CLERK CONFESSES WALL ST. THEFT

Got $359,000 in Securities by Forgery to Show How Easy It Was.

EVERY DOLLAR OF IT RETURNED

New York, Oct 3.-By the confession of Henry A. Leonard, a young clerk in the employ of Halle & Stieglitz, brokers at 30 Broad street, the mystery of the robbery on Wednesday last of $359,000 worth of securities from the National City Bank, was cleared up. Leonard, who lives with his parents at 586 East 136th street, was arrested and kept in close coninement while the detectives continued their search for the missing securities, every dollar of which was recovered.

The prisoner, who is only 24 years old, and who had previously borne the reputation of an industrious and thoroughly reliable clerk, made the astounding statement in his confession that he had planned and carried out his scheme of forgery and robbery, not from any criminal motive, but solely to show by what a simple device the elaborate safeguards of New York banks could be set at naught. That this statement is true is in a measure corroborated by the facts in the case and is the belief of the young man's employers, by whom he was highly esteemed.

Soon after rthe thefe Leonard mailed m package containing $300,000 in securities to the residence of Dyer Pearl. senior member of the firm of Pearl & Co., by whom they were owned. The package was received by Mr Pearl. Yesterday Leonard's father turned over to the police the remaining $59. 000 in stocks and bonds, which he said had been found in a wardrobe in his house, where his son had said after his arrest he had secreted them. The first clew that led to Leonard's arrest was obtained when the detectives traced the rubber stamp maker whom Leonard had employed to make the imitation certification stamp used on the check he presented at the National City Bank. As a model for the stamp he gave the maker an old certified check bearing a fragment of the signature of Halle & Stieglitz and also a memorandum in his own handwriting, which was identified by fellow clerks.

Leonard was held in the Tombs police count in $50,000 bail for further examination. On leaving the court room on his way to prison he said, in response to a question, "I did it on a

It was reported that Leonard was engaged to Miss Lulu Schrader, a daughter of Park Commissioner Schrader, of the Bronx borough. Commissioner Schrader said that Leonard had called at his home frequently, but that there was no engagement between the young people so far as he knew. He declared that he believed Leonard was honest, and that he would aid him in any way he could.

CANCER KILLING DR. HARPER Nothing But Heroic Operation Will

Prolong His Life. Chicago, Sept. 30 .- It has been de cided by the physicians in attendance on President Harper, of Chicago University, that nothing will save his life but a surgical operation of a heroic character. It is admitted that there is practically no chance of saving his life unless the cancer which is killing him can be checked by the removal of a portion of the large intestine. It is proposed by the surgeons to make . an examination in a few days to decide upon the advisability of the operation. It is, however, admitted that the chances are greatly against the permanent relief of the patient if the operation is performed.

CONTINUOUS OVATION

Washington, Oct. 2.-Thousands of his fellow citizens turned out to welcome President Roosevelt to the national capital and made his homecoming an occasion for an ovation from the time he was sighted on the plaform of his car until he passed within the doors of the White House. There was no band of music, but the sweeter melody of the cheers of the assembled people made the air ring with "Hurrahs!" as his carriage passed slowly up the avenue. The president was deeply touched by the welcome, and especially by its spontaneity. SOME PERSONAL SUBSTITUTES FOR THE FOOT RULE.

Accurately Compile Your Own Table, Memorize It and Then Observo How Frequently It Will Prove of Valuable Service to You.

When the dressmaker wishes to estimate the number of yards in the piece of cloth furnished she will, four times out of five, measure it swiftly between her chin and her outstretched hand, or if it is a matter of inches, she will fold the bended upper joint of her thumb slong the cloth. She calls the one measure a yard and the other an inch, and the estimate is usually close enough the serve her. purpose, although there are inches of difference in the length of arms, and a slight turn of the head will cause still greater error.

Since these methods have proved themselves so useful in spite of their inaccuracy, it is easy to see how valuable some similar measures which can be depended on would become, The individual must necessarily be the first consideration. It is hardly within the bounds of possibility to find two persons identical in those dimensions of which use can be made. Thus each must establish his own table of

This is the cubit of Scripture. Set the point of the bent elbow in the corner of the wall. Holding it firmly there, straighten the forearm and thagers, mark the point reached by the middle digit and measure carefully the distance to the wall. A man is likely to find this measure about twenty inches, a woman about sixteen. For making a quick measurement of the side of a room, the length of a wood pile, and to forth, this idea has some very useful qualities. Take the foot rule now and spread, or rather span, the hand to its utmost upon it. There is sure to be a difference between the right and left, so use always the same hand, or have a separate measure for each.

time the inches "spanned" will be a practically fixed quantity. Note the measurement carefully, as before. It is most likely to be for an adult from seven and one-half to nine inches. This is an even more convenient measure than that of the forearm, since horizontally or vertically and at any point where the hand can reach. The "hand" of four inches used in the measurement of horses is of course derived from the breadth of the palm But this has become so firmly fixed in its one use that it may as well be omitted here. The measure of thumb and palm is, however, worth consideration. The measurement from the opposite tended thumb is very nearly six inches and is therefore a convenient unit. These measures need, of course, to be supplemented by a shorter one, and here is the opportunity of our ofd friend the thumb foint. Bend the thumb sharply and measure on that back from the point of the knutkle, over the nail, to the end of the lifeshy ball of the thumb.

