

COTTONSEED FOR SHEEP.

Some South Carolina farmers favor the feeding of cottonseed to sheep. It is said to be the most excellent food for them, upon which they thrive. It is remarkable that more sheep are not raised upon the cheap lands of the South. In the whole State of South Carolina there are only seventy thousand sheep, while in Ohio there are 2,000,000. The quantity of cottonseed produced in the Southern States is enormous almost beyond belief. Years ago it was returned to the land as a fertilizer. The piles left around the gins attracted the cattle, who eat it freely. When the use of the seed in making oil first began the planters got good prices at the various oil-mills. Then the Cottonseed Oil Trust was formed. The oil-mills were bought up, and the trust got control of the market and bought the seed upon its own terms, which were hard enough. The planters had to take what the trust offered or take nothing. The cottonseed oil, it is said, is sold extensively as olive oil, even in Europe. Out of it the cottonseed lard is also made. If the farmers find it profitable to feed the seed to sheep it may be a way at last to bring the trust to terms.

THREE GREAT CROPS.

There has not been relief the past week from the drouth conditions which have been noted as widely prevailing in the agricultural districts, and an unusual degree of heat has intensified the effect in some respects. The corn crop has been hastened in the ripening process, with results not much less serious than hard freezing. This, of course, does not apply to all the crop, for much of it was in good form, and will yield well, of good quality grain. The late planting has suffered.

The official statement of condition on September 1 of the corn crop implies approximately 23 bushels per acre as the general average indication, which, applied to 80,000,000 acres, would mean about 1,840,000,000 bushels for the crop. The chances appear to favor a considerably less quantity to be shown by the ultimate returns, and 1,750,000,000 bushels may be regarded as a fair basis for calculations. This, with the surplus of previous production, will very considerably exceed the annual distribution. The lowering of the quality of a large part of the crop will have something of a depressing effect on market values.

In view of the elasticity of the quantitative significance of wheat condition figures it may be said that the official report for September admits of a range from about 455,000,000 to 475,000,000 bushels as the indication—the larger quantity being close to results based on an average of the relation between September returns and final yield for the past five years. The crop, however, should not be regarded as less than 540,000,000 bushels. The official figures point to about 690,000,000 bushels for the oats crop, which compares with 707,000,000 for last year. It hardly seems likely that the crop is so nearly equal to last year's production.—Cincinnati Price Current.

GOV. HASTINGS ENJOINED.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 22.—Governor Hastings, Auditor General Mylin, State Treasurer Hayward, President Pro Tem. McCarrill, of the Senate, and Speaker Boyer, of the House, comprising the State Capitol building commission, have been restrained by a preliminary injunction, issued by Judge Livingston, at the instance of Architect James H. Warner, of this city, from adopting any design for the erection of the legislative building at their proposed meeting on September 29, 1897, except it be one of the eight designs selected by the board of experts to whom that duty was assigned. The first choice of the experts was the plan submitted by Warner, but after several meetings of the commission the eight plans submitted were rejected and returned to their authors, and an invitation issued for new plans to be submitted on September 29. This action was opposed by Governor Hastings, but he was outvoted by his fellow-members. An answer to this bill in equity is required to be filed in fifteen days.

SUIT AGAINST STEAMER POTOMAC.

The steamer Potomac, of the Weems Line, has been sued in the United States District Court for the loss occasioned when the steamer ran into and sunk the schooner Three Brothers near Seven-Foot Knoll on August 31. Michael L. Hart, administrator of Thomas Hart, owner and captain of the schooner, who was drowned when the collision occurred, claims $1,300 for the loss of the schooner and the captain's personal effects. The four seamen on the schooner at the time of the collision also claim damages. Frederick Wildanger, it is alleged, lost $15 in cash and personal effects valued at $75; William Wurst personal effects valued at $80 and Frank Miller and James Daily each personal effects valued at $75.

NO LOAFERS NEEDED.

The Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer-Sun, referring to the fact that the officials and city council of Macon have determined to drive loafers from that city, says: "This is a wise plan which the neighboring city has adopted, and one which should be thoroughly enforced in this city as well. This is one season of the year in the South when men out of employment can find work, and those who do not show a disposition to avail themselves of the opportunity should be made to do so.

