VAN BOOZEM'S SCHEME.

It Did Not Pan Out Just As He Anticipated It Would.
Van Boozem had made up his mind to save money. No more quarters for luncheon, he said, and he bit off the words with a snap to his teeth.
Hereafter I shall go in for the free article, then the nickel with which I'll buy something to wash it down will make the meal cost but five cents. Great scheme! Great saving! Nothing like economy.
Whereupon Van Boozem jammed his hat down on his head and stalked out of his office snapping the spring lock of the door behind him.
Across the way, at the corner above, was a clean little place he remembered to have noticed frequently on his way down to the office in the morning. Then he recollected that once he had heard "twang remark as they passed it that 'an elegant free lunch' was spread inside at noon each day.
That settled it. Van Boozem darted across the street and entered the little saloon. A white-coated attendant stood behind the counter. "What will it be?" he asked.
"Ginger ale, please," Van Boozem answered, and then he looked around. He walked over to the end of the bar and began eating. A sandwich was finished. Then another followed, another, and still another. "Lovely," ejaculated Van Boozem, "lovely."
After he had finished the eighth the economical man drank his ginger ale. Reaching down into his pocket he produced a dime and laid it on the bar.
The white-coated attendant looked at it, then he looked at Van Boozem.
"Seventy-five cents more," he said as he fitted a damp cloth across the polished surface of the counter.
"What?" shouted Van Boozem.
"Seventy-five cents more, please," repeated the attendant. "Those sandwiches are 10 cents apiece. You got away with eight, for I counted 'em. That makes eight cents. The ginger ale is five cents and here's your dime, so you see there's 75 cents more coming."
Gaping and dazed, Van Boozem drew out a dollar. "I—I—thought," he said, "that they were the free lunch."
"Hardly," smiled the waiter as he rang the cash register. "The free lunch is cold corn beef and fry bread down at the other end of the bar."
Since which experience Van Boozem has lunched daily—on ortolans, pate de foie gras and terrapin, trying to catch up.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

The Custom of a Bride's Wearing Them Originated in Spain.
The American brides whose love of country is stronger than love of fashion may discard the traditional orange blossoms when they learn that the custom of using them in connection with the bridal robe first originated in Spain. The legend about it is as follows:
An African King presented a Spanish King with a magnificent orange tree, whose creamy, waxy flowers and wonderful fragrance excited the admiration of the whole court. Many begged in vain for a branch of the plant, but a foreign Ambassador was tormented by the desire to introduce so great a curiosity to his native land. He used every possible means, fair or foul, to accomplish his purpose, but all his efforts coming to naught, he gave up in despair. The fair daughter of the court gardener was loved by a young artisan, but lacked the "dot" which the family considered necessary in a bride. One day, chancing to break off a spray of orange blossoms, the gardener thoughtlessly gave it to his daughter. Seeing the coveted prize in the girl's hair, the wily Ambassador offered her a sum sufficient for the desired dowry, provided she gave him the branch and said nothing about it. Her marriage was soon celebrated, and on her way to the altar, in grateful remembrance of the source of all her happiness, she secretly broke off another bit of the lucky tree to adorn her hair. Whether the poor court gardener lost his head in consequence of his daughter's treachery, the legend does not state, but many lands now know the wonder tree, and ever since that wedding day orange blossoms have been considered a fitting adornment for a bride.
A Dry Shampoo.
Many women, who have luxurious tresses, and who take cold easily, are obliged to forego washing them as often as they would like, because of the difficulty of getting them dried quickly. For such, a dry shampoo is the next best thing, and if carefully and thoroughly done, it removes the accumulated dust and dandruff almost as well as washing. The hair should be shaken loosely out over the shoulders, and the head manipulated with the fingers till all foreign matter is well loosened and scattered through the hair, which should then be parted in different places all over the head, and the parts cleaned with a stiff, little brush, after which the dandruff is brushed in sections as possible, when some good scalp tonic or scalp cleanser may be rubbed on, and the snarl engendered by the whole process gently combed out and the ends clipped. This should always be done once a month, to promote the growth and fine glossy condition of the hair.
About Two Royal Ladies.
It is generally admitted among members of the royal family that the Princess of Wales has the most artistic eye for the arrangement of flowers, and a well-known West End florist has stated that a table or a room decked with blossoms by the princess' hands is as beautiful and effective as one could possibly wish for. The princess arranges all her own flowers in her boudoir and attends with her own hands to her particular favorite ferns. The sound business capacity and marvelous memory for details which serve Queen Victoria so well in her greater office of sovereign do not fail to render her successful also in her lesser one of housekeeper. She is the mistress of palaces, castles and country houses, and although the actual daily housekeeping is, of course, done by deputy, the royal head of the establishment remains ever in a very real sense the mistress. She perceives immediately anything amiss, and perceives also the remedy.
A Paradise for Women.
In the matter of woman's rights Abyssinia is far ahead of Europe and America. According to an authority, the house and all its contents belong to her, and if the husband offends her she not only can but does turn him out of doors till he is duly repentant and makes amends by the gift of a cow or the half of a camel—that is to say, half the value of a camel. On the other hand, it is the privilege and duty of the wife to divorce her husband, and she can divorce herself from him at pleasure, whereas the husband must show reasons to justify such an act on his part.
Save the Old Veil.
To renovate a veil that is soiled, make a lather of soap and water, simmer the veil in it for twenty minutes, then squeeze out the soap with the hand and rinse in clear water, to which has been added a few drops of sugar. Shake out the veil and flap it; do not wring it. Pin it to a clean cloth, and when dry cover it with a handkerchief and iron.

