$90,000,000 AVAILABLE

All Banks To Take Out Additional Currency

EXPLANATION FROM TREASURY

Many Banks Have Government Bonds On Deposit.—Mr. Ridgely's Method Would Make $20,000,000 Of Circulating Notes Immediately Available.

An optimistic view of the financial situation is held by the United States Treasury Department. The worst of the flurry that disturbed conditions so noticeably in New York is over and there is nothing in sight to cause any apprehension. Plans are being formulated by the Secretary of the Treasury to relieve the money stringency, not only in New York, but at other points. The Comptroller of the Currency Ridgely has given the following statement.

"The Comptroller's office will in every proper way facilitate the immediate increase of national bank-note circulation. With this end in view, all such national banks as have government bonds in the hands of the Treasurer of the United States to secure deposits, and also have any available capacity for increased circulation, will be allowed to substitute other bonds satisfactory to the Secretary of the Treasury, as a basis for government deposits, provided the government bonds thus released are used to increase circulation.

"This rule will apply not only where the bank transferring the bonds from the deposit account to the circulation account takes out the additional circulating notes, but also where an arrangement can be made for any other national bank having capacity for increased circulation, to take out the additional notes.

"National banks are urged to take this question up immediately with the department, by telegraph, and take out the additional circulation as rapidly as possible. The Comptroller's office will be glad to furnish whatever information is needed in regard to circulation printed and on hand, and bonds available for this purpose."

Treasury officials say the volume of increased bank circulation which will result from this plan will depend upon the action of the bankers. There is no doubt that a number of bankers will avail themselves of the privilege of substituting minor securities for the government bonds which are now used as the basis of deposits, but the responses will depend, to large extent, probably, upon the needs for more currency in particular localities. The plan for the substitution of bonds is not a new one. It was introduced under the administration of Secretary Shaw.

As explained at the Treasury Department, there are many banks that have less than the maximum of circulation outstanding. Many such banks have government bonds on deposit to secure government deposits. It is stated that if the banks which could take advantage of the method proposed by Mr. Ridgely should do so, about $20,000,000 of circulating notes would become almost immediately available, as the notes are printed and in the hands of the Comptroller's office.

According to Treasury officials, more than $9,000,000 in government bonds are in the hands of the Treasury officials to secure deposits, and it would be possible to expand the currency of the nation through the national banks to an amount approximating $300,000,000 before the limit of the capital stock of the banks would be reached.

FOREST FAMINE PREDICTED.

Mr. Pinchot, the Government forester, who has just returned from a six-month's inspection trip, on which he travelled 10,000 miles, sounds a warning against the extravagant use of our timber. He says—

"In twenty years the timber supply in the United States, on Government reserves and private holdings, at the present rate of cutting will be exhausted, although it is possible that [the growth of that period might extend the arrival of the famine another five years."

POLITICAL SEPARATION

What Is It That Divides The Two Great Parties

THE NEXT CAMPAIGN TO BE HOT

Which Platform Is The More Radical And Which Candidate Will Catch The Octopus Are Questions For Voters Next Year.

Is the dissolution of the two great political parties, that has been so confidently predicted ever since the close of the Spanish war, at hand? There are only two figures on the stage, and serious dispute between them is not as wide as a church door. Thousands of folks do not discover any difference at all as to any question at all paramount.

The New York World lately asked: "What is a Democrat?" and got a score of answers, no two alike and all precisely accurate, and we would see the same thing if the World should be curious to ask: "What is a Republican?"

In Massachusetts a Republican is a tariff revisionist; in Pennsylvania he is a standpatter. Everywhere he is a free trader as to the merchandise he must buy, and a radical protectionist as to that he has to sell, for your Republican, like your Democrat, is nothing but a member of the human family.

Last year the Democrats of New York entered upon a copartnership with William R. Hearst and the Independence League, and tens of thousands of Democrats bolted the head of the ticket. This year the Republicans of New York are in partnership with Mr. Hearst and the Independence League, and many thousands of Republicans proclaim themselves bolters.

In the campaign of 1908 the only matter that will be debated will be which platform is the more radical and which candidate the surest to catch the octopus. We know whom the Democrats will nominate and we can easily guess what the Democratic platform will declare. We know what the Republican platform will be, and it is tolerably well understood whom the Republican nominee will be.

We may be pretty well assured that it will be the hottest campaign since 1896. For twenty weeks the country will be in voiceful agony and the morning after election many millions of astonished people will eat breakfast and go to work.—Exchange.

PROBITY OF THE PRESS

Its Integrity Illustrated In New York Crisis

TEMPTATION RARELY YIELDED TO

The Threatened Peace Of New York City Preserved By The Press.—The Real Power Of A Newspaper Apparent In Times Of Need.

The following is taken from the columns of the Editor and Publisher:

The power of the press is never so thoroughly appreciated as it is in such a crisis as the one we have just passed through. When the current of affairs runs along quietly and peacefully we give little thought to its influence, but let the state or nation face a financial or industrial revolution, let there be an upheaval of labor, or let some great disaster occur—the destruction of a city by fire or earthquake—then the real power of the newspapers becomes apparent.

During the panic of last week the intemperate utterances of two metropolitan dailies of large circulation might easily have brought about runs on every savings bank in New York and have created a state of affairs on the East Side that would have threatened the peace and safety of the city.

To the conservatism of the public press at this time the entire Wall Street contingent owes a debt of gratitude that it can never repay.

It is a matter of great satisfaction to every journalist to know that the mighty power wielded by members of the craft is rarely ever misused. Those who conduct the daily and weekly newspapers of this country are, almost without exception, men of high ideals and purposes. Although they are in a position to make money dishonestly and can ruin those who oppose them in a dozen different ways, they rarely ever yield to the temptation to do so. Every editor regards the position he holds in the community as a sacred trust that he must not abuse under any circumstances.

JUDGE AUSTIN L. CROTHERS, OF CECIL COUNTY, THE NEXT GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND.

The next governor of Maryland will be Judge Austin L. Crothers, who last Tuesday defeated his Republican opponent by some 8000 votes. In Baltimore alone, Gaither's home city, Crothers' plurality was about 4000. The legislature will be Democratic and John Walter Smith, who won in the Democratic Senatorial primary over Talbott and Warfield, will be elected to represent Maryland in the United States Senate.

Along with Judge Crothers there were elected on the Democratic ticket Dr. Joshua W. Hering, of Westminster, for state comptroller; Isaac Lobe Straus, of Baltimore, for attorney-general; Caleb C. Magruder, of Prince George's county, for clerk of court of appeals. Mr. Straus defeat Mr. Hammond Urner in the city of Baltimore by 5,885 votes.

The results in Frederick county were extremely gratifying to the Republicans. The official record of the vote is as follows:

PLANTS AS WORKERS

Economic Study Of Use To Agriculturalists

A Study of Vegetable Life From a New Standpoint.—What They Use and What They Produce in Dollars and Cents Per Acre.

Professor Strakosch, an eminent scientist of Vienna, has recently been making a study of plants from a new point of view. He has considered them as if they were so many hirelings of the farm, ascertaining by a series of painstaking experiments just how much each one costs for its keep, as it were, and how much it produces. The object in each case has been to find out how great a quantity of digestible food material the plant under examination yields to the acre, and how much in value it takes from soil in order to accomplish the result.

It would appear from the figures summarizing results obtained by Professor Strakosch that the most efficient of all economic plants is the Jerusalem artichoke. The beet comes next, with an output of 6,384 pounds of digestible substance to the acre, taking $41 worth of material out of the soil, and yielding a clear balance of $112. Third in order is corn, which produces 4,562 pounds of digestible substances, consuming $17 worth of material, and giving a balance on the credit side of $108 for the acre.