"In another place this morning, in the report of the weather bureau, it will be seen that in many sections of the State the cotton fields are without hands to pick the staple, not because the hands cannot be found, but because there are many of them who do not want to work. This variety of citizens, who hang around the cities to prey upon the more industrious, should be made to earn their bread or move on."

OYSTER INSPECTORS' FEES.

Oyster Inspector George W. Letourneau, of the port of Annapolis, is having some trouble with captains of vessels in harbor purchasing oysters for Baltimore markets in regard to the payment of tolls. Under the oyster law, the inspector, whose compensation is dependent entirely on fees, is allowed ten cents on every hundred bushels of oysters. The law stipulates that only one charge of inspection can be collected, but there is a difference of opinion as to whether the toll should be collected where the oysters are purchased, or at the place of delivery. Some of the oyster-buyers stated they would pay the fee under protest because they expected to be called upon to pay also when they reach Baltimore. Inspector Letourneau has requested the commander of the oyster navy to instruct him as to how to proceed in the matter. He says when he collects he gives a receipt, which could be produced at the destination of the vessel, thereby avoiding double payment.

STATISTICS show that of late years there has been a very considerable increase in insanity both in the United States and in several European countries where pains have been taken to acquire accurate information. The fact, if it be a fact, is very hard to account for. The tendency in nearly all parts of the civilized world has recently been toward a longer average of life and increased comfort of living. Many of the luxuries of the first half of the century have become the common enjoyments of those who have lived to see the close of the century. It may possibly be that larger opportunity has led to larger desire; but that is hardly a tenable supposition. It is more likely that with the larger provision for the care of the insane there has been a more systematic and accurate notation of their numbers. This is certainly true in Pennsylvania; and if the conditions here be not exceptional it would account for the apparent disproportion between the growth of population and the percentage of increase of lunatics to the whole number.—Phila. Record.

As a means of creating a Treasury deficit, the greatly maligned and much floated Wilson tariff doesn't seem to have been in it with the Dingley bill. The Dingley bill became a law July 24. The government revenues from August 1 to the close of the second week in September amounted to $26,889,188; expenditure, $43,966,047; deficit, $17,116,858.

The revenues for the same period in 1896 reached $34,379,858; the expenditure was $45,098,676, and the deficit $10,718,817. For the same period in 1895 the revenue was $38,627,474; the expenditure $43,054,384, and the deficit $4,426,909.

When Congress meets in regular session, and sets about the work of raising enough revenue to save the government from bankruptcy, it is evident that some one with more ability as a revenue raiser than Dingley will have to be called upon to frame a bill.—Phila. Times.

Fire in Westminster. A serious fire was narrowly averted Tuesday afternoon at the store of Miller Brothers, dealers in dry goods and clothing, in Westminster. One of the large show windows was decorated with lace curtains and other inflammable material which was ignited, it is supposed, by contact with an electric wire. All the goods in the window were destroyed. Further loss was, no doubt, prevented by the prompt response of the fire department and the activity of the clerks in the store.

The use of rooms in the Y. M. C. A. building has been obtained, and the library will be opened with a nucleus of three thousand volumes. The members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. His trousers were caught at the right hip by the cog and he was drawn into the machinery and severely injured. It took nearly half an hour to extricate him. Fifteen wounds, five of them into the bone, were inflicted on his hip and leg, where the cog tore out the flesh. A piece of flesh was torn from his leg as big as a half dollar.

Bold Robbery of a Store. The Baltimore Clothing and Shoe House in Hagerstown, Max Reuben, proprietor, was robbed at an early hour Tuesday morning of a large quantity of clothing, hats, shoes, underwear, jewelry, watches, etc. Shank & Wolfinger's blacksmith shop was raided for tools to break open the door of the store. The burglars probably had a wagon on which they loaded their booty and drove off. The iron safe was untouched. The robbers took place while the Boyer mill was burning, and some people believe the burglars started the fire in order to rob securely while the excitement was going on.

GENERAL E. A. CARMAN, commissioner for Antietam battlefield; Samuel Dalton, adjutant general of Massachusetts, and O. W. Norcross, of Boston, were in Sharpsburg arranging for the erection of a monument to the memory of Massachusetts' soldiers killed at Antietam. The monument is ready for shipment, and it is intended to erect it some time next month.

Killed According to Law.

