

SIXTEEN PERISHED.

Reports from all sections of the country indicate that one of the most severe storms in some years swept over the Southern and Middle Western States on Saturday and Sunday.

A dispatch from Memphis, Tenn., states that seven persons killed, many injured, and a tremendous loss of property is the record of Saturday night's storm in that section so far as reports have been received.

At Rush Hill, near Memphis, Mrs. Dorris was instantly killed, as was also Ormar Roberts, aged 13 years.

Advices from Piggott state that great damage resulted from the storm there. The Methodist church was wrecked and the new courthouse and other buildings were smashed.

FULTON, Ky., March 11.—In a terrific storm that swept this section the damage was greatest at Clinton and Hickman. At Clinton 20 negro cabins were demolished, two negroes being mortally hurt and many others badly bruised.

FOREST CITY, Ark., March 11.—Three persons were killed and many injured in this vicinity on Saturday by a tornado. Four miles west of this city, Pinkey Watson, colored, and her infant child were the first victims.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 11.—A heavy rain, wind and thunder storm swept over Arkansas on Saturday. At Conway 15 business houses were unroofed, three others were blown down and many stores flooded.

MARINETTE, Wis., March 11.—A fierce blizzard swept over Northern Wisconsin yesterday and last night. Wind, snow and sleet combined to make it the worst storm in years.

GEN. HARRISON IS DEAD.

Gen. Benjamin Harrison, ex-President of the United States, died at his home in Indianapolis, Ind., at 4.46 o'clock Wednesday afternoon without regaining consciousness.

His death was painless, gradually sinking until the end came, which was marked by a single gasp for breath as life departed from the body. The relatives, with a few exceptions, and several of his old and tried friends were at the former President's bedside when he passed away.

General Harrison was in perfect health on Wednesday of last week, and contrary to common report was not suffering from a cold or from illness of any sort.

Thursday morning General Harrison awakened with a pain in his chest, which at first was hardly noticeable, but later gradually grew worse, until Mrs. Harrison became alarmed, and the family physician, Dr. Jameson, was summoned.

Saturday his condition was serious, but not such as to cause particular alarm. Sunday, for the first time, the physician began to have fears for the recovery of the patient. Since Monday morning his condition became gradually worse until the end came.

None of General Harrison's children was present at his death. Neither Col. Russell Harrison nor Mrs. James R. McKee had reached the city, although both were hurrying on their way to the bedside of their dying parent as fast as steam could carry them.

The leading events in ex-President Harrison's life may be summed up as follows:

1833—Born at North Bend, Ohio, August 20; son of John Scott Harrison and grandson of William Henry Harrison, President of the United States.

1851—Graduated from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

1853—Married to Caroline Lavina Scott.

1854—Began the practice of law in Indianapolis.

1862—Raised a company of Indiana volunteers for the Union Army; was successively promoted until he became brigadier-general.

1876—Unsuccessful Republican candidate for Governor of Indiana.

1881—Took a seat in the United States Senate, holding it until 1887.

1888—Elected President of the United States on the Republican ticket, receiving 233 votes in the Electoral College against 163 for Grover Cleveland.

1893—Renominated for the Presidency and defeated by Grover Cleveland, who received 277 Electoral votes, against 145 for Harrison and 22 for J. B. Weaver populist.

1896—His first wife having died, he married her niece, Mrs. Mary Scott Lord Dimmock.

1899—Council for the Venezuelan Government before the arbitration tribunal to settle the boundary dispute with Great Britain.

1900—Appointed by President McKinley a member of the International Court of Arbitration at The Hague.

ARRESTED IN MARYLAND.

John Toddes and James Fuhrman, horse dealers of Gettysburg, Pa., were arrested at Taneytown on last Wednesday afternoon, by order of State's Attorney Weant, upon request of J. L. Williams, District Attorney for Adams county. They were charged with fraudulent removal of property that had been levied upon by the Sheriff of Adams county. The property consisted of four horses and some farm implements. A hearing was set for 2 o'clock last Friday afternoon. John Toddes once lived at Marston, in this county.—Westminster Advocate.

An execution was issued in this county on a judgment note for about $90 held by F. K. Hafer against John Toddes on Saturday evening, March 24, and soon after a number of horses were removed from Todds' stable. Deputy Sheriff Jacob Morrison and Policeman Chas. H. Wilson, discovering the removal of the stock, followed them and located Todds with the property in Taneytown. Todds refused to return or to give up the horses and the above is the outcome of the matter.

