Great Britain is only half as big as Sumatra and double the size of Newfoundland. It stands fifth in point of size in the list of the world's islands. England, without Wales, is almost identical in point of size with Roumania. It is less than one quarter as big as France or Germany. The whole British Isles only occupy the one sixteenth-hundredth part of the surface of the globe.

Cut this out and take it to T. E. Zimmerman & Co's Drug Store and get a box of Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets. The best physic. They also correct disorders of the stomach. Price 25 cents.

Foot Light—She has been playing the part of Little Eva ever since she was a little girl.
Sue Brette—Gracious! I didn't know "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was as old as that.—Yonkers Statesman.

Baked Milk.
When offering food and drink to the invalid, one should avoid things very sweet and very sour, as they are often very hurtful to weak stomachs. Most sick people can take milk, but in many cases it is not well to give it raw. Baked milk is good and may be taken fearlessly into the most delicate stomach. To prepare this properly put two quarts of fresh sweet milk in a jar covered with white writing paper, tightly tied down, and bake it in an oven moderately hot until thick as cream, which will take about eight or ten hours. A less quantity will not require so long.—St. Louis Republic.

Her Singing Pose.
Crossing on an ocean liner recently was a woman who sang whenever she was asked, but she imposed conditions. You were not to mind her attitude. She sang with her hands clasped behind her neck, her elbows akimbo on a line with her pompadour, the eyes fixed on the smokestack, if she could have seen up through the promenade deck. She said it was her method. Other women suggested that the only method about it was her idea that she looked pretty that way. She sang in this attitude at the ship's concert.—New York Press.

A Question of Degree.
Suaave Young Shopwalker—May I inquire, madam, for whom you wish to adopt mourning?
Lady—It is my brother-in-law who is dead.
Shopwalker—Certainly, madam. This way to the mitigated grief department, if you please. Thank you!—London King.

Expensive.
"I've quit joking my wife about women carrying their pocket handkerchiefs in their pocketbooks," said Tenspot. "It didn't pay."
"How was that?" asked Hunker.
"She said she'd carry money in hers if she had it. Handed her out $10 on the spot."—Detroit Free Press.

Costigan—Oi did not. After Oi'd walked two-thirds ay th' way Oi was too tired t' go a shtep further, so Oi turned round an' walked back home again.—Judge.

"I am using a box of Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets and find them the best thing I ever used," says T. W. Robison, Justice of the Peace, Loomis, Mich. These Tablets not only correct disorders of the stomach but regulate the liver and bowels. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by T. E. Zimmerman & Co., Druggists.

"Of course the man who can say 'no, deserves a lot of credit, but there's another who deserves still more."

THE WOMAN OF IT.

Clara—That accounts for the funny question he asked me the other evening.

Maud—What did he ask you?
Clara—If a woman ever got to old to be pleased with a looking glass.—Chicago News.

MOTHER ALWAYS KEEPS IT HANDY.
"My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spalding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and now, at the age of seventy-six, eats anything she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy. Don't waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If your stomach is sound your health will be good. Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digesting your food. It is nature's own tonic. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

NOTABLE MAN HUNTS

HOW CRIMINALS HAVE BEEN CHASED TO THE ENDS OF EARTH.

Benson, Who Posed as Mme. Patti's Agent, Chained Justice by Death. Relentless Energy of the Police in Tracking Counterfeiters.

There have been many long pursuits of criminals, great in the distance traveled, the obstacles overcome and the persistence of the pursuing officers, but that of Sergeant Wood of the Natal (South Africa) police is doubtless a record breaker. The man sought by Sergeant Wood was charged with embezzling large sums of money at Pietermaritzburg. He got away from South Africa and went to New York. Although the detective had information as to where his quarry was hiding, yet he had first to visit London to obtain the necessary extradition papers. Then he hurried to America and with the assistance of the United States police ran down his man. By the time he had reached Maritzburg he had been traveling hard for nearly three months and had covered nearly 21,000 miles.

One of the sternest chases of recent years was after Loys Durrell, formerly sergeant in the Seventh United States cavalry. Durrell enlisted at the beginning of the Spanish-American war and distinguished himself at Cuba. There he fell in love with a pretty Spanish girl and begged himself in buying finery for his sweetheart. To obtain more money he robbed and murdered a companion in arms named Crouch. He then fled.

A detective named Dupuy was put upon the murderer's track and, finding a clew, started for New Orleans. He was right in his surmise that Durrell had gone there, but when he arrived the bird had flown. He had left on a British mail steamer for South Africa. Dupuy took train for New York, fast boat for Southampton, reached by rail across Europe, caught a boat of the German East African line and finally arrived at Beira, in Portuguese East Africa.

There he waited like a spider for a fly, and just as Durrell was fancying himself safe from pursuit he pounced upon him. Later on the detective deposited his prisoner safely in Castle William jail in New York. He had traveled in all 31,000 miles and spent $4,250 in the chase.

One of the most astonishing criminals England ever produced was a man named Benson, who began operations in London with two confederates. He organized a series of swindling companies in the city, while he himself, pretending to be an invalid, lived in the greatest luxury in the Isle of Wight. He posed as a great philanthropist, was foremost in charitable works and went into the very best society. By dint of bribing certain officers of the law he lived for some years on the proceeds of his swindles. But one day the crash came. He was arrested, sentenced and got a long term in Portsmouth jail.

No sooner was he out than he was at his old tricks again. These culminated in Switzerland, where he managed to gain the affections of the daughter of an English officer. Through her he induced his father to trust him with the investment of his entire capital, some $35,000. He bolted with the money. Chased across Europe, a detective caught him at Bremen. To avoid scandal the victim promised not to prosecute if Benson would give up the money. The latter did so and left for America. Hardly was the vessel out of sight before it was discovered that the bundle of scrip the thief had handed over was worth at most $100.

Followed across the Atlantic, Benson escaped to Mexico, where he made $5,000 by passing himself off as Mme. Patti's agent and selling forged concert tickets. By this time his photograph was in almost every police bureau in the world. Yet he dodged and twisted under a dozen aliases and was heard of in almost every South American state before a clever New York detective ran him down in Rio after a two-year hunt.

Even then he cheated justice. Landed in prison in New York, he walked upstairs, chatting amiably to his jailer. Suddenly he made a spring and jumped clean over the banister. He was picked up with a broken back and died that night.