On Monday morning a large dog was found in Mr. Frank Rowe's shed. How the dog came there is somewhat of a mystery, as the gate in front of the shed was closed during the night, but the wind that prevailed that night may have blown the gate open, but it was closed in the morning. A large number of people took a look at the unknown dog during the forenoon, some of whom pronounced it rabid, whilst others said it looked like it was suffering from a dose of poison, and still others said that something was wrong with it.

An officer of the law was notified and promptly visited the shed wherein the dog lay, and after viewing the animal came to the conclusion that it was an old dog, and had probably been given a dose of poison; that it was suffering from some unknown disease, and to prevent it from harming any person, the safest remedy was to kill it. Then the officer, in company with another gentleman, left the premises and in a short time they returned. The appointed executioner, with a revolver in his hand, walked solemnly to the shed, feeling that one ball from the weapon, held with a steady hand, would have the desired effect. But such was not the case. The dog paid very little attention to the first report from the revolver. After the second shot the animal got up and walked to one corner of the building. The third shot caused it to yell and it made its way toward the door where it fell, and the fourth shot kept it to the ground. The executioner then hit it two or three times in the head with an axe, and life became extinct, and the dog was pronounced dead.

Among those who witnessed the execution was an undertaker and a manufacturer of tombstones, but unfortunately neither received an order.

Mr. Keedy's Letter of Acceptance. Mr. Clayton O. Keedy, of Frederick, who was nominated by the Democratic judicial convention at Rockyville for judge of the sixth judicial circuit, has formally accepted the nomination. In his letter to the committee he says in part: "While I have not sought the position, I unhesitatingly accept the nomination, because I am led to believe I am the choice of the majority of the political party with which I have always acted and whose principals I have cherished from my youth up, as well as the preference of a number of good citizens of other political creed. As long as the custom prevails of soliciting candidates for the judicial office by means of party nominations I am firmly convinced that the public good can be best served by allowing the utmost freedom of selection within party lines, and having those conclusions fairly and fully submitted for revision by the people at the polls. Then, if the judges are not above reproach, the people have but themselves to blame."

Inquest in a Homicide Case. A coroner's inquest was held Wednesday at Burnt Mills, Montgomery county, over the body of Edward Butler, colored, who died Sunday morning from the effects of a bullet wound in the stomach received Saturday night. The jury rendered a verdict to the effect that Butler met his death by a shot from a pistol held in the hands of Louis Howard, and that the killing was unjustifiable. Howard was recommitted to jail on a charge of homicide to await the action of the grand jury. The accused is a young man of more than average intelligence among his race, and is said to have heretofore borne a good character. He admits having done the shooting, but pleads self-defense.

Back from the Grave. We cannot come, but we can often stay our progress thither. Disease, like everything else, must have a beginning. All chronic maladies tend to shorten life, and render it a species of martyrdom while they last. Malaria, kidney complaint, chronic indigestion, rheumatism—all have small beginnings, and may be stayed at the outset with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This excellent tonic and alterative is adapted alike to the prevention of disorders of the system and to their removal, and its early use cannot be too strongly recommended. To remove appetite and insure tranquil rest, there is no safer and more pleasant means than the Bitters. The physical, the nervous, and the mental are equally benefited by it, and the busy mechanic, the tired clerk or operative, and the brain weary student, author or newspaper man derive from it present relief and future energy.

The Lightning's Work. Considerable loss of property resulted from a severe electrical storm which passed over Cecil county last Thursday night. At Northeast two barns were struck by lightning and consumed with the greater part of their contents. The barn on the property of Rev. Thomas S. Williams was the first one struck, and in short time was burned to the ground. The contents, including feed, etc., was destroyed, but the live stock was saved. While the fire was raging lightning struck a large barn on the property of Dr. S. E. Foard and destroyed it, together with seven hundred bushels of wheat, thirty tons of hay and a large accumulation of farming implements. The live stock was saved with the exception of a bull, which perished in the flames. The loss is estimated at $4,000, partly insured in the Cecil County Mutual. The dwelling house on the Foard farm was only saved by heroic efforts on the part of the citizens, who fought the fire with a bucket brigade. The barn on the farm of John Sullivan, near Iron Hill, Cecil county, was destroyed.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

Mr. A. M. Patterson, of this place, Nominated for Sheriff.

The Frederick county republican convention was held in Frederick on last Saturday, when the following nominations were made:

Clerk of the Circuit Court—Douglas H. Hargett.

