

A STATE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The bill appropriating $10,000 annually for a geological survey of the State of Maryland passed the House of Delegates Tuesday.

When the bill came up for final action Mr. Ford asked for information as to whether the result of the work would compensate the people for the large expenditure.

Mr. Birnie replied that it was the object of the proposed survey not only to study and make generally known the geological formation and characteristics of the State but to develop industries that must prove of great value.

Mr. Applegate, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Bankard also spoke in favor of the bill, Mr. Johnson saying that he had been prejudiced against it until he had been present at a hearing of professors of Johns Hopkins University and business men of Baltimore, who had convinced him of the advisability of the movement.

OHIO'S BLACK SNOW.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Prof. Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau, said today that the black snow, which fell in Chicago on Tuesday was similar to a fall of the same kind in January of last year, which was thoroughly investigated by the weather bureau at that time.

"Microscopic examination," said Mr. Moore, "proved that the black deposit contained about 4 per cent. of the most delicate organic structures, such as diatoms and spores, and about 96 per cent. of the finest possible inorganic matter, such as makes up the ordinary fine silt and clay soils."

"It is reported that the north pole has, at last, been found, and that that honor rests upon Dr. Nansen, the Norwegian explorer, who started for the arctic regions in 1893, in a vessel built for that purpose, named Fram."

ATTACKED WHILE ASLEEP.

Sunday morning before day, George Bivans, colored, who lives on a canal boat at Williamsport, while asleep, was aroused by pistol shots and narrowly escaped the deadly bullets.

Three men had broken into the boat and Bivans grappled one of the assailants and threw him down and then rushed out upon the bank of the canal hotly pursued by the men, who fired several more shots at him while he ran like a deer.

BANK ROBBED IN DAYTIME.

Three masked men entered Market Street Bank, a small institution in the Spreckels building, in San Francisco, Cal., shortly after 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and ordered Cashier Hopkins and Bookkeeper Hayhurst to throw up their hands.

REMEMBERED BY HER LOVER.

J. Breathed Deleplane, of Hancock, died last year in New York city, and left an estate, including a $19,000 life insurance policy, $1,000 of which he left to his affianced, Miss Katie T. Henderson, of Hancock.

THE NORTH POLE FOUND.

It is reported that the north pole has, at last, been found, and that that honor rests upon Dr. Nansen, the Norwegian explorer, who started for the arctic regions in 1893, in a vessel built for that purpose, named Fram.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17th.—Speaker Reed's reputation as a Congressional prophet has been greatly enhanced by recent occurrences in both Senate and House. It will be remembered that he said when Congress first met that this session would pass no important legislation outside of the regular appropriation bills.

So far as financial legislation is concerned, the House and the Senate are in a deadlock, the latter for free coinage and the former against it, to the tune of 215 to 90. It looks like it would be the same with the tariff bill, since four of the silver republican Senators bolted the caucus decree and voted against taking up the tariff bill.

One of the strongest speeches made in the House in favor of free coinage was that of Ex-Speaker Crisp, but it received little praise from the older silver men, who have never forgiven Mr. Crisp for the non-action of the House on the Silver question in the fifty-third Congress.

"Nothing venture, nothing have."

Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement. "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."

It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and is worth its weight in gold. I can use Ely's Cream Balm with safety and it does all that is claimed for it.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

A Farmer Terribly Injured. Ezra Nally, one of the wealthiest and most prominent farmers in Washington county, living in what is known as "The Neck," about three miles below Williamsport, met with a terrible accident on Sunday afternoon. While in his barn attending to his horses he was suddenly taken with vertigo, from which he has been a sufferer for many years, and fell directly under a young and mettlesome horse. The animal becoming frightened trampled upon him, completely mashing his nose, knocking all his front teeth out and one of his eyes balls from the socket, severely lacerating his chin and cheeks and badly injuring his body in several places before assistance could reach him. Dr. Victor M. Reichardt, the physician in attendance, pronounced Mr. Nally's condition a critical one. He stated that he had great hope of his recovery, but that he would carry ugly scars for the balance of his life. He owns several fine farms in the immediate vicinity of Williamsport.

