

HOAR FLAYS PEACE TREATY.

The Senate of the United States was entertained and instructed Monday by Senator Hoar, republican of Massachusetts, who delivered a very strong and forceful argument against the annexation of the Philippine archipelago. Every member of the Senate in Washington that was able to go to the Capitol occupied his seat and listened to the utterances of the distinguished, scholarly and honorable senior Senator from Massachusetts. The galleries were well filled by an appreciative audience. Gathered about the venerable statesman were notably the House Commissioners, Senators Davis, Frye and Gray, while in the reserved gallery sat ex-Secretary of State Day, who had been chairman of the American Peace Commission.

Ardent believers in expansion and all that it implies, and the most sincere supporters of the policy of the administration admit that Senator Hoar's speech is worthy of full consideration and deliberation. Statesmen who know and understand the distinguished orator admit that he is honest and impelled by dictates of intellect and conscience to take the stand which he defended with careful and eloquent elaboration. Senator Davis, of Minnesota, one of the greatest of constitutional lawyers, said: "Senator Hoar is a man for whose abilities and for whose rugged honesty and absolute sincerity I have profound respect. His arguments were based upon the letter of the Constitution. While I do not agree with him I respect and personally admire him."

Every member of the Senate entertains for him similar sentiment of regard and confidence.

THE PHILADELPHIA MINT.

A statement of the coinage of the United States Mint in Philadelphia for the year 1898 given out shows that the output for the year just ended was the largest since 1890. The total number of coins made was 100,258,433, valued at $27,654,452.39.

The gold coin was 170,470 double eagles, 812,197 eagles, 633,495 half eagles and 24,165 quarter eagles with a total valuation of $14,739,257.50. Total silver coinage was 5,884,735 dollars, 2,956,735, half dollars, 11,100,735 quarter dollars and 16,320,735 dimes, a total valuation of $11,770,395.75.

There were 12,532,087 nickels, and 49,825,079 cents coined, giving a grand total of $27,654,452.39 for the year.

There were also coined 511,873 pesos for the government of San Domingo, and orders for 200,000 more of these coinings have been received.

You are making a great mistake in not sending for a 10 cent trial size of Ely's Cream Balm. It is a specific for catarrh and cold in the head. We mail it, or the 50 cent size. Druggists all keep it. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

Catarrh caused difficulty in speaking and to a great extent loss of hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Att'y at Law, Mounmouth, Ill.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle. FISHERMEN ARM TO FIGHT.

A New Orleans dispatch says: a race war, growing out of the fishing business, is threatened at Shell Beach, St. Bernard parish. Shell Beach is an important fishing centre, a large proportion of the fish consumed in the New Orleans markets being caught there. The business is largely controlled by Malays from the Philippines, generally known as Manila men and Spaniards. Recently these fishing grounds have been invaded by negroes from Chief Menteur, twenty miles distant. They use gill nets in catching the fish, although it is prohibited by law, and have severely injured the fishing in that locality.

The camp of the negro fishermen was burned by the Malays, whereupon the negroes returned to their homes, armed themselves with rifles and shotguns and returned to the fishing grounds. The police authorities were notified Wednesday of the probable clash, and will take steps to prevent it, as well as arrest those who have broken the State law against gill netting.

Pleurisy

Pleurisy and pneumonia are frequently developed, in a very short space of time, from a common cold; and, if such an acute inflammation of the lungs is not promptly allayed, the worst may happen. With the aid of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, however, you need not have any fear; for this great remedy speedily subdues the inflammation, eases the pain in breathing and always effects a cure in a wonderfully short time.

HIS NECK BROKEN BY A FALL.

While working on a scaffolding among the ventilators of the big machine shop of the Cumberland Valley Railroad Thursday Wm. F. Wolfe, a painter in the employ of the company, lost his balance and plunged head first to a box car fifty feet below. His body bounded from the car against an iron lathe. Examination revealed the fact that his neck had been broken.

Wolfe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zadock Wolfe, reside at Altoona, Pa., where he also has brothers and sisters. His father has been critically ill for some time. The dead painter leaves a widow and two children.

SUNLIGHT Automatic Gas Machine. (IMPROVED.)

