FACTS ABOUT THE LOST CAUSE.

REVELATIONS MADE BY AN OLD SURVIVOR.

In a comfortable frame house at Woodland, a pretty suburb on the Wabash Railroad, lives one of the only two survivors of the Provisional Congress of the Southern Confederacy. He is Dr. Samuel Howard Ford, for more than sixty-two years a clergyman of the Baptist Church, an L. L. D., a D. D., and Ph. D. The other living member of that memorable Congress is J. L. M. Curry, formerly of Alabama, now of Washington city.

Dr. Ford is eighty-two years old. For more than fifty years he has edited The Christian Repository, one of the foremost Baptist periodicals of the country. He was born in England, but came to this country with his parents in early childhood. Dr. Ford came to St. Louis from Memphis in 1871, after the yellow fever epidemic in the South. It was his second coming to the city in which he had been educated and had served in editorial positions. Prior to his Memphis residence he lived in Mobile. Talking recently of the early days of the war he said:

"I was astonished to learn that I had been elected by the legislature a commissioner for the State of Kentucky to get that State into the Confederacy, and that I was a member of the Provisional Congress from the Louisville district. Luke Blackburn, afterward Governor of Kentucky, was my opponent, but the final vote was unanimous. I had never appeared in public as a politician, and at first felt inclined not to accept, but I went on to Richmond and was duly sworn in. That was in February, 1861.

"It is a fact not generally known that a number of men in the Provisional Congress were not originally secessionists. Alexander Stephens, the vice president, was not; neither was Ben Hill, of Georgia, nor Rives, of Virginia, and I was not, with many others. But we were in the current, and we had to do our best.

"There is one thing I would like to mention, which is known to but few, which is, that a motion was made in the Provisional Congress, whose doings were in secret, to confiscate all the debts due in the South to Northern creditors. It was favored by Jefferson, Davis and the administration but opposed with great power by Robert Toombs, of Georgia, who said, in the language of Aristides in regard to seizing the shipping in the Port of Athens: 'It was a good thing for Athens, but most unjust, and so let no unjust act mark the course of this confederacy.' It was due to Toombs' strong influence that the bill failed.

"There was a great deal of discussion just at that time in regard to the failure of an advance on Washington after the battle of Manassas. I was sent by Mr. Davis with a member from South Carolina, Boyce, to see Beauregard in regard to his going across to Kentucky to co-operate with Sydney Johnston, which he consented to do. In that conversation I learned definitely from Beauregard that the advance on Washington was not possible, as they had no transportation, and everybody thought the whole war was over after the Bull Run victory.

"J. L. M. Curry, then of Alabama, now of Washington city, is the only one left besides myself, who served in that original Provisional Congress. Senator Vest, from this State, became a member afterward and was in the permanent congress. I declined to run as a candidate for the permanent congress, but was offered positions in connection with the cabinet, which I also declined.

"Wigfall, of Texas, one of the most effective speakers, and a devoted champion of Davis, passed at once out of sight. No one has ever known what his end was. Reagan of Texas, a member of the administration still lives.

"My opinion is that if Toombs had been President of the Confederacy the whole thing would have been decided in three months. Toombs would have been president instead of Davis, if, on the day of election, he had not been the worse for liquor. He was a man of great decision, and unquestionably one of the first orators, but at the same time inclined to quarrel even with his best friends.

"Ben Hill, of Georgia, was in many respects the greatest statesman in the Confederacy. He was one of those who favored the closing of the war long before it came to pass, a fact which has never been recorded.

"Shortly after Grant's army had crossed the Potomac to make the final stand near Petersburg, it became apparent to many that the cause was lost. The border states, including Tennessee and Arkansas, were in the possession of the Federals. The whole sweep of the Mississippi was under their control.

"The representatives of these border states, including John C. Breckenridge, held a consultation and decided to propose to the government at Washington a complete surrender of the Confederacy as a whole, with all its arms and general assets, on terms that should be agreed upon. It was believed to be the only way to save the South from ruin. Davis was approached in regard to this proposition, but opposed it. So did the men from extreme points of the South, and especially opposed to it was Wigfall. I was not present at this consultation, but Senator Vest was, and had this been accomplished, guided by the diplomacy of Breckenridge, all the evils of reconstruction would have been avoided. It would have been the best thing for the South, and saved a great deal of bloodshed.

