JAPANESE AND EDUCATION

Hospitality of Japanese Women

SURPRISES AMERICANS

Balance Between Culture and Practical Studies

GIRLS ALL ATTEND HIGH SCHOOL

Trained to Become Noble Gentlewomen and Good Wives and Mothers.—Some Peculiar Features of Their Schooling and Household Duties.

The eyes of America have been focused on Japan during the last two weeks and several things have been discovered concerning that interesting country and people that have hitherto escaped notice. The hospitality of the little yellow people and their culture have been the source of most pleasant surprise to their guests, the members of the American fleet. Our bluejackets are now marvelling at the hospitality, tact, and culture of Japanese women. Sumi Myakawa explains in the "International" how these feminine graces are being systematically attained. His account suggests that, at least, in housewifery, Japanese education is more advanced than our own, while the balance it maintains between cultural and practical studies is nicer than that struck by most American teachers.

Public sympathy towards women's education is now very keen; parents send their daughters to the high school again. Thus woman's education in Japan has revived, carefully avoiding the former mistakes, and making its chief object now to train girls to become noble gentlewomen and good wives and mothers. To fulfill this condition a girl must have a knowledge of literature, history, geography, and mathematics, science, and Japanese etiquette. Besides, she must know all the domestic arts thoroughly, especially dressmaking, as in Japan this is one of the chief household cares. All dresses are made at home, and cleaned at the end of each season. They are unpicked, washed, and then re-sewn. This a great work for housewives, for not only do we manage our own dresses but those of the household, including the men. Therefore needlework and dressmaking is most important to a girl, or she will not be a useful wife in our poor country where we must practise economy.

WHAT WAR WOULD COST EUROPE

Conditions are Extremely Grave in Near East.—May Bring on the Nations a Terrible Money Expense.

If war breaks out in the Near East, according to a leading authority, writing for the Republique Francaise, it would be one of the greatest calamities that ever befell Europe. Jules Roche, a well-known member of the French Chamber of Deputies says that such a struggle would mean for Great Britain a daily loss of $16,000,000; for the German Empire, $13,000,000; and for France, $8,200,000. On top of this startling statement of expenses comes the news that direct diplomatic communications between Austria and Turkey have ceased and that the first named kingdom will attend a conference of the Powers when the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina is registered as an accomplished fact.

Famous Reformer Gives Up Work.

The work of Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst as an active reformer is now probably a thing of the past, owing to his resignation of the presidency of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, a position he has held for seventeen years. His resignation was made public on Monday.

WILL HONOR HER SONS

Pennsylvania's Magnificent Tribute in Stone

THE GETTYSBURG MEMORIAL

Finest and Most Costly Monument on Historic Battlefield.—In Design a Double Arch With Statues of Lincoln and Curtin.

The design for the handsomest memorial on the Gettysburg Battlefield, the one to commemorate the bravery of the sons of Pennsylvania, has been decided upon by the Pennsylvania Monument Commission which met at Harrisburg on Saturday last. The design selected, according to the Gettysburg Times, when perfected in stone will be the finest and most costly memorial on the field. It will be a double arch, surmounted by a dome on which will be a large figure of Victory. The distance from the ground to the top of this figure will be 104 feet and the base of the arches will cover 10,000 square feet.

On the four sides of the double arch will be steps leading to the arches. The entire memorial will be surrounded by a low wall of solid masonry, broken only where the steps ascend. Bronze tablets, ninety-six in number containing the names of all the Pennsylvania soldiers who took part in the battle will be placed in this wall. Twelve columns, Ionic in style, will support the platform carrying the dome. Above each of the four arches the word "Pennsylvania" will be carved in relief and above each of these a bas-relief in bronze will be placed allegorizing the four branches of the service, infantry, cavalry, signal corps and artillery. These will be twelve feet long and six feet high. On either side of the entrance of the structure will be two statues, one of Lincoln and the other of Pennsylvania's war governor, Curtin. A spiral stairway will be placed in the one corner of the memorial which will lead to the base of the dome where a magnificent view of the surrounding field will be possible.

The sites which have been thought best for this structure are on the East side of Hancock avenue between the Meade statue and the monument to the regular soldiers, and at the corner of Pleasanton and Hancock avenues. W. L. Cottrell, of New York, is the architect and Samuel Murray, of Philadelphia, the sculptor. Mr. Cottrell captured the $500 prize for the best design.

WRIGHTS TO TRY AGAIN

Successful Aviators Preparing For Next Test

INJURED BROTHER RECOVERING

French Official Trials Over Wilbur Wright Will Soon be Able To Take Up Work Here.—Tests to be Made Early Next June.

Orville Wright, the aviator whose aeroplane fell during a practice flight at Fort Meyer near Washington a few weeks ago, resulting in the death of Lieutenant Selfridge and serious injuries to himself, has so far recovered as to be able to receive visitors in his room in the United States Army Hospital at the Fort and in a month or so will begin the building of a new machine for making the test. Owing to the accident the War Department extended the time which Mr. Wright would be allowed for making the test until next June. It is believed that by that time Mr. Wright will have sufficiently recovered to make the official flights but if he is not able then they will be undertaken by his brother, Wilbur Wright, whose experiments at Le Mans, France, have been so successful. This brother is now on his way to America having sold his machine for $100,000 to a French syndicate which is to begin manufacturing machines for sale.

For days after the accident to Orville Wright the bulletin boards showed frequent announcement of his condition. The sorrow that was felt for him in his disappointment and suffering was not less than that manifested by the Germans when Count Zeppelin's airship was wrecked. Mr. Wright has financial backing and the men whose sympathy had been touched even to the pocket nerve were not compelled to cash in.

Ignorance is a voluntary misfortune.

