CAROLINA MILLS SWIFT AWAY BY A FLOOD.

A week had not elapsed since a cyclone visited the cotton manufacturing town of Gainesville, Ga., crushing out scores of lives and hurrying down mills, before a new horror visited the same section in the shape of a flood that destroyed four great cotton mills in Spartanburg county, South Carolina, causing a loss of life estimated at 25 or 30.

The Pacolet and Clifton manufacturing plants are situated near each other on the Pacolet river and about 6 to 10 miles from the old town of Spartanburg. After days of rain a cloudburst occurred high up the Pacolet river early Saturday morning.

Unlike the rivers of the West, whose surplus water may spread over adjoining bottom lands, the Pacolet runs in a comparatively narrow valley, with steep sides. In this the waters rose so rapidly and swiftly that mills were quickly submerged, and the roaring torrent smashed the stone dams, hurled the stone-built mills into the flood and swept them away. Churches and residences went down and it is feared that the loss of life is larger than reported.

At Pacolet two of the three mills and a warehouse were swept away, and hotels, churches and many other buildings more or less damaged.

At Clifton the Converse mills were wrecked and the Clifton and Dexter partially destroyed.

Three thousand five hundred bales of cotton and 4,000 bales of cloth were lost. The total property damage is estimated at $2,000,000. The number thrown out of work is 1,200.

The Pacolet mill was owned by the same company that owned the New Holland mill, damaged at Gainesville last week.—Sun.

Scrofula is a bad thing to inherit or acquire, but there is this about it—Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cures even the worst cases.

THE OPIUM TRADE.

When the Japanese took possession of Formosa they found there a population more or less addicted to the use of opium. It was decided to abolish the practice by degrees. Only those who have suffered from its effects to the extent that it occasions intense pain to deprive them of their pipe are now permitted, by a special warrant which they are obliged to procure, to continue the use thereof. To newly commence opium smoking is strictly forbidden, or even continue if it can be shown that abstinence is impossible. A government monopoly of the article was expressly established to facilitate the final extinction of the habit of using it.

The outcome of the effort of New York city employers to check the encroachments of labor unions was the creation of an emergency committee, with unlimited power to take action binding on the associations represented. This was done by the unanimous vote of delegates representing all the leading contractors of the city. It is understood that the emergency committee will demand that the labor unions leave unskilled labor alone and abolish walking delegates.

FOREST AREA OF UNITED STATES.

An official estimate made of the forest area of the United States puts it at 700,000,000 acres. Had the forests been intelligently managed, the amount of merchantable timber in them would be 10 times as great. The science of forestry is now taught in more than 40 schools. Yale and Cornell Universities and the special college of Biltmore, N. C., have advanced classes and give degrees in forestry.

$45,000 FIRE IN WILMINGTON.

Fire Saturday morning in the large five-story building of Garrett, Miller & Co., electrical engineers, Fourth and Orange streets, Wilmington, Del., caused a loss of $35,000.

The firm lost $20,000 worth of material, including $5,000 worth that was finished and ready for shipment. The building was damaged to the extent of $5,000.

Megary & Son, furniture dealers, lost about $10,000 on a large stock of furniture they had stored in the upper stories. The losses are fully covered by insurance.

While the water tower was being run up, Joseph Barnett and Robert Glover, employes of Garrett, Miller and Co., who were helping the firemen to turn the crank on the truck were shocked badly. While the tower was being run up it came in contact with an electric feed wire and sent 500 volts down the tower. The firemen had gum boots on and most of them wore rubber gloves, but Messrs. Glover and Barnett were not protected in this manner and the current threw Barnett a distance of about 10 feet and rendered him unconscious. Mr. Glover, however, was unable to release his hold on the crank until the tower was taken away from the wire. He felt pretty sore, and his experience was terrible. It was thought he would be killed, but, beyond a little soreness, he does not experience any ill effects.

Mr. Barnett, however, was not so fortunate. Several employes of the Wilmington City Electric Company and firemen ran to his assistance and, after working with him for a short time, they succeeded in reviving him. He is able to be about, but suffers some as a result of his experience.

A SHORTAGE OF $75,000 ALLEGED.
Washington, June 9.—James M. Watson, Jr., a clerk in the office of the auditor for the District of Columbia and the son-in-law of a wealthy retired railroad conductor, was arrested today on a charge of embezzlement of government funds. The amount is estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000.