"The first floral decoration that occurred was in Memphis. The ladies decided to raise funds to erect a monument to the Confederate dead and adorn their graves with flowers. That was in May, 1866. They selected me to deliver an oration in Elmwood Cemetery. Some time before the event the mayor of the city called on me and informed me that the military authorities, who then occupied Memphis, had come to him, ordering him to forbid the assemblage and the address, but as the cemetery was outside the city, he had declined to take any part in the matter. A few days later an orderly brought me a letter from the commander, telling me that it was announced I was going to speak in memory of the enemies of the country, and forbidding me to do it. I sent word back that I had not been a soldier; that I was a denizen, if not a citizen, under the Tennessee laws, and that I was asked by the ladies to deliver what would really be a semi-sermon in memory of the dead, and that I would certainly do it, unless prevented by force, in which case the responsibility of what might occur will not rest with me. The matter was published in the Memphis papers, and created great excitement. The commissioner telegraphed my answer to Gen. Thomas at Nashville, and he sent it on to President Johnson at Washington.

"At midnight, preceding the day appointed for the memorial (the middle of May), an officer knocked at my door. I looked out of the window—we were rather cautious those days—to see who it was. The officer informed me that liberty had been granted by the military authorities at Washington for me to make the address. I asked him if he had communicated it to the papers, and he said he had.

"The next morning at about 10 o'clock the whole city turned out. More than 30,000 people repaired to Elmwood Cemetery. The ladies were seated on the grass around the platform amid the graves of the Confederate dead. Many Federal officers in undress uniforms were in the throng. I opened my address to that hushed throng by saying:

"When the beauty of Israel was slain on some high places, David took up the lamentation in inimitable strains that have drifted down to us with a peculiar pathos. 'Let there be no dew on Gilboa, nor rain, nor fields of offering,' and so on down to the conclusion of the chant, 'How have the mighty fallen!'

"If David could have taken up these strains of sadness and eulogy I continued, 'over the death of his lifelong foe, Saul, why shall we not utter the same words of tenderness over our own loved friends who sleep around us in silent, unmarked graves? Of them I can say:

"No battle banner o'er us waves,
No battle trumpet sounded:
They've reached the citadel of graves,
And here their arms are grounded!"

"It was my own composition and expressed with tears. And then I exclaimed somewhere in the address:

"Mistaken they may have been, but traitors, never! A thousand women, with tears streaming down from tender eyes, responded: Never! Never!"

"This speech was published all over the United States. It was the first Decoration Day speech, and inaugurated the solemn custom we observe at the present day in memory of the 'Blue and Gray.'" St. Louis Republic.

"Watts has a striking personality, hasn't he?"
"Yes; so striking that I always try to dodge him when I have a cent in my pocket."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

SEVERED ARTERY REPAIRED.

Wonderful Operation Performed by the Russian Kamisky.

In the recent medical archives in the library of St. Petersburg is an account of a most wonderful operation performed by Kamisky, one of the greatest surgeons of his time, an operation like which no other is recorded. Poitinkosh, a rich farmer, cattle raiser and raundeer farmer, residing north of St. Petersburg, suffered an injury to the upper end of the right thigh, caused by being violently hurled from his sleigh, the latter having struck a stump. The farmer in falling was jagged by a snag which struck him about two inches below the fold of the flank, causing a torn, bleeding, gasping wound of about two inches in length, directly downward and in a line over the femoral artery (the large artery which supplies the entire leg with blood), the latter vessel having been laid bare and severely bruised in the wreck, no large vessels having been torn.

