ATTACKING THE STRAWBERRY

Science Says It Is Dangerous

ACIDS ARE POISONOUS

They Produce Moroseness and Irritability

LADIES ARE VERY SUSCEPTIBLE

Strawberry Rash and Strawberry Headache Some of Its Peculiar Effects on Human System.—Hygienists Say It Must Go.—Wont Effect Prices.

Alas for the strawberry fiend! Readers of the New York World were scared out of their wits last Sunday when they read the following article on the "Dangerous Strawberry."

The strawberry must go, at least so say the hygienists, who find their greatest pleasure in raising alarms against popular foods. The innocent looking little fruit, with its soft, blushing cheek and delicate perfumed breath, is now accused of dreadful things, and to think that we have been eating it all this time and never knew what we were up against, says a writer in the Steward.

The deceitful, innocent looking little berry that has fooled us for so long has at last been found out. It produces bad temper in those who eat it. It must be so, for the scientists, who are up on such things, have said so! But, shades of our grandmothers! let us whisper it low!—the scientists also say that the ladies are particularly susceptible in this respect. Who'd have thought it? It is true that we have seen some ladies that have called to mind peaches and cream, and those who outvalued the strawberry in their delicate blushes, but bad tempered?—perish the thought.

The scientists tell us that some ladies will eat a pound or more of strawberries at a time and then become so morose that people are glad to avoid them. No, we really cannot believe it of the fair sex! Yet the learned ones tell us that the dear creatures are really ill and do not know it; they are suffering from the strawberry disease, the symptoms of which are slight dizziness.

THREE WORLD RULERS

America, England and Germany Said Bismarck

FUTURE BELONGS TO THE NORTH

"They Have Already Begun That Great World Work for Humanity That Is Their 'Mission.'—Contest Being Decided In This County.

North America England and Germany are the future masters of the world," Prince Bismarck maintained, according to his intimate friend, Dr. Lomer, who has made public that opinion in an article in the current number of the Politischanthropologische Revue.

The biggest question which interested him in this field was the future of the English and American races. Especially was he always anxious to study questions arising out of the contact of the Germanic races in the United States with the Slavic and Latin elements.

Bismarck was firmly convinced of the conquering nature of the Germanic races. Theirs was the earth and the fullness thereof.

To Dr. Lomer he was fond of saying that he regarded the Celtic and Slavic races as effeminate races, incapable of anything great unless fructified by a masculine race like the German or English.

"All that is good in Russia," he said, "is German or of German origin. As for the Germans and the English they are so masculine that if they were not softened by an admixture of the softer feminine races they would be ungovernable."

"It is certain that the future belongs to the northern races. And now they have begun to do that great world work for humanity which is their mission."

PROLONGS HUMAN LIFE

Married Men Live Longer and Get Sick Less

BACHELORS SUCCUMB FIRST

Statistics Compiled by German Scholar Show Some Remarkable Facts.—Lunacy Frequent Among The Single.—Moral Is Obvious.

A German scholar by the name of Lange, who has given much attention to the question whether married men or bachelors live the longer, records his emphatic verdict, says a correspondent to the New York World, in favor of the married man.

Not only do married men live longer but they are more immune as regards sickness. Lange has a pile of statistics from places where various epidemics have prevailed, the range covering Hamburg, Liverpool, Chicago, Rome, and in every case, whether the disease has been cholera, typhus, smallpox or measles, the bachelors have caught the disease first, have succumbed first, and show by far the highest rate of mortality. It is when they become somewhat aged that bachelors show the greatest tendency to illness.

Another point. Madness and lunacy in all their terrible shapes are more frequent among bachelors. Any psychiatrist in good practice will confirm this. There are wards in public asylums where among certain kinds of lunacy quite 80 per cent. are bachelors; and the strange thing is that they are mostly incurable cases.

The moral is obvious.

Period of Magazine "Uplift" Is Passing.—Old-Fashioned Permanent Design to Return.

One after another, says the Detroit Free Press, the magazines are settling down to steadier courses. Harper's appears this month in the old-fashioned cover which bodied forth its personality to our youthful vision. It will retain it in the future, it is announced. McClure's also will forswear the chameleon changes which every month have altered its appearance on the bookstands and has hit upon a design which promises to be permanent. Many of the other publications which every four weeks gladden our spirit and trouble our consciences will doubtless follow the lead thus set.

There is an indication, too, that the muckraker will be abandoned. The vigilant delvers into human failings and national wrongs have wearied of their wild-doing. Lawson quit the unprofitable game for the richer pasturings of Wall and State Street some time ago. Steffens shows signs of losing his wind. The others, having been led into the sin-chasing paths by emulating the success these achieved therein, may be expected to drop out, now that the fashion has been set.

Is the magazine returning to its proper vocation? Will it again be the entertainer, the instructor, the expression of well digested and well worded thought, instead of a competitor of the hastily written newspaper?

Such an outcome of present tendencies would be welcome to many. We have had a surfeit of national confession.

Having exhaustively exposed every possible evil, the magazines may now settle down to producing some literature and give the American nation a chance once more to find pleasure in its reading.

CARDINAL GIBBONS' PRIZES

Member of Christian Brothers' Institute and Pupil of St. Patrick's School, Cumberland Winners.

The Cardinal Gibbons gold prize, competitive among the colleges of Maryland and the District of Columbia, for the best essay on an appointed topic in Maryland Colonial history, was won by Julius Algeir of the Christian Brother's Institute, Ammendale, Md. The subject of his essay was "The Life and Character of George Calvert." Similar prizes were contested for in the women's schools and colleges of the State.

The prize for the best essay written by pupils of parochial schools was won by Miss Mabel M. Fisher, of St. Patrick's School, Cumberland.

Each prize consists of $25 in gold, and will be presented on the commencement days of the respective schools.

PROBLEM OF COST OF LIVING

City and Country Compared as to Actual and Necessary Expenses

WHAT FUTURE HAS IN STORE FOR RURAL FOLK

Table Showing Increase in Value of Natural Products as Argument in Favor of Farmers

ONLY PAUPERS WILL HOUSE IN CITIES THAT ARE CROWDED TO-DAY

Country Life is Not Drudgery Without Mental Stimulus.—Telephones, Trolley Cars, Water Works System, Club Associations Have Revolutionized Rural Life in Recent Years.—Soon No Man Will Willingly Dwell in The Cities.—In Time Labor and Capital Will be Literally Forced into Even Partnership.

The question has been put "Can people live on less than $35 a week in the modern town, under the conditions of modern life in the country? Most of us living here in Emmitsburg know the answer to the last clause of this query but there are many dwellers in our cities who are sacrificing their health trying to live the affirmative answer. There is a decided difference between life in the city and country. A discussion of this problem by Agnes C. Laut was recently published in the New York Times and the information here given is from that article.

"Take a medical map of New York," reads the article. "Where is disease densest, especially disease that is the result of overcrowded air and poor food? Densest always in the cheap-rent district, where incomes are lowest. Go into the lower east side schools. Look in the children's faces. Not much that promises robust manhood or womanhood, is there, though one generation may graduate on Fifth Avenue? The weak die out, but they don't all die out. They live to perpetuate their kind, but that is a consideration for which the 'get-along-somehow-man' doesn't give a continental hoot. That his children scour the gutter like the kittens of an ash cat does not concern him any more than it does the cat.

"For such I see only one hope, and that lies in the call of the country. Spite of all that the kickers against things as they are say about men and women being the slaves of economic conditions, no man or woman either is bound to the cruel wheel of city life to be ground like a gnat struck on a cog amid complicated machinery. From Maine to Florida, from Mexico to Montana, the country shouts for help, for hands, for men and women to work.

"What," protests the down-trodden clerk, "be a hired man?"

"Bless you, no! Be your own hired man, or hired woman! In the country rent will be less by half, food less by half, clothing as at low a minimum as clothing can be kept. There, at a slap, you save your biggest expenditures. I have never seen any basis of comparison, but I would not be afraid to wager that the man who earns $900 in the country gets more out of it than the man who earns $2,500 in New York. He will save more out of it, and get more pleasure out of it.

"And it is a big mistake to think of country life as drudgery cut off from all mental stimulus. Telephones, trolley cars, water works systems, club associations have literally revolutionized country life in recent years. And don't forget while you have been drudging away in the city at the same old clerical salary or at best with an increase of only 10 per cent. in your wages and about $100 per cent. in your expenses, out in the country the inventions of machinery, scientific methods, and the rise in prices have doubled and trebled the farmer's income. Where your father got only 48 or 50 cents for his wheat and raised only a few hundred bushels of it his successor gets from 70 cents to $1 a bushel, and raises thousands of bushels.