We understand that a requisition will be issued by the Governor of Pennsylvania on the Governor of Maryland for the removal of Todds to Gettysburg.—Gettysburg Compiler.

THE RIGHT THING TO PUT ON. (Genesee's Plaster is Pain's Master.) From the natural impulse to "put something on" a painful spot all applications for the relief of pain have arisen.

The most successful have ever been poultices or plasters, and the best of these is Genesee's Plaster. It has the same power as a curative agent; it is highly and scientifically medicated, and its standard is advanced year by year.

Use Genesee's Plaster for coughs, colds, chest diseases, rheumatism, grip, neuralgia, kidney trouble, lame back, and other ailments that make Winter a season of suffering and danger. It relieves and cures quicker than any other remedy.

Do not accept Captains, Strengthening or Belladonna Plasters in place of Genesee's, as they possess none of its curative power. Insist on having the genuine.

The people of every civilized land have testified for years to the superior merit of Genesee's Plaster, and 5,000 physicians and druggists of this country have declared their worthy of public confidence.

In official comparisons with others, Genesee's Plaster has been honored with the highest awards.

For sale by all druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on the receipt of 25c. each. Accept no imitation or substitute. Salsbury & Johnson, Mfg. Chemists, N. Y.

Sophie E. Stonebraker, and Daniel K. Stonebraker, her husband, vs. Fannie Hergeshimer, John Hergeshimer, Perry Hergeshimer, Fanny Laley Clover, and Thomas Clover, her husband, Ellen Laley, Ada M. Laley, Mary J. Mindil and Charles B. Mindil, her husband, L. Kate Caldwell, and William A. Caldwell her husband, Rebecca H. Barriek and William M. Barriek, her husband, Martha D. Young, Mae A. Shurick, and Shelby C. Shurick, her husband, Gertrude A. Young, Orrin B. Young, Beulah O. Young, William H. Young and Edna Young.

This is a Bill of Complaint filed in the above Court by the said plaintiffs against the said defendants, the object being to obtain a Decree to sell the real estate of Sophie Hergeshimer, deceased. The Bill in substance recites the following: That Sophie Hergeshimer, wife of Joseph Hergeshimer, died in Frederick, Maryland, December 17th, 1846, intestate, possessed of a lot of ground located on the north side of East Fourth Street in Frederick City, Frederick County, Maryland, as described in the deed from Henry Henshaw et al., to Sophie Hergeshimer, dated February 19th, 1836, and recorded in Liber H. S. No. 1, folio 569, one of the land records of Frederick County, Maryland, that at the time of her death she left surviving her as her children and heirs at law, David Hergeshimer, Louisa Laley, Mary Young, Jane R. English and Sophie Hergeshimer; that David Hergeshimer died in the year 1859, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law, Fannie Hergeshimer, John Hergeshimer and Perry Hergeshimer, residents of West Virginia; that Louisa Laley died in 1860, leaving surviving her as her heirs at law, Perry A. Mindil married to Charles B. Mindil, Rebecca H. Barriek, and residents of the County of Pennsylvania, and L. Kate Caldwell, resident of Frederick county, Maryland; that Sophie Hergeshimer died unmarried in November, 1900; that said lot of ground is improved by a house, which house and lot are not susceptible of partition among the parties entitled thereto, without great loss and injury, and that it would be to the interest and advantage of all parties that the same be sold by a trustee appointed by said Court, and the net proceeds divided among the parties entitled thereto.

It is thereupon by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, on this 27th day of February, in the year 1901, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Frederick County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks before the 30th day of March in the year 1901, give notice to the non resident defendants of the object and substance of this Bill, warning them to be and appear in this Court in person or by their attorney on or before the date April 16th, in the year 1901, to show cause, if they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

RIBS PIERCED LUNGS.

Ernest P. Williams, of Hagerstown, employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in making improvements to the road bed at Hartman's water station, this county, was struck by a B. & O. helper at 8.30 o'clock last Thursday night and received injuries from which he died a few hours later.

Williams was going to the postoffice to mail a letter and was walking along the edge of the track in the direction of Jamsville. The engine was backing at a high rate of speed going in a westerly direction. Williams could not see the engine, as the tender was toward him and there were no lights. When the engine struck him he was hurled some distance and struck another man who was walking on the other track and knocked him some distance from the track.