The warrant makes the specific charge of embezzlement of $8009, which represents only a portion of the alleged peculations. Watson was not bonded, and in case he or his relatives, several of whom are said to be wealthy, fail to make good the alleged losses, Auditor J. T. Petty will be held responsible for the amount. The auditor's bond is for $20,000.

The money alleged to have been embezzled was part of the funds deposited in the office of the auditor by property owners who are willing to pay half or all costs of improvements abutting on their property, such as paving sidewalks and streets. This embraces deposits by railway companies, electric light companies, telephone companies for crossing sidewalks, for sewers and water mains, and is entirely separate from the other accounts.—Baltimore Morning Herald.

A YEAR OF DISASTERS.

So far 1903 has been a year of great disasters from natural causes. In and around Kansas City it is estimated that the floods have caused a loss of nearly $10,000,000. Other states, notably Iowa, have been damaged millions and the setback to the crops, not all of which can be made up, will run up into more millions.

Twenty millions in the West is probably not an extravagant estimate of loss. Following close upon these troubles have been storm damages in Georgia and South Carolina, which will not fall short of ten millions, estimating the injury done to railroad property and loss in delay of traffic. The loss of life West and South cannot, of course, be estimated in dollars and cents.

Forest fires in New York state and in New England have caused great destruction in the woods, and the injury all along the Atlantic coast due to the drought cannot be accurately expressed, but it amounts to millions. The estimate of loss in wages due to strikes and the stoppage of productive operations is even greater than that due to natural causes. But the energy and courage of the people will meet and repair all the disasters so far as the material loss is concerned.—Baltimore Morning Herald.

CATTLE MADLY RUSH TO THEIR DEATH.

Singular Phenomenon in The Chesapeake Bay—Hundreds Were Drowned

Details have been received of a remarkable phenomenon in the Chesapeake Bay. Many cattle rushed into the lashing tide and were drowned. The fatality to cattle at New Point, in Matthews county, was perhaps the greatest. Hundreds of cattle which were grazing on the pasture lands of this point became stampeded, and rushing into the water, were seen no more until their dead bodies were floated on the beach.

It is impossible to tell the extent of the less, as the phenomenon extended over a considerable area and the cattle belonged to many owners. Hundreds of carcasses have been seen floating in the Bay and a number have fouled the fish traps, their carcasses being caught in the fish nets.

Snow Bros., of New Point, found a bull caught in their fish traps, the rope of which held his head above water, and they brought to shore alive.

It is believed the cattle became bewildered by the phosphorescence in the Bay.

$50,000 LYNCHBURG FIRE.

The large leaf tobacco factory belonging to Adams, Chambers & Co., and the woodworking plant of L. S. Agnor & Son were destroyed by fire at Lynchburg, Va., late Saturday evening. The total loss is between $50,000 and $60,000.

The fire originated in the tobacco factory, which was the largest frame building in the city, and spread rapidly. The Agnor establishment was soon in flames and in less than one hour both structures were in ashes.

A large quantity of lumber in Agnor & Sons' yard was also destroyed, and it is stated that the firm did not carry one cent of insurance. Their loss is ten thousand. The Agnor building, owned by D. P. Morrison, was valued at $2,800 and was uninsured. The loss of Adams, Chambers & Co., which is about $40,000, is thought to be covered by insurance.

Rivermont Bridge, which cost Lynchburg $100,000, was almost directly over the burning buildings and at one time a large section of the flooring was in flames. By the heroic work of volunteers, who, in eminent danger of their lives, fought on top of the blazing structure, the bridge was saved, but it is feared that it is seriously damaged.

FIVE NEGROES WERE LYNCHED.

Race trouble in the southern part of Scott county, Mississippi, growing out of the murder of R. E. Craft, a white man, and the attempted assassination of James Boyle, another white man, both crimes being committed by negroes have resulted in the killing by a mob of whites of five negroes. Only two of the negroes killed are known by name—William Hornsby the murderer of Craft, and his sister Mary.

The house of Hornsby and his sister was burned in order to drive them out. Hornsby having armed himself and barricaded himself and his sister within. They were shot by the mob when driven out by the flames and smoke. Eight or ten negroes were badly beaten and many others ordered to leave.

SHOT BY FOOTPADS.
Two men were shot, one fatally, by footpads in Wilkesbarre, Pa., early Tuesday. John Baldes, of Wilkesbarre, and Benedict Kessler and John Wiedman, of Altoona, Pa., delegates to the State Convention of German Catholic Societies, were returning from a banquet when they were held up by two highwaymen and ordered to throw up their hands.