LIVE STOCK DAIRY THE AYRSHIRE.

Advantages to Be Derived From Breeding With the Ayrshire Bull.
The Jersey and Guernsey breeds are undoubtedly favorites in the United States both for dairy purposes and for family use, but the Ayrshire is becoming decidedly popular. This illustration shows a famous Ayrshire bull, one of the finest specimens of the breed. While breeders of the Ayrshire naturally contend that the breed is equal to any and point with pride to high milk and butter records, dairymen who are entirely disinterested claim that they are most desirable in building up a herd of partly pure-bred cows. For example, the progeny of a good cow with a fair record would be greatly improved with an Ayrshire bull as a father. Splendid results have been obtained in herds of no particular breed by the use of an Ayrshire bull, and they can be highly recommended for that purpose.

AN AYRSHIRE BULL.

Raise More Live Stock.
No one, the southern farmer least of all, will dispute the statement that live stock has had more to do with the general improvement of southern farms than any other thing. The southern farmer, having learned his hard lesson, is now heading the right way. It is admitted that the care of live stock requires the constant attention of some one, and that one is pretty closely tied to the farm. This plan is not in harmony with the general inclination to make the farm produce crops that will not require constant care or at least supervision. What would be thought of the merchant who kept on his shelves goods suitable for only one or two seasons of the year? And yet many farmers are working on this same lame line. The general disinclination to keep stock is due partly to the fact that good returns are received from grains, fruits, hay and the like, and to some extent because stock raising is not generally understood. Stock keeping means steady and fair returns for the outlay, but more than all, it means the maintenance of soil fertility, which cannot be had in any other way so easily and cheaply. It is not meant to imply that the use of commercial fertilizers may be done away with entirely, but their cost will be materially lessened.

APHORISMS.

