THE TOWER OF SILENCE

Bombny's Grewsome Cemetery and

Its Well Fed Vultures.

Abar hill is the prettiest spot in Bombay. There is a circle of congrete walls twenty-five feet high. Inside this wall, rounding the pit, is narrowest of the three and is for the children. The center pit is deep and filled in the bottom with sand and charcoal. There are five of these. When a Parsee dies he is laid in one of these. No one ever sees the inside but those who bear the bodies in, and they do not look around, but walk right out. Overhead and perched on the tops of the walls are many vultures. When a body is borne in these vultures swoop down, and in two hours they have eaten it clean. Then the bones are swept into the pit, and the rain washes the circles clean, and the bones in the plt crumble to dust, and the water drains off through the sand and charcoal into the earth. The vultures sometimes become so large and heavy they can hardly fly. They

AN EARTHLY TRINITY. Realth and Wealth Ought to Be Linked With Happiness. We are used to feel, to put it cruuely, that folks who have health and money ought to be happy. And so they should, A sufficient income promotes corafort, and that contributes to cheerfulness of spirit, and to have health of course means to feel well, and that is a long step toward feeling good. But how far do we have to look to find persons with health to squander and more money than they know how to spend making strenuous efforts to attain happiness and merely achieving impaired health? Of the many sights witnessed in the oceans of the globe, one of the most scribed by sailors as "the milky sea," ships being surrounded for several hours by water that appears to be a snowy whiteness. The spectacle is restricted to the darkness of night and rare occasions, and, while it is limited mainly to the warmer waters of the tropical belt, it appears to be more common in the Indian ocean than in the Atlantic and Pacific. From the white water the light is so strong that ordinary newspaper print can be read on board ship, but the scene all round is of an awe inspiring description. The horizon is blotted out, sea and sky seem to become one in a sort of universal luminous fog, which, like a London fog, robs the observer of the sense of distance and direction, the deck being lit up with a ghastly, shadowless light. Once off the west coast of South Amer-ica a bucket of the white water emplead. When a patient complains of a bad taste in his mouth every morning on waking up, says apphysician, the first question I ask him is as to the position he assumes when going to sleep. Au immense number of people sleep on the left side, and this is the most common cause of the unpleasant taste which is generally attributed to dyspepsia. If a meal had been taken within two or three hours of going to bed, to sleep on the left side is to give the stomach a task which it is difficult in the extreme to perform. The student of anatomy knows that all food enters and leaves the stomach on the right side, and hence sleeping on the left side soon after eating involves a sort of pumping operation which is anything but conducive to sound repose. The action of the heart is also interfered with considerably, and the lungs are unduly compressed. It is probable that lying to say her alphabet. #### Camel Carriages.

Camel carriages are not common conveyances in most parts of India. but on the great trunk road leading to Delhi they are frequently to be seen. They are large, double story wagons, drawn sometimes by one, sometimes by two or even three camels, according to their size. Iron bars which give em a cagelike appearance were originally intended as a defense against robbers, and the carts were probably also used for the conveyance of prisoners. "The most picturesque 'property' of the Punjab government," says John Lockwood Dipling, "is a huge char-a-banc to which is harnessed n team of four or six fine camels with leopard skin housings and gayly attired riders." Neither camel nor bullock carts commend themselves much to the western traveler, but in out of the way places the latter are often found very useful.

UNKNOWN MAN KILLED.

An unknown man supposed to be a tramp, was struck and killed by a train on the B. & O. Railroad at the turnpike crossing east of Plane No. 4, this county Monday morning. The man's body was frightfully mangled, being cut into pieces which were scattered about the track. Whether he was walking along the track or lying upon it at the time when he was struck by the train is not known.

The Duke of Marlborough fought several battles against the most experienced generals in Europe and was never once defeated.

The famous Russian general Suvaroff was another commander destined never to suffer defeat. He gained several victories against the Turks and against the Poles, and in Italy he was opposed by Moreau, and, being completely outnumbered, he effected a brilliant retreat over the mountains of Switzerland, through Germany, into Russia.

The Duke of Wellington throughout his brilliant campaigns, both in India and in the peninsula, preserved to himself a remarkable record of uninterrupted successes from the first battle in which he was vested with supreme command throughout the peninsular war, in which he defeated the ablest of Napoleon's marshals, until the eventful day at Waterloo.

An Unavailing Rain Penance.

No country subject to drought is without its own peculiar method of supplicating for rain. That in Kumaon, northern India, is not the least curious of them.

In a country where the population is almost entirely dependent upon grain as a means of subsistence drought means famine and starvation. During a drought in Kumaon a Hindoo fakir imposed a penance on himself and was in the journal mentioned a correspondsuspended by his feet from a wooden beam. In this position he was swung back and forth for a considerable time by means of a rope attached to his body and pulled by a fellow fakir. Both men were besprinkled with ashes and mud and were minus all clothing except for a small cloth around the waist.

