That the said real estate on the death of the said William R. That she left a will which has been probated in the Orphans' Court for Frederick county, Maryland, a copy of which is filed with said Bill, but that said will is not operative in law and creates an estate contrary to law and is void, and that said real estate vested in her heirs at law as tenants in common and they became so seized and possessed of the same.

That after her death her son William R. Sweeney, one of her heirs at law, purchased all the right, title and interest in the said real estate from the following other heirs at law of the said Bridget Sweeney, viz: (1) From Daniel P. Norrid a daughter of Charles Sweeney a deceased son of the said Bridget Sweeney, of which they are now seized and possessed.

Sweeney reside in Frederick county, state of Maryland, but that the other non-resident heirs of the state of Maryland; that J. Edward Sweeney resides in the state of California and that Alice Sweeney, his wife, John F. Sweeney and Mary Sweeney his wife, reside in the state of Pennsylvania, and that Maud G. Halstead and Charles C. Halstead her husband, Mary S. Norrid and James F. Norrid her husband, and Violet Sweeney are all residents of the state of Missouri.

TONGUE CUT OUT TO REMOVE CANCER

Mr. James Walker, of the firm of Teal & Walker, Baltimore, real estate dealers, underwent a rather unusual operation at the Johns Hopkins Hospital Monday.

About six weeks ago Mr. Walker was bothered with a sore on his tongue, and not thinking seriously of the trouble, paid no attention to it. The sore grew larger, however, and Mr. Walker grew alarmed, and on Sunday he went to the Johns Hopkins Hospital, where it was found a cancer had formed. Prof. John M. T. Finney endeavored to save the organ but the growth of the cancer had spread so far it was found necessary to cut out the entire tongue. At the hospital it was stated the patient was resting comfortably, but the relatives and friends will not be permitted to see him for two weeks.

Mr. Walker, in company with a party of friends, visited a fishing shore last summer, and while there he was bitten on the hand by a crab. Soon after the hand began to swell to an abnormal size. Mr. Walker consulted a physician, who succeeded in reducing the swelling, and in a short time effected a cure.

Some time later Mr. Walker had a troubled dream, and in waking bit his tongue, and it is thought by some of his friends the crab bite may have caused blood poisoning and was the primary cause of the cancer forming on the tongue.

Mr. Walker is 44 years of age and is unmarried. He resides with his sister, Mrs. S. J. Carroll, at 633 East Twenty-third street, Baltimore.

CHARGE OF BRIBERY.

Harry Stewart and William Schipper, charged with criminally assaulting Mrs. Ernest Parrott, in Talbot county, were brought before Judge Martin and Brown on habeas corpus to determine if the case was bailable; but no decision was reached.

Mrs. Parrott, who claimed to be the victim of the assault, is not considered mentally well balanced and was much confused by the questions asked her in court. Mr. Parrott testified that his wife, in telling him of the assault, named as her assailants Harry Stewart and Wm. Schipper.

Mr. Parrott created quite a sensation in the court when he also said he had been offered $50 by one person and $10 by another if he would not prosecute the accused parties. Judge Martin, from the bench, called State's Attorney Mullikin's attention to the law against bribing State witnesses, and told him if he thought the evidence was sufficient he should swear out warrants for the arrest of the persons charged with offering the bribes.—Sun.

HAGERSTOWN POLITICS.

The municipal election in Hagerstown next month for members of the Council promises to be hotly contested. The Mayor is a Republican and there are four Democratic and one Republican Councilmen. The struggle will be for the Republicans to get the Council and thus control city affairs, in which the democrats at present block them.

The Republicans to control must elect all three Councilmen from Wards 1, 3 and 5. The Democratic majority in the present Council has refused to confirm several of Mayor Hofzappel's appointments, including city attorney and market inspector.

The chief issue will be the management of the municipal electric light plant.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

While Mr. Clarence Strine was charging a hole in the quarry of Mr. John W. Stimmel, at Fountain Rock Lime Works, near Walkersville, on Saturday, January 31, he was painfully injured by an explosion of dynamite. Mr. Strine had put one stick in the hole and was putting a second stick down, when it caught fast in the hole. He used the tamping bar to force it down, and striking it too hard, exploded it. He was painfully injured about the eyes and face and hands. His body was bruised somewhat and burned. At the time of the accident Mr. Eli Keeney and Mr. Emory Pettigall were below him breaking stone and were the first to go to aid him. The tamping bar could not be found. Mr. Strine is improving slowly.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

An exciting and dangerous runaway occurred last Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock. A horse attached to a spring wagon belonging to Mr. Harry Grove, who lives on the Reich farm, a few miles east of Frederick, while standing in front of A. C. McCordell's store on North Market street, Frederick, became frightened by some unknown cause and dashed wildly down Market street, the wagon swaying from side to side. Many teams were hitched along both sides of the street but all escaped injury. In front of Mr. Thomas H. Haller's store the wagon struck the awning. By the collision the wagon was overturned and almost completely demolished.