HOW PRESIDENTS ARE ELECTED

Only The Preliminary Canter Is Run On The Third Of November

ELECTORAL COLLEGE WILL VOTE ON JANUARY 11

Each State Selects Its Own Electors Not Under Congressional Supervision or Prescription

SOME INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE CHOICE OF A PRESIDENT

An Electoral Primer for Study of American Voters.—Choice by Separate States Is Fairer to Country as a Whole Limiting Possible Undue Influence.—President May be Chosen by Minority of the Popular Vote as in the Case of Benjamin Harrison and J. Q. Adams.—Successful Candidate Must Have Supporters in Half the States.

The following questions were proposed and answered by the Kansas City Star:

Will the President of the United States be elected November 3?

He will not. The people in each State will merely choose a set of electors of most of whom they have never heard. What will the electors do?

They will assemble in their state capitals the second Monday in January and ballot for President and Vice President. Each of these assemblies is called an electoral college. There are many electoral colleges as there are States. The Territories and the District of Columbia have no Presidential vote.

Suppose a candidate should die between the November election and the date of the assembling of the electoral colleges?

The electors would probably receive instructions from a national convention or from recognized party leaders. In 1872, when Greeley, the minority candidate, died after the election, his votes were scattered. Six Georgia electors, for instance, voted for B. Gratz Brown and three for Greeley. The Greeley votes were rejected by Congress. Thomas A. Hendricks and Brown divided the votes that had been intended for Greeley.

Does the Constitution prescribe how electors must be chosen?

No. It leaves this to the States. Are they not always voted for on a general ticket?

They happen to be now. But a legislature may provide differently. In 1876 the Colorado legislature chose the State electors. Mr. Thomas Watson said the other day that under the laws of Georgia if no ticket receives a majority in Georgia the choice of electors is thrown into the legislature. In 1862 Michigan voted on its electors by Congressional districts.

How do States sometimes split their electoral votes?

Occasionally a popular elector will receive enough complimentary votes to elect him, even if his fellows on the ticket are defeated. Sometimes mistakes in marking ballots will result in a divided electoral vote in a close State.

What determines the date of the national election?

In 1845 Congress prescribed that it be held on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November. Before that time some of the State held elections on different days.

Does a plurality in electoral colleges elect?

No. The Constitution provides that if no candidate shall receive a majority of the electoral votes the election shall be thrown into the House, the three highest candidates only being voted on. Can a man be elected President by a minority of the popular votes?

Yes. In 1824 Andrew Jackson had a plurality of 50,000 over J. Q. Adams and in 1888 Grover Cleveland had a plurality of nearly 100,000 over Benjamin Harrison.

Is there any justification for election by States rather than by direct popular vote?

Yes. Elections by States is probably fairer to the country as a whole. Otherwise some limited section of the country might acquire undue influence. Thus the manufacturing State of Pennsylvania may give as huge a Republican vote as it pleases, but it can deliver only thirty-four electoral votes. Under the present system no President can be chosen who has not supporters in about half the States of the Union.

SCHOOL TEACHER ASSAULTED

Young Man Knocked Down by Highwaymen and Robbed.—Authorities On Lookout.

News was received here last Friday of a murderous assault made on a school teacher who resides near Harney. Russell Shoemaker, the young man in question, teaches at the Bish School, near Deep Run, Carroll county. On Thursday night he was held up by three highwaymen who beat him over the head, slashed him with knives and robbed him of his watch and a sum of money. After the men had left him and he regained his strength he walked to his home near Harney, a distance of sixteen miles. On Friday accompanied by his father he drove to Westminster and reported the case to the authorities.

THE INDISPENSABLE TELEPHONE

Seven Million Instruments In Use In The United States and 18,624,000 Calls a Day in 1907.

As accurately as can be estimated, the number of telephones in use to-day is about 9,500,000, little over 7,000,000 of which are in the United States, 2,000,000 in Europe and the remainder in all the other parts of the world. Such figures, however, cannot be taken as absolutely reliable. The rapid strides with which the telephone is becoming more and more indispensable to mankind is born out by the statement that the Bell companies recorded an average of 18,624,000 calls a day during 1907, which would be about 75 calls for every man, woman and child in the United States for the year.

HALLOWE'EN CUSTOMS

Link That Connects Us With Barbarism

ITS RELIGIOUS SIGNIFICATION

Popularly Associated With Things Supernatural.—Ceremonies in England, Scotland and this Country Relics of Paganism.

To-morrow night is Hallowe'en, sacred to the bad boy and the superstitious lass. Hobgoblins walk the streets much to the discomfort of the timid and on the morrow the birds feast on the corn that strews the walks, the careful housewife wipes the molasses from the door-bell knob.

The venter of civilization is not very thick for all these customs show how short a distance we are removed from our pagan and barbaric ancestors. Hallowe'en or Hallowe'en, the evening of the 31st of October, although it gets its name from its religious significance, being the eve or vigil of All Hallow's, or the festival of All Saints, Day the first of November, is associated in the popular imagination with the prevalence of supernatural influences, and is clearly a relic of pagan times. The fantastic garbs worn by the young fellows on the streets, the pranks and foolish acts of even the grownups have little or no religious signification.

In the North of England, Hallowe'en is known as Nutcrack Night. In Scotland the ceremonies of the eve were formerly regarded in a highly superstitious light, and Robert Burns' "Hallowe'en" gives a humorous and richly imaginative presentment of the usual ceremonies as practised in Scottish rural districts in his days. Our customs in this country are but a reflection of the habits of our ancestors brought down from the days of the Druids on one side and the pagans of Teutonic blood, changed somewhat by time and mixture with one another and slightly modernized. For instance the lighting of candles while not entirely devoid of religious significance to some, may be traced to Scottish bonfires celebrating the gathered harvest, a ceremony older than Christianity. The desire to see into the future, a curiosity not in any way connected with the religious idea of future life, is especially marked at Hallowe'en celebrations. The principal object of this curiosity seems to be to discover who should be the partner in life. It is a widespread popular belief that children born on hallowe'en can see and talk with supernatural beings.

