their story to the police.

Lutheran Synod.

The Maryland Synod, English Evangelical Lutheran Church, Tuesday concluded its seventy-sixth annual session at Grace Church, Broadway and Gough street, Baltimore.

Considerable discussion arose before the report of the appointment committee was adopted. The General Synod asks the Maryland Synod to raise about $20,000 for the general mission and church funds. This amount is apportioned among the various churches of the State Synod. Objection was made in a number of instances that the apportionment was greater than the congregations could afford to pay. Rev. J. G. Butler, of Washington, said that six churches in Baltimore and Washington having one-seventh of the membership of the synod, paid over one-third of the apportionment of the whole body.

Finally an advisory committee was appointed to confer with the apportionment committee for a readjustment of the assessments before the next apportionment. This committee comprises Revs. J. G. Butler and G. W. Miller and Mr. Henry M. Cowles.

Last year only five of the seventy-nine churches paid none of their apportionments and twenty-five were reported as paying more than their shares. Appointments for speakers at the next meeting of the synod are as follows:

Home Missions—Revs. Charles Reinwald and W. E. Parsons.

Rev. A. Homrighaus was appointed a fraternal delegate to the North American Synod.

The synod accepted an invitation from Rev. T. J. Yost, pastor of St. Paul's Church, Cumberland, to meet at that place next year.

Jail-Breaking and Recapture.

Alexander Ewell, a colored man of Poolesville district, Montgomery county, who is confined in the Rockville jail, awaiting trial in November, on the charge of forgery, made a bold attempt Tuesday morning to regain his liberty. On account of bad behavior he had been confined in a dark cell, the lock of which he managed to break off, and then made a dash for liberty. His escape was immediately discovered by Jailor George C. Burroughs, who grabbing his pistol, was soon in pursuit. One shot sufficed to bring the prisoner to a halt. He was then handcuffed and placed in another cell.

James Edward Stake signed the papers incorporating the Hagerstown and Potomac Electric Railway Company, whose object is to build a street railway in Hagerstown and extensions to suburban towns. The incorporators are Fred. S. Schneider and Edward R. Sponsler, of Hagerstown; Dr. E. A. Wareham, Samuel H. Long, Wyatt M. Keedy and Edward Hoffman, of Hagerstown. The incorporators are the first year's directors, including William Grier and John W. Beers, of Pennsylvania. The capital is $200,000 divided into 4,000 $50 shares.

Plans of the Electric Power Company.

Mr. Powell Evans, representing a Philadelphia syndicate, who was granted last spring the privilege to plant poles and string wires on the streets of Hagerstown and the county roads for the purpose of conveying electric power to Hagerstown and other towns, is in Hagerstown. He said he had about completed all the arrangements necessary to put his plans into operation. He visited dams Nos. 4 and 5, but found the water exceedingly low. If the Potomac will not afford him sufficient water supply in dry times he may build engine-houses.

THE ALUMNI BANQUET.

The following account of the annual banquet of the alumni of Mt. St. Mary's College, which was held at that institution on Wednesday afternoon, is taken from the Baltimore Sun:

The banquet was held in the recently remodeled refectory, and there were, perhaps, more "Mountaineers" assembled than at any like event held at the college for many years. The proverbial good feeling and strong friendships engendered among the students of the grand old institution were everywhere in evidence. The responses to toasts were marked by a sincerity of feeling which won hearty applause.

Rt. Rev. Thomas McGovern, Bishop of Harrisburg, Pa., spoke on the devotion of the "Mountaineers" to their alma mater, and said in his remarks that its very fountain head was in the religious associations inseparably interwoven with these sacred grounds.

Very Rev. P. L. Duffy, LL. D., of Charleston, S. C., responded feelingly to the toast, "Our Alma Mater."

Mr. John J. Rooney, secretary of the Alumni Association for a number of years, responded with "A Word of Thanks."

Rev. Titus Piacentini read a Latin poem dedicated to the Alumni Association.

The students of the college prepared an elaborate programme for the entertainment of the visitors, which included music, a dramatic performance and athletic sports.

Among the many visitors present at the reunion and banquet were: Rt. Rev. Thomas McGovern, Bishop of Harrisburg, Pa.; Rev. Dr. P. J. Garvey, Philadelphia, Pa.; Rev. Dr. P. L. Duffy, Charleston, S. C.; Rev. Michael P. Mahon, Boston, Mass.; Rev. James E. Duffy, East Albany, N. Y.; Rev. John F. Power, Spring Valley, Ill.; Rev. James F. Callaghan, Chicago, Ill.; Rev. P. C.; John B. Lagarde, New Orleans, La.; Thomas H. Kenny, Piedmont, W. Va.; John J. McCloskey, Harrisburg, Pa.; John F. Maloney, Pittsburg, Pa.; Francis P. Guilfoile, Waterbury, Conn.; F. C. McGirr, Pittsburg, Pa.; T. J. Maloney, Pittsburg, Pa.; John W. McAdams, Philadelphia, Pa.; James McGraw, Philadelphia, Pa.; Joseph Gallagher, Philadelphia, Pa.; M. F. Dunn, M. Yesterday afternoon a game of football was played on the College grounds between the Mt. St. Mary's team and the Warren Athletic Club, of Wilmington, Dela. The game was quite interesting from start to finish and was witnessed by a large number of persons. The game was hotly contested and ended in a draw, the score being 4 to 4.

Hagerstown Fair.

