MR. RYAN WILL ANSWER QUESTIONS

District Attorney Jerome Takes a Hand in Insurance Muddle.

PROVIDENT FEELS THE PROBE

New York, Dec. 12.—The legislative life insurance investigating committee appears to have succeeded in its attempt to make Thomas F. Ryan divulge what E. H. Harriman said or threatened to do to influence him to divide his control of the Equitable Life Assurance society. District Attorney Jerome W. T. Jerome, who was asked by the committee to take steps to punish Mr. Ryan for refusing to answer the questions about Mr. Harriman, reported to the committee that he has informed Mr. Ryan's counsel that Mr. Ryan ought to answer. Mr. Jerome also wrote to the committee that he believes Mr. Ryan will answer if brought before the committee again.

Mr. Ryan, who bought 502 shares of the stock of the Equitable last summer and placed them in a trust to be voted by three trustees, of whom Governor Cleveland is one, was on the witness stand before the insurance investigating committee last Friday. He testified that on the day he got possession of the Equitable stock E. H. Harriman, president of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads and a director of the Equitable society, asked him for a share of the stock. What Mr. Harriman said to him to induce him to part with that stock Mr. Ryan refused to tell the committee.

The specific questions which Mr. Ryan declined to answer were:

"Did Mr. Harriman say there would be any result injurious to your interests in case you refused to admit him to share in the ownership?"

"Did Mr. Harriman say that any action on the part of the legislature or of any official, any officer of the government should be taken in the event that you refused to accede to his requests?"

The committee was engaged for a part of the time in inquiring into the affairs of the Provident Savings Life Assurance society of New York. Mr. Hughes had brought out by questioning Edward W. Scott, president of the company, that when Frank F. Hadley, of New Bedford, Mass., secured control of the company in 1896 he borrowed $162,000 from the company on his collateral notes to pay up for the stock of the insurance company. Mr. Scott testified that Mr. Hadley never repaid those loans and that the insurance company realized only $30,000 on the sale of the collateral. Companies in which Mr. Hadley was interested failed and he committed suicide.

"It cost the insurance company just $132,000 for Mr. Hadley to get control of it," said Mr. Hughes.

Besides the $162,000 Mr. Hadley had borrowed $200,000 to pay for the insurance companies stock and had put up that stock as collateral. Mr. Scott testified that he bought that stock at auction after Mr. Hadley's death and borrowed the money to do it from the New York Security and Trust company. John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance company, Mr. Scott said, "stood back" of him in the negotiation of the loan.

Other witnesses have testified that the New York Life controlled the New York Security and Trust company. After he got control of the company, Mr. Scott said, John A. Horan, brother-in-law of John A. McCall, was made controller of the Provident Savings Life Assurance company at $10,000 a year. Mr. Scott testified also that his four sons and a nephew are employed by the company.

New Trial For Twining.

Philadelphia, Dec. 12.—The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered a new trial for Albert C. Twining, convicted of making false entries in the reports and in the books of the First National bank of Asbury Park, of which he was a director. Twining is now under sentence of six years in New Jersey. When tried in the U. S. district court at Trenton Twining was charged with having, as a director, overstated the amount that was due the bank from loans and discounts, including in his schedule a promissory note said to have been worthless.

MRS. ROGERS PUT TO DEATH

Vermont Murderess Hanged For Murder of Husband.

SHE MET HER FATE BRAVELY

Windsor, Vt., Dec. 9. — Without a tremor and without a word Mrs. Mary Mabel Rogers marched to her death on the gallows at the state prison here and paid the penalty of murdering her husband, Marvus Rogers, at Bennington.

MRS. MARY M. ROGERS.

on August 13, 1902. To all appearances Mrs. Rogers was the calmest person in the chamber of death. She faced her end with the same stoical indifference that had marked her demeanor ever since her arrest, more than three years ago. Governor Bell firmly refused to interfere with the sentence.

There were no sensational incidents in connection with the hanging. Although the woman was not officially pronounced dead until 14 minutes and 30 seconds after the trap was sprung, she evidently suffered no pain. Her neck was broken at the second cervical vertebrae and she lost consciousness instantly the drop fell. A few feeble convulsive movements of her pinioned hands were the only evidence that vitality had survived the first shock.

