TO THE CHRONIC KICKER.

Oh, you pessimistic growler, stop your awful, awful cries! Quit your telling all your troubles; cease your irritating sighs; don't be all the time unhappy and so miserably blue. You've no right to be complaining when there's better things to do. What's the use of all this whining, 'cause the earth don't rock and shake. Like a fellow with the ague at each wabbling step you take? You will find the whole wide world will be much better off alone, When you've shuffled off forever and have groaned your final groan.

What a place of woe and sorrow this old planet here would be. If 'twas filled with just you kickers who with no one can agree! If we waited for such fellows to enlighten this broad earth, Why there'd never be progression since man first was given birth! Get a hustle on your carcass! Don't stay stranded on a snag; You will never find your level if you stop to chew the rag; There'll be more and more of sunshine, things will wear a brighter tone, When you've shuffled off forever and have groaned your final groan.

It was surely not intended by an all-wise Providence, That you lose in Him your faith, as well as all your confidence. Take whatever is your portion, knowing all is for the best, And just trust the Great Creator to attend to all the rest. Go ahead and do your duty with a smile upon your face, You're a soldier in life's battle and should try to fill your place; If you're bound to be a "kicker" wean him off that alone, And be better off without you when you've groaned your final groan.

Oh, you pessimistic growler, will you never try to rise, Where the glorious sun is shining up above the clouded skies? Will you always be so ready to relate your tale of woe And to carry gloom and sadness everywhere you chance to go? Don't let pessimistic notions permeate your diaphragm, Keep "a-totin' on yer lugle if you never sell a clam!" Be a hustler while you're living; better quit if you're a drone, For we're better off without you when you've groaned your final groan.

A WILL IN AN OLD DRESS.
Romantic Story of The Recovery of A Missing Document.

A romantic story of the recovery of a missing will is reported from Scotland, says the Westminster Gazette. When Mr. George Johnstone, the owner of the valuable Lathris estates in Fifeshire, died in February last, leaving in addition to the entailed estates, movable property worth £850,000, no will could be found. The surprise vanished and the entailed estates passed in due course to Lieutenant Maitland Crichton, a grand-nephew of Mr. Johnstone, who was then serving in Egypt, but as regards Mr. Johnstone's personal property a number of claims were made by elations of the dead millionaire. Eventually, however, a settlement was come to, and the action commenced in the Scottish Courts was abandoned. There the matter rested until a few days ago, when a will made by Mr. Johnstone in 1869 is reported to have come to light in a singular manner. The document is said to be in the hands of a Dundee firm of solicitors, who decline to give any details as to its contents. There is a remarkable story as to its recovery. It is asserted that it was sewn up in the dress of a lady who died a quarter of a century ago, that the dress passed into the hands of her niece, who also died three years since, and that the other day when the dress was being torn to pieces, the will was found.

SMOTHERED IN THE MUD.
Uniontown, Pa., December 28.—Daniel Keenan, son of Daniel Keenan, of this place, who has been missing since Thursday at noon, was found lying dead, with his face in the mud, on the road near Hogsett's Out. Stefan Barback, a coke worker, while on his way from Atlas Coke Works to his home, near Oliphant Furnace, was also smothered to death in the mud and water in the pike. It is supposed both men either slipped or fell with their faces in the mud, and were smothered while in the mud, and the fall.

FARMER'S CONSOLIDATED CROP.

Hetty And Apples Went Together, Said Father Of The Lass.

It was a Detroit who was hunting for apples in Northern Michigan, and having got track of some thing extra he drove out several miles to see the farmer. There were apples in plenty, and the buyer started in to do business. He was checked up almost at once, however, by the farmer, who said:

"Stranger, did you take notice of my daughter, Hetty, at the house?"

"Why, yes, I saw a very smart looking girl," was the reply. "If she is your daughter I must congratulate you. How many barrels of Spies did you say you had?"

"Yes, Hetty is a smart gal and a good gal," mused the farmer without reference to the apple question. "There are about six fellers around here who are shining up to Hetty."

"Yes, a girl like her is never without a lover," said the buyer. "She'll be stepping off before you know it. I should say you had at least 20 barrels of fall Pippins."

"But Hetty's a lookin' a little higher—a little higher. She ain't satisfied to marry no farmer's hired man. She kind o' feels that she belongs among the style. Did you notice her walk?"

"I noticed that she had a very graceful glide for a country girl. How many Seek-no-further do you think you've got?"

"And her hair is done up same as they wear it in Chicago," chuckled the father as he proudly straightened up. "Mebbe you didn't notice her feet, but she only wears No. 4 shoes, and they're got high heels on."

"Yes, I see, but what about the apples? How many Greenings have you?"

"And Hetty's just as good as she is pretty. She has never caused an hour's trouble. If any one is looking for a wife they might go a heap further and fare worse."

"But I'm not looking for one," replied the buyer. "I'm here to buy apples."

"You didn't hear about Hetty, then?"

"No."

"And you didn't come out to get a look at her?"

"No. I am here to buy your apple crop."

"Hetty would make some man a mighty smart wife. There ain't many like her."

"Yes she is a fine girl, no doubt, but I couldn't marry her if I wanted to. I've got a wife and three children."

"Oh, ye have. Why didn't you say so at once?"

"Because I didn't know it made any difference. Have you many Snows?"

"You can go right on, stranger—right on," said the farmer with a wave of his hand.

"But, I'm here to—"

"Yes, I know. I've got the biggest apple crop in Michigan and you want to buy 'em, but you can pass right along. The apples and Hetty go together this year and you can say your breath to carry you out of the gate and into your baggy!"—Detroit Free Press.

Rapid Reform.

"Yes," said the tourist, as he waited for them to change horses, "there are lots of men in the East who let their positions make monkeys of them."

"Same way here, stranger," spoke up Old Redeye. "Thar's Canyon Charley, for instance. We elected him sheriff an' he had his whiskers shayed off an' quit drinkin' just because he had to kiss so many brides."

LEAF TOBACCO.

Receipts of the Maryland Product Smaller Than During The Previous Year.

Business in hogshead leaf tobacco during the year has been satisfactory. Of Maryland, the receipts were smaller than the year before, footing up in round figures some 31,000 hogsheads, against 35,000 hogsheads. Although the quality was very inferior, there was ready sale for it throughout the season at fair prices. At no time was there any considerable accumulation of stock in the sellers' hands.

The French contract was large, absorbing about half the crop, which caused an active demand at full prices for the medium and better grades. Home trade and an order for several thousand hogsheads for Spain made a good outlet for the large portion of common grades, which were not desirable for export.

The receipts of the new crop (1901) were restricted very much, owing to the exceedingly dry weather, but since October 1 have been more liberal. So far they consisted mostly of ground leaves, showing good quality, and they sold freely upon arrival at full prices.

The stock remaining unsold in first hands, both old and new crop, is not more than a few hundred hogsheads. The receipts of Ohio, although larger than the previous year, were still small, amounting to only about 4,500 hogsheads. The quality generally was good, being sound and of fair color and length. Owing to an active demand for the French contract and from German manufacturers, prices opened firm, with a gradual advance during the season, particularly on the lower grades. The total supply was disposed of, with the exception of about 500 hogsheads of medium and better grades of air-cured.

AMBER HUNTING.

A Pleasant Form Of Idling Away A Summer Afternoon.

A pleasant form of idling is wandering along the edge of the sea in quiet, out-of-the-world spots, and searching for amber, says the London Daily Mail. Lately a fair amount of amber has been washed ashore on the sands and beaches of East Anglia; a gale from the east and northeast and a strong sea usually bring up the amber in Essex, Suffolk, Sussex, and elsewhere—I daresay in parts of the Lincolnshire coast, too.

Even some of the professional fishermen and boatmen search for amber when they have no more important work on hand, and sell, in a rough state, the scraps they find to local jewelers and dealers in curiosities and odds and ends.

I find some of these fishermen, with whom I have talked, take quite the accepted view of the day as to the origin of amber. They call it gum from the trees; but perhaps they are a little astray in regard to the age of this resin; the "fly in the amber" is not exactly our modern blue-bottle; in fact, the foreign substances found in amber generally belong to species extinct ages ago. Amber is no longer used in medicine; formerly oil of amber was regarded as a cure for various complaints.

