OTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine? Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons? Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed? Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle? Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined? Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Czstoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The arrangement has received the approval of the President. Two changes have been made in the existing arrangement system. in order to meet the present and possible future necessities. The end starin the bottom row is placed at the beginning of the fifth row and State admitted to the Union is placed at the left or beginning of the third row. The effect of these changes is that the first, third and fifth rows contain eight stars each and the second, fourth and sixth rows contain seven stars each, making forty-five in all. Three additional stars that may eventually be required for the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma can be placed at the end of the second, fourth and sixth rows, respectively, without requiring any further change in the design as now adopted.

The beautiful city of Turin was the first of the fair cities of Italy that appeared before us. Situated on a fertile plain on the river Po, it commands an extensive view of the whole chain of the Alpine heights by which it is surrounded. Turin is first mentioned in history in the time of Hannibal, by whom it was taken and sacked; it became a Roman colony in 166 B. C.; on the fall of the Empire it became the capital of one of the Lombardy duchies, then it passed successively to Charlemagne, to the Marquises of Susa, and to the Princes of Savoy, who made it the capital of their States. It was taken by the French in 1506, and in 1640 and again reoccupied by them in 1800, but in 1815 it was finally restored to the House of Savoy. ## THE CUBAN RESOLUTIONS.

THE CUBAN RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Editor.—It is gratifying to see that the great common sense of the people and the peculiar spirit of American fair play will yet have the upper hand over the Cuban muddle. In the words of Senater Hoar, Congress is beginning to find out that "the President is the only power capable of making treaties and recognizing belligerents." The very principle we wished to establish in our last week's correspondence.

Now, another thing the people should be made to understand. A proclamation of neutrality does not imply recognition of a people struggling for independence. When Spain, Great Britain and France issued in the beginning of the war between the States proclamations of neutrality, which some call recognition, these persons did not give the confederate states any antonomic countenance—that is did not admit their right to self-government; but they merely warned their own subjects "to observe a strict neutrality during the hostilities between the contending parties. Many believe that Spain recognized the confederacy. It never did—no more than Great Britain—whatever may have been the desire and policy of Napoleon III in that particular. Mr. Mason in England, Mr. Stidell in France and Mr. Rost in Spain never obtained recognition for the Confederate States. Then again, Mr. Editor, the United States since 1795 is the champion of nonintervention in the conflict between nations. This has been the principle of our government since its organization and it is made a cardinal point in our treaty—the Treaty of Washington, 1870—which grew out of the depredations of the Alabama on the commerce of the United States. The trouble seems to be that, with the exception of men like Hale, Hoar, Caffrey and White, some our Senators are either not versed in international law, or they choose to ignore its mandates the more servicely truckle to unworthy party schemes.

the more servilely truckle to unworthy party schemes.

And finally, even though the President recognized Cuban independence and called on Congress for an appropriation to enable him to establish relations with the new government, the people of the United States could not sell to the new government ships, or furnish any article so called contraband of war; nor yet could the United States government allow recruiting for the army of the Independent Government to go on within our territory. The principle of the United States government is peculiar in this matter. Our country is the champion of non-intervention. We may shed tears at other people's funeral, but we mind our own business for all that.

So, in the end, belligerent rights—wrongly so called—strict neutrality is the right name—accorded by President Cleveland to the Cuban Insurgents, might be full "of sound" and a due share of "fury" but practically, it would "signify nothing."

WILKES BOOTH'S DOUBLE.

A Richmond Preacher's Startling Likeness to the Assassin of Lincoln.

From a romantic point of view the the old Monumental church at Rich- says: mond, Va, is the photograph of Wilkes Booth's double. It hangs in vestry room, and represents a man in the prime of life standing beside a table, his long clerical garments giving him increased height and dignity. The long, straight hair is brushed straight back from the high, bread forehead, and the face -in every lineament-is said to be the image of Wilkes Booth as he would have appeared at that time. The resemblance is most remarkable-the deep, black eyes, the shape of chin, mouth, cheeks, forehead, eyebrows and nose-and, moreover, here is a subtle similarity to members of the Booth family that defies description.

This man was the Rev. John G. Armstrong, rector of the church from 1878 to 1884. But even to this day strange rumors of the final end of Wilkes Booth are to be heard in places where his friends and intimates lived and talked long after the assassination of President Lin-

It seems that, independent of the now much mooted question of horseflesh for human food, there can be no doubt as to the value of that animal's bones for industrial and chemical purposes. An investigator of this subject states that the leg bones are so very hard and white as to be specially valuable for handles of pocket and table cutlery, and the ribs and head are burned to make boneblack after they have been treated for the glue that is in them. In the calcining of these bones the vapors arising are condensed and form the chief source of carbonate of ammonia, which constitutes the base of nearly all ammoniacal salts. To make glue the bones are softened in muriatic acid, dissolved in boiling water, cast into squares and dried on nets. The phosphate of lime, acted upon by sulphuric acid and calcined with carbon, produces phosphorus for matches. The hoofs are boiled to extract the oil; the horny substance is shipped to the manufactories of the following is the shortest poem combs and a variety of special arti- in the English language: cles.-New York Sun.

A lovely story is told of the brothers Grimm, the famous fairy tale writers. One day a wee girl rang the bell and asked to see Mr. Grimm. When ushered into his presence, she

"You are the Mr. Grimm who writes the pretty tales?"

"Yes, I and my brother." "And that of the clever little tailor who married the princess?" "Yes, certainly."

"Well," said the child, producing the book, "it is said there that every one who doesn't believe it must pay the thaler. Now, I don't believe that a princess ever married a tailor. I haven't so much as a thaler, but here is a groschen, and please say I hope to pay the rest by degrees.'

Just then Jacob came in and they tried together to convince the little dame that it was only a tale, but she had the courage of her convictions and nothing could induce her to receive the money back. The two brothers let her go, much amused by the interview.