Two ribs over the heart were broken and pierced the lungs, causing internal hemorrhage, the sternum was broken and the skull near the left temple was mashed in. Dr. Riggs, of Jamsville, was summoned and did all in his power to help Williams regain consciousness, but it was of no avail, and he died a few hours later.

The body of the unfortunate man was prepared for burial by C. C. Carly, and shipped to Hagerstown. Williams was about fifty years old and leaves a widow who resides in Hagerstown.

HEAVY RAIN.

An unusually heavy rain storm passed over this section of the country last Sunday night. The rainfall was the heaviest for a long time, and some persons claim it was the heaviest since the Johnstown flood. The heavy downfall of rain is accounted for by two storms meeting. The one started down about the Gulf of Mexico, and moved slowly northward, while the other originated in the Lake regions and moved toward the Atlantic Coast.

The creeks and streams overflowed their banks, and at an early hour Monday morning many of the streams were impassable. No great damage was done in this section of the country, although several culverts were washed away. Many of the public roads are in a very bad condition as a result of the storm.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

James T. White, aged 48 years, of Pearl, Frederick county, was killed on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near Plain No. 4 last Sunday night. William Hitzler, who was passing by the place early Monday morning, found the mangled body of the unfortunate man near the tracks. His skull was fractured, his left foot cut off above the ankle, his right leg badly fractured between the knee and hip and the rest of his body was badly bruised and cut. Mr. White, who was a brother of John K. White, of Frederick, left his home last Sunday night for the purpose of going to Sparrows point to endeavor to secure employment in the steel works there. It is thought that he was walking along the tracks toward Baltimore, when he was struck by an eastbound freight train and hurled to the spot where he was found. Justice Thomas Walsh summoned a jury, which after hearing the evidence of Mr. Hitzler, who found the body, rendered a verdict of accidental death. Mr. White is survived by a widow.

EMBANKMENT OF BIG LAKE BURSTS

The rain of Sunday night greatly injured the big lake recently completed at Buena Vista, east of Pen-Mar, owned by the Maryland-Pennsylvania Milk Company, which is to be used for boating pleasure in summer and an icefield in winter. The water in the lake, which lies along the tracks of the Western Maryland Railroad, was at one place 30 feet deep. The front embankment burst Monday morning at the top, and millions of gallons of water poured through the opening, about four feet square, and carried fallen trees, stumps, rocks, fencing and underbrush with it on its course down the western slope of the Blue Ridge Mountains toward Waynesboro. The flood reached the village of Rouzeville, at the foot of the mountain, but did no damage except to fencing, bridges, roads and culverts. The residents of that vicinity were greatly alarmed for a while and asked the many employes of the Geiser works in Waynesboro, to come to their assistance. A big force of men after the water in the lake was considerably lowered succeeded in filling up the break.

LIFE GUARDS.

The Life Guards are two regiments of cavalry forming part of the British household troops. They are gallant soldiers, and every loyal British heart is proud of them. Not only the Queens household, but yours, ours, everybody's should have its life guards. The need of them is especially great when the greatest foes of life, diseases, find allies in the very elements, as colds, influenza, catarrh, the grip and pneumonia do in the stormy month of March. The best way that we know of to guard against these diseases is to strengthen the system with Hood's Sarsaparilla—the greatest of all life guards. It removes the conditions in which these diseases make their most successful attack, gives vigor and tone to all the vital organs and functions, and imparts a genial warmth to the blood. Remember the weaker the system the greater the exposure to disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the system strong.

The lingering cough following gripe calls for One Minute Cough Cure. For all throat and lung troubles this is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. Prevents consumption. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

MOTTER.

Catharine Chadwick Motter, wife of the late Samuel Motter, of Emmitsburg, Md., died Feb. 14, 1901, at Pikesville, Md., in the seventy-eighth year of her age.

Mrs. Motter was born in Philadelphia. Her girlhood was spent in that city and most of her education received there. In early womanhood her family removed to Pittsburg, where she remained until the year of her marriage to Samuel Motter. Her entire married life was spent in Emmitsburg. Her husband will be remembered as the editor and publisher of the Emmitsburg Chronicle. At his death in 1883, Mrs. Motter assumed control of the paper and conducted it very successfully for five years, when her change of residence to Baltimore obliged her to discontinue the active management of it.