Kamisky, with the great wisdom of a world of experience, wisely apprehended the possible results of this peculiar wound, and for the next twenty-four hours he spent every minute of his time, valuable as it was, working with chemical fire, molten substances and apparatus of divers kinds until finally the object of his efforts was finished, a small hollow, elastic, colorless tube, about five inches long, the composition of which is not recorded, consequently not known. In twelve hours after his task was finished careful scrutiny of the injured limb revealed a slight bluish tint, scarcely noticeable, on the end of the great toe. This was the signal for operation to the surgeon, and the stockman was immediately taken to the operating-room, where, in order to arrest oncoming gangrene, he was subjected to an odd and experimental operation.

After the patient was anesthetized the wound was uncovered, carefully cleaned and the tissue carefully pushed and dissected away from the large artery, exposing about 3½ inches of bruised vessel, ready to disintegrate. A clamp was placed on the artery an inch above where normal sound tissue began; then he cut the artery at the junction of the bruised and sound tissue, and, carefully drawing the mysterious tube from its aseptic hiding-place, he slipped the cut, round end of the vessel into it about an inch being exceedingly careful while so doing to keep the hollow tube collapsed and empty, so as to avoid all danger produced by the entrance of air.

Repeating the same process at the lower end of the artery, he inserted the tube into the end of the vessel about the same distance as the upper end lay in the tube. Then gently releasing the lower clamp, he allowed the tube to fill with blood from the portion of the vessels below. Then the final test came when he gently and steadily removed the clamp above the tube, thus establishing an unbroken channel which would carry the blood to its normal distribution.

A slight punching of the tube at first caused some fear as to whether it were strong enough to stand the pressure of the heart wave of blood as the latter pulsed through its new channel. This latter defect was overcome, however, when the tube was laid in the bed of the bruised excised portion and the external support of the muscles and tissues gave it sufficient strength to overcome the pressure of the blood-stream. The wound was carefully closed, the parts set at rest and results awaited. In thirty-six hours the blue tint had disappeared from the toe and the color of the skin of the leg changed from a pale ashy to a pink.

Two months afterward the patient was attending his everyday duties as formerly, suffering no inconvenience whatever from his wound. Five years afterward the patient died of acute pneumonia, and a postmortem examination of the seat of the wound revealed a strong, firm plastic composition tube, the latter having been absorbed by the blood, not, however, before the lymphatics had so encysted it, just as a bullet becomes encysted in the body after months of time, to the extent that when the tube was eaten away by the blood this fibrous coat answered the original plan of circulation.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The literary features of The Eclectic Magazine for May are among its most striking attractions. They include an exhaustive and flattering review of The Poetry of Mr. Stephen Phillips, from the Edinburgh Review; a characteristically clever article by Andrew Lang on The Evolution of Literary Deceit; Mr. Robert Buchanan's reply to Sir Walter Besant in the Kipling Controversy, entitled The Ethics of Criticism; and a paper on John Ruskin by Julia Wedgwood, which has a strong personal as well as literary interest. In this list belong also a delightful appreciation of The Sentiment of Thackeray from the Quarterly Review; and a tribute by R. Le Gallienne to that too-little appreciated poet, Sidney Lanier. Topics of specially timely interest are Major Griffith's account of the workings of the much-maligned Intelligence Department of the British War office; and an article on Paris and the Exposition, translated from the French of M. Gabriel Hanotaux. Animal-lovers cannot fail to enjoy Woods Hutchinson's article on Animal Chivalry; and there is food for half an hour's mirth in Catherine I. Dodd's summary of School Children's Ideals. The poets of the number are M. Henri de Regnier, Austin Dobson, William Watson, Sir Edwin Arnold and Moira O'Neill, a brilliant list. The Living Age Company, Publishers, Boston.

W. H. SHIPMAN, Beardsley, Minn., under oath, says he suffered from dyspepsia for twenty-five years. Doctors and dieting gave but little relief. Finally he used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and now eats what he likes and as much as he wants, and he feels like a new man. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

ARC LIGHT INVENTORS.
A patent record which has been unearthed at Toronto shows that the original inventors of the electric arc light were two Toronto men—Henry Woodward, a medical student, and Matthew Evans, a saloon-keeper. The invention, completed in 1873, was the fruit of their joint experiments. It was patented in the following year.

DEWEY ON PARADE.