Red Men of Maryland. The forty-eighth annual meeting of the Great Council of the State of Maryland, Improved Order Red Men, was begun Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, in Red Men's Hall, North Paca street, between Fayette and Lexington, Baltimore. Mr. Julian Brewer, of Annapolis, great senior sagamore, presided in the absence of Mr. E. P. Steffey, great sachem, who was prevented from being present on account of sickness. Another meeting was held at night.

The reading of the reports of the various officers and standing committees took up the time of the afternoon meeting, and action was taken upon them at the night session. There are at present sixty-two tribes in the State, with a total membership of 3,988. Four hundred and sixty-two new members were admitted during the year. The receipts during the year amounted to $30,874.21, and $15,716.02 was expended for the relief of members.

How many suicides, think you, reader, have been committed by persons driven distraught and hunted to their doom by the demon of chronic ill health? Countless. For instance, we know, do we not, that hypochondriac is a monomania—a sort of minor madness produced by chronic dyspepsia? Again, insomnia, or sleeplessness, often a result of the same cause, eliminates in a derangement of the reasoning faculties. It is, therefore, of momentous consequence to prevent the arrival of disease at its chronic phase, when it daily and nightly scourges the sufferer to a dangerous uncertainty of goal. No medicine known to science, as a means of arresting the maladies to which it is adapted, exerts so prompt and certain a remedy as Chamberlain's Stomach Bitters. Among these complaints are chronic indigestion and insomnia, kidney and rheumatic ailments, constipation and liver trouble. Appetite is improved by the Bitters, the blood purified, the bodily substance and vigor increased by it.

"Yellow Tea" Party Communicated. Mrs. A. A. Hack entertained in a delightful manner her many friends at a "Yellow Tea," February the 18th, from four to six. The large parlor and hall were brilliantly lighted with banquet lamps and numerous wax tapers with yellow shades.

A dainty tea-table, in yellow and white, was set in the doorway, from which were dispensed sandwiches, salad, ice cream, meringues water-ice, wafers, chocolate mints, and raisins filled with almonds. Miss Annie McBride poured tea. The gentlemen of the household were present, as well as Eleanor, Mrs. Hack's little daughter, who assisted the hostess in kind hospitality to all. The pleasantly heated rooms, sweet perfume of flowers, and pretty new gowns made such a bright scene, one forgot winter was here in all its severity.

Crushed by a Tree. While Mr. Rufus W. Hesson was superintending the sawing of timber in a grove on his farm, about three miles from Silver Run, in Meyers district, Carroll county, Saturday afternoon, a tree in falling struck against another, deflecting it in such a manner that Mr. Hesson was caught under and crushed to death. A warning cry was given him but it is supposed that the glare of the sun blinded him as he looked up and prevented him from moving in the right direction. Death was instantaneous, the tree striking him on the shoulder and back. One leg was broken, but the body was not much mangled. Mr. Hesson was about fifty years old, and leaves a widow and several children. He was a member of St. Mary's Reformed Church, Silver Run, a Republican and a successful farmer.

Lenten Devotions, St. Joseph's Church, Emmitsburg, Md. On Wednesday evenings during Lent, at 7 o'clock, Rev. E. J. Lefevre, C. M., will give a series of Instructions on Catholic doctrine. Catholics and Non-Catholics are equally invited to attend. The following are the subjects:

- 1, The knowledge of the Truths necessary for Salvation.
- 2, The sweet Sacrament of Reconciliation.
- 3, The Acknowledgment of wrong-doings.
- 4, True sorrow for sin.
- 5, The way of Penance or satisfaction for sin.

On Friday evenings at the same hour, "The Stations of the Cross" will be made. The Benediction of the most Blessed Sacrament will conclude the evening services.

To Sell the Road. It is stated upon good authority that foreclose proceedings instituted last year by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to dispose of the Frederick division have reached a culminating point and that counsel in this city are already engaged in preparing advertising matter for the sale of the road some time in May. It is understood that the city authorities will abandon their idea of investigating the finances of the road. The general impression prevails that the Pennsylvania Company will buy in the future as other than a leased line, will greatly improve its service and perhaps extend it to Washington—Frederick News.

