WHERE TO GIVE

A Rich Man's Opportunity To Help

THE SMALL COLLEGES.

The Benefit of Giving to a Small College Compared With That of a Gift to the Larger Schools and Universities.

Almon Gunnison, of St. Lawrence University, in the Evening Post, of New York, supplies the following pertinent paragraphs on the subject of gifts to the smaller colleges.

"The selection of colleges for the benefit of the rich is logical, and is the suggestion of the wisest business instinct. The rich man, who is not a miser, and who is not a miser, will give to the institutions which need help most. A community easily takes care of its poor. The sick and physically helpless readily appeal to the benevolent, and succor is swift and generous. Hospitals erect themselves and sufferings that are apparent bring their own antidote. Not so with colleges. Their benefits are only measurably appreciated by those who are not themselves wise.

"Shall the rich man give to great colleges or to small ones? The answer is 'The smaller colleges.'"

"The great universities are aiming to work for specialists. Their ambition is to do post-graduate work; and it is used to be said of one of our highest institutions that the professors regarded the entrance of students as an intrusion, an interruption of what they are pleased to call their 'original researches.'"

"The large university is often located in a great city with its distractions, dissipation, and social confusion, where the student's calm is disturbed by the bewildering mechanism of learning, and where he is kept intellectually poor by the embarrassment of riches.

"How can the rich man make wise investments in rich colleges? He can add a building, but at large expense to match the surrounding buildings. He can add a department which is not needed. He can hunt up a specialist who can educate a solitary student, but he cannot do this for a large number of students.

"But he who gives to a small college supplies a real need. A small gift to a small college is a large benefaction. There are in round numbers five hundred colleges in the United States. One hundred and eighty-three of these have less than three hundred students each, but not many of these students would have an education were the colleges not brought to them. They are poor in endowment because they are situated in agricultural regions, where there is a fine native soil, but little money. Their poverty is not without compensatory advantages. The very meagreness of college equipment stimulates invention. The tool must be made, the apparatus devised, and the statutory ornaments of the college halls, which are bought with the savings of the students, withhold none of its lessons. The small college, as a rule, is the college of those who are not rich. They go to college, they are not sent. They receive in the prosecution of their studies the salutary discipline of an enforced economy. They have learned in college the law of the modern counting room and shop, the law of saving, on which the success of every business now depends. While the relative chances in business life of the young man educated in one of the great universities, who has an allowance of $100 per week, and the other student from the small country college, whose scanty spending money has been earned in the hard work of vacation or from doing chores during his college terms!

"There are students in the great universities who are practicing the most rigid economies, but the poor student in a rich man's college is a treasure. He is a man who is not a miser, and who is not a miser, will give to the institutions which need help most. A community easily takes care of its poor. The sick and physically helpless readily appeal to the benevolent, and succor is swift and generous. Hospitals erect themselves and sufferings that are apparent bring their own antidote. Not so with colleges. Their benefits are only measurably appreciated by those who are not themselves wise.

"There are few associations more demoralizing than the intimacies of poor young men with rich ones. What is reasonable expenditure with the rich is ruinous extravagance with the other, and there is created almost inevitably, either sycophancy or a shirking of obligations. There can be but little comradeship except among peers, and the college student who sits with the fellows at the humble banquet as a guest has larger enjoyment and profit than the one who waits as a servant at the costly feast of his richer comrades.

"The small college not only supplies a demand, it creates one. Placed usually in a rural community, it at once suggests and stimulates college training. The healthy sons and daughters of the vicinage come to its doors, to be educated by the sacrifices on the part of parents, practicing the most self-denying economy, and free from the ordinary temptations of college life, they go out into the world strong-bodied, mentally and morally trained to be in our cities centers of influence and power; or at home, in town or village life, to be makers of opinion, the directors of public policy, teachers, framers of the future.

"One hundred thousand dollars will establish a professorship in a great university. It will endow three in a small college. It will build one ordinary building on a city campus, it will erect two, three, and perhaps four buildings on the grounds of a country college. The little gift which is so small as to hardly make a ripple as it sinks into the endowment of the rich college, will make an overflow in the treasury of a small institution, and the benefaction which will obtain the formal thanks of the treasurer of the millions, will be the cause of a student's holiday, of wreaths, and garlands, the hoisting of flags, and general jubilation in the small college. There is no place where gratitude can be so cheaply purchased as at the small college. The Carnegies, Stanfords, and Rockefellers, have set the standard for the large universities."