NO LIMIT TO SIZES.

We have added important improvements to our SUNLIGHT GAS MACHINE. Seeing that it was all important to condense and purify the gas before being delivered to gasometer, and to dispense with the opening and closing of valves, which for many experiments, we have succeeded beyond our expectations. All the parts are now automatic. No valves to open or close or be neglected. There is not the smallest part about the machine which requires adjustment. The only attention required is putting in carbide, and a sufficient quantity can be put in to run ten, fifteen, twenty or thirty days, as may be desired, and as simple as putting coal into a stove. The machine being automatic in all its working parts, requires no expert to put in carbide. The carbide is put into retorts and only so much generated, as will supply the burners whilst lighted. The form of the retorts makes a very convenient means for carrying out the slack. They are attached or detached by simply turning a T handle screw and carried away without touching hold on T handle, and can be attached with one hand in a few seconds. A very important point to be considered, as it is not possible to run out slack through a spigot, as some claim to do. It must be hooked or scraped out of all machines that throw carbide into water. The slack will solidify under water, making it impossible to run out through gate or spigot. One retort or all may be charged while lights are burning, as may suit convenience, and the odor so small it can only be detected by the most sensitive. The carbide will remain in retorts intact for any length of time, ready for use as gas may be wanted, and by this process the bell of gasometer never rises high enough to open blow-off valve, which would be a waste of gas, which has been a most difficult problem to solve, which we have done, and can hold the gas under perfect control, which shows the true working and safety of machine. We do not throw an uncertain quantity of carbide under water to make an uncertain quantity of gas to be blown out into the air when there is excess of gas. There is no complication in pressure by attachments to bell of gasometer which will vary lights. As to the bright light produced from Calcium Carbide, it is the most brilliant and beautiful light ever discovered. It gives fifteen times the light of ordinary illuminating gas per cubic foot. It is a pure white light. Its rays being almost identically with sunlight. Its cost is far less than any known illuminant. The lighting of burners starts the machine and when lights are put out the machine stops, and no gas is generated until burners are again lighted. The gas is not affected by heat or cold. As the new gas is far superior, and costs far less than coal gas, the gas companies finding they have a strong competitor, are leaving nothing undone to warn the public of the danger of calcium carbide gas, which is less dangerous than coal gas or coal oil, with proper care. We have been testing the properties of calcium carbide, and we have been running machine for nine months, with gas jets burning directly over machine, which clearly proves the safety of machine. All the working parts are made of brass and aluminum, and material, workmanship, etc., are of the best.

We ask an examination of our machine, and will guarantee all as represented. We are now ready to furnish the Improved Machine. Carbide will be furnished at cost to users of Sunlight machines.

It seemed utterly impossible to float them because of the terrible damage inflicted by our guns, but the task has been accomplished. You can buy this remedy in any drug store, and under no circumstances should you accept anything said to be "just as good."

WILLIAM DONOHUE, of Cumberland, had his pocketbook, containing $250, stolen. Detective Sanders ran down the thief, who Tuesday night rang Mr. Donohue's door-bell and then ran away. Mr. Donohue responded to the ring and found his pocketbook lying on the door-sill with not a penny missing.

Five early last Saturday morning burned the cable board in the cupola of the Maryland Telephone Exchange, in the C. W. Humrichouse Building, Hagerstown. The electric light and telephone wires crossed which caused the fire, which communicated to the wood-work in the upper part of the building. The fire was promptly put out and the loss is insured.

THE residence of Samuel Smith, of Cumberland, a retired citizen, was entered Tuesday and a box containing three diamond rings and a diamond brooch valued at about $300 taken, also $150 in money. Wednesday morning the jewels and money were returned to the owner carefully done up in a package and pushed through the door into the hall without detection.

A FATAL malady has made its appearance among mules in different sections of Talbot county. The disease is a peculiar one and no cause can be assigned for it. The animal becomes listless and pines away, and in about twenty-four hours is dead. Col. Edward Lloyd has lost four mules in this manner. Henry M. Ziegler, at Longwood, Kilby Caloway, at Skipton, and others have also had animals to die thus.