Death of a Former Resident. Mr. Frederick Biggs, who made his home at Montevue Hospital, for the past several years, and a former resident of this community, died at that institution, at 10 o'clock, on Thursday morning of last week. He was stricken with paralysis on the Tuesday preceding, which was the ultimate cause of his death. In early life Mr. Biggs taught school. The deceased was seventy-eight years old. His remains were buried in the Tom's Creek Cemetery, in this district, on Saturday afternoon, Rev. H. Mann conducted the services.

Rev. J. H. Barb, of Thurmont, on Sunday last preached a parting sermon at Rocky Ridge. Owing to the bad roads, rain and snow falling, the church was not well filled. The choir as usual opened with an anthem, "O Morning Land," followed by a hymn. The text was from Phillipians, 4th chapter, 8th verse. The choir sang during the offering, "God be with you." Then the hymn, "Christians and brethren ere we part," was sung. After the services the good-byes were given with regrets and tears. We wish him success in the future as he has been in the past eight years with this charge.

Our Public Schools. The twenty-ninth annual report of the State Board of Education was submitted to the Governor on Wednesday, and is a volume of nearly 300 pages, devoted principally to statistics of the schools of the State, with reports from county secretaries and reports of meetings of the board. The following figures give a summary of the Frederick County Schools: Number of schools, 171; number of teachers, 227; average yearly salaries of teachers, $248; number of pupils, 10,353; cost of pupil, $7.24.

A Beautiful and Brilliant Girl. Beauty, robust health, social graces, and all that makes life bright was rapidly fading from the possession of the charming Miss K., of Bacon street. Her nearest friends could not imagine what caused the tokens of anguish that furrowed o'er the once smooth and rosyate countenance. When almost in despair, she happened to see one of those "horrid newspaper advertisements" of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Remedy, which said it was a remedy suitable for her case. Without consulting her physician or anybody else she got the medicine of a druggist, took it, and in three months' time she was well of all her troubles. All pains had ceased, she was bright again, and shortly resumed her place as leader of her chosen circle. Her experience is that of thousands. Why may it not be yours?

Surprise Parties. On last Friday evening, Feb. 14, a very pleasant surprise party was given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Baker. Surprise parties are all the go now, but the surprise generally is for the guests to find the recipients waiting for their arrivals, but this was of a different kind. When they arrived they were so surprised they hardly knew what to do, but, after recovering a little the doors were thrown open and the guests were cordially welcomed, and an enjoyable time followed. Games of various kinds, vocal and instrumental music were the amusements of the evening, but this was not all, at 11 o'clock the guests were invited to the dining-room where an abundance of refreshments were served. At an appropriate hour the visitors bid a good-night and the soiree was a thing of the past, but something to remain for sometime in the memory of all present. A GUEST.

A very enjoyable time was spent at the residence of Mrs. Fannie Lambert on last Monday evening. It being an entire surprise. After all had indulged in amusements of different kinds, the guests were invited to the dining-room where a table was laden with all the delicacies of the season. Those present were, Mr. W. Black, Mrs. Fannie Lambert, Miss Annie Kelley, Mr. N. Baker and wife, Mr. Philip Lawrence and wife, Mr. Starner and wife, Mrs. John Seabold and son, Allen, Mrs. Philip Snuffer, David Geiss, Carrie Eckenrode, Sallie Lawrence, Alice and Bernard Baker. A GUEST.

Strong and Well. FOUNTAIN MILLS, Md., Feb. 3 1896.—I have been using Hood's Sarsaparilla for some time. I tried doctors in this vicinity but they did not do me any good. I have taken eight bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and now I am strong and well. C. E. Davis.

Hood's Pills are especially prepared to be taken with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

LEADERS OF MEN. These must keep control of themselves. This is the secret of their power.

How shall they best do this in our day? By total abstinence from intoxicating drinks.

Is this my theory? No. I knew a young man in New York years ago, a loafer, a rough, and the leader of a gang.

He wouldn't obey his poor ignorant immigrant parents. Ran the streets instead of going to school, and so grew up to be a man without knowing even how to write his name.

He was a rough, a tough, a hoodlum, a hobo, or whatever else you may like to call him. On one of my earliest calls I heard a dying man tell the coroner how the one I speak of had been a leader in the crowd at whose hand he received the fatal blow.