EYLER'S APPEAL.

PRESENTED BEFORE THE SUPREME COURT ON MONDAY.

Defense Heard, Commonwealth Not Called For—Record Voluminous Occupying 665 Pages.

On Monday last William Hersh, Esq., attorney for William Eyer, recently sentenced to be hung by Judge Swope of the Adams county court, appeared before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, sitting in Philadelphia. With the consent of the court the record of the case was presented in typewritten form occupying 665 pages.

The case as presented by Mr. Hersh covered three points: Alleged errors in the admission of testimony, errors in the charge of the court and in the court's answers to points. The court did not ask for the Commonwealth's side, announcing that if they thought it necessary they would call on them again. This incident and the fact that in the fifteen cases reviewed and reported by the court last Monday only one reversal of judgment was allowed, are considered bad signs for the defendant.

It is supposed that an early decision will be given.

HAGERSTOWN EVENTS

What Goes on From Day to Day—The News of The Week.

Plans for the establishment of the Maryland Cement Company's large plant two miles northeast of Hagerstown, are steadily progressing. It is understood that actual work on the buildings, etc., will begin just as soon as the Spring opens up.

Blue prints showing the location of the buildings, etc., have been received. There are to be eight large buildings, all connected, and in addition there will be a large storage building along the railroad tracks.

Mr. Harry K. Mumma, cashier of the Second National Bank, Hagerstown, has been appointed by the County Commissioners to audit the books of Tax Collector Daniel W. Reichard, has filed his report, in which he says:

"I find the cash the Collector has on hand belonging to Washington county to be just 3 cents out of the amount shown by his books to be due the county. When we stop to consider that his collections, both county and State, have been about $180,000, and the expenditures nearly $140,000, making cash transactions of $20,000, with a variation of only 3 cents, this is a splendid showing on the part of your collector, and one which proves him to be not only careful and attentive to business, but also a man well qualified for the position he occupies."

The Merchants and Manufacturers Association of Hagerstown is negotiating with the Dukesmith Airbrake Company with a view of having the company locate its factory in this city. Members of the company and the association have had several conferences, but so far nothing definite has resulted. It is said the Cumberland Board of Trade is also negotiating with the company.

The third biennial conference of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Maryland and the District of Columbia will be held in Hagerstown, March 22, 23 and 24. About 100 delegates will attend.

The Hagerstown Day Nursery, which will be established in the old Charity School on East Washington Street, is being prepared for the reception of children next month. Miss Nettie Baker has been engaged as the superintendent. There will be several nurses in attendance.

Understand that a syndicate, composed of moneyed men of one of the Eastern cities, purpose erecting a fine hotel in Hagerstown to cost not less than $250,000, and the cost may run up to $1,000,000.

Mr. S. Martin Bloom, ex-Mayor of Hagerstown and one of the town's wealthiest citizens, resigned as president of the First National Bank, a position he has held for many years. His resignation came as a great surprise and was received with sincere regret by the board of directors.

The well-known firm of Jones & South, wholesale grocers, of Hagerstown, will retire from business on April 1. They will be succeeded by the newly organized Hagerstown Grocery Company.

RELIEF STATIONS AND MEASURES TO PREVENT AN EPIDEMIC

along the Ohio river in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia are being furnished by the authorities. Health officers are cleaning up the debris in the flood section and cellars are being pumped dry. Dr. Edwards, of Pittsburgh, formerly connected with the sanitary commission in Manila says that the flood has wrought havoc in the way of depositing disease-breeding matter. The water has carried the germs into cellars, backyards, alleys and streets, and not only will a general flushing of the streets be resorted to, but each family will be compelled to exert its efforts to exclude disease.

STOCKS FALL.

View Of The Violent Collapse In Wall Street.

COUNTRY MOVES ON.

The Plight of The Wall Street Gentlemen of Little Concern to Others.—People not a Collection of Idiots.