TABLE OF VALUE OF FARM PRODUCTS TO-DAY AND YESTERDAY

You can sell your wheat at from 70 cents to $1 a bushel

Your father sold his wheat for 48 cents to 50 cents a bushel

You can sell your corn at from 60 to 70 cents a bushel

Your Grandfather Sold his corn at from 17 cents to 33 cents a bushel

The Farmer of to-day sells his potatoes as high as 75 cents a bushel

Old time Farmers were paid 10 cents a bushel for potatoes

"Where your grandfather got only from 17 to 33 cents for corn, and, thought himself clever to raise thirty-five bushels to the acre, his successor gets from 60 to 70 cents and isn't surprised at himself if he raises 100 bushels to the acre. Where the old-time farmer let his potatoes rot in the pit or fed them to his stock because it did not pay to haul them to market at 10 cents a bushel his successor today has become a specialized potato-farmer with cold storage systems by which he keeps his crop till prices go up to 75 cents a bushel. All through Maine, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, and Rhode Island are men and women potato farmers earning from $1,000 to $1,500, and $1,800, and $2,700 a year by the intensive system on small holdings.

"What are you doing sticking in the city at $900 a year being sorry for yourself? To be sure, as the Socialists say, when you can't save and have a family to support, whether you are a man or a woman, you are as much a

One Function Frequently Forgotten.

A Representative from Connecticut voted against the patched-up emergency bill the other day and the Hartford Courant remarked that "theoretically and etymologically, the function of a representative is to represent." That's what the man from Connecticut was doing; of a good many of others, to quote from the same journal, their "votes stood for nothing in the world but a lively desire to be in favor with Uncle Joe Cannon and a crawling of the flesh at the thought of incurring his displeasure."

Finish Route with Touring Cars

When the Washington, Frederick and Gettysburg Railroad is built to Thurmont, which will be in a few months according to the time allowed the contractors, the company will run large touring cars from that point to Gettysburg by way of Emmitsburg. In this way through tickets will be sold from Frederick to the Battlefield.

Ten Thousand Dollar Fire.

The large frame warehouse of John M. Newcomer, Waynesboro, was burned to the ground Saturday morning, together with a large quantity of lumber, feed, etc., stored in the building and a lot of coal in the yards. The loss is estimated at $10,000 and is covered by insurance. The warehouse was located near the Landis Tool Factory, and in the same district where several stables were recently burned. The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin.

Flies Half an Inch Long in Paris.

Paris is suffering from a plague of curious flies, known as St. Mare's Bibions. They are not poisonous, but are very ugly, being over half an inch long, with enormous heads and feelers like cockchafers. Nobody knows where they come from, and, curiously enough, the plague is confined to Paris, and has not reached the country.

ON WHOSE SIDE IS HE

Modern Ideas and The "If Christ Were on Earth"

MONOPOLY OF HIS SYMPATHIES

Favorite Argument of Orators Religious, Political, Social, and Economic in Support of Their Theories and Judgments.

Ever since an English journalist ventured to predict what would happen if the founder of Christianity came to Chicago, remarks the New York Post, orators religious, political, social, and economic have been enlisting that great figure on their side. The believer in mental therapeutics asserts confidently that if the healer of the century's servant and Peter's wife's mother were now on earth, he would be against the doctors. The labor leader has no doubt but that the carpenter's son of Nazareth would be for the unions, forgetting how often that carpenter's son violated union principles by sinking the journeyman into the mere helper. And there are Socialists who firmly believe that the man who urged the rich young man to sell all he had and give to the poor, were he with us now, would march arm in arm with Eugene V. Debs. Well, there is no telling. The founder of Christianity was often in worse company than that of Mr. Debs, and in better. But it is not on record that any man or group of men ever exercised that monopoly over his sympathies which the modern partisan is so ready to assert.

CONDEMNED FOR ITS ROADS

American Article The Worst.—Citizens of United States Live Happily in Deep Mud or Cities.

Granted that the competitors proposed to make the circuit of the world not with the automobile but in spite of the automobile, what they have proved just by crossing the United States is exceedingly valuable to the world at large, writes Count Ottavio in L'Illustrazione Italiana. For now every one knows that the United States do not possess roads and that for many months in the year their most civilized inhabitants, unless they dwell in cities, live happily in deep mud.

The road, the beautiful, free, clean, easy road is the property of all, of the poor and of the rich, but especially of the poor, who have not the money to ride by rail, and who know and love its every foot, here the shadow of a hedge, there a hospitable inn, down there the refreshing spring, up there the lovely view of an endless valley. It is the boast of ancient peoples, capable of humanity and poetry, the place where the rights of all are equal, the gift of the community to its most worthless children. The measure of civilization, even of the democracy of a government, is given by the roads.

Compare the roads of Italy with those of Turkey across the Adriatic; compare the roads of Turkey with those of the United States!

Paper bags are absolutely necessary in certain lines of business, and considering that there is no cash return, constitute probably one of the large items of expense to stores and market stalls. The expenditure for ordinary paper bags, such as are used in grocery stores, during 1906 reached nearly $9,200,000. The outlay for all bags of various kinds amounted to $25,000,000.

GIVEN PERMIT TO GO TO HELL

Christians Were Formerly Scorned by the Moslem.—Peculiar Document Used as Burial Permit.

Last Sunday the New York World printed the following: The scorn in which the Moslem, even of the educated class, regards Christians is well illustrated by the following literal translation of a burial permit given by a Turkish official in Syria 100 years ago. The burial permit is as follows:

From the Most High Court, &c., &c. Seeing that a petition has been presented by the Bishop of the infidels on behalf of the deceased (here follows his name), and as he has perished and we know that if he is left unburied his smell will pollute the air breathed by the true Believers, we give hereby permission for him to be buried in their well-known dung-hill and to go to his hell in hell. TALKS ABOUT AMERICA

Takes Away Cherished Memories of Country

CHRISTIANITY ON THE INCREASE

Most Favorably Impressed By Our President Whom He Found "Very Pleasant and Agreeable."—Other Sects Are Growing More Material.

Cardinal Logue has gone back to Ireland and his leave-taking had an element of sadness in it for, during his short stay in this country, he won the affection of a great many people. Just before the boat sailed the Cardinal said, according to a New York paper, "America is a great country. I shall take away with me memories that I shall cherish until I die. I have been most royally entertained by people of all religious beliefs, and each seemed to vie with the other in making my visit pleasant. I wish America every success and prosperity. That is as much as I can say."

Of New York City the Cardinal said: "It is a great city and I did not notice the noise at all. It is a very fine city. I was not so much impressed by the noise because I was not much downtown, but up town, where I spent most of my time, it was like a great many other cities I have seen."

"I was very favorably impressed by the President. I had a good impression of him before I went to Washington. I found him to be very pleasant and agreeable. I was greatly struck by his forcefulness and consider him to be a very great man."

The Cardinal's attention was called to the recently expressed opinion by the Baptist clergyman, the Rev. Dr. Aked, from the pulpit of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, which John D. Rockefeller attends, that Christianity is on the decline, even in the Catholic Church.

"I do not think that Christianity is on the wane," commented His Eminence. "So far as our Church is concerned, Christianity is on the increase. In

WELLINGTON ACCUSED

Named Co-Respondent in Absolute Divorce Suit

WILSON BLAMES EX-SENATOR

Well-Known Physician Declares That His Wife Admitted Guilt.—Disclosures Made in Bill Filed Last Monday in Baltimore.

According to a dispatch published in the New York World on Tuesday George L. Wellington, former United States Senator, one time Congressman, for years Republican leader in Maryland, and now President of the Citizens' National Bank, of Cumberland, Md., his home town, was co-respondent in a divorce action filed Monday by Dr. Pierce B. Wilson, a prosperous dentist. Mrs. Wilson was Miss Theodora Rohrbach, of Frederick county, and, singularly, it is said that ex-Senator Wellington's name, before he legally took that of Wellington, was Rohrbach. It has been explained that Mr. Wellington's father served under the Duke of Wellington, and for this sentimental reason that name was chosen.

The Wilsons were married in 1898, and in 1906 Mrs. Wilson filed an action for a separation, alleging that her husband had deserted her. Wilson's defense was that his wife was possessed of an ungovernable temper, and that she had broken up his business, forcing him to move from place to place. Finally, Mrs. Wilson was awarded alimony of $2 a week.

Wilson now asserts in his divorce complaint that his father-in-law, Theodore Rohrbach, informed him of the relations of Mrs. Wilson and Senator Wellington, both before and after her marriage to him, but that because of Seven people killed outright and another injured to such an extent that he died after being taken to the Emergency Hospital in Annapolis is the result of a terrible wreck on the new Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Electric Railway last Friday. This is the second wreck since the opening of the line.

The Western Maryland Railroad has not been sold nor will it be merged in the Reading system.