These, then, are the three most efficient economic plants—the best workers for man, that is to say. The potato is fourth on the list. Taking $4 worth of material out of the soil for each acre planted, it yields 4,449 pounds of digestible substances (nearly all starch), and shows a balance of $72 on the credit side. Peas produce 1,864 pounds, drawing on the bank to the extent of $2 and give the farmer a clear $40 to the acre. Rye affords an output of 1,824 pounds of nutrients, at a cost of $10 to the soil and furnishes a profit of $26. A crop of crimson clover withdraws from the land hardly more than one-twentieth of the quantity of valuable material consumed by timothy. The greatest of all producers of [digestible albuminoids (which go to make muscle and blood) is the soy bean. But ordinary beans and peas are so rich in such substances, as well as in starch, as to yield more nourishment, pound for pound, than lean beefsteak.

Montgomery County Gives Both Land And Money

ISSUE $150,000 WORTH OF BONDS

Much Interest Manifested in the Projected Line.—Work to Be Pushed Rapidly.—Neighboring County Enthusiastic.

Montgomery County property owners to the number of about 100, attended a meeting at Poolesville in the interest of the movement to extend the Washington, Frederick and Gettysburg Railway from Frederick to connect with the Great Falls and Old Dominion Line into Washington. They pledged their support to the project. Twenty owners of land along the proposed route of the railway signed agreement to donate rights of way, and $400 was subscribed toward the cost of the preliminary survey.

It was arranged to have the survey made under the supervision of General Manager King, and it is expected to have it started at Frederick within ten days. It will run via Buckeystown, Park Mills, Dickerson, Poolesville, and Seneca, crossing the Potomac at Great Falls to connect with the Old Dominion Line. The Washington, Frederick and Gettysburg Railway, which this week disposed of a $150,000 bond issue, is now building a line from Frederick to Thurmont, where it will connect with the Western Maryland Railroad.

The issue of $150,000 worth of bonds for this road has been sold to a syndicate composed of well-known business and professional men of Frederick. With the sale was given $50,000 worth of the capital stock of the company as a bonus. Under the terms of the sale the syndicate must hold both the bonds and stock for at least two years, within which time the company will have the privilege of redeeming the bonds with the stock. If the bonds are not redeemed within two years the stock will become the property of the purchasers.

WORLD AND SIN

Gen. Booth Asked Three Questions

MEN TURNED FROM GOD

World Grows Worse and Christianity Weaker.

MEN ARE WORSE THAN WOMEN.

Head of the Salvation Army Gives Startling Answers to Vital Questions.—Dr. Booth is the Most Experienced Fighter of Sin in the World.

To the three questions given below Gen. William Booth, L. L. D., Commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army gave in part the following answers:

"Is the world growing better from a religious standpoint?" General Booth was asked. He answered:

"If you mean the ceremonial religions, I am inclined to say from what I hear that the answer is: No. I meet with people every who sorrowfully admit that it is becoming increasingly difficult to maintain the true spirit of a prayer meeting and keep up its attendance.

"As to my observation of the true religion—the religion of love, loving God and loving man—I am convinced that it is growing weaker. The Christianity of Christ produces the highest type of brotherhood and if that test, instead of statistics regarding attendance, income and expenditure, is applied to the individual lives of people who profess the name of Christ, I am afraid the result will be disappointing."

His answer to a query as to the growth of Christianity in this country in the last five years was—"Materially and educationally I see an improvement. Money is more evenly distributed, the masses have more comforts and luxuries and facilities for social intercourse, travel, recreation and mental enjoyment. The very land seems to breathe prosperity, but wickedness seems to flourish with increasing vigor.

"As to whether the people individually are more Godly than at the time of my previous visit I question very seriously. It appears to me that they have been so busy instituting means for the betterment of their material welfare that they have forgotten to seek a way to a clearer, fuller realization of God.

"I am afraid that nineteen out of every twenty who are adding to their material and mental acquisitions to-day are no nearer Heaven by it all. It is a lamentable admission to have to make, but who will dispute it? Besides getting wealth the people should try to get the knowledge of how to use it in a Godly way."

The third question, "Which are the greatest sinners, men or women?" was answered in this way—

"Looking at the world as a whole," he said, "men are the greatest sinners. Behind the sins of women we generally find a man. It is true that drinking and other forms of vice seem to be increasing among the feminine class, but we can trace the example to man.

"Man has the control of everything and he very largely makes woman what she is, either as father, husband or a lover. When woman is led into a life of sin man is the cause of it. And the fault for their staying in that life of sin is directly to be placed at his door also."

The country's chief need to-day is to encourage investment and discourage gambling.—Philadelphia North American.

A scientist declares that blonds will soon disappear—which may or may not be connected with the rise in the price of peroxide of hydrogen.—Washington Herald.

BEEES DO NOT INJURE FRUIT.

At the annual meeting of the National Bee Keepers' Association at Harrisburg, Pa., Dr. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist of Pennsylvania, read a paper upon "Bees and Horticulture." Dr. Surface demonstrated that bees do not injure fruit and this contention was sustained by the discussion which followed. This is against the prevalent belief that fruits are injured sometimes very seriously by bees.

Royal Fowler, formerly of Carroll county, was electrocuted at Columbus, Ohio, last Friday, for the murder of a girl named Mamie Hagerty. Fowler was a native of Westminster. Early in his career his mother deserted her husband and taking the boy with her, went to Dayton, Ohio, where she now lives and is known as Mrs. Arnold.

The nominating committee of the Maryland Society of New York will vote for the following officers next December: J. Nevitt Steele, president; Philip A. S. Franklin, James T. Woodward, Jennings S. Cox, Elijah P. Smith and R. D. Lankford, vice-presidents; J. Lynch Pendergast, treasurer; and Luther L. Gadd, recording secretary.

Running away, at ninety miles an hour, beyond control of its crew, an extra west-bound freight on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crashed down a steep incline into another train, killing two and probably three men, wounding another, and piling the tracks with wreckage. The accident occurred on what is known as Cranberry grade, near McMillan, seventy miles east of Cumberland, about 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

A prominent Montgomery county paper in the notice, it gave the meeting held at Seneca in connection with the proposed Washington, Frederick and Gettysburg Railroad, headed the article "Wabash Railroad Coming Through Montgomery County by Way of Frederick."

The county commissioners of Baltimore county agreed upon $125 a mile as the rate which must be paid by the water companies for the franchise which they ask for laying mains in the beds of public roads.

The postoffice at Mountain Lake Park, Garrett county, which was located in a new building erected last Spring by the Park Association at a cost of $4,000, was burned.

The Cumberland City Council passed an ordinance providing for the drafting of a bill for a new charter for the city of Cumberland, which the next Legislature will be asked to authorize. Many radical changes will be sought, as the present charter is in many ways antiquated and does not now cover the needs of the city.

Baltimore City will have the usual 21 Democrats and seven Republicans in the next Legislature.

With the results of the election known the following published on Monday may be of interest; Chairman Vandiver of the Democratic State Committee claims the election of Judge Crothers for the governor-to-morrow by at least 12,000 majority and of the rest of the Democratic State ticket and a majority of the members of the Legislature. Chairman Parran of the Republican State committee is equally assertive in his claims that the Republicans will elect Gaither for governor by from 8000 to 13,000 majority.

Rev. George Augustus Nixdorf, after an illness of several years, died at his home in Frederick on Tuesday at the age of eighty-four years. Rev. Mr. Nixdorf was a native of Frederick and the oldest minister in the Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church. For the last six years he has been blind and extremely feeble and his end was a relief from years of patient suffering. His early education was received at Frederick College and at Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg. He graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary in 1846.

The body of Engineer Martin J. Folon, who, with two other trainmen, was killed in the runaway of the Baltimore and Ohio freight train on the Cranberry grade Sunday morning last, is still missing. The wreckage has been cleared away and no trace of the body has been found.

Letter to Vincent Sebold.
Emmitsburg, Md.

