Blaine's Eulogy on Garfields It is a curious coincidence that on Feb. 27, 1882, and on Feb. 27, 1902, a secretary of state of a murdered presi dent delivered a eulogy of his dead chief before the houses of congress. the essayist in his oration on McKin-Garfield. Here is the peroration of Hay's eulogy of McKinley:

There is not one of us but feels prouder of his native land because the august figure of Washington presided over its beginnings; no one but vows it a tenderer love because Lincoln poured out his blood for it; no one but must feel his devotion for his country reproduced and kindled when for his country renewed and kindled when he remembers how McKinley loved, re-vered and served it, showed in his life how a citizen should live and in his last our taught us how a gentleman could

Blaine's oration on Garfield ended with this famous passage:

As the end drew near his early craying for the sea returned. The stately man-sion of power had been to him the wearisome hospital of pain, and he begged to be taken from his prison walls, from its oppressive, stifling air, from its home-lessness and its hopelessness. Gently, stlently, the love of a great people bore the pale sufferer to the longed for healing of the sea to live or to dle, as God should will, within sight of the heaving billows, within sound of its manifold voices. With a wan, fevered face, tenderly lifted to the cooling breeze, he looked out wistfully upon the ocean's changing wonders, on the for solls, on its restless ways reliber. its far salls, on its restless waves rolling shoreward to break and die beneath the serene and shining pathway of the stars. Let us think that his dying eyes read a mystic meaning which only the rapt and parting soul may know. Let us believe that in the silence of the receding world he heard the great waves breaking on a farther shore and felt already upon his wasted brow the breath of the eternal

Mounting a Horse.

A careful bicyclist learns to mount from either side of the wheel, since the emergency may arise at any moment says the London Chronicle. One would think that the horseman would be equally eareful to provide for possibilities and accustom himself to mountburns with the same steady power all ing indifferently from the off side and the near side. But if he were to venture to mount on the right side-which is the wrong side-in a hotel stable yard the hostler would probably demand the price of a gallon as the statutory fine, and the horse would collapse with surprise. What is the meaning of this convention? It appears in odd places. Not only does the trick horse in the circus canter from right to left, but the after dinner wine passes the same way. "The way of the sun" is the current explanation, which is absurd.

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat. No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite. To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic. "I was afflicted with catarrh. I took icines of different kinds, giving each a fair trial; but gradually grew worse until I could hardly hear, taste or smell. I then concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking five bottles I was cured and have not had any return of the disease since." Eugene Forbes, Lebanon, Kan.

THE PHARMACY CASE

In the case of Charles B. Henkle vs. the Maryland State Board of Pharmacy and Charles G. Feldmeyer and John H. Musterman of Annapolis, Judge Jones Tuesday handed down a decision, concurred in by Judge Revell, which sustains the defendants' demurrer whom I married 10 months ago and and dismisses the petition for a whom I loved better than anything on mandatory injunction to compel the Pharmacy Board to recall the certificate granted to said Feldmeyer and Muster-

The bill of complaint alleged that the applicants for certificates as pharmacists were not entitled to the same and that the Maryland State Board of Pharmacy had by granting them certificates acted in violation of the Act of 1902; that the applicants Feldmeyer and Musterman were not competent to compound to do so would expose the public to grave danger, etc. To this petition the defendants demurred, and the court sustained the demurrer.

Judge Jones, in his opinion, said that the Board of Pharmacy by its creative act was invested with certain duties for the carrying out of the object and purposes designated by the law. If it were found that the act of this board comits legitimate functions, and in pursuance of a power conferred upon it, lawfully used, and no fraud, abuse or oppression were made to appear therein. there could be no ground for the inter ference of a court of equity.

First Analysis of Aerolites. In 1796 a stone weighing fifty-six pounds was exhibited in London. It was said to have fallen from the sky in Yorkshire in the previous December, but this statement was received with great incredulity. At that time Sir Joseph Banks was president of the Royal society, and he noticed a strong resemblance between the Yorkshire stone Diarrhea, Dysentery, ect. will pass from the sky. Two or three years later he received an account of a fall of stones near Benares, in Hindustan. A chemical analysis of the stones from all three sources proved them to be identical in composition, and incredulity as to their meteoric origin began Eccentricities of English. There is a new maid in the family, besides language to learn, says an exchange. Her new mistress, who is a young wife with a husband many years her senior, is trying to instruct her. One of the lessons was upon bread, the girl being told that she should speak of bread which had lost its freshness as stale, and not old. The girl was sure to remember this, for she was quick to learn, and she did. So the young wife knew when a few days later the maid remarked to her confidentially:

"It is too bad, isn't it, that your husband is so much more stale than you are!"-Detroit Free Press.