Rather than compromise for $200 in a damage suit for $2,000 removed from Frederick county to Washington county, George C. Winebrenner, of Walkersville, will have to pay Charles Cramer, of near Mount Pleasant, $500, this amount being the award by the jury. The Winebrenners were arrested and convicted of assault in the Frederick court and fined $100 each. The case was removed to Washington county, but before trial the plaintiffs offered to compromise for $200. The second suit was settled.

P. Frank Pampel, a member of the Frederick bar, has received word that his daughter, Miss Lillian Pampel, who has been making her home with relatives in Wabash, Ind., has won a trip to Europe in a voting contest conducted by an Indianapolis newspaper. Warrants were sworn out in Hagers-town on Monday, before Justice Hartle for Richard McHenry, of the firm McHenry Bros.; his brother, Grover McHenry, and Charles Willson, who are charged with assaulting Earl L. Koontz in front of his apartments on Saturday night. The charge was preferred by Koontz, who has recovered sufficiently to be out again. About 100 persons witnessed the assault. Richard McHenry stated that Koontz had been paying attention to McHenry's wife.

The men at the shops of the George's Creek and Cumberland Railroad, now a part of the Western Maryland Railroad system, went to work on full time this week after many months of idleness for many of them, and only three days a week for those who have worked since January 1. At these shops much work has accumulated, and there is excellent prospect for full-time work to be continued indefinitely.

John William Hart, aged 75 years, a Union veteran, who served in the Sixth Pennsylvania Reserves, died in Cumberland, Md., Tuesday. Congress voted him a special gold medal for bravery at the Battle of Gettysburg. When the Confederate sharpshooters from an old house, were picking off Union officers, and volunteers were called to raid the house, Sergeant Hart, the first to step forward, was given 12 picked men. That night he captured the cabin and made the Confederates, 40 in number, surrender to him personally. He was a member of the Legion of Honor, and leaves a wife and five children.

The Citizens' National Bank of Frederick abandoned the handsome four-story building in which it has been doing business since 1886 and moved into temporary quarters on the opposite side of Market street. The old building, on the corner of Market and Patrick streets which was erected 22 years ago and improved at a large cost, will be torn down immediately. On its site and the site of the Etchison building, which formerly adjoined it on the south, will be erected a handsome building of white granite, with monolithic columns, of fireproof construction.

The School Board of Baltimore county is considering the erection of an agricultural high school in the upper part of the county in accordance with the wishes of the farmers' clubs and other organizations and individuals. It is the plan to consolidate the schools now at Philopolis, Glencoe, Verona and Belfast and put up the new school near Sparks' Station, on the Northern Central railroad.

The Vice Presidency Worth While

Clearly it is imperative that the Vice President should not be a political accident but a man equal to the duties of the presidency and deserving to figure as prominently in convention and campaign as the man destined for the higher office, writes the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph. Such men, it is true, naturally aspire to presidential honors and see injury to themselves in their being mentioned for second place. Logically, however, it is from among these aspirants to the higher office that the vice presidential nominee should be chosen and, this being conceded, the chances of securing the right man would be vastly improved if canvasses for the vice presidential nomination were encouraged, without impairing the title of those considered for the presidential nomination if it should prove that they are possible winners. Rejections of the vice presidential nomination when it comes are unheard-of. Why should rejections in advance, whether voluntary or of force, be the rule?

THE DEMAND FOR PRESERVATION

The conference of the governors and eminent men with the President at the White House has proved its value to the whole country by demonstrating that the demands of the Appalachian Forest Reserve springs from the American people. The applause that greeted the remarks of Governor Glenn, of North Carolina, when he said that the conference should pass resolutions calling upon Congress to enact the necessary legislation for it, was so general as to leave no doubt that its establishment is everywhere understood, except in Congress, to be not only desirable but necessary.—Charleston News and Courier.

A Japanese newspaper item forwarded to Consul General Henry B. Miller, of Yokohama, states that at a general meeting of the Dai Nippon Beer Brewery Company a dividend for the last half year was declared at the rate of 15 per cent. A resolution was also adopted to increase the capital from $2,750,000 gold to $6,000,000 and to establish a branch brewery in Korea.

Mr. Bryan's Eloquence.

William Jennings Bryan was addressing a political meeting in Iowa on one occasion when, it is said, he fairly carried away his audience by the power of his oratory. Among those most impressed by the Nebraskan's effort was a man known to be very deaf, but who nevertheless seemed to be listening with breathless attention to Bryan, and who apparently caught every word that fell from the speaker's lips.

Finally, when a particularly fervid passage had been delivered by the man from Nebraska, with the effect of eliciting a storm of applause from the audience, the deaf man, as if he could contain himself no longer, yelled in the ear of the man next to him:

"Who is that speakin'?"
"William Jennings Bryan!" shouted the man addressed.
"Who?" roared the deaf man, still louder.

"William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska!" came from the second man in a piercing shriek.

"Well, well!" exclaimed the deaf man, excitedly. "It don't make any difference, after all. I can't make out a word he or you are sayin'; but, good gracious, don't he do the motions splendid!"—Lippincott's.

Lonely Female Freemason

It is not every one who can claim descent from a female Freemason. Lord Doneraile however, can trace back his lineage and title to the only woman ever received into the craft. Elizabeth St. Leger, sister of the last Viscount Doneraile of that family, saw, while a girl, the proceedings of a Masonic lodge from a place of concealment in her father's house. She was detected and forthwith initiated. Portraits of her wearing the Masonic apron still exist. She afterward married Richard Aldworth, and had by him two sons, of whom the younger, St. Leger, succeeded to his maternal uncle's estates and assumed his surname, being finally created Viscount Doneraile in 1786.—Tit-Bits.

"Yes."
"Well," inquired the child, his brain cleared by the position he had just occupied, "who started it, anyway?"—Answers.

The announcement that King Edward's great diamond probably will be taken to Amsterdam to be cut, and that it may be reduced in weight to 1,000 karats, shows how much these great gems lose in the process of cutting. For moderately large gems the loss is generally reckoned at about half, says the London Globe, but for one of such size as the Cullinan it is admitted that it can not with safety be estimated at less than two thirds.

MY WISH

BY CHARLES BUXTON GOING

OT the rush and the tread
Of crowds in the city street,
But the still trees darkening overhead
And the sweet fern under feet.

Not the roar of the throng

Where the shining windows gleam,
But a hermit thrush in his evensong,
And a murmuring valley stream.

Not the dust and the cry

Of the hot streets walled with stone—
But white hill-mists, and the quiet sky
Where the wide, bright stars are strown!

Owing to the large number of requests the S. A. A. and L. A. will repeat their play, "Out in the Street" on Monday, June 15th, at 8 P. M.

The play given by the members of St. Anthony's Literary Society in the school hall on Thursday evening June 4, was a grand success. The excellent rendition of every part is attributed largely to Miss Emma Moore, under whose direction the play was rehearsed. One of the chief features of the programme was the eloquent speech of Mr. R. V. O'Brien, of Wheeling, W. Va. Mr. O'Brien has a splendid voice and the masterly style in which he handled his subject together with his eloquent delivery evoked frequent applause. At the conclusion of Mr. O'Brien's remarks he received a tremendous ovation. The following was the evening's programme:

WORLD'S DEBT TO MILITARISM.

"Dreamers who gloat over the defeat of the President's four-battleships programme are congratulating themselves that they are responsible for what progress has been made in the prevention of war," remarks the New York Press. "The fact is that the peace societies are working most of the time in the other direction, if they only knew it."

"For instance, they always promote ideas that would make war less cruel, as they put it. One of their favorite schemes, which was again broached at The Hague, is to have private property at sea inviolable by belligerent warships. But Captain Mahan, one of the soundest of all authorities on naval warfare, points out that to do this would tend to make the commercial interests of nations indifferent to hostilities. When the maritime commerce of a Power is sure to be paralyzed by a declaration of war the influence of finance will be thrown more heavily against such a step than if the flow of trade is not stopped."

"This is very much the way with all measures designed by peace theorists. Their argument against strong navies finds no support in the history of nations. The weak maritime States to-day preserve their peace very often only at the cost of proper national pride. Nations of the first rank can hold their precedence only with the battleships and battalions necessary to command the respect of their powerful rivals. This has been the way of the world always, and in the main it always will be so unless human nature is radically altered."

The successor to Bishop Henry Y. Satterlee, late of Washington, will be determined in diocesan convention to meet June 17. This decision was announced by Rev. Dr. Randolph H. The verdict of the jury in the Haywood case, the trial of which attracted worldwide attention, has been held as a fair sample of the way evidence can be weighed and sifted and a verdict found in the face of popular clamor. As such it was recently cited before the graduating class of the Chicago Kent College of Law by Judge Seaman who said it was the most striking known proofs of the contention that an American jury can weigh the evidence in the face of public opinion and a remarkable vindication of the jury system of this country.