The perturbation among the "Wall Street Crowd" however it may be worried some few—because they lost or may have because they did not make—has not had any appreciable effect on the country at large. There may have been a loss of $7,000,000,000 or of $0.07 but as one leading paper says, "the bulk of the country is not so easily worried by the fluctuations of stocks and the farmers of the West and the laboring classes generally are pleased, if anything, to see the 'Wall Street sharks' get into trouble." The situation is peculiar. It is humorous in that these gentlemen think that the whole country is worried; it will be pitiful, when they come to find the old machinery still going. The New York American the other day published the following: "You will read elsewhere in this newspaper to-day of the great excitement that yesterday agitated many gentlemen in Wall Street because of rapid changes in the prices of the stocks in which they are accustomed to speculate."

"The price of stock called Reading declined in the day from 115 to 91, the price of the stock called Union Pacific from 145 to 120, the price of the stock called Pennsylvania from 123 to 115, and so on through a long list of stocks called by different names, and to the gentlemen that speculate in Wall Street useful in their business."

"The country is invited to contemplate these changing prices, and be therefore instructed in the terrible results that have followed some attempts to restrain the greed and lawlessness of the railroad corporations."

"Somewhere the country seems not to be properly impressed."

"It looks upon the changing prices and the excitement of the Wall Street gentlemen as upon a curious and not very interesting spectacle in which it has no great concern."

"There was a time, no doubt, when this was otherwise, and when the fact that many Wall Street gentlemen lost in their speculations would cause much anxiety and trepidation. That time seems to have passed. No one outside of Wall Street and its immediate connections shares the excitement of the gentlemen there. The rest of the country goes about its business, eats its meals in peace, retires to its sleep and blandly allows the Wall Street gentlemen to amuse themselves as they see fit."

"Because we have learned that whether the price of the stock called Reading is this or that, the trains on the Reading railroad run as usual, the wheels turn, the crops grow, the sun rises, the rain falls and day succeeds night exactly as before. We may have some feeling of regret to learn that this gentleman or that has lost at his speculating, but the business of the country will survive, the farmers will sow and the fields yield their harvests nevertheless. That the prosperity of the country should ever have been believed subject in any way to the profits of the speculation game seems strange, but we can be pretty sure it is a supposition that has fled from among us forever."

"As to the lesson we are told we ought to learn about the terrible consequences of restraining the railroads from swindling and killing us, that may be safely predicted to produce no other failure. The railroad companies have brought their troubles, if they had obeyed the law, avoided rebates, avoided the policy of grabbing everything in sight and used for needed betterments the money that has gone to pay interest on watered stock, it would not have been necessary to impose upon them any additional restraints, as the States are doing."

"This idea that corporations must be allowed to break the laws in order that the country may be averted is a good doctrine to preach in an imbecile asylum, but seems out of place elsewhere. We suggest that it had better be laid aside. This is a very patient people. It stands more than any other people in the world. Doubtless it can be depended upon to endure being robbed and maltreated, but it has a more somewhat sensitive about being taken for a collection of idiots."

FOUR POINTS AND VICINITY.

News of Interest From Our Regular Correspondent.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

APPROPRIATE EXERCISES AT THE COLLEGE.

A Musical and Literary Entertainment Given By The College Total Abstinence Society In Music Hall.

Last Sunday evening the students of Mount St. Mary's College fittingly celebrated the feast of Ireland's patron, Saint Patrick. A musical and literary entertainment was given under the auspices of the College Total Abstinence Society of which Mr. Emmett B. Kennedy, A. B., '05, of Kentucky, is president. This was the first entertainment of the kind ever given under the auspices of this society, and its success was such as should give great encouragement to its promoters. The numbers on the program were of a high order, all tending to picture some phase of Ireland's glorious history, or to suggest something of her nobler characteristics. Each member was in capable hands and was well executed to the great satisfaction of the audience of students and friends of the College, that crowded the Music Hall.

Among the numbers were two very excellent addresses, the first, "Saint Patrick and Ireland," was delivered by Mr. Emmett B. Kennedy, in which he briefly traced the history of St. Patrick from his birth to his death and also showed the picturesque language some phases of Ireland's history from the time shortly preceding St. Patrick's coming down to the present.

Mr. James J. Mulholland, '08, of Pennsylvania, delivered an address on the life and work of Ireland's great apostle of total abstinence, Father Mathew. Mr. Mulholland's language was delightfully simple and his eloquence gave a beautiful coloring to his effort.