JAMES E. HAINES bought at the sheriff's tax sale thirty-three acres of land lying along the Susquehanna River, near Octorara Junction, for $130. The purchaser claims to have secured a bargain. This piece of real estate has been without a legal owner for a number of years, the original heirs to the property having long since become extinct.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

By agreement of counsel for the State and for the defense, and under instruction of the Montgomery County court, the jury rendered a verdict of manslaughter in the case of George Gibbons, removed from Frederick county, charged with the murder of Leslie Horine in March, 1898. Horine was one of a party serenading Gibbons, fired a pistol from a window of his house, and one shot took fatal effect on Horine. The prisoner claimed that he fired to frighten off the serenaders. The jury, on his first trial in Frederick, failed to agree, and the case was removed to Montgomery.

Judge Henderson sentenced Gibbons to five years in the penitentiary.

VICTIMS OF THE OAKLAND DROWNING

The body of Robert Yellowy, who, with his sister, Kiziah Yellowy, and Thomas Smouse, was drowned while skating at the Raseh mill dam, in South Oakland, Monday, was recovered Monday night a short distance from the place where he had broken through, and about ten feet from where the bodies of the other two were found. His face was very much bruised and disfigured, which was evidently caused by the ice striking him as he fell into the water.

The funeral of Thomas Smouse took place from St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, of Oakland, Wednesday afternoon, and that of Miss Yellowy and her brother Thursday afternoon from the same church. All the pastors of the different churches in Oakland took part in the funeral ceremonies.

Emma Yellowy, who was rescued by her father from a death similar to that of her sister and brother, is very ill, while her parents are utterly prostrated with grief.

He was always seen on the street until the last year. He has one brother living, the only one of the family. A widow and three children survive him.

The report will be found on another page. These reports will be corrected weekly, and will be the prevailing prices up to the hour of going to press on Friday mornings, and can be relied upon as being correct, of course the prices given will be subject to the regular daily market changes. We believe that the readers of THE CHRONICLE will find these reports of great benefit to them, and will appreciate our efforts in giving them each week the home market prices. We assure the gentleman who have so kindly volunteered to furnish us with these market quotations, that we highly appreciate their kindness, and hope they will find the work pleasant.

We have before us a copy of the Baltimore Sun Almanac for 1899. The Sun Almanac is so well known to the people of this section of the country that an elaborate description of this invaluable little book is unnecessary. The 1899 almanac surpasses its former editions in some particulars. It is a book that should be in the home of every Marylander. It contains a vast amount of information concerning the many important events of 1898, which have become historical facts. It contains a concise account of the war with Spain, beginning with President McKinley's message to Congress of April 11, 1898, and containing an account of all the important events of that war, including the signing of the peace protocol and the Paris Treaty of peace.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently overcome habitual constipation, well informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system. Buy the genuine, made by the California Fig Syrup Co.

ARSENIC FOUND IN THE MILK.

ANAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 8.—State Chemist Dr. Pennington, of Baltimore, in a letter to Health Officer Dr. Joseph M. Worthington, of Anne Arundel county, states that arsenic was found in the milk submitted to him by Dr. John Ridout, in the case of the Holmes family, colored, who were poisoned by it. Pearl Holmes, four years old, died, and others have been ill. Dr. Pennington states it is no longer a matter for the local or general board of health, but a matter which is in the jurisdiction of the state's attorney. The contents of the stomach, oatmeal and milk, had been sent to Dr. Pennington for analysis.—Sun.

STOPPED THE MARRIAGE.

On Wednesday of last week Norman B. Lee, residing near Thayersville, Garrett county, obtained from the clerk of the Circuit Court at Oakland a marriage license to marry one Mrs. Emma Roy, residing at Deer Park Garrett county. Wednesday night the couple repaired to the home of Rev. J. H. Ford, pastor of the Methodist church in that town, for the purpose of having him unite them in marriage, which he proceeded to do. The usual marriage ceremony of the Methodist Church was used by the pastor, and having objections as to why the contracting parties should not be pronounced husband and wife was repeated a brother of the bride rushed into the room and opposed the marriage on the grounds that his sister was the legal wife of Sherman G. Roy and that she had never been separated from him through divorce or otherwise. This the minister decided was good and sufficient reason and very properly refused to conclude the ceremony or pronounce the contracting parties husband and wife. Mr. Roy stated that six years ago and had since been informed that he was dead. This is the first time that a like instance has ever occurred in Garrett county.—Sun.