MENACING HOUSE FLY

Hospital Experiments Show Them Up in Bad Light

CAN CARRY BACILLI OF LEPROSY

Medical Investigation at Marine Hospital Makes It Appear That Screens Are Most Effective Expedient Against Pest.

Another enemy of the familiar house fly has entered the field and a hard campaign will be waged against the pest. Experiments in the Marine Hospital at Washington resulted in holding the bothersome house fly again responsible for spreading disease and it is said that the bacilli of leprosy may be carried and spread by flies that have feasted upon dead leprosy rats. It is clear that the rat and the fly are doomed, for both are accused of being the purveyors of some of the most dreadful and loathsome diseases that are known to man. Dr. William Wherry of the Marine Hospital service who has been carrying on his investigations with regard to leprosy in various parts of the country asserts that leprosy is frequently acquired by flies and cites the best authorities in confirmation of his theory. The insects gather on the ulcers of lepers and later bite well persons, or they may gather on rats which have died from the disease and carry away on their wings and feet the dread bacilli. After many centuries of medical investigation it would appear that after all the most effective preventive of disease is not to be bought in the drug stores but at the hardware stores for perfect screening of all windows and doors is the only expedient for ridding one's self of the menace of flies until some method is found for exterminating them altogether.

IS IT A CRIME TO HUNT

A Kentucky Journal Thinks No

KODAK HUNTER'S PLEA

Wants to Increase Sale of Books by Pictures

BACK TO OLD-FASHIONED SPORT

Deer in the Woods and Hog in the Puddle Both Good for Man to Eat Like-wise the Partridge.—Is It Cruel to Assassinate a Chicken or Lamb.

No one who knows anything about the trade of making and selling books, remarks the Louisville Courier-Journal, will misunderstand the motives of the nature writers who are protesting at every possible opportunity against the wicked practice of hunting game with a gun instead of a kodak. They know the power of printer's ink. They need advertising, and they secure it. But the nature lovers, whose excitement over the crime of hunting is due to the efforts of the writers, are doomed to disappointment, and are somewhat deserving of ridicule. They should know better than to take seriously the gentlemen who champion the cause of the coyote and the timber wolf for the vulgar purpose of raising scads, and who denounce the savagery of the sportsman because every line that is printed upon the subject of their views increases the probability of sales.

The project of preserving game to the end that amateur photographers and makers of books shall have an opportunity to study wild animals and birds will hardly appeal to any considerable number of law makers.

Of course hunting as a form of recreation for human beings would not be indorsed by a congress of wild animals, but was pork packing as a legitimate industry ever indorsed by a hog? Did a right-thinking hen ever look with favor upon the pastime of eating fried chicken a la Maryland! Was a steer ever known to regard the raising of cattle for the deliberate purpose of making boots of their hides, beef of their flesh, and glue of their hoofs, as just and humane!

It is easy to exaggerate the cruelty of hunting and to picture the sportsman as a savage, satiating his thirst for gore by shedding the blood of the innocent. But, getting down to brass.

HAGERSTOWN'S NEW INDUSTRY.

Largest Manufacturing Plant in the City Changes Hands.—May Employ One Thousand Hands.

A deal has been completed by which the plant in Hagerstown of the Pope Automobile Company will become the property of the Montrose Metal Casket Company. It is said the price agreed upon is between $65,000 and $70,000. The sale will have to be ratified by the court before it becomes effective, the Pope Company now being in the hands of receivers.

The Pope plant is the largest manufacturing plant in Hagerstown, representing a floor space of more than three acres, and when the bicycle business was at highwater mark it gave employment to as many as 1,700 workmen. The original cost of the plant is said to have been several hundred thousand dollars.

Mr. Anderson states that he has no intention of leaving his Maryland work unfinished and that so long as the people continue to support the work as they have in the past he will retain personal charge of the efforts to secure the state-wide Local Option bill, the same as in the past, until after the next legislature and as much longer as necessary, and that in the meantime he will continue to reside in Baltimore.

Useful Election Day Advice

Election Day is Tuesday, November 3. The polls will be open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 in the evening. Every registered voter should make use of his privilege.

See that the ballot given you has endorsed upon it the initials of the judge who gave it out.

See to it that the judge who gives you the ballot calls out your name and residence in a distinct voice.

Vote your ticket by marking a cross (X) mark in the space provided therefore to the right of and opposite the names of the presidential candidates and also by making a cross (X) mark in the square to the right of and opposite the name of the congressional candidate for whom you wish to vote. No other marks are necessary or required to vote the ticket unless it is desired to give a complimentary vote to presidential electors other than those named under the names of the presidential candidates.

Do not make any other marks on the ballot. Any mark whatever on the ballot except a cross (X) mark will cause the ballot to be rejected.

Do not make a dot or a circle or any other mark but a cross (X) mark in the square.

If you mark any square on your ballot with any kind of a mark other than the cross (X) mark your ballot will not be counted.

Be sure not to deface or tear your ballot in any way.

If you make a mistake in marking it, do not attempt to make a correction; return it to the Judge and get another. You are entitled to a third ballot if the first two have been spoiled and returned, but you must not consume more than seven minutes in marking it.

Mark your ballot with the indelible pencil which you will find in the election booth.

Do not use your own pencil; your ballot will not be counted if you do.

After marking your ballot, fold it exactly as it was folded when handed to you by the Judge, and give it to the ballot Judge without permitting any one to see how you have marked it.

See that the Judge tears off the coupon and deposits the ballot in the ballot box.

Now is the time to post your land. Trespasses notice for sale at THE CHRONICLE office for five cents. Oct 30-3

Board to Improve Montevue.