The College Glee Club, which has been very successful in its work, sang "Let Erin Remember," and in another number, accompanied Mr. Patrick Cawley, '07, in Westendorff's beautiful melody, "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen." Mr. Michael Gillooly, '07, sang "The Harp That Once Thro' Tara's Halls," which was highly appreciated. Father Prout's beautiful melody, "The Bells of Shandon," was well sung by Mr. James J. McCrory, '10. Mr. Edward Manning, '09 sang "Give Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and "Edinboro' to the applause of the audience by singing "The Wearing of The Green."

Mr. Manning sang these songs especially well. Mr. Thos. Earley very delightfully sang "Come Back To Erin," by Eileen Ryan, which was highly appreciated. The numbers were well executed to the applause of the audience by singing "The Wearing of The Green."

SIMPLE LIVING.

A WARNING AGAINST INFLUENCES OF BIG CITIES.

Grover Cleveland Urges A Return To Old-Fashioned Simplicity Of Living.—Value Of Outdoor Life.

To a representative of the New York World Grover Cleveland, on his seventieth birthday, last Monday, gave voice to the following words on simplicity and outdoor life and the elevating influence of nature on character. "It is unquestionably true that nature has an elevating influence upon heart and character. Nature is a school of all the harder virtues. What, for instance, can impart a more effective lesson in patience than a day's fishing for the whimsical black of a trout?"

"As I have said on a previous occasion, the real worth and genuineness of the human heart are measured best by its readiness to submit to the influences of nature, and to appreciate the goodness of the Supreme Power who is its Creator. This is the central point of my philosophy of life."

"We need more of those old-fashioned, conscientious folk who adhere to the simple way of living and who believe that every fortune should be earned honestly and fairly by the man who gets it."

"The history of our country shows that the citizens who live close to the soil and to the influences of nature is the best way to shape the future political convictions instead of being a mere obedient fraction of a political machine. He is certain to be more self-reliant and more stubborn in holding fast to his own idea of what is right."

"No matter how wonderful the progress of the future may be, the good and virtues of independence, industry, honesty and patriotism can never be improved. As long as the world lasts they will be the basis of true national greatness and prosperity."

Some startling disclosures of graft have been made before the grand jury concerning affairs in San Francisco. One of the papers, in an extra, says that a plot involving the granting of valuable street-railway privileges was laid bare Tuesday. It is charged that the sum of $450,000 was paid to high officials to permit of the conversion of street-railway systems from cable roads into electric lines, and that the bulk of this money was retained by a "mysterious man," and that small sums of money were parceled out to obtain enough votes to permit of the granting of the required franchises.

PHILIPPINES.

Writer Estimates Actual Expenses of Island.

UP IN THE MILLIONS.

Government Apparently Not Willing To Give Detailed Statement of All Expenditures.—Estimate Of a Layman.

An expert writer on government affairs has figured out the actual expenses connected with America's recently acquired possession and gives them in these words: Let us start with the proposition that the Philippine Islands, so far as the civil establishment in those islands is concerned, and that includes the constabulary, has always been self-supporting; that is, the civil expenses have always been paid out of the revenues of the islands, except three millions dollars voted to relieve suffering from threatened famine in 1903.

Secondly, the Democratic party took the course which Mr. McKinley says ought to be taken, by procuring a resolution of the Senate directing that the secretary of war report what the actual cost of the army in the Philippines was from June 30, 1898, to May 1, 1902.

This examination was detailed and exact. The secretary of war made his report and appended thereto the report of the various bureau officers, and of the auditing officers, upon which his report was based, and it showed that the expenses in the acquisition of the Philippine Islands of the army, which could be properly chargeable to those islands and the operations in them, and the maintenance of the army there, amounted to 169 millions of dollars.