The police never exhibit more relentless energy than in hunting down a coiner. A coiner's crime is against government, and so the whole forces of the state are against him. The United States suffers far more from coiners than England does and is proportionately keen to run down such offenders. Early in 1900 a man named Hastings was surprised in his workshop, from which he had issued many thousands of small silver coins, but he was too quick for his would-be captors and escaped. No fewer than seven secret service men were put on his track. The remarkable fact is that Hastings never attempted to leave the states.

Eller, one of the detectives, got a hint that a stranger was in the woods. He took a blanket and some food and hid himself in a thicket. Very early in the morning Hastings passed carrying a bag of food. Eller tracked him to his refuge and saw that the forger was armed. He waited some distance away in hiding. When night came, Hastings came out with a dark lantern and searched every bush near his hiding place. At last he was satisfied and went back. So soon as Eller felt sure the man was asleep he crept up and had the handcuffs on him before he could awake. On the way to the jail Hastings told his captor that he had seen him on ten different occasions and had once, in Cincinnati, been within three feet of him in a theater.—Chicago Chronicle.

GEORGE ELIOT'S FACE.

Said to Have Been a Combination of Dante and Savonarola.

A close friend of George Eliot's, writing of her personal appearance, said: "She was not, as the world in general is aware, a handsome or even a personable woman. Her face was long; the eyes not large or beautiful in color—they were, I think, of a grayish blue; the hair, which she wore in old-fashioned braids, coming low down on either side of her face, of a rather light brown. It was streaked with gray when last I saw her. Her figure was of middle height, large boned and powerful. Lewes often said that she inherited from her peasant ancestors a frame and constitution originally very robust. Her head was finely formed, with a noble and well-balanced arch from brow to crown. The lips and mouth possessed a power of infinitely varied expression.

"George Lewes once said to me, when I made some observation to the effect that she had a sweet face (I meant that the face expressed great sweetness): 'You might say what a sweet hundred faces! I look at her sometimes in amazement. Her countenance is constantly changing.' "The said lips and mouth were distinctly sensuous in form and fullness. She has been compared to the portraits of Savonarola (who was frightful) and of Dante (who, though stern and bitter-looking, was handsome). Something there was of both faces in George Eliot's physiognomy.

"Lewes told us in her presence of the exclamation uttered suddenly by some one to whom she was pointed out at a place of public entertainment. 'That,' said a bystander, 'is George Eliot.' The gentleman to whom she was thus indicated gave one swift, searching look and exclaimed, sotto voce, 'Dante's aunt!' Lewes thought this happy, and he recognized the kind of likeness that was meant to be the great singer of the Divine Comedy. She herself playfully disclaimed any resemblance to Savonarola. But, although such resemblance was very distant—Savonarola's peculiarly unbalanced countenance being a strong caricature of hers—some likeness there was."

DAIRY NOTES.

Clover is better than timothy for cows.

Regularly in feeding and milking is important.

To get all of the butter the cream must be uniformly ripened.

In order to secure rich milk start with a rich cow and feed her rich foods.

Kicking a cow that is lying down may make her get up more quickly, but it will not induce her to give any more milk.

If rock salt is kept in the yard where the cows can lick it every day, there is no danger that they will get too much at once.

One of the most important conditions of churning is the temperature of the cream. No guess should be allowed, but a good thermometer used.

Judge Davis' Will.
The late Nathaniel Davis, justice of the supreme court of New York, was one of many judges and lawyers who make the courtroom the scene of some of our best wit and humor. The New York Commercial Advertiser gives some illustrations.

Once a lawyer objected to a witness, but Judge Davis refused to sustain him. The lawyer cried, "But, your honor, I submit!"—And here he broke off.

"That's right," said the judge quickly; "always submit. Crier, adjourn court!"

In one case over which he presided there were fifty-five distinct offenses and four counts on each offense, 220 in all.

"Well," said Judge Davis, "there are more counts than in a German principality."

Scalloped Bananas.
Bananas are good enough in their ordinary simplicity, but some persons there are who like bananas made into a sort of scallop in this way: Cut a dozen bananas into half inch slices. Cut some bread into small pieces and place a layer of these in the bottom of a pudding dish. Add a layer of bananas, two tablespoonsful of sugar and one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Repeat these layers until all have been used, having bread as the topmost. Put over the top a tablespoonful of melted butter and sprinkle lightly with sugar. Bake half an hour in a quick oven.

Society Mollers.
Dentist—Well, how do the new teeth work? Everything satisfactory?
Patient—Not exactly. They seem to cut the others.

Dentist—Naturally. They don't belong to the same set, you know.—Chicago News.

The Thing That Puzzled the Patient.
"You may be thankful for your excellent constitution. It has pulled you through many a spell of sickness."
"But, doctor, if I have such a blessed strong constitution why am I always getting sick?"—Chicago Tribune.

MOVING IN SCOTLAND

ON MAY 23 OCCURS THE ANNUAL CARNIVAL OF "FLITTING."

One Day in Each Year When Furniture Vans and Chaos Reign Supreme—An Old System, Built Up on the Caution of the Landlords.

In Scotland May 23 is annually given over to a perfect carnival of "flitting." In England houses of the higher rents are taken by the year at one quarter day and the lower rented ones by the month or even by the week. The flitting is thus spread over the year, and no confusion arises. The Scottish system is to let houses by the year from May 23. Even the smallest, consisting of only one room, are so let. On the great day in any large town the sights afforded range from the laughable to the pathetic.

As soon as it is daylight the vans previously "trysted" begin their work; the goods are loaded up with more haste than care and to the accompaniment of the good housewife's lamentations as some cherished household good is roughly flung into the van.

Arrived at the destination, further troubles are in store. Perhaps the new house is not yet vacated, and as the van is required for other removals, the goods are dumped down in the street, and there the poor family is left stranded for the time. Occasionally some streets—in Glasgow, for instance—present an appearance of wholesale caverns.

So numerous are the demands that vans cannot always be obtained, and every kind of vehicle, including horseless carriages, popularly known as "hurlies," are pressed into the service, supplemented by father, mother and the children, each carrying pictures, mirrors or other cherished articles too precious to trust to the tender mercies of some ransackable conveyance.

These processions are moving along all day. The representative of law and order, upon this day at least, is very lenient, his gruff "Move on!" is less in evidence, and his ready notebook gets a rest. There are no "cases" of obstruction reported, although often loaded vans have to remain in a street all night.

It may be that the "policeman" grasps the humors of the situation, or perhaps a fellow feeling influences him. No doubt his own flitting is in progress, and he retires off duty to some strange abode, there to assist in carrying in his goods, to sup off a crust of bread and cheese and sleep on the floor, as others have to do.

