ANOTHER "SICK MAN" RULES

TURKISH REVOLUTION

One Sultan Is Deposed And Another Chosen

MURDER AND RAPINE IN ASIA

The Horrible Turks in Europe for Almost Five Centuries Protected by Christians Whom They Slaughtered.—Where They Came From.

After several weeks of disorder the Young Turks managed to depose Abdul Hamid II as Sultan of Turkey and raise to the throne Mehmed V, brother of the late ruler. This change is the outcome of the movement for more liberal government started by the more liberal element among the people. The deposed Sultan granted the request of his people for a constitution but was not disposed to be sincere in his grants of more liberty. An uprising in Constantinople forced him to give in as well as give up his throne.

This overthrow was attended by great disorder which spread all over the empire. In Adana, a province in Asia Minor, where is situated the famous city of Tarsus, the Turks took this occasion to get square with their perpetual enemies the Armenians, and as a result it is estimated that 25,000 persons perished. Two Christian missionaries were among the number slain. They were both Americans and represented the Mennonite faith. This overthrow of the Sultan was an amazing national drama without historical parallel in that in a week the major part of a great standing army, composed of various radical and religious elements, marched under perfect discipline to the defense of the constitutional government which a mutiny of the city garrison had overturned and demanded the abject submission of the crafty old Sultan, protected the Parliament which met at San Stefano to legislate on the procedure and maintained order in the turbulent population of the city and its environs. Even the resource flight by sea was not left to the monarch, for the officers of the Turkish navy, including the men in command of the imperial yacht, had cast their lot with the army and the committee of union and progress. Cheftik Pasha, the military commander, was hailed by the Young Turks as the savior of the nation and of the constitution.

On Tuesday the reign of Abdul Hamid II ended and that of his brother, Mehmed V, as he is now called is a man of smaller calibre than his brother. He is 65 years of age.

Through the vast central regions of Asia, the birthplace of the human race, there have ever been vast hordes of nomadic human beings, warlike and averse to the simple labors of husbandry. At times through necessity of subsistence, and from the pleasure of conquest these tribes have fallen on the rich lands of Eastern Europe in fearful numbers, attracted by the wealth of the more cultured, but less formidable population. Four times within the past century they have invaded Europe.

DEDICATION AT GETTYSBURG

President and Secretary of War Will be There on May 31.

The date of the dedication of the Regular's monument at Gettysburg has been changed from May 30 to the 31st. The Gettysburg Times received a dispatch to this effect from John P. Nicholson, chairman.

This change was brought about by the resolutions, petitions and complaints of many residents of Gettysburg. The business people welcome the change but the hotel men say they will lose money, many orders booked for rooms from Saturday to Tuesday having been changed to Monday only.

President Taft and Secretary of War Dickinson will be present at the ceremonies on the 31st.

"Johnson For President" Started.

The boom of Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, for the Democratic nomination for President in 1912, has arrived in Chicago in the custody of Sam W. Wood of Minneapolis, formerly of Evanston. Mr. Wood thinks this is the psychological moment for starting the "Johnson for President" propaganda in Illinois. The big feature of the plans of the boosters of the Minnesota executive at present is to hold a national mass meeting of Democrats in St. Paul on the first Tuesday in next September.

A Jefferson Davis park is promised Kentucky.

LICENSES HARD TO GET

Antisaloons League Busy With Applicants

EIGHT FIRMS WILL SUSPEND

Ten Protests Registered Against Frederick Liquor Dealers.—One Case Under Decision of Court.

The Anti-Saloons League has taken advantage of every opportunity to protest against the granting of liquor licenses in Frederick. The saloon question has been very prominent in the minds of the citizens of Frederick ever since the first article on that subject was published in THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE. The various sides and aspects of the problem have been discussed and studied until it has become the leading topic under consideration in the city.

When the time came for granting licenses for the sale of liquor in Frederick, protests were made by the Antisaloons League against ten applicants. At the suggestion of their legal advisors eight of these applicants withdrew before the hearing on Monday morning. They were Thomas H. Baumgardner, oyster house; Thomas H. O. Eberts, oyster house; Harry R. Snook, oyster house; George G. Wineberg, oyster house; Besant and Knott, trader's liquor license; Edward B. Measell, trader's liquor license; William H. Ramsburg, trader's license; Samuel F. Winebrener, trader's liquor license.