Doubt whom you will, but never doubt yourself.—Bovee.
A good intention clothes itself with power.—Emerson.
The more we study the more we discover our ignorance.—Shelley.
Doing good is the only certainly happy action in a man's life.—Sir Philip Sidney.
Blessings ever wait on virtuous deeds, and though a late, a sure reward succeeds.—Congreve.
True dignity is never gained by place and never lost when honors are withdrawn.—Massinger.
In character, in manners, in style, in all things, the supreme excellence is simplicity.—Longfellow.
The best manner of avenging ourselves is by not resembling him who has injured us.—Jane Porter.
If there is any person to whom you feel dislike, that is the person of whom you ought never to speak.—Ceil.
More hearts pine away in secret anguish for unkindness from those who should be their comforters, than for any other calamity in life.—Young.
We never enjoy perfect happiness; our most fortunate successes are mingled with sadness; some anxieties always perplex the reality of our satisfaction.—Cornelle.
Snobs in high places assume great airs, and are pretentious in all they do, and the higher the elevation the more conspicuous is the incongruity of their position.

POINTED PENCILS.

—Optimism is foolishness.
—Every soul has a blind side.
—Men will endure polite murder.
—The fool listens while the philosopher looks.
—The idler is the world's insolvent debtor.
—Hope is foolish even at three score and ten.
—The mirror of time gives us barely a glimpse of ourselves.
—The poorest relations are those void of beauty, truth and love.
—All hogs have not bristles—some wear purple and fine linen.
—Cut glassware would be more popular if dealers would cut prices.
—Energy can not be lost, but it will take long and mysterious vacations.
—In the checker game young Alphonso seems to be cornered in the king row.
—A wise man can appear stupid at times but there are those who carry it to excess.
—The bicycle puts the person who's learning to ride it in touch with the whole earth.

FACTS OF REAL INTEREST.

The number of people at present who speak English is said to be 116,000,000. There are 27 royal families in Europe, two-thirds of which are of German origin.
In ten years the descendants of two rabbits, if left unmolested, will number 70,000,000.
Of the nearly 2,000,000 inhabitants of Berlin only 42,000 have an annual income of over $750.
Britain owns one-fourth of the railways in the United States of America, and half of the railways of South America.
According to careful estimates, three hours of close study wear the body more than a whole day of hard physical exertion.
In Belgium, by a recent regulation, all bulls and cows are to wear earrings as soon as they have attained the age of three months.
There are only 3,342 left of the Ainu of Japan—the true aborigines of that country. Nearly all of them live on the northern island of Yezo.
The Coeur d'Alene district of Idaho and southern Missouri together furnish nearly 44 per cent. of the total production of lead in the United States.

IRONICAL ISFS.

If you would win friends you must be friendly.
If a woman has a duck of a bonnet she is right in the swim.
If you want to get a chip off the old block ax the block for it.
If clothes make the man some men must patronize mighty poor tailors.
If marriage is a lottery love-letters should be excluded from the mails.
If women are foolish it's because they were made to be the companions of men.
If a man is unable to make a distinguished name for himself in any other way he uses a hyphen.
If other people never made mistakes we would have but little cause to pride ourselves on our abilities.
If each member of the congregation was to give the minister his candid opinion of the sermon he would probably resign.

WHY?

Why isn't a good wife a woman possessed?
Why are weak-minded men usually headstrong?
Why doesn't the glutton dig his grave with his teeth?
Why is the most of the bread cast upon the waters dead?
Why hasn't the man who lives in a garret a good outlook?
Why does a girl seldom attempt to extinguish the spark of love?
Why are our losses usually much easier to bear than our victories?
Why does the average man always get less credit than he thinks he is entitled to and more than he deserves?

THE YUCCA PLANT.

Has a Great Future Before It If Falsely Are Taken to Develop It.
The great staple of Venezuela is coffee; but, as the prices are now very low, it might be well if farmers would turn their attention to other plants which give a more lucrative return. The yucca appears to have a great future before it.
This is a very productive plant, and, although well known in Venezuela, no one has yet taken especial pains to develop it. One hectare (2.47 acres) of land upon which yucca is grown will produce 150 quintals (15,000 pounds) of starch, or 200 quintals (20,000 pounds) of tapioca. The plant is easily and cheaply cultivated. It will stand bad weather, and the dry season does not affect it. It can be raised on any soil. The yucca will thrive in the same soil with peas, corn and beans, and ground so utilized becomes far more remunerative than land planted in coffee. One hectare of tilled soil will produce 1,500 coffee plants. Allowing the maximum yield of coffee per plant, a hectare will produce 8 quintals of coffee. On the same ground the yucca will yield 150 quintals of starch, exclusive of the other crops, from the same soil. These other crops will aggregate 12 bushels of corn, 12 bushels of peas, and 12 bushels of beans. This will make land in which the yucca is planted from six to seven times as remunerative as when planted in coffee. Means of cultivation are primitive. Ploughs and other modern American farming implements are almost unknown there.

