OUR ENORMOUS APPLE CROP.

It is an established fact that the United States now holds the record for rapid development of fruit industries, such as the growing of oranges and lemons, peaches and grapes, says Pearson's Magazine. As a nation we eat more fruit than any other and grow cousiderably more than we eat. Eighty millions of dollars a year is the figure for strawberries alone. A hundred millions would scarcely cover the value of all the grapes marketed. Peaches we raise in atonishing quantities, in orchards containing as many as 300,000 trees, but our banner crop so far as fruit is concerned is apples. We have produced as many as 210,000,000 barrels in a single season, and have sold as high as 3,000,000 barrels to England alone. We carry in cold storage every winter anywhere from 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 barrels of the crop of the season before in order to secure better prices. Ships weigh anchor in New York three at a time in a single week bearing apples to Europe. Indeed, it is one of the greatest industries the country has eyer witnessed, and promises to take rank as the chief fruit crop of the world.

Mills county, and indeed, all the southwestern section of Iowa, is truly a wonderful apple country, but not much more important than one of a score of regions in various parts of the country which produces apples. In that county alone there are over 900,000 trees; averaging at the lowest 10 bushels to a tree per annum. One hundred and fifty thousand of these trees are in one cure eczema and skin diseases and orchard. The total output is close to ugly wounds and sores. counties, much smaller than Mills, Co. which do even better than this, and as a State it raises three times as many apples as lowa. The counties referred to are Niagara and Orgether raise 7,000,000 barrels of the best kind of market apples. All through this area are orchards holding 30,000, 40,000 and occasionally 100,000 trees, which in blossoming make of the roadside a paradise.

If it commences with "dear" and ends with "yours" the recipient is fain to be content. Sometimes the letter isn't a letter at all, but a note of half a dozen words that comes by a messenger boy, and sometimes it's merely a telegram that announces, "Well. See you Sunday." He gets married, to be sure, without great difficulty, but that is merely because the young women have no one with whom to compare him to his disadvantage. If he had to measure up against his own early relatives in pretty speeches and written words, no doubt his chances of matrimony would be knocked into a cocked hat before one could use that very unmeaning phrase "Jack Robin-

· LOVE RULES ALL.

And sold I that my limbs were old?

And said I that my blood was cold
And that my kindly fire was fled
And my poor withered heart was dead
And that I might not sing of love?
How could I to the dearest theme
That ever warned a minstre!'s dream. That ever warmed a minstrel's dream, So foul, so false a recreant prove? How could I name love's very name Nor wake my harp to notes of flame?

In peace Love turns the shepherd's reed; In war he mounts the warrior's steed; In halls in gay attire is seen, In hamlets dances on the green.

Love rules the court, the camp, the grove,

And men below and saints above.

For love is heaven, and heaven is love.
—Sir Walter Scott.

THEY BUILT THE ROAD. And Gould Knew Where to Get the Rails to Do It. Jay Gould once wanted to build a short line to a certain place and found rivals in the field. To Sylvester T. Smith he gave Imperative orders, "Get out as big a force as possible, and complete the road before the other fellows get wind of it, and we'll head 'em off."

Smith reported presently, "Mr. Gould, we can get all the ties, fishplates, bolts, nuts and spikes we want, but we can't get the rails." "Telegraph to every mill in the country, and and tear up something. We've got to have rails." He indicated the road to have rails." He indicated the road to destroy, a branch or feeder of the heard her, but if he did he paid not the Union Pacific.

Smith soon had the old road torn up and the new one laid down. Then sumed as she wiped her eyes on her came war. Stockholders of the Union Pacific learned of the enterprise and haled Smith to court to answer for tearing up a railroad that belonged to them. To their questioning he admitted all and had no excuse but that Jay Gould ordered him to do it.

"Who is Jay Gould?" some asked. "What has he got to do with it?" Up rose a young lawyer from New York to inform them that Mr. Gould owned all the bonds of the Union Pacific road, though not a dollar of its stock, and that he was absolute proprietor of the feeder that Mr. Smith had torn up. There never was a more surprised and mystified lot of men. They had nothing more to say.-San Francisco Argonaut.