A stranger naturally inquires the cause of this one day given over to chaos. It is to be found in the caution of the Scottish landlord. It is difficult to obtain a house at any other time than the lawful removal day, and the canny house owner has prudently secured his rent a fortnight previously, May 15.

"Moonlight" flittings are thus practically unknown, and there is little loss of rent from that cause. The rents being payable half yearly only, the cost of collection is reduced, as is the risk of loss, to a minimum. The system entails great hardship to workingmen compelled to change the scene of their labors. They frequently cannot obtain a house until long day and have consequently to take lodgings and support their family in another town.

If fortunate enough to obtain a house, the landlord steps in and requires his full year's rent to be paid or deposited in bank before he allows the goods to be removed. The unfortunate head of a household is also responsible for the full year's rates of his "new" house, although he may have paid in full at his vacated house.

The only advantage to the tenant is security of tenure for twelve months and the certainty of being accommodated at the expiry in the general scramble. Of course it happens sometimes, through new houses being erected, that some one is able to start the ball rolling a day or two before term, to the comfort of all involved in the particular circuit; but, generally speaking, May term day in Scotland is not an institution to be admired and copied.

Strange to say, Sandy not only takes this day philosophically, but is much more addicted to "flitting" than people south of the Tweed, some families moving regularly every year without any apparent necessity. One would scarcely expect the worry and discomfort of the day and succeeding temporary chaos to be voluntarily undertaken, but the fact is so.

The continuance of the system itself is a standing monument to the British long suffering and law abiding nature.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Great Bargain.
Mrs. Winks—A peddler was here today, and I got the greatest bargain—a whole pound of insect powder for only 10 cents. It looks just like dirt, but it's awfully effective. I tried it.

Mrs. Winks—Yes, indeed. The peddler said I should put a little in water and apply it boiling hot, and I did, and it killed every insect it touched.—New York Weekly.

WINDMILLS.

Compared With Gas Engines as Motive Power For Grinding Feed.

Professor King of the Wisconsin station has made a study of the effectiveness of the various feed mills found on the market when driven by windmills and gas engines and of the cost of grinding feed. With one of the most effective combinations of windmill and feed mill the rate of grinding was "about twenty-five bushels per hour with a wind velocity of 21.8 miles, the meal being a little coarser than medium." Corn and oats were ground at the rate of 410.3 pounds per hour with the wind at 23.43 miles. With a wind velocity of 26.67 miles oats were ground at the rate of about 5.5 bushels per hour and rye at the rate of 15.35 bushels with the wind at 25.35 miles.

"The rye was ground a little finer than medium and the oats a little coarser." Under Wisconsin conditions there are on the average from Oct. 1 to May 1 of each year "eighty-seven days when a man could attend the mill and grind ten hours with a wind velocity of not less than fifteen miles per hour and much of the time higher than this. He should therefore be able to grind more than forty-six bushels per day and on the average more than 100 bushels per week. The eighty-seven grinding days during the seven months place the grinding days on the average more than two per week, and if it is supposed that this is twice too high it would still be possible on the average to take advantage of high winds during the working hours and grind about fifty bushels of corn, or 2,800 pounds, per week. Counting the man's time who tends the mill at $1 per day, the cost of grinding would be only about 3 1/2 cents per hundredweight."

When gas engines were used as the motive power, "the average amount of corn ground per horsepower per hour was 4.822 bushels, equal to 270 pounds, at a cost of about 13 cents per hundredweight for fuel, with gas costing $1.25 per 1,000 feet.

It is estimated that at the rates ordinarily paid the grinding of feed for thirty cows for 200 days amounts to about $75. The same amount of feed may be ground with a five horsepower engine under the conditions obtaining in these trials for about $13.50. Fifty-seven dollars "is 10 per cent interest on a much larger sum than would be required to fit up an automatic grinding plant with the twelve foot windmill, the price of the mill and ninety foot tower being $160, and the capacity of such a grinding plant would be many times what would be demanded for a herd of thirty cows."

DRY SPRAYING.

The Comparative Advantages of Dust and Liquid Applications.

The application of fungicides and insecticides by means of dusting machines has some advantages, but it has some disadvantages, which Professor Taft of Michigan points out as follows in Rural New Yorker: The conditions under which they are to be used should be considered in determining whether the dust or liquid application is preferable. One advantage of the dust machines is that the amount required for a given area is less than when liquid sprays are used, so that it is easier carried about. They are also better adapted to rough land and steep areas. Among the disadvantages are that to be most effective they must be applied while the plants and trees are wet with dew or rain, which makes it difficult to get over large areas. The dust is more readily washed off by rain than when liquid sprays containing lime are used.

Our own experience when using fungicides has been that their effects are not only more lasting when the weather is rainy, but that the fungicidal properties of bordeaux mixture are greater when it is used in a liquid than in a dry form. In small gardens when an insecticide only is needed the powders are quite satisfactory for use on cucumbers, squashes, potatoes and other vegetables and even for the bush fruits and small trees, but for orchards and all crops where fungicides are to be used the liquid applications are preferable when the conditions are favorable for their preparation and application.

Harvesting Grain.
The old rule for harvesting grain was to cut it when two joints of the straw had turned yellow, which process begins at the bottom on dry land or in a very dry season. But we prefer to judge by the condition of the kernel, cutting it very soon after it has passed out of the milk or is in what some call the dough. This gives a better flour than if it is allowed to stand until fully ripe, and there is no loss by the rattling out of the grain in handling. The proper shocking to preserve it from the weather is important if one has not the caps to cover it with, but such caps may be made so cheaply of cotton cloth now and are so useful in both grain and hay fields that almost any farmer will find it better economy to have a supply of them than to go without them.—Boston Cultivator.

Agricultural Briefs.
New England farmers are beginning to suggest that the "wane" of that section is imaginary.
Wood soot is said to be one of the best remedies for flea beetles.
Put in rutabagas and prepare the ground for turnips.
When intending to keep cranberries a few weeks before shipping, it is well to pick them a little green. They will ripen in the boxes and will keep much better.

REMARKABLE CASE OF RESUSCITATION.

The remarkable resuscitation of Stanley S. Holmes, a five year old boy of Anglesea, N. J., last Monday, after he had been in the water for 25 minutes, led Health Commission Bosley, of Baltimore, to comment on the means necessary to be employed when treating persons rescued from the water.