All complied with the demand and the footpads started to go through the pockets of the three men. They secured Weidman's money and railroad ticket and had taken six dollars from Baldes when he made an outcry. This enraged the robbers and they backed away and began firing at the men.

Baldes was shot three times in the stomach and cannot recover. Kessler was shot in the knee, but Weidman was uninjured. The footpads escaped.

John Krou, aged 44 years, a florist and landscape gardener, who was custodian and policeman of Riverside Park, at Cumberland, fell downstairs at Ridgely, his home, opposite Cumberland, Monday afternoon and broke his neck. He died in 15 minutes. He was a native of Germany. His widow, the only witness, could tell nothing about the accident.

WATER COMPANY OFFICERS
The annual election for seven Directors of the Emmitsburg Water Company was held at the Baking House of Annan Horner & Co., on Monday afternoon, June 1, when the following Board of Directors was elected: Messrs. I. S. Annan, Lewis M. Motter, J. Thos. Gelwick, J. Stewart Annan, Dr. C. D. Eichelberger, E. L. Rowe and E. L. Annan.

The newly elected board organized after the election by electing the following officers: President, I. S. Annan; Vice-President, Lewis M. Motter; Secretary, Dr. C. D. Eichelberger; Treasurer, E. L. Annan; Attorney, E. L. Rowe.

LIGHTNING STRIKES FARMHOUSE
During the storm which swept over Williamsport Sunday afternoon, when the tannery of W. D. Byron & Sons was destroyed, the farmhouse of Jacob D. Lemen, two miles from the town, was struck by lightning and a portion of the roof torn off. The bolt entered the house, dazing several members of the family while they were eating supper, and ran through a screen door, shattering it.

Two cars on the trolley line were struck. The electric lighting system and telephone service in Williamsport were crippled by the storm, and a number of lights and telephones were burned out.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.
Mr. Andrew Berkeley, of Anne Arundel county, near Laurel was killed Saturday at the Baltimore and Ohio Station in Laurel while returning to his home. He was driving under the bridge at the station, when one of the fast trains came rushing by, scoring the horse. Mr. Berkeley was dragged for nearly 50 yards before help reached him. He was carried to his home unconscious and died two hours later. He was about 60 years old. He went to Laurel in the morning to dispose of market produce, and having sold out was on his way home when the fatal accident happened.

AROUSSED FROM SLUMBERS.
A force of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad officers, headed by Captain Hawthorne, at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday morning arrested Thomas Smith, Joe Deary, David Stallings, Alfred Darroft and Harry Rice, all residents of South Cumberland, for robbing cars.

The men were aroused from their beds and taken immediately before Justice Humbird, who set their cases down for trial. For the past several months there has been a systematic robbing of cars in the local Baltimore and Ohio yards by an organized gang of thieves who covered their tracks so well that the railroad detective force was baffled for some time.

EX-GOVERNOR LOWNDES.

Where He Stands On The Question Of The Governorship.

Ex-Gov. Lloyd Lowndes, who has been considered in the field for the Republican nomination for Governor, was interviewed on the subject, in view of the fact that a boom has been started for Hon. S. A. Williams, of Harford. Ex-Governor Lowndes said: "I do not know that I will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor under any circumstances. I have not yet made up my mind. I repeat what I recently said in Baltimore: Under no circumstances would I enter into a fight at the primaries, no difference who the candidates may be, whether Mr. Williams or Gen. Thomas J. Shryock. I think the party should nominate men who will not only get the vote of the Republican party, but would commend themselves to the independent voter."—Sun.

TWENTY PLOWS IN ONE FIELD.

S. L. Johns had a fair of his own recently. A field of 24 acres on his Samuel Schwartz farm, several miles from McSherrystown, along the Littlestown pike, was plowed, harrowed, rolled and planted in corn in one day. 20 plows were in the field at one time, with 55 horses, all owned by Mr. Johns and brought from his various farms. Jacob Strasbaugh, Lewis Klunk, William Selby, George Cromer, George Selby, John Shue and Mervin Bowers, with their help all were there to assist the tenant, George Krenzer. Mr. Johns' superintendent, David B. Herr, was in charge.

A big dinner was served by Mrs. Krenzer and a bountiful supper was disposed of. Then, the work being done, the whole party was taken to Hanover and shown all the sights of the carnival at the expense of Mr. Johns. A big day's work was thus appropriately ended by a big lot of fun.—Hagerstown Herald.

CANNING SEASON BEGINS.