Register of Wills—Charles E. Saylor. Sheriff—Albert M. Patterson.

County Treasurer—George L. Kauffman.

County commissioners—(Four-year term) William Harman, Singleton E. Remsburg, George A. Dean; two year term, George A. Grossnickle, Abraham Zentz.

House of Delegates—John R. Rouzer, Thomas Hightman, J. Frank Butts, Edward E. Harn, Harry E. Chapline.

Surveyor—Edward Albough.

The convention was in session from 11 A. M. to 6.30 P. M. There were 350 delegates. The first test of strength was on the election of Milton G. Urner as chairman over Frank Butts, of Middletown, a Haffner man.

On the first ballot for clerk of the court Dr. S. T. Haffner received 10, Douglas H. Hargett 9, Melvin P. Wood 2, John M. Markell 1. On the second ballot the position of the leaders was reversed. On the third ballot Mr. Hargett had 11, Haffner 9, Wood 2. On the fourth ballot Mr. Wood withdrew and Mr. Hargett received 12 votes. When the tellers announced he had received 12 of the 22 districts the cheering and confusion became so great that they were unable to proceed further for some time. So much missionary work was done that it required two hours to take the four ballots.

For register of wills there were seven candidates, Charles E. Saylor, Harry B. Witter, Cyrus F. Flook, Charles S. Snook, John A. Delashmutt, George Miller and Thomas L. Miller. Saylor won on the second ballot, receiving 12 votes.

There were five candidates for sheriff, Albert M. Patterson, who won on the second ballot with 20 votes, Robert S. Delander, Lewis Kolb, Isaiah Moser and Dr. H. Clay Anders.

Mr. Albert M. Patterson, the nominee for sheriff, is a member of the firm of Patterson Brothers, butchers of this place, and is well-known throughout the county.

There were three candidates for county treasurer, George L. Kauffman, who received 14 votes on the first ballot, William C. Birely and Peter W. Shafer.

There were 22 candidates in the field for county commissioners, and about 25 candidates for the House of Delegates. Mr. Hargett, the nominee for clerk of the court, is a member of the firm of Hargett & Co., in Frederick City, and one of the leading business men. He is about fifty-two years of age and was formerly engaged in farming.

The convention adopted resolutions congratulating the voters that the time was now at hand when the wrong of arbitrarily extending the county commission term would be redressed and local rights restored.

Laurel's Mystery Solved. LAUREL, Md., September 18.—After hearing testimony for several hours, the coroner's jury, presided over by Justice Jackson, came to the following verdict in the Kellogg's woods murder mystery:

"From the examination of the remains and from the evidence of the witnesses who appeared before this jury, and from the testimony rendered, we believe the body to be that of Mark A. G. Clift, Jr. The jury is unable to determine the cause of death."

After rendering this verdict the jury passed the following resolution: "The jury takes occasion to call attention to the indifference of the sheriff of Prince George's county, who has failed to render any assistance by his presence or advice made in the inquiry made in this case, which has been prolonged for about two weeks.

The final step in the mystery of Kellogg's woods was taken tonight when the coroner's jury heard witnesses tending to the identification of the decomposed remains of a human being found a fortnight ago in Kellogg's woods. The evidence tonight was from Mrs. Mark A. Clift, Jr., of Baltimore; John W. Clift and a number of physicians and experts on anatomy. The evidence of Mrs. Clift and John W. Clift was positive that the remains were those of Mark A. G. Clift, who disappeared from Norfolk, Va., in August, 1896. Remnants of the clothing, the papers found near the remains and the teeth of the skeleton were points on which Mrs. Clift was positive as to the identification as the remains of her husband. She said that she had last seen her husband at their residence, 567 East Main street, Norfolk, August 1, 1896.

So far as the Clift suicide theory is concerned, it may be well to state that Mrs. Clift refuses to believe that her husband ended his own life. If the body found was that of Mark, she says, he was murdered or died by other means than his own hands. Clift's parents live at 919 William street, Baltimore.—American.

AD Wise Heads. agree that the use of a liver pill after dinner, or to accomplish special results, is an important step in civilization. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are better than other liver pills in almost every respect. They're the smallest, easiest to take, most natural in the way they act; cheapest, because there are more in each package. We all have weak spots. Generally it's the liver. An active liver prevents impurities and poisons from entering the blood. "Pleasant Pellets" have a tonic effect upon the liver and the general system. They cure constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, dizzy spells, sick or bilious headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels.