The Eclectic Magazine for January opens with the Edinburgh Review's recent important article upon "Party Politics and the War," which achieved the unusual distinction of being commended for its fairness by representatives of both the leading parties in British politics. Mr. Morley's recent address at Manchester upon the unveiling of a Gladstone monument forms an agreeable foretaste of what may be expected from Mr. Morley's biography of the great statesman. A paper from Blackwood's gives an account of what has been done toward "Finding the Way to the Pole;" Leslie Stephen writes appreciatively of Anthony Trollope and Walter Frewen Lord of Lord Lytton's Novels; and there is a clever short story, several essays and sketches, another instalment of the Londoner's Log-Book, and other agreeable and profitable reading. The Living Age Company, Boston.

On Christmas Eve, twins of John Allison died and the undertaker stood a bottle of embalming fluid on the shelf. It upset and spilled some of the contents on the candy.

No one knew it, however, and yesterday Mrs. Allison treated her sisters, the laces girls and grandmother, Mrs. Noffeker, with the candy. They suddenly became deathly sick. Holes were burned in their tongues, cheeks and mouths by the poisonous fluid.—American.

A GOOD RECOMMENDATION.

"I have noticed that the sale on Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets is almost invariably to those who have once used them," says Mr. J. H. Weber, a prominent druggist of Cascade, Iowa. What better recommendation could any medicine have for people to call for it when again in need of such a remedy? Try them when you feel dull after eating, when you have a bad taste in your mouth, feel bilious have no appetite or when troubled with constipation, and you are certain to be delighted with the prompt relief which they afford. For sale by T. E. Zimmerman & Co., druggists.

JUMPED FROM THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

New York, December 29.—John Pinover, a young wholesale liquor dealer of Middletown, N. Y., today jumped from the Brooklyn Bridge. He is still alive at a hospital. Pinover told the doctors that he simply wanted to see if he could make the jump and live.

The leap was taken in the afternoon from the girders near the New York tower. A government tug towed a boat and the man was taken out of the water, apparently lifeless. At the hospital he was unconscious for three hours.—American.

FORTY DAYS ON A ROCK.

Survivors of Shipwreck Live on Seaweed and Mussels.

A terrible tale of the sea is told by the survivors of the crew of the ship Glencaird, who have just arrived at Southampton, says the London Express.

The Glencaird sailed from South Shields for San Francisco on May 18 last, with a general cargo and a crew of 34 hands.

After crossing the equator she encountered fearful weather, and was eventually driven ashore at the southeast end of Staten Island. The huge seas swept everything from the decks, and man after man was washed into the surging sea, some being dashed to death on the rocks in sight of their mates.

The only hope of escape to those left lay in getting along the boom, which overlapped a rock and, although several attempted this, all but three failed.

The Glencaird, soon broke up, and those who remained on board perished.

The three men who had reached the rock found themselves in a hopeless plight. They had no clothing, were weak and exhausted, and there was no sign of any human habitation.

For 40 days they existed thus, living on seaweed and mussels. They had given themselves up for lost when they were found by some men from a neighboring military prison.

Thither they were conveyed, and most hospitably nursed through a long and trying illness, and eventually they were sent home by the Argentine authorities.

EMBALMING FLUID WAS ON THE CANDY.

Altoona, Pa., December 29.—Three women are lying at the point of death at Blue Knob, this county, the results of eating candy saturated with embalming fluid. They are Rosa and Viola Lokes, and Mrs. George F. Noffeker.

On Christmas Eve, twins of John Allison died and the undertaker stood a bottle of embalming fluid on the shelf. It upset and spilled some of the contents on the candy.

No one knew it, however, and yesterday Mrs. Allison treated her sisters, the laces girls and grandmother, Mrs. Noffeker, with the candy. They suddenly became deathly sick. Holes were burned in their tongues, cheeks and mouths by the poisonous fluid.—American.

PHIL D. ARMOUR'S FIFTY SAYINGS

Good men are not cheap.

Capital can do nothing without brains to direct it.

An American boy counts one long before his time to vote.

Give the young man a chance; this is the country of the young.

We can't help the past, but we can look out for the future.

Hope is pretty poor security to go to a bank to borrow money on.

A "sit down" method won't do a minute in this age of aggressive-ness.

There is nothing else on earth so annoying as procrastination in decisions.

A man does not necessarily have to be a lawyer to have good, hard sense.

An indiscreet man usually lives to see the folly of his ways; and if he doesn't, his children do.

A man should always be close to the situation, know what he is doing, and not take anything for granted.

There is one element that is worth its weight in gold, and that is loyalty. It will cover a multitude of weaknesses.

I will always risk a man if he is in the dark and knows it, but I haven't much use for the man who is groping around in the dark and doesn't know it.

It is an easy matter to handle even congested controversies where the spirit of the parties is right and honest.

The trouble with a great many men is they don't appreciate their predicament until they get into the quick sand.

When you are striving to do that which is right, be courteous and nice in every way, but don't get "turned down."

"The office should come to the man," asserted the theorist.

"Possibly," admitted the practical politician.

"Instead of which," continued the theorist, "the man now rushed to the office."

"Well, now, see here," exclaimed the practical politician, suddenly waking up, "if you think an office can be trained like a setter pup you're away off—you are for a fact. An office is a good deal like a woman. The one that will come when you whistle isn't the one you want."—Chicago Post.

WILLIE had swallowed a penny and his mother was in a state of much alarm. "Helen," she called to her sister in the next room, "send for a doctor, Willie has swallowed a penny."

The terrified boy looked up imploringly.

"No, mama," he interposed; send for the minister."

"The minister!" exclaimed the mother.

"Yes because papa says our minister can get money out of anybody."—Pittsburg Bulletin.

THERE is a point to this story: A burglar whose night entry into the parsonage awakened the sleepless victim:

If you stir you're a dead man; I'm hunting for money.

"Just let me get up and strike a light," pleasantly replied the domine, "and I shall be glad to assist you in the search."—Boston Watchman.

CHAPPED hands, cracked lips and roughness of the skin cured quickly by BANNER SALVE, the most healing ointment in the world. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

Admiration.

"You admire your grandfather very much, don't you, my little man?"

"Yes," answered the youth.

"You think he could do things that no one else could, don't you?"

"I know he could. He used to punish father whenever he felt like it."—Washington Star.

RACERS KILLED IN A RAILROAD WRECK.

KEITHVILLE, La., January 1.—One life was lost, two persons were seriously injured and part of a cargo of valuable racehorses enroute from the winter meeting at New Orleans were destroyed in a disastrous collision between a Texas Pacific fast freight and a Houston East and West Texas freight on a siding here today. Twelve cars of the Houston East and West Texas train caught fire and burned to the trucks. W. J. Daniels, of Houston, fireman on the Houston East and West Texas train, was caught under the wreck and either crushed or burned to death. A negro fireman named Bob Edwards jumped and sustained severe internal injuries, besides having both legs broken. The engineer of the Houston, East and West Texas, who is said to have been Newt Benton, disappeared immediately after the accident. Of the racers the most valuable is said to have been Geo. Arnold, winner of the Christmas Handicap, the premier stake race at New Orleans, who was killed, his body being roasted in the fire that followed the collision.

W. L. YANCY, Paduch, Ky., writes: "I had a severe case of kidney disease and three of the physicians in southern Kentucky treated me without success. I was induced to try FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE. The first bottle gave immediate relief and three bottles cured me permanently. I gladly recommend this wonderful remedy." Take no substitute. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

Crushed Between Cars.

J. William Butts, a second division brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad living at Brunswick, this county, was caught between two cars while making coupling at Magnolia, a short distance beyond Hancock, last Thursday afternoon and instantly killed. Butts was between the two cars working at the air brakes, when the engine was given the signal to back. Butts' head was caught between the couplings and mashed almost into a jelly. He was dead when members of the crew took him from between the two cars. The body was taken to Cherry Run, where his father resides. He was a son of Samuel Butts, was 23 years of age and unmarried.

Many School Children are Sickly.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children, made by Mother Gray, a nurse in Children's Home, New York, break up colds in 24 hours, cure feverishness, headache, stomach troubles, teething disorders, and destroy worms. All druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

MUCH PREFERRED STOCK REDEEMED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—The office of the Northern Pacific Railway Company was kept open today for the receipt and redemption of the preferred stock of the company. Upward of $60,000,000 of the entire $75,000,000 of that issue of stock was received, paid for and cancelled.

Under the terms of the company notice all outstanding shares of the whole issue of preferred stock became actually retired at midnight tonight and cease to exist as stock, and all holders of certificates for preferred stock have been notified on presentation of the same at the company's office they will receive payment in cash to the par amount of each certificate.

The stock redeemed abroad is not included in the $60,000,000 cancelled at the New York office, and, considering today was a holiday, with banks and banking offices closed, it is thought the balance of the fund provided for this payment will not long remain unclaimed in the company's vaults.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

NO LONGER NEEDED.