Yet this disreputable fellow, this worthless young citizen of New York, had so large a following that the Tiger took him up as soon as he came of age and nominated him for sheriff. They had to do it, else he would have started a party of his own.

The servile followers of the Tiger voted for the candidate, of course—one of them told me he would vote for the old boy himself if the Tiger nominated the latter—and he entered into a salary of $250,000 a year. When he was elected he learned to sign his name, and got his father a job as park-policeman.

How did this man get so great influence? He represents the masses, and he has been found against the Dehoffs, two young men who are charged with attempting an assault on a young lady near New Market.

You know him. He used to "run with the machine," like Bill Tweed. He reached political eminence by aid of the brawny arms of the great unwashed. He represents the masses, and he has been found against the Dehoffs, two young men who are charged with attempting an assault on a young lady near New Market.

You would imagine that he was talking for himself. He never touches liquor. He bosses those who do, but knows the need of a cool head and steady nerve himself.

O how long will the boys and young men of America take to learn this lesson? How long will they be content to play the hope for these leaders? Why don't they rise up and say: "I'll be sheriff myself! I'll be a senator of the United States!"

I was talking the other day with some very estimable gentlemen of the noble German race, who were passed around. I preferred water.

In spite of their courtesy, one of them was somewhat nettled, and switched off on Total Abstinence. I wasn't nettled at all at his taking her, you see, but those prattlers about "Personal Liberty" are somehow can't other people drink what they please. He spoke of the need certain races have of beer, of the absurdity of trying to interfere with nature, of the greatness of the Fatherland, etc.

"Yes," I said to him as I was to be cornered and alone as I was "but when the Fatherland wanted to conquer France, she had to request a Total Abstinence, 70 years of age, to lead her armies. And the most brilliant campaigns of all the ages were planned and initiated by his cool, clear head. Von Moltke died three years ago, at 92."

I felt sorry, especially as a guest. It was cruel on my part, but I felt bound to defend myself. The worm will turn. So I began to argue. I said that we college professors felt that we should train the boys entrusted to us. This was only to be done by example, hence our abstinence. Especially we priests whom Leo XIII, in his letter of March 8th had exhorted to "shine as models of abstinence." (Quasi in SS.)

As soon as my host got to his feet he said: "Yes, I believe in total abstinence for boys at college."

"I was well he said so, for his own boy, sixteen years of age, was present there with his mother. He was just home for the Christmas holidays, and neither he nor his mother had taken any beer."

What are you people of Emmitsburg going to do about it?

If you want your boys to be leaders of men, if God has given them the capacity? To be men at any rate, not slaves of their animal appetites? See to it. EDWARD MCSWEENEY.

OUR LETTER FROM FREDERICK. $150.00 Slender Case.—Slapped His Face and Will Have to Pay $100.00 for His Fair-Other Court Proceedings.—Death of Joseph Cronise.

FREDERICK, Feb. 19.—The jury in the case of Eleven T. Brady vs. Jacob B. Kline, an action to recover damages for alleged slander, brought in a verdict in favor of plaintiff for $150.00. The alleged slander consisted in Mr. Kline's saying of Brady that he could send Brady down the road, that Brady had signed his (Kline's) name to two papers. These words by standers interpreted to mean that Kline could send Brady to prison for forging his name, hence as the truth of the alleged forgery could not be proved the words were slanderous and the jury found for plaintiff as above stated. The parties are both highly respectable farmers from the neighborhood of Adamstown, and the suit and consequent publicity of the unfortunate affair has caused regret among their friends.

On Monday the court was occupied hearing an action for damages for assault and battery.

The parties were Charles J. Little, a justice of the peace of Jefferson, plaintiff, against Samuel Culler, a farmer of the same locality. Little charged that Culler assaulted and beat him, slapped his face and caused his nose to bleed.

The suit was brought by Little in his private capacity, and the jury after hearing the evidence and the argument of counsel brought in a verdict for plaintiff of $250.00. Mansly for Plaintiff; Motter for Defendant.

On Tuesday the last important case on the trial docket in which a large number of witnesses had been summoned was taken up, but before the jury was sworn a settlement was effected out of court and the witnesses discharged from further attendance.