The Board of Charities and Corrections on Wednesday at a meeting decided to improve Montevue Hospital, which was severely criticised several weeks ago by Dr. Herring, of the State Lunacy Commission, says the Baltimore Sun.

A member of the board said that the improvement was not planned because of Dr. Herring's criticism, but because it has been in contemplation for some time. In criticising the failure of the city to supply a sufficient quantity of water for the institution the member said:

"Yesterday there was no water on the second floor of the building, although both reservoirs were full of water. There are times when we have to pump water from a spring which has been condemned by the health authorities for sanitary purposes, and the water for drinking is carried from a spring on the farm adjoining the hospital farm."

The county pays the city $300 a year water rent.

DUSTING CAP AND APRON.

IN these days every woman has a number of gowns that may make frequent visits to the laundry, and the preference this season is for plique and linen suits of the three piece order. They are decidedly smart and becoming and consist of a skirt, jacket and a jumper or overblouse, and with them are worn slips or guimpes of mull, nainsook, lawn and wash silk. These guimpes, dainty creations in themselves, are elaborately trimmed with insets of lace, edging and embroidery and fasten in the back, many of them showing the fashionable high collar ending in points back of the ears. Linens have always been the favorite materials for coat suits, but this year they will have a strong rival in the new piques which the manufacturers are turning out in an entirely new style.

As we all know, linen is warm and has a tendency to rumple, and this has been the greatest objection to it, although there has never been any other fabric quite so smart or suitable for these jaunty suits. But the new piques are said to be less liable to muss and are considerably cooler, which fact will induce many to favor their choice. Bands of contrasting color trim the skirts of these suits, and the collar, cuffs and pocket laps carry out the color idea. It is the little accessories of woman's dress that show at once her taste and individuality, and nowhere is this so evident as in her choice of belts and neckwear. And never before were these little adjuncts so varied and so charming, and one may be as exclusive in this respect as one may wish.

The garments illustrated are easily made and are more attractive in appearance than the average dusting cap and apron. The pattern is cut in one size and will fit any person. To make the cap it requires 1 yard of material 27 inches wide or seven-eighths of a yard 36 inches wide. The apron requires 1 3/4 yards of material 27 inches wide or 1 1/4 yards 36 inches wide.

Any reader of this paper who desires to secure this pattern may do so by sending 10 cents to this office. Give the number, 4042, state size desired and write the full address plainly. The pattern will be forwarded promptly by mail.

REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING

Hammond Urner and Reno Harp Address Local Voters.—Rain Prevented Many from Attending.

Last Saturday night the voters of Emmitsburg were addressed by Hammond Urner, Esq., and Reno Harp, Esq., both prominent lawyers of Frederick, in the interest of the Republican party. The rain kept many from attending the meeting but notwithstanding the inclement weather a good sized crowd gathered in the Opera House to hear the speakers.

Mr. Aman Horner acted as chairman and introduced the speakers. Mr. Urner was the first to address the audience and his remarks received the undivided attention of the audience. Mr. Urner beside being an able lawyer and speaker is a gentleman and his remarks on this occasion were in keeping with his character. In the kindest manner possible he spoke of the personal life of the Democratic candidate for President and credited him with being one of our best citizens. In a like manner he complimented Mr. Taft. As to Mr. Bryan's judgment on economics and his statesmanship the speaker found much that could be criticised. The principal issues of the campaign were discussed by Mr. Urner in a clear and forceful manner in a speech that lasted a little over an hour. On this and several other occasions when the people of Emmitsburg have had the pleasure of hearing this gentleman speak he has made for himself a number of friends who thoroughly appreciate his sterling qualities.

Mr. Harp was the next speaker. After expressing his pleasure of having the privilege to visit Emmitsburg on such an occasion he spoke at length on the campaign illustrating his points with witticisms that were very much appreciated.

HARNESS CUTTER AROUND

Mr Longenecker Offers Twenty-five Dollars Reward for Information Concerning Guilty Person.

On Tuesday night some miscreant cut the breast strap on a horse belonging to Mr. William Longenecker that was hitched in front of Kreitz's store. Fortunately Mr. Longenecker discovered it before anything serious had happened. For information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the person who perpetrated this mean trick Mr. Longenecker will pay twenty-five dollars reward.

Aspired to a Theatrical Career.

Last week when the "Minstrel Girls," a very "refined" (?) theatrical organization, came to Emmitsburg they were accompanied by a young Baltimorean by the name of Hines. In fact "Johnny" was a part of the troupe and his specialty was clog dancing. It seems that Hines, who is a son of Mrs. Catherine Hines, of Baltimore, ran away from home and after many inquiries his mother discovered that he was in Emmitsburg. A telegram from Marshal Farnan put Deputy Sheriff Ashbaugh on the trail and it was but a short time until Johnny Hines was headed for the city.

The "Minstrel Girls," owing to poor houses, stranded here and only after an arrangement whereby the box receipts in the next town were to be in charge of a local man who accompanied them to their destination were they enabled to square their liabilities in Emmitsburg.

Scared At An Automobile.

On Sunday morning a pair of horses driven by Mr. J. Lewis Topper, freighted at an automobile, became unmanageable and broke the pole to the carriage. The accident happened at the foot of Fowler's hill. Mr. Topper's wife and family were in the vehicle at the time. No one was hurt.

A Well-Earned Promotion

Mr. W. F. Zeigler, of Frederick, who has held the position of inspector with the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company has been promoted to the foremanship of the Plant department of Frederick District. Mr. Zeigler has assumed charge of his new duties. This gentleman is well known in Emmitsburg where for a time he made his residence.

Many improvements have been made on the different buildings and dwelling houses along the pike near the College. Mrs. Moore's cottage and the dwelling occupied by Mr. Hugh Roddy have been painted.

Mr. I. S. Annan has purchased the farm adjoining the Corporation limits that belonged to Mr. Lewis M. Motter. Mr. Annan paid eighty dollars an acre for the land. The property purchased does not include the barn and buildings.