After taking the person from the water the main principles of treatment are the clearing of the water logged lungs and the forcing, by rhythmical movements of arms and chest, of the inspiration of air until the natural respiration is established. This will be a good article to paste in your hat or carry in your pocket book, for no one can tell at what time he or she may be called upon to help with the resuscitation of a drowning person.

It has been clearly established that after removal from the water there is a chance of reviving the victim so long as the heart continues to beat, and hence all efforts at resuscitation should be encouraged for varying periods from minutes to hours. Not infrequently artificial respiration has been successfully maintained from two to four hours, and lives have been saved.

Usually from three to five minutes under water are sufficient to cause death. In most instances all efforts at respiration cease after two minutes, and the heart stops at the end of ten minutes. This fact makes the Anglesea case all the more remarkable. The case was reported by Captain Ludlam, of the Life-saving Station at the beach. He says, that on July 5, during a squall, William B. Holmes and his boy were overturned in the water, and that the child sank. He was under the water fully 25 minutes before the life-saving crew could recover the body. Within four hours after the body was brought out of the water the child regained consciousness.

NO MEDICINE AND THE CHILDREN DIED

SPokane, Wash., July 23.—The coroner's jury that investigated the death of the three small children of Mr. and Mrs. George Graham, of this city, reported that death was caused by diphtheria, and that the parents are "guilty of criminal negligence for failing to employ or accept skilled medical assistance."

The jury recommended that a state law covering such cases and exacting a penalty be passed.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham are members of a society known as the Church of God, and do not believe in medicine, though surgery is permitted. When their children became sick they were anointed by an elder of the church. Later a doctor was called and was allowed to lance the children's throats, but not to give them medicine. Three died and one recovered. Whether the parents will be prosecuted has not been determined.

The ancient tarred-rope life nets are to be discarded by the Baltimore Fire Department and supplanted by modern nets, which are in service in other large cities, and which have been adopted by the United States government for use in Washington.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

SOME OF MAN'S ENEMIES.

Man is apt to be a conceited animal, and hates to admit that he has been overmatched in any contest in which he may engage. He has to confess that, as a rule, in a struggle with the elements—with fire, with the tornado, the hurricane, the earthquake, the volcano, with all the great forces of nature—he is powerless; but to be conquered by little things is a bitter pill for him to swallow. This season he has been having a strange and undesirable experience in this respect. First came the seventeen-year locust and taught man a lesson in the power of a little insect to cause trouble in the world. For several weeks the locust did exactly what he chose, went where he pleased and scooped at all the efforts of man to get rid of him. When he thought he had remained long enough he took his departure without asking man's permission, or even being polite enough to say good-by.

When the locust disappeared, along came a nocturnal bug, black in hue, offensive to the smell, with a natural-born fondness for arc lights. Superintendent McQueen was even compelled to confess that they seemed to have a peculiar affection for the human beard, and indeed, nothing seemed sacred to them. So intolerable a nuisance have they become that they have compelled the superintendent to decide to remove the handsome electric arc lights which have added so much to the beauty of the city at night, and go back to the gas lamps of other days. In the contest between the bugs and the inventive genius of man, the bugs have won, and taught man that he is not yet monarch of all creation.

The government of this mighty nation, the greatest republic the world has ever seen, is now engaged in an unequal struggle with a very little insect—the San Jose scale. For years has this insect defied man's power to destroy, and millions upon millions of dollars' worth of property have been rendered valueless by its work. Surely, it is sometimes the little things in this world that cause the most trouble. —Baltimore American.

Summer complaint is unusually prevalent among children this season. A well developed case in the writer's family was cured last week by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy—one of the best patent medicines manufacturer and which is always kept on hand at the home of every scribe. This is not intended as a free puff for the company, who do not advertise with us, but to benefit little sufferers who may not be within easy access of a physician. No family should be without a bottle of this medicine in the house, especially in summer-time.—Lansing, Iowa, Journal. For sale by T. E. Zimmerman & Co., Druggists.

A TRAGEDY ABOUT CHICKENS.

ABINGDON, Va., July 19.—Moses Lytton and John Collins, two prominent farmers, living on adjoining plantations, near Abingdon, became involved in a fight because the former had killed some chickens belonging to Collins. Later Collins was driving past Lytton's home when the latter fired upon him with a double-barreled shotgun and killed him. However, before he died Collins drew a revolver and fired five times at Lytton. Twenty-five men had to guard Lytton's home last night to keep him from being lynched. Bad blood is manifest, and more trouble is looked for. Lytton is in the county jail at Abingdon.

BIG FIRE NEAR YORK

Manchester, a borough 8 miles from York, Pa., was threatened with destruction by fire Wednesday afternoon. Children started a bonfire near the barn of Harvey Gladfelter, and sparks carried into the stable ignited the straw. Gladfelter's barn was enveloped in flames, which passed to the barns of H. E. Zerby, F. L. Jacobs, Samuel Doll and John Forcht, all of which were destroyed. With hand engine and fire buckets the residents of Manchester and Mount Wolf, an adjoining town, saved the borough from destruction. The loss is estimated at over $4,000.

At a preliminary hearing held in Lynchburg, Va., Joseph W. Hargrave was exonerated of the charge of setting fire to the factory of the Virginia Steam Baking Company.

SERMON 27 WORDS LONG

Twice requested to make his sermon brief, Rev. Henry Gillingham, pastor of the Atlantic Methodist church, of Atlantic, a village near Houghton, Michigan, preached one of the shortest sermons, if not the shortest, on record.

"It is very warm, and I hope you will make the sermon short tonight. The pastor accepted the wish in good humor. He went to the eyeing service prepared to make a 30-minute discourse. As he entered the vestibule of the church, however, he met another prominent member of the congregation, who accosted him with:

"Very warm tonight! Hope you will make it short!" Mr. Gillingham changed his mind about the 30 minute sermon. During the opening exercises he prepared another which he thought would be suitably brief. When he arose to announce his text he remarked that he had twice been asked to make his sermon short and he would try to do so. If this should seem too long, he would stop the next time with the text. Then he delivered this sermon:

Text, Luke 16: 24: "And he cried and said: 'Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am tormented in this flame.'"

Three persons—Abraham, Dives, Lazarus. It was hot where Dives was. He did not like it. He wanted to get out. So do we. Let us pray!

That was the whole sermon. It made a hit.

TRAINS COLLIDE.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 20.—A fatal head-on collision occurred between two passenger trains on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, near Hope Hospital, this city, this evening, in which one person was almost instantly killed and 16 others more or less seriously injured. Both trains were running at a high rate of speed when they came together. An engine and one passenger coach on one of the trains was thrown from the track down an embankment and into the Erie Canal feeder and was completely wrecked; the other engine was demolished, but remained on the roadbed.