The Gorgon's Head.

There is a great store of iron at Ellzavetpol, but it is so heavily associated with titanium, and this is so expensive to cast off, that it is not believed it can be profitably worked. A French engineer who studied the Caucasus products, said that this ore is of so little value that mountains of it in the United States are considered worthless, and passed over by capital. In order to work it at all, coke is necessary, and there is no coaling coal in the region. A Russian engineer, interested in developing the country, says that a coal that will produce coke has been found at a place thirty versts from Kotals, but this has yet to be demonstrated. Kotals, by the way, is the place to which the Argonauts came, and whence they brought back the Gorgon's head, with its flaming eyes, its hair of snakes and its appearance of fearful ferocity, the whole being symbolical of the fever-producing climate and fierce wild beasts which still render the locality one to be avoided. The coal, which perhaps gave flame to the Gorgon's eyes, is in character something between lignite and anthracite—a high grade of lignite.

LATE TO BED AND EARLY TO RISE.

prepares a man for his home in the skies. But early to bed and a Little Early Riser, the pill that makes life longer and better and wiser. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

THE LADY AND THE MOUSE.

This Little Rodent Caused a Great Deal of Trouble.

It is an old, old story to accuse woman of cowardice where the mouse is concerned. But the off-repeated charge that any woman will immediately go into hysterics or spasms at the mere sight of a small-sized rodent is an insult to the sex. Some may evince their dislike of mice in this way, but there are notable and conspicuous exceptions. For example, one woman, while engaged in her domestic duties, encountered a mouse in the flour barrel. Now, most women under similar circumstances would have uttered a few genuine shrieks and then sought safety in the garret, but this one possessed more than the ordinary degree of nerve courage. She summoned the man-servant and told him to get the gun, call the dog and station himself at a convenient distance. Then she clambered half way upstairs and commenced to punch the flour barrel with a pole. Presently the mouse made its appearance and started across the floor. The dog at once went in pursuit. The man fired and the dog dropped dead, the lady fainted and fell down stairs, and the man, thinking that she was killed and fearing that he would be arrested for the murder, disappeared and has not been seen since. The mouse escaped.

Best Way Out of It.

He—Who is that ugly looking girl standing at the side of the post?
She—Sir, I want you to understand that she is my sister.
He—You misunderstood me; I mean the girl to the left of the post.
She—That is also one of my sisters.
He—Allow me to congratulate you on having the meanest looking lot of relatives I have ever seen in all my life.

Flattened.

Young Mrs. Torkins was almost in tears when her husband came home.
"What's the matter?" inquired her husband.
"It wasn't my fault, Charley, dear, and I do hope it can be mended. That pouter pigeon you brought home—"
"Well?"
"I'm afraid it has swallowed a tack and got a puncture."

Nothing.

Nothing, healing, cleansing, De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve is the implacable enemy of sores, burns, and wounds. It never fails to cure Piles. You may rely upon it. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

Idaho takes the lead as a desirable place of residence for women who want husbands, that State having 1,000 per cent. more bachelors than spinsters. The exact figures are: 16,584 single men, against 1,426 single women, 20 years old and upward. Wyoming is a close second, with an excess of 993 per cent., the figures being 16,133 bachelors, against 1,487 maidens. Best State for husbands—Idaho. Strongest bachelor section of the United States, middle west; weakest bachelor section of the United States, southeastern.
