

QUAY WINS WITH EASE.

After a memorable struggle which had continued several years, Matthew Stanley Quay was elected on Tuesday by the Pennsylvania Legislature to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate created by the expiration of his term March 4, 1899.

His combined vote in the Senate and House was 130, or three more than the number necessary to a choice. Mr. Quay's commission has already been prepared and signed, and he took it to Washington Wednesday afternoon.

The Democratic vote was cast almost solidly for Col. James M. Guffey, of Pittsburgh. The vote of the anti-Quay Republicans was divided among nine "favorite sons."

Colonel Guffey lost three votes by the absence of Representatives George S. Maloney, of Venango, and Madison A. Gavin, of Adams, who were unable to be present on account of illness, and the pairing of Representative Arthur H. Squier, of Wyoming, with Isaiah R. Halderman, of Montgomery, Republican.

The wildest excitement prevailed during the balloting in the House. Long before that body convened at 3 o'clock, the chamber was packed with legislators and spectators.

DISAGREEING DOCTORS. "The number of things that we don't know in this world," says the Boston Globe, "is only limited by the side of the human imagination."

SENATORS ELECTED. United States Senators were elected by State Legislatures Tuesday as follows: Pennsylvania, M. S. Quay; Massachusetts, G. F. Hoar; Maine, W. P. Frye; New Hampshire, H. E. Burnham; Colorado, T. M. Patterson; Michigan, James McMillan; Idaho, Frederick T. Dubois. The Delaware, and Nebraska Legislatures failed to elect.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury. As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly receive from them.

CUBA IS FOREIGN TERRITORY.

The Supreme Court of the United States decided Tuesday in the Neely extradition case that Cuba "cannot be regarded in any constitutional, legal or international sense a part of the territory of the United States." While the military occupation of the island by troops of the United States has been, as the Court declares, "the necessary result" of the War with Spain, and the Government was justified in all that it has done to establish order on the island, Cuba is "territory held in trust for the Cubans, to whom it rightfully belongs and to whose exclusive control it will be surrendered when a stable government shall have been established by their voluntary action."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The House Naval Affairs Committee today completed the consideration of the Naval Appropriation bill and Chairman Foss was directed to report the bill to the House.

Two battleships and two cruisers are to be contracted for under the head of increase of the navy. The sum of $21,000,000 is allowed under the head of increase of the navy, as against $12,000,000 for the current year. This amount is for the continuation of work on vessels, etc., already contracted for, no appropriation being made for the ships authorized in the bill.

For continuing the improvements at the Naval Academy the committee allowed $3,000,000. An increase of 6,000 men in the enlisted strength of the navy is provided for bringing it up to 22,500 men. Provision also is made for the commission as ensigns of the two classes of naval cadets now at sea, and the class which finishes its four years course at the naval Academy in June. This will add immediately about 150 men to the commissioned force of the navy.

Ill-fitting Shoe Caused Death. Walter Steel, one of the founders of the Carpenter Steel Works, died this week at Reading, Pa., after an illness of five weeks from blood poison and gangrene. Several months ago the large toe of Mr. Steel's left foot became inflamed as the result of irritation caused by the shoe. Mr. Steel paid little attention to it, but about five weeks ago the member began to cause him great pain and to become considerably swollen.

A FREIGHT wreck occurred on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, near Alberton, Howard county, resulting in a loss of several thousand dollars.

"JESSUP'S CUT."

The House of Correction is known all over the State as a penal institution, but very few people outside the criminals know what kind of work the inmates do. "Jessup's Cut" is thus described by a correspondent of the Cantonville Argus:

It is to the outside an attractive place, with large buildings, grounds artistically laid out and decorated with flowers and a wide, smooth driveway to the station, made by prisoners under the supervision of Mr. Jesse J. Moore, the efficient manager for twelve years prior to the Lowndes administration and the present superintendent. The grounds are kept in their present attractive condition by twenty prisoners, under a special guard, and directed by the landscape gardener.

The inmates number 42 females, of whom 26 are colored and 16 white; 250 colored men and the remainder white—in all about 440 persons. The women are largely employed in the kitchen and housework, including the laundry, and the men in four factories, making coco matting and carpets, brooms, shirts and wicker work for demijohns.

Each of these factories employs about 75 men, who are hired to contractors, who pay the State 20 to 30 cents a day for each employe. The female department is under the supervision of a matron. In this the shirts are finished and laundered. The State boards the employes of the factories at a cost of 74 cents each day. The prisoners work about eight hours, have three meals, consisting of bread, coffee and molasses for breakfast and supper, and meats, soup and vegetables for dinner.

While the committee has not formally adopted this substitute it is understood there will be little opposition. Representative Pearce said to a correspondent that the cost of the work in Maryland would be relatively very slight, as nearly all of it had already been surveyed and mapped by the Geological Survey. These maps furnish the basis for all the maps of the divisions of soils, and so much work having already been done it would be wrong to discontinue it at present.

TO AID MARYLAND FARMERS.

The Maryland delegation in Congress got together Monday regarding a proposition before the House Committee on Agriculture, which had been submitted by the Subcommittee on the Appropriation bill. It was to amend the item for the support of the division of soils so as to confine the works within States where less than 30 per cent. of the arable land had been examined and mapped.

Representative Pearce telephoned Professor Clark, of the Johns Hopkins University, who has been a leading spirit in the movement, asking if such provision would be acceptable. He said it would be, as Maryland would then be protected.

While the committee has not formally adopted this substitute it is understood there will be little opposition. Representative Pearce said to a correspondent that the cost of the work in Maryland would be relatively very slight, as nearly all of it had already been surveyed and mapped by the Geological Survey.

WINGS.

The gods but hold reluctantly Grant us the gift of song; Yet, tawny throat, they give to these Pure notes and pinions strong.