CHICAGO, May 1.—Today's celebration, the first in America at which Admiral George Dewey could be present on the anniversary of the battle of Manila bay, was worthy of the famous victory.

Fully 600,000 persons were gathered along the line of march of the day's parade, and for four hours Dewey was busy bowing acknowledgments of the cheers that met him from all sides.

When the parade entered the thickly crowded streets down town the admiral met with his real reception, and it was most enthusiastic. The cheers made practically one continuous roar, at many times so loud that it was difficult to hear the music of the band which marched ahead of Dewey's carriage.

The sidewalks were packed from curb to walls, and all joined in giving Dewey a welcome which in point of enthusiasm has never been surpassed by that extent to any man who has ever been the guest of the city of Chicago.

On the steps of the Art Institute on Michigan avenue were gathered 300 young women, a number clad in white, being so placed as to spell the word "Dewey."

Speaking to the Manila veterans escorting his carriage, the Admiral said on seeing one of these Olympians, "See, boys, there is the old ship," and the sailors gave a hearty "Aye, aye, sir," in response.

Not less pleasing to Dewey than the expressions of greeting and good will shown by the decorations were the many spontaneous proofs of a real welcome that he received.

When his carriage came near enough women threw flowers from the widows of high buildings, and the sailors around his carriage picked up many bouquets that had missed their mark and fallen in the street.

After traversing the business part of the city the parade was reviewed by Admiral Dewey in the presence of thousands of people in a literally solid mass for blocks on either hand.

A luncheon was given at the Union League Club, and in the evening Admiral Dewey and his aides were the guests of the University Club, while Mrs. Dewey and the members of the women's reception committee were entertained at dinner by Mrs. Arthur Caton.

Admiral Dewey and his party visited the Naval Reserve Association ball at the First Regiment Armory late at night.

"I had stomach trouble twenty years and gave up hope of being cured till I began to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It has done me so much good I call it the saviour of my life," writes W. R. Wilkinson, Albany, Tenn. It digests what you eat. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

In addition to the national military parks at Gettysburg, Chickamauga, Antietam, Shiloh and Vicksburg, it is now proposed to establish others at Stone River, near Fredericksburg, and at Atlanta. CIRCULATION STATEMENT.

The monthly circulation statement of the Comptroller of the Currency shows the total circulation of national bank notes at the close of business, April 30, 1900, to have been $285,273,326, an increase for the year of $42,553,993, and an increase for the month of $24,325,258.

The circulation based on United States bonds amounted to $246,067,162, an increase for the year of $38,100,875, and an increase for the month of $12,782,932.

The circulation secured by lawful money amounted to $39,211,164, an increase for the year of $4,463,118, and an increase for the month of $1,542,326.

The amount of United States registered bonds on deposit to secure circulating notes was $268,405,240, and to secure public deposits, $93,636,080.

Among these amounts were nearly $241,000,000 in the new 2 per cent. consols.

THE ANCIENTS believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of sciatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the infliction is demonic enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement.

MONSTER LABOR PARADE. Organized labor in Philadelphia gave a demonstration on Monday night in the form of a monster street parade, in which over 20,000 union workmen took part.

The parade ushered in May day, and was held to give effect to the campaign started by all the building trades of Philadelphia for an eight hour work day at increased wages.

The new schedules went into effect on Tuesday, and in a majority of the trades the employers have signed the necessary agreements. The building trade unions have the sympathy of other unions in Philadelphia.

The last official act of Mayor Geisel was to sign the proclamation for the special election in the new Thirteenth ward on Tuesday, May 15.

A PASSENGER TRAIN MISSING.

MARINETTE, Wis., May 1.—Forest fires in Northern Michigan and Wisconsin have destroyed one village and several others are threatened. The dry timber is proving easy prey to the flames, which the high wind has spread over a wide area.

Ames, the town entirely wiped out, had a population of 200. There was a store, cedar yard, station and 15 or 20 houses. Along the right of way of the St. Paul Railway, north of Ellis Junction, the fires are still raging.