One hundred thousand traveling freight and passenger agents of railroads may lose their positions ultimately as a result of the recent action of the managers of the systems east of Chicago, in abolishing all exchange passes between employees of different lines. It is the opinion of local railway men that the doing away with annual and trip passes that have always been exchanged by railroads for the use of their traveling solicitors is but the first step of a general plan to drop this army of agents from payrolls entirely.

The operations of the railroads of the country, particularly those east of Chicago, have become so harmonious during the last two years that competition has practically ceased to exist. Without competition there is no necessity for travelling solicitors, for regardless of what the solicitor obtains for his road in the way of business his line, through the pooling methods, will be given a specified percentage of the total.

Suit For A Receiver.

The D. W. R. Road Company, coal and coke dealers, of Philadelphia, through their attorney, Baker Johnson, applied in the Circuit Court Tuesday for a receiver for the Blue Mountain Iron and steel Company, of Baltimore, and for an injunction restraining them from disposing of their property, real or personal.

The corporation owns and operates the Catoctin Furnace property. Judge Motter granted the injunction as prayed and set January 10 for the defendant to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed.

The German Police.

A stranger in Germany soon makes the acquaintance of the police, little as he may desire it. You have been in Germany a week, more or less, when the policeman calls. At first you cannot believe that he is really after you, and then your mind runs back guiltily to your past. He takes out his little book—one of a small library of little books which he carries in his blouse—and inquires your age, your nationality and how long you intend to stay.

You learn subsequently that a record of every person in the empire is carefully kept, with full details as to his occupation, material wealth and social standing. If you move into a new house, you must notify the police; if you move out, you must notify the police; if you hire a servant girl, you must purchase a yellow blank and report the fact, the girl also making a report. When she leaves, you must send in a green blank stating why she is dismissed, where she is going and so on.

If you fall in any of these multitudinous requirements of the government—and I have mentioned only a few of them—there is a fine to pay, each fine graduated to the enormity of the offense. There are offenses graded as low as 2 cents.—Independent.

When Time Hangs Heavily.

Time is never wasted until it "hangs heavily on our hands," when you are neither working nor enjoying yourself. There may be times when it suits one's mood to "loaf and invite one's soul," but they are rare nowadays. If you don't believe it, consider how the average citizen spends his vacation. Most people work harder and economize their vacation time more grudgingly in getting the most out of it than they do in any other part of the year. They hate to lose a minute of enjoyment.

Of course there are times—every day—when time seems absolutely wasted, and these are the times when men's tempers are on edge and things go crosswise. Chief among this list of wasted and monotonous intervals is the time spent in waiting for a car, in traveling on it after you get it, in waiting for meals, in running over ditatory appointments or by reaching there too soon. Other instances are where the bore buttonholes you and insists with excessive eloquence in stringing a three line item into a two column tale.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Huge Spiders Wove Them.

Every one who owns a little strip of garden knows what it is to clear away spider webs, a matter of small difficulty and lightly performed, but a popular naturalist who lately returned from the great woods of Central America came across spiders' webs of such strength and huge dimensions that they were positive obstacles in his path. Needless to say, the tenants of these webs were of a monstrous size. "I measured one of these fabrics," he says, "it had a diameter of more than six feet, without including the long brace threads that run out like forays to the extremity of the surrounding branches. I then took a number of wild lemons and flung them against the center with all my might. The web stopped every one. It is no wonder that when a bird becomes entangled in the meshes the huge spider is able to make a breakfast off him."

A New English Author.

The traveler who happens to be weather bound at Perugia may find some amusement in the library of one of the leading hotels. Among the contents of the shelves there is a considerable sprinkling of English books; but, to the visitor's surprise, a large proportion of these are by a mysterious author, "Bart," of whose name he is probably ignorant. But when he finds that Bart has written "Ivanhoe" and "The Last Days of Pompeii" the key to the mystery is discovered. The local blunder has taken the author's title for his name, and Sir Walter Scott and Sir Edward Bulwer-Lytton are credited with but one personality between them.

A BUDDING HUMORIST.

Merry Memories of a First Meeting With Artemus Ward.

On going into the Cleveland Plain Dealer editorial rooms one morning I saw a new man, who was introduced to me as Mr. Browne.

He was young, cheerful in manner, tall and slender, not quite up to date in style of dress, yet by no means shabby. His hair was flaxen and very straight; his nose, the prominent feature of his face, was Romanesque—quite violently so—and with a leaning to the left. His eyes were blue gray, with a twinkle in them; his mouth seemed so given to a merry laugh, so much in motion, that it was difficult to describe.

It seemed as though bubbling in him was a lot of happiness which he made no effort to conceal or hold back. When we were introduced, he was sitting at his table writing. He gave his leg a smart slap, arose, shook hands with me and said he was glad to meet me. I believed him, for he looked glad all the time. You could not look at him but he would laugh. He laughed as he sat at his table writing. When he had written a thing which pleased him, he would slap his leg and laugh.

I noticed that George Hoyt and James Brokenshire at their tables were pleased with his merriment and indulged in broad smiles. As I bade him and the others good morning he said, "Come again, me liege." I thanked him, said I would and went my way, thinking what a funny fellow he was.

Within a month thereafter appeared in the columns of The Plain Dealer a funny letter signed "Artemus Ward." The writer said he was in the show business, had a trained kangaroo, "a most amous" little cuss, some "snails" and a collection of wax figures, which he called a "great moral class" as he was coming to Cleveland to exhibit, he made a proposition to the proprietor that they "scratch each other's backs"—the publisher to write up the show vigorously and the showman to have the handbills printed at his office and give him free tickets for all his family. So I found my young friend of the gurgly and hay colored hair to be an embryo humorist just bursting into bloom. Artemus, as from that time he was best known, soon had a city full of friends, myself and family among them.—James F. Ryder in Century Magazine.

FLOWER AND TREE.

Never buy a plant in bloom.

Never water plants in flower from above. In planting out an orchard do not plant more than can be manured and cared for well.

A yard or lawn always looks barren without some choice ornamental trees and shrubs. On this account every lawn should contain a few choice specimens of these ornamental trees.

Scale insects on plants, such as the oleanders, the fragrant olive, roses, etc., are among the most difficult pests to overcome. A mixture of white hellebore powder with dissolved soap rubbed in is a good remedy.

Keeping all young trees carefully staked leads to the formation of clean, straight stems. Those in their turn are conducive to the growth of large, healthy, fruitful heads. One stout stake should be placed by each tree when it is planted.

Crocus must be planted in October to insure spring blooms. It makes a fine appearance if thickly planted upon a lawn. Make a cut with a spade three or four inches deep in the soil, tuck in a couple of bulbs and press the soil back into place with the foot.

Habits of Seals.

The habits of seals are very interesting. The very young seal is helpless in the water until he is taught by his mother to swim. She takes him into the water daily on her back and dumps him in, and when he gets tired of floundering about places him on her back again and returns to her camp. When the young seals are well grown, they suddenly disappear with their mothers and the bull seals. No one knows where they go, and their return is equally as sudden as their departure. The bulls are the first to put in an appearance at the camping ground. When they arrive, they commence at once to prepare a camp for their mates, which they stake off, and for which they fight until they die. In the meantime the female seals remain quite a distance from land, floating lazily on the water and seemingly having a good time.

Conscience Money.

"Conscience money" in Great Britain now amounts to thousands of pounds annually. The first sum noticed was on March 30, 1789, when $300 was carried to the public account in consequence of a note received by the chancellor. The writer with troubled soul implored him, "as an honest man, to consider the money the property of the nation and to be so just as to apply it to the use of the state in such a manner that the nation may not suffer by its having been detained and thus to ease the conscience of an honest man."

Wanted to Repeat.

"Lady," said Meandering Mike, "have you any coffee or mince pie or—"
"Haven't you been here twice before?"
"Lady, I have. I'm too good a judge of cookin' to let such performances as yours go without an encore."—Washington Star.

Why Bixby Doesn't Go.

"Bixby sent the minister ten reasons for not going to church, but he left out the main one."
"What is that?"
"He stays away because his wife doesn't make him go."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THERE is considerable excitement in the village of Parsonsburg seven miles east of Salisbury, over the abundant flow of natural gas which has been struck. The vein seems to be inexhaustible, furnishing a supply for cooking and lighting purposes. Many residents of the town have put on burners and are getting a beautiful white light. This vein of gas was struck two years ago, but in a short time the supply grew less, until it nearly disappeared, but now the rush of gas is greater than ever, and it is believed there is an abundant supply of it for manufacturing purposes.