Dear Sir: We should like to print your opinion of this guarantee in this paper, where all your neighbors will see it:

We'll furnish the paint to paint half the house of any fair man on these terms: He shall paint the other half with whatever other paint he likes; same painter (any fair man) same way (the way of all fair painters, to make a good job). If our half doesn't take less gallons of paint by one tenth to seven-tenths, we'll give him the paint. If our half doesn't take less labor by one-tenth to seven-tenths, we'll give him the paint. If our half isn't sounder three years hence, we'll give him the paint. If our half isn't sounder six years hence, we'll give him the paint. Any color.

We say one-tenth, because there are two or three points with about that difference; we say seven-tenths—there are dozens of points with about that difference—we say one to seven, because there's a hundred that waste one-third of the money paid for both paint and labor.

Is there a paint we haven't covered?
Yours truly

Beating The Bryans.

By LESTER CORNING.

Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

"That woman is back again," snapped Mrs. Paulding. Her son smiled. "That" woman could be none other than Mrs. Bryan, the only person in Glendale who dared challenge Mrs. Paulding's pretensions to social leadership.

"They got in last night," said Fred mildly. "They had three weeks at the shore, two weeks in the mountains and a month in New York. They brought back a lot of things from there."

"And where did you get all this information?" demanded Mrs. Paulding in icy tones.

"Nancy," said Fred promptly. "I met her down at the postoffice and walked part of the way home with her."

"I wish you would remember that I do not like to have you speak to that loud person," said Mrs. Paulding fretfully. "Mrs. Beeman had the audacity to ask at the sewing circle the other afternoon if you were engaged to Nancy."

"There doesn't seem to be a chance for such luck," said Fred gloomily as he rose from the table. "Every time I ask her she reminds me how our respective mothers-in-law would love us."

"Every time?" echoed his astonished mother. "May I ask how many times you have lowered your dignity by proposing to that impudent girl?"

"About a hundred," was the easy response. "One of these days I'll catch her off her guard and she'll say 'Yes.'"

"I hope I may never live to see the day," said his mother dolefully.

"I hope you do," he said, with a laugh, as he bent and kissed the tightly compressed lips. "You'd like her, mumsy, if you didn't hate her mother so."

Fred slipped out of the room, and his mother could hear the rumble of his laughter as he crossed the broad hall. For a time she sat with compressed lips as she pondered the situation. Until two years before she had queened it over the Glendale set both by virtue of her husband's business and political importance and because of her own skill as an entertainer. Then the new pulp mill had been started at the upper dam, and Renfrew Bryan had brought his family to live in Glendale.

From the first the two women had crossed swords. Mrs. Bryan, who had humbly followed other leaders in the city, now asserted her right to the title in the small town, and by the brilliancy of her entertainments she had very nearly wrested social supremacy from her established rival before Mrs. Paulding had realized what was going on.

Her own entertainments became more ambitious, and for the last year the advantage had lain first with one and then the other. To have Fred fall a victim to Nancy Bryan was the worst blow she had sustained, and had she known that Nancy's mother was as furious as she at the turn affairs had taken she would have derived small comfort from that fact. In blissful ignorance of Mrs. Bryan's state of mind, she elected to believe it a move of that designing woman.

To add to the discomfort of the situation, she heard during the day that Mrs. Bryan was to celebrate her return by a garden party of unusual pretentiousness.

A number of her city friends were to make up a house party, and there was to be dancing on the lawn to the music of an orchestra famous throughout the state.

In her calmer moments Mrs. Paulding would have waited for revenge, but Fred's admission of his love angered her so that she lost her usual caution and announced a party for the same afternoon and evening. She engaged a brass band for the promenade music and arranged for a troupe of Arabian acrobats to perform on the lawn.

Glendale society was shaken to its foundations, and as each move was communicated to the other contestant through the medium of officious friends some new feature was added as an offset until it seemed that nothing short of the engagement of a circus could definitely settle the honors.

It was in this frame of mind that Mrs. Paulding approached her son.

"You know that automobile you wanted," she began at the breakfast table. "I'll get it for you if you can devise some feature that Mrs. Bryan cannot possibly get for her party. That woman has copied every idea I have originated so far."

"Do you give me carte blanche?" he demanded.

"Spend as much as you like," she murmured.

"And you won't ask what it is until I spring it?" he stipulated.

"I promise," she said. "I may rely upon you, Fred?"

"For the sensation of the season," he assured, "take heart of grace, mother mine. I am planning to shake Glendale to its very foundations."

Much relieved, Mrs. Paulding hurried to confide to her dearest friends that she would have a sensation that could not be equalled. This in due course was communicated to Mrs. Bryan, who worried much; but, since Mrs. Paulding did not herself know the nature of the surprise, she could not betray Fred's plans.

The day of the "double header," as Paulding irreverently referred to it, dawned bright and beautiful, and by 2 o'clock the festivities were under way. There were circus performances on both lawns, and honors seemed fairly even. Mrs. Paulding went about with a smile of confidence upon her face and with skillful references to her surprise kept curiosity up to pitch. The afternoon passed without the appearance of the surprise, and the dusk had gathered before Fred disappeared, and word was passed that he had gone to engineer the great event. An hour later the Paulding butler sought his mistress, and she vanished into the house. She found Fred in the library, and with him was Nancy Bryan.

"I want to introduce you to the sensation," said Fred, with a laugh, as he led the girl forward. "Nancy and I were married half an hour ago."

"And this is your surprise?" she gasped.

"Could you have a greater one?" he asked. "Every one knows of the rivalry between you and Mrs. Bryan. If you turn your party into a wedding reception you'll beat Mrs. Bryan to a standstill. You've been bragging about your surprise. You pretend you knew it was coming all along, and the laugh is on Mrs. Bryan."

For a moment Mrs. Paulding hesitated. In some ways it was a bitter pill to swallow; but, as Fred had shown her, it was necessary to make the best of the situation. She stepped forward and took the bright faced girl in her arms.

"My dear," she said sincerely, "I am very glad to welcome my son's wife to her new home. Let us go out on the lawn. I will introduce you to my friends."

She turned toward the door, but paused as down the street there came the sound of a marching band.

"What is that?" she asked—"more of the surprise?"

Paulding nodded his head. "It's the people from the Bryans coming to congratulate the bride!" he exclaimed.

"Mr. Bryan was with us, but went home to tell his wife and invite the crowd over here. You have swallowed up Mrs. Bryan's party with your counter attractions. I guess I've kept my promise, haven't I?"

Mrs. Paulding patted the curly head. "You have kept your promise," she agreed. "You have shaken us all to our very foundations." Then, putting on her best smile, she led the way to the piazza to meet Mrs. Bryan at the head of her guests.

A Nice Calculation.

A Flemish gentleman conceived the idea that he would only live a certain time, so he made a nice calculation of his fortune, which he so apportioned as to last just the same period as he guessed his life would extend to. Strangely enough, his calculations came correct to the letter, for he died punctually at the time he had previously reckoned. He had so far exhausted his estate that after his debts had been discharged a solitary pair of slippers represented the entire property he left. His relatives buried him, and a representation of the slippers was carved on the tomb. Today in a churchyard at Amsterdam his grave may be seen, the only inscription on the stone being two Flemish words, "Effen Nyt" (i. e., "Exactly").

Polishing Glassware.

You have heard of many valuable ways to clean glassware and give to the pieces a desirable brilliancy, yet here is a method which is a "secret" and certain to give the best results. Wash the glass pieces and drain until dry, then coat each piece with a mixture of half water and ammonia. When dry brush the pieces with a soft bristle brush. Be sure and use only the bristle brush or the polish will not appear. This is excellent for glassware of any kind and makes old pieces look like new.

Tongue Tied Talkers.

How many educated people there are who have no more than a peasant's vocabulary. They do not use the words that a peasant uses, but they do not improve upon them. They still go on saying, "How amusing!" "How lovely!" "How nice!" to the end of the chapter. Nobody can be interesting who is always working a limited vocabulary.—British Weekly.

The doctors have finally agreed upon the cause of Markley's illness. "Ah, they had another consultation?" "No. Postmortem."—Exchange.