The canning season in Frederick has begun and both the Monocacy Valley Canning Company and the Frederick City Packing Company have been busily engaged canning peas. The crop will be a short one this year because of the long continued dry weather during May. Still it is thought there will be a fair output from both establishments. This is the first year the Frederick Packing Company has put up peas.

Conrad Ruland, who for several years has been canning tomatoes quite extensively, has been canning strawberries, and during the summer will put up peaches and other fruits. His is the only factory in Frederick that cans fruits. He has broken ground for a new warehouse in which to store goods. It is located on Carroll Creek. He will also, in the near future, add some additional machinery to his factory, which is already well supplied.

FIRE IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Balding of Methodist Episcopal Church South Sustains $10,000 Damage.

The damage to the church property of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church South, Fayette street, near Carrollton avenue, Baltimore, as the result of a fire which occurred early Tuesday morning will amount to about $10,000. This estimate was made by Rev. H. H. Sherman, pastor of the church, who inspected the building thoroughly in company with a number of the congregation. The loss is fully covered by insurance. Mr. Sherman stated that the fire was probably caused by lightning which struck the belfry on the west end of the building during the storm of Monday afternoon, causing a blaze which smoldered until early morning, when the fire was discovered. Mr. Sherman's belief that lightning struck the belfry was confirmed by Mr. Carl Wilhelm, who stated that during the storm a number of bricks fell from the roof of the belfry into the yard of his home adjoining the church.

The blaze started on the ground floor of the belfry and burned to the roof. By dint of hard work the fire was principally confined to the belfry, but the ceilings and carpets were badly damaged by water. Members of the Salvage Corps covered the handsome walnut pews with tarpaulins and saved them from injury.

The main auditorium showed but slight effects of the fire, while the gallery suffered considerably. A valuable pipe organ, which stands in the rear of the pulpit, was not touched by fire or water, although smoke is thought to have caused a slight damage.

The carpets in the lecture and Sunday school rooms were slightly damaged by the water and debris.

Mr. Sherman stated that the work of rebuilding will be started as soon as the insurance is adjusted to the satisfaction of the official board of the church.

DEATH OF DAVID SMITH.

Mr. David Smith, an honored and respected citizen of Ashland, Ohio, died in that place, April 11, last, from a stroke of paralysis received at his shop on East Main street. He was taken to the residence of his son-in-law, Dr. R. C. Kinnaman, with whom he resided but his advanced age made his case hopeless. The funeral services were held on April 13, at his late residence, and were conducted by Rev. A. H. Smith, assisted by Rev. C. W. Wilson.

For more than seventy years Mr. Smith had been a faithful member of the Lutheran Church, and for many years served as an elder.

David Smith, who was the fifth son of Daniel and Maria Lind Smith, was born in Franklin county, Pa., not far from Emmitsburg, Md., April 6, 1817. He was one of a family of eleven children, six boys and five girls—all of whom have passed away except Eli Smith who is 63 years of age and in good health. In June, 1825, he went to Ohio, with his parents, settling in Stark county, in an unbroken forest three or four miles from Canton. He learned the tanners trade with his brother, Eli, at New Baltimore, afterwards working at his trade in Canton.

He was married to Miss Susan Holz, of near Canton, who died a number of years ago. Four children survive him, Mrs. R. C. Kinnaman, of Ashland, Mrs. Jule Speicher, Daniel A. Smith and William A. Smith, of Akron, Ohio. After his marriage he moved to Smithville, Wayne county, where he built up a prosperous business as tanner. In 1863 he sold out his tanning business and acquired an interest in the Smithville Manufacturing Company which built up a large trade in reapers and mowers and other farm machinery, until the plant was destroyed by fire. He then moved to Ashland and began anew, going into the tanning business with Mr. Lash, whom he afterwards bought out. He conducted his shop on Orange street with such industry that success came to him again. Of late years he was not actively employed, only working enough to keep him happy and contented.

A BIG TANNERY BURNED.

Lightning Causes A Destructive Fire At Williamsport.

The large tannery of W. D. Byron & Sons, situated at Williamsport, Washington county, was struck by lightning last Sunday evening at 6 o'clock during a terrific storm and totally destroyed. The loss is estimated at from $200,000 to $250,000, on which there is insurance of $150,000. The tannery was the largest of the kind in the country, and was the principal industry of the town, employing 200 men. The destruction of the plant is a hard blow to the community, where the fire was the worst that ever occurred there.