She was a great reader and despite her household cares she kept abreast of the times and wrote with incisive directness on many topics of the day. She was a woman of unusual force of character, of great goodness of heart, and of marked intellectual ability. Deliberate in reaching conclusions, when once formed they became positive convictions, and she always had the courage of them. It was within three weeks of her death that she published her last article—a letter of protest, in the Baltimore News against some unfair regulations made by an Electric Railroad Company. No one would have supposed it the work of a woman in her seventy-eighth year; it was as vigorous and convincing as her writings of 15 years ago. Her sympathy with those in trouble and her common-sense readiness in emergencies made her a welcome visitor in the homes of her many friends. Life was never quite the same to her after she left the home in Emmitsburg, and she often yearned for the social pleasures of the old town. She was a healthful and hearty woman, but three years before her death her interest in what was going on about her noticed her indispositions except when it was unavoidable. Early in January she had an attack of gripe which was followed by a severe cold, suffering only from extreme weakness; but the latter part of the month she had a relapse which culminated in a general collapse on Sunday, Feb. 3rd. Her serious illness lasted ten days and even on the last day strong hopes were felt that she might recover, but on the afternoon of Wednesday, Feb. 13th, as she sat talking with those about her she had a stroke of apoplexy which rendered her unconscious and she never rallied from that condition, but all unmindful of the furious tempest that raged without, she passed peacefully away at 2 o'clock A. M., Feb. 14th. The funeral service was held on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Methodist church, the pastor of which was a member. [During her life in Emmitsburg she was a faithful communicant member of the Reformed Church of the Incarnation, in this place, and she returned to the church of her childhood, the Protestant Episcopal.] She was buried in the cemetery at Emmitsburg on Saturday, Feb. 16th. The services at the grave were read by Rev. Mr. Lawrence.

Three children survive: Mrs. Charles I. Baker, of Pikesville, Md.; Mrs. Paul Motter, of Washington, D. C.; and Mrs. Arthur L. Lamb, of Baltimore, Md.

Peace rest and peace in the everlasting arms, these come to the righteous after the labors of life are done, and the sweet memories of them remain in the hearts of those who loved them and who wait in the confident hope of a glad tomorrow.

THE LAST HOME-COMING.

Mother Mariana Laid to Rest Among Her Sisters, in the Valley Cemetery, at St. Joseph's, Emmitsburg, Maryland.

Among the surroundings of the historic Valley of St. Joseph's, none are more sacred than the little inclosure known as "God's Acre," sown indeed with the seed of immortality; and recent events have rendered more hallowed still, this cherished spot—the little cemetery where now abide so many of the "living called the dead." Only a stone's throw from the group of buildings, its simple snowy headstones, gleaming in the sunlight, seem to reflect back to the home of the living those fond undying memories which religion glorifies and preserves.

The noon Emmitsburg train of the 12th inst., brought precious freight—the casket containing the remains of Mother Mariana Flynn, whose death, as was announced last week, occurred at Los Angeles on the 5th. Very Rev. R. A. Lennon, C. M., Director and Superior of the Sisters of Charity in the United States, with five Sisters forced the sorrowful cortege from Los Angeles to Baltimore, where they were met by Very Rev. J. O. Hayden, C. M., Rev. J. A. Hartnett, C. M., Rev. J. Neck, C. M., and a large delegation of Sisters representing all the institutions of the Order in Gettysburg, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Washington and Baltimore.

At St. Joseph's, all was in readiness at 11 a. m. The young ladies of the Academy, the novices, the sisters, old and young—all except the infirm, were ranged along the avenue. At the first signal from the Emmitsburg train, Fathers McCormick and McNelis, C. M., with cross-bearer and acolytes, had gone forward to await the train. In a few moments hearse, carriages, and procession were slowly moving towards the front entrance to the Academy, the great bell of the church tolling its mournful significant message—its sad welcome to the departed. The casket was borne to the church where, during the remainder of the day and that night, the Sisters kept loving vigil, and many satisfied their yearning to look once more upon the familiar features of their Mother. Two graceful palms with a cluster of immortelles, purple and white, lay upon the casket near the head, a crucifix at the foot, and in the center, a broad silver clasp bearing the most tenderly eloquent of epitaphs: "MOTHER."