CLOUDBURST FLOODS A TOWN

WATERLOO, Ia., July 23.—A cloudburst this afternoon did $50,000 damage and drove 20 families from their homes. At one time the business streets of the town were under from two to three feet of water, and hardly a basement in the city escaped being flooded. Dry Run Creek became a torrent, and for the second time this year overflowed. No lives were lost, but three people narrowly escaped drowning.

VACATION DAYS.

Vacation time is here and the children are fairly living out of doors. There could be no healthier place for them. You need only to guard against accidents incidental to most open air sports. No remedy equals DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for quickly stopping pain or removing danger of serious consequences. For cuts, scalds and wounds. "I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for sores, cuts and bruises," says L. B. Johnson, Swift, Tex. "It is the best remedy on the market." Sure cure for piles and skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. The extent of the damages by the Annapolis fire on Wednesday morning is estimated at about $25,000 with insurance of about half that sum. The property damaged included St. Martin's Lutheran Church, Bernard Wiegand's confectionery establishment. Mrs. Annie Bond's restaurant, store and building owned by Miss Roebuck. The burned property was on Statehouse Circle, Cornhill and Francis streets.

JUDGE SMITH, of Chicago, held under advisement the case of Frank L. Miller, a pyromaniac who had set fire to 14 houses and barns, in one of which a man was burned to death. The judge is uncertain as to whether to commit him to an insane asylum.

With practically $550,000,000 of gold in its treasury, the United States ranks the strongest gold nation of the world at this time. France having only $497,000,000 of gold, Russia $361,000,000 and England $173,000,000 on hand.

The State Department is investigating the case of Dr. Russell, an Ohio physician who was caught with a filibustering expedition by the Nicaraguan general and sentenced to death.

The sloop Lovell Dell, with a pleasure party aboard, capsized during a squall in the Ogeechee River near Savannah. All were saved except the captain's mother and his infant daughter.

KEYS COMPANY. Ochs Buys Public Ledger. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 23.—The Philadelphia Public Ledger yesterday passed into the hands of Adolph S. Ochs, owner of the New York Times. The price paid was $2,225,000, which is regarded here as a good figure for the property.

The purchase includes the building at the southwest corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets. Associated with Mr. Ochs in the purchase is Mr. James M. Beck, Assistant Attorney General of the United States. Mr. Ochs said last night that there would be no radical change in either the appearance or policy of the paper. Its dress will be the same, and it will remain independent politically. Mr. Ochs, about a year ago, acquired the Philadelphia Times. He suggested last night that the two publications may be consolidated, but not in the immediate future.

The Public Ledger was started in 1836. From 1861 to 1894 it was conducted by the late George W. Childs, and at his death it passed into the Drexel estate.—Baltimore News.

SECRET ORDER EXPELS 36,000

Thirty thousand members of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics have been expelled by an edict of the National Judiciary, the court of last resort under the constitution of the society. The charters of 113 councils are revoked by the same edict.

Under the terms of the decision the 30,000 members who have been expelled are required to pay the National Council the per capita tax due since August, 1901, or are threatened with suits for its collection. The councils are also ordered to surrender their charters, paraphernalia, and all the papers to the National Council. Nearly all of the councils affected by the order are located in Philadelphia and Eastern Pennsylvania.—Gettysburg Compiler.

Major Goldsborough is an avowed candidate and has the backing of the Grand Army Post of city and county. Mr. Harrington is also mentioned."

Mr. H. M. Rowe has a plum tree of the "Abundance" variety, and on which were some of the finest plums any person could wish to see. Some of the plums measured 6 inches in circumference. Mr. Rowe has taken the plums off the tree as they were most tempting for the small boys. We return our thanks for a sample of this delicious fruit.

The Baltimore and Washington battalions of naval militia will hold rowing and shooting races at Chesapeake Beach on Saturday. The rowing races will consist of ten-oared cutters, five-oared whaleboats and five-oared gigs. President Mears of the Beach Company has offered a silver cup which will become the permanent property of the battalion winning it three consecutive seasons. Ranges will be erected at the Beach.

A 13 POUND CARP

Mr. George Miller, of near this place, captured two German Carp in the Monocacy river last night. One weighed 8 pounds and the other 13 pounds. The largest measured 33 in. in length and 19 inches in girth. It required the efforts of two men to get the fish out of the water. The fish was captured with a large fork.

Mr. GEORGE KUTLER is having the old school house, situated at the West End of town, and purchased from the J. O. U. A. M. remodeled and fitted up for a residence. The remodeling of the building requires a great deal of work, and when completed will make a comfortable dwelling house. A large porch is being erected at both ends and along the east side of the house. The porch, when completed, will be 116 feet long, outside measurement.

FREDERICK BARN DESTROYED.

Sunday afternoon lightning struck the barn on the farm of G. F. Kindly, near Fountain Mills, Frederick county, and destroyed it with all its contents. Five horses were in the barn, but four were gotten out safely and the other perished in the flames. The loss is estimated at $1,500, on which there is $450 insurance, held by the Mutual Insurance Company of Frederick.

GOVERNOR SMITH has named 20 delegates from this State to the International Mining Congress, which will meet at Butte, Mont., September 1 to 5. Mehan and Jesse Tyson, of Baltimore, and William Bullock Clark of the Hopkins University.

RESIDENCE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—Lightning struck the residence of Jacob Reiff, at Cearfoos, Washington county, knocked off the chimney, tore a couple of holes in the roof and slightly stunned the family, who were eating supper. A sycamore tree on the farm of Reiff, near Downsville, was struck, and Mr. Kesseling's eldest daughter was stunned in the house not far from the tree.

JACOB BURNS, 60 years old, formerly a Baltimore and Ohio special officer, Monday morning cut his throat, partially severing the windpipe, but the arteries were not cut. He closed the knife and went back to the house. Surgeons were summoned and the wound sewed up. He may recover. He is in poor health, having recently suffered a stroke of paralysis. He is the father of 11 children.

Reward To Fire Companies

The County Commissioners have awarded each of the three fire companies in Frederick $50 for services rendered in the Montevue Hospital fire July 14. Several sections of hose, costing $50 each, were burned at this fire, and the treasurer of the Junior Steam Fire Engine Company says it cost $62 to put their engine in order after the fire.

Harry W. Bowers has contracted to rebuild the burned portion of the hospital for $6,000, exclusive of the plumbing.