WORTH $300,000,000.

The President of a certain big Oil Company is said to be worth $300,000,000. A tidy bit of money and no mistake. And yet he isn't happy. In an address to a Bible class he spoke of the troubles of the rich and the loads they have to carry. A young lady whispered to a friend that he might wear a Benson's Porous Plaster on his back, or, better still, divide the money among the members of the class. I don't know why she should have that idea, but she wants to laugh, but it does. All the same I have seen plenty of people laugh after putting Benson's Plasters on their backs or chests, or on any other spot where there was a smart, headache, rheumatism, etc. It may be the sharp stab of neuralgia, the aches and wrenches of rheumatism; it may be colds in muscles or bones; it may be those kidney or lumbar thrusts that make you yell as at a dog bite; or it may be a strain or cramp, anything that wants quieting and comforting. Don't bother with salves, liniments, lotions, etc., or with any of the stupid and useless old style plasters. Clap on a Benson's. It relieves at once and cures quickly. It stops the pain and makes you laugh for the very ease and good feeling of it. But watch out against imitations and substitutes. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

Train Killed Two Men.

New York, Jan. 1.—Two men were killed this afternoon just beyond the depot at Chatham, N. J., by a westbound special train on the Lackawanna Railroad. They were Jacob Ogden, 60 years and his son, 30 years old. They started to cross the tracks as the special, which consisted of an engine and caboose, was approaching. Before they could clear the track their carriage was demolished and the two men and the horse were killed.

FRIDAY, JAN. 3, 1902.

MR. JOSEPH D. CALDWELL, of this place, is quite ill with pneumonia.

CAPTAIN and Mrs. William Bealy, of Elkton, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage December 30.

Efforts are making in Hagerstown to do away with the custom of delivering milk on Sunday to the doors of consumers.

BUSINESS MEN are protesting against the abolition of the Baltimore and Ohio division freight office in Cumberland.

HENRY S. BEARD, a retired confectioneer, died suddenly Saturday night while sitting near a stove at his home in Boonsboro, aged 63 years.

Henry J. Briscoe, former Treasurer of Cecil County, died at Rising Sun Saturday night of pneumonia after a shot illness, aged 72 years.

While acting as Santa Claus at Spruce-ale School, near Poochontas, a few miles north of Frostburg, E. T. Glatfely was badly burned.

MESSRS. ANNAN, HONER & Co., Bankers of this place, have had their institution insured in the Fidelity and Casualty Company, of New York, against daylight and night robbery.

DURING the fall term the percentage of attendance at the six Hagerstown public schools was 85.7. In Hagerstown 2,154 pupils were enrolled and the average attendance was 1,846.

WHenever you have a social gathering at your house send a report of the affair to this office for publication. We want all the items of news concerning you and your friends. Will you send them to the Editor?

A STABLE, two horses, a wagon and some other property belonging to William Enlow, who resides near Mountain Lake Park, were destroyed by fire supposed to be of incendiary origin. Loss, $500; no insurance.

MIDNIGHT services were held in the Lutheran Church Tuesday night. The attendance was quite large, there being about 200 people in the church. The services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Charles Reinwald.

THIEVES broke into the store of Mr. James H. Doll, at Carnical, Queen Anne's county, Sunday night and stole $200. The combination of the safe was worked and the money taken out without breaking the safe.

You should know that FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR is absolutely the best for all diseases of the throat and lungs. Dealers are authorized to guarantee it to give satisfaction. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

THE Gettysburg Star and Sentinel has entered upon its 102nd volume, and during the one hundred and one years of its existence the paper has never missed an issue. We wish it abundant success for one hundred and one more years.

A NUMBER of business men met at Greensboro, Caroline county, for the purpose of organizing a savings bank. As there is no bank nearer Greensboro than Denton, which is eight miles away there is quite an interest in the project and the capital stock will be promptly subscribed.

VIRGINIA CLENDENIN, the 12-year-old daughter of Frank Clendenin, near Coloma, Cecil county, was hurt in the flour and feed mill of Clendenin & Bro. Her clothing was caught in the machinery and she was drawn into the wheel. Her father stopped the machinery in time to save her life, but her right leg was broken.

FIRE in dyeing department of the Blue Ridge Stocking Mills, at Hagerstown, did slight damage. A panic among the 100 girls operatives was averted by the managers setting the girls out of the building one by one in an orderly manner. The fire started from hot iron.

THE Presbyterians of Lord, Allegany county, have been presented with a church bell weighing 500 pounds by Mr. Charles K. Lord, of Baltimore, president of the Consolidation Coal Company, after the town of Lord was named. Rev. H. H. McMaster is the pastor.

The funeral of Naval Cadet William H. Steinhagen, who died December 20 in Cuba, took place Saturday morning at the Naval Academy at Annapolis. It was largely attended by Naval officers and their families, professors at the Naval Academy and friends of the deceased. The battalion of cadets and the Naval Academy Band were also present. The interment was in the Naval Cemetery.

WILLIAM DORSEY, colored, aged 48 years, drank a quart of whisky last Saturday night and went to sleep in the engine room of the Hygeia ice plant, in Frederick. Sunday morning he was found dead. Acting Coroner C. T. Eckstein, after viewing the remains, deemed an inquest unnecessary. Dorsey was a habitual drunkard, and it was his boast that he never purchased any food or clothing for many years, subsisting on charity and spending his earnings for drink.

THE boys of St. Euphemia's School gave a Christmas entertainment in the Music Hall of that institution on last Friday evening before a small audience of invited guests. "Old Saint Nick" was the title of the opening selection, and the boys are to be congratulated upon the success of their undertaking.

THE Maryland Trust building, Calvert and German street, Baltimore, was the scene of a slight fire Wednesday morning, caused, presumably, by the crossing of wires in the duct which runs from the bottom of the building to the top. It was discovered by G. A. Small of the Standard Oil Company, who saw smoke issuing from box No. 6 by W. R. Myers. No damage was done beyond the burning out of the wires, which were quickly repaired.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Mrs. Annie McSweeney, aged 51 years, the proprietress of a saloon at 852 north Front street, Baltimore, was found dead in bed Wednesday night by her daughter, Miss Maggie McSweeney. Coroner Saunders was notified, and after an investigation he gave a certificate of death from natural causes. Deceased had been ill for about two weeks. She was a widow, her husband having died about three years ago, and leaves, besides her daughter, four sons—Michael, Timothy, William and Joseph McSweeney.

Doe Killed in Howard County.

A dog which had gone wild from Druid Hill Park, it is supposed, was killed by Mr. George E. Lee, at Oakland Manor, Howard county, a day or two ago. It was first seen by Mr. R. Frank Warfield, of Clarksville, about month ago, and afterward many persons tried to kill or capture the animal. Mr. Lee got a shot at it while crossing a ridge in plain view. The dog was of small size and seemed to have suffered greatly for the want of food.

Nelson Dixon Killed By A Railroad Train.

The body of Nelson Dixon, aged 23 years, who lived in Loudoun county, Virginia, was found Saturday morning lying along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks in a mangled condition near Adamstown. He was seen to get off the 8.15 train at Dubs station and after the train left he was seen walking toward Adamstown on his way home.

Dr. J. Boone, acting coroner, summoned a jury with Walter B. Kiantz, foreman, who rendered a verdict of accidental death.

ARE ENEMIES NOW.

Henrietta Young, colored, had the distinction of being the first person to have her name written on the new docket for the year 1902, at the Northwestern Police Station, Baltimore. Henrietta "inadvertently" helped herself to $21 of Annie G. Mitchell's hard earned savings, four waists of varied hues, and a breastpin. The two women had been friends, having worked at service together, but they are enemies now. Annie suspected Henrietta of the larceny and gave a description of her to the police. She was picked up about 3 A. M. Wednesday by Detective Thomas Burns and Officer John T. Carroll. The officers recovered the waists but Henrietta said she had "blowed in" the money. Justice Goldman committed her for court.

Robbers Near Pen-Mar.

The Pearl of the Mountain Clubhouse near Pen Mar, owned by Walter D. Wilson, of Hagerstown, was broken into by thieves at night, and a large quantity of whiskies, wines and beer carried away. Access to the building was gained through a transom over the front door. The same night a bold attempt was made at Pen Mar and the general merchandise store of H. H. Myers. The men (three in number) were at work on the front door of the station building, when they were discovered by Ira W. Rouzer, telegraph operator, who was asleep upstairs. He called to the men, and receiving no response he discharged his revolver. The robbers immediately ran down the mountain and disappeared.—American.

Caught in the Act.