LAUREL'S CURFEW LAW.

A curfew law has been passed for Laurel and was put in force Wednesday night. Every person on the streets after 1 o'clock in the morning will be required to explain to the night watchman their reason for being abroad. If those who are abroad be strangers, and their account of themselves does not satisfy the officer, they will be taken into custody and locked up in the cold and cheerless cells of the City Hall, to remain until liberated by due process of law and the hand and seal of the local police justice, William H. Roby, or higher judicial authority. Late a number of suspicious persons have been seen in and around Laurel, and a belief has gained currency that cracksmen were spying out the land and laying plans for robberies. The frequency and mysterious origin of fires in Laurel is another source of uneasiness to the authorities and citizens. Consequently the Council at its regular meeting Monday night authorized the mayor to appoint an additional night watchman. The town will be divided into beats, and a system of time-clocks put in operation to insure the vigilant and effective patrol of the streets. Mayor Phelps has not yet appointed the additional watchman.

CITY AND COUNTRY EDITORS.

The Ellicott City Times, in celebrating the thirtieth anniversary of its publication, indulges in the following comparison of the city and the country editor: "The city editor, while he has great responsibility, has his minions who are quick to obey his beck and the 'aggregation' from day to day rounds out a Journal which a few years ago would have been regarded as an accomplishment of marvelous scope, satisfying many interests. The country editor, on the other hand, is compelled to accomplish wonders often within a very circumscribed field. He is the factotum of the realm he rules, often alternating between the work of a roostab and the revision of very badly written and obscure manuscript, or, maybe, compelled to cut short the grandiloquent thought of a heavy editorial to rush out a bill to some slow-paying patron to get the necessary means with which to buy coal that warmth may be kept among the struggling printers and around the editorial chair.

HOW TO PREVENT PNEUMONIA.

You are perhaps aware that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grippe. During the epidemic of the grippe a few years ago when so many cases resulted in pneumonia, it was observed that the attack was never followed by that disease when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was used. It counteracts any tendency of a cold or the grippe to result in that dangerous disease. It is the best remedy in the world for bad colds and the grippe. Every bottle warranted. For sale by C. D. Eichleberger.

LA GRIPPE SUCCESSFULLY TREATED.

"I have just recovered from the second attack of the grippe this year," says Mr. Jas. A. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexico, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days against ten days for the former attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down'." A FREDERICK RECLUSE.

Last Saturday Dr. Van Buren Dixon, of Frederick, aged about sixty years, was committed to Montevue Hospital, Frederick, for proper care, subject to the further orders of the court. He had been living secluded and in self-neglect for some time. When his old clothing was taken from him at the hospital a bank-book fell out, which had recently been balanced, showing a balance to his credit in the Farmers and Mechanics' National Bank, in Frederick City, of $10,386.81. In his pockets was found the sum of $11.61 in change. He has been living in Frederick for the last twelve or fifteen years, boarding for many years at the Carlin House, and always paying his debts promptly. It is said that his parents lived at Fountain Rock, Frederick county, and that when a young man he went to Frederick and studied dentistry with Dr. Martin. After this he went South and returned to Frederick from Nashville, Tenn. Since his return he has not associated with anyone and was seldom seen to speak with any person except when making a purchase or paying his board bills; then he would merely ask the amount, pay the cash, take a receipt and walk away. He wore a pair of corduroy trousers, gray coat and heavy plow shoes, and always carried a broom handle for a cane. He walked nearly every morning out into the country, occupying himself by cutting inscriptions on fence rails, trees and wooden bridges, after writing in the dust of the road with his cane. He always declined any offer to ride on the road, saying walking was healthful.

While his mind appeared to be unbalanced, it is said that his transactions at the bank were conducted with the greatest care and prudence. It is stated that his relatives will apply to the court for a trustee to be appointed for his person and property. It is said he may resist this course by employing counsel, as he has always manifested a strong aversion to his relatives, claiming that as he made his money he is perfectly competent to manage and take care of it and of himself in any way he chooses.