The excitement produced by the attempt to kill Major Alfred Dreyfus last week by Louis Gregori, during the ceremonies attending the placing of the remains of Emile Zola in the national Pantheon, is rapidly subsiding. The Clemenceau Government does not intend to play into the hands of the Nationalists by reviving the old issue of which the country is weary, and the Republican press is cooperating with the Government by minimizing the importance of the outrage, by refraining from speculation as to whether or not there was a plot behind it, and by ignoring the vaporing of the Nationalist press.

It is said by those closely allied with the Episcopal Church that the following will be considered by the convention as those from whom the successor to the late Bishop of Washington will be chosen: Rev. An attempt was made on Monday to burn down the old St. Paulus Catholic Church at Moabit, Germany, belonging to the Dominicans, which was crowded with people to hear a sermon by the famous Dominican Monk, Bonaventuri. About 1800 persons were present, including more than a thousand women and children, to hear the mass. They all escaped thanks to the presence of mind of the priests who walked down the isles whispering to the people that a slight blaze to the rear of the altar might prove dangerous and they had better leave; at that time the whole roof was a blaze.

FRIDAY, JUNE 12, 1908.

ONE thing with which the non-Catholic clergy will have to contend in the future as in the past is the question of adequate compensation for services rendered. We have always contended—and we regret that facts will not permit us to change our opinion—that the average minister receives nothing like the salary to which he is entitled. Nor for that matter is the case of the average professor or teacher any better in this respect. Both callings are certainly responsible; both are unquestionably important, and yet those who give up the best years of their lives to the cause of spiritual, moral and mental education, are seemingly put into a class by themselves and paid salaries—often irregularly at that—based upon none but an arbitrary scale.

To those who have labored hard and faithfully in either calling the complaint recently made by certain members of the New York bar that judges receiving $17,500 a year are poorly paid, must furnish food for thought, and probably not a little amusement. How many clergymen, they would ask, draw a salary anything like the figure named? And where is there an educator whose income reaches that amount?

The impoverished New York judge can at least eke out a miserable existence on $17,500 until such a time as he has become prominent enough and sufficiently conversant with the finer points of corporation law (his tuition having been paid for by the state,) to be much sought after; in which event he can resign and, becoming chief counsel for several rich corporations, in a short while building up a practice lucrative enough to make him more than independent for life. There is practically no limit to his field of action, nor is there any apparent limit to the amount he can demand and receive for his services.

The minister or teacher, from whom quite as much is expected and much more exacted, is restricted in a greater degree than the members of this or almost any other profession, and, although his services are greater in point of actual personal labor, his compensation, fixed by business men whose knowledge of values is sound and sane when applied to anything else, is far below a proper and a decent standard.

To make a plea for better pay in behalf of the minister is no wise putting his high calling on a commercial basis. It is simply an humble effort to obtain for him that which should be his by every right. And to uphold the cause of the teacher is, to our mind, but a plain duty to a representative of a noble and most deserving profession.

Keep down the salary in either case and then look for deterioration, incompetency, lack of interest and lack of good material.

Raise the stipend to its proper level and the best material and the best effort will be the reward.

FREDERICK county being distinctively a farming territory and in point of productiveness the third notable county in the whole country, there is every reason why its farmers should participate in the exhibit to be held in Frederick City next Winter. To make the affair a success solely as a country exhibit would be a sufficient reason why they should do their part. But there are other motives of greater importance and of greater benefit to the exhibitors—the invaluable information to be gained by hearing the lectures of experts; the interchange of ideas on subjects of mutual interest and the knowledge to be obtained by hearing discussions between men who treat agriculture as a science.

To raise a crop that is better than that produced anywhere in the country is in itself an honor to be proud of, but to receive public and official recognition and in addition to that a prize for the effort, is an extra incentive to competition. Realizing this, substantial cash prizes will be offered by the managers of the exhibit for superior specimen products and the farmers of this particular section of the county would do well to begin preparations to capture at least one of the coveted trophies.

If there are any left-over medals to be distributed this season to those who have performed acts of heroism in behalf of humanity in general, a very large and handsome one ought, in all justice, to be presented to the young woman from Manayunk who knocked W. Harry Willington overboard the other day. W. Harry, it might be explained, was going through the fool act of rocking the row boat containing two women and himself in the deep waters of the Schuylkill and refused to cease his calisthenics when asked to do so. Grasping an oar Miss Rostum, the heroine, struck the offender and sent him into the water, at the same time pulling away with a man-o'-war'sman stroke. The only unfortunate thing about the affair was that Willington ever reached shore. This episode, however, happening early in the boating season, may deter other youths from attempting similar fool-hardy tricks; but the chances are against such good fortune. At any rate Miss Rostum is entitled to a medal and little Willington to about twelve months; six for parting his name as he does and six more for being such a jackass.

ADDITIONAL news regarding the business outlook comes from traveling salesmen who declare that there is a decided change for the better in all commercial lines. These men, as the Harrisburg Telegraph says, "are better qualified to speak of business conditions than those theorists who sit in front of the country grocery and decorate the sidewalk with tobacco juice." They are keen observers, not only of what is closely related to their own particular line of business, but of conditions affecting trade in general. They have unusual opportunities for obtaining the views of men of all classes, and, by comparing notes with one another, they are enabled to form conclusions that are based upon facts. If, then, the consensus of opinion among these men is that there is a noticeable improvement in business throughout the country we may rely upon their dictum and continue to preach prosperity.

THE June crop report just issued by the government, will suggest to the hard-times croaker the advisability of taking a back seat and keeping quiet, for awhile at least. The figures show that this year's acreage exceeds that of 1907 by 16,464,000, indicating a harvest of nearly 248 million bushels of Spring wheat. Including Winter wheat, something like 440 million bushels, the total indicated crop will be 688 million bushels—an amount rarely exceeded. This showing, together with the encouraging reports from other crops, should leave no doubt in the farmer's mind as to the prosperous condition of this, the country's chief asset.

A BALTIMORE paper states that the Black Hand Society has threatened a New York choir singer with death unless she stops singing. If the threat was made by a discriminating committee its act ought to be looked upon as a public benefit and the society invited to work in a larger territory.

THE Philadelphia Inquirer says that the coming Republican convention "intends to devote considerable thought" to the selection of the Vice Presidential candidate. It may indeed do a lot of thinking, but T. R. will come pretty near doing the selecting.

IN her divorce case, according to a news item, Mrs. John Guy, of Meridian, Conn., testified that her husband made her jump rope in the attic to reduce her weight. In the absence of any further testimony this looks like a clear attempt to Guy the jury.

THE attorney who put in a bill of $25 for three years' legal work for a $40,000 estate is no doubt an able lawyer, but he lacks the essential qualifications of a good bank receiver.—New York World.

LETTUCE is said to cause measles and scarlet rash. It is known beyond cavil that boiled cabbages have caused rows in flats.—Atlanta Georgian.

Both of which statements only emphasize the truth that fooling with green goods will generally put a fellow to the bad.

THE fact that $558 was found tied to the right leg of Barnado Patrisso, and Italian who was drowned off Newbury Port, Mass., proves beyond a doubt that at least one of his members was not pulled just prior to his death.

SECRETARY Taft's brother is credited with saying that Grant was no "frozen image." But perhaps this is only another way of stating that the General was a pretty hot proposition.

THE crab crop also commands attention from official statistics, and yet no mention is made of our ever large and perennial supply of "lobsters."

La Fayette

Shortly after his arrival in America, LaFayette wrote to his wife in France—"American women are very pretty and have great simplicity of character." Very natural then that these women should have appreciated the beauty of simplicity in silverware. Not strange either, in reviving a time-honored Colonial Pattern distinguished by extreme simplicity, that it should be named after LaFayette, whose own exalted simplicity of character made him desert the luxury of court life in the cause of American freedom. The "LaFayette" has no ornamentation. Severely plain in its surfaces, this pattern realizes the highest art of the craft, resting its charm wholly on beauty of outline. Delightfully old fashioned and typically Colonial. In Sterling only.

PULPIT BLACKGUARD

Yellow Religion Indorsed By Western Leaders

RESULTS NOT METHODS PRAISED

Notion of The Lord Being "In the Still Small Voice" Now Absurdly Obsolete.—Billy Sunday a Prophet In the Yellow Wilderness.

Not long ago the Rev. "Billy" Sunday, one-time professional baseball player, addressed the Presbyterian ministers of Pittsburgh saying among other things that his hearers were mostly "fudge-eating mollicoddles." Few clergymen, he asserted, are nowadays anything but "stiffs and salary quacks." As for professors in theological seminaries, the thing to do with them is to "stand them on their heads in mud-puddles." This same man, carried away a Western audience with the assertion that he was going to stay in that city and preach "till hell freezes over, and then I'm going to get a pair of skates and keep soaking it into Satan."