On the 13th, at 8 a. m., the burial service began. The office of the dead was chanted by the Seminarians and Reverend clergy, who thronged the sanctuary. Immediately followed the Solemn Mass of Requiem, His Eminence, the Cardinal Archbishop of Baltimore, being celebrant. Rev. J. O. Hayden, C. M., and Rev. T. O'Donoghue, C. M., were deacons of honor to His Eminence; Very Rev. A. L. Magnien, Superior of St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, assistant priest, and Rev. J. Tierney and Rev. D. Flynn, of Mt. St. Mary's, deacon and subdeacon of the Mass; Rev. J. McGovern, master of ceremonies. The eulogy of the departed was delivered by Rev. Edward F. X. McSweeney, who dwelt upon the circumstance that Mother Mariana had borne the yoke of the Lord from her youth, having given herself to God in her nineteenth year, to embrace a life of privation and hardship in the service of the poor; that her fidelity had merited for her to be chosen as the model of the sixteen hundred Sisters of this Province. He reverently saluted the remains in this "last home coming," after life's long and weary journey, and exhorted all to offer prayers for the repose of the soul of this good and worthy Mother. The choir was composed of Seminarians and students from the "Mountain."

The absolution of the body was pronounced by His Eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, who was a personal friend of Mother Mariana, and always deeply interested in the Community and its works.

At the conclusion of the solemn ceremonial the entire assistance—young ladies of the Academy, novices, Sisters, friends, Seminarians and Reverend clergy slowly wended their way to the cemetery, the double lines extending almost from the church to the cemetery entrance.

The remains were interred just within the shadow of the mortuary chapel containing the tomb of the venerated Mother Seton. The grave was blessed by Very Rev. R. A. Lennon, C. M., Director and Superior of the Province. Touchingly beautiful and impressive were the solemn sacred chants of the choir and the Reverend clergy as the procession moved towards the garden-like resting place of the departed members of the Community.

The pall-bearers were: Dr. J. B. Brawner, Dr. J. McC. Foreman, Prof. Ernest Lagarde, Prof. James A. Mitchell, Messrs. B. Jenkins and B. Tyson.

Among the Reverend clergy not already mentioned were: Very Rev. William L. O'Hara, President of Mt. St. Mary's College; Rev. B. Bradley, Rev. J. Manly, Rev. J. Gaffney, S. J., Rev. J. J. Sullivan, C. M., of Brooklyn; Rev. J. A. Hartnett, C. M., Rev. C. Eckles, C. M., Rev. J. Neck, C. M., Rev. W. McCormick, C. M., Rev. J. McNelis, C. M., Rev. J. O. Hayden, C. M., of Germantown, represented Very Rev. James McGill, C. M., the venerable Visitor of the Eastern Province of the Priests of the Mission.

The services so kindly tendered by the President and Faculty of Mt. St. Mary's College for the obsequies of Mother Mariana, recalled to the inmates of the Valley similar favors associated with the last sad duties paid in 1887 to Mother Euphemia; in 1866 to Mother Ann Simeon, and still further back, in 1821, to Mother Seton; all still treasured gratefully at St. Joseph's.

The presence of so many members of the Congregation of the Mission, the telegrams and messages of sympathy from many others, whom distance or pressing duties deprived of this opportunity to give another evidence of their devoted family interest that causes their hearts to vibrate to every joy or sorrow that touches the Valley, or reaches from end to end of this large Province, proves that the sons of St. Vincent de Paul have ever regarded as a sacred trust the dying request of their Holy Founder, that when the Father of the family should be no more, they, as elder brothers, should foster and maintain the inheritance he had left to them and the Sisters of Charity—his maxims and his spirit.

It not being customary to ornament their dead with natural flowers, the Sisters, unwilling to refuse the exquisite floral offerings and emblems presented by friends and former pupils, could only use these delicate tokens of respect and affection to decorate St. Vincent's altar. The pure white lilies, carnations, rose-buds and ferns selected and offered by Mrs. Thomas Galvin, of Boston, and Mrs. Mary Wade Kalbach, of Lancaster, Pa., President of St. Joseph's Altmme, made this altar a marvel of loveliness and spotless purity.

Among the emblems presented by the young ladies of the Academy, was the "Vacant Chair," wrought of the rarest exotics, and fringed with lilies of the valley. The name "Mother" intertwined in purple among them. Nothing could have been more appropriate for the sad occasion. Well do these flowers typify the pure unselfish life of Mother Mariana; their delicious perfume symbolize the attractive virtues that adorned her noble character. Unlike those flowers, God be praised the beauty and fragrance of the life of this "perfect woman, nobly planned"—this true Sister of Charity, possess an eternal bloom; and forever will her memory linger in the hearts of her children—her large family embracing all who are touched by sorrow or misfortune.