TRAGEDY IN FROSTBURG.

Tuesday William Preston, of Frostburg, wrote a letter in which he told his wife "Goodbye." Wednesday night at 8 o'clock he shot and instantly killed her and then shot himself and was found lying on the floor, where he committed both deeds, with his brains oozing from the skull and groaning with intense pain.

In his letter Preston complained of other people's talk causing him to do the deed. He recited some of the Lord's Prayer and hoped everybody would meet on good terms in Heaven. Preston is thirty years of age, and was formerly a resident of Barton. His wife was twenty-three years of age and a fine-looking woman. The couple had been married three months. She had a child two years of age. Her maiden name was Mulvaney, her mother was Mrs. Folk and she was the adopted child of George Rayle, of Frostburg.

Preston is a young miner, living in a stable, which has been converted into a dwelling house, on Frost avenue, in Frostburg. His wound is of such a character that it is thought he cannot survive. He had been drinking and was so abusive to his wife that he had been locked up. Upon being released Wednesday he renewed his tactics and she obtained a warrant. Constable Alexander Smith had the husband in charge when he broke away and sought his wife at the house of a neighbor, where he shot her five times in the head, killing her instantly. He then shot himself in the head. He is in such a serious condition that he cannot be removed from the place of shooting. He may die at any time. The tragedy caused great indignation in Frostburg.

GINSENG GATHERERS.

The gathering of ginseng is proving profitable at Sang Run, Garrett county. Sang Run derives its name from the banks of Sang run, a small mountain stream. Ginseng is highly esteemed in China as a medicine, which, it is thought, will prolong the vital powers, but Europeans have failed to discover any remarkable properties in the drug. The root is called "geng" by the mountaineers, hence the name Sang run or Sang run for the stream in Garrett county. Sang run gatherers of ginseng get from $5 to $7.50 a pound for it green. Solomon Sines, an old hunter, has 650 pounds, dry, which commands a much higher price. In China it sells for $8 and $10 an ounce. The most esteemed variety is from Corea. The demand is so great that many roots are substituted for it, notably American ginseng.

BURNED TO DEATH.

About half-past 5 o'clock Sunday evening the explosion of a lamp in the residence of Mrs. Annie B. M. Phillips, widow of former Congressman William A. Phillips, of Kansas, Md., resulted in the death of Mrs. Phillips and the destruction of the house.

The lamp is supposed to have exploded in Mrs. Phillips' hands while she was moving about an upstairs room with it.

Mrs. Phillips, with her step-daughter, Miss Ruth Phillips, lived in a residence in Howard county a mile and a half from Laurel.

John Hopkins, a young colored man employed by Mrs. Phillips, attempted to extinguish the flames, which had communicated to her clothing, by wrapping her in a comforter. William Nichols, who lives near by, carried Mrs. Phillips down stairs and to the home of his mother. She was dead when taken from her house.

Miss Ruth was severely burned about the arms while aiding her step-mother and was overcome by hysteria. She was taken to Mrs. Nichols' residence for the night.

Henry America and other colored men reached the house soon after the alarm was given and saved much of the furniture on the lower story. Mr. Le Page, Crumiller, and other gentlemen residing in the neighborhood also went to the house and rendered assistance in saving property. The fire destroyed the building, which was worth about $3,000, and was owned by Mrs. Dame, of Smyrna, Del., wife of Rev. George W. Dame.

Mrs. Phillips' body was blackened by coal-oil smoke and her hands and arms badly burned, although her hair was not singed. She died from suffocation or, perhaps, from fright. For some years her heart had been weak.

She was about fifty-one years old, and her maiden name was the daughter of the well-known Philadelphian family of that name. She was employed in the Treasury Department at Washington, and had resided in Howard county for four years, first at North Laurel, and since May at the house where she met her death. She leaves a brother, Mr. Howard H. B. Etapler, a New York lawyer, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. J. S. Phillips, of Washington D. C.

SEVERELY WOUNDED.

Thomas N. Mansly, aged about twenty years, a traveling salesman for Lauter & Sutor, of Baltimore, was shot in the left leg in Frederick last Thursday night and badly wounded. The young man said he was a son of C. L. Mansly, 316 North Fulton avenue, Baltimore. He also said that he accidentally shot himself while handling a pistol which he found on the street and threw away after the shooting.