CLERK. REMARKS

REMARKS.

The County tax rate for the year 1902 is eighty-seven (87) cents on each one hundred ($100) dollars worth of taxable property, which is five cents more than the rate for 1901, and two cents more than the rate for 1901, and two cents more than the rate for 1901.

The increase in the tax rate is accounted for almost entirely by the additional cost of holding the electfons under the new election law, amounting to nearly $5,000, including the deficiency in last year's appropriation; and the extra expense of building new iron bridge now being built at Crist's ford, over the Monocacy river, is only partly levied for hereafter. Other extra items on this year's levy are: Harrison Wagner case $505.14, new road machines $1,395, and Montevue Hospital repairs on account of storm damages $1,668.19, which are nearly offset by the decrease in insolvencies and errors, though the latter are still very large, being $8,660. There is also a noticeable increase in a number of other items, which amounts cannot be entirely disregarded. The County Commissioners, and other public improvements, which is impossible to satisfy without increasing the tax rate enormously, yet which cannot be entirely disregarded. The County Commissioners are elected by the people, and they feel it their duty to subserve, as far as they are able to ascertain, the will and interests of the majority. This is an age of development and inprovement, and conveniences and accommodations, which were considered ample a few years ago, are no longer adequate to meet the demands of the present Board has been

Respectfully submitted. WILLIAM H. BLENTLINGER, President.

Cork Trees of Spain. The cork forests of Spain cover an area of 620,000 square miles, produc-$12,028 50 ing the finest cork in the world. These forests exist in groups and cover wide $47,500 00 belts of territory, those in the region of Catalonia and part of Barcelona $3,000 00 being considered the first in importance. Although the cork forests of $1,000 00 Estremadura and Andalusia yield cork of a much quicker growth and possessing some excellent qualities, its con-$5,500 00 sistency is less rigid, and on this action it does not enjoy the high repu-$1,200 00 tation which the cork of Catalonia does.

In Spain and Portugal, where the cork tree, or Quercus suber, is indig-$5,000 00 enous, it attains to a height varying from 35 to 60 feet and the trunk to a diameter of 30 to 36 inches. This species of the evergreen oak is often heavy caparisoned with wide-spreading branches clothed with ovate oblong evergreen leaves slightly ser-$600 00 rated. Annually, between April and May, it produces a flower of yellowish $720 00 color, succeeded by acorns. Over 30,000 square miles in Portugal are $8,600 00 devoted to the cultivation of cork trees, though the tree virtually abounds in every part of the country. The methods in vogue in barking 21 00 and harvesting the cork in Spain and Portugal are virtually the same. The barking operation is effected when the 35 00 tree has acquired sufficient strength 18 75 to withstand the rough handling it re-562 98 ceives during this operation, which 27 25 takes place when it has attained the 400 00 fifteenth year of its growth. After 200 00 he first stripping the tree is left in 350 00 this juvenescent state to regenerate, 150 00 subsequent stripping being effected at 133 00 intervals of not less than three years, and under this process the tree will continue to thrive and bear for up-$3,283 58 wards of 150 years.

Back to the Country. The country boy sighs for city life, and when he finally reaches the goal, he begins to wish himself again among the birds and flowers. With the 1,313 01 coming of old age he regards himself lucky if he can get his feet back on mother earth. The strife is as great to acquire sufficient wealth to purchase land on which to spend the declining years as was the youthful struggle to get a foothold in the city. The smiling sky and the green earth seem to be the natural heritage of man and no one feels this quite so keenly as the one who has had a taste in youth of the sweets of rural life.

Fishing For Bullfrogs

The bullfrog, brown, big and hoarse 3,000 00 of voice will give many a half day of good sport, to say nothing of the delicacy his plump hind legs will furnish. ,000 00 There are three ways in which he may be pursued successfully. He may be angled for with a rod and a red flannel 8,600 00 angled for with a road before him, is as the red rag to a bull. He may be stalked with a light-handled spear, and stealth and skill add zest to this method. Or he may be hunted with a twentytwo-caliber rifle, when a good eye and steady hand are necessary to insure a dinner.