The four large buildings of the plant, in the shape of an "E," were destroyed together with all of the valuable machinery and thousands of hides in a finished and raw state. The flames swept from the finishing department to the beam shop and other buildings, all of which communicated. Great volumes of smoke arose from the burning plant and floated over the town, while the flames leaped to a considerable height. The presence of oil in the buildings added to the fury of the flames. The enginehouse a brick structure, situated within the confines of the plant, escaped destruction as did also large brick buildings recently erected and occupied as the leather department. There is about $40,000 worth of finished leather in these buildings.

The large tank sheds situated west of the plant, in which 6,000 tons of bark is stored, escaped burning, but later it was feared that the sheds would catch, and aid was summoned from Hagerstown. The Western Enterprise Company, with an engine and the first hose wagon, were loaded on a car, and just as the train with the apparatus and 50 firemen was about to start at 10 p. m., word was sent that the apparatus would not be needed. There was great damage during the fire from a number of barrels of benzine stored in the patent-leather department exploding, and the crowd was kept at a safe distance.

A number of houses in Hoffman's addition, separate from the plant by the width of a street and occupied by the employees of the tannery, were in great danger, but owing to the heavy rain and a calm wind prevailing at the time they did not take fire.

Hundreds of people were attracted from Hagerstown by the fire, and, in addition to the population, swelled the crowd of spectators to several thousand. Great excitement prevailed and the destruction of the plant was greatly deplored. The tannery was built seven years ago and since its construction several large buildings have been added.

The firm also operates a tannery at Mercersburg, Pa.

The work of rebuilding the tannery will be begun as soon as the debris can be removed. The new buildings will be of brick.

FARMER-HOLT.

Miss Corinne Holt, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Augustus Holt of Bloomfield, N. J., and Edward Damai Farmer of Montclair were married in Christ Episcopal Church Monday (June 1) by the Rev. Edwin A. White, the rector. The decorations were green and white. The altar was banked with palms and daisies, and around the columns and at the end of the pews were ferns and bunches of daisies. J. Appleton Wade, organist and choirmaster of the church, presided at the organ. The vested choir met the bridal party at one of the entrances and all advanced up the center aisle as the Lohengrin wedding march was sung by the choir.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white crepe de chine, cut en traine and trimmed with chiffon and old point lace. Her bridal veil was caught up with white sweet peas, and she carried a shower bouquet of the same flower. She was attended by her sister, Miss Edith Holt, as maid of honor. The latter wore yellow crepe de chine and carried a shower bouquet of yellow marguerites. The bridesmaids were Miss Helena E. D. Farmer of Montclair, sister of the groom; Miss Bertha W. Messenger of Hartford, Miss Edith W. Clement of Brookline, Mass., and Miss Mildred Fisher of Sayreville. They were attired in white crepe de Paris, trimmed with dewdrop mousseline du soie and marguerites. They wore yellow sashes and carried white marguerites.

Frederick Kellogg of Montclair acted as best man. The ushers were William A. Holt, brother of the bride; Joseph B. Damai of Philadelphia, cousin of the groom; Clifford H. Berrian of Glen Ridge, cousin of the bride; Arthur Russell of Glen Ridge, David Oakes of Bloomfield and Gilford E. Sutton of Montclair. Following the ceremony there was a reception for the relatives at the home of the bride's parents, 47 Park Avenue.—Bloomfield Citizen.

LIFE.

The poet's exclamation: "O Life I feel thee bounding in my veins," is a joyous one. Persons that can rarely or never make it, in honesty to themselves, are among the most unfortunate. They do not live, but exist; for to live implies more than to be. To live is to be well and strong—to arise feeling equal to the ordinary duties of the day and to retire to overcome by them—to feel life bounding in the veins. A medicine that has made thousands of people, men and women, well and strong, has accomplished a great work, bestowing the richest blessings, and that medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. The weak, run-down, or debilitated, from any cause, should not fail to take it. It builds up the whole system, changes existence into life, and makes life more abounding. We are glad to say these words in its favor to the readers of our columns.

At the twenty-seventh annual commencement of Johns Hopkins University Baltimore, degrees in medicine were given to 43 young men and 6 young ladies; degrees of Doctors of philosophy to 23 men, and baccalaureate degrees to 46 students. The honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred upon Prof. J. J. Thomson, of England.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN.

Five Thousand Men March in a Procession At Frederick.