Thus the trial docket came to a sudden termination.

The criminal docket will be taken up on Thursday and may consume several days.

The grand jury has been in session for 14 days and will probably complete its labors today and be discharged. It is understood that true bills have been found against the Dehoffs, two young men who are charged with attempting an assault on a young lady near New Market.

The court in his charge to the grand jury directed attention to the launching of James Bowers during last fall and requested that body to investigate the same and if possible to bring to trial all those participating in that unlawful hanging.

William H. Hinks, the new state's attorney, will have charge of the criminal docket at this term, for the first time. From his well-known methodical habits, it is not expected that the new prosecuting attorney will leave many flaws in his indictments, and thus it is hoped that few criminals will go unwhipped of justice.

A party of young gentlemen will leave here tomorrow in the private car of James C. Clark, Esq., and go to Mobile and thence to San Francisco. In the party will be Charles H. Bonner, president of the Central National Bank, of this city; Col. L. V. Baughman, ex-Comptroller of the Treasury; Col. D. C. Wieniebre, the merchant; and Messrs. Charles H. Baughman and Lewis S. Glogan, and others. The party will be gone about a month.

Mr. Clark is president of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, with headquarters at Mobile, and no doubt every facility of the railroad lines will be accorded his guests from Frederick, to which place he is very warmly attached.

The sudden cold spell for the past few days has caused much suffering among the poor. The thermometer Monday morning was 9° and Tuesday morning 8° above zero. In New York State it is reported to be 40° below zero, a degree of cold that could scarcely be borne in this latitude.

To-day has been one of sunshine, clouds, winds, cold and snow. The cold not being so intense as on Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. Joseph Cronise, an old and respected citizen of Frederick, and for many years president of the Fredericktown Savings Institution, died at his home on West Patrick street, this morning about 8.15 o'clock. He was 83 years of age, nearly blind, and had been born March 10, 1823. His wife died in 1894. He leaves two sons, J. Calvin Cronise, of Harmony Grove, and Chas. L. Cronise, of Frederick, and three daughters, Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. R. H. Bonnerman, of near Buckleystown, and Miss Lillio Cronise, who resided with her father. The cause of his death was general debility.

It is probable that Judge Lynch, who is now a director in the Savings Institution, will be made its president in place of Mr. Cronise, deceased.

GREEN MOUNT HAPPENINGS. GREEN MOUNT, Pa., Feb. 10.—Mr. Levi Snyder has returned home from a visit to Harney, Md.

On the 14th inst., Mr. Robert Withers and Miss Elsie Guinn, both of this vicinity, were married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Guinn, Rev. Steuart, of Littlestown, performed the ceremony. After a sumptuous dinner, the bride and groom left on a wedding tour.

Mr. W. W. Ferring is nursing a sore finger, the result of a felon.

Mrs. B. F. Baker planted some corn in a box in the house, which is up and growing nicely. The corn is now over six inches high.

Miss Juana Rhonlaugh is spending some time with her brother, Mr. Aaron Rhonlaugh, of near this place.

It is reported that "spooks" inhabit a vacant house near this place, contrary to the wishes of the neighbors, as they are not pleased with the conduct usually made by spooks.

A Surprise Party was given at the home of Mrs. Liza Kemper, recently, in honor of Miss Mary Kemper, of Hanover, who is spending some time at home. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing games and dancing. After a hearty repast, and wishing the hostess many more such pleasant events, the guests returned to their homes.

Mr. Cyrus Livingood and wife have returned home from a visit to Sinking, Berks county.

Everybody had a hustle on yesterday. It was election day, but the voters were not as numerous as was expected. The correct results is not known at this writing.

A CARBON pigeon stopped at the home of Mr. John Overholser, in Liberty township, one day last week. It was in a bad condition when it arrived there, and although it was well cared for, it died a few days later. One of its legs was a band bearing the initials, "W. F.," and the figures "94," and "3303."

LITTLESTOWN, PA. ITEMS. LITTLESTOWN, Feb. 19.—Mr. J. Mc. C. Foreman, who has been in Liberty township, one day last week. It was in a bad condition when it arrived there, and although it was well cared for, it died a few days later. One of its legs was a band bearing the initials, "W. F.," and the figures "94," and "3303."