Sweet and peaceful be thy rest, Mother, in the little cemetery at St. Joseph's, until the great day when, beyond the blue screen thy children will again meet thee 'loved Mother, from whom they now so sorely grieve to part. R. I. P.

FAIRFIELD ITEMS.

FAIRFIELD, March 12.—Mr. F. Ivan Breamselman, who lives on Mr. C. P. Breamselman's farm, whilst hauling with a four horse wagon, slipped, falling under the wheels, which passed over his right leg and hip. He was considerably bruised. However, no bones were broken. Had the wheels passed over his body higher up or passed over his breast, he might have been killed. He made a lucky escape.

The rain on Sunday night was the heaviest for some time. The creeks overflowed their banks, and at some places were impassable.

Mr. Mart Tresler, who lived on Dr. Walker's farm, at Fountaindale, removed to Mr. Leatherman's farm, in Highland township, on last Tuesday.

The stream or creek at Fountaindale was higher the last rain than any time since the Johnstown flood.

A certain party bought an extension table at the sale of the property of J. C. Sefton, deceased. He settled for the table, but when he was ready to go home one had evidently taken the table in a mistake. The people in and around Fairfield are honest, so it was certainly taken in a mistake.

Fairfield and Hamilton township have no colored people living within their bounds at this time.

At the sale of Miss Laura Flythe's property on last Monday, four gold watches were sold. They were old-time genuine gold. Some were sold for $18.25 and $15. These watches when bought cost over $100.

Miss Jessie Wood is spending some time at Mr. George Steiner's.

Public sales are a daily occurrence, and stock is selling well.

Mr. A. Herring, who spent some time in Harney, Pa., has returned home, well pleased with his visit.

Owing to the recent rains the roads are in a very bad condition, some places almost impassable.

Mr. Frank Small was taking milk to Greenmount last Monday morning, at Marsh creek bridge, a wire which was lying in the road became entangled under the horses feet, and endeavoring to back the wagon the tongue broke, which caused Mr. Small to wade in about three feet of water in order to extricate his team.

Our public schools will close about the last of the month.

TWO PERSONS DROWNED.

Miss Mary Callan, aged about 20 years, youngest daughter of Mr. Thomas Callan, merchant at Little Orleans, Allegany county, and John McDaniel, ferryman at that point, were drowned Tuesday morning while attempting to cross the Potomac river to Orleans Cross Roads Station, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, on the West Virginia side. Miss Callan's body has not been recovered. McDaniel's body was taken from the water shortly after the accident about half a mile below the point. The river was much swollen as the result of the heavy rain,

A NEW CENTURY FARMER.

Polats of the Genuine Agriculturist of the Future.

The twentieth century farmer! Who is he? How does he differ from his predecessor...

The new century farmer will be fair with his wife and his children. While the husband has commanded good places in the social and political world...

The twentieth century farmer will be just as fair with his stock as he will with his hired man. He will acknowledge the fact that his cows, horses and sheep are his capital...

The farmer of the new century will have all the tools necessary to do his work promptly and in the best possible manner. He will see that the loss of a few days from the season as it passes by may mean success or failure...

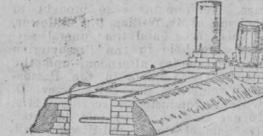

The new century farmer will house his tools properly—no more leaving plows, harrows, wagons and costly machinery in the fence corners all winter. Every farm implement will be under cover...

Our new farmer will keep an account so that he can at any time tell just how he stands in the world. At the end of the year, if there has been any loss, he will know just what caused it...

Finally, the new century farmer will be a better citizen than any who have preceded him. He will dress better and appear better in society than did his old century forefathers.

A A A show where it may be bent. B union to connect with feeder. C throttle to regulate feed. D delivery pipe, can be turned down, as shown by dotted lines, to allow the pan to be drawn off.

I find this device a great saving of fuel. The sap running the whole length of pipe comes out boiling hot, frothing and spluttering like a scolding woman, but do not be alarmed at the noise it makes, for it will do no harm if you keep sufficient sap running in so it will not all evaporate in the pipe and consequently burn. Try it and you will be more than pleased, says a correspondent in Rural New Yorker.

Agricultural Brevities.