A passenger train on the Wisconsin and Michigan road, which left Fisher, Mich., Sunday morning has not been heard from since and is somewhere in the burned district. The wires are all down north of Fisher.

Forest fires are also said to be burning all along the Soo road to Minneapolis. The property and timber destroyed already will probably mean a loss of over $100,000.

A dispatch from East Tawas, Mich., says that forest fires are running through timber lands and cedar swamps in that locality.

In reply to the Senate resolution, Secretary Gage sent a statement showing that over one hundred and eighty-three millions were derived from the war revenue act.

It Purifies the Blood. Cures All Eruptions. Overcomes That Tired Feeling. Eradicates Scrofula.

Thousands of men allied with the building trades in Northern cities have quit work because of refusal of contractors to yield to demands for eight-hour day and for more wages.

G. W. Weaver & Son. G. W. Weaver & Son.

GETTYSBURG. It has been said that if we endeavor to trace out the principle of action in individuals it will be found that every man, in proportion to his vigor, is more or less actuated by ambition.

Whether in the conduct of our business we are actuated by ambition, or by a desire for gain, this store stands forth this season as the best in values and comprehensiveness.

Take our ready to wear stock for instance—we know where of we speak when we say that it excels in variety, in the values we give, in styles and fit any similar department outside of the large cities.

THE TAILOR MADE SUITS up-to-datens in everything except prices. They were contracted for, to be made, from goods at old prices—we cannot promise to duplicate any at our prices) and we make an offering of about 25 suits—top notch in style and fit, mostly in single breasted Jacket Suits, made of Navy Blue Cheviots, Check Casimeres and a few Home Spuns. Jackets lined in Silk Serge, skirts in good Peraline; regular $12.00 values, at $8.90.

Suits at $10.00, $12.00, 14.00, worth fully $2.50 more to-day.

ODD DRESS SKIRTS, we mean one or two of a kind that cannot be re-ordered at the former price, reduced to $1.50, $2.00, $3.00—a full dollar under in each. Plenty of better skirts, including Rainy Days.

SHIRT WAISTS. Some of our wisest customers are laying in their supply of Shirt Waists from this first stock of ours, because of first choice and because they can see there is no skimp or hurry in the making. The 50c. waist as carefully made as the $3.00 one. A selection now from nearly a hundred dozen.

Crash and P. K. Skirts. Summer is likely to step in any day, we are ready to have you dress comfortably for the season. We pay the same attention to details in selection of a skirt that costs 50c. as one costing $5.

Special in crash skirts is a heavy half linen, made very full—deep hem, at $1.00. Crash Skirts from 50c. to $2.00. White P. K. and Duck, $1.00 to 2.50.

CALICO AND LAWN WRAPPERS. 50c. to $1.25, a full cut, as you would probably make them yourself, and we were going to say with a great deal more style, yet there is no style to a house wrapper, but beauty instead and comfort.

MERCERISED SATEEN SKIRTS look as well as silk—wear much better and cost less—price starts at 1.00. A really rich one at $2.00, $2.50, $3.00.

The city will take an appeal to the Circuit Court.

DAME BARBARA'S BIRTH.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 30.—Recent discussion over the incidents connected with the life of Barbara Freichte, the heroine of Whittier's poem, has brought to light the entry in the records of the First Reformed Church, this city, of her birth. The record says that "Barbara, daughter of Nicholas Hauer and Catherine," was born in Lancaster on December 3, 1766, and was baptized in that church by the Rev. William Hendel on December 14 of the same year. Mrs. Barbara Gamber acting as sponsor for the infant.

The date accords with the age ascribed to Barbara at the time of the war incident narrated by Gen. Henry Kyd Douglas, of Gen. Stonewall Jackson's staff. She removed from Lancaster to Frederick with her parents when a little girl, and there married. Rev. Dr. J. H. Duhs of Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, has Dame Barbara's Bible, regarding it as a precious relic.

SNIDER—HORNOR.