FATAL GASOLINE STOVE.

A gasoline stove exploded Wednesday morning at the residence of W. H. Feather, chief of the commissary department for Bennett & Talbot, contractors building the Baltimore and Ohio cut-off at Pinto, Allegany county. The house was set on fire and destroyed with its contents. Two children of Mr. Feather—James, aged 6 years, and Lloyd, aged 4 years—perished in the fire.

An infant child was seriously burned, and Mrs. Feather, who tried to save her two little sons, barely escaped with her life. The fire occurred about 6 o'clock in the morning. A servant was lighting the stove when the explosion occurred. The house, which was of frame, was in a mass of flames in an instant. In her efforts to put out the fire the servant did not notify the sleeping family at once. Mr. Feather barely had time to get his wife and baby from the building. The charred bones of the little boys were found in the ruins. The Feather family is from Albright, W. Va.

ADAMS COUNTY CONVENTION.

Held in Gettysburg on Monday.—Mr. David H. Guise Nominated for the Assembly. The Adams County, Pa., Democratic convention was held in Gettysburg, on Monday last. The convention was presided over by Dr. E. W. Cashman, of York Springs. Much interest was taken in the proceedings of the convention. Mr. David H. Guise, of near this place, received the nomination for the Assembly. The following ticket was nominated:

For Congress—William McClean, of Gettysburg.

For State Senator—Milton H. Plank, of Gettysburg.

For County Treasurer—Charles B. Dougherty, of Gettysburg.

For County Commissioners—John F. Sharratts, of Cumberland township, and D. H. Fink, of Oxford township.

FILE IN CAMBRIDGE.

Friday afternoon the barn, cornhouse and stable belonging to the Cambridge, Md., Manufacturing Company were burned. The fire broke out in the hay loft about 4.30 o'clock. The hay was newly mown, and being under an iron roof during the excessive heat of the day took fire spontaneously. The fire was first discovered by men of the Long Wharf, who immediately rang the fog bell and telephoned an alarm of fire. By this time, however, the upper portions of the stables were ablaze. Seventy-five thousand dollars worth of property was in danger, as volumes of flames and myriads of blazing parts of the roof flew towards the main plant. The efforts of the firemen were directed toward saving this, and they were successful. The Cambridge Manufacturing Company employs fire company, and the quick work of these men saved a great deal of the closely piled lumber and shingles. Last Tuesday a cyclone caused a loss of over $5,000 to the company, and a short while before that the fire room of the sawmill caught fire and caused some damage. The loss will probably reach $2,000, with insurance.

REUNION OF RED MEN.

A reunion of the Red Men of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia was held Tuesday at Pen-Mar. The crowd was estimated at 2,500. Of these 850 came up from Baltimore and Sparrows point on the Pen-Mar express. Among the tribes attending were, besides the Aztec Tribe, Baltimore, which promoted the reunion, those from Hagerstown, Hancock, Leesburg, Va., Waynesboro, Chambersburg, and Shippensburg, Pa.

The exercises in the Auditorium in the afternoon were in charge of Aztec Tribe. Conrad Crawford, of Baltimore, chairman of the executive committee, presided. Addresses were delivered by W. Trickett Giles, of Princess Anne, Md., and J. Griffin Hall, of Baltimore. Zigler's Pen-Mar Orchestra furnished music.

Among the sporting events were exhibitions in boxing, wrestling, club swinging, etc., by the Weiss brothers, aged 7 and 9 respectively. The East-lake Quartet, of Baltimore, rendered several selections.

FATHER TAKES CHILD FROM ITS MOTHER.

Adolphus Dickens, living near Hancock, abducted his 9-year-old daughter who had been living with her mother, keeping house for Charles Cramer, in Hagerstown and was driven to his home by Livervman William Geary. Mr. Dickens went to Hagerstown Monday morning and consulted Attorney Elias Hartle about obtaining possession of the child. In the afternoon the father saw the child at the market house, and taking her in charge, went to police headquarters, where he sought protection until he could get out of town. The child was willing to go with her father. The mother consulted Justice Hoffman about having her husband arrested, but is it not likely anything will be done in the matter, as Justice Hoffman did not think it measured up to kidnapping.—Herald.

NEW REFORMED CHURCH DEDICATED.

Erected at a Cost of $7,500.—Handsome Memorial Windows.

The dedication of the new Trinity Reformed church of Thurmont, Rev. G. A. Whitmore, pastor, took place with impressive services. The new pulpit was filled last week by the following visiting clergymen: Monday evening, Rev. J. P. Kaiser, of the Moravian church; Tuesday evening, Rev. W. S. T. Metzger, of the Lutheran church; Wednesday evening, Rev. Dr. J. S. Kieffer, Hagerstown; Thursday evening, Rev. D. A. Pittman, Jefferson, Md.; Friday evening, Rev. Dr. A. S. Weber, Baltimore.

The pastor was assisted in the dedicatory services by Rev. Prof. J. C. Bowman, D. D., Lancaster, Pa., and Rev. S. L. Whitmore, D. D., Pottsville, Pa. Dr. Bowman preaching the morning sermon and Dr. Whitmore in the evening.

The new church, which is built of brick and sandstone, was erected upon the foundation and lot of the former church, and is 54x90 feet, containing besides the main auditorium, a Sunday-school or a lecture-room and a room for the primary department.

Handsome memorial windows adorn the new church; they were contributed as follows: One by the children of Rev. Henry Wiesler, founder and first pastor of the church; one by Mrs. Chambers Creager, in memory of her father and mother, Rev. and Mrs. N. S. Glids; one large gable window consisting of ten figures, "Christ Blessing Little Children," in memory of Elder D. C. Hammett and W. L. Shaffer, by their respective families; one by the Sunday school, a large gable window, in memory of Elder D. S. Firor; a double memorial, in memory of Harriet and Jennie Germand, by their relatives; and one in memory of Mrs. D. S. Firor, by her daughter, Miss M. Elizabeth. The church is neatly finished in quartered oak, and is lighted with gas.

The cornerstone was laid on October 20, 1901. Mr. Oscar Scott, of Hagerstown, now deceased, was the architect, and Messrs. Chambers Creager and Curtis Weldle the contractors and builders. The building committee was Dr. E. C. Kefauver, M. T. Creager, Samuel Long, Chambers Creager and J. M. Creager. The edifice cost about $7,500.

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY.