Had the opposition against the granting of these licenses been strong enough to have influenced the court to refuse the grant, these men would have been forced to wait a year. As it is, having withdrawn they will have the privilege to apply at the next date for granting licenses, July 1.

The case of Robert A. Fraley, for an ordinary license, one of those protested against, was heard by Judges Worthington and Motter, and held for decision. The same is also true of the other protested applicants, Frank J. Schroeder. Fraley's was then granted.

The eight who withdrew will suspend business until July 1.

Recent Heavy Sale of Stocks Cause Revival of Rumor.

Heavy absorption of Western Maryland stock recently has caused a revival of the rumor that the shares are being acquired for the purpose of controlling the property after the reorganization.

Coupled with this report is another that the stock is being bought in the interest of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad to forestall the formation of a new independent system composed of the Western Maryland, the Wheeling and Lake Erie, the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal, and the West Side Belt Railroad of Pittsburgh, or, failing in that, to control the proposed new system.

Such a system would be a formidable competitor of the Baltimore and Ohio, which it would parallel practically all the way from Baltimore to Pittsburgh, the track of the Baltimore and Ohio and the proposed line of the Western Maryland from Cumberland to the Smoky City being only a few hundred yards apart. The Philadelphia and Reading is controlled jointly by the Baltimore and Ohio and the New York Central, in both of which E. H. Harriman is one of the dominating factors.

TRAINS TRAPPED ON BRIDGE

Peculiar Accident On New York Railroad At Drawbridge.

Two passenger trains of the Rutland Railroad were trapped on the long drawbridge over the northern end of Lake Champlain. The East end of the bridge was swept away behind two trains that had begun to cross. By the time they got to the middle of the bridge which is a mile long it was discovered that the West end was gone. There they were over the lake and no way to either shore. The passengers were finally landed but the train had to wait until the structure could be repaired, a matter of three or four days.

Embezzler Downs' Trial May 17.

The trial of William F. Downs on three of the 35 indictments charging him with the larceny of money from Baltimore while he was stock clerk in the City Register's office, is set for Monday, May 17. The date was decided upon after Downs had pleaded not guilty in the Criminal Court to each of the 35 indictments and Judge Elliott had refused the application of Mr. Harry B. Wolf, counsel for Downs, to send the case to another jurisdiction for trial.

Twenty-nine registered packages containing $75,000 were stolen from the mail in Wyoming last week.

TO CLEAR UP ALL TRUST CASES

GOVERNMENT PRESSING THEM TO CONCLUSION

Plenty of Work For Department of Justice Although Some Big Ones Have Been Disposed of

HASTY GLANCE AT DOCKET SHOWS A FEW VERY IMPORTANT CASES

American Naval Stores Case, Sardine Trust, Employees' Liability, "Commodity Clause" Case, American Tobacco Company's Civil Suit, Government vs. N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. Company, Standard Oil Cases, Powder Company, Union Pacific R. R. Company, And Lots of Others.

Never since the office of attorney-general was established in 1789 has the department over which he is head been so busy as just at this time. It was a prevalent idea a few months ago that with the departure of the "terrible Roosevelt," there would be a let-up in the actions of the Government against alleged offenders. These have been disbanded of their hope.

The department of Justice is pursuing with vigor its policy of urging to a final determination all cases, civil and criminal, involving violations of the Sherman anti-trust law, the interstate commerce act and the act prohibiting the granting and receiving of rebates. On Oct. 1 last eighty-eight cases under these several acts were pending in the courts, but this number has been reduced by at least twenty or twenty-five, removing some of great importance from the list.

The American naval stores case is now on trial in Savannah. The Maine mercantile case, an alleged trust among the sardine packers, is in process of settlement. During the last few weeks the Government has intervened in two employees' liability cases on the ground that the private suits involve the constitutionality of the act. One of these cases was brought in Connecticut and the other in Illinois. The "commodities clause" case, involving the constitutionality of the law, which in effect prohibits railroads from owning and operating coal mines, has passed to the Supreme Court, whence a decision is expected very soon. The civil suit against the American Tobacco Company and others is now before the Supreme Court of the United States on a cross appeal. The Government has appealed against the decision of the lower court dismissing the bill of complaint against the Imperial Tobacco Company and others, and the tobacco company has appealed from the decision of the court in favor of the Government as to the parent companies. These cases will come up for hearing before the Supreme Court on Oct. 13 next.