It was first intended to transfer the entire force at Hagerstown, but when an agent made a canvass for homes he was unable to secure but a few and it was necessary to retain a portion of the shops at Union Bridge, including the car shops, tin shop and paint shop. Later these departments will be added to the new shops.

The President received the following communication from Senator Hansbrough: Fully 15,000,000 bushels of grain are now ready to be marketed in the two Dakotas and Minnesota and there is no money with which to do it. The necessities of the Northwest are therefore much greater than in any other section of the country, demanding the fullest consideration at the hands of the Treasury Department. Ten million dollars placed in Twin City banks would raise the embargo and start grain shipments to Europe. This would relieve the financial stress in the East much quicker than a deposit of Treasury funds in New York."

FRIDAY, NOV. 8, 1907.

THE vote of last Tuesday showed beyond a doubt that it was the will of the people of Maryland that the Democratic party should remain in power. Whether Mr. Gaither and Mr. Crothers, as candidates for the high office of governor of this commonwealth, were the most representative men in their respective organizations is a matter of opinion; but the fact remains that these gentlemen were duly nominated, and that coincidentally the platforms of their parties, with all the issues therein involved, were formally placed before their constituents, and appeals made for the usual "heartly support."

The campaign was an enthusiastic one, especially towards the last, and no stone was left unturned by either side in its effort to convince the voting population of the pre-eminent fitness of its particular standard bearer and the excellency of its own particular policies. The press took up the challenges and exploited this or that feature of a favored platform, and partisan newspapers, as usual, went beyond the bounds of journalistic ethics and, as we have said before, made misstatements and indulged in attacks on the characters of those candidates whose views did not accord with theirs. But all they said and did had little if any effect except perhaps to make a few scattered votes for their opponents and in the case of one Baltimore paper, to lessen what small amount of confidence the reading public heretofore placed in its opinions.

The battle is over, and what has taken place within the past few months will soon be only a memory; but what is yet to come must form a part of the history of this noble state. Grave responsibilities and important duties, far-reaching in their effect, await those who were successful, and let us assume that they will be squarely met and faithfully performed. Let us likewise assume that every promise made by the winning candidates before election and carrying with it provisions that will insure success and prosperity for Maryland and her people, will be kept to the very letter.

THE behavior of the people of Emmitsburg on election day ought to be an example to the citizens of many another district throughout the State. Nothing but good feeling prevailed, there was no evidence whatever of vote buying, and there was but a single case of over indulgence.

THE citizens of Emmitsburg have had an opportunity within the past week to see a practical demonstration of the Commissioners' progressive policy with regard to improvement of the town. Their work thus far with respect to everything they have touched has been of such a thorough and practical nature that it will be many a day before any part of it will have to be gone over by those who succeed them in office. The Square has been transformed from an unsightly spot, marred by undesirable cobblestones, into an imposing thoroughfare surfaced with lime stone of the best quality. It is the intention of the Commissioners to surface as much of Main street as the money available will permit, and then to continue the improvement only just so fast as the public spirited citizens contribute towards defraying the expense of laying that portion of the driveway immediately in front of their respective properties. A fund has been started for the purpose of carrying out the plans for civic improvement and the Commissioners already feel very much encouraged by the manner in which the people have responded, and as no one who has examined the work thus far completed could find a just excuse for refusing to add to this fund, it is expected that there will have to be no cessation of the Commissioners' labors until the streets of the entire town have been macadamized.

The people of the community, upon giving the matter a moment's thought, will readily see that this improvement can only be carried on by means of voluntary contributions, as the taxes levied for corporation expenses are totally inadequate to meet extraordinary demands, and when they realize that the Commissioners, under the present antiquated charter, are not empowered to borrow money, the practicability of the scheme will appeal to them at once. The present Board has proved to the people that it is composed of men who are for action, and all property owners in the corporation should show their appreciation of the efforts being put forth in their behalf by coming forward with substantial subscriptions in aid of a thoroughly good cause.

It is fair to surmise that not more than fifty of the one hundred and forty-four voters in Emmitsburg District who failed to cast their ballots were physically incapacitated. And if this be so it speaks rather badly for the citizenship of the remaining ninety-four.

WELL, the "word went down the line," as previously arranged, the "regulars" obeyed their "bosses" to the letter, and John Walter Smith carried the State against his valiant opponent Edwin Warfield. It had been the brag of the organization that Governor Warfield's popularity existed entirely with those districts that were overwhelmingly Republican, but the returns indicated that Mr. Warfield had many of his staunchest supporters right in the midst of Democratic strongholds. Outside of the organization's opposition, (based solely upon the Governor's rejection of a measure which he believed to be manifestly unfair to the people) whatever hostility Mr. Warfield met with came from those to whom the candidate had not shown personal favors in times past, or from sub-leaders of disgruntled factions.

MR. GAITHER accepted his defeat like a man. There were no "ifs" and "ands" in the statement he made just after receiving the news of his defeat. "The returns show that the people have chosen Judge Crothers for Governor, and with their verdict I am content." This is what Mr. Gaither remarked when it was all over, and the sentiment was that of a true sportsman.

THE large majority given to Mr. J. Stewart Annan by his home district was a genuine compliment to a very popular candidate. As a County Commissioner Mr. Annan will be a success, and his friends, among whom THE CHRONICLE claims a place, will have no occasion to regret the support they extended to him all through the campaign. This end of Frederick County needs just such a progressive man as Mr. Annan to take care of its interests and Emmitsburg district, in particular, needs a home man, acquainted with home people and thoroughly familiar with local conditions, to obtain for it that recognition to which it is entitled. Mr. Annan has been accorded a decided honor and THE CHRONICLE heartily congratulates the County and the new Commissioner, and wishes him unbounded success in his new role.

MORE activity was displayed last week in the furtherance of the trolley project. Another meeting was held in Montgomery County where arrangements were made to carry on the survey of the Washington, Frederick and Gettysburg Railroad with a view to entering the Capital by way of the Great Falls and Old Dominion Line. The placing of $150,000 worth of bonds and the continued alertness of the promoters of this road indicate that everything is being done to speedily complete the line according to the arrangement originally determined upon.

THE first public statement of Judge Crothers had a very wholesome ring about it. "I shall enter the Gubernatorial office with a firm and conscientious determination to do my duty toward the whole people in the State as fully as any man who ever held the office." And now that the campaign is at an end and the choice of the voters has been made it would be well for the people of the State to take the Governor-elect at his word, and to anticipate nothing but an administration that will be for the good of all.

THE clean sweep in Frederick county by the Republicans shows that this section of the State still favors administration under the party that has been in power here for years, and it is confidently expected that each and every candidate elected will do all in his power to give an unusually good account of his stewardship.

ANOTHER thing that Judge Crothers said should be heeded by everybody, viz: "Any differences or political bitterness that have been engendered, if any, should be forgotten, and we should all join hands for the purpose of accomplishing the greatest good for the old State we all love so well."

Now that John Walter is "Big Chief," none of the small political bucks will be allowed to wear any but pin feathers around the wigwag.

CARRIED A PAPER TELESCOPE.

One Autumn Afternoon a gray-haired Agri-culturalist took his youngest Olive Branch by the Hand and led him away to a Varsity. Wilbur was 18 and an Onion. He had outgrown his last year's Tunic, and his Smalls were hardly on speaking terms with his Uppers. He had large, warty Hands, which floated idly at his sides, and his Wrists resembled extra Sets of Knuckles. When he walked, his Legs gave way at the Hinge and he Interfered. On his Head was a little Wideawake with a Buckle at the Side. Mother had bobbed his Hair and rubbed in a little Goose-Grease to make it shine. The Collar that he wore was size 13, and called the Rollo Shape. It rose to a Height of a half-inch above his Neck-Band. For a Cravat he had a Piece of watered Silk Ribbon with Butterflies on it.