The Rhode Island station has for two or three years past given a very attractive course of special instruction in poultry culture. It extends over six weeks in January and February and seems to be of particular interest to wide awake and ambitious young poultry men and women, for the latter are numbered among the students.

The Rural New Yorker is a "boxer." We make no secret of our plan to put on the gloves and make a hard fight for the box as an apple package. The barrel is satisfactory for a good share of the trade, but the box well packed with high grade apples will find favor with thousands of city people.

Tried to Raise the Dead.

A remarkable attempt was made in Denmark recently to bring back to life a man who had died in a hospital. The experiment was measurably successful, as resuscitation was effected several hours after the man was pronounced dead. Dr. Maag, who was in charge, was unable to maintain life, however.

The patient had died from typhoid fever, and Dr. Maag decided to try an experiment. Respiration had ceased completely and the body was cold. Direct massage of the heart was resorted to. The chest was cut open directly over the heart, and through the incision the physician passed his hand and seized the heart. He commenced a series of compressions, and in a short time the heart commenced to work of its own accord. The action of the heart gradually became stronger, but the man had not commenced to breathe. Only after the heart had been acting half an hour did the first gasp for air come.

The patient was then assisted in this for about an hour until finally he was able to breathe quite freely. At the same time his cheeks began to assume a natural color. He lay in this condition another half hour, but without regaining consciousness or appearing to feel the effects of the incision. Then there was a reaction and respiration ceased, although the heart continued to act eight hours longer. A second effort was made to induce heart action, but without result.

Kipling and the Bus Owner. After leaving Vermont Rudyard Kipling bought a place in the U. S. English village of Rotteland, and in his garden were some beautiful trees. One of these trees, branching over the road, threatened to injure the driver of the local bus. Therefore he and his conductor waged destructive war on all the vulnerable twigs within reach from the bus roof. Result: A vigorous letter of complaint from Mr. Kipling to the bus owner, who is also landlord of one of the local inns.

That evening the landlord laid the letter before the select company of the bar parlor. They advised an attitude of calm indifference. Also a Crosses among them offered $2.50 in cash for the autograph letter. Both advice and cash were accepted.

The nuisance continuing, in due course a second and stronger letter followed the first. The landlord convened another bar parliament, and the second letter also found a buyer, this time at $5, as befitted its increased violence. And Boniface again "sat tight." To him next day entered Mr. Kipling, briskly wrathful. "Why didn't I answer your letters, sir? Why, I was hoping you'd send me a fresh one every day. They pay a deal better than bus driving!"

Bargaining in the Orient. In Smyrna, Turkey and Egypt the bargaining language is about the same. "What you give, lady?" "I don't want it! What? Do you think I would carry that back to America?" "But you take hold of him. You feel him silk. I think you want to buy. Ver cheap. Only four pound!" "Four pounds!" I say in French. "Oh, you don't want to sell. You want to keep it. And at that price you will keep it!"

"Keep it!" in a shrill scream. "Not want to sell? Me? I here to sell! I sell you everything you see! I sell you the shoe!" More wheedlingly, "You give me 40 francs?" "No," in English again. "I'll give you $27."

"American! Liberty!" he cries, having cunningly established his nationality and flattering my country with oriental glee. "How much you give for him? Last price, now. Six dollars!"

We haggle over "last prices" for a quarter of an hour more, and after two cups of coffee amiably taken together and some general conversation I buy the thing for $3.—Lillian Bell in Woman's Home Companion.

Eating Railway Iron.

Iron for the blood has evidently been prescribed for the quails of Florida; at least, these birds are eating steel rails on the tracks of the sugar belt near Bunnymede. The report, which is well authenticated, does not charge the quails with actually swallowing the rails, but it does say that they pick away their particles wherever they find a rusty spot where they are loosened.

From several points in the state comes the report of holes found in steel rails, and in cases they are large enough to seriously weaken the material. Where a rusty spot starts and is picked out, it naturally holds moisture, continues to rust, to be again picked out, and so the work of destruction goes on.

Fatal Gluttony.

A messenger employed at the railway station in Praga, Warsaw, made a bet that he would eat in one meal five fowls, a jar of sour cabbage, two melons, ten pounds of fruit, six cucumbers, with bread, and, besides, he would drink a gallon of vodka (native spirit), six bottles of beer and three siphons of soda water. A numerous company assembled to witness the feat, which was successfully accomplished, and the bet was paid. The man, however, was found dead in bed next morning.—London Standard.

CONVENT LANTERNS.