Commenting on this susceptibility in religion rather than on the man who takes advantage of it, the New York Post says:

All this is surprising enough, but the really amazing thing remains to be told. This garrulous blackguard of the pulpit, who is all adrip with street-slang; who claps the dread Jehovah on the back, and smears the most sacred things with his coarse blotch of vulgarity—this man is admired and endorsed by religious leaders. Clergymen vie with denominational journals in lauding his wonderful works. Some of them feel compelled to disclaim approval of all his "methods," but they confess themselves stricken dumb by his extraordinary results. He makes religion the sensation of the hour. His sacrilegious quips are echoed in the yellow newspapers, for whom he makes the best pious "copy." He gives to the gospel an immense publicity of a kind it never enjoyed before. How, then, can those interested in the spread of Christianity fail to rejoice at the marvel of thousands of people who will not go to church, thronging to hear Mr. Sunday tell them about the religion of Christ in the language and with the reverence of a newsboy or a longshoreman? There have been many fearful ejaculations, in connection with the Rev. "Billy," about God having chosen the foolish things of this world to confound the wise.

This defense of yellow religion sounds very like the common defence of yellow journalism. "Oh, well," people say, "we admit that it is vulgar and demoralizing, but just see how it circulates!" So the Rev. Mr. Sunday grates upon fastidious Christians, but only consider how he catches the crowd. In neither case is a thought given to the necessary tendency of what is essentially indecent and blasphemous, disguise it by what name we will. It is the old fallacy of noise and numbers. Success is the one touchstone for religion, too; and the only success worth having is shouting thousands. That old notion about the Lord being in the still small voice is absurdly obsolete. How are you going to fill a church, we should like to know, without a brass band and a vaudeville performer? This is an intensely practical age, and it is not going to be too nice in criticising a man who can show "results."

It is not really strange that religion should begin to turn sensational. What we cultivate or run after in every other walk of life, we cannot keep out of our churches. After making culture "hustle," the next thing is to make religion "hum." The Rev. "Billy" Sunday is only a kind of prophet in the yellow wilderness. He has merely learnt the lesson of sensationalism, and is applying it to the saving of souls. That he tears up, in the process, all real religion by the roots, does not matter. He has the gaping crowd; therefore, the Lord must be with him.

Outlook Is Bright. Amen.

Evidently we are going to have plenty of wheat this year remarks the Philadelphia Record, and even if the price should sag the farmers will get a great deal of money with which they will buy all sorts of things, make bank deposits and lift mortgages for purchased land. The spring wheat area is larger than it was a year ago, and the condition is better than it was last year at this time, or for an average of ten years. The winter wheat condition is much better than a year ago. The conditions of other grains is also excellent. The winter wheat condition improved materially in May, and the harvesting is beginning. The area of winter wheat is considerably larger than the area harvested last year, so that there is promise of a larger yield of each variety than there was last year, when we gathered 409,442,000 bushels of winter and 224,645,000 bushels of spring wheat.

Gold fish originally came from China, and the first were sent to England in 1691.

EDUCATION FOR WOMEN

Its Main Object the Perfecting of Family and Civic Life

The main object of the higher education of women has not been kept sufficiently in view. Of course, there are other objects, plenty of them—training for the professions, training for all the varieties of work that women are now engaging in, training for all that enjoyment and usefulness that comes with knowledge of the fine arts, and with appreciation of the artistic spirit, and of what the artistic spirit can do for the activities of a nation. It is woman to whom falls in greater part the training of the population in the sense of beauty and in appreciation of the worth of beauty. Who keeps the flowers blooming in the average house lot? Who fills the one southern window with plants in tin cans and broken pieces of crockery? Who engages the florist to keep the rich house filled with flowers through all the seasons? For whom are all the beautiful objects in the rich home procured and set forth? Always by and for the woman. Who teaches the little children to enjoy the beauties of nature and of art? Always, or almost always, the woman.

I look forward, therefore, to the future of the higher education for women as a great influence in the perfecting of family life, of civic life of household joy and good.—PRESIDENT ELIOT, in Harper's Bazar.

SOME ODD EPITAPHS

People who have never studied odd inscriptions on tombstones would hardly imagine that so many things, calculated to provoke smiles, could be found. The Springfield Republican has furnished a number of ludicrous inscriptions, of which we will print a few:

Here lies the body of John Mound, Lost at sea, and never found.

John Philips, Accidentally shot as a mark of affection by his brother.

Here lies the body of Obadiah Wilkin-son and Ruth his wife. Their warfare is over.

My wife lies here. All my tears cannot bring her back. Therefore I weep.

I was somebody—who, is no business of yours.

Sacred to the memory of three twins.

Died when young and full of promise, Of whooping cough our Thomas.

Here lies the body of Dr. Hayward, A man who never voted. Of such is the kingdom of Heaven.

Here lies the body of Samuel Proctor Who lived and died without a doctor.

Here lies a man beneath this sod, Who slandered all except his God, And Him he would have slandered to, But that his God he never knew.

Here lies the mother of children five, Of whom three are dead and two alive, The three that are dead preferring rather To die with their mother than live with their father.

She was in health at 11:30 a. m. And left for heaven at 3:30 p. m.

A bird, a man, a loaded gun. No bird—dead man—Thy will be done.

Here lies William Green who died in Manchester, Sept. 18, 18—. Had he lived he would have been buried here.

Beneath this monumental stone Lies half a ton of flesh and bone.

Beneath this stone Oh stranger note, Now lies the man Who rocked the boat.

Those who are rash in removing their heavy flannels too early in the spring may learn wisdom from the fate of Uncle Peter Daniels:

Beneath this stone, a lump of clay, Lies Uncle Peter Daniels, Who early in the month of May, Took off his winter flannels.

Mrs. Marble, after the death of her husband, went to a dealer in headstones, and after reading a headstone, said: "Put on it, 'To my dearest husband,' and if there is any room left, 'We shall meet in heaven.'" The poor widow was horrified when she read the following on the headstone: "To my dearest husband, and if there be any room left, we shall meet in heaven."

In the cemetery of St. Mary's church, Oxford, England, this couplet adorns a stone over the grave of a jolly gentleman, an organist of that church: Here lies one blown out of breath, Who lived a merry life, and died a merith.

There are fewer suicides by far among women than among men.

Today's Suggestion by Ellen Stan.

SHIRT WAIST WITH GUIMPE.

THERE is a stronger tendency this season than for many years to definitely divide the everyday shirt waist from the lingerie blouse. The tailored waists are worn in the house during the day, on the street with coat suits, for the office, the schoolroom and the store. The lingerie blouse is worn in the house in the late afternoon and evening, usually with white skirts for church, for informal luncheons, for lectures and for concerts.

The guimpe shirt waist closes at the left side of the front. The pattern is cut in seven sizes—from 32 to 44 inches bust measure. To make the garment for the average person it requires 3½ yards of material 27 inches wide or 2½ yards 36 inches wide. Any reader of this paper who desires to secure this pattern may do so by sending 10 cents to this office. Give the number, 4022, state size desired and write the full address plainly. The pattern will be forwarded promptly.

THE COUNTRY FAITH.

HERE in the country's heart Where the grass is green, Life is the same sweet life As it e'er hath been.

Trust in a God still lives, And the bell, at morn, Floats with the thought of God O'er the rising corn.

God comes down in the rain, And the crops grow tall— This is the country faith, And the best of all!

—NORMAN GALE.

MONEY MADNESS

Cashier William Montgomery, who is accused of having embezzled $1,350,000 from the Allegheny National Bank, may plead insanity, and his friends will attempt to prove that money madness induced him to loot the institution.

Money mad he certainly was. To be money mad is not necessarily to be irresponsible. Deliberately Montgomery took reckless chances. He was under no delusion as to the moral quality of his act, but he was crazy for money and made little effort to resist the temptation to help himself to the bank's funds. Walker of New Britain was money mad, but he knew precisely what he was up to when he employed his position as bank treasurer as a device for lining his pockets. Many scores of other persons who are now under arrest for converting trust funds to their personal use were money mad.

But many persons who kept within the law are money mad. Their main purpose in life is to accumulate wealth. They are eager to get rich quick. They are willing to sacrifice ideals, to starve their souls, to impoverish their usefulness, in order to annex more dollars to their bank account. Narrow and barren is the life which is afflicted with money madness. Its pleasures are few and unfruitful, its helpfulness is restricted, its development is angular and uneven.—Hartford Times.

In 1906 over 100,000 persons met violent death in this country.

DID YOU EVER THINK OF THIS?