Wilbur had his Money tied up in a Handkerchief, and he carried a Paper Telescope loaded down with one Complete Change and a Catalogue of the Institution showing that the Necessary Expenses were not more than $3.40 per Week.

As the Train pulled away from Pewee Junction Wilbur began to Leak. The Salt Tears trickled down through the Archipelago of Freckles. He wanted to Crayfish, but Paw bought him a Box of Crackerjack and told him that if he got an Education and improved his Opportunities some day he might be County Superintendent of Schools and get his $900 a Year just like finding it. So Wilbur spunked up and said he would try to stick it out. He got out the Catalogue and read all of the copper-riveted Rules for the Moral Guidance of Students.

The Curriculum had him scared. He saw that in the next four Years he would have to soak up practically all the Knowledge on the Market. But he was cheered to think that if he persevered and got through he would be entitled to wear an Alpaca Coat and a Lawn Tie and teach in the High-School, so he took Courage and began to notice the Scenery.

Wilbur was planted in a Boarding-House guaranteed to provide Wholesome Food and a Home Influence. Father went back after making a final Discourse on the importance of learning most everything in all of the Books. Nine Months later they were down at the Depot to meet Wilbur. He had written several times, saying that he could not find time to come Home, as he was in pursuit of Knowledge every Minute of the Day, and if he left the Track, Knowledge might gain several Laps on him. It looked reasonable, too, for the future Superintendent of Schools had spent $400 for Books; $200 for Scientific Apparatus, and something like $80 for Chemicals to be used in the Laboratory.

When the Train suddenly checked itself, to avoid running past the Town, there came out of the Parlor Car something that looked like Fitz, on account of the Pudding in the Shoulders. Just above one Ear he wore a dinky Cap about the size of a Postage Stamp. The coat reached almost to the Hips and was buttoned below. The Trousers had enough material for a suit. They were reefed to show feverish Socks of a zigzag Pattern. The Shoes were very Bull-Doggy, and each had a wide Terrace running around it. Father held on to a Truck for Support. Never before had he seen a genuine Case of the Inflammatory Rah-Rahs.

Wilbur was smoking a dizzly little Pipe from which the Smoke curled upward, losing itself in a copious Forelock that moved gently in the Breeze. Instead of a Collar, Wilbur was wearing a Turkish Towel. He had the Harvard Walk down pat. With both Hands in his Pockets, the one who had been pursuing Knowledge teetered towards the Author of his Being and said, "How are you, Governor?"

Father was always a Lightning Calculator, and as he stood there trying to grasp and comprehend and mentally close in, as it were, on the Burlap Suit and the Coon Shirt and the sassy Pipe, something told him that Wilbur would have to Switch if he expected to be County Superintendent of Schools.

"Here are my Checks," said Wilbur, handing over the Brasses. "Have my Trunks, my Golf Clubs, my portable Punching-Bag, the Sult-Casé and Hat-Boxes sent up to the House right away. Then drive me Home by the Outside Road, because I don't want to meet all these Yaps. They annoy me." "You'd better git out of that Rig mighty quick if you don't want to be Joshed," said his Parent. "Folks around here won't stand for any such fool Regalia, and if you walk like a frozen-toed Hen you'll get some Hot Shots or I miss my Calkulations."

"Say, Popsy, I've been eating Raw Meat and drinking Blood at the Training-Table, and I'm on Edge," said Wilbur, expanding his Chest until it bulged out like a Thornton Squash. "If any of these local Georgie Glues try to shoot their Pink Conversation at me I'll toss them up into the Trees and let them hang there. I'm the Gazabe that Puts the Shot. Any one who can trim a Policeman and chuck a Hackman right back into his own Hack and drive off with him doesn't ask for any sweet-er Tapioca than one of these Gaffer Greens. The Ploughboy who is muscled Hose, I'm out here to give the Corn-fields a Touch of High Life. It's about time that your Chaws had a Glimpse of the Great Outside World. Any one who gets Fussy about the Color-Combinations that I spring from Day to Day will be chopped up and served for Lunch. To begin with, I'm going to teach you and Mother to play Golf. If these Mutties come and lean over the Fence and start to get off their Color-Weekly Jokes we'll fan the Hill-side with them."

A MUTT.

"What do they teach up at your School—besides Murder?" inquired Father. "I thought you wanted to be County Superintendent of Schools."

"I've outgrown all those two-by-four Ambitions," was the Reply. "I'm going to be on the Eleven next Fall. What more could you ask?"

That very week Wilbur organized a Ball Team that walloped Hickory Crick, Sand Ridge, and Sozzinsville. He had the whole Township with him. Every Cub at Pewee Junction began to wear a Turkish Towel for a Collar and practise the Harvard Walk.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

A teaspoonful of pulverized alum mixed with the common stove polish will give a wonderful polish.

Scalding the milk for custard pie adds greatly to its flavor. An addition of a teaspoonful of brown sugar or molasses is also helpful.

When one is compelled to hang a skirt against the closet wall instead of on hangers extended from the ceiling let the back of the skirt rest against the wall. Then if there is any wrinkling it comes at the back, where it is not noticeable.

If windows move hard, melt a tablespoonful of lard and pour a little between window frame and casing and also a little on the roller and rope. It works like magic. This is a good thing to know when the frames are swollen from being closed during rainy weather.

A Wise Little Milliner.

"If I had insisted," said the milliner, "I could have sold her a hat that cost $10 more, but I was afraid that if she took it I should lose her trade. I knew her husband wouldn't like it. It isn't the expense he would object to, but the hat. She is a countrywoman, and he is a countryman. Countrymen do not like New York hats—that is, hats of the exaggerated type. I never yet sold an extreme style to an out of town woman without losing her custom. The men at home always said, 'Well, if that's the best you can do in New York—come back with a scarecrow thing like that—you'd better buy your hats nearer home.' And thereafter that is just what the women do. That is why I now sell nothing but modest looking hats to country customers. I can't afford to antagonize their husbands."—New York Times.

A Mighty Rare Autograph.

There are an unlimited number and variety of the genus autograph collector. Some have the greswome fad of collecting all autographic matter relating to the assassins of our presidents. To be successful even in this limited range requires much careful research and great patience. The more inconspicuous and unknown the subjects chosen the more difficult the task of collecting. It may be said that it is an easier task to secure an authentic autograph of Napoleon Bonaparte or of Cromwell than one of the practically unknown murderer of President McKinley. The very obscurity from which the perpetrator temporarily emerged is hard to penetrate and therefore makes the securing of his autograph a difficult task.—Collector.

A Novelty.

Guest—I hear you are going to give up housekeeping. Host—Sh—not so loud! My wife wants to have the satisfaction of discharging the cook.—Puck.

What The Sphinx Thinks

—That politics and race horses are very uncertain things.

—That a square deal has often put many a fellow into a round hole.

—That as care is such a troublesome thing it is best not to hunt too diligently for it.

—That telling certain folks not to get excited is about the equivalent of telling a humming bird to roost.

—That the man who is forever giving his oath with his statement is the one in whom to put the least confidence.

—That candidates' memories are proverbially poor when—after they are in office—ante-election promises are recalled.

—That as there is no unusual demand for poor jobs it is a good thing that there are no duplicate patterns of some self-made characters.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For Girl's Three Quarter Coat Designed by May Manton—No. 5760.

The long shoulder effect is apparent in the garments of the younger contingent as well as those of the grownups, and this little coat exemplifies it in an altogether charming and novel way. In the illustration the material is blue broadcloth, and the trimming consists of the material embroidered in dots of various sizes, the work being executed with very heavy thread, while the edges are piped with velvet. But for immediate wear white serge and soft finished pique will be charming as well as the lightweight cloth, although this latter material in such bright colors as the blue and red is greatly in vogue. A little later the same model will be found admirable for serge, cheviot and all materials of a similar sort.

The coat is distinctly novel and is made with a little body lining in which the full sleeves are inserted together with the fronts and the back of the coat proper. These last are cut with shoulder extensions and are arranged over and joined to the body lining. The oddly shaped collar finishes the neck, and there are pretty as well as convenient patch pockets.