Since the death watch was established Mrs. Rogers had eaten heartily, and she has slept soundly. Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Loukes, of the prison staff, comprised the death watch, eating and sleeping in the same room with the condemned woman. Margaret, the little child of the Loukes, was a frequent visitor in the cell, and her childish talk evidently eased many weary hours during Mrs. Rogers' last days and helped her to keep her mind off her own fate. During the last few days Mrs. Rogers spent a great deal of time in crocheting tokens for relatives and friends.

When the guards went to Mrs. Rogers' cell to escort her to the death chamber they found her receiving spiritual consolation from Father Delaney, her confessor, who the day before had administered the sacrament of Holy Communion to her. Down three flights of stairs from Mrs. Rogers' cell the procession wended its way. Holding her head high, Mrs. Rogers never faltered for an instant as her eyes rested on the scaffold. Unaided she mounted the steps, walked onto the trap and then seated herself in a chair. A moment later she arose, having declined an offer by the authorities to make a statement.

GAVE HER LIFE FOR CHILDREN

Mother and Five Little Ones Burned to Death in New York.

New York, Dec. 12.—A mother and her five children were burned to death in a fire in a five-story apartment house at Columbus avenue and 100th street. Two others were injured and a score or more tenants were thrown into a panic, some of them cut off from escape and several rescued by police and firemen.

The dead include Mrs. John Thomason, the mother; her 3-year-old twins and her three other children ranging from 7 months to 9 years of age. Mrs. Thomason lost her life in an endeavor to save her children. Her body was found in her rooms with her little ones, their bodies badly burned, lying about her. Mother and children were cut off from escape by the latch of the door leading into the hall being caught.

SENATOR MITCHELL BLEEDS TO DEATH

Dies From Loss of Blood Following Extraction of Teeth.

PASSED AWAY UNDER A CLOUD

Portland, Ore., Dec. 9.—United States Senator John H. Mitchell died at the Good Samaritan hospital in this city, death resulting from complications which followed the removal of four teeth at a dental office. A hemorrhage of blood could not be stopped. Physicians were summoned to the dental office, but the combined scientific knowledge of the dentists and physicians could not stop the flow of blood.

The senator's condition soon became alarming, and it was determined to remove him to the hospital. When the senator reached the hospital he was in a very weakened condition, and it became apparent that unless the flow of blood was soon stopped he would die. Senator Mitchell did not, at any time, realize the seriousness of his condition. When he visited the dental office he was in a weakened condition owing to the disease which affected him, and his request that an anaesthetic be administered was declined, the dentist persuading him that such a course might prove harmful. The first three teeth were extracted with little or no trouble, the flow of blood being normal. The extracting of the fourth tooth was a difficult task, and it was following the removal of this that the violent hemorrhage manifested itself.

Senator Mitchell's Career.

John Hinkle Mitchell was born in Washington county, Pa., June 22, 1825. At the age of 17 he began teaching to secure means to pay his tuition at Butler Academy, from which he later was graduated. He practiced law in Pennsylvania until April, 1860, when he went to California, locating first at San Luis Obispo and later at San Francisco. In July of that year he came to this city. The energy that has characterized his entire career secured his election on the Republican ticket as town counsel of Portland in 1861. The next year he was elected to the state senate. He engaged in the practice of law in Portland until 1865, when he was elected to the United States senate at a special session of the legislature, that body having failed to choose a senator either in 1861 or 1863. He failed to be returned in 1867, and followed his profession, in partnership with Judge A. H. Tanner until 1901, when the legislature again chose him as one of the state's representatives in the United States senate.

It was only when his connection with a conspiracy to defraud the government of its public domain was made manifest by his conviction in the federal court that he lost the political influence which he had held for a greater part of half a century. From his 70th birthday, June 22 last, the day on which his guilt was decreed, Senator Mitchell has rapidly declined.

Senator Mitchell's wife is in Paris, where she has spent a large part of her time since the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to the Duke of Rochefoucauld. A son, John H. Mitchell, Jr., resides at Minneapolis. Lieutenant Hiram Mitchell, United States army, is also a son of the senator.