In addition to the 169 millions, for the reasons I have already stated, one million may be added for the extra expenses in the Navy Department, three millions for the famine fund, 20 millions for the amount paid under the treaty, making a total of 193 millions down to the last of May, 1902, by that time the insurrection was wholly suppressed, and the American soldiers in the Philippines began to be reduced from 27,000, until now they do not number more than 13,000, and orders have been issued by the War Department, which in due course will reduce the army to 10,000. A soldier in the Philippines costs $140 [Mr. Taft's present estimates is $200] more per man, on the average, than in the United States; and there are also enlisted in the army of the United States; 4,500 Philippine scouts, which cost the Government an average of $500 a man. Assuming that the American soldiers, if not maintained in the Philippines, would have to be maintained in the United States, and taking the entire cost of the Philippine scouts, the cost to the Government from May 1, 1902, down to the present time, did not exceed, perhaps, ten millions or eleven millions of dollars, or a total to date of about 204 millions.

Among the improvements to be made in the vicinity of Port Maitland this year is a store room on the ground close to the bowling alley and on the same side of High Rock road.

It is hoped, by the patrons of this resort, that the Western Maryland Railroad Company when it rebuilds the platform at the station will improve on the old sheds. It will be remembered that on Sunday March 10, over one hundred feet of this structure was consumed by fire, originating, it is supposed, from sparks from a passing locomotive.

The New York Evening Post says that "William H. Taft the Administration's travelling ambassador, has packed his trunk for another excursion to the non-contiguous territories. Of the chosen and appointed tasks of the secretary of war this is the one that he does best. Next Saturday he will start from Washington, sailing from Charleston on Sunday in a man-of-war for a visit to the Canal Zone, Cuba, and Porto Rico. This trip will occupy a full month. From the time of his return until the end of the summer he will be filling domestic engagements which the President will in all probability make for him."

The temperance societies of France are making a rigorous fight against absinthe, which is depicted as a hydra or minotaur devouring the nation's population. It is said by some, not as a criticism of this movements, that more cheap cognac or rum or Calvados or other fiery decoctions are consumed than the terrible absinthe. The present movement though strictly against absinthe and that only.

RAILROAD OFFICERS RESIGN.

President Pierce of The Western Maryland Succeeded by B. F. Bush.

Mr. Winslow S. Pierce, president of the Western Maryland Railroad and vice-president of Fairfax S. Landstreet resigned their positions. Mr. B. F. Bush will assume the office of president and general manager. Mr. Bush has been connected with the Gould system in the West for many years, living in St. Louis, and his advancement to the presidency of the Western Maryland may presage a closer relation between Gould's Eastern and Western lines. As an expert railroad man, his new appointment is little known, his business has been in connection with the coal traffic.

MULE CAUSES WAR.

CENTRAL AMERICAN REPUBLICS AT WAR.

Controversy Over The Theft of Maud in Honduras Make Nicaragua Kick Over The Tracks.

A mule belonging to Senor Ireneo Salgado, an influential live stock owner of Honduras, so charmed thirty-five Nicaraguan cavalymen with its winsome beauty that they forgot themselves to the extent of leaving their own country, and fled the hybrid beauty from the sacred soil of Honduras.

Senor Salgado, angered beyond endurance, ran across the fields of cactus and told the Honduran Minister, Senor Cuella, a warm protest was addressed to Senor Gamez, the Nicaraguan Minister, on January 26.

Nicaragua replied that it was true that Colonel Juan I. Rocha took a mule near Las Manos, but reiterated that the animal was not taken in Honduran territory. Despatches grew longer as the controversy waxed warmer. Then the arbitration tribunal was opened; President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, withdrew his member of the Board of Arbitration and war between Honduras and Nicaragua actually began.

It is rumored that Maude, or whatever her name was, has slipped down into Costa Rica and when last seen was headed for Panama.

NEWS FROM FREDERICK

Abridged Items From The County Seat Of General Interest To The Public.

After five weeks of litigation in the Orphans' Court of Frederick county, instituted by rival applicants for letters of administration, the Court decided to grant the administration to Mrs. Catharine Dertzbau, the only living aunt of the deceased and dismissed the application of Miss Catharine E. Bentz, a cousin of the dead brother and sister.

Counsel for Miss Catharine E. Bentz, whose petition for administration was dismissed, stated that the case will be taken to the Court of Appeals. Which ever way the case is finally settled another lawsuit is likely to follow over the distribution of the proceeds. In the meantime the court has charge of the estate and its final disposition is watched with interest in Frederick.

A surprise has been created in Frederick Democratic circles by a rumor that Mr. John E. Schell, President of the Board of Aldermen, has been slated over the incumbent, Prof. Geo. Edward Smith, for Mayor, and that a change of three new members will occur in the make-up of the aldermanic ticket.