Here is a quiet description of what every woman has been, or hopes to be—a bride. She quits her home, her parents, her companions, her occupation, her amusements—everything on which she had hitherto depended for comfort, for affection, for kindness, for pleasure. The parents by whose advice she has been guided, the sisters to whom she dared impart every embryo thought and feeling, the brother who has played with her by turns, the counselor, and counseled, and the younger children, to whom she has hitherto been the mother and playmate—all to be forsaken at one fell stroke, every tie is loosened, the spring of every hope and action is changed, and yet she flies with joy into the untrodden path before her. Buoyed up by the confidence of requited love, she bids a fond, grateful adieu to the life that is past, and turns with excited hopes and joyous anticipation of happiness to come. Then woe to the man who can blight such fair hope, who can, coward-like, break the illusion that has won her, and destroy the confidence that love had inspired.—Exchange.

Liquor License Signers to be Published

The Anti-Saloon League of Frederick county has decided to hereafter publish all names of endorsers on applications for Liquor License.

Frequent request for the names of signers or endorsers on certain applications, especially from country districts, prompts the League to publish them, that this information may be given promptly to localities affected by undesirable applications as well as to give the neighborhood generally an opportunity of knowing if the law has been complied with and whether under the law there is opportunity to defeat objectionable applications.

The League activities have succeeded in closing a number of low places in Frederick county and materially reducing the total number of Liquor Licenses issued as shown by the following figures: Liquor Licenses 1906 1907 1908 Saloons..... 36 22 18 Hotels..... 12 12 11 Traders or wholesale 20 16 15

ST. ANTHONY'S LOSES

Weaver Strikes Out Eighteen Opponents

LOCALS WIN FROM TANEYTOWN

Feature of First Game Was Playing of Kerrigan at Short.—Mountain Boys Fall Down in First Inning. Score at Taneytown was 8-6.

St. Anthony's Athletic Association baseball team lost to St. Euphemia's last Saturday in the first inning when bunched hits and an error gave the locals three runs. Topper, J., hit, Stouter sent one to short and Favorite split his finger trying to handle it, Kerrigan knocked a two-bagger and Topper hit safely. While this was going on three runs were scored.

After this game Weaver settled down and allowed his opponents only one hit, striking out eighteen men. Arnold was very effective too, in the eighth inning the locals went up in the air about a mile; and had it not been for his fine work the score would have been different. Peddicord, J., was hit by a pitched ball and took first, Rosensteel went out Arnold to Topper, Kreitz bunted and the St. Euphemia's boys ascended. Baker struck out and in self-defence Weaver was given his base on balls. The next man, Favorite, struck out and three men were left on bases. The umpiring of Mr. Bowers was most satisfactory. The score:

The game at Taneytown on Tuesday was uninteresting. The field down there is bad and Mr. Foster's knowledge of baseball is a little hazy. But notwithstanding these disadvantages Emmitsburg was able to win by the score of 8-6. Mr. Foster was the umpire. The following is the score of runs by innings:

Gettysburg Wins At Last.

On Tuesday afternoon Pennsylvania College, of Gettysburg, defeated Mount St. Mary's at baseball on the local grounds. It took the Pennsylvanians ten innings to make the "riffle" but they succeeded by a score of 5 to 3. This ends the series between these two neighboring institutions and the tally sheet gives Mt. St. Mary's two games out of the three. The first game played at Gettysburg, was awarded to Mt. St. Mary's by the umpire, their opponents leaving the field after disputing a decision. The second game was won by Mt. St. Mary's, 2 to 1 the winning run being scored in the seventh inning.

The following is a full account of the game: Gettysburg College baseball team, aided by members of their alumni, defeated Mount Saint Mary's, on Echo Field, on Tuesday June 9th. The game was quite listless up to the third inning, when Gettysburg succeeded in tallying one run. The Mountaineers tied the score in the fourth and all went well until the ninth inning, when one hit added to numerous errors by the Mountaineer's allowed two more runs for Gettysburg. A home run by Barrett, singles by E. Connelly and Houghton, again tied the score in the last of the ninth inning. In the tenth Gettysburg took another lead of two points: these runs were also let in on errors. M. S. M. in this inning failed to do anything in the line of scoring, so the game ended with the score standing five to three in favor of Gettysburg.

In the latter part of the game the playing on the part of the "Gettysburgians" was decidedly off color. It is safe to say that Gettysburg has made its final appearance on the M. S. M. field.

The features of the game were Barrett's home run and the fielding and hitting of Houghton, M. S. M. substitute-in-fielder.

PICNIC ON THE FOURTH

Annual Celebration of The Vigilant Hose Company.—More Amusements Than Ever.

At the last meeting of the Vigilant Hose company arrangements were made for the annual picnic held every Fourth of July. The committees having charge of the affair promise an even more successful and pleasant day than the one of last year. The main feature of the picnic will be the tournament and ball games. Riders are expected from different parts of the country to compete in the former, and Fairfield will play Emmitsburg beside the regular game between the Ashbarrels and Sebolders. As many as possible should make their arrangements so that they can spend the day on Baker's field where the picnic will be held.

WADDLE CAUGHT BY CONSTABLE

Arrested in Bed At Creagerstown.—Officers Advised as to His Hiding Place by The Chronicle.

John Waddle was arrested Saturday morning by Constable Stull, of Thurmont, while in bed near Creagerstown. District Attorney Keith had been apprised of his whereabouts from THE CHRONICLE office where the first intimation that he was near Thurmont was received. The officers were notified and Constable Stull was sent out to find him. He went to the hotel where Waddle was staying and despite his protestations that he was not the man they were after he was arrested and taken to Gettysburg.

He will be tried in August on the charge of attacking Jenny Nary with intent to commit murder.

Petition of Water Company Refused.

The Baltimore American printed the following version of the recent hearing of the petition of the Emmitsburg Water Company:

A petition by the Emmitsburg Water Company for a writ of mandamus to compel the burgess and commissioners of Emmitsburg, this county, to levy an eight-cent tax upon the property in the town to pay the cost to furnish water to the town, has been dismissed by the Circuit Court of Frederick County, the judges sustaining a demurrer offered by attorneys for the town. The town authorities maintained that an eight-cent tax would more than meet the cost of the water service.

SOME CURRENCY PARANOICS

Sanity Missing In Statesmen Who Govern This County.—Intelligence of People Underrated.

The frantic efforts of the politicians—they do not deserve the name statesmen—to pass some kind of currency bill would provoke mirth did they not reveal a deplorable absence of sanity among those charged with the sacred duty of governing the country, says the New York Journal of Commerce. In their feverish anxiety to do something—anything—before being cast adrift on the turbulent voyage that ends on Nov. 3, the politicians are ready to sink principle for any catch-vote expedient, no matter how vicious, that they imagine will save them from the reproach of having done nothing to set our currency laws right, utterly forgetful of the fact that no action were infinitely better than action that would not only improve our currency system, but seriously retard proper reform. Is it just possible that the legislators who think and act thus underrate the intelligence of the people?

WORSE THAN HYDROPHOBIA.

It seems fitting, and at this season timely, says the New York Tribune, to invite earnest attention to another scourge which in many respects so closely resembles hydrophobia as often to be mistaken for it, which is more painful and only a little less deadly than that dreaded destroyer, and which in the extent of its ravages incomparably exceeds it. We suppose that more people die of tetanus in this country each year than have died here of hydrophobia in all the years since the republic was founded, and of these the great majority are victims of what we might call Fourth of July tetanus, directly induced by injuries received on or about the Fourth of July through the use of toy pistols and certain cheap, noisy, nasty and altogether offensive kinds of fireworks. The death roll from such cases, which is published yearly as a ghastly pendant to the record of Independence Day rejoicings and festivities, is appalling. Contrasted with it and its significance of physical torture and loss of human lives, this one report of death from hydrophobia pales into insignificance.

Like Human Toe Nails.

Few persons realize, says the New York Sun, that a horse's hoof is really the same thing as the toe nails of human beings or of animals having toes. The horn of a hoof grows just as a toe nail does. The hoof grows more rapidly in unshod horses than in those wearing shoes, and it grows faster in horses which are well groomed and well fed. But on an average the horn grows about a third of an inch a month. Hind hoofs grow faster than fore hoofs. The toe of the hoof being the longest part, it takes longer for the horn to grow down there than at the heel. For instance, the toe will grow entirely down in from eleven to thirteen months, while the heel will grow down in from three to five months. As the new horn grows out any cracks of defects in the old gradually work down to where they can be cut off, just as with human finger nails you can watch the progress of a bruise from the root to the tip.

When Smoking is Least Harmful.

It is quite certain that much may be done to diminish the risk of tobacco amblyopia by paying attention to certain points of personal hygiene.

For instance, a rule should be made never to smoke upon an empty stomach, but as far as possible only after meals. It is absolutely bad to smoke before dinner, and equally bad to smoke late at night to keep awake at one's work. It should also be forbidden to chew the cigar between the teeth, as many smokers are wont to do.—The Hospital.