For some past chicken roasts in the vicinity to Fairfield have been visited by unknown persons and a number of fowls taken. The citizens have been keeping watch "by night" and on Saturday night James A. Bigham, Wm. Singley and R. M. Marshall succeeded in catching George Stover, of Hamilton township, in the act of taking fowls from Mr. Marshall's hen house. The gentlemen were in waiting and after Stover had wrung the heads from a number of chickens he was halted. They held him a prisoner until Constable Saunders arrived, who in turn lodged him in the lock-up until Monday, when he was brought to Gettysburg and put in jail to await the action of the Grand Jury at the January term of court.—Star and Sentinel.

A HELPFUL PRISONER.

John Morgan was lodged in jail at Cumberland Friday afternoon to await the outcome of the injuries of Constable Isaac Turnbull, of Pekin, Allegany county, whom he is alleged to have stabbed. It appears a gang of young men was engaged in a card game in the saloon of James Reynolds when a fight occurred. Turnbull threw up his hands and exclaimed that he was cut. When Morgan was arrested no weapon was found on him, and it is thought that another person is guilty. Morgan went to the jail in Cumberland on Friday with the commitment in his pocket the constable who was to have taken him being so intoxicated that Morgan had to help him off the train. Morgan recently returned from the Philippine service. Turnbull is in a precarious condition. It is thought the knife penetrated the lung in the wound made under the left shoulder.—Sun.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Organization Of The General Assembly Of Maryland.

The General Assembly of Maryland organized Wednesday for the January session of 1902 and adjourned till next Tuesday night.

Hon. John Hubner, of Baltimore county, was re-elected as President of the Senate. He advises remodeling the corporation laws of the State.

Hon. Noble L. Mitchell, of Harford county, was elected Speaker of the House of Delegates.

The Speaker said that for things done "we are held responsible as a party collectively, and answerable to our constituents, individually."

The message of Governor John Walter Smith was received and read in both houses.

Mr. Robertson contests the seats of Senator Putzel, of Baltimore city.

In the House 11 contests were developed, 9 of seats held by Republicans and 2 of seats held by Democrats; the latter being Messrs. Campbell and Isaac Lobe Straus.

Sunday—Presbyterian Church. Sermon by Rev. Chas. Reinwald.

GOVERNOR ON FAIR PRIMARIES.

Governor Smith said Wednesday he was heartily in favor of a primary election law and so recommended in his message. He followed this up, however, by stating that it should apply only where such a law was deemed necessary. "I do not think the counties require a primary election law," said he. "The fairness of the elections held throughout the state is never questioned. Republicans and Democrats know each other, and the conditions are very different from those existing in the city. To compel the counties to add to their expense account would be imposing a needless burden. If, however, any of the counties desire that the law should apply to them I will unhesitatingly give my approval."

The Governor is also strongly in favor of ridding the state of all investments in properties which are non-productive and advocates their sale as speedily as possible. "With the proceeds," he added, "we could relieve the State and wipe out our entire indebtedness."—Morning Herald.

LA GRIPPE coughs often continue for months and sometimes lead to fatal results after the patient is supposed to have passed the danger point. FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR affords positive protection from these coughs. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

Tipton, the Gettysburg Photographer, will be at the Rowe Gallery every Saturday during January, 1902, from 9 a. m. till 3 p. m.

ANNA V. GUNNELLS filed a suit in Hagerstown for $5,000 damages against the Burgess and Commissioners of Hancock for injuries sustained while walking from church one dark night last July. She fell over a projecting stone on the pavement and broke her left leg above the ankle. She alleges the town was responsible for the bad condition of the sidewalk. She recently removed to Hagerstown.

PROGRESSIVE MOORHEAD.

Mr. R. P. Johnston, Formerly of This Place, One Of The Prominent Business Men Of That Town.

From a copy of the Onawa Weekly Democrat, published at Onawa, Iowa, containing a "write-up" of Moorhead, situated in Monona county, Iowa, and one of the most flourishing new towns in that State, we find the following flattering announcement concerning the S. H. Bowman Lumber Company, and Mr. Russell P. Johnston, a former well-known citizen of this place. Mr. Johnston is one of the town fathers of Moorhead as well as manager of the S. H. Bowman Lumber Company at that place:

"The S. H. Bowman Lumber Co., whose name has long since become almost universally known in all the principal towns of Northwestern Iowa, also has a big yard at Moorhead. The business is handled by Mr. R. P. Johnston, its resident manager, and Mr. A. W. Hartsock, assistant manager. Mr. Johnston is one of the oldest representatives in point of length of service in employ, having been with the company for almost fifteen years. During that long period he has filled different high and responsible positions, acting as traveling auditor for some time, and also manager at Turin and Danbury. Mr. Johnston is a member of the city council of Moorhead, and one of the bright and progressive young men whose indomitable zeal, energy and willingness, and ripe business experience cannot miss being of the greatest value in putting Moorhead ahead as one of the most progressive young towns to be found in any part of the State. The business of the company has been unusually good for the past year, so Mr. Johnston states, the books showing a handsome increase of sales over that of the previous year."

BURNED TO DEATH.

In a fire which destroyed a barrack located near Hampstead last Friday night a man, supposed to have been Wilson Shaffer, a half-witted person, but a very familiar character throughout that part of the country, was burned to death. The remains, burned beyond recognition, were found in the ashes soon after the fire, and a coroner's jury was summoned about midnight by Justice A. J. Houck. No evidence as to the origin of the fire or the identity of the person burned up was given, and a verdict was rendered accordingly.

It was learned Saturday that Shaffer had been sleeping in the barrack of late and was seen to enter the building last Friday evening. Certain marks on the charred body also helped to establish the identity almost beyond a doubt. The remains were interred in the Hampstead Cemetery Saturday afternoon.

A man very much under the influence of intoxicants and carrying a lighted lantern left Hampstead for his home a short while before the fire. A young man who accompanied him part of the way reported that this person told him he intended to go into the barrack until the rain ceased. It is thought that an accident to the lantern caused the fire.

The barrack belonged to Mr. T. J. Hunt, of Hampstead. It was almost filled with straw, and also contained some farming implements.

COMMITTED, BUT NOT ADMITTED.

Sam Woodyard, a young colored boy, who was committed to the House of Reformation and Instruction for Colored Children by Justice of the Peace M. F. Shuff, one day last week, for vicious and disorderly conduct, was not admitted to that institution by the authorities in charge on the grounds that "Samuel" was past the age at which boys are received into the institution, and Constable Bollinger, who had charge of Woodyard, gave him his freedom, with the understanding that he was not to return to Emmitsburg for a certain length of time.

The Baltimore daily papers of last Friday stated that Samuel Woodyard was found lying along the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Baltimore, having fallen from a fast-moving train Thursday night. He was taken to the Baltimore City Hospital where he was examined by Dr. Hale. Beyond suffering from the shock Woodyard had escaped injury.

N. JACKSON, Danville, Ill., writes: "My daughter had a severe attack of la grippe and a terrible cough settled on her lungs. We tried a great many remedies without giving relief. She tried FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR which cured her. She has never been troubled with a cough since." T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

SIT DOWN AND SING.

George W. Corby, an old man of Williamsport, convicted of carrying concealed weapons, was put on the ticket-of-leave Monday by Judge Stake, who, in imposing the sentence, told Corby that he knew him all his life for a good citizen, having been a neighbor of his, but he had a bad temper and allowed it to control him. He advised Corby the next time he got into a violent temper to sit down and sing a couple of those old Methodist hymns he used to hear Corby sing in the days gone by, and assured him that when he finished his hot temper would be abated.

FREDERICK NICHOLS, a tramp, broke a window at the restaurant of George Groves, Cumberland, in order to be arrested. Mr. Groves refused to have him arrested and offered him food and drink. Nichols said this would not do; that he would break another one. When Justice Charles H. Wolford gave him 10 days he asked that the sentence be made 90 days.

REV. FATHER ROSENSTEEL.

Our readers will be interested in the following sketch of a clergyman whose relatives are well and favorably known in several important walks of life:

Rev. C. O. Rosensteel is a worthy representative of an old and honored family of Baltimore, whose ancestors settled in Maryland before the Revolutionary war for independence.

He was born in Emmitsburg, Frederick county, Md., May 13, 1855. His parents moved to Loretto, Pa., where his youth was spent. He made one year preparatory studies at St. Francis College, Loretto, Pa., and then returned to his State of birth and entered Mount St. Mary's College, near Emmitsburg. After a classical course in that time-honored institution he made a course of Theology at St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, where he was ordained by His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, Dec. 20th, 1884.