J. B. Herring, night clerk at the City Hotel, said the young man came to him about 8:30 o'clock last Thursday night and asked if any mail had come for him. Being informed in the negative, he walked out of the hotel lobby, and in about twenty minutes returned and asked the clerk to accompany him to his room, saying he wanted to tell him something confidentially. Taking a seat on his bed, the young man burst into tears, and, pointing to his leg, said he had accidentally shot himself. Physicians were hastily summoned. When Dr. Lewis A. Burk arrived the young man had about recovered from his emotion, and the physician proceeded to examine the wound and probe for the bullet. The ball entered the fleshy part of the leg, near where the leg joins the trunk, and, taking a downward course, lodged in the muscles, passing within a quarter of an inch of the main artery. The bullet was evidently a large one, as the hole where it entered was big enough to permit the insertion of a small finger. The shot was fired at close range, as the clothing was scorched from the powder.

Dr. Burke finally located the bullet about three inches from where it entered, and was about to cut it out, when the young man objected, saying he preferred going to a hospital in Baltimore, unless it was absolutely necessary to remove it. The wound was then dressed and he was made as comfortable as possible, and Friday morning took the 8 o'clock train over the Baltimore and Ohio for his home.

NEW USE FOR CORNSTALKS.

The Latest Way in Which to Utilize This Product.

The farmers of the United States have long found corn their main stand-by in peace and war. They have transformed its ears, likewise its nibblings, into fat and contented swine and increased the weight of their hives an hundred fold. They have put its grains into themselves in solid peace in the shape of pearl white hominy, which gives an added relish to the spare ribs of the grilled hog—in the form of egg and cracklin bread.

They have used the cobs for pipes and fertilizers and the shucks as "roughness" for their horses, mules and cattle, for horse collars, cigarette wrappers, chair bottoms, door mats and stuffing for their mattresses.

Only the corn stalk remained in the background of innocuous desuetude, useless and superfluous substance. And now, if the story that comes from Rockford, Ill., be true, that is destined to be, under the touch of science's enchanted wand, the most useful and profitable member of the entire corn-founded family.

A manufacturing company in that city has, it is claimed, perfected a discovery by which the pith is made into cellulose and the shives into all forms of paper, from that used in printing newspapers on to every quality of cardboard. The process is said to be cheaper than any other, as well as superior in other ways. This invention will enable the people of the United States to furnish all the nations of the world not only with paper for literary art and packing purposes, but with paper clothing, sails, ropes, houses, boats, car wheels and cross ties for all their railroads.

Direction of Rows of Plants.

In what direction should rows of cultivated plants be set out? "This is a question that may seem silly, but that is, nevertheless, not without interest, if we are to believe Dr. Wolny, of Munich. This writer has made observations on various plants and has proved that the north-south direction has an undoubted superiority over the one perpendicular to it. We must, therefore, plant our corn and potatoes along meridian lines. The advantages of this may be explained thus: Plants aligned north and south receive the light during the whole day and do not shade each other; whence the lighting is more intense, more regular, and more uniform. It is the same with heat and humidity, and Dr. Wolny has proved, in particular for the trenches in which potatoes are planted, that in case of an east-west orientation the sides exposed to the north are much colder and moister than those on the south. More uniform and regular distribution of light, heat and moisture—such, then, is the result of orientation in north and south lines."

Ventilating Barns.

If the reader ever had an idea that the ventilation of barns was of little consequence, the suffering of animals kept in close buildings must have convinced him to the contrary. This illustration shows a plan for ventilating barns, which is wonderfully simple and effective and quite as useful in winter as in summer. The cut shows how the window is hinged at the top and held at any angle desired by putting a pin through holes made in the side pieces, the sash of course, coming down between the side pieces. In the summer the glass may be whitewashed, which will subdue the strong light. This method of ventilation permits control of the amount of air according to the weather, and prevents it from blowing directly on the animal, which would be objectionable in cold weather.

Taming the Animals.