Great success has crowned the efforts of the committee of arrangements for the firemen's demonstration, which opened at Frederick, Wednesday, and which will continue until Friday evening, in honor of the eleventh annual convention of the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

The city is full of volunteer firemen from all parts of Maryland and the adjoining States. The true and tried veterans of Baltimore, Washington and the City of brotherly love are there, intermingling with the brave fire fighters of the State, in their uniforms and badges and with banners and music.

The city is elaborately decorated with flags and bunting. Threatening clouds hung over the city Wednesday morning, but as they disappeared the people came from the country by the thousands, until by noon the streets were packed.

The Junior Fire Company, the Independent Hose Company and the United Company have arches erected in front of their respective engine houses, which are studded with many hundreds of electric lights. The Frederick Gas Company also has a beautiful arch across Market street, which adds a flood of light to the brilliant scene. At night Market street is a blaze of lights.

The most interesting of the arrivals Wednesday was the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association, of Baltimore, with its ancient hand engine and accompanied by the Sons of Veterans. The Veterans wore red shirts and firemen's helmets, and as they marched along drawing their engine they were heartily applauded. The Veterans came from Baltimore on a special train accompanied by the Fifth Regiment Band and about 100 ladies.

The first prize, $25, for general deportment and neatness in parade, was awarded to the Company of Chambersburg, Pa., and a prize of the same amount offered for the company having the greatest number of men in line was awarded to the Good Will Company, of Lonaconing.

The event of Wednesday was, of course, the great parade, in which over 5,000 firemen marched. It was formed on North Market street at 2 o'clock, headed by the chief marshal, State Senator John Rohrbaugh, and the following aides: M. S. Engle, Charles E. McPherson, J. A. Williams, James A. Jones, Richard Potts, McInteeck Young, John Francis Smith, Guy Motter, G. Ward Haffner, Austin Baughman, Richard P. Ross, G. M. Dall, Clabough, Samuel H. Hines, William O. Kohl, Everett C. Harding, Reno S. Harp and John H. Grove.

The parade was witnessed by the entire population of the city. It was divided into three sections, each section being headed by one of the Frederick companies. President Cunningham and the other officers of the association, Mayor George Edward Smith and the members of the Board of Aldermen and the general committee of arrangements rode in carriages. Many of the visiting companies had one or more pieces of handsome apparatus.

Chief George W. Horton, of the Baltimore Fire Department, and his daughter, were the guests of the committee, and rode in the line of parade, as also did District Chief Emrich and several other prominent members of the Baltimore department.

The handsome pair of iron gray horses recently introduced by the Junior Steam Fire engine Company into the Fire Department of Frederick, driven by their trainer, Mr. Frank McHenry, won applause all along the line of march.

The first session of the convention of the association opened in the city Opera House Wednesday night with prayer by Rev. C. W. Stinespring, of Frederick. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor George Edward Smith, Joseph W. Gaver, and J. Francis Smith, which were responded to by president J. H. Cunningham, and Augustus Albert, of Baltimore. The Secretary's report showed there were 35 companies in the association, and the claims for injuries during the year amounting to $500 were paid.

Cumberland was chosen by acclamation for the next place of meeting.—Sun.

His Last Hope Realized.

(From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.)

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure, and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For Sale by T. E. Zimmerman, druggist.

BITNER MAY HAVE COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Clothing Belonging to Missing Man Found on Top of South Mountain.

It is believed that W. O. Bitner, who, up to within a week ago, was local agent for the Adams Express Company and who mysteriously disappeared, has committed suicide. Wednesday afternoon a coat, vest and other pieces of clothing worn by Bitner on the day he left Hagerstown were found on top of the South Mountain, between Cave-town and Smoketown, and about ten miles from Hagerstown. The clothing was not tied in a bundle. The boys who found the clothing took it to Gross-nickle's store on Beaver creek, and State's Attorney Poffenberger, was notified. He gave instructions to have the clothing sent to Hagerstown.

An old newspaper with the name Bitner on one end was also found. The clothing was identified by a street car conductor as that worn by Bitner on the day he left Hagerstown. It is thought Bitner's body is somewhere in the mountain near where the clothing was found, and a searching party will go out to look for it.

GIRL'S MOTHER WAS OUTWITTED.

Miss Daisy Eakle and Mr. Jacob H. L. Naile an eloping couple from Eakle's Mills, Washington county, went to Hagerstown Tuesday and were married at 8 o'clock in the evening at the residence of Ex-City Councilman W. Blair McCordell by Rev. A. B. Statton, pastor of St. Paul's U. B. Church.