Mr. James E. Myers brought to this office the finest home-raised onion that has ever been exhibited here. It looked like a Bermuda or Spanish onion and was perfect in shape, and weighed just two ounces short of a pound.

THIS WEEK'S FOOTBALL GAMES

Mount St. Mary's Loses to Western Maryland and Overwhelms The Maryland Medical School.

Mount St. Mary's went to Westminster last Tuesday and was defeated by Western Maryland College. The local team was handicapped by the absence of Flannery, Diebold and Daly. This added to their superior weight gave Western Maryland a decided advantage. The Mountaineers played a hard uphill game and held their opponent's score down to 16 points but failed to score.

The Maryland Medical School was defeated on Echo Field on Wednesday by the score of 51 to 0. The game was played in a drizzling rain. Although the visitors outweighed Mt. St. Mary's they were in no physical condition to compete with the well trained and coached collegians. Fake plays and forward passes netted great gains for the Mountaineers. The first touchdown was made in the first three minutes of play, Robinson going over the line on a quarter-back run. The try at goal was a failure. It took but four plays to score the second touchdown, O'Brien taking the ball on a forward pass. O'Brien kicked goal. The third touchdown was made after ten minutes of play, McLaughlin scoring and O'Brien kicking goal. The last touchdown of the first half was scored by Middleton; no goal. The score at the end of the first half was Mt. St. Mary's 22, Meds, 0.

In the second half the scoring was even easier than in the first, the doctors being pretty well used up by their fruitless exertions in the earlier part of the game. Connelly scored, getting the ball behind the goal line on a fumble. Robinson kicked the goal. Fahey was the next in order. He received the ball on an on-side kick and after running forty yards scored. The try at goal was a failure. Middleton's twenty-five-yard run and two fake plays netted another touchdown, Connelly carrying the ball over the line. McLaughlin kicked the goal. Two big gains, one of 55 yards, by Robinson and a short plunge by Fitzsimmons resulted in a score. Again McLaughlin kicked the goal. The final score was made by Middleton who kicked a goal. This left the score when time was called 51 to 0.

The players are to be congratulated on their fine showing in this game coming as it did so soon after the hard game at Westminster. Diebold and Flannery were welcomed back in the game.

Resolutions of The Vigilant Hose Company on the Death of Charles C. Rowe.

At a special meeting of the Vigilant Hose Company of Emmitsburg, Md., on Monday evening, October 26, 1908, to take action on the death of Mr. Charles C. Rowe, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the Vigilant Hose Company learns with deep regret of the sudden death of Mr. Charles C. Rowe, one of its charter members who throughout his long and faithful service was ever active in the promotion of the welfare of this company.

That he was most conscientious, ever ready and prompt to respond to the call of duty, and never failed or faltered in the most desperate and dangerous services our company was called upon to render.

That as a fellow member he was genial, courteous and true, and none were held in higher respect and esteem, and whose death will be deeply felt and regretted.

That as a citizen and man the community at large has suffered and irreparable loss, which is felt and mourned by all to whom he was known, and whose worth and merit will live in grateful memory long after his death.

That a copy of these resolutions be published in THE EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE, and sent to his bereaved family, to whom we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

LUTHERAN SYNOD OF MARYLAND

Convenes in Frederick For The Eighth Time.—Elaborate Preparations Made for Entertainment.

The eighty-ninth annual convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Maryland is meeting at Frederick. The sessions began yesterday and will last for four days. Rev. Charles Reinewald, pastor of the Lutheran Church in this place, is president of the Synod.

The eighty-eight convention met a year ago in Emmitsburg and Rev. Reinewald was reelected to the important position he holds in this body which embraces all the charges in Maryland and the District of Columbia, the eastern portion of West Virginia and one charge each in Pennsylvania and Virginia. The second, eight, 23rd, 37th, 41st, 54th and 73rd annual meetings have been held in Frederick and it is the intention of the Lutherans there, from the welcome and entertainment they will accord their guests, to make this eighth convention in that place one long to be remembered.

CHARLES C. ROWE.

On Sunday afternoon Charles C. Rowe, son of Mr. Nathaniel Rowe, died at the home of his father after a very short illness of acute indigestion. The deceased was fifty-four years old on the twenty-second of last month. The funeral service was held at the home of his father on Wednesday noon, Rev. Charles Reinewald, pastor of the Lutheran Church, officiating. The interment was made in Mountain View Cemetery.

Mr. Rowe was a life-long resident of this place, a charter member of the Vigilant Hose Company, a member of the Lutheran Church and a respected and valued citizen. For years he has been in charge of the large power and heating plant at St. Joseph's Academy and before that he was engaged in the plumbing business with his father. He and his father laid the mains and did much of the work in connection with the Emmitsburg water system and much of the early sanitary plumbing done in this place was superintended by him. As a member of the Vigilant Hose Company he was always enthusiastic in any movement for its betterment and willingly lent his assistance to all such efforts. The members of this organization to show the high esteem in which he was held attended the funeral services in a body. The deceased is survived by two brothers and two sisters and his father.

Pearre's Stock Going Down.

Just prior to every congressional election Col. Pearre has been in the habit of getting up a hue and cry through the newspapers about what he was going to do for his district and the various counties of which it is composed. After election nothing more would be heard from these great promises till the next campaign came around; then they would be trotted out again. They are now being warmed up for another heat, but this time they have struck dead lame, so lame that the people of the district refuse to take any further stock in them.—Rockville Sentinel.

ROBBED AND THOWN IN RIVER

Aged Woman Assaulted by Man at Lonely Spot Along Monocacy.—No Clue to Brutal Assailant.