Sunday morning the members of St. Paul's Lutheran church, of this place, held a farewell service. One of their members, Miss Bertha Lehner, leaving to assume the duties of a Deaconess at the Mother House of Deaconesses at Baltimore. Miss Mehring will leave Thursday morning and will be accompanied by her pastor, Rev. E. E. Blint.

Miss Eva Sanders is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. H. Kline, of Hanover.

Mr. J. Aug. Shorb, of Hagerstown, is the guest of Very Rev. T. J. Croty. The oyster supper and leap year party given by the ladies of St. Aloysius' church, for the benefit of the Parochial School, attached to the church, was a decided success. They cleared about one hundred dollars. Music was furnished by a select orchestra.

The Lutheran Mite Society will hold a birthday social in the Engine House Saturday, Feb. 22nd. The Party Orchestra will furnish the music and all are invited to attend.

Miss Marie Melchior spent several days at Mt. St. Mary's College last week, being called there by the illness of her brother, Mr. John Melchior, who is a student at that college.

Miss Bertha Livers entertained a few of her friends Tuesday evening at her residence on Lombard St.

Miss Emma Sheeler, of Westminster, is the guest of Miss Ann Hoff.

L. M. Allen spent a few days at his home in this place, during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Eckenrode, of Taneytown, were among the out of town guests who attended the dance in Mehring's Hall, Monday evening.

Grand Success. The dance at the Emmitt House on Monday night was a grand success, being the largest ever held at that well-known hostelry. There were young people present from Fairfield, Frederick, Annand, Middleburg, Wm. Schaeffer, Brunswick, Charles H. Oster, The Mount; Millard F. Leather, Urbana; Geo. W. Foutz, Burkettsville.

OUR LETTER FROM FREDERICK. $150.00 Slender Case.—Slapped His Face and Will Have to Pay $100.00 for

CHEFS OF NEW YORK.

Important Personages in Clubs—Valuable Wives Who Are Cooks.

Cooks were men of high pay and much distinction in old Greek days, and they have come to be persons of consideration in modern New York.

Nearly all clubs and considerable hotels have French cooks, male, of course, though it is usual in small clubs to employ as second cook a woman.

One finds in some of the smaller French restaurants a woman cook, perhaps the wife of the proprietor, a tireless creature who labors late and early and manages by her peculiar gift to confer a special reputation upon the place.

A pleasing feature of a restaurant that has now, alas, deserted the old French quarter for the new was the occasional presence of the cook, clad all in white, his paper hat on his head, in the dining room among the guests.

Like Huxley, his English prototype, Vogt was also an admirable lecturer. Vogt never allowed the opportunity of a pun to escape him, and his bonnets were at times hardly more elegant than they were appropriate, but for all that, he was very popular, and equally so with the few women students of his class as with the men.

The Crocks, notwithstanding their genius in other matters, having only a glimmering of the use of the arch, could not construct bridges of any size.

"Why do you take such pains to look like an Englishman?" "So that I shall not have to be polite."—New York Times.

HIRAM, KING OF TYRE.

The Phenician Monarch and His Effort to Imitate the Deity.

Hiram, the Phenician monarch, strove to imitate God by erecting four mighty pillars, upon which he caused seven heavens (apartments) to be built.

Hiram, imitating the royal splendor of the court of King Solomon, surrounded himself by the grandest conceivable display of magnificence.

The prophet Ezekiel was ordered to appear before Hiram, who, at a loss as to how to reach the seven heavens wherein the monarch presided, was transported into his castle by "the locks of his hair."

"Because thou didst supply the cedars for Solomon's temple? This puts me in mind of a subject who prepared a splendid garment for his sovereign, and as often as the servant gazed at the glorious piece of work he boastedly asserted, 'This is my manufacture, until the king, observing his vanity, tore it off in disgust.

M. Alexandre Dumas has left two unpublished comedies, "La Route to Thebes" and "La Troublante." It is now known, however, that neither will ever see the light.

It was remarkable to see how the plumage of the birds gradually changed into lighter and lighter colors as we drew southward, altering with the colors of the surroundings.