The parents of the young couple were opposed to the match and the mother of the bride kept a strict watch on her daughter; Tuesday at noon Mrs. Eakle went to Hagerstown on her way to visit friends at Clear Spring. The daughter went along, as the mother supposed to do some shopping, after which she was to return home on the evening train. By a previous arrangement of the young people and unknown to the mother Mr. Naile was also on the train. In order to keep out of sight of Mrs. Eakle, the groom rode in the baggage car. Miss Eakle remained with her mother until Tuesday evening, when the latter departed for Clear Spring. Soon after the mother was gone the couple met at a hotel. A marriage license was procured and they were married soon afterward.

able scaffold twelve feet long, consisting of two brackets and four tuck boards twelve feet long, would answer for the whole barn. Brackets like that shown can be taken down and moved in a very short time and require no nailing to the building, although a nail in the bottom helps a little in keeping it plumb and steady. Whatever is used to hold the bracket in place should be given base enough—say ten feet out from building—so there will be no danger of its pushing away. The bracket should extend about eighteen or twenty inches above the scaffold next the building, so it can be thrust up under the roof, and the bottom of the prop should be on solid ground and securely held from slipping by a stake outside. A sixteen foot 2 by 4 scantling with a few bits of sound fencing will make two brackets, and they can be kept for a lifetime, storing them between two tie girls in the upper part of the barn. The props of 2 by 4 must be fourteen feet and upward in length, according to the height of the eaves where the scaffold is to be used. At the remaining job I commenced by getting up a scaffold on which, by stretching pretty well, I nailed twelve courses. In doing this it suddenly occurred to me that it was not necessary to work in horizontal lines as in shingling, but that I could work up and down. This simplified the matter at once, and then I could use a ladder. All that was wanted was some way of hooking the ladder to the ridge. Had the ladder been long enough I could have bolted on some brackets, but it was three feet short, so I made two pieces like the second figure, bolting one to each side of the ladder with three quarter-inch bolts, the hooks or brackets having two bolts each. With such an arrangement I could walk about two feet wide from eaves to ridge and then, perched astride the ridge, could move the ladder over two feet and work down. A common market basket with a stout wire hook protruding from the bottom of one end made a good receptacle for what shingles I needed each trip, hooking the basket to a rung of the ladder just above me.

I found the henlock shingles after ten years of service in pretty good condition and likely, if I could keep them from blowing away, good for perhaps seven or eight years more. When I used them, I was told that they would not last to exceed eleven years. In conclusion I might say that the job of re-shingling should be done when the shingles are soft and flattened by a long rain.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE ORIGINAL HORSE.

Five Toed, Monkey Toothed and About the Size of a House Cat.

In a paper prepared by W. D. Matthews, associate curator of paleontology in the American Museum of Natural History at New York, an interesting account is given of the origin of the horse. Mr. Matthews says that the earliest known ancestors of the horse were small animals not larger than the domestic cat, with four complete toes on each forefoot and three on each hind foot. There is reason to believe that the still more ancient ancestors of this and all other mammals had five toes on each foot. The teeth were short crowned and covered with low, rounded knobs of enamel, suggesting those of monkeys and of pigs or other omnivorous animals.

The horse is distinguished from all other animals now living by the fact that it has but one toe on each foot. Comparison with other animals shows that this toe is the third or middle digit on the foot. The hoof corresponds to the nail of a man or the claw of a dog or cat and is broadened out to afford a strong support on which the whole weight of the animal rests.

In the series of ancestors of the horse, writes Mr. Matthews, "we can trace every step in the evolution of those marked peculiarities of teeth and feet which distinguish the modern horse from an ancestor which so little suggests a horse that when it remains, were first found forty years ago—the animal was named by the great paleontologist Richard Owen the hyracotherium, or 'coneylike beast.'"

A picture shows a restoration of the oldest known ancestor of the modern horse. It was only sixteen inches high and had four toes on each foot. The skeleton is mounted in the American museum. All the remains of native horses that have been found in America have been petrified, showing that they had been buried for many thousands of years. Mr. Matthews states that all "these horses became extinct both in North and South America. Why we do not know. The competition with the bison and the antelope, which had recently migrated to America, may have made it more difficult than formerly for the American horse to get a living."

The wild horse at present is found only on the desert plains of central Asia and Africa. There are no true wild horses in America or Australia. Mr. Matthews points out, because the mustangs and bronchos are domesticated animals run wild and are descended from the horses brought over from Europe by the early white settlers.