The resulting "unit" is Mkely to wary from seven-eighths of an facilities one and one-half inches. If the measure ment does not "come out" in even quarter inches use a finger second foing instead. It will be as remable and mimost as convenient.

Everyhody knows, or should know, his own height with sufficient exactness, but a still more useful piece of knowledge is the height of the eya This is, as a rule, about four and onequarter inches less than the total height. But do not secept this suitraction for the new rubble; measures. When one is standing erect, with the face close to the wall, to its easy to mark the exact point im front de one's eyes when they are looking straig it ahead. This measure will vary to a trifling extent with the changing thickness of boot soles, and so forth, but such an error rarely rises above onesixteenth of an inch in the fort.

The measure of one's outstratched arms-beginning and ending with the tip of the middle fingers-Is another valuable thing to know. The familiar theory that this "span" is the same asthe height is not correct enough to He depended upon for purposes of means urement.

A much used natural measure is the pace. Probably everybody who lines much to do with land is accustemed to employ it. The usual way is to striffe off, taking as long steps as possibly and "calling" each pace a vard. A fire better way is to measure the matural step and continue to walk with it. Take twenty or thirty ordinary walking steps on level ground, measure the distance and secure the average length; When the table of natural measures is fully compiled it will be somewhat like this:

Thumb and palm 6 inches Hand span 9 Inches Stretch of arms station In some families of rodents cheek pouches when present have the opening inside the mouth. In the geomyidae the pouches are present, are fur lined and open outside the mouth. The family and the type genus derive their name from their mode of life, which is entirely in the earth. Nine genera of pocket gophers are known, all of them confined to North America. Only three of the genera enter the United States. Of the United States genera one is found in the great plateau region from central Mexico and Lower California northward into British America, another from east central Mexico northward through New Mexico, western Texas, western Oklahoma, into Colorado, while a third is restricted to two large and widely separated districts in the United States. One of these districts includes portions of Alabama, Georgia and Florida, while the other includes much of the great low plain of the Mississippi valley and extends from the Rio Grande northward to southern Minnesota and Wisconsin and from eastern Allinois westward into Colorado and eastern Wyoming.

The pocket gophers all have the external pouches, strong lower jaws, fore feet strongly developed for digging and wery small eyes and ears,

The prairie pocket gopher is abundant in the eastern part of the state and is the most formidable mammalian pest with which Kansas farmers have to deal. Its damage to the alfalfa growers of the state alone amounts to more than $800,000 yearly. This damage is not directly in the destruction of the alfalfa plant so much as it is in the interference with the work of cutting the crop and the loss by reason of having to cut the plant far above the ground to avoid running into the mounds thrown up by the gophers. This loss amounts to about one-tenth of the entire crop. Besides the damage to alfalfa, there is a similar one to clothe direct destruction of vegetable gardens and other crops. This species does similar damage to crops in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas. Nebraska and Missouri, a section of the most fertile land in the entire country

Pocket gophers are easily poisoned. They are very fond of common potatoes, sweet potatoes, apples, raisins and prunes. The presence of strychnine, arsenic or other poisons does not seem to deter them from eating the food, but if the poison is sweetened they seem to eat it more readily. In summer it may be desirable to take the trouble to sweeten the poison, but in the fall and early spring it does not seem worth while to do this. -

A tool devised for the purpose of introducing the poisoned food into the burrow is a spade handle shod with

TOOL FOR OPENING RUNWAY. an iron point. A bar is attached about fifteen inches from the point to enable the operator to use his foot in pressing it into the soil. It is only necessary to find the runway of the gopher. The handle is sufficiently thick to make a hole large enough to permit one to drop the poisoned potato directly into the burrow. The operator then passes to another place, leaving the hole open. It might be well not to let swine run in the alfalfa fields for a time after the poison has been put out.

Good Prices For Apples. It is apparent that growers should have little difficulty in contracting apples at remunerative prices this season, says American Agriculturist. Instead of acting bearish, as a year ago, buyers are frankly acknowledging that they expect to be compelled to give more money for the coming crop than they did for that of 1904. Offers of $1.50 to $2 per barrel are not uncom-been sold at $1 to $1.75 for fruit as it stands on the trees. Some growers with fancy apples say they will hold out for $2 to $3. In parts of Ohio buyers have bid $2,50 for early fruit. and in New York fall stock is being contracted around $2. Contracts reported in western New York for winter fruit at $2. Bone Bust For Winter Wheat.

The soil for wheat must be richly fertilized and well pulverized. Even then, if the winters are exceedingly dry and cold, there may be a failure to the crop. Many farmers in Missouri are using bone dust to advantage. The land that is bone dusted will vield from five to ten bushels more to the acre.-W. D. Neale, Missouri.

The Life Was In Him. Daniel O'Connell once unraveled a queer plot in a will case. Witness after witness swore that they saw the document duly executed. At last a constantly reiterated expression caught the lawyer's attention, "The life was in him," over and over repeated. "By the virtue of your oath, was he alive?" he asked one witness. "By the virtue of my oath, the life was in him," he was answered. Then O'Connell turned to the man and very slowly and very solemnly said, "Now I call upon you. in the presence of your Maker, who will some day pass sentence upon you for this evidence, I solemnly ask youand you answer at your peril-was not there a live fly in the dead man's mouth when his hand was placed upon the will?" Cornered and pale with fear, the witness confessed that this