He was appointed assistant at St. Ann's, Baltimore, Jan. 1, 1885, where he remained until Sept. 1, 1885. He was made pastor of Newport, Charles Co., Md., from Sept., 1885, until Nov. 5th, 1889. Nov. 5th, 1889, he was transferred to the Pastorate of St. Mary's, Rockville, Md., and of St. John's, Forest Glen, Md.

After a residence of nine years at Rockville, during which he had labored hard and successfully to build up the two parishes, the latter was separated by the Cardinal, and he was made pastor of Forest Glen, another priest being appointed to Rockville. At Forest Glen he was instrumental in building a brown-stone church, one of the finest stone church structures in the Archdiocese of Baltimore, which was dedicated to the honor of God and to the memory of Bishop Carroll, the first pastor, afterwards first bishop of Baltimore.

Besides his work in Forest Glen he was given charge of two outlying missions with the duty of building a church in each. Through his exertions the cornerstone of St. Peter's at Olney, Md., was laid on Nov. 13th, 1898, and on Christmas day following the first Mass was said in it. The next duty was to build a church at Brightwood, D. C., but he thought wisely to first erect a suitable building at a moderate cost which would not burden the Catholics of Brightwood and deter others from coming to a place overwhelmed with debt. This building, which will be used for a future school and hall, was erected and the first Mass said in it February, 1901.

The pastor does not forget that in all his works he has met with a generous and self-sacrificing people, co-operating with him in all his undertakings, and he says that the success of the work is only due to the united efforts and sacrifices of both people and pastor for the greater honor and glory of God.

Father Rosensteel has built a very pretty and saintly-planned home for the pastor at Forest Glen, where he now lives. But American priests can say with the Apostle, "we have here no abiding city." He has changed his abode quite often already and doubtless will again, for the very reason that he is so zealous and so successful. The Church cannot afford to let such men rest, they must look to the future dwelling place, the Holy City above. Meanwhile we pray that Father Oscar's departure thither may still be delayed, that the number of those may be still further increased to whom he has been, and is, a guide, an encouragement and a helpful companion in the way.

Father Oscar's brother, Warren, also a priest, has labored with great success in Pennsylvania. He was for many years pastor at Tyrone, but is now in the city of Pittsburgh in charge of a district known as Sharpesburg. Each of the brothers is a credit to "The Mountain," and both are fondly attached to their Alma Mater.

INVESTIGATION OF TWO FIRES IN CARROLL COUNTY.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Charles V. Wantz Saturday investigated the fire which occurred near Hampstead on the night of December 25. Alexander Ebert testified that he, while in an intoxicated condition, went into the barrack with a lighted lantern in order to escape the rain and that in attempting to climb up a ladder the lantern fell from his hand into a pile of straw, setting it on fire. He was so thoroughly frightened that he fled to his home and reached it almost dead from fright and exhaustion. He said he did not see anyone in the barrack. The charred body found in the ashes has been identified as that of Wilson Shaffer. Mr. Hunt had no insurance on the building, and his loss is estimated at $500.

Samuel P. Sterner, who was arrested by Deputy State Fire Marshal Wantz on the charge of having set fire to his barn on December 18, had a hearing before Justice Diffendal, at Taneytown, Saturday, and was held in $500 bail for his appearance before the grand jury. Several hundred persons gathered for the hearing and the interest in the case was so great that they demanded that the trial be held in the Opera House. The Bremen had rented the house, for the afternoon, but consented to give it up on condition that an admittance fee be charged. The people consented, and nearly $12 was collected. Mr. Sterner went out to his farm for a load of wood on the morning of the 18, and several reliable persons testified that he was in the barn a half hour before the fire occurred and to other circumstances supposed to be of a suspicious nature. This was the fourth fire occurring on the place within six years.

DEATH OF MR. HENRY ZIMMERMAN.

Henry Zimmerman, an old and highly respected citizen of Mendon, Ill., has been called hence. He had been in feeble health for several weeks but his condition was not considered serious until Thursday afternoon when he had hemorrhage of the lungs and died the same evening at his home, 3 miles southwest of Mendon.

Funeral services were held at the Lutheran church Sunday morning, conducted by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Booher, in the presence of a large and sympathetic congregation, after which he was buried in the Mendon cemetery.

Mr. Zimmerman was born Oct. 25, 1822, in Adams Co., Pa., near Emmitsburg, Md. He was the ninth child of Joseph and Mary Weikert Zimmerman. Losing his father at an early age, his moral and religious training devolved upon his mother, who was a devout Christian and her earnest efforts were well rewarded in her family. At the age of 16, after a course of instruction in the catechism, he was received into the Emmitsburg church, by the Rev. Ezra Keller, D. D.

Of the pastors of his earlier years, he always spoke in terms of reverence and love. In 1842 he left Emmitsburg and went to Greenford, O., where he lived until 1849. His religious experiences were here very pleasant.

In that year he removed to Mendon, Ill., where there was no Lutheran church. There being a large emigration from Pennsylvania many settled in and near Mendon, who had formerly been affiliated with the German Reformed and Lutheran churches in the east. These united to form a Lutheran church in Mendon, under the pastoral care of the Rev. James M. Harkey. When the present church building was erected, beside being a charter member he was one of the church council, also one of the building committee. He and others labored to complete the tasteful church home, the doors, sash, blinds, etc., all being patiently wrought out by hand.

He always took a deep interest in everything pertaining to the welfare of the church, temporal and spiritual. At first he was one of the chorists; after the organization of the choir in 1862, he ultimately became its leader, often after a hard day's work, riding several miles that he might practice the music for the Lord was his delight until his hearing became impaired, then attendance ceased.

April 1, 1845, he was married to Miss Elizabeth Seabrooks, whose death in 1853 left him alone. July 20, 1854 he was married to Miss Florence A. M. Seabrooks, who survives him. He was the father of seven children, four of whom are living. Mrs. H. K. Shaffer, of Mendon; Mrs. R. L. Scott and Mr. U. L. Zimmerman, of Mendon, and Mrs. A. Schaefer, of Roosevelt, Ill.

He loved his town and its surrounding country, often saying "I believe Adams county, Ill., is the best country out of doors. I expect to live and die here." In early life he learned the trade of carpentering but in 1855 he bought a saw mill, adding other milling facilities at various times. Self taught, he thoroughly mastered the art of sawing lumber; few, if any equaled him in his chosen vocation.

As a business man he aimed to be honest, upright, courteous, setting an example of industry and frugality, while his sympathies were easily enlisted in any case of suffering or need. His assistance was unostentatious cheerfully and ungrudgingly given.

His earthly life closed Thanksgiving evening, Nov. 23, 1901, aged 79 years, 1 month and 2 days. He came to Mendon 52 years ago on Thanksgiving day.—Mendon, (Ill.) Dispatch. (Mrs. Catharine Seabrooks, of Liberty township, Pa., sister of the deceased, is the last surviving member of that family. Mrs. Seabrooks is about 81 years of age and is enjoying remarkably good health for one who has attained such an advanced age.—Ed.)

REMARKABLE CURE OF CROUP.

A Little Boy's Life Saved.

I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life, and I feel that I cannot praise it enough. I bought a bottle of it from A. E. Steere, of Goodwin, S. D., and when I got home with it the poor baby could hardly breathe. I gave the medicine every ten minutes as directed until he threw up and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. We had to pull the phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am positive that if I had not got that bottle of cough medicine, my boy would not be on earth today.—JOSEPH DEMONT, Inwood, Iowa. DEATH OF H. STEWART ROBERTS.

Mr. H. Stewart Roberts, one of the best-known and most influential men of Carroll county, died suddenly last Friday night at his residence near Medford, of heart failure, aged about 54 years. He retired about ten o'clock in excellent spirits. About 11 o'clock he called his wife, saying that he had intense pains, and asked her to get him some medicine, and died about 15 minutes later. Mr. Roberts was the head of the firm of Roberts, Roop & Co., proprietors of the Carroll Flouring Mills, and was at his office in Westminster until 4 o'clock on Thursday. He was connected with many business enterprises in Westminster and was president of the Electric Light and Power Company, vice-president of the Westminster Deposit and Trust Company, and president of the Westminster Hardware Company. He leaves a widow and two children—Misses Bertha and Bessie Roberts.

TOUGH BILL OF FARE

MESSED THAT ARE SERVED ON BOARD
A "MEAN SHIP."

Each Times the Sailors Give to the Unpalatable Food—Dog Chowder,
By the Wind Soup, Topgallant Tea
and Cow Jipper.