MOMENTS are useless if trifled away; and they are dangerously wasted if consumed by delay in cases where One Minute Cough Cure would bring immediate relief. Geo. W. Ogle & Son.

THERE is a man possessed of all his senses residing four miles from Gettysburg, who has lived in that vicinity for many years, and yet who has never visited the battlefield. Within a short distance of his home, the great cavalry fight on the Bonneville road took place, yet he never saw a dead or wounded soldier, says one of our exchanges.—Compiler.

Flour Mills Burned.

The flouring mills in Hagerstown owned by David S. Boyer and operated by Boyer & Heard were burned to the ground between 2 and 4 o'clock Tuesday morning. Not only were the mills burned, but the elevators and coal sheds in connection with the plant and the adjoining stables of W. L. Wishard, J. D. Wishard and Mrs. William T. Hamilton were destroyed or damaged.

The fire started in the frame stable of W. L. Wishard, in the rear of Joshua D. Wise's blacksmith shop. A stiff breeze blew the flames from the stable to the coal sheds, north of the mills, built over a trestle track 350 feet long. In a short time the coal sheds were consumed and the mills were safe. For a time it looked as though a general conflagration was imminent.

It was only by the hardest kind of work by the fire companies that the Valley Hotel, Mr. Boyer's dwelling house and Boyer & Heard's office building were saved. The roof of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal parsonage, occupied by Rev. W. W. Van Arsdale, was on fire several times. John Wise's blacksmith shop was badly damaged.

When W. L. Wishard's stable was discovered on fire, a horse which Mr. Wishard had securely tied in the stable the night before was found wandering in the alley, which led to the theory that the stable was set on fire and that the incendiaries had led the horse out of the stable before they applied the match.

The mills and elevators were the best equipped plants of the kind in Western Maryland or in the Cumberland Valley. The mills had a daily capacity of 75 barrels of flour and were run day and night. They were built in 1889 and equipped with improved machinery. Power was furnished by a 45-horse-power Corliss engine. The elevator and coal shed were also built in 1889. There were stored in the elevator about 7,000 bushels of wheat, 600 bushels of corn, 600 barrels of flour and a lot of feed, all of which were consumed. About 600 tons of soft coal under the sheds were partly burned.

Mr. Boyer estimates his loss on the plant at $17,000. Boyer & Heard's loss on stock, etc., was $9,000. J. D. Wishard's loss on two stables and shop was about $300. The damage to Mrs. Hamilton's stable was about $100. Mr. Boyer had only $500 insurance on this plant; was unable to get it fully insured. Boyer & Heard had $3,000 insurance on the stock. The stables were insured.

Aaron Hartranft, of Cearfoss, had burned 570 bushels of wheat in storage in the elevator, holding back for $1 a bushel. Loss, total.

Potomac Pollution.

Mr. Arthur P. Davis, of Washington, who has charge of stream measurements in the division of hydrography, United States geological survey, is in Cumberland to survey the Potomac river and its tributaries, secure samples of water and take statistics of manufactures and water power. Dr. Davis is engaged on the creeks north of the river. E. G. Paul and G. H. Matthews are with him. Mr. Paul is at work on the south branch of the river, and Mr. Matthews is working on the upper part of the river above Westport, Md. Dr. Davis will take samples of the Potomac water and samples of each tributary, which will be sent to the marine hospital at Washington for examination.

Mr. Davis said that the hydrographic division was engaged in the study of the water supply all over the United States. Over 200 gauging stations for measuring the discharge of rivers have been established, the majority being in the West. He says the water supply for cities and towns is a very interesting question all over the country, and is bound to receive still more attention. He was gratified to see the interest shown in the matter in Cumberland.

Effects Were Soon Felt. "Last summer I was feeling weak and tired. I had taken medicines without any benefit, and a friend called my attention to Hood's Sarsaparilla. IN Days of Old. Sixty years ago the water of Hunting creek, in this county, was furnishing the power for 22 manufacturing establishments which were then in successful operation along its banks. There was at that time in and near Thurmont a flouring and grist mill, woolen mill, two saw mills, iron forge, five tanneries and a pottery. Hats, pots and pimple angers and also axes, chisels, etc., were at that time or earlier made there.