Last Friday night Mrs. Rebecca Cut-sail, an aged widow lady who resides near Araby, this county, was attacked at a lonely place along the Monocacy by a strange man and after being robbed of the little money she had with her was thrown over an embankment into the river. Fortunately the water was shallow and after a time she was able to crawl out but so exhausted was she with the exertion that she lay on the bank all Friday night, Saturday and Saturday night until Sunday morning when she was picked up by a man who was driving a milk wagon. Mrs. Cut-sail is about seventy-eight years old.

Audubon's Honeymoon. Audubon married Lucy Bakewell, daughter of an Englishman. The father of the girl regarded the naturalist as unpractical and induced him to enter a commercial house in New York, but John James soon proved that he had no aptitude for trade. He busied himself with collecting specimens and let business take care of itself. His neighbors made a legal complaint against him on account of the disagreeable odor from the drying skins in his room. He and his bride spent their honeymoon on a common flatboat floating down the Ohio to Louisville. Possibly this was one of the original houseboats. A small tent, like an Indian's tepee, was the bridal chamber.

A Wild Metaphor. The mixed metaphor has for years been considered what is technically known as a peach, but long ago an embryo Henry Clay, a contestant for oratorical honors in the University of Michigan, sprung one so much more rapid in the metaphor race than its rivals that it may be said to win in a walk. Rising up on his tiptoes and swelling out his chest like a pouter pigeon, the young orator exclaimed as though he would his words might go a-thundering down the ages, "The star of empire, tripping with light footsteps across the Atlantic, poises on her outspread pinions in the air and then pitches—and let us hope it may be forever—her tent above the dome of the capitol at Washington."

OLD VIOLINS.

The Best Method of Finding Out Their True Value.

Very often somebody thinks that he or she has a small fortune locked up in a fiddle case. The somebody does not know much about violins, but has heard or read that an old violin is a very valuable thing, and because grandfather happened to leave a violin, to assume duties upon the harp, somebody immediately believes that grandfather's violin is a treasure. As a matter of fact, ninety-nine times out of a hundred grandpa invested in a ten dollar fiddle and played "Suwanee River" and "Annie Laurie." When he bought it the violin was worth $10, but since then it has been depreciating in value at the rate of about 10 cents a year. From the mere fact that most of the varnish is scratched off and there are several cracks in the instrument it does not follow that it is an "old one."

If a violin is good to start with it will improve with age and good care, but, on the other hand, a poor fiddle is not benefited to any extent if it survives a century or two.

Don't judge a violin by the label inside of it. Anybody can copy an old name and date and paste it in. If all the violins bearing a Stradivarius label were his, poor old Antonius would be working yet. More than half of the cheap, worthless violins bear copies of his or some other master's label, and even some real old and good instruments have been passed off as the work of Amati, Guarneri, Magini and other famous makers.

Any one having a violin with the label of a comparatively unknown maker is likely to be the owner of a more valuable instrument than the person whose fiddle is marked "Antonius Stradivarius."

There is only one way to find out whether or not a violin is living up to its name, and that is to get the judgment of a good dealer. If he tells you that your violin is no good, but still offers to buy it, you may be quite certain that you have a good fiddle. But don't sell it. Take it to some other authority and see what he says, but don't make a bargain. You will hear from him if your violin is genuine, for the supply of valuable ones is small and great rivalry exists among dealers to secure masterpieces.

A great many people have the idea that all the very good instruments are the output of a half dozen old geniuses when the truth is that there are scores of old as well as quite modern makers whose works bring very high prices.—New York Herald.

A FEW WORDS.

Don't say abolishment, for abolition is the perfect word.

Don't say wonderment when wonder will express your meaning.

Don't say "My politics are." Politics is singular in spite of the final s.

Don't say people when you mean persons. People is a collective noun, in the singular number.

Don't say flapped words, for even when properly employed your meaning will not be so clear to the reader as when you use simple words.

Don't say receipt when you mean recipe. The collector to whom you pay money gives you a receipt. A formula for the preparation of food is a recipe.

Don't say surprised when you mean astonished. You may be astonished to find Johnny stealing jam, but he is surprised by you.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Cause For Thanks.

Charles O'Connor once began an after dinner speech in Philadelphia in this way:

"I must confess that I dread to make after dinner speeches. At the most sumptuous dinners, even at such a dinner as this one, if I know that at the end I must make a speech I am nervous, I have no appetite, I find little to admire in the best efforts of the chef. In truth, gentlemen, I can readily imagine Daniel, if he was at all of my mind, heaving a sigh of relief as the lions drew near to devour him—leaving a sigh of relief and murmuring: "Well, if there's any after dinner speaking to be done on this occasion, at least it won't be done by me."

For Husbands.

A clergyman took down a small volume.

"This is called," he said, "the 'Instructions of Ptah-ho-Tep.' It is one of the very oldest papyrus writings known. It gives among other things advice to husbands, and that advice is as good today as it ever was. Listen."

And he read: "If thou be wise, furnish thy house well. "Woo thy wife ever, and never quarrel with her. "Nourish her daintily. "Deck her out, for fine dress is her greatest delight. "Feed her upon sweets. "Perfume her. "Make her glad with praise. "Adorn her with jewels, feathers and the skins of beasts as sumptuously as thy purse will suffer."

How Much He Thought About Her. They were on their way to the theater, and she was tremulously happy. She felt that the words she longed to hear would be spoken that night, and the idea made her almost dizzy with delight. "Mr. Sampson," she said softly, "why do you wear that bit of string upon your finger?" "Oh," replied Mr. Sampson, taking it off, "that was to remind me of my engagement with you tonight." It wasn't much, but it was enough to take away the delightful dizziness.—London Chronicle.

FORESAW THE OBVIOUS.

The Usher Knew What the Answer of His Charges Would Be.