The frightened animal, freed from the incumbrance of the vehicle, continued on its course, wilder than before, and at the corner of Market and Patrick streets attempted to jump over a team owned and driven by Mr. Robert Cramer, of near Mt. Pleasant. The horse, in its attempt to hurdle the team, struck Mr. Cramer in the side with its knee and fractured two of his ribs. Mr. Cramer's horse, then being driverless, started to run up Market street but was caught before going far. The side of the stick wagon driven by Mr. Cramer was broken where the first runaway horse plunged into it.

A COLORED YOUTH INVENTS RAILROAD SIGNAL

John Johnson, a young colored man employed by Mr. James Houck, residing a few miles north of Frederick, is the inventor of an electrical appliance for use on railroads, the adoption of which, he believes, would greatly lessen the danger of collisions. The appliance is called by the inventor an automatic railroad signal. It is designed to be attached to the railroad tracks to signal trains when two are on the same track. The appliance can be adjusted for any distance and by means of an indicator in the engine of a train will notify the engineer of the presence of another train upon the track and how far distant it is. It has been tested by making an attachment to the Northern Central track at Harmony Grove, by which it was possible, at a distance of three miles, to tell the exact time a train left the station at that point.

The inventor is a son of Chas. Johnson and was born on Feb. 1, 1876, near Mount Pleasant, this county. For some years he attended a public school, but apart from the knowledge gained by careful reading of such books upon the subject as he has been able to secure he is, as regards electricity self taught. He has for a number of years been an enthusiastic student of electricity and has, by constant experiments, acquired a thorough knowledge of the science. His inventive faculty is not, however, limited to the field of electricity. He is also a student of mechanics, and some years ago invented a lima-bean huller, which was patented and used with success.

JUDGE TANEY'S GRAVE

When the Jesuit priests decided nearly three years ago to abandon the Novitiate at Frederick to move to New York they had the remains of all the dead who had been buried in their grounds for a century removed to St. John's Catholic Cemetery, on the eastern suburbs of the city. The remains of Chief Justice Roger Brook Taney, which were buried there October 7, 1864, as well as his mother, were disinterred and placed in strong oak coffins and reburied in St. John's Cemetery. The graves of the Chief Justice and his mother occupy the most beautiful place in the cemetery. They are in the centre of the ground, on a natural elevation, in a large circular plot, toward which all the walks converge. The graves are walled and the caskets are covered with large slabs about five feet beneath the surface. On these slabs was placed a solid bed of crushed stone and cement, to furnish a firm foundation for any monument which may be placed on it in the future.

Judge Taney died in Washington, D. C., October 4, 1864, 23 years after the confirmation of his appointment as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and, in compliance with his expressed wish, his body was brought to Frederick and buried beside the grave of his mother. As his grave was unmarked by any appropriate tablet, in 1870 Gen. John M. Coale and Judge Richard H. Marshall had it covered with a marble slab, which has been placed over the new grave.

FOULPLAY SUSPECTED.

Patrick Duckett, an aged colored man, is lodged in Marlboro Jail on suspicion of having killed his brother, Thomas Duckett, who was residing with Patrick and died on the night of January 19 and was buried on the 22d. The remains were exhumed and a coroner's inquest and autopsy were held. The jury consisted of the following: Josias Hawkins, John E. Mudd, R. W. Bean, J. H. Roberts, Stanislaus Wood, William H. Young, C. E. Wade, F. S. Bernes, J. G. Roberts, Samuel Hawkins, G. W. Berry and M. C. Berry. Judge Robertson acted as coroner. The autopsy was conducted by Dr. T. S. Owen, who found a cut over the forehead about one and a half inches long and a clot of blood on the brain directly under the cut. The verdict was that death resulted from a blow with some unknown object inflicted by Patrick Duckett, which produced concussion of the brain and a clot of blood thereon. The testimony of the accused was perhaps the most damaging, he pretending to know not even the day his brother died. All his testimony was contradictory. Thomas Duckett had been sick for a considerable time and was not able to do any work. He drew an $18 pension from the country.

ADAMS COUNTY ROMANCE

Littletown citizens have been afforded a romance. Miss Emma Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Snyder, of near that town, sold an egg marked, "The person receiving this will please write Miss Emma Snyder, Littletown, Pa." This was some years ago. Thomas Norwood, a commission merchant of Baltimore, got the egg and there soon sprang up a correspondence between the two that before long ripened into a case of true love. The visits of the lover finally culminated in the uniting the two in the holy bands of wedlock in Baltimore city on Sunday, Jan. 25th.—Galloway News.

DR. FAIRFAX SCHLEY DEAD.