Until the last few days Professor Smith has been the only avowed candidate for Mayor in the field. He has served two terms in office and has been regarded as the next nominee without opposition.

On the Republican side the only aspirant for Mayor is Milton A. Woodward, and the nominations for aldermen go begging.

Mr. Orlando Johnson, an architect of Toledo, Ohio, has been invited by the Frederick aldermen to prepare plans for the remodeling of the City Opera House. Recently the aldermen decided to spend $18,000 in improving the building.

A case of too much mother-in-law came to head last week when J. Newton Maynard entered suit against his mother-in-law, R. Jennie Griffith, asking $5,000 damages for the alienation of the affections of his wife, Jennie R. Maynard. The latter but recently filed a bill for a divorce. Mrs. Griffith has been making her home with her daughter and the latter's husband.

Charles J. Rensburg has been granted a patent on a live-fire holder.

The Brunswick and Middletown Railroad Company recently organized at Brunswick to construct a trolley line from Brunswick to Middletown by way of Petersburg, has a corps of engineers making a preliminary survey of the road.

MAKES THOROUGH PREPARATION

Believing End Was Near, Man Buys Coffin And Tombstone And Awaits Death.

A dispatch to the Washington Herald says:—Jerome Wilkins died and was buried last week at New York, near here, (Lander, Wm.).

Despite the fact that he was in his usual good health, Wilkins predicted last fall that he would die in March, and set about preparing for his death and burial. He made a pine coffin with his own hands, lining it with cheap cloth, and carving his name on the lid.

He ordered a tombstone and wrote out the inscription to be chiseled upon it. He made out a list of the names of the men whom he desired to serve as pallbearers at his funeral, and finally on 1st of March, he went out with his own hands dug the grave in which his body was to be buried.

Then he waited for the end. He was stricken with an attack of pneumonia, contracted when he was digging his grave, and died within a few days.

Although Senators Foraker and Dick and eleven members of the Ohio House of Representatives endorsed Judge Adams for the United States Judge of the Southern district of Ohio, President Roosevelt defied the whole Ohio machine and appointed John G. Sater for the position. There are many threats in the air against the President for the appointment.

The business men and residents of Blue Ridge Summit have set on foot a movement toward the establishment of a bank. It has been agreed that the bank shall be capitalized at $25,000, and the leading citizens of that vicinity have already signified their willingness to subscribe to the stock. The leader in the movement is W. L. Maurer.

FOR FARMERS.

An Investigation in the Interest of Farmers.

THE HARVESTER TRUST

Since Congress Ordered the Inquiry into the International Harvester Company much Interesting Information Has Been Revealed.

The Department of Commerce and Labor has begun its investigation of the Harvester Trust, authorized by Congress last December. It is alleged that the Trust, which does business under the name of the International Harvester Company, has skilled competition. Since Congress passed the resolution directing that an investigation be made, dealers in farm machinery have written to the Department of Commerce and Labor giving their experience. For obvious reasons the department does not make public the names of the writers. One of the most interesting letters received is from a dealer in Elkhart, Ind., who reveals a good deal of interesting information.

"I am one of thousands who are beginning to feel the iron grip and brutish business methods of that Trust," he writes, "and it will be but a very short time until individual enterprise will be destroyed. Our business brings us into close contact with our great farming interests, and we are beginning to feel the blighting effects of it. A life time devoted to the building up of a prosperous business, with hard work, will count for nothing when it comes to compete with a great Trust, destroying all healthy competition."

"I have been told that at this point an agent ordered some time from one of the Trust's competitors, and as a result his contract with the Trust was cancelled. The agent was compelled to get the machinery, for which he had already taken orders, from other local dealers, paying a premium and higher freight rate. We can buy machinery at the supply houses 25 per cent. cheaper than we can of home dealers. There is no local competition. Dealers all have the same price, and it is evident that there is a combination to control prices. Prices of machinery have advanced about 20 per cent. since the Trust began business. Bins you could buy for $85 and $95 before the Trust was formed we are now compelled to pay $125 to $130 for."