The great increase in the size of the horse, Mr. Matthews argues, went hand in hand with the evolution of the plains themselves. At the commencement of the age of mammals the western part of the North American continent was by no means as high above sea level as now. The climate at that time was probably very moist, warm and tropical, and there was a dense forest growth, and to these conditions the animals of the beginning of the mammalian period must have been adapted.

During the lifetime the continent was steadily rising above the ocean level, and at the same time other influences were at work to make the climate continually colder and drier. The coming on of a cold, dry climate restricted and thinned the forests and caused the appearance and extension of open, grassy plains. The ancient forest inhabitants were forced either to retreat and disappear with the forests or to adapt themselves to the new conditions of life. The ancestors of the horse, following the latter course, changed with the changing conditions.

At the end of the age of mammals the continents stood at a higher elevation than at present, and there was a broad land connection between Asia and North America, as well as those now existing. At this time the horse became cosmopolitan and inhabited the plains of all the great continents excepting Australia.

The extreme dependence of Great Britain on supplies of grain from overseas is becoming the subject of serious agitation, with a view to securing a food supply in case of war.

When a man works because he is compelled to he is never a good workman.—Atchison Globe.

One Particular Reason. "My dear," said Mrs. Cawker to her daughter, "when you are at Mrs. Cumso's this afternoon I hope you won't think of repeating that bit of gossip about Mrs. Gifford that Mrs. Fosdick told us this afternoon."

"Why, mamma?"

"Well, because it would be ungenerous and unkind, and I don't think Mrs. Gifford would like it told, and besides, I want to tell it to Mrs. Cumso myself."

Gardens in the Ice.

A glacier when it dislodges itself and sails away over the Arctic ocean never travels alone. In the wake of every large one floats a line of smaller companions. The Eskimos call this phenomenon "the duck and ducklings," and any one who has watched the progress of the wild duck followed by her brood will appreciate the aptitude of the name. Strange as it may seem, plants grow and blossom upon these great ice mountains. When a glacier is at rest moss attaches itself to it, protecting the ice beneath, just as sawdust does. After a time the moss decays and forms a soil, in which the seeds of buttercups and dandelions, brought by the wind, take root and flourish. Those who have traveled much in arctic lands say the poppy does not bloom during the brief northern summer.

Look Prosperous.

Even though you may not be prosperous, adopt as far as possible the appearance of prosperity. It is sound capital and will bring good interest in the long run. Shabby looking people, you may have noticed, always appear apologetic and can easily be turned down when they are most in need of a helping hand. Do not confuse apparent prosperity with extravagance. Small but telling home economies can be practiced in order to hide from the public the fact that the wolf is at the door. Keep a brave front. Dame Fortune likes to throw her magic cloak about the shoulders of the man or woman who looks capable of making the best of it.

Lost Time.

The most reckless spendthrift in the world is the one who squanders time. Money lost may be regained, friendships broken may be renewed, houses and lands may be sold or buried or burned, but may be bought or gained or built again. But what power can restore the moment that has passed, the day whose sun has set, the year that has been numbered with the ages gone?

Better Thus.

"Don't you think," asked the anxious young playwright, after the first performance, "that I might have improved it some by putting it in three instead of four acts?"

"Well, no," the critic replied. "I hardly think so. The curtain wouldn't be down as much in that case as it is now."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not Disturbable Then.

"Is your employer out?" inquired the caller. "Yes, sir," replied the office boy. "How do you know without looking into his private office?" "Because I just heard him growl about the cards he was getting and call for another stack of blues."—Philadelphia Press.

He Told Her.

Teacher—Which letter is the next one to the letter "H"? Boy—Dunno, ma'am. Teacher—What have I on both sides of my nose? Boy—Freckles, ma'am.

Pride goes before destruction, and so does everything else if it has any sense.

—Town and Country.

Safety in Numbers.

Brannigan—Come home and tuck supper with me, Flannigan. Flannigan—Shure it's past yer supper time now. Yer wife'll be mad as a batter. Brannigan—That's jist it; she can't lick the two of us. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Why He Objected.

He—I wouldn't want any one to marry me out of pity. She—But they say pity is akin to love. He—Well, I never could stand for poor relations.—Brooklyn Life.

WINE OF CARDUI

Mrs. Fred Unrath.

President Country Club, Benton Harbor, Mich.

"After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui restores the organs of generation for the forces of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.

I used everything known to the profession without relief; until I commenced to use FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE. After taking three bottles I was entirely relieved and cured.
