SPEEDY TICKET SELLERS.

The Elevated Railroad Man and the Cfreus Man Work Alike.

New York ticket sellers for the elevated roads do their work with a celerity equaled only by the lightning change artist of a big circus. How do they manage it? Peep into one of the little ticket offices, and you will see that the methods of the man inside which he tears off from the long strip In 1895 all Europe was startled by with his right hand. Almost simultaneously the same hand shoves out your change, for he has the exact change for your coin or bill ready, counted out and piled up. Close to his right hand, just inside the little window, are a lot of nickels for changing dimes. Next to these are nickels and dimes arranged with 20 cents in each pile, ready for the man with a quarter. Then there are a lot of forty-five cent piles and others containing 95 cents, so he doesn't, need to stop to count out your change. If you call for two tickets and hand in a dollar, the ticket seller takes a nickel Bladder, and instantly has the change that you bropsy, Female Trouble require, and whenever there is a lull in the stream of ticket buyers the man behind the window replenishes his piles of change, so that he is seldom caught without just the amount you need already counted out for you.-Detroit Free Press.

A Strategist.

He was too old to jump on a moving car with safety and was handicapped by a heavy bag of tools slung over his shoulder. Half a dozen motormen had disregarded his signals to stop and had run their cars past the crossing at even greater speed than that with which they approached.

The old laborer didn't grumble or swear. He waited on one rail for the next car. As it drew near he signaled the motorman to stop. The power was increased to run by, as before, and the old man turned as if to get out of the The heavy tools slipped from his grasp and fell on the rail. The motorman frantically shut off the power and set his brake hard. The wheel "Think you're smart, don't you?" said the motorman.

"Much obliged," said the old man, still grinning. "You're the only accommodating motorman I've seen today."-New York Tribune.

The Wonderful Toad Bone. All early writers attribute wonderful qualities to toads and frogs and the various parts of their bodies. Pliny believed, for instance, that if a toad was brought into the midst of a mob or other large and unruly concourse of vail." A small bone found in the right side of toads "of the proper age" tion. was also believed to have powers over the various elements. "By throwing this bone into a vessel of boiling water." says Pliny, "it will immediately cool it, the water refusing to boil again until the bone has been removed. To find this bone, expose the dead toad on an ant hill. When the facts have eaten her all away except the bones, take each bone separately and drop it into boiling water. Thus may the wondrous toad bone be discovered,"

Shakespeare's Blunders. The anachronisms and errors of Shakespeare are too well known to require repetition. A Wise Answer.

The shah once asked a group of courtiers whom they thought the greater man-himself or his father. At first he could get no reply to so dangerous a question, the answer to which might cost the courtiers their heads. At last a wily old courtier said, "Your father, sire, for, though you are equal to your father in all other respects, in this he is superior to you-that he had a greater son than any you have."