STRIKES AT REBATE EVIL

U. S. Attorney in Philadelphia to Indict Railroad Officials. Philadelphia, Dec. 12.—A bomb was launched in railroad circles when United States District Attorney Thompson was granted permission by Judge Holland to present bills of indictment in discrimination cases against railroads with headquarters in his jurisdiction.

The charge is giving rebates. In his petition the district attorney stated that he had summoned 12 witnesses who are prepared to testify that they have received such favors from the railroads.

It is understood to be Mr. Thompson's intention to indict the agents of all railroads and that the federal grand jury will conduct a sweeping investigation.

The minimum penalty is $1,000 for each offense and the maximum $20,000.

The taking of testimony will begin tomorrow at the secret session of the grand jury. BENEFITS OF LIMING.

The Kind of Soil That Needs Lime. How to Apply It. Professor Voorhes of the New Jersey station is credited with the following in reply to a question on the benefits of liming soil:

It is not possible in every instance to indicate certainly whether liming is needed. It will be needed sooner or later on all light uplands where lime is not abundant and where the soil has got into an acid condition from the residue of fertilizers or from humus.

It is needed on heavy clays that have become too adhesive and on reclaimed swamp lands. It will help where a heavy soil is turned or a large amount of vegetable matter is turned under.

Where lime is cheap it may for a time be used for the purpose of releasing potash in the soil.

Lime Alone Will Not Enrich. Liming alone will not enrich poor land. It may respond for a time, but will soon be exhausted of the materials on which lime can act.

On any lands the keeping up of the humus content in the soil in connection with liming is important. The frequency of liming must be determined by circumstances.

A single heavy dressing of lime may correct the undue plasticity of a clay and retain it all in a flocculated state for years when tilling judiciously, and afterward light applications, not too far apart, will retain the desirable texture.

For the correction of acidity one heavy application will last for years. The quantity will depend largely upon the frequency of application.

Quantity to be Used. Lime should be applied on the fresh plowing and then harrowed in, and there is some reason to think that where the soil is heavy and is to be deep plowed a division of the application, part upon the soil and part later as a top dressing, would be more beneficial.

To correct a heavy clay, an acid soil or in preparing rich, new land for intensive culture in vegetable production, the first dressing may need to be heavy, and in some cases 100 or more bushels per acre of slaked lime might be advisable.

On soils in a good state of fertility applications of fifty bushels or less once in six to ten years will maintain heavy lands in a good state of production.

On light soils twenty-five bushels per acre will often show the maximum results, and hence on light soils very light applications more frequently repeated should be the rule.

A Good Old Arrangement. An Iowa farmer tells of a feeding rack he has used many years for feeding hay and fodder to cattle. He says he would not trade for many of the newer kinds seen on some farms.

It is made of logs, as shown in the illustration, and is never getting out of repair.

Turnip Pigs on Roots. Where sugar beets and mangolds are grown for hog forage the plan often followed is to turn the hogs into the lots early in the fall and allow them to get their own harvesting.

Some supplementary grain is fed while the pigs are consuming roots because of their inability to consume sufficient of these to get the required amount of dry matter.

Pigs scour considerably when turned in on roots in this way unless considerable dry feed is given the first few days. Butcher hogs come off this kind of feed paunchy and require three or four weeks' grain feeding to fit them for market.

This method should bring breeding stocks into winter conditions in strong, vigorous shape. The pigs will dig all roots out, even to the very tips, unless the ground freezes.

Riches of Harvest. The American farmer is an exceedingly prosperous individual, according to railroad statisticians, who have figured out that the grain traffic for this crop year will aggregate 1,500,000 carloads.

If all this grain could be marketed simultaneously and hauled in a single solid train of freight cars, the train would be 11,331 miles long, exclusive of the locomotives that would be necessary to move it.

Handle sweet potatoes carefully to prevent bruising. Only sound, well ripened roots are in proper condition to be wintered over.

In fall plowing leave in ridges any heavy land that will be used for early spring planting.

Some of the parsnips and salsify that are growing on high ground may be left to be dug in spring.