He Died Suddenly After An Attack Of Gastritis.

Dr. Fairfax Schley, one of the best known citizens of Frederick, died suddenly at his home at 5.28 o'clock last Sunday afternoon of gastritis, aged 79 years. Except for a slight cold, he was in his usual health when he retired Saturday night. Sunday morning about 4 o'clock he was attacked with heart failure. He rallied however, and ate supper at 5 o'clock but soon after he took the meal he grew worse and weaker until he expired.

He was born October 11, 1823, and was a son of Henry Schley, who in 1814 entered the Federal service as an adjutant in a Maryland regiment, and participated in the battles of Bladensburg and North Point. His maternal grandmother, Elizabeth Hanson, of Kent county, was related to John Hanson, president of the Continental Congress of 1781, whose statue was erected in the Hall of Fame in Washington last Saturday. When a young man he studied medicine under the late Dr. William Tyler, and afterward attended the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Maryland, graduating from the latter in 1847. He practiced his profession until 1855, when, owing to ill-health he abandoned it. He then engaged in the drug trade, which he conducted successfully for 20 years, retiring in 1876, when he turned his business over to his son.

In 1847 he married Miss Ann R., daughter of Christian Steiner. She died in 1896. He was director of the Maryland School for the Deaf and Dumb for many years, and on the death of William R. Barry he became president of the board of directors. He was a director of the Central National Bank for many years, a trustee and president of Frederick College, and for some years was president of the Frederick County Agricultural Society. He was a staunch Republican, but never held any political office. He was connected with many public charities and devoted much of his time to assisting the needy. His great-grand-father came from the Palatinate in Germany in 1740, and in 1745 erected the first house in Frederick He leaves one son, Dr. Steiner Schley, and two daughters, Mrs. William H. Miller and Miss Agnes Schley. He was an uncle of Dr. Bernard C. Steiner, librarian of the Enoch Pratt Library, and a first cousin of Admiral Winfield S. Schley.

ROBBERS IN CRISFIELD

For the past week Crisfield has been troubled with what appears to be an organized band of robbers. Everybody is now locking doors at night, and sleeping with guns under pillows. Crisfield has hitherto been practically immune from housebreaking. Heretofore citizens have never thought of locking doors or windows, and the robbers have had free access to nearly all the homes. The first house to which the robbers gave their attention was that of J. C. Quinn, of the Crisfield Times. Mr. Quinn heard them, however, and seizing his shotgun tried to get a flying shot at his visitors, but they made their escape up an alley.

Mrs. Sallie Patterson, on Main street, was awakened by hearing someone in her room. She thought it was her mother and asked what she wanted. The robber held a lantern over her head so she could not distinguish his features and told her in a soft voice not to be alarmed, as he had all the plunder he wanted, and was going downstairs. Mrs. Patterson rushed into the room of her mother and stayed there until morning in great alarm.

Another house visited was that of Ely Furniss, on Main street. The burglars made only a short call there, as Mr. Furniss, hearing the shrieks of his children, seized his gun and a lamp and went hunting for a great intruder. The burglars gained an entrance into this house by climbing through an open window.

The night prowlers then went to the house of Moses Wilson, where they secured several dollars in money and some valuables. The home of William A. Daugherty and William Hickman, on Main street, were visited in turn, where they made good hauls. It is stated that the robbers unlocked all the doors in Mr. Daugherty's house. Two toy banks of his children and all his pocket money were taken.

Thus far no arrests have been made, but the police are using every effort to discover the robbers.—Sun.

The Maryland Geological Survey is now ready to distribute comprehensive reports on the physical features of Garrett and Cecil counties, upon the preparation of which its experts have been engaged for several years past. The two volumes include complete discussions of the land-surface features and geology of the two counties; their mineral resources, agricultural conditions and possibilities; forestry, water-power, applied and unapplied; magnetic conditions affecting the work of surveyors; their climate; and much other information likely to be sought by persons who may consider the establishment of homes or the investment of capital in either of the counties or by any one who is generally interested in Maryland and its development. Each book is a large octavo volume, the text, being copiously illustrated by photo-engravings. Together they add two numbers to the series of county reports originally projected by the State Survey, Allegheny being the only other county completed so far. Any resident of the State wishing the county reports is entitled to receive a free copy upon application to the Director of the Maryland Geological Survey at his office in Baltimore. If sent by mail or express the postage or packing charge amounts to 20 cents.

Get the Most Out of Your Food

You don't eat it if your stomach is weak. A weak stomach does not digest as it ordinarily taken into it. It gets tired easily, and what it fails to digest is wasted.

Among the signs of a weak stomach are: uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, and disagreeable belching.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla at different times for stomach troubles, and a run down condition of the system, and have been greatly benefited by its use. I would not be without it in my family.
