The house was in session for more than three hours, and while the proceedings followed the programme that has marked the opening of congress for many years, there was enough of interest to hold an exceptionally large audience during the entire time.

Senators Allison and Morgan were appointed by Vice-president Fairbanks as a committee to notify the president that congress was ready to receive any communication he desired to make. The senate was in session only 20 minutes. Senators Aldrich (R. The Cruel Plant. A Canadian climber, the Physianthus albens, has received the name of "cruel plant" from its ill treatment of butterfiles. It flowers in the month of August, and the butterflies, attracted by the perfume, hover around it in large numbers and push their trunks into the corollas to sip the honey. A pair of sensitive vegetable pinchers in the heart of the flower grips the delicate proboscis, and in spite of struggles to get free the butterfly hangs suspended until it dies. Apparently the plant has nothing to gain by the death of the insect, as it is not carnivorous, like the Venus fly trap. In fact, if the butterfly were allowed to come and go it would tend to foster the species by assisting cross fertilization. It appears, however, that the "cruel plant" came originally from Brazil, where the but terflies are much stronger and extricate their suckers from the trap. We may add that another Canadian plant, the Cnicus discolor, is charged with cruelty. The flower has a gland which secretes a viscous liquid capable of liming insects which are fond of it. Moreover, they seem to be stupefied and poisoned by it, and no reason can as yet be assigned for the deadly con-

A Colossal Harp. The largest harp ever made, so far as is known, was that invented and constructed by M. Veritan, provost of Burkli, near Basel. It was known as the gigantic meteorological Æolian harp. It was 320 feet in length and was erected in the garden of its inventor in 1787. This harp consisted of fifteen iron wires, 320 feet in length, stretched between two poles. The wires were from two to three inches apart, the largest being one-sixth of an inch in thickness and the smallest onetwelfth of an inch. They were placed in the direction of north and south and inclined in such a manner as to form an angle of from twenty to thirty degrees with the horizon, being stretched by means of rollers properly disposed for the purpose. Whenever the weather changed the wires sounded with such loudness that it was impossible to go on with a concert in the house. The sound sometimes represented the hissing noise of water in rapid ebullition, sometimes that of a harmonicon and sometimes that of distant chimes or an Wordsworth's "Joke." A rare old book, called "The Living Authors of England," published in 1849, commences with a study of Wordsworth, in which is recorded what is said to be the only joke the poet ever made. At a friend's house after dianer, it appears, the conversation turned upon wit and humor. Thomas Moore. who was present, told some anecdotes of Sheridan, whereupon Wordsworth observed that he did not consider himself a witty poet. "Indeed," he said, "I do not think I was ever witty but once in my life."

Being pressed to tell the company what this special drollery was, the poet said, with some hesitation: "Well, I will tell you. I was standing some time ago at the entrance of my cottage at Rydal Mount when a man accosted me with the question, 'Pray, sir, have you seen my wife pass by? whereupon I answered, 'Why, my good friend, I didn't know till this moment that you had a wife!"

The company stared and upon realizing that this was all there was to the poet's joke burst into a roar of laughter, which Wordsworth smilingly accepted as a genuine compliment to the brilliancy of his wit.-Harper's Week-

He Had References.

In her book "A Southern Girl In '61" Mrs. D. Giraud Wright tells a capital story about General John C. Breckluridge of Kentucky. He was invited by a certain lady of rank in London to luncheon. The lady had just advertised for a footman. Mistaking the hour, General Breckinridge reached the house before the appointed time and by some accident was ushered into Lady Blank's presence without being announced. The day was in June. Owing to the heat the blinds were drawn, letting in subdued light. Lady Blank, glancing at the advancing figure, to the astonishment of the visitor, greeted him thus: "Have you a reference from your last place?" The general took in the situation instantly and, with a twinkle in his eye, unobserved by the hostess, answered respectfully, "Yes, my lady." "What were your duties?" was the next query. "Well, my lady, in the last three places I held I was vice president of the United States. major general in the Confederate army and secretary of war of the Confederate States of America.'

The Lord's Prayer. The question having arisen as to whether the English version of the Lord's Prayer is a true reproduction of the original as found in Matthew, a native Greek scholar proceeds to answer it. He deals with the petitions in order, translates each word with all the shades of meaning of the original and then presents the whole in this form. "Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be thy name—thy dominion come -thy (fixed) purpose be done, as in heaven, so, too, on earth. Asked what he did to earn that money, he said he looked over some loans for the company, was consulted by policy holders as to whether the company was a good one to insure in, and did whatever he was asked to do. He had been getting $300 a week for eight weeks, when Mr. Burnham demanded the $6000.