Teasing of young animals on the farm should never be tolerated. It may be very funny to see the young things make use of their tender horns, and stamping of feet, etc., but as they grow older often become vicious, and then some day in a fit of bad temper they are liable to injure some member of the family, or strangers which may happen to be passing by are very likely to be attacked by vicious animals. Give all animals on the farm kind and firm treatment. Animals should be made to both respect and love their attendants, but this cannot be accomplished if they are allowed to be teased.

Injuries to Pigs.

Powdered soaps, now so largely used by hotels and laundries, are injurious to pigs if fed to them in swill. The Cornell station found that in many cases death resulted from poisoning by the excess of free alkali in swill. Small amounts of powdered soap produce no marked bad results, but it is not safe to feed the animals. The proper disposition of dish water is the sewer.

No More Injuries.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

Risot complexions are now much worn in connection with tanned shoes. The former are rather more expensive than the latter, and there is really no limit to the amount sometimes paid for them.

That tired feeling so much in request in the spring and early summer is now considered passé, and in its place strong and elastic sensations are widely affected.

Persons with sterna pures find it convenient to wear a gloomy expression trimmed with corrugated brows. The cutting is on the Lias and usually by old acquaintances.

Court plasters of varying hues to suit the taste of the wearer, are much affected by the devotees of the wheel, while tetanus is quite common with persons who have been struggling with golf dialect.

Shoes which were formerly worn with the sole carried horizontally now appear with their heels on a bias, and pantaloons formerly of a dull surface are now seen with quite a glossy exterior.

It is still quite common with young gentlemen to wear their names as well as their hair parted in the middle. In the case of some gentlemen no longer youthful the parting of the hair is done with a towel.

One of the freaks of fashion apropos of the dismemberment of China, is to have the house plentifully supplied with broken dishes. The lady of the kitchen is usually charged with the duty of supplying these, with very gratifying results.

OF EXTRA SIZE.

The largest existing library is the National Library of Paris. It contains forty miles of shelves, holding 1,400,000 books.

The largest cave in the world is the Mammoth cave of Kentucky. Its length is ten miles, though to explore its avenues, grottoes, galleries, domes, rivers, and catacombs would entail a journey of 150 miles.

The largest room in the world, under one roof and unbroken by pillars, is at Saint Petersburg. It is 620 feet long and 150 feet wide. Its roof is a single arch of iron. This room is used for military displays, and a whole battalion can maneuver in it.

The largest city in the world is London, which has a population equaling the combined population of Paris, Berlin, Saint Petersburg, and Rome. Its streets, placed in a row, would reach around the world, leaving a bit over long enough to reach from London to San Francisco.

The largest sundial in the universe is Hayon Horoo, a large promontory extending 3,000 feet above the Egean sea. In the course of each day the sun throws the shadow of this mountain on one after another of a circle of islands, which act as hour marks as surely as the fingers on an ordinary dial.

WE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW.

Why the villain is inevitably an actor with good teeth.

Why the most sublimated idiot in the cast is labeled a newspaper man.

Why the average leading juvenile manages to make up like a barber's assistant.

Why the artless ingenue always manages to look considerably "more than seven."

Why all the pretty women of a company fondle and cluster about the leading old man.

Why the adventures in an up-to-date play is always so much prettier than the heroine.

Why the sourette plays all things in a yellow wig and the villain inevitably wears patent leathers.

Why the sourette finds it necessary to punctuate every line she delivers with a sky-pointed slipper.

Why the low comedian will persist in working over the things that used to be funny when we were young.

Why the leading man is always depicted as a person of plumber-like haughtiness of demeanor.

Why the villain so obviously discloses his villainy if the first act when he knows there are four more in which he may develop it.

Photographs in the Dark.

One of our most eminent scientists has lately succeeded in taking no fewer than 2,000 photographs entirely in darkness.

THE MAN IN HIS HOME.

It is He Who Strikeths the Keynote for Right or Wrong Living.