A very pretty marriage was solemnized on the afternoon of April 24th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Hornor, of Mountjoy township. The contracting parties were their daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, and Mr. Mark Ray Snider, a young merchant of Harney, Md. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. G. Minnick, pastor of Mt. Joy church. The bride was attired in white organdie and carried a bouquet of carnations. The attendants were Misses Gertrude and Ruth Hornor, sisters of the bride, and Mr. Cleason B. McIlhenny and Master John Hartman. The wedding march was rendered by Miss Martha Hartman. After the happy couple had received the congratulations of all present, a bountiful wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Snider were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents. Later the couple left for a trip to Baltimore. On their return they will reside in Harney.

TO FAIRPLAY PATRONS.

The Rural Free Mail Delivery in parts of Adams County went into effect on May 1. The Star Route Carrier between Gettysburg and this place, has been laid off, consequently Emmitsburg now has no direct mail communication to Fairplay, which is only about three miles from here.

The new mail system will greatly interfere with the heretofore prompt delivery of THE CHRONICLE to our subscribers at Fairplay, but we hope they will exercise patience, for under the present circumstances the delay is unavoidable. Postmaster Hornor informs that THE CHRONICLE may not reach Fairplay until some time on Monday morning, as mail from this place to Fairplay is now sent via Highfield, or via Hanover to Gettysburg and from there by the Rural Free Delivery to Fairplay.

As the Rural Free Mail Delivery is proving successful wherever it has been thoroughly tested, an effort may be made to have the system inaugurated in this District. Should the system be secured for this section of the country, it will again give Emmitsburg and Fairplay direct mail facilities.

MOUNTAIN FIRES.

On Friday the locomotive attached to the train that passes Pen-Mar about noon, on the Western Maryland railroad, seemed to be on fire. It was extinguished by fire last Saturday afternoon. The buildings were near the center of the city and very close to some of its most valuable property, including the Old Fellows' Hall and the new Westminster Hotel, the Methodist Protestant Church and a number of fine private residences. The fire originated in Mrs. Rippard's barn. A high wind was blowing and the sparks were carried several blocks away, causing several other fires to start, which were, however, suppressed. The fences leading to the Old-Fellows' building were burned, and the fire was checked in that direction by tearing down all the fences. The live stock of Mrs. Rippard was saved, but a quantity of hay, oats, harness, etc., was destroyed. The loss on the building is about $700 and is insured for $300 in the Carroll County Insurance Company. The loss of Mr. Matthews is about $150, uninsured. Over a thousand persons witnessed the firemen subdue the flames. Mr. John H. Mitten, manager of the American Sentinel, was severely burned on his right hand in attempting to save some of the property.

AN EPIDEMIC OF WHOOPING COUGH.

Last winter during an epidemic of whooping cough my children contracted the disease, having severe coughing spells. We had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy very successfully for croup and naturally turned to it at that time and found it relieved the cough and effected a complete cure.—JOHN E. ## FIRE IN WESTMINSTER.

A large barn on the premises of Mrs. Emily J. Rippard and a stable on the adjoining premises of Mr. George E. Matthews, of Westminster, were destroyed by fire last Saturday afternoon. The buildings were near the center of the city and very close to some of its most valuable property, including the Old-Fellows' Hall and the new Westminster Hotel, the Methodist Protestant Church and a number of fine private residences. The fire originated in Mrs. Rippard's barn. A high wind was blowing and the sparks were carried several blocks away, causing several other fires to start, which were, however, suppressed. The fences leading to the Old-Fellows' building were burned, and the fire was checked in that direction by tearing down all the fences. The live stock of Mrs. Rippard was saved, but a quantity of hay, oats, harness, etc., was destroyed. ## A PROBABLE MURDER.

There have been no developments in the case of Burton West, a prosperous farmer, aged 60 years, who was found dead on the county road about 14 miles from Snow Hill, last Sunday morning, in such a condition as to indicate that he had been murdered. He was in Snow Hill on Saturday, and when he started for home at night he was under the influence of liquor. Two colored boys, Sanders Townsend and Arnold Martin, were hired by some friends to see that he reached home safely, for which they started about 10.30 o'clock, driving a pair of mules and on horse with a wagon-load of shingles.