The quantity of material required for the medium size (10 years) is 4 yards 27, 2 1/2 yards 44 or 2 1/2 yards 52 inches wide. Sizes for children of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years of age.

THE COW'S HORN.

Various Ways In Which It Is Made Useful by Man.

Have you any conception of how useful that horn is to us? Scientifically it is known as a combination of phosphate of lime, gelatin and albumen, and, like all nature's products, the ingredients are in the right proportion to make the article useful to man as well as to the animal that bears it.

The lime makes the horn hard, but there is just enough lime to make it hard without making it brittle, and there is just enough gelatin to make the horn easy to cut and shape. The core of the horn is bone, and to get that out the horn is soaked in water for several weeks. When the core is taken out it is ground up and made into crucibles which are used for melting gold and silver in.

The outer end of the horn is hard and solid, and that is used for making knife handles and other things. The hollow part of the horn is soaked for half an hour or so in boiling water, when it becomes soft and may easily be split with a knife.

It is then spread out flat and put between iron plates. There was a time when these horn plates were made very thin by hard pressure and used in windows and lanterns as we now use glass. They may be made quite translucent.

When the horn is heated it may be molded into almost any desired form. That is the way knife handles, buttons and other articles are made.—Chicago News.

ENGLISH STORIES.

The Striking Way an Oxford Notable Won a Nickname.

Dean Stanley once went late to dinner with his collar flapping. His hostess ventured to ask him if he knew. "Oh, yes!" answered the dean. "Do you mind?" "Not at all," said the lady. "Then I don't mind, either. The button dropped off while I was dressing." And the dean continued his conversation.

Rev. W. H. Tuckwell is responsible for the history of how an Oxford notable in the thirties got his nickname "Presence of Mind" Smith. He went boating with a friend and returned alone and was asked what had become of his companion. He explained that his friend had fallen into the Thames, "and if I had not with great presence of mind hit him on the head with a boat hook the both of us would have been drowned."

The late Joseph Joachim was a great favorite in London and for more than sixty years rarely missed a season there. A certain nobleman told him that he was going to St. James' hall to hear him, and Joachim later asked him if he had found it tedious. "Not at all," serenely answered the titled personage. "I enjoyed myself immensely. I did not recognize you at first under your disguise as a nigger, but later I laughed all the more." The nobleman had strolled by mistake into a minstrel show instead of the large concert hall.

"Mrs. Mudgerson seems to be so affected since her husband succeeded in getting money."

"Yes, she does appear to be afflicted a little in that way. I heard her referring yesterday to her father, who was a blacksmith, as one 'who used to be able to make such beautiful designs in wrought iron.'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

FROM ST. JOSEPH'S ACADEMY

Very Rev. Father McHale Delights The Students With Two Interesting Lectures On Spain.

(Special to The Chronicle)

A cordial welcome always greets the coming of Very Rev. P. McHale, C. M., of Germantown, Pa., to Emmitsburg; but the students of St. Joseph's Academy and College have long been accustomed to associate with his visits a rare intellectual treat, and ever have they found that the realization far exceeded their brightest anticipations. This October was no exception in their archives.

On Tuesday October twenty-ninth, while the inevitable time schedule was being filled, the students bent with unwonted cheerfulness to the requirements of the afternoon, as a lecture had been announced for seven o'clock that evening. As yet, not the slightest hint had been given as to what might be the subject, somewhat of a restraint it must be admitted upon the naturally inquiring minds of those concerned, whilst the forecasts ventured were not a few.

Ah! but Father McHale never disappoints, so he was, as usual, most happy in his selection, and with unconstrained enthusiasm all responded to the invitation to accompany him to chivalric romantic, historic Spain. The return trip was made in less than an hour, although it seemed only a few minutes, so intensely interesting had the lecture proved.

On Thursday at the same hour, the youthful audience once more assembled in the brilliantly lighted grand Hall of the Burlando building, to have a second lecture. This time the subject strongly appealed both to mind and heart of the most earnest and attentive group of listeners any orator could desire, the young ladies were to visit Salamanca, with the privilege of being shown through its celebrated university, making acquaintance with its law and statutes, as glimpses were revealed of student life there. Most vividly were the pictures drawn, so that the whole formed one grand, gorgeous panorama.

If it be true, as the poet tells us that; "Half our knowledge we must snatch, not take," then, surely, the students of the Academy and College, so delightfully entertained during those two brief hours, acquired, with scarce an effort on their part, more solid instruction, and more valuable information than they could make their own by close and earnest study in a month or more.

These two lectures wherein harmless and healthy amusement was also afforded, by the humorous side of many points, will be among the most pleasing reminiscences of the present scholastic year. That the favored students knew their opportunity and profited by the advantages it offered, was unmistakably evident from their eagerness to carefully preserve note of all that had so impressed them. Hearing of his departure sincere wishes for a pleasant safe homeward journey were extended to Father McHale. His exceptionally beautiful and practical sermon on All Saints' Day, at St. Joseph's, filled up the measure of the week's good fortune.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

Germany and Austria have between them 150 schools wholly devoted to teaching cooking.

Rev. William N. Rice, who will be acting president of Wesleyan university during President Raymond's year of absence, is Seney professor of geology and one of the oldest members of the faculty.

Professor William North Rice of the department of geology at Wesleyan university has been appointed acting president of the institution by the committee named at the last commencement to select some one for that office.

The trustees of the College of the City of New York are said to look with favor on the suggestion that a night college be added to the present work of the institution for the assistance of those young men and women who cannot afford attendance at the regular college.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

Out of the multitude of "stars" visible to the naked eye only some dozen or so are "planets"—that is, satellites of the sun.

Beyond a doubt the earth is similar to the other planets in reflecting the light of the sun. If there are intelligent beings on Mars, Venus and Jupiter, if Jupiter is not too far away, the earth looks to them just as their planets do to us.

If a human nerve fiber was stretched round the earth containing two brains very close together it would be 122 hours before a headache in one would be felt in the other. An electric impulse circles the earth in a little more than one second.

For short distances Germany has applied wireless telegraphy to railroad trains.

The United States government is the largest individual purchaser of electric lamps in this country. It buys 850,000 annually.

Electricity is now being largely used in the bookbinding industry for embossing and such work. With the aid of the current it is possible to make 480 impressions a minute, which more than atones for its increased cost.

Novel Cure For Rheumatism.

At a meeting of bee keepers in Harrisburg there was demonstrated by Dr. Surface, the bee sting cure for rheumatism, that has lately attracted so much and widespread attention. This cure, by application of cocain, is relieved of all pain and in almost all cases proves successful. The bees in large number are allowed to sting the affected person where the rheumatism is most acutely felt.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Blanche Bates is to appear this year in a revival of "Madam Butterfly."

On account of ill health it is said that Forbes Robertson will not visit this country this season.

Viola Allen is to appear this season in "As You Like It," with special performances of "The School For Scandal."

Sarah Truax made her debut in Rochester in her new play, "The Spider's Web," by John Hutchins, under the management of John Cort.

Jeffreys Ellis is to open her London season in a play called "The Sugar Bowl." She ought to get some measure of sweet success out of a name like that.

Leo Dietrichstein in his comedy, "Before and After," is making a tour of the country. During this season he is to appear in every important city in the country.

Adelaide Prince has been engaged for an important role in "The Secret Orchard." It will be under the direction of Robert Hunter, Walter Bradford and Francis Reid.

During the holiday season Mrs. Fiske will appear in her new play, the Manhattan company will make its bow as a separate organization in the play that Langdon Mitchell is writing, and Mr. Fiske will produce a play by Rupert Hughes.

Slieve Gallion, this year's Derby favorite and winner of the 2,000 guineas, the Craven stakes at Newmarket, the St. James palace stakes at Ascot and for a while regarded as the best three-year-old in England, has been sold to Baron Susemire, an Austrian, for the nice sum of $75,000.