A Wireless Message

A little girl, being punished by her mother, flew, white with rage, to her desk, wrote on a piece of paper, and then going out in the yard she dug a hole in the ground, put the paper in it and covered it over.

The mother being interested in her child's doings, went out after the little girl had gone away, dug up the paper and read:

"Dear Devil:

"Please come and take my mamma away."

Vesuvius proves to be a fertilizer factory of strenuous kind. Dr. Stoklasa, of Prague, calculates that in the late eruption the crater threw out upon the surrounding ground about 50,000,000 tons of mud, sand, ashes, lava, etc., containing an average of 0.1 per cent. of nitrogen. This product of 50,000 tons of nitrogenous fertilizer is more than is used in the whole of England. In addition, the mountain has made enormous deposits of potassium phosphate and other fertilizing salts, and the vapors constantly rising from the crater are laden with plant food.

GETTYSBURG DEFEATS FAIRFIELD

After three years of trying Gettysburg finally defeated Fairfield last Wednesday [June 3] on their home grounds the score of 6 to 5. It was a well played and hard fought game throughout, being anybody's game until the last man was out in the ninth inning. The pitching of W. Hartzell was sensational, he striking out eight of the first ten men who faced him and having a total 14 strikeouts. S. Hartzell robbed Fairfield of two runs in the seventh by a one-handed catch of a liner over third. Sheaffer, Swisher and Miller also starred for Gettysburg, while Marshall, Shryock and Miller starred for Fairfield. Raymond Dillfeld umpired. His decisions met with the approval of both teams. A POINTER FOR PREACHERS

Here is a story of a church worker who stands a pretty good show of some day becoming Secretary of the United States Treasury, according to the New York Times. He serves in a church that is popular with young men. Shortly after he assumed the duties of usher there was an apparent increase in the general collections. At the same time it was noticed that the young men who attended church singly or in pairs were seated, whenever it was possible, in a pew where there was at least one good-looking girl. At first it was thought that that circumstance might indicate a possible connection on the young man's part with a matrimonial agency, but that suggestion he denied indignantly.

"If you'll just watch the collections," he said, "you'll know why I seat them so. I've kept an eye on those co-educational pews and I find that any man will contribute twice as much money to the church when there is a young woman sitting besides him to see how much he gives. Propinquity may in some such cases promote matrimony, but that is not my lookout. It is the collections I am interested in."

A "Preserve Shower"

A novelty in showers for brides—or brides-to-be—is a "preserve shower." Each friend donates a jar or tumbler of currant, strawberry, raspberry or any other kind of fruit done up in jam, marmalade, etc. If the bride goes at once to housekeeping these things are particularly acceptable. Even in these days when nearly everything can be purchased it is splendid to have a choice supply on hand for immediate needs. A shower of these into the pantry of a prospective bride is very much appreciated.—Exchange.

PREPARING STATE GUARD CAMP

Water Mains And Excavations Made Ready at Gettysburg.—Maneuvers To Be Greatest Feature.

Preliminary work on the laying of water mains and excavations for the National Guard camp at Gettysburg next month have been started and next week a detachment of the first engineer company will be sent from Scranton to make surveys of the roads surrounding the battlefield so that brigade and regimental commanders may be furnished with blue prints of the territory for use in marches and mock skirmish work. It is intended to make the maneuvers this year one of the greatest features of the encampment.

WANTED.

God give us men! A time like this demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith, and ready hands; Men whom the lust of office does not kill; Men whom the spoils of office do not buy; Men who possess opinions and a will; Men who have honor—men who will not lie; Men who can stand before a demagogue And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking; Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog In public duty, and in private thinking; For while the rabble with their thumb-worn creeds, Their large professions and their little deeds—Mingle in selfish strife, lo! Freedom weeps, Wrong rules the land and waiting Justice sleeps!

The relic has authentic pedigree, and for a long time was in the possession of Selkirk's relatives in Fifeshire, Scotland. The price paid for the gun was $160.

POTATO GROWING IS PROFITABLE

"We note," writes the Lancaster (Pa.) New Era, a journal published in the "Garden County" of the United States, "from reports received that an unusual acreage of potatoes will be or has been planted in this county this spring. Next to tobacco, potatoes can be made our best paying farm crop. The trouble is, they do not receive the attention they should have. Up in Maine, where potato-growing is more successfully carried on than anywhere else in the United States, the grower never expects less than two hundred bushels to the acre, and generally gets three hundred bushels, and sometimes more. They spare no pains up there to put the ground in excellent order; they work it until it is in proper condition, no matter how often they have to go over it. Then they are lavish with their fertilizers. A ton of some approved high-grade article to the acre is about as little as they use; often they use more. They begin to work the young plants about as soon as they appear. They receive several complete spraying during the growing season, no matter whether they appear to need it or not. In short, neither time, labor nor expense is considered. The result is what they are after, and they generally get what they look for. One hundred bushels to the acre is a fairly good yield in an average year hereabouts; if that yield can be doubled by mere high-grade fertilizer and extra care during the growing season the greater part of the increase will be extra profit. It will pay to do these things every time."

COMMENTS ON WOMAN'S EDITION

As a result of female editorship, last week, the edition of the Emmitsburg CHRONICLE required the addition of two pages, or ten in all. It is somewhat difficult to tell where the ladies commenced or left off, as they seem to have tried to conceal their identity, but whether they deserve credit for much, little or all of the issue, it was a mighty good one.—Carroll Record.

THE EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE.

THE CHRONICLE, published at Emmitsburg, this county, by Mr. Sterling Galt, has entered upon its 30th year. In the three years that Mr. Galt has had charge of the CHRONICLE, the paper has developed into a high class publication, neat in appearance and overflowing each week with local and general news, special local articles, choice miscellany and able editorials. The CHRONICLE like all progressive papers, is a strong advocate of public improvements, and has done much toward the upbuilding of Emmitsburg.

Last week's issue of the CHRONICLE was edited by the ladies of the town, and it took ten pages, or two more than usual to tell what they had to say. They had nine columns of editorials, one of which was on memorial day and another against the saloon. In other editorials the ladies advocated for Emmitsburg a fine town hall, new street crossings, cleaner streets, the beautifying of the railroad station, a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, better street lights, a street sprinkler, the trimming of the trees, a health board, a woman's exchange, a better appreciation of music, loyalty to the town, &c., all of which goes to show, that if the ladies had the management of the town, things would be vastly better.—Valley Register.

Women Edit the Chronicle.

Sterling Galt turned the Emmitsburg (Md.) CHRONICLE over to the women of the city to edit last week, and the result was gratifying. The editorial page was well filled with wise observations and good advice, and the news columns contained much interesting local matter.—Editor & Publisher.

There are indications that coeducation will be introduced in the common schools of Berlin in the lowest classes and up to the point where the girls begin to get instruction in domestic science.

PROBLEM OF COST OF LIVING.

slave as though you were the iron collar around your neck. Of course you are, but when a slave likes being a slave, likes slaving around for sympathy so much that he won't quit being a slave and would buy sympathy at so much per, like patent medicine, dealt out in Copper Union—why, then one need not be very sorry for such slavery.

"I spent fifteen years slaving in an office in New York," declared a Nebraska man who had gone into intensive fruit farming in the irrigated belt. "We never could make headway and I was afraid to cut loose for fear my wife wouldn't like to give up all the foldovers of town. I wouldn't leave the job, and so I got older and the job left me after having spent fifteen years of the best of my life; and now I'm making bigger money as my own master, and have spent the last ten years wondering why I was such a fool as to stay back there so long."

"Take a run out through the State around your own local city, and you will find the same transition in process—town men like Powell up at Rochester and John Burroughs on the Hudson clearing from $1,700 to $2,500 a year by which the farmers used to call 'fancy tiffies'; girls and woman who used to pound typewriters for their bread now out in New Jersey and Delaware clearing from $1,000 to $2,000 a year violet farming, carnation growing, dairying, truck farming. Only remember this—the new trick is not to be accomplished unlearned any more than your present position could be successfully filled by a green hand."

"Whether the dream of some great scientists will come true in the present century remains to be seen. Certainly we are in a transition period. The present conditions for many office men and many office women are absolutely impossible. Brains men and brains women are not going to accept salaries lower than the wages of a coal heaver for difficult office work or the more nerve-wrecking work of teaching. The conditions have become more acute with the increased cost of living. Salaries have not increased in proportion to expenses, in proportion to the increase in rent and the cost of food. Few would deny the feeling of universal unrest, discontent, resentment against pressure. The remedy protested by the Socialists we all know. Here, then, is the dream of the practical scientist. Think it over to-night instead of kicking against fate."