The Washington county fair, which opened at the grounds, in Hagerstown, Tuesday, was attended by about 6,000 people. The show is good in all its departments, and the racing first rate. It is estimated that the cattle exhibits are worth in the aggregate $100,000, and nothing like it has ever been seen there before.

The exhibit of horses, sheep, swine, poultry, cereal and vegetable products, house and dairy industries are all large. The Hagerstown fair has long been noted for its poultry show. This year the exhibit is fully up to the highest notch.

The Ada Rehan silver statue, which stood in the Montana exhibit at the World's Fair, arrived and has been placed on exhibition. The sum of $400 was paid for its use for four days. The express charge from Reading, Pa., was $60.

The second day of the Hagerstown fair was attended by about 10,000 people from all directions.

The Hagerstown fair time is a period which many people take advantage of and get married. Clerk of the Court Oswald issued about twenty-five marriage licenses Wednesday to couples chiefly from the Virginias and Pennsylvania. He ran out of certificates and had to telegraph for more for Thursday when a big rush in this line is expected.

In the poultry show over 5,000 fowls are on exhibition. The entries number 4,721. Fanciers are present with their exhibits from a dozen States. Judge George O. Brown, an expert, says the show is the best he has ever seen, and he has attended all the principal poultry shows.

The exhibit of bananas is extremely fine. The exhibit of ornamental birds and aquatic fowls is very fine. Over 500 pigeons are shown. Rabbits, squirrels, raccoons, spotted rats, guinea-pigs, Abyssinian hogs and a number of pet animals are also exhibited. Buff Brahms and Buff Plymouth Rocks are new varieties. Gardner Olivea, of Newark, Del., has a pair of bronze guinea-fowls, the first, he says, ever exhibited in this State.

OUR LETTER FROM FREDERICK.

FREDERICK, Oct. 16.—The great Frederick Fair of 1895 closed on Friday evening, Oct. 11. In point of numbers in attendance and in receipts, the fair was a decided success. A conservative estimate places the attendance on Thursday at 8,000 or 10,000 and on Friday at 3,000. The receipts from all sources will perhaps aggregate $10,000.

The balloon ascension on Thursday was highly interesting. As the big inflated air-bag left its moorings and shot upward, in addition to aeronaut in charge, a black dog was seen wriggling and struggling at the end of a long rope attached to the balloon. The spectators were of opinion that a new means had been devised to get rid of a worthless dog and expected every moment to see the animal wriggle out of its fastenings and fall violently to the ground, dead. But when the balloon had reached the height of about 400 yards, suddenly the dog shot downward attached to a small parachute, and instead of falling to certain death, settled down as gently to earth as a feather from an eagle in its flight. When the balloon had ascended to the height of about half a mile, the aeronaut also came down in a larger parachute, and soon man and dog were safe on terra firma. The balloon itself collapsed soon after and fell to the ground like any empty sack. The aeronaut reached the earth about a quarter of a mile north of the fair grounds in an open field.

The same day the 2.20 class trotting race was won by Carlos de Garmendia's Monocacy, in three straight heats. Time, 2:20; 2:22 and 2:25. Mr. de Garmendia has a fine stock farm in this county near Tuscarora station on the B. & O. R. R.

S. E. Earing, of Cumberland won the 2.30 class pacing race, with his pacer, Oscar.

G. W. Smith's Laertes won the 2.45 class, trotting race, and Gypsy owned by Winter Owens, Westminster won the running race.

Special guests of the day were Hon. Lloyd Lowndes, republican candidate for Governor; Harry M. Clabaugh, republican candidate for Attorney General; James B. Henderson, democratic candidate for associate judge, and Guion Miller, republican candidate for the same office.

Gen. James C. Clarke, of Mobile, Alabama, was also one of the distinguished guests present, besides the president and other officers of the Hagerstown Fair. All of these were entertained by the society at lunch.

On Friday afternoon the work of removing stock and articles was begun and by Saturday noon very little remained.

During Fair week B. T. Babbitt, the soap manufacturer, gave nightly exhibitions of magnificent Stereopticon views at court square. Hundreds of persons assembled each evening to witness the beautiful pictures which were thrown on an upright canvas erected in the square.

The ubiquitous Chas. Wilson is again reported to have been seen at numerous places about the same time. One report is that he is living with a relative near Smithburg in Washington county, another that he is hiding at Jugtown, and still another that he is at Hagerstown. While persons in the neighborhood of Shepherdstown, in West Virginia, are keeping a sharp lookout for him there. The county commissioners have increased the reward for his capture to $500.00.

Geo. W. Heinlein, teller in the Franklin Savings Bank, of this city, and Miss Bertha Gill, daughter of Rev. A. J. Gill, formerly of Frederick, were married in Baltimore to-day, Oct. 16. They will reside in Frederick.

The very low temperature of Friday night of last week has put an end to the growth of vegetation for this year.

Flowers which bloom late in autumn were frozen in the bud. Mr. H. C. Keefer who raises beautiful chrysanthemums had his entire stock killed by the frost. The thermometer register but 20 degrees which is unusual for the time of year.

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

An attempt was made to wreck the valley train on Saturday night just east of Gettysburg. The train reached that place about 8 p. m., and struck something upon the track, which was felt by the engineer. The train proceeded to Washington Grove, and it was there discovered that the cowcatcher had been wrecked. Agent Hill started out to find what the train had struck and found appearance of an attempt to wreck the train. Information was thereupon wired to Washington. On a later train a Baltimore and Ohio detective arrived,