An Old Fad With Modern Improvements—An Electrical Display. In the old days a favorite fad for travelers in ancient lands was the collection of lanterns. Those from ruined convents, decayed mosques and poverty-stricken shrines were prime favorites. The fad is not entirely dead, but the supply has run so short that now enterprising firms in Birmingham, England, and in New York turn out large numbers of excellent imitations.

The new ones are machine made and so far as strength and durability are concerned are superior to the ancient designs, which were hand made, but the latter in many instances were ornamented with inlaid work as well as with carving and twisting of the most artistic type. The machine made goods can never reproduce these latter characteristics so well as to deceive an expert.

The material of the lanterns varies from fine woods and glass to iron, steel, brass, bronze, copper, pewter and even silver. The simplest forms are cylinders which are perforated with numerous holes so as to resemble the chimney stack. Then come globes, ovals, octahedra, hexagonal prisms, cuboids and more complex solid forms. The prettiest of all are the mosque lanterns. Many of them are of bronze inlaid with silver, pierced with little windows and these closed in turn with white or colored glass. With a lighted candle inside they look like a mass of jewels in a dark room.

A wealthy man on Brooklyn heights who has traveled a great deal has one of his rooms illuminated by lanterns of this type. They range in size from small affairs four inches in diameter to stately lamps a foot in diameter and two feet high. In place of candles inside he employs electric lights, one bulb to the smaller lanterns and three, four and a dozen to the larger ones. When the current is turned on, the splendor of the effect is almost startling. The colors of the glass have been deepened and made richer by the years, and the radiance they give may be compared to that from a great orb in a Gothic cathedral.—New York Post.

COMEDY IN THE AMBULANCE.

A Doctor's Story of a Man and a Woman, Each With a Broken Leg. "When I was an ambulance surgeon," said the young family physician, "I used to start like a fire horse at the sound of the call. I was just as much interested in the work at the end of two years as I was the day I began. It was the excitement of the life that made me so fond of it. I had all sorts of experiences at all sorts of hours. There was an element of danger in it, too, but that only added to the charm."

"One night I had a call from the west side in the neighborhood of Chelsea square. It was for a drunken man who had fallen and broken his leg. On the way back to the hospital with him I picked up a drunken woman to whom a similar accident had happened. There was nothing to do but put her in the ambulance along with the man."

"After that the ride across town was exciting enough for a cowboy. At first the patients sympathized with each other. Then they began to cry in chorus. At Broadway they fell to kissing each other. At Third avenue they were fighting like a pair of Kilkenny cats, and I had my hands full in keeping them apart. The woman had scratched the man's face dreadfully, and he had nearly closed her eye with a punch. When we struck the asphalt in Twenty-sixth street, they were singing: 'We Have All Been There Before Many a Time,' and such singing! The uproar attracted a crowd who evidently thought I had an ambulance full of lunatics. When we reached the gate, they swore eternal friendship, and at the office they parted in tears."—New York Sun.

"Then you are not ashamed of your humble origin?" "Oh, no; it's part of my political capital"—Chicago Record.

Beginning Childhood.

When my little son could scarcely walk, says Rev. C. T. Brady, a western missionary, I took him to the cathedral one day, when I returned for something I had forgotten after morning service. I left the child in the nave, and when I went back to him he had advanced half way up the middle aisle and was standing where the sun threw a golden light about his curly head. A tiny object he was in that great church.

It was very still. He was looking about in every direction in the most curious and eager way. To my fancy he seemed like a little angel when he said in his sweet, childish treble, which echoed and re-echoed beneath the vaulted roof: "Papa, where's Jesus? Where's Jesus?"

He had been told that the church was the house of the Saviour, and on this, his first visit, he expected to see his Lord. That baby is quite grown up now. Not in the faintest particular does he resemble an angel. The other day, when I rode off to the wars, he astonished even me with this request: "Papa, if you get wounded, don't forget to bring me the bullet that knocks you out. I want it for a souvenir for my collection."

Fortunately for me, if unfortunately for him, I brought him no bullet.

Fires in all parts of New York city are most common between 8 and 9 p. m. and are least common between the hours of 6 and 7 p. m. Between 5 and 6 in the morning there are very few fires; between 6 and 7 there are the fewest, but after 7 o'clock the number steadily increases until 9 o'clock at night, when a rapid diminution begins, the increase being again resumed at 7 o'clock.—New York Sun.