THE COOKBOOK.

In cooking gooseberries add a pinch of soda the size of a pea to each quart of fruit, and less sugar will be required to sweeten it.

Scalding the milk for custard pie adds greatly to its flavor. An addition of a teaspoonful of brown sugar or molasses is also helpful.

The flavor of shrimps is much improved if boiling water is poured over them a short time before they are served. It must be drained away immediately.

It is said that potatoes will bake in much less time if the skins are greased before putting them into the oven. The skins will come off more easily and will be as thin as when boiled.

A BUSINESS LESSON.

How Peter Cooper Taught One Man the Value of Money.

Peter Cooper was one of the most successful, careful and prudent business men of his time. He was strongly opposed to the methods of many merchants who launched out into extravagant enterprises on borrowed money, for which they paid exorbitant rates of interest. The following anecdote illustrates this point very forcibly:

Once, while talking about a project with an acquaintance, the latter said he would have to borrow the money for six months, paying interest at the rate of 3 per cent per month.

"Why do you borrow for so short a time?" Mr. Cooper asked.

"Because the brokers will not negotiate bills for longer."

"Well, if you wish," said Mr. Cooper, "I will discount your note at that rate for three years."

"Are you in earnest?" asked the would be borrower.

"Certainly I am. I will discount your note for $10,000 for three years at that rate. Will you do it?"

"Of course I will," said the merchant.

"Very well," said Mr. Cooper. "Just sign this note for $10,000, payable in three years, and give your check for $800, and the transaction will be complete."

"But where is the money for me?" asked the astonished merchant.

"You don't get any money," was the reply. "Your interest for thirty-six months at 3 per cent per month amounts to 108 per cent, or $10,800. Therefore your check for $800 just makes us even."

The force of this practical illustration of the folly of paying such an exorbitant price for the use of money was such that the merchant determined never to borrow at such ruinous rates, and he frequently used to say that nothing could have so fully convinced him as this rather humorous proposal by Mr. Cooper.

HIS RULING PASSION.

Old Harpagon Carried It to the Brink of the Grave.

The following story is commonly related as true in France: Old Harpagon was fast approaching his end. His sufferings were very great, but he comforted himself with the thought that as he could not eat there was so much saved at any rate.

"Well, doctor," he said in a feeble voice, "how long have I yet to live?"

"Only half an hour. Would you like me to send for somebody—a clergyman, for instance?"

Harpagon was silent for a few moments. He passed his hand over his chin, bristling with a grizzled beard of several days' growth, when a sudden thought struck him, and, turning to the doctor, he gasped excitedly:

"Quick—send for—a barber!"

The barber soon afterward arrived with his shaving tackle.

Harpagon, whose voice was getting weaker, asked him, "You—charge—two—pence—for shaving?"

"That's the price," was the answer.

"And—how much—is it—for shaving—a corpse?"

The barber paused a moment and then said, "Five shillings."

"Then—shave—me—quickly," stammered old Harpagon, casting a feverish glance at the watch which the doctor still held in his hand.

He was too feeble to utter another word, but the doctor understood the mute appeal and said:

"Fifteen minutes more!"

A smile of satisfaction stole over the features of the patient. The barber set to work and in a very short time finished his task notwithstanding the nervous twitchings that distorted the face of the dying man. When the operation was over old Harpagon uttered a sigh of relief and was heard to whisper:

"That's a good thing—four shillings—and tenpence—saved!" And he breathed his last.—London Chronicle.

Sentiment in a Pawnshop.

A watch had just passed from the hands of a seedy young man into those of a pawnbroker. Before the young man got out of the shop the broker called him back.

"Here's a picture—a woman's picture—in the back of this watch," he said. "You'd better take it out."

The young man blushed.

"It isn't worth while," he said. "I'll redeem the thing in a week or two."

"Maybe you will and maybe you won't," retorted the broker. "You never can tell about these things. I may not be strong on sentiment, but one thing I insist on is that no man shall leave a woman's picture in a watch that he pawns here."—New York Press.

Ageless Love.

It is a splendid thing to think that the woman you really love will never grow old to you. Through the wrinkles of time, through the mask of years, if you really love her, you will always see the face you loved and won. And a woman who really loves a man does not see that he grows old. He is not decrepit to her. He does not tremble. He is not old. She always sees the same gallant gentleman who won her hand and heart.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

Union in Failure.

Men are united more by their vices than their virtues, observed Balzac. It is also true that they are more closely bound by their failures than their successes. How a man will love you if you have fallen down like himself when perhaps you should both have won out there were any real stuff in you.—Michael Monahan.

True honor leaves no room for hesitation and doubt.—Pintarch.

A Word on the Subject of Feeding Stock to the Farmer's Best Advantage

SOME INFORMATION REGARDING FOOD STUFFS

The Importance of the Subject From an Economic Stand Point.—The Proper Feed Will Bring Results That Can Not be Otherwise Attained.—The Experience of Others Sifted Down for Chronicle Readers.—What Men Who Know Have to Say on This Important Subject.—A Word for the Wise.

"The feeding standards prepared by Wolf, a German investigator in animal nutrition, have been the most widely used of any. Wolf's standards have recently been modified by Prof. E. Lehman, as the result of additional experiments and practical experience, and also in the attempt to adapt them more closely to the practical needs of the animal."

The Encyclopedia Americana publishes the following tables: In every hundred pounds of corn fodder there are 1.10 lbs. of protein and 26,080 calories of energy. (Proteids are the most important animal and vegetable compounds, and none of the phenomena of life occur without their presence.) In oat fodder, 2.44 lbs. protein and 42,090 energy. Cowpeas, 1.68, protein and 19,210 energy. Corn silage, 1.21, protein and 33,050 energy. Corn fodder, field cured, 2.34 protein and 69,360. Timothy hay, 2.89 protein and 92,730. Hay from mixed grasses, 4.22 protein and 93,930. Red clover hay, 7.36 protein and 92,320 energy. Corn, unground, 7.14 protein and 157,220 energy. Oats, 9.25 protein and 124,760 energy. Wheat, 10.23 protein and 154,850 energy. Corn meal, 6.26 protein and 147,800 energy. Wheat bran, 12.01 protein and 111,140 energy. Wheat middlings, 2.79 protein and 137,000 energy.

As for the amount of nutrients required per day per 1,000 pounds live weight for different animals the following table is given:

Fattening cattle: First period 2.5 pounds of protein and 34,650 calories of energy; second period, 3.0 of protein and 35,500 energy; third period, 2.7 protein and 35,900 energy.

Milch cows: Giving 11 lbs. milk per day, 1.6 protein and 22,850 energy; giving 16.5 lbs milk per day, 2.0 protein and 25,850; giving 27.5 lbs milk per day, 3.3 protein and 33,700 energy.

Fattening sheep: First period, 3.0 protein and 35,600 energy; second period, 3.5 protein and 36,000 energy.

Horses: Light work, 1.5 protein and 22,150 energy; medium work, 2.0 protein and 26,700 energy; heavy work, 2.5 protein and 32,750 energy.

Fattening swine: First period, 5.4 protein and 57,800 energy; third period,

2.7 protein and 40,200 energy.

"It should be borne in mind that feeding standards are simply a concise and approximate statement of the amounts of the different nutrients required by animals, as indicated by the results of experiments and observation, and are intended to apply to the average conditions. The value of any ration which may be determined upon may be calculated with the aid of the feeding standards and the figures in the above tables. Suppose four pounds of oats constitute one of the ingredients of a ration. According to the table, it is evident that if 100 pounds of oats furnish 9.25 pounds of digestible protein, one pound will furnish .0925, and four pounds will furnish .3700. In the same way, if 100 pounds of oats supply 124,760 calories of energy four pounds will furnish 4990.40. The sums of the protein supplied by all the feeds show the total amount in the ration, and so with the energy. * * * It is not necessary that a ration should furnish each day the exact amount called for by the standard but rather that it should approximate it through long periods, a slight deficiency at one time being made up by a corresponding excess at another. In calculating rations it is essential that weights be used rather than measures. It is often inconvenient to weigh the grain but the weight may be calculated with sufficient accuracy by the figures given below, which show the weight of a quart of a number of common feeding stuffs.