Another man writes: "The Harvester Trust is in the shape of two corporations. The 'International Harvester Company' and 'The International Harvester Company of America' is the other. This similarity of names has served to confuse the farmers, the trade, the county attorneys, legislators, attorneys-general, courts, tax assessors, secretaries of state, newspapers, and nearly everybody that tackles the subject. The 'International Harvester Company' is a New Jersey corporation formed in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., in August, 1902, on plans and specifications laid down by George W. Perkins. Only recently the newspapers published that J. P. Morgan & Co., were busy with a scheme for the reorganization of the Harvester Trust. The Harvester Trust is not, as many people believe, the work of those former capitalists of industry, the McCormicks and Deering's, whose names have been used to fool the public."

"The 'International Harvester Company of America' is a Wisconsin corporation, organized a few years ago, the GRACEHAM.

Passion Week Services And Love Feast In The Moravian Church.—Unmistakable Signs Of Spring.

The Moravian congregation in this place will celebrate Passion week with their usual impressive services and ceremonies beginning on Sunday evening and continuing throughout the week. On Good Friday morning at 10 o'clock the annual Love Feast and communion services will be held. The early Easter morning exercises of worship, held in the Church, will be concluded in the cemetery if the weather permits. In the evening of Easter Sunday the Junior Christian Endeavor Society and the Sunday School will hold their exercises. The advent of the birds, which by the way is two or three weeks later than in the past two years, and the various removals all point with a certainty to Spring. Here are some of the removals in the vicinity:

Mr. Samuel Boller, who recently sold his nice house to Mr. William D. Morrison, will move to Hagerstown, Md.

Mrs. Jennie C. Martin and daughter will move to Thurmont.

Mr. J. Mack Shoemaker will go to Emmitsburg.

It will be a pleasure to welcome the newcomers to this town, but the good citizens and friends who by their removal we lose are a source of regret.

A "Kaffie Klatch" held a week ago at the home of Miss Oerter by the Junior Christian Endeavor Society gave a social evening to a goodly number of their friends, and also added quite a sum to their "Talent" fund.

Miss Emma Devilbiss, of Detour, was the guest of Miss Martin.

Grace Eby, who spent a few days with Mrs. William Six, has gone to her home in Carroll county.

Letter to E. L. Annan. Emmitsburg, Md.

Dear Sir: No man is in a position to influence men with regard to their property more than you in that little room where they tell you their troubles. Pity, if you don't know how to keep a house dry and sound, any sort of structure, house store factory warehouse shop barn fence—any sort of fence, except rail; with paint.

What paint? The paint that takes least gallons; for paint costs money, and putting it on costs twice as much as the paint.

That is short; but that's all; it includes the rest. One paint wears long, another wears short; but the one that wears long is the least gallons paint; least gallons means pure and strong, and most-gallons means adulterated and weak, besides small gallons.

Paint is one of the biggest interests in the United States; not the business of making it; no, the business of paint, taking care of property. Paint is worth a great deal more than it costs, and the best costs least: Devote.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

LIVE CAPITAL TOPICS.

Weekly Letter From Our Regular Correspondent.

There is much gossip and speculation about the proposed conference of the President and the railroad magnates and all sorts of rumors are afloat. According to the most reliable railroad road presidents are by no means unanimous in what they believe they should demand of the President and there are doubtless many cross purposes at work. The President has the advantage of the railroad men in that when he speaks he will be speaking for but one mind while any one who attempts to voice the wishes of the railroads will be pretty sure to offend some of them. As an evidence of the lack of unanimity in the railroads the action of President McCrea of the Pennsylvania, who refuses to come unless personally invited by the President is cited. President Mellen of the New York and New Haven and President Newman of the New York Central have already said they would come to Washington for the conference. At the White House it is said that the President will not send any invitations and that he is going steadily ahead with his railroad policy. Besides indicating that he is "standing pat" in his present policy, he is openly advocating more and stricter legislation affecting the roads. He made clear last week that he had never been more in earnest than he is now, in advocating the regulation of the capitalization and assessment of the actual value of railroad property.

The narrowly averted panic in stocks in New York has not intimidated the President. It is presumed that he shares with others the belief that it was more stock juggling such as Mr. Harriman disclosed in his testimony before the Interstate Commerce Commission, but Mr. Roosevelt is shrewd enough to see that such a manipulation of values cannot be used long to deceive the people. The public has firm faith in the administration and it will take more than one panic to convince it that the laws which were recently enacted by Congress can react to the destruction of the nation's prosperity.