The case of the Government against the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, involving the question of the violation of the Sherman anti-trust act by combining various railroad and electric railway systems in New England, is now receiving consideration by the Department of Justice. Cases against the Standard Oil Company are on the dockets of several courts, and are being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. Some of these cases are thought to involve one or more of the questions at issue in the recent $29,240,000-fine case. The Du Pont Powder case, in which it is alleged that a combination is being maintained in restraint of trade in the manufacture and sale of gunpowder and other high explosives, is nearing completion.

In the case of the United States against the Union Pacific Railroad Company and others, charging combination and conspiracy in violation of the Sherman act, testimony is now being taken. The Terminal Railroad Association at St. Louis is nearing final determination. The suits against the Reading Company and others to dissolve an alleged combination among the anthracite coal-carrying roads in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law is still pending. Testimony is being taken in the case against the Union Pacific Railroad Company, filed in the District of Utah, charging a combination and conspiracy in violation of the Sherman act. A large number of criminal cases for violations of the Elkins act, prohibiting, granting and receiving rebates, is now pending in several States.

Among these are the cases against the New York Central and other railroads, as well as against the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. The records of the Department of Justice show that there are several cases pending against corporations and individuals of three or four years' standing, and it is understood cases of this character will be taken up and disposed of as rapidly as they can be reached by the Attorney-General.

LETTER OF COMMENDATION

FROM A CHRONICLE READER

Kansas City, Mo., April 26, 1909.

Sterling Galt, Esq.,
Editor THE CHRONICLE,
Emmitsburg, Md.

Dear Sir:—

I have read with pleasure the testimonials from many sources in the CHRONICLE, and I think you deserve all that has been said in praise of it.

Your issue of March 19th contained the best article I have read in favor of advertising and I left it with the editor of the Kansas City Star to show him what good work the CHRONICLE is doing. The Star has been the principal agent in making Kansas City what it now is, and the CHRONICLE has the same spirit which will undoubtedly be a great advantage not only to Emmitsburg but to the counties of Western Maryland.

Yours very truly,
ALEXANDER HOLLAND.

BADLY TREATED BY CRUEL WORLD

Three Runaway Girls Brought Home But Wiser.

The three Cumberland Valley girls who were headed towards Gettysburg, says the Gettysburg Times, have been caught by the father of one of the three maidens and two of them have returned to their homes in Carlisle. The third was too ill to be taken home. They were found near Brunshtown in a settlement known as "Little Africa" and are said to have led quite an adventurous existence for the few days they were away from home. Several men whom they met during their absence will probably be prosecuted for furnishing whisky to the girls.

Earthquake in Portugal.

Seismic disturbances in Portugal last week caused the death of a few persons. The quakes recalled the awful tragedy of 1755 when 30,000 persons perished. Mr. B. M. Kerschner, formerly of this place, had been in Lisbon a few weeks ago but was traveling in Spain at the time of the disturbance.

GIVE HIM THAT EXTRA $25,000

Congress Urged to Grant Travel Pay to Chief Executive.

The hope is expressed on every side that the House of Representatives will attach to the Census appropriation bill, now in course of preparation, a provision allowing the President of the United States $25,000 for traveling expenses.

Mr. Taft desires to travel about the country and put himself in touch with the people of all sections and it is to the public interest that he should do so. He is being urged to make a visit this summer to the Pacific coast, but the extent of this trip depends on his travelling expenses.

Leg Hurt In Head-On Collision.

A bucket full of dirt weighing 50 pounds fell down a distance of 25 feet and hit Richard Keys on the head breaking his leg between the knee and ankle. Key was cleaning out the well and had sent the bucket up to be emptied. No other injury was done him. He is a Negro from Montgomery county.

INCOME TAX AS A BLIND

Lukewarm Democrats Use It To Hide Real Issue.

MIDDLE WEST ATTACKS BILL

Sincerity of Republicans From That Section Not Doubted.—The Real Question Not To Be Obscured.

The attacks on the tariff bill last week by Senator Nelson of Minnesota, and Senator Dolliver of Iowa, two staunch Republicans, removed any lingering doubt there may have been in the minds of some as to the existence of a revolt in the Republican ranks. The Senators dealt vigorous blows in their criticisms of the pending bill, declaring that it did not meet the pledges of the Republican party and would afford little relief to the great mass of consumers.