"The seclusion of a home gives to a man a certain freedom and attendant privileges which no other place in the world affords, and it is right that it should," says the Ladies' Home Journal. "But it is not right that this freedom and those privileges should be abused to the disadvantage of the wife. Too many men seem to have the idea that they can drop into constant disconsolate and churlish moods at home with their wives which in any other place and by any other person would not be tolerated. It is when a man is within the walls of his home that he is himself. Then it is that he should be at his best. When a man gives the best that is within him to those closest to him, his home will be the ideal place that he wishes it to be. No man has a right to expect from his wife what he on his part does not give her. If he wants sympathy he must give her his consideration. If a man lacks the element of consideration he should cultivate it, and cultivate it not for the benefit of his friends, but for those in and of home. Consideration should begin at home, not in the homes of friends, as it often does, and ends there, too. The atmosphere which a man creates in his home by example becomes the rule by which his children live. The husband and father strikes the keynote for right or wrong living."

A New Kind of "Fire Dog." An effective pair of andirons for hall fireplaces, or "fire dogs," as they are sometimes called, may be made at an ordinary blacksmith's. Those shown in the accompanying sketch were made by a village workman who, at his forge, bent the bars and bands of iron into the shapes required and put them together with bolts. The design was adopted from a pair brought from an old French chateau, where they were originally used to support the spit whereon the juicy joints of "ye old time" were roasted. The inclosure at the top, doubtless, in those days, held plates to be heated, but a prettier use for them is as holders of blue and white porcelain vases for flowers. The basket is easily made by a blacksmith, as it

Accomplishments of the Camel. "I first formed my opinion of a camel some years ago, when I rode across the Arabian deserts, and I see no reason to alter it in any way. The creature has so many talents and so many ways of exhibiting them. And, to begin with, it can kick, harder, higher, swifter and oftener than a mule, and can use all four feet at the same time in a kicking match. Then it can bite worse than a vicious horse, and buck in a way to make a broncho blush with absolute shame. No rider ever lived who can stay on that perch, seven feet from the ground, during a camel's exhibition of gymnastics. Then he can run away when he feels like it, and is often seized with a desire to slope. Upon an occasion of this kind his rider experiences a sensation between being blown up with dynamite and struggling against the throes of an earthquake, until all his joints are dislocated, and he drops, a limp, inert mass, to the ground. Then this sweet creature has a way of evincing his displeasure that is at least effectual and convincing. He twists his snake-like neck into a circle, and poking his ugly nose into the face of the rider, opens his cavernous mouth and lets out a roar of disgust in such a fetid breath that elevated human victim is fairly blown into the middle of the coming north (a week being too short a distance)."

Depressed.

"I am told," remarked Miss Cayenne, "that you said some very clever things last evening."

"Yes," replied Willie Washington; "it is very discouraging."

"What is?"

"The surprised manner in which everybody is talking about it."

Respectment.

"I don't mind these new reform ideas of the emperor," said Li Hung Chang pensively, "but—"

"You resent the loss of your yellow jacket and peacock feathers?"

"I could go without them. I don't want any embellishments. This effort to decorate me with a bell punch and a cash register is what arouses my resentment."

DOORS MADE OF VENEER.

Hall Doors, Not Even the More Costly Are Made of Solid Wood.

The very finest of doors are made nowadays of veneer on a body of pine. Even when made of mahogany or some other costly wood, doors have to be veneered. The body of the door is made of a plain, straight-grained mahogany, while the surfaces are veneers of fine wood.

In the finest doors the body is made of selected white pine, free from sap and perfectly seasoned, which is cut into narrow strips and then glued together. The outer edges of this door are faced with what is called a veneer, but which is really a strip of the fine wood half an inch or more in thickness. The inner edges of the frame, by the panels, are covered in the same manner with thick strips, in which the ornamental moldings, or carvings, are made, and which are grooved to receive the panels.

This built-up frame of white pine, with edges of the fine wood, is then veneered with the fine wood. In some lighter doors the panels may be of solid mahogany, but in the finer, larger and heavier doors the panels also are made of sheets of white pine with a veneering of the fine wood, so that the entire door is veneered.

It would be difficult, if not impossible, to procure at any cost mahogany lumber in fine and beautiful woods of sufficient size for the larger doors. The built-up and veneered door of pine wood, however, has every appearance of a solid door, and, made of selected veneers, it may be more beautiful than a solid door would be. It is more serviceable and remains longer perfect. Its cost is about half what a solid door would cost.