Mrs. George Bussard and her sister, Mrs. Wilder, of Catoctin Furnace, narrowly escaped serious injury or death in a runaway accident which occurred at Harmony Grove on Saturday evening. The two ladies were driving toward Frederick. They did not hear the southbound Pennsylvania passenger train approaching and drove close to the tracks. The horse became much frightened and Mrs. Bussard got out of the wagon and attempted to turn the animal around. The horse became unmanageable and dragged Mrs. Bussard, who clung on with great courage, to the switch, where she was thrown and the wagon ran over her. The wagon was upset and Mrs. Wilder thrown out. The horse then dashed up the railroad track.

Dr. Ira J. McCurdy, of Frederick, who happened to be on the train, saw the danger in which the ladies were, stopped the train and ran to their assistance. After ascertaining that the ladies were not seriously injured Dr. McCurdy sent them to Mrs. Cronise's where they remained for several hours and were then sent home.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AT GETTYSBURG.

During the encampment at Gettysburg last week the first serious accident occurred on Thursday, Miss Minnie Bristow and her sister, Miss Bristow, of Lancaster, who were seated on the ground beside No. 3 railroad siding, which cuts in near the parade grounds near the Emmitsburg road, noticed an approaching freight car. Both scrambled to their feet. Miss Minnie fell. Her sister was helped out of danger by a man who was standing near, but the car wheels passed over Miss Minnie's right leg near the ankle, producing a compound fracture necessitating amputation. She was placed on the Third Regiment ambulance and taken to the regimental hospital, where Major A. C. Wood and Lieutenant Hirsch dressed the wound and prepared her for her return to Lancaster, where her family physician performed the operation. The car was an empty freight car that was awaiting the return of the troops. Some men who were seated on the roof watching the inspection thoughtlessly released the brakes and the high wind set the car in motion.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Ralph Carey, whose parents live in Butler township along the Arendtsville road, about 5 miles from Gettysburg, was killed by extra freight No. 874 on the Reading railroad about 1 o'clock Sunday morning. The young man was employed by Lewis Ramer at the Globe hotel, Gettysburg, and after being paid off Saturday evening said that he was going to Round Top and thence home. He was seen on his way towards his home. The supposition is that he stepped to rest and sat down on the track and fell asleep. His parents state that he was subject to spasms. The accident occurred on a sharp curve and, though the engineer saw the body on the track ahead, he was not able to stop the train which was running at the rate of about 20 miles per hour.

The body was taken to Gettysburg after the coroner, Dr. Henry Stewart, was summoned, and placed in the baggage room of the Reading depot. The head was badly cut, but legs were severed and one arm was badly torn. It was with difficulty that the body was identified.

LIGHTNING STRUCK the residence of Edward H. Jackson, at Northeast, Monday, tearing away a portion of the roof and setting fire to the house. Geo. Williams, who was asleep upstairs, was uninjured. He was awakened by the cry of fire, and removing his shirt, beat out the fire with it.

DEATH RIDES WIND.

Ten Lives Sacrificed in Storm That Is Driven With Hurricane-Like Velocity.

Baltimore was the center of a storm last Sunday afternoon which resulted in the death of 10 persons, the injury of others, unroofed 200 houses, seriously damaged shipping in the harbor, almost entirely severed telegraphic and telephone communications with the outside world, destroyed many magnificent trees, seriously interfered with the street-car service in places, damaged the city's electric light facilities, caused the death of several horses and other animals by tearing down live wires, and generally wreaked more destruction than any storm which has visited the city in years.

While the preliminary wind had a pronounced whirling tendency, which threw light particles of waste high into the air, the main windstorm blew perfectly straight and carried objects astonishing distances on a line, as if they had been fired by a gun. Trees, telegraph and telephone poles were blown down with great violence all over the city and in the suburbs. A noticeable feature was that these trees and poles were snapped off and showed none of the effects of a pulling twist which distinguishes those blown down by a hurricane. They fell in a general easterly direction, which clearly indicated the destructive blast was from the west.

What was a remarkable downpour of rain in the city was soon turned into rapid streams, which in some cases extended clear across the street on streets which have never before had such an experience. In the flat and low sections of the city the water in some cases reached from curb to curb, the sewers being entirely inadequate to carry off the flood. The sudden stopping of the rain soon allowed the water to leave by the regular outlets, and much of the damage from water that was anticipated did not materialize. The steeple of St. Mary, Star of the Sea, Catholic Church, which with its surmounting light in the shape of a star has been the pride of the congregation for years, was damaged by the tearing away of about 100 feet of the brick wall in the northeast end of the building forming its support. Rev. John T. Whalen said that the damage is about $7,000, as it will be necessary to tear down and rebuild the steeple.

Charles W. Schaeffer, 18 years old, and living at 1107 Ridgely street, was instantly killed by stepping upon a live wire at the foot of Ridgely street. He was walking along the street in company with Robert Knapp, of 1149 Scott street, and Harry Reinhardt, of 914 Ridgely street, when the storm broke and the three sought shelter under a frame shed. Just as they got under it the shed blew over.

As the boys started out they became entangled in the wires. Knapp and Reinhardt were slightly burned. Schaeffer was buried under the debris of the shed. His body was taken home in the Southern district patrol wagon.

A horse in a carriage driven by Francis Dennis, colored, was killed by a live wire on Smith street near Pennsylvania avenue. The wire was a Maryland Telephone Company wire, which had blown across a trolley wire. The horse belonged to Robert Kinnear, Fayette street, near East.

James Bigan, 15 years old, 557 Falls Road, near Merryman's lane, about 3.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. His hand was severely burned, and he received a serious shock. He was taken home by Jacob Glassenger. His father is named Charles Bigan.—Baltimore Sun.

YOUNG LADY LOST IN THE MOUNTAIN.

Miss Emma Knight, a young woman whose home is in the vicinity of Gettysburg, Pa., was lost on the top of the mountain for an entire night last week and had a gruesome experience. Being a stranger, her clothing torn and bedraggled by her long tramp, Miss Knight was completely exhausted and ready to give up when aid reached her. She had come from Gettysburg and left the Western Maryland train at Charmain Station to visit relatives on the Snider farm, about three miles from the station. She was given directions how to reach the place, but evidently misunderstood them. She started from the station and went in the direction pointed, but had not gone more than a mile when she discovered that she was lost. She wandered about through the woods, scrambling over rocks and through briars and bushes the entire night without being able to locate a house. The following morning Miss Knight was found wandering about by Mrs. Abraham Barnes, of the neighborhood, who assisted her to the Snider place.