Early Sunday morning the body of Mr. West was found lying face up in a fence corner near a large pool of blood, an evidence which showed that the body had been dragged about 18 feet. The boys were found later and stated that when they reached a point about a quarter of a mile from where the body was found they told Mr. West they would leave him and cut across a field, joining him at another turn of the road. Instead of doing this they went to the home of Henry Townsend, brother-in-law of Sanders, where they stayed overnight, and did not know of the tragedy until told Sunday morning.

A medical examination showed that Mr. West's skull was fractured above the right ear, a large contused wound on the right side of the head and a scalp wound; the collar bone was found to be broken and there was a ragged cut on the right shoulder. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the deceased had come to his death at the hands of persons unknown.

The colored boys are at present held as witnesses.

FAIRFIELD ITEMS.

FAIRFIELD, May 1.—The fire that is raging in the neighborhood of Pine Grove Furnace, has burned over 60 acres of timber land, burning several large ice houses and other buildings.

Every town should have a good supply of water. In this Fairfield is wanting. If a house should catch fire the citizens could only stand and look at the fire, as there is no way to extinguish the flames. There is plenty of water but nothing but buckets, which is a slow process to outen fire.

WILL NEVER EAT JUNK AGAIN.

Arthur Shutt, known as the "man with the junk-shop stomach," has been discharged from the Johns Hopkins Hospital. Never again, he told the physicians, will he adopt the junk diet, but will in the future eat what other human beings eat.

By the physicians Shutt was regarded as one of the strangest characters that has ever entered the institution. He is 22 years old and lives at 732 Colorado avenue, Roland Park, Baltimore. He was admitted to the hospital on March 13 last, but with some suspicion by the physicians, on account of the extraordinary story he told. All suspicion was removed when the physicians opened Shutt's stomach and took therefrom a quantity of nails, tacks, chains, knife blades, broken glass and such stuff. He said he had been in the habit of chewing for wagers such articles, but, owing to his skill at deceiving those who watched him, had never been compelled to swallow the articles until three nights before his admission to the hospital.

On March 10 he met a number of medical students in a West Baltimore street saloon, who compelled him to strip to the waist. Having dared him, Shutt said, he couldn't preserve his reputation unless he complied. Then he ate the miscellaneous collection of nails, chains, knife handles, etc. For three days Shutt suffered great pain before he begged admission to the hospital. The operation was performed by Prof. William S. Halstead. From Shutt's stomach were taken the following articles:

Four brass watch chains, with catches and stays.
Twelve and a half feet of 4-inch iron chain.
Twenty-five grams, or nearly an ounce, of ground glass.
One staple.
Forty-nine tacks.
Two screweyes.
Eleven pins.
Eight screws.
Nine horseshoe nails.
Seven knife blades.
Two knife handles.
Nineteen wire nails.
Seventy-two assorted nails.

LARGE BUILDING MOVED.

Mr. J. A. Cookery, of Middletown, with a force of hands and suitable appliances, has been engaged in moving the large building on the northwest corner of First and High streets, Brunswick, to a new foundation 42 feet west and 7 feet south of the location. The building is 24x50 feet in dimension and two stories high. Although the building was a large one, and not very substantially built and the move was a hard one, not even a glass was broken in it, so carefully was it handled. The place where the old building stood will be occupied by the new Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank building, which will be quite an ornament to that section of Brunswick.

VERDICT NOT GUILTY.

In Cumberland on last Friday evening the jury in the case of Walter Wade, charged with the murder of Orven Edwards at Borden shaft, brought in a verdict of not guilty after being out nearly seven hours. The finding was received with general disfavor, it being the opinion that some punishment should have been meted out. The first ballot of the jury stood five for acquittal, four for manslaughter and three for second-degree murder. The jury congratulated Wade in the courtroom. Wade met his betrothed, Miss Rosa Crowe, in the office at the jail. The meeting was affectionate. The girl sobbed. Miss Crowe, who had been held at the jail as a witness, was released. She was the only witness to the tragedy. Edwards, who was shot, was a rival of Wade for Miss Crowe's hand.