"In another century the cities will have become mere manufacturing and distributing centres. The country will be criss-crossed with trolleys and traversed from end to end by cheap electric motors. All people will live in the country and own their own land. Electric power or gasoline power will work the land and cultivate the soil and harvest the crop. This is the case today on the big farms of the West. No man will willingly live in the cities. Only paupers will house in the cities that are crowded to-day. Science will have taught man ways of cultivating the soil that will yield a living for a whole family where to-day it yields only the support of one person. Hand labor in the big manufacturing establishments will have become so distasteful and the pressure that forces men into it will have become so relieved by the migration from city to country that labor will command higher and higher wages till labor and capital are literally forced into an even partnership."

DIMINUENDO.

The ship upon clearing the harbor ran into a half-pitching, half-rolling sea, that became particularly noticeable about the time the twenty-five passengers at the captain's table sat down to dinner. "I hope that all twenty-five of you will have a pleasant trip," the captain told them as the soup appeared, "and that this little assemblage of twenty-four will reach port much benefited by the voyage. I look upon these twenty-two smiling faces much as a father does upon his family, for I am responsible for the safety of this group of seventeen. I hope that all thirteen of you will join me later in drinking to a merry trip. I believe that we seven fellow-passengers are most congenial and I applaud the judgment which chose from the passenger list these three persons for my table. You and I, my dear sir, are—here, steward! Bring on the fish and clear away these dishes."—The Argonaut.

Reason For Objection.

Fond mother—"Why don't you like your room-mate at college, Reginald? The professor told me he would be a good companion for you, because he studies so hard."

Young Collegian—"But, mother, he uses so many sesquipedalian words."

Fond Mother—"That settle it, my son. I don't want you to be contaminated by association with anybody who uses such dreadful language."—Baltimore American.

ATTACKING THE STRAWBERRY.

ness, a desire to be alone, great irritability.

The trouble is ascribed to the strawberry acids, of which there are said to be three, phosphoric, sulphuric and salicylic, and it is the last-named which is believed to cause all the trouble. The berries which produce the worst effect are the large ones; the small berries are usually quite harmless. The fruit, if taken at all, should be eaten without cream or sugar, and nobody should eat more than a dozen at a time.

The wise ones tell us that in addition to irritability sufferers have strawberry rash and strawberry headache, and thus the luscious, luxurious, much-loved strawberry—the festive, ever-sought-for strawberry of church-festival fame—goes to its doom. But after all it has served the world well.

What a relief to lay all our troubles and bad tempers at its door! We used, perhaps, to feel a little conscious-stricken when we had been out rather late the night before, got up with a bad taste in our mouth, and managed to worry down a dish of strawberries, feeling as we set forth to our daily toil that every man's hand was against us. I say in the days gone by we used to feel that the bad temper was of our own choosing, but we were wrong, all wrong; we had nothing at all to do with it; it was all the fault of those blasted strawberries. We might have stayed up all night if we had wanted to and felt none the worse, if we had let that dish of strawberries alone. No more tempting, soul-destroying berries for ours; no, not, at least, until the price goes down.

his desire to keep the scandal from publicity, and to save his pride as well as to protect his daughter, Thelma M., he had refrained from making this phase of the case public. He alleges that he charged his wife with misconduct with Wellington, and that she admitted it, at the same time begging him not to desert him, declaring that she was forced into her relation with Wellington because her father did not support her.

Dr. Wilson continued to live with his wife and in July, 1905, he says, he discovered that she was in correspondence with Wellington; that Wellington was a visitor at his house, and that the knowledge of his wife's misconduct broke up his home.

Later he alleges, he went to the Crescent Club to live, and provided quarters for Mrs. Wilson and their child in a flat. He alleges that he paid all of his wife's living expenses until he discovered that despite her promises she was continuing to receive Wellington.

Counsel for Dr. Wilson some time ago filed a suit at Cumberland against Wellington, claiming $50,000 damages. A declaration was never filed in the case, because, according to Dr. Wilson's counsel, Wellington's influence in the town was so strong that there was no chance of securing a verdict.

Wellington was in the United States Senate when President McKinley was assassinated. He was expelled from the Union League Club here for alleged unpleasant remarks made on hearing of the assassin's deed, and had a narrow escape from being expelled from the Senate. Wellington had quarrelled with McKinley on the Philippine question, being a radical anti-imperialist, and finally left his party in a huff because of this and his personal dislike of the President. He allied himself with W. J. Bryan in the 1900 campaign, taking the stump in the Nebraska case. He has always been deeply interested in Western Maryland politics, and recently deserted young Lowndes, son of the former Governor, to join Pearre in the Congressional fight.

Leader of Evangelistic Campaign.

John Herman Converse, leader in the movement for a world-wide evangelistic campaign to be begun by the Presbyterian Church within a year, is one of the owners of the Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia, and has been conspicuous in many benevolent and religious enterprises. In church matters he also has been prominent, and in the General Presbyterian Assembly of 1900 he was chosen vice moderator. Mr. Converse is the son of a Presbyterian clergyman and was born at Burlington, Vt., Dec. 2, 1840, and was educated in the State University. He began life as a newspaper man. Subsequently he went to Chicago and entered the service of the Northwestern Railroad; later he joined the Pennsylvania system at Altoona, and in 1870 he entered the employment of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, becoming a member of the firm three years later. Mr. Converse is a trustee of Princeton Seminary and member of the American Philosophical Society.

HE WISHES US GOOD LUCK.

France there are some nominal Catholics who do not count. I think there is improvement all around. In all the Christian countries I think the movement is forward.

"How is it in other sects outside the Catholic communion?" His Eminence was asked.

"I would not put it that way—as a decline in Christianity," he replied significantly. "I would say that the other sects are growing more material."

Of the question of Irish immigration he said:

"Immigration takes the brawn and muscle of Ireland. I don't know the figures. They are computed officially and published periodically, but there is no doubt that it would be better for her brawn and muscle to remain in Ireland so long as they can procure maintenance. Ireland needs her brawn and muscle for Ireland's preservation."

"The Irish immigrant has done much to help in the building up of America, and it is time now to begin the rejuvenation of Ireland itself."

"Oh, no, I am afraid I shall never come back to America," said His Eminence when the whistle sounded and there came the "All ashore!" warning. "America is too active a place for me. I am getting too old to cross the Atlantic again, although I am a good sailor and never sick."

"I have a great affection for your country. It is wonderful!"

DAY OF THE CIRCUS HORSE.

It was a fiery circus horse That ramped and stamped and neighed, Till every creature in its course Fleed, frightened and dismayed. The chickens on the roadway's edge Arose and flapped their wings, And, making for the sheltering hedge, Flew off like crazy things.

Nor iron gates nor fences barred That metted steel's career. It galloped right across our yard And filled us all with fear; And when it tossed its head and ran Straight through the pantry door, Cook almost dropped her frying pan Upon the kitchen floor.

It neighed and pranced and wheeled about And scampered off, but then We scarcely saw the creature out When it was in again. And so throughout the livelong day, Through house and yard and street, That charger held its fearsome way And only stopped to eat.

But when at dusk, a little lame, It slowly climbed the stairs, Behold! a gentle lady came And made it say its prayers. Now, what a wondrous change you see! 'Sh! Come and take a peep—Here lies, as tame as tame can be, A little boy, asleep! —T. A. DALY in Catholic Standard and Times.

The True Missionary Spirit

The decision of Bishop Brent to remain in the Philippines raises that man still higher in the esteem of his friends in this country, says the Boston Transcript. He is not willing to exchange his difficult and really dangerous work in the Philippines for the far easier and more comfortable post in Washington. For years such transfers have been almost a scandal in the Episcopal Church. It is very easy for a missionary bishop from the West in visiting Eastern dioceses thus to obtain a coign of vantage so that his advancement to an Eastern diocese is readily accomplished. All such transfers, obviously, have not been attended with these offensive circumstances, but some have been. The recent declinations of Bishop Rowe to leave Alaska and Bishop Brent to leave the Philippines have shown that they are true missionaries, unwilling to give up their posts of duty and danger until their unique work is done. May their example find many followers!

If Thaw Were Released.

The fact is that young Thaw has become immune to capital punishment. If he should be released and turned out on the community he could kill any other man who offended him and the only result would be to leave him right where he is at present. He could not possibly be given the punishment that would be likely to come to a better man guilty of a similar offense. The only thing to do when he came into a restaurant or a theatre or a hotel would be to put on your hat and quit. He might mistake anybody present for someone against whom he had a grudge. A crazy man is more likely to make mistakes than a sane one. Whoever did offend him would do so at the risk of life itself. It should be provided by law that murderers, acquitted on the ground of insanity, must stay in confinement for the rest of their worthless lives.—Hartford Courant.

Three hundred Berlin streets are planted with 44,000 trees, which are said to represent a value of $190,000. Nearly a thousand gardeners and assistants are employed to take care of them.