Some ships are known as "mean ships" by sailors on account of the food that is served to the forecabin.
They are chiefly deep water sailing ships and tramp steamers. Of course what a sailor shall have to eat is provided for by law, but the law sometimes gets badly mixed up on blue water. The strange dishes served to sailors on "mean ships" are, the stranger
they are the names the sailors give them.
One of the commonest of "mean ship" dishes is "by the wind soup." This delicious is composed of well polished mutton bones, stale meat trimmings, a handful of potato parings and scraps from the captain's table. The mixture is boiled vigorously for two hours, at the end of which time the result is hot water of a light brown color with floating islands of grease on its surface. A little hardtack is added, and there you have your "by the wind soup."

When a "mean ship" gets well out to sea, one of the first dishes to appear is
"dog chowder." It is a sort of reservation pudding, made of scraps that the cook does not dare to serve up as are,
but, because he shreds finely or pounds in a mortar until all semblance of their original state is lost. The mass is well mixed with grease and served hot.

Grease plays an important part in all the "mean ship" dishes. Another standard item on the bill of fare of these ships is "topgallant tea." It is served to the men in the dog watches, and the recipe for making it is this: Three times a week weak tea, made from fresh tea leaves, is served. The leaves are saved and mixed with the tea leaves from the captain's table. Brown sugar or molasses is added, and from the mixture is made a decoction which is served four days in the week and which the sailors call "topgallant tea."
"Cow jipper" is a common dish on all
"mean ships." It is made by boiling beef bones for six or seven hours with all the scraps left over from former meals. The broth so obtained is well seasoned with salt and served out.
Another dish is "jumping jumpy," sometimes called "double bolt pie," from the fact that the sailor has to take in a couple of holes in his belt after eating it in order to stay him until the next meal. It is the result of a week's leavings from the cabin table, mixed with six or eight ship's biscuits and half an onion. It is not at all a nice dish, and a sailor with epicurean tastes always makes a row when the cook serves it.

On some of the "western ocean"
tramps a dish is served known to the sailors as "rice stew," and the toughest old salt that ever was drunk on shore or midocean at sea is subdued by
it to a state of lamblike docility, for it is sure to double him up with indigestion and make him think of the hereafter. It is made from a collection of the skins of everything—pigs, potatoes, fowl (from the captain's table), beacon and well picked chicken legs. This is boiled for six hours and plenty of thick grease added.

The captain of a "mean ship" always says, of course, that his men are well fed and that they only growl and grumble because they are a bad, ungrateful lot of abandoned wretches. In proof of it he will tell you that he gives them plum duff twice a week.
The duff he gives them is known to the sailors as "bowlful duff." It is made from the scrappings of pudding cloths that once held the puddings consumed in port—when the captain gave his men red duff, so that they not know that they had shipped on a "mean ship" and make "bowlful duff" for liberty. These scrappings are made bulky with luscious paste and flavored with cloves. "Bowlful duff" is the least unpopular of all the dishes on the bill of fare of the "mean ship," and its actual cost is 2 cents for every three men.—Exchange.

The Spoiled Child.
Once upon a time a young fisherman went to the father bird and asked for his fishing rod, that he might catch some choice trout he had seen in a nearby stream.

"No," answered the stern parent.
"The young bird went away and in an hour returned dripping wet, saying that he had tried to catch his fish without a pole and had fallen into the water."

"There," said the mother bird to the father, "I knew you would spoil the child if you spared the rod."

Moral.—The mother can always find a way to place blame on the father, no matter what happens.—New York Herald.

A Living Emetic.
A servant who did not find her way
very promptly to the kitchen one morning was visited by her mistress, who found her in bed suffering from pain and violent sickness. She explained that she had a cold and had taken some medicine which had been recommended for the children.

"How much did you take?" asked her mistress.
"Well, mum, I went by the directions
on the bottle. They said, 'Ten drops for an infant, thirty drops for an adult and a tablespoonful for an emetic.' I knew I wasn't an infant or adult, so I thought I must be an emetic, and the poor stuff has pretty near turned me inside out."—Medical Brief.

The "Extra Horse."
A lover of horses recently noticed a custom in France which he thinks ought to be adopted in this country.
On every street in France which has a steep grade there is stationed an "extra horse." The law compels draymen and others to make use of this horse
until the summit of the hill is reached,
and there is a heavy fine for refusing to hire the extra horse at a small fixed rate. Placeards by the roadside indicate the point where the extra horse should be taken on and also where he may be dispensed with.

FARM FIELD
AND GARDEN

STABLING COWS.

A Clean, Comfortable and Safe Stall
For Dairy Cows.

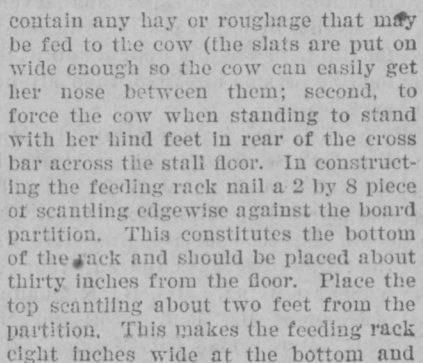

To be efficient a cow stall must keep
the animal both comfortable and clean.
Experienced farmers and dairymen are most of them quite familiar with the merits of the Hoard stall; yet, as it is simple of construction and unpatented,
many others may be interested in it.
An illustration and explanation of it,
originally given in Hoard's Dairyman,
are therefore here reproduced.

The excellence of this plan of tying cows over the stanchion plan is found
as follows:
First.—The cow has three and a half feet in width of stall and perfect liberty in comfort of position.

Second.—By virtue of the bar across the stall floor, which will be seen just forward of the hind feet of the standing cow, the animal has always a dry, clean bed to lie in, thus keeping her as clean from manure in winter as though she were in a June pasture.

Third.—By this system each cow is protected when lying down from having her tents and udder stepped on by her standing neighbor. This is one of the most productive sources of injury that is known and of itself should condemn the rigid stanchion.

The cut represents one row of cows facing another row. A closely boarded partition about four feet high forms the front of the stall. Each cow has three and a half feet in width. The floor is made tight, and there is no
drain in rear of cows except the thickness of one plank, which is the double floor of the stall. The feeding rack is constructed for two purposes—first, to

THE HOARD STALL.

contain any hay or roughage that may be fed to the cow (the slats are put on wide enough so the cow can easily get her nose between them; second, to force the cow when standing to stand with her hind feet in rear of the cross bar across the stall floor. In constructing the feeding rack nail a 2 by 3 piece of scantling against the board partition.
This constitutes the bottom of the rack and should be placed about thirty inches from the floor. Place the top scantling about two feet from the partition. This makes the feeding rack eight inches wide at the bottom and two feet wide at the top. In the center of the bottom scantling fasten a ring screw to tie the halter to. Fasten the cow with a common web halter, she wearing the headpiece all the time. The halter end of the rope has a safety snap to fasten into the ring of the halter under the throat. To prevent the cow from getting loose it is well to divide the end of the rope into two strands, each six inches long, and put a snap in each, fastening in both the ring when tying the cow.

The grain and ensilage box is placed on that side of the stall opposite to the one the cow usually lies on. If she lies on her left side, place the grain-box on the right side, as seen in the engraving. This box is large enough to contain the ensilage and grain feed and is reached by an opening in the partition. It is best to have the feed-box slant down toward the cow, so that all the feed will easily work down to the end nearest her. This box should be long enough to extend from the partition into the stall as far as the upper part of the feed rack projects and about 18 or 20 inches wide and 16 inches deep. If placed sufficiently slanting, the feed will easily work down to the lower end next the cow, so that she will not need to bring her hind feet in on her bedding in order to reach the contents of the box.

The Effect of Droughts.

When drought destroys or reduces crops, everybody pities the farmers on the mistaken supposition that they are the sole losers. As a matter of fact, it is the rest of the community that suffers most from a crop shortage. In many cases the farmers gain rather than lose in the high prices they get
for the crops which they do harvest.
The longest droughts rarely affect all crops disastrously. The recent drought in the great corn belt did not affect the wheat at all, except to insure its gathering in the best possible condition. The unprecedented wheat crop will command a ready sale at advanced prices, because wheat must be substituted in a limited degree for corn. The corn that comes to maturity will command a high price because of its comparative scarcity. Hay, oats and potatoes will all be high in price—above, in fact, already advanced far above the average price at this season of the year.
The consumers pay these advances all along the line, and the farmers profit by them. There are few American farmers in this day who stake their entire year's prosperity upon the corn crop. The up to date farmer puts his eggs in a good many baskets. The upsetting of one of them doesn't leave him without eggs to carry to market.—

The Time For Planting Bulbs.