To these blue worlds that arch above We look, aspirant and full; Then, how dost mount the skies we love, The stars we never scale.

Thou knowest not, winged soul, the firm Of that old discord strange, The vast and infinite desire, The all too finite range.

So sing to us! Our throats are all And song to us! Be true, To whom the gods we call, But not, alas, the win! —Arthur Storer Niessner in Atlantic Magazine

THE DATE OF THE FLOOD.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. He was absent 22 minutes, and when he arrived home he found her kneeling up in the big rocking chair, with a pillow behind her head and the camphor bottle in her hand.

JACK TAR'S GROWL.

A Story Illustrating the Sailor's Habit of Grumbling.

The author of "From Edinburgh to the Antarctic," writing of the sailor's habit of grumbling, says: "The dinners are all the same—that is to say, Monday's dinners are all alike, and what we have today we shall have this day six months hence. Jack's forefather this day 100 years ago had the same menu and made the same uncomplimentary remarks about the dishes, and 100 years hence on this day Jack's children will growl over their salt horse and plumless duff."

Once upon a time there lived a skipper whose wife said to him that if she went to sea the poor men would never deal with their food. Her husband took her with him on a voyage, and the good woman attended to the cooking in the galley herself. The scouse was thick with fresh vegetables, the bread was white and without weevil, the meat was good, and still the men growled. Then the skipper's wife thought of the hens she had brought on board to lay eggs for her husband's breakfast. She took them out of the coop, wrung their necks with her own fair hands, plucked them, roasted them and sent them to the forecabin on the cabin china.

THERE WASN'T ANY ROW.

It Was Simply a Case of Spontaneous Combustion.

He was a very young man, almost too young to be out on the street at that time of the night, 8:30 p. m., and his general appearance indicated that he had been picked up by a cyclone somewhere during his meanderings. He was not utterly demoralized, but there was something in his manner that would lead the close observer to the conclusion that all had not been well with him.

AN ACCOMPANIED COOK.

The family had an article for a cook. The family lived in a west end mansion. Throughout the house there were rich articles of furniture and bric-a-brac which had been picked up from time to time in the family's wanderings through Europe and other sections of the globe.

"What is your name?" asked the family. "Evangeline, thank you," came in reply from the dusky applicant. "Evangeline, then, tell me, are you a good cook?" "It's just like this: You see, I can do $100 cooking, $15 cooking, $20 cooking, but—" "There was undue emphasis on the 'but,' and Evangeline glanced admiringly about the house. Evangeline knew her little book well.

THE DATE OF THE FLOOD.

The date of the flood was 1,656 years after the birth of Adam, in the second month and the seventeenth day. It began then and continued for 40 days and nights. This is how it is figured: The third verse of the fifth chapter of Genesis reads thus, "And Adam lived 130 years and begat a son in his own likeness, after his image, and called his name Seth." Then in the sixth verse it is told that Seth lived 105 years and begat Enos. Adam, says the fourth verse, lived 800 years after the birth of Seth, and the latter after the birth of Enos lived 807 years. So it goes on; Cainan begat Methuselah when he was 70; Methuselah begat Jared when he was 65; Jared begat Enoch when he was 162; Methuselah was born to Enoch when the latter was 65, and when Methuselah was 187 he begat Lamech, and Lamech's son Noah came into the world when the father was 182. This brings us down to the birth of Noah, which, according to the added ages of the several patriarchs at the time their sons were born, occurred 1,656 years after the birth of Adam.

THE DATE OF THE FLOOD.

In the seventh chapter of Genesis the eleventh verse reads as follows: "In the sixth hundredth year of Noah's life, in the second month, the seventeenth day of the month, the same day were all the fountains of the great deep broken up and all the windows of heaven were opened." This was the flood, and it came to pass in the year 1656 after the birth of Adam.—New York Sun.

THE DATE OF THE FLOOD.

There is nothing more ridiculous than the average lawsuit. Two men dispute over a few dollars and go to law. Both are sure to lose. Their neighbors are dragged in as witnesses, and the costs amount to 10 or 20 times the amount in dispute. Frequently these lawsuits ruin families and start quarrels that last for years. Some make claim it is "principle" that actuates them in these lawsuits. It is neither of these, pure and simple. It is nearly always easy to "split the difference."

THE DATE OF THE FLOOD.

Another hard feature about these lawsuits is that the county is put to considerable expense, and men willing to work are compelled to sit on the jury. Settle your disputes without going to law. If the man with whom you are disputing is not willing to "split the difference," he will probably accept a proposition to leave it to three neighbors.—Aitchison Globe.

THE DATE OF THE FLOOD.

Advice From a Butcher. "What the newspapers should do is to devote less space to describing what people should eat, and more to what they should not eat," remarked the butcher. "Fashionably dressed women come in here every day who don't know lamb from mutton or a hen from a rooster. No wonder men have dyspepsia. I find that the men know more about the quality of food stuffs than women do. Many of the latter don't even know the few simple tests that might help them to distinguish an old fowl from a young one, and about meat they're greener yet. A young woman came in here the other day and asked for two pounds ofveal cutlets. I showed her the loin I proposed to chop the cutlets from, and she remarked, 'Yes; that's very nice, but isn't it rather thick to fry?'"—Philadelphia Times.

THE DATE OF THE FLOOD.

Two Great Objects. "They say," remarked the very cynical person, "that in this corrupt and superficial age the great object is not to be found out."

THE DATE OF THE FLOOD.

Spinsters. Unmarried women are called spinsters, or spinning women, because it was a maxim among our forefathers that a young woman should not marry until she had spun enough linen to furnish her house. All unmarried, old or young, were then called spinsters, a name still retained in all legal documents.