It is to be regretted that such pious zeal should have gone without the expected reward, for the chronicler sadly related that no rain fell until weeks after.

and Without Fear. The fisher marten deserves to be much better known than he generally $1,000 00 is, if only on account of his own good opinion of himself, his wonderful case

One of the largest and handsomest of the martens, he has also agility $500 00 strength and endurance for any two of his kind put together. Measuring $5,700 00 about three feet in length, with a slim, vigorous body, the fisher will travel enormous distances in a single night. $1,300 00 bounding lightly up into the air, with his nose turned up in order to ostol every whiff of scent, outwitting other animals and the cleverest trappers and making himself at home wherever

He generally chooses as his hundling grounds the thickly covered hills and $20,000 00 ridges where the hemlock and spruce grow in abundance, but he is as mach at home on the tree tops as on the ground and can sleep as soundly in low hollow of a tree as on a branch of $720 00 a fir tree, where he will lie stretched out in the sunshine like any old cat. As for fear, he does not know what $4,468 84 It is. He will not only face but ac tually kill a Canadian porcupine and is not particularly fond of meeting an $1,826 28 old bear with cubs, but is generally clever enough to steal her cubs while she goes off on some little expedition $ 326 00 of her own, while instances have been related of the fishers in the Bocky 10 00 mountains even killing young grissiles As for man, he appears to laugh at 9 75 him and his designs for trapping wild animals. Use the second secon animals. He will pull a marten trap 35 00 open and take out the balt, whether alive or dead; he will tear a pine mar alive or dead; he will tear a pine mar 31 45 ten or mink to pieces in no time and 265 00 carry it off or drag the trap over some rough projection in order to spring # 300 000 without having received as much as

But perhaps his cleverest trick, when he finds a trapper is following his trail, is to get behind the trapper and follow his, so that while the unconscious trapper is walking after the 150 00 133 00 160 00 out of danger by following the trap per. Many a useless mile has the trapper walked in this manner, and $4.347 02 many good baits has he lost by the very same shrewd, cunning animal be is trying to trace and catch.-Colliery

A Lucky Game of Chess. A story is told of the Moorish prince Abul Hejex, who was thrown into prison for sedition by his brother Mohammed, king of Granada. There be remained for several years until the king, fearing he might escape, placed 1,000 00 383 84 3,255 69 1,024 92 500 00 2,800 00 2,800 00 1,000 00 1,000 00 10,000 00 10,000 00 1,000 00 fused. After earnest entreaty he ob-11,000 00 6,500 00 11,004 50 He was in no hurry about the moves, 49,000 00 we are told, and well for him he was 3,000 00 not, for before an hour had elapsed 1,000 00 messenger brought the news that Mo 5,700 00 hammed had been struct door h 1,300 00 5.000 00 500 00 17,400 00 5,000 00 17,400 00 5,000 00 deed a small favor for the pashs to grant, but it altered the whole current of the king's career. Work and Leisure Should Be Matod Work is good. No one seriously doubts this truth. Adam may have doubted it when he first took spade in hand and Eve when she scoured bee first pots and kettles, but in the course of a few thousand years we have learn ed to know and value this honest, tropblesome, faithful and extremely exact ing friend. But work is not the only good thing in the world. It is not fetich to be adorned, neither is it to be judged, like a sum in addition, by its outward and immediate results. The god of labor does not abide exclusively in the rolling mill, the law courts of the cornfield. He has a twin sister whose name is leisure, and in her sock ety he lingers now and then to the last ing gain of both.-Scribners. The Bishop and the Widew. According to a contemporary, a bishey who is widely known for his sympethetic and kindly nature having occasion recently to call upon a widow co some church matter, and finding her deeply distressed at her loneliness, ventured, as he was quite entitled to do, to offer a few words of fatherly consolation. "You must not," he said, "be cast down by your sorrow and lonely posttion. Remember the maxim, 'Man proposes, but'"- "Ah, my lord," interrupted the lady, "if man only would." It is not mentioned whether the bishes RGE A. T. SNOUFFER. was a bachelor or not.-London Stand-

The Tepid Bath. id bath at about 99 degrees eit, taken just before retiring, where the whole body except is immersed, is an excellent e for sleep, says Henry Beninburgh in Perfect Health. To he says it is the only substiown to science for nature's storer. "I have known cases nged and chronic insomnia to by this form of bath. Sleep. exception of the heart beats. ed for perfect rest. The bath amed will come near enough g this result to answer many or sleep in cases of insomnia." Hard on Baby.

First we teach the baby to talk and $6,500 00 then to hold his tangen. - Smart Bot.

Etymological.

"Well, there's one consolation," observed Mr. Suburbs philosophically. he shooed his neighbor's hens over the fence for the some hundredth time. "At last I have discovered why chickees have crops in their anatomy."

"Why?" asked his wife curiously. "Why not, with all the seeds they plant in themselves " quered Mr. plant in themselves?" queried Suburbs.-New York Times.

Physiological Error. "It says in dis paper dat a feller wos broke out of jail was shot trough de v.i.t.a.i.s. Wot does dat mean?" "Trough de victuals. Dey must a plugged him in de stomach." "But dey had chased him two days an' he hadn't had not'in' to eat."

"Den de paper's wrong. It oughter said he was shot t'rough de appeille." -Kansas City Journal