"The temperance orator of today," he said, "is sure of a respectful hearing. In the past it was not so. At the beginning of the temperance movement drinking men came to our meetings for no other purpose than to interrupt and confuse. The orator had to be very careful in his remarks. He had to look out lest he give his hearers an opening for some opportune but ribald interruption."

"I remember," he said, "when they began temperance work here in Washington. A series of meetings was held in a large hall. The audiences were always numerous, but they interrupted horribly. In the end an ex-prize fighter was hired to sit every night in the obstreperous gallery and keep order there."

"Well, one night the orator contrasted the clean content of home life with the squalor of drunkenness. He spoke beautifully, and at his climax he cried in ringing, impassioned tones:

"What do we want when we return from our daily toil? What do we desire to ease our burdens, to gladden our hearts, to bring smiles to our faces and song to our lips?"

"Here the orator paused for effect, and the conscientious prize fighter tipped hurriedly to the front of the gallery, shook his finger at his unruly charges and said in a threatening stage whisper:

"Mind, the first feller among ye wot says 'Beer!'—out he goes."—Washington Star.

IT WROTE ITSELF.

The Author's Story of the Origin of "My Maryland."

Brander Matthews wrote an account of the circumstances under which "Maryland, My Maryland," was written, and the poem's author, James Ryder Randall, approved Professor Matthews' account. In April, 1861, Colonel Randall read in the New Orleans Delta news of the attack on the Massachusetts troops as they passed through Baltimore.

"This account greatly excited me," Mr. Randall wrote in answer to a letter from Professor Matthews. "I had long been absent from my native city and the startling event there influenced my mind. That night I could not dismiss from my mind what I had read in the paper. About midnight I arose, lit a candle and went to my desk. Some powerful influence seemed to possess me, and almost involuntarily I proceeded to write the song of 'My Maryland.'"

"I remember that this idea seemed to take shape as music in my brain—some wild air that I cannot now recall. The whole poem was dashed off rapidly when once begun. It was not composed in cold blood, but under what may be called a conflagration of the senses if not an inspiration of the intellect. No one was more surprised than I was at the widespread and instantaneous popularity I had been so strangely stimulated to write."

Colonel Randall always told his friends that the poem "wrote itself."—New York Herald.

Proving His Motto.

"Well, sir," exclaimed the millionaire, "what do you want this morning?"

"I've come again to ask for your daughter," said the poor but ambitious young man.

"Haven't I told you six times over on as many different days that it is out of the question? What do you mean by bothering me in this way? You are making a nuisance of yourself!"

"If I seem to be more persistent than circumstances warrant, I must insist that you, sir, are to blame."

"Me!" shouted the indignant old man. "I don't understand you."

"There," said the man who loved his daughter as he pointed to a motto over the banker's desk, "is my excuse for coming here day after day. 'If at first you don't succeed, try, try, try again.' Do you believe in that sentiment, or have you put it up there simply to deceive people?"

After he had scratched his head awhile the mean old plutocrat said:

"Yes, I believe in that. I haven't succeeded yet in making you understand that my daughter shall not become the wife of a fool, but I am going to keep on trying till I do! Good morning!"

And that time he did it.—Straud Magazine.

Lincoln's Great Oration.

Lincoln's Gettysburg speech derives its power from the following facts: Its brevity—everything is concise and right to the point, so that the reader receives the fullest effect at once; its absolute sincerity, creating the impression that the speaker is aiming not at effect, but at the honest unfolding of his soul's commingled joy and sorrow, sympathy and hope; its perfection of style, its words being just such as were needed properly to express the idea, simple, yet powerful, going straight to the mark like well aimed cannon balls.—New York American.

To Make Feelings.

Flight against the feeling of restraint, reserve, the feeling of shrinking away from people, shyness, oversensitiveness or the feeling of antagonism.

When you greet people with a handshake let your heart run out to your finger tips.

Do not be afraid of giving too much of yourself to the people you meet.

Do not hold yourself back as though you are afraid you would give something away that you ought to keep or that you would say something that you would be sorry for.

GETTYSBURG LETTER

Rev. T. J. Barkley attended the Reformed Synod held in Hanover last week. The stereopticon views and lecture on "Ben Hur," by J. J. Lowe, of Philadelphia, for the benefit of St. James' C. E. Society given last week proved a grand success. The large audience could not be accommodated on Tuesday evening, so the performance was again given on Wednesday.

The Oratorio Society, under its efficient leader, is working hard preparing for the concert it will give in December.

Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Hoffman, of Scranton, spent several days last week with Mrs. Hoffman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Garlach.

Rev. Dr. E. D. Weigle, of Mechanicsburg, visited his daughter, Mrs. G. W. Misely, last week.

Postmaster McIlhenny recently spent a day in Steelton, Pa., visiting his brother.

Mr. Frank Althoff is erecting a double frame house for Mrs. W. H. Fry on East Middle street extended.

Judge S. McSwope is slowly recovering from the injuries received in a driving accident some time ago. He is still confined to his bed.

Dr. Walter H. O'Neal went to Philadelphia for treatment for rheumatism, with which he has been suffering for some time.

One of the prettiest weddings Gettysburg has witnessed for some time took place on Wednesday, October 21st., at 12.30 o'clock, when Miss Mary O'Neal Benner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Benner, was united in marriage to Rev. Stewart Winfield Harman, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, Harrisburg.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry Anstadt, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, in the spacious parlor of the Benner home, which was tastefully decorated with Southern Smilax and yellow and white chrysanthemums. The color scheme of yellow and white was also carried out in the gowns of the bride and maid of honor.

Before the wedding party entered the parlor Miss Ruth Clutz sang "Dear Heart." Mr. H. R. Wolf played the wedding march. Dr. Edward Meisenholder, of York, was best man and Miss Harriet Horine, of Reading, a classmate of the bride at Irving College, was maid of honor. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held. The bride and groom left on the afternoon train for an extended wedding trip.