It is understood that Senators Nelson and Dolliver have voiced the sentiment of the Middle West in their attacks on the bill, which section of the country is not disposed to accept the increase in duties contained in the Aldrich bill, without serious protest.

The attempt of Democratic Senators, especially those of the South who want protection, to obscure the issue over schedules by debating on the income tax, will not be permitted. Tariff revision downward, among some of these Democratic Senators, is not exactly what they want.

This arises from the fact that many Southern interests are loudly calling for protection, and most of the Senators from the South are afraid or unwilling to go in and make a straight fight for a tariff for revenue only. At the same time, they cannot afford to align themselves on the tariff question with the Republicans.

Under the circumstances, the question has been much asked, and is being asked, how many of the Democrats are sincere in their support of an income tax, and how many are using the issue merely for the purpose of drawing the public eye away from the tariff question proper.

NINE HUNDRED FAT JOBS WAITING

Census Enumerators for Maryland and What They Receive.

Maryland will be entitled to 900 census enumerators: Five supervisors at $1500 each, with a bonus of $1 added for each 1000 persons enumerated in their respective districts. Twenty-five or more office clerks at $15 to $30 a week for such time as they may be employed. Four hundred enumerators for Baltimore city at 2 cents for each name they secure. Five hundred enumerators for the counties of Maryland at 24 to 3 cents for each name they secure.

The 900 enumerators in Maryland will be divided among the districts according to the requirements of each. In the rural districts the task will be more difficult and will require more time than in Baltimore and the larger towns. In some cases conscientious census-takers will have to tramp miles in order to add two or three names to their lists. For this reason the county men will be given more time to do their work and more money for each name secured.

Dispatches from Turkey say that 25,000 persons have been killed in the province of Adana alone.

CLOSER RELATIONS WITH CHINA

Taft Would Have Ambassador Instead of Minister at Peking.

President Taft, who is more conversant with affairs in China than almost any of our public officials, is of the opinion that our representative at Peking should be an ambassador instead of minister. The change will probably be made.

It is Mr. Taft's belief that America has better opportunities there than any other nation, because the Chinese have confidence in this country and her people.

Won't Get the $6,000,000.

The Supreme Court of the United States decided in favor of the United Fruit Company a suit brought against it by the American Banana Company, which brought suit to procure $6,000,000 under the Sherman anti-trust law because of damages said to have been done by combinations of the United with other companies. The Banana Company, whose plantation is in Panama, complained that in July, 1904, Costa Rica was in control where the plantation is located, and Costa Rican soldiers, instigated by the United Company, seized a portion of the complainant's property and has continued forcibly to occupy the plantation, with much resulting damage. Baltimoreans were interested in this case.

ROAD BUILDING IN NORTH

A TRIP OF INSPECTION

State Commission Sees Massachusetts Roads

AVERAGE COST THERE IS $8,831

Sand and Oil Roads Can Be Built for $2,400 a Mile.—Effects of Automobiles on Highways Add To Cost Of Repairs Over One Fifth.

The Maryland State Good Roads Commission visited Massachusetts last week and inspected 200 miles of roads. They have returned wiser on the road proposition. The $200 they spent on this trip has made it possible, so they say, to save the State many thousands of dollars. The chief purpose of the trip is the finding of a durable road that can be built at a cost of $4,000 a mile or less. The roads that the State has built in the last six years under the Shoemaker law have cost an average of $7,000 a mile, which many contend is much too high if the commission hopes to construct out of the $5,000,000 loan the roads it has planned.

The average cost of Massachusetts roads has been $8,831, but sand and oil highways are built there for $2,400 a mile. Oil with a high percentage of asphalt is used as a binder of the sand. While this type of road has proved more or less satisfactory thus far, it has been built only four years, and consequently has not had the test of time. It has stood up fairly well under the strain of automobile travel, which is more than can be said of the old-style roads.

This side of the problem does not particularly interest us in Frederick county for while stone abounds, sand is scarce. In these Western counties of Maryland stone roads can be built at a cost of $4,000 or less a mile. On the Eastern Shore the cost of stone roads, owing to the cost of transportation, would reach $10,000 a mile. Facing this condition, the commission set out to find, if possible, a method of road construction that can be applied to the Eastern Shore and similar sections of the Western Shore at a cost that is not prohibitive.