The figures of the school population of the State of Maryland upon which the Comptroller will base the apportionment to white and colored schools, have been tabulated. The school age is between 5 and 20 years. The figures include youths of 6 and 19 years, but not those of 5 and 20, as the law specifies the enumeration of all between those extremes. The figures for Frederick county are as follows: White 13,239; colored, 1,946; total 15,185. The total number of school children in the State is: white 278,368; colored 71,951; total 350,319.

"WHAT WILL MAMMA SAY?"

Miss Nellie Johnson and Mr. Joseph W. Beard, both of Front Royal, Va., eloped to Hagerstown Monday night, arriving on the late Norfolk and Western train, and were married at the Baldwin House shortly before midnight by Rev. A. B. Stutton, of St. Paul's United Brethren Church. The bride wore a gown of flowered silk. After the ceremony the bride said: "Oh, what will mamma say!" The couple returned to Front Royal Tuesday. The groom was formerly of Boonsboro, Md.—Sun.

The loss by the fire at Montevue Hospital last week was adjusted Tuesday, the amount of damage being fixed at $6,800. A contractor who made an estimate for the County Commissioners fixed the amount at $7,500. The representatives of the insurance companies held that $6,300 would cover the loss, and the amount stated was fixed upon as a compromise.

LETTER FROM GIBRALTAR.

Dr. Flynn, of Mt. St. Mary's College, Writes Interestingly of His Visit to Gibraltar and Tangier.

HOTEL CECIL, GIBRALTAR, Sunday, July 6, 1902. EDITOR CHRONICLE.

Dear Sir:—A few lines from one of your readers now resting in this interesting spot may not be altogether devoid of interest. In company with Rev. C. F. Hannigan, of Richmond, Va., I sailed from New York June 21, and reached this place last Sunday night.

After a rather complete survey of the town, we left last Tuesday for Tangier, the quaint old Moorish town; so completely different from anything we had ever before seen. Like Gibraltar, Tangier is beautifully situated on the side of a noted rock and its terrace appearance is a fine sight from the harbor. Properly speaking there are no streets—nothing but one labyrinth of narrow passages nearly choked by donkeys and men. No cars. No carriages. The patient donkey takes the place of all these, and he seems able to carry anything from a bag of grain to a load of hay.

All the people talk at the top of their voices and keep it up all day. At first it sounds like noise and would seem to indicate an impending riot, but after a time it becomes quite musical and the commonwealth is safe. We had a donkey ride to Cape Spartel, a distance of about eight miles, and managed afterwards to get along without a surgeon. We were glad to find a large Catholic Church here in care of the Franciscan Fathers, who minister to all the Catholic Europeans living or visiting here.

We left Tangier on July 11, and from the harbor we were glad to get a view of "Old Glory," floating from the residence of the American Consul, and all the other flags waving their congratulations to the Stars and Stripes. We are now back in Gibraltar making a more extensive and careful excursion of the famous Rock. We are much assisted by the Rev. C. F. Collins, the senior chaplain here, and the hero of five trying campaigns. My companion said Mass and preached for one detachment of the army today, and I preached before a large congregation of soldiers in the Church of the Sacred Heart. The soldiers stationed here are particularly well cared for. They have fine barracks, reading rooms, club houses, cricket and polo grounds—in a word, everything to improve them. The Rock is something supremely grand, powerful and impressive. It is simply impregnable.

We leave here tomorrow for Naples and Rome, where we expect to have an audience with the Holy Father on the 21st, after which we take up our Spanish trip.

I hope that all your readers are well, and hope the great material improvements at the College will be completed on my return.

Yours Respectfully,
D. J. FLYNN,
Mt. St. Mary's College.

The Best Liniment For Strains.

Mr. F. H. Wells, the merchant at Deer Park, Long Island, N. Y., says: "I always recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm as the best liniment for strains. I used it last winter for a severe lameness in the side, resulting from a strain, and was greatly pleased with the quick relief and cure it effected." For sale by T. E. Zimmerman & Co., drugists.

PISTOL BECOMES AN EFFECTIVE AID TO AN ELOPEMENT.

Considerable romance is connected with the wedding of Luther Samuel Fletcher, of Cross Junction, Va., and Miss Etta May Whitacre, of Parriahville, Va., which was solemnized at Cumberland Monday by Rev. William A. Melvin, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church.

The bride's father frustrated an attempt at elopement some weeks ago. On Sunday Miss Whitacre was escorted to Church near her home by her brother, Dudley Whitacre, and Mr. Fletcher took another young lady. While the choir was singing Mr. Fletcher gave Miss Whitacre a signal and both leaving the church jumped into a buggy. The girl's brother attempted to follow and prevent the elopement, but Fletcher drew a pistol, and its argument was effective that it would be folly for the brother to follow. Fletcher, after driving nearly all night with his sweetheart, arrived in Cumberland Monday morning, the marriage following. Fletcher is a farmer 26 years old, while his bride is 18.—Sun.

THE TABLES TURNED.

The Moser heirs, who have been trying for years to recover coals lands in the vicinity of Tamaqua, Pa., worth $30,000,000, from the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, have had the tables turned on them. There are over 400 Moser heirs in Berks and neighboring counties, and judgments are now being entered against each of them, to recover a total of about $550 legal expenses. This is an unexpected turn of affairs for those interested in the estate, who were expecting to secure millions. If the judgments are not paid within a reasonable time, executions will be issued against the heirs.—Frederick News.

STUNG TO DEATH BY BEES.

Mr. William Binger, 65 years old, died Monday at his home, near Westphalia, Md., from the effects of bee stinging.

Mr. Binger was returning home from his work last Tuesday when his horse trod into a nest of bees and Mr. Binger was frightfully stung. Pennsylvania was the former home of Mr. Binger. He went to Westphalia a few years ago and was a prosperous farmer. He leaves a large family.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional disease. It originates in a scrofulous condition of the blood and depends on that condition. It often causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the vocal organs, disturbs the stomach. It is always radically and permanently cured by the blood-purifying, alterative and tonic action of

GOULD-WABASH ROAD.

Thirty-five engineers in charge of R. L. Duval, commenced operations Monday at Locust Grove, Fulton county, Pa., the only county in that State without a railroad. With the party are G. Frank Parsons and other former West Virginia Central engineers, and their work, it is authoritatively stated, is to make a final survey for the Wabash's eastern outlet. The engineers had seven four-horse wagon loads of supplies unloaded at Hancock station, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, 14 miles south of Locust Grove, which will be the basis of operations. A force of Wabash engineers, including a number in the present corps, made a preliminary inspection of a