Secretary Cortelyou, who came to the head of the Treasury department with probably as little financial experience as any man who ever took the place, is having plenty of high finance on his hands these days. Problems that would have kept Secretary Shaw up late figuring have come up for solution by Mr. Cortelyou. Twice within two days he had to come to the relief of the money market and what the effect of such prompt assistance will be, and whether it will encourage the railroads to bring about a few more such panics as that which occurred on Wall street this week remains to be seen. The Secretary kept in close touch with the money market in New York and when he saw that the bottom of things was falling out he loosened up to the amount of $80,000,000. The Administration is suspicious of the tremendous drop in stocks is due to the machinations of the railroads who are eager to give the impression that the Government is responsible for such panic and uncertain conditions in the money market because of the drastic legislation against railroads and corporations which it has favored. But notwithstanding this and in order that legitimate interests might not suffer, the unloading of this vast fund was made.

Secretary Taft's boom for the Presidency has been seriously discussed in Washington this week, a new interest having been added by the presence of the Secretary's brother and his interview with the President. It is generally believed that the President's favorite for a successor is Mr. Taft and he is supposed to have said to Mr. Charles P. Taft, who has assumed a quasi-leadership of the genial Secretary's campaign. Owing to the relationship it is obvious that he cannot exploit the movement with the same energy as an outsider. Nevertheless the indications are that actual preliminary work is under way and that a definite and concerted campaign has been begun.

Mr. Charles Taft, during his visit, conferred not only with the President but had conversations with Secretary Cortelyou and other influential men connected with the Administration. It is not believed that Secretary Taft will make an active campaign on his own behalf. It is said that in reality his preference is for the Supreme Bench. He is very popular here not only among the friends of the Administration but in Congress, irrespective of political leanings. Among the newspaper men he is a great favorite and all of the dining and invitations of the Vice-President and Mrs. Fairbanks have not done half in winning popularity among the newspaper people that the simple heartiness of the Secretary has, and the conclusion is unanimous among those who come near him that he is genial because he is brimful of geniality and not because he wants votes or advertising.

Apologies of presidential booms the Honorable Hoke Smith, of Georgia, and of course the Democratic has come out for Senator LaFollette for President. A year ago, or when Mr. LaFollette came to the Senate and the Senate had primed itself to "squelch" him such a proposition would have been the height of absurdity. Now it has a most reasonable sound. Mr. LaFollette instead of being "squelched" has already seen some of his opponents overthrown and some of his most radical policies adopted. He has grown in the respect of the Senate and the people and he is a person to be reckoned with whenever an important measure comes up. It would not be surprising if after another year in the Senate he should appear as a formidable figure at the National convention.

The Improved Frictionless 'Empire.'

You keep cows, you keep them for the results to be obtained, for the dollars you can make out of them. We make and sell Cream Separators for the same reason—dollars. You can buy a Cream Separator for less money, but you cannot buy any other Cream Separator as good as the Empire for any price.

Did you take the wrong road? Why not take the back track? We all make mistakes occasionally; the harm is in not correcting them. If you have a low-down machine, or $19.00 stuff, why not set it aside and

BUY AN EMPIRE?

If you have any of the standard Cream Separators that have served their usefulness, and have vibration from old age we will take them in part pay for an Empire.

SUNLIGHT AUTOMATIC FORCE FEED GAS MACHINE

LIGHT FOR ALL.

It Has Come To Stay. It Has No Equal.

SAFE, ECONOMICAL, BRILLIANT, HEALTHY.

Having made important improvements in our Gas Machine by the application of Force Feed and combining generator and gasometer in one, and simplifying many points of construction, and requiring small space to install; obviating all danger of excessive discharge of carbide into generator, making gas in excess of consumption. We now claim to have perfect Gas Machine, furnishing the most brilliant light ever produced, and are prepared to furnish the Improved Machine, guaranteed to be the most simple and efficient working Gas Machine on the market. We guarantee all machines as represented and put in on approval. All material of the best, put up in neat and substantial manner. All inquiries for prices or information in regard to installing machine will have prompt attention. Descriptive circulars on application. Rights for sale. Fully protected by patents.