Among a lot of fresh air fund children sent to the seaside one summer was one poor little waif who did not join in the other children's games, but was found alone down on the rocks surveying the ocean.

A country farmer once excused himself for sleeping under the rector's sermons by observing, "Lor, sir, when you are in the pulpit, we know it is all right!"—London Standard.

A REMINISCENCE.

How Two Prisoners Used Their Brains to Save Their Heads.

The following is an incident of reconstruction days. Captain Rubo Clark and his lieutenant, Reynolds, guerrillas, were cast into prison, sentenced to be shot.

Clark's friends finally secured his release and hurried him out of Knoxville. Two entered a carriage with him—two of his old soldiers—and drove toward the mountains as hard as possible in the dead of night.

"Poor, poor fellow," he said, leaning over the lieutenant to stroke his forehead. A tear came in his eye as he looked at the wreck of his faithful officer.

"It's all right, Reynolds; this is the captain," he whispered. Reynolds tore off the blanket, sprang up with a glad cry, and threw his arms around Clark's neck.

"That is a likeness of my friend who has just left us," said Clark coolly. "His name is"— "Reynolds!" shouted the officer. "I've got the wrong man!" Well, Reynolds was never caught. He is living in Memphis today, I believe, and has grown rich. Clark is rich, too, but that long term in the iron cage affected his mind, and he is the most absentminded man in America.

It is a curious thing to say perhaps, but it is true that some men are born a glass too low. Their nerves are finely strung; they are easily raised to joy and easily cast down. These men or women are very apt to become drunkards.

To prepare salted almonds blanch them by pouring boiling water over them and rubbing the brown skin off with a rough cloth. When they are blanched and quite dry, measure them, and over each cupful of nuts pour a tablespoonful of the best olive oil.

In 1768 27,000,000 quills were shipped from Russia and Poland to England, to say nothing of those which were sent to other countries.

BUSY VESUVIUS.

Showers of Lava Are Increasing the Mountain's Height.

Year after year and century after century Vesuvius puffs away. The first recorded eruption of Vesuvius was in 79 A. D., when Pompeii and Herculaneum were overwhelmed.

The last destructive eruption was on April 26, 1872, when about 50 sightseers were killed and more than 40,000 people fled from Naples. Of the present condition of the ominous monster the Paris Herald says: Vesuvius is 150 feet higher than it was nine months ago.

There was, indeed, a general belief that the renewed and growing activity of the volcano would lead to some sort of eruption, but it was hoped that it would be nothing more serious than a flow of lava down over the old and hardened beds.

"Do you ever expect to marry your ideal?" "What, and destroy him? Nit." And the woman who knew what she was doing laughed lightly.

The factory for its manufacture is a very simple affair, consisting of a long, low wooden building through the whole length of which run double rows of gas pipe eight or ten inches apart. These have either holes drilled in them every 10 or 12 inches or small tips, such as are used in house jets, set in at about the same distances and from which the gas burns.

When the car is full, it is emptied into a large trough, and the black, which is somewhat damp, is taken to the drier, a broad, shallow pan with a fire beneath. When dry, the lumps are crushed. The substance is then bolted or sifted, coming out as fine as flour, and is finally packed in barrels lined with paper bags to prevent sifting out.

The product is almost pure carbon of an intense black and very light. A barrel of it packed under a screw weighs only 50 pounds.

Besides being used in inks carbon black enters into the composition of black paints, varnishes and lacquers, gives brilliancy to stove polishes and forms the body of the best shoe-black.

A Tongue Twister.

Try it yourself, very slowly and carefully, until you can say it easily; then pass it along to your friends.

"She stood at the gate, welcoming him in." Ten to one a person trying to pronounce the sentence for the first time will fumble it laughably.

Several substances, whose odor is to western nostrils exceedingly repugnant, are highly esteemed in the east as perfumes. In Persia and Afghanistan, asfetida is considered a delicate perfume, and many luxurious persons carry a quantity of it in their pockets or in a bag suspended from the neck.

Not an expectation. "Do you ever expect to marry your ideal?" "What, and destroy him? Nit." And the woman who knew what she was doing laughed lightly.