There is no definite rule to be laid down as to the length of time in which bulbs should be left in cold storage.
As a general thing, top growth will not begin until root growth is completed.
This nearly always takes from six weeks to two months. It is therefore generally safe to begin bringing October planted bulbs to the living room in December. Those desired for later flowering can be left in cold storage, where they will remain dormant as to top growth. By bringing bulbs to light and warmth at intervals of a week or ten days we secure a succession of bloom which makes it possible for us to brighten our windows with their beautiful flowers during the greater part of winter.—New Lippincott.

POWER FOR FARM WORK.

The Gasoline Engine Popular—It Is Cheaply and Easily Operated.

Cheap power on the farm is as important as anywhere. Horses cannot always be had when wanted, and power is not constant enough for all purposes, steam is expensive, so the gasoline engine supplies an important need. From its introduction it took well, but of recent years has made wonderful progress. The mechanism has been so perfected that the disagreeable odor and frequently faulty operation urged against the earlier machines have disappeared entirely.
All sizes and styles are now available,
from the small upright for running a churn or separator to the twelve horsepower traction engine operating a sawmill or thrasher or drawing large loads along the country roads.

What is the secret of their popularity? Probably the most attractive feature is the small cost of operating.
By following directions any one at all familiar with machinery can run a gasoline engine, no engineer being required. In fact, after the engine is once started further attention is unnecessary until it is to be stopped. In grinding feed, for example, one man can do all the work. He starts the engine, then has all his time for keeping the hopper full and removing the ground material. The same is true of pumping water, sawing wood, separating milk, churning butter, cutting feed, thrashing grain, cleaning seed, etc.
Then the cost of fuel is very small. A twelve horse-power engine will consume 10 to 14 cents' worth of gasoline per hour, a five horse-power stationary engine 5 to 6 cents' worth and in that proportion for various sizes. The first cost is no greater than a steam engine of like capacity and in some instances is much less.

A great advantage when the engine is to be used about barns and stacks is almost no danger from fire. The engine can be placed in the barn, hay shed, granary, dairy—wherever most convenient. The uses to which it can be put are so many that it is needless to enumerate them.

The cost of the application of gasoline motors to trucks, carriages, mowers, farm wagons and the like is still great enough to be prohibitive on the farm. Doubtless the time will come when gasoline motive power will be applied to portable farm implements and machinery, but this is still a long way off, concludes Orange Judd Farmer.

MARKETING YOUNG PORK.

Its Popularity a Boon to the Farmer.

The popularity of young pork with plenty of lean meat on it has proved a boon to the farmers, for it is far more profitable to raise the last 100 pounds of any animal than the last 100 pounds,
says an American Cultivator writer.
This is partly due to the fact that nature forces the growth of the young animal rapidly, bones, muscles and flesh all growing so that every ounce of food is almost entirely converted into live weight. There is practically no loss, and all the animal requires is fair attention and good food. Nature is then able and willing to do the rest.

When an animal reaches maturity,
the laying on of additional weight becomes a slow process. We may by a good forcing system increase the weight quite rapidly, but not nearly so easily as in a young animal. Yet it costs more to feed the old hog because there is a larger system to feed, and a good deal of the nourishment goes to make sufficient strength to carry the animal along.

Feeding Young Pigs.

The young pigs that can be forced to 200 pounds in six to seven months are the most profitable things raised on the farm. If wise foresight and attention are given to them, this is not too much of a growth to expect; but, like everything else, the work must be performed after some good, practical and well tested system. From the day they are born until they are ready to market see that the growth is continual and steady. It is a good plan to have some arrangements to weigh them every few weeks or months. When they reach maturity and show increasing signs of lagging in flesh making, send them to market. Do not keep them another week unless prices happen to be very low.

Fall Pigs in Favor.

Spring pigs are the best for this business. They will add more weight in six months than fall pigs. Yet the latter have points in their favor, and they should not be discarded. The best way is to raise both spring and fall pigs.

The Time of the Turkey.

It is the time when turkeys are worth at least a dollar apiece. They should never be allowed to stay away from home a single night. If they fail to come up, go after them. Feeding them corn every evening makes home seem more pleasant to the wild creatures. They require generous feeding to get them fat.—Cor. Farm Journal.

Notes From The Farm Journal.
To keep turnips successfully do not bury too many in the same hole.
Cranberries will bring a better price
than usual on account of the scarcity of other fruit.

There is always a demand for pure cider vinegar that cannot be supplied.
Only the ripest pumpkins will stand a heavy frost; it is useless to store any others.

For the table the flesh and eggs of game fowls are of the highest quality.
One quart of grain food per day for ten hens is considered liberal feeding.

Arrange paddocks on the sunny side of the barn for the colts to run in during pleasant winter days.

Save every bit of manure.

Oyster Shells.
One thousand bushels of shucked shells, which accumulate in great heaps about the shucking houses. The oyster shells landed on the shores of Maryland during the last ninety years have been reckoned at 12,000,000 tons—a quantity twice sufficient to overload and sink every sailing vessel, steam vessel, barge and canalboat in America.

Never has the importance of plant breeding been so generally recognized as at present.

HARMFUL EATING.

Too Much Soap and Water Is Not Good For the Skin.

It is a familiar boast of English people that we are above all others a washing nation. Soap and water is a staunch dish in Great Britain, but so little were we disposed to credit the habitual cleanliness of foreigners that a piece of soap in the valise was still recently the habitual companion of an Englishman on his travels. All kinds of theories have been raised to account for this national tendency to ablution, and most diverse qualities have been attributed to its possession.

The familiarity of islanders with water and the use of it occasioned by the national custom that led the ancient Britons to paint their bodies are solemnly urged as the foundation of the English proclivity to washing, and the fresh complexion and smooth skins of young Englishmen are held to replace the more dusky and hirsute countenances of the Latin races because of their closer and more frequent acquaintance with the articles of the washstand.

It is quite obvious that even in England there are people who wash too little. It is not so generally recognized that some people wash too much. The skin is not well adapted to frequent applications of water accompanied by even the least irritating of soaps. A tendency arises to maceration of the superficial part of the epidermis, which is too frequently removed and occasions probably too rapid a proliferation of the cells of the Malpighian layer.

There is no doubt that many cases of roughness of the skin of the face come from the frequent applications of water. It is a good thing to rub the face with a soft, clean, dry towel two or three times a day. If, in addition, water is used in the morning and at night,
the skin will be kept in a sounder,
smoother and healthier state than if,
as is often the case, soap and water are used three or four times a day.

There are not often offenders in this respect, most men sparing little time for the refinements of the toilet. Women and children, whose skins are the most easily affected by superfluous ablution, are the very persons in whom such excess is too common. They should be taught that there are dry methods of cleanliness as well as wet ones.—Lancet.

PADEREWSKI GOT $20.

But It Cost Him That to Get His Clothes Out of Pawn.

Paderewski's first really important engagement as a pianist was in Paris after the death of his beloved wife. He was engaged to play in the drawing room of a lady famous for her musicals, and his fee, which seemed to him enormous, was $20. He managed to persuade the humane agent to pay him in advance, and when Paderewski had redeemed his dress suit from pawn
and paid for shoes, gloves,
tie and other essentials he had no money left for cab hire, so he was forced to walk to the scene of his engagement.

The music loving audience inspired him. He played with feeling, passion and mastery of his instrument as never before. His success was instant and unmistakable. The poor player had suddenly become the lion of the hour, his dream had become a reality, and fame and fortune were assured him.

At last, after disengaging himself
from his admirers, he turned to leave, when his hostess, remembering with regret the smallness of the fee for so marvelous a performance, offered him her carriage for his return home. But Paderewski's pride came to the rescue.
In his courteous yet reserved way he made a formal bow, and saying, "No, thank you, madame; my own is waiting," he stepped out for his long walk homeward.—Pearson's Weekly.

Bound to Sound Their "H."

The English middle classes have had so much fun poked at them for dropping the letter "h" and for carrying it forward and placing it where it should not be, possibly thus to obey the laws of composition, that they have become sensitive on the subject, and many aspirate the "h" with double force when the letter should be aspirated. Instead of saying "before him," as Americans do, with a light aspiration, they will say "before him," taking a full and deep breath when they utter the second word, shooting it out as if it came from a pgun. Dropping the "h" is not new for ordinary English folk. It is a new trick to aspirate it with double the force required.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be cleanliness.
Ely's Cream Balm
cleanses, soothes and heals
the diseased membrane.
It cures catarrh and drives
out a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spread over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents by mail.
Drugs or by mail. Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.