6 STYLES

In looking up the purchasing end of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Ready to Wear Goods we have endeavored to meet the demands of a clientele, which, we are glad to know becomes more critical each season.

It is the duty of every woman to make herself as attractive as possible, and unless she gives the proper thought to the very important part of her toilet—HER DRESS and WRAP—she cannot expect the admiration and homage which is always paid to the stylish and well dressed woman.

To dress stylishly does not necessarily mean expensively. A stylish well made garment may be bought of us—made of the very latest fabrics, on the most approved tailoring principles—at a price which will appeal to the practical side as much as the garments do to the artistic. In other words we have gotten together a MAXIMUM OF VALUE, a CORRECTNESS OF STYLE, a PERFECTION OF FIT, in every garment we show.

Our variety of

for Ladies is so varied in Price—cut and sizes, that almost all may be suited.

For Misses and Children

equal care has been taken in selection, and the variety is so great that all tastes and sizes can be fitted.

LIVE CAPITAL TOPICS.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

President Roosevelt has under consideration the selection of the five delegates to the International Institute of Agriculture, the first meeting of which will be held in Rome, Italy, next Spring. The American delegates will probably be chosen from among the government officials who have to do with crop reporting and statistics.

The object of the institute, which has been firmly established by treaty between the various nations of the world, is to obtain and make available for general information accurate reports as to the quantity and condition of crops in each of the necessary staples. The value of such information has appealed to the various governments as exceedingly great, and considerable enthusiasm is entertained as to the outcome of the first meeting of the institute.

A petition signed by many prominent colored people, has been presented to the President, asking that he incorporate in his annual message to Congress a recommendation that Congress appropriate for the benefit of colored industrial schools of the country something like $1,200,000 unpaid deposits with the defunct Freedman's Savings and Trust Company. Many of the claimants for the money have long since died. In 1886, President Cleveland called the attention of Congress to the fact that hundreds of colored people had placed their deposits with the bank under the impression that it was a government institution, and recommended that Congress should pay all claimants the losses sustained by them. As that was never done, the proposition now is to have the money lost by the colored people appropriated for the aid of colored industrial schools.

Treasury officials are agreeably surprised at the number of banks throughout the country which have already indicated their purpose to comply with the suggestion of the Comptroller of the Currency that additional circulation be taken out.

The Comptroller now has in vaults national currency to the amount of $167,000,000, and although a considerable proportion of this amount belongs to banks that have already reached their limit under the law, a large sum is available for banks that carry only a small amount when compared with their capital. One large New York bank could, under the law, it is said, take out $10,000,000 additional circulation, and in all probability will soon ask for a material increase. Mr. Ridgely recently expressed the opinion that within the next ten days the outstanding circulation of national banks will have been increased by from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 and possibly a much larger sum.

Because Secretary Taft has been able to hasten his work of inspection in the Philippines so as to leave there earlier by five days than was last reported possible the newspapers are creating some excitement over this so-called "mysterious" move of the Secretary of War. From official sources we learn there is nothing mysterious whatever in the change; that Mr. Taft was advised that the German Emperor would not be in Berlin on the 29th of November, because of a previous engagement of long standing, and that the presence of the Secretary was much needed at the department in Washington, many things there awaiting for his decision. These facts, we are credibly informed, caused the Secretary of War to hasten his inspection in the Philippines as much as possible, so as to conform more closely to his original schedule. It is presumed that an audience will be held with the German Emperor before the 29th of November, but as this is a purely social function, in no sense official, it may be omitted from the programme altogether.

At the War Department we are informed that certain reforms have been determined upon in order to make things more attractive for the enlisted men Congress will be asked for more money for the men, but the Department will endeavor to correct some conditions causing complaints by exerting executive authority. One of the principal causes of dissatisfaction among the men, it is claimed, has been the practice of issuing toilet necessities prescribed by army regulation and taking the cost off of the enlisted man's first month's pay. This would set him back $6 or $7, and it is believed to be the reason that desertions have been numerous among men who have served only a month.

General Oliver, acting Secretary of War, has issued an order providing that the soldier shall receive his first razor, tooth brush, soap and similar articles without cost to him, but that thereafter he must keep his toilet kit supplied. It is estimated that the change will cost the government only about $60,000 a year. Another reform will provide that the daily gymnastics shall be only thirty minutes in duration instead of an hour, and that they shall be fixed at a time other than immediately following drill duty. The weekly marches also have been ordered dispensed with, and hereafter the men will take their "hikes" once a month only. Still another recommendation that will be made will be in the nature of improving the rations. Gen. Oliver intends, also, to limit the character of work that must be done around army posts by the enlisted men, as it is not at all of a character that should be performed by soldiers.

ABOUT JOB PRINTING.

GOOD PRINTING means more than the use of type and ink and paper. Any printer can "set up" a quantity of type and "run off" a number of impressions. This is printing; but it is not always Good Printing.

The Chronicle Press

GOOD PRINTING is the result of using appropriate type in an appropriate manner, with due regard for the purpose for which the finished product is to be used.

And Good Printing

GOOD PRINTING requires judgment, an appreciation of the artistic, a positive realization of effect, and a nicety of distinction with regard to the color, the quality, the very texture of the stock—the paper—used.

Are Synonymous Terms.

BAD OR INDIFFERENT PRINTING misrepresents the one who makes use of it. It is a poor introduction for any business man—and it is the most expensive kind of printing.

To Farmers---A Word of Explanation.

There seems to be an impression that the Fine Set of Harness offered by the EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE for the best article on farming will be awarded to the farmer who has raised the biggest crop.

This is a decided mistake.

The sole idea is to get a series of articles for publication, written by practical farmers, explaining the methods by which they have succeeded with various crops.

Thus the man who farms 30 acres is on the same footing with the one who farms 300, for the one who cultivates the small farm may have far better ideas than he who owns a greater number of acres, and his product, in proportion, may be greater.

It is simply a question of who has the best ideas.

Valuable Offer to Farmers

In order to benefit farmers in general by giving them—

Free of Cost

—the most practical suggestions about raising paying crops of various kinds, gained from actual experience,

The Chronicle Will Present a Set of Fine Harness

to the farmer who sends to this office before January 1st, 1908, the best article on the methods by which he has raised the most successful crops.

As substance is what is wanted, writing, punctuation or expression will not be counted—thus an article indifferently written, but containing the best ideas, will count for more than a well written but less practical one.

CONDITIONS:

1. Every competitor must be a yearly subscriber to THE CHRONICLE.
2. The number of acres cultivated, the character of the soil and the reasons for everything done, must be given.
3. Under each article must appear a fictitious name, and accompanying it must be a sealed envelope containing the real name of the writer. The outside of the envelope must bear the same name that is appended to each article.
4. Every manuscript submitted is to become the property of THE CHRONICLE.
5. Articles must be written on one side of the paper only.
6. None but the assumed name will be published with each article.
7. The decision as to which article is the best will be made by three farmers residing in another county and unknown to those competing.
8. The result of the award will be published in some issue of THE CHRONICLE as soon after January 1st, 1908, as possible and the real name of the successful competitor and his name only will be published, and the harness delivered.
9. Any farmer or farm worker, no matter where he resides, may submit articles and any number of articles may be sent in by the same person.

SUGGESTIONS:—Send in your articles as soon as possible. In giving your experience with any particular crop state the kind of weather that prevailed when you began to plow—why you plowed deep or shallow as the case may be—what work you did on the crop before it was harvested and for what reason—what fertilizer and how much you used and why—when you harvested your crop or crops—the gross and net weight or measurement of the same.