What President Burnham did with that money was explained by George D. Eldredge, vice president and actuary of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, who testified that President Burnham told him he had given it to Hilary Bell, a newspaper man and publicity agent of the company, to secure the publication of articles favorable to the company at a time when it was being criticized in the newspapers. Mr. Bell said that he could accomplish much more with the money if he were not compelled to report to the company just what he expended it for.

A friend of Mr. Perkins declared that this step has been taken at the suggestion of Mr. Morgan himself, and that the decision would be formally announced very

DOCTOR CHARGED WITH MURDER Said to Have Killed His Wife With Strychnine and Morphine.

Greensboro, N. C., Dec. 2.-Dr. J. B. BREAD BEST OF FOOD.

Said to Be More Valuable Than Meat as a Yielder of Energy. According to Dr. Robert Hutchinson of the London hospital, who supplied evidence regarding food supply to a royal commission, bread is the most important of all the common foods of the people. As a yielder of energy a pound of bread is more valuable than a however, is its poverty in pitrogenous plemented with articles that remedy

A man in time of scarcity of general food could subsist upon two pounds of bread a day, says Dr. Hutchinson. He would begin to suffer from lack of energs if he got less, but could go considerably below the two pounds for a bare subsistence in times of great urgency, amounting to $6000. After baving such as garrisons undergo in time of siege. Under these conditions it is disease that carries men off rather than starvation.

One interesting point on which Dr. Hutchinson insists is the value of ordinary white bread. Rye, he states, is lower in nutritive value than wheat.

The next most important article of diet as a source of energy is sugar. In commenting on this Dr. Hutchinson duites of food. "The unfortunate thing about sugar is that it contains no nitrogenous matter at all," says the expert. "Bread of the completed egg, which is eventudoes contain some. Without nitrogen- ally evicted, at times with much pain ous matter one cannot get on at all. It is absolutely necessary.

"There are two sorts of food. The two things that food does are, first, it keeps the body in repair; and, second, it supplies it with energy. Some foods do anything to keep it in repair. Bread can do both, but it is better as a source of energy than as a repairer."

Among nitrogenous foods instanced as good adjuncts in supplying the defects of bread are beans, cheese and fish. The white of an egg is stated to be a very essential element of food. If no meat is available at any time bread, sugar and eggs are all that is wanted for "a very respectable support for the body." Under conditions of comparative scarcity if a child is given its slice of bread with melasses "we are doing as well as we can for the child."

Another illustration of the marvelous value of bread as a food is given by Dr. Hutchinson. "One pound of beef," he states, "is only about half as valuable as a source of energy as an equal quantity of cheese, while a given weight of bread yields a third more energy than its equivalent in beef."

The amount of food required by an ordinary person is somewhat remarkable when comparison is made with an engine. A man requires to be supplied with about 4,600 foot tons of energy day. That is to say, his food, if consumed in an engine, would raise 4,600 tons weight one foot high every day,

This does not allow for waste. "The human body is rather a wasteful machine," says Dr. Hutchinson.

Pleasures of the Table.

Heliogabalus surpassed Vitellius as far as Vitellius surpassed Lucullus in the art of expending vast sums upon the pleasures of the table. According to Lampridius, he cost the government for each of his dinners more than $180,000 in our money! This statement almost transcends belief. At one of his banquets was served an entree consisting of the brains of 600,000 ostriches, quickly followed by another of broiled heels of an incalculable number of tender young camels! In the days of Shakespeare good digestion probably waited on appetite. Dining was a matter of fact business, and dinners were so lacking in the variety of dishes that an appetite was a necessity. In these days, as in the days of Vitellius, an appetite is a superfluity. Among the high livers it is satiated, dull, dead, wornout. Special dishes are invented to tickle and awaken it. Lucullus, Vitellius and Heliogabalus are among the great departed, but their memory lives, and even in this day and generation they have their imitators.

Farm Machinery and Labor. A monograph by H. W. Quintance production and labor makes it appear that the area of land devoted to the crops in the production of which machinery has come to be generally used has increased from 23.3 acres in 1880 to 31 acres per male worker in 1900. The general conclusion is reached that the introduction of agricultural machinery during the twenty years from 1880 to 1900 increased the effectiveness of human labor on the farm one-third, reduced the number of laborers per farm, increased the wages of labor and shortened the length of the working day on the farm.