Mr. Samuel B. Gilbert, son of Mrs. Jacob Gilbert, of West Middle street, died at his home in Baltimore on Monday of last week. His remains were brought here and interred in Evergreen Cemetery, Rev. W. W. Hartman, of the M. E. Church conducting the services.

A stereopticon lecture on "Little Children the World Over," was given in the Presbyterian Church on Friday evening.

Mr. D. M. Wolf, of Baltimore street, has purchased a handsome six-cylinder touring car.

On Saturday evening of last week Constable John Shealer arrested Charles Darsel, colored, on the charge of stealing a bicycle. The prisoner was given a hearing on Wednesday.

Rev. W. W. Hartman, of the Methodist Church, started a series of revival services on Monday evening.

Mr. John H. Colestock, son of Sheriff Colestock, and Miss Buelah Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Wilson, of Carlisle, were united in marriage in New Chester last Saturday evening by Rev. Dieterich. The couple are now visiting in the lower part of the county and upon their return will reside at the home of the parents of the groom.

While driving in the Carlisle road near the end of Carlisle street on Sunday evening Mr. George A. Taylor had a narrow escape from a serious accident. A cow was lying in the road, but as it was very dark the driver did not see her until the horse had fallen over her. The horse became frightened and broke loose from the vehicle, tearing the harness but doing little other damage.

While returning in an automobile from a Republican meeting in Hanover the machine refused to come nearer to Gettysburg than within three miles, and the politicians were compelled to walk that distance through rain and mud.

A design for the memorial to the soldiers of Pennsylvania has been selected. It will be a double arch, 104 feet high, surmounted by a dome on which will be placed a statue of Victory. Fixed in it are bronze plates bearing scenes of the battle and the names of Pennsylvania's sons who participated in the fight. A spiral stairway will lead up to an outlook at the height of 65 feet. The site will be selected in the near future and work will then be begun as early as possible. For further description see the article on first page.

On Saturday the first big football game for several years will be played on Nixon field between Dickinson and Gettysburg. The two teams are evenly matched and a fine game is expected. The Carlisle Band and about 500 rooters will accompany the visitors. The student body here has been practicing yells and songs, and with the Gettysburg band there should be plenty to enliven the game. This will be the first game between the two colleges in eight years, at the last game Gettysburg won by the score of 11 to 5.

POLITICAL PROMISES.

BY W. H. BRIGHT.

This is the time of the year, don't you see,
When the buttonhole and the buttonholee,
May be seen on the streets in earnest debate,
As to who shall win out on the political slate.

The buttonholee take his man by the coat,
And earnestly pleads for his sovereign vote,
While the buttonholee given his promise to vote,
For the man who lovingly hangs to his coat.

But he makes the same promise to every one out,
And winks as he does it, for what he's about,
Is to get all the strings to his bow that he can,
And make them all think he's an elegant man.

So they each count his vote, they're elected, they know,
And visions of victory till election day grow,
And they tell their wife's people in modern slang
How they'll "do up" the leader of the opposite gang.

But when it's all over and they're under the snow,
Lamenting their fate and their burden of woe,
They hug to their soul the one healing balm,
That political promises are not worth a ———.

tacks, the deer, although somewhat appealing to the eye, is not a whit more innocent than a fat Berkshire hog wallowing in a mud puddle and enjoying life with a zest never experienced by the timid, nervous beast of the forest, accustomed from infancy to start at the snapping of a twig and bound away at the sight of an enemy.

Again, the hog is, in a way, nourished in the bosom of the family during his pignood and shoathood. He is beguiled by a sufficiency of corn as he approaches hoghood. To prevent him from taking too much exercise and becoming too slender, he is provided with a pen and encouraged to lead a sedentary life, with a full trough and a wallow as the limits of his world. He is coddled into a state of perfect confidence in his owners. Then he is ruthlessly sold in carload lots to strangers who butcher him upon a wholesale plan, or he is held down by a bloodthirsty farmhand while another equally bloodthirsty farmhand slits his throat from ear to ear and jabs a long knife into his heart. After that he becomes sausage, spareribs, bacon, hams, chitterlings, and what not.

Yet who has compassion for the hog? Where is the nature lover whose eyes grow humid when considering the melancholy fate of this innocent, guileless animal? Who sits up o' nights and weeps over the cruelty to the bleating lamb that is incident to the production of lamb chops.

Providence never provided partridges as targets for the camera alone. Had it been so ordained they would probably have been flat-chested birds, with the flavor of the woodpecker. Deer were intended to be killed and eaten by mankind, and not used only as illustrations for fairy tales told by Earnest, Thompson Seton, to provide that distinguished gentleman with the wherewithal to buy the flesh of the mercilessly murdered sheep and the cruelly assassinated chicken.

Every State should have rigid game laws, and every game law should be enforced. There is still some game in America and plenty of cover for it. We should profit by the example of older countries and prevent the extermination of our will animals and game birds, not to promote the writing of fiction, but, incidentally, to provide good shooting and to perpetuate one of the most healthful and innocent outdoor sports.

Guess Who He'll Vote For?

The most practical arguments given by a voter for his selection of candidates is told in the following:

At La Fayette, Ind., while riding to the speaker's stand, Mr. Taft had this note thrust into his hand by a well-dressed man.

Mr. Taft—Twelve years ago I drove a mortgaged mule to this city to hear Mr. Bryan speak. To-day I came in my own automobile to hear you. Can you guess who I am going to vote for? E. V. D.

Why He Wasn't Promoted.

He watched the clock.
He was always grumbling.
He was always behindhand.
He asked too many questions.
His stock excuse was "I forgot."
He wasn't ready for the next step.
He did not put his heart in his work.
He learned nothing from his blunders. —Ex.

Owners of even the smallest toy manufacturing establishments in the Nuremberg district, Germany, cater to the foreign trade. Factories employing from six to twenty people are no exception.