At Eastham, Mass., a road was inspected that was built of stone and treated with oil and sand mixed. The problem before the board is the finding of a remedy to counteract the effect on improved roads of automobile travel. The old-style road is a success when used as a highway for horse-drawn vehicles. The action of wagon wheels is entirely different from the action of a vehicle propelled by the friction of its rear wheels on the road. In one case it is that of a roller packing the roadway; in the other it is an excavator scraping and digging it up. To develop at a reasonable cost a type of road that will withstand this scraping and digging is the task to which all States, with Massachusetts leading in experimentation, have applied themselves.

The experiments of the engineers have shown that it is absolutely necessary to know the exact character of

KIDNAPPERS ON TRIAL TO-DAY

Boyle and Supposed Wife Charged With Abducting Willie Whittle.

Indictments were returned by the Mercer, Pa., grand jury against James H. Boyle and his supposed wife in connection with the abduction of Willie Whittle, of Sharon, Pa., March 18.

A true bill found against Boyle charges kidnapping. The maximum sentence is life imprisonment. In the case of the woman the same bill was returned, with an extra count which charges aiding, assisting and abetting in the kidnapping. The indictment against Mrs. Boyle identified her as "Mary Doe, alias Helen Anna McDermott, Parker, Miner, Yorke and Boyle."

The trial of the abductors, will begin to-day.

Two Counterfeit Bills.

Discovery of two new counterfeits, a five dollar silver certificate and a twenty dollar national currency note on the National Bank of Westington, South Dakota, has been announced at the Treasury Department. The former is an imitation of the series of 1899, but bears the date 1889, and in the portrait of the Indian chief the nose and mouth are entirely different from the original. The Westington counterfeit is a pen-and-ink production from Chicago, a dollar note being bleached to obtain the desired paper.

Rear-Admiral Miller, U. S. N., died on Monday.

ODDS AND ENDS

Castro, the Wanderer, is now in Paris. The official count of the dead at Messina fixes the number at 70,000.

Measures are being taken to end graft in Japan. Three more members of the Diet have recently been arrested.

W. A. Thompson, editor of the Warrenton (W. Va.) Virginian, was shot and killed by the principal of the Warrenton High School.

Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, of Illinois, was elected president of the D. A. R. at the convention in Washington by a very close figure in a spirited election.

Peter Fenelon Collier, native of Ireland, publisher of Collier's Weekly, and prominent citizen of New York, died on Saturday very suddenly of apoplexy.

The funeral of former Senator William M. Stewart, who for years represented Nevada in the United States Senate, was held on Sunday at Washington.

The Waters-Pierce Oil Company paid over to the State of Texas on Saturday afternoon $1,718,266.30 in cash. This is probably the largest fine ever collected from a corporation.

The only Baltimorean who owns a balloon, Mr. Howard W. Gill, made a seventy minute trip on Monday, starting from Washington and landing at Brandywine, Md.

The French government, acting in accord with Great Britain, has decided to recognize the independence of Bulgaria as soon as certain formalities have been fulfilled.

John Marshall Harlan, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court will be a candidate for moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, which meets in Denver next month.

Bumpus, director of the Museum, by telegraph that on February 15 the leaders of the expedition were safe, with no immediate prospect of starvation.

Broughton Brandenburg, novelist and magazine writer, who was arrested in San Francisco Saturday night as a fugitive from justice from New York on a charge of grand larceny in connection with a political article alleged to have been written by the late Grover Cleveland and sold to the New York Times, declared that he is the "Dreyfus of America," and has been made the "scapegoat of politics."

COMPRESSED MILK PLANT LIKELY
Probable New Industry for Frederick.—
The New Process.

A movement is on foot for the establishment of a compressed milk plant in Frederick. Messrs. F. R. Horner and E. C. Cockrell, of Washington, have been there looking over the proposition. Mr. Campbell, inventor of the process, was also in Frederick.

Under the White Cross system, the one in question, the milk is freed of impurities and water and compressed to one-fourth its natural bulk. It is then bottled and will keep sweet for a long period. When it is to be used, it is restored to its natural volume by the addition of water. The preparation of milk in this way saves freight charges on shipments, and other advantages are claimed for it.

Two Big Fires Frighten Baltimore.

Two large fires in Baltimore yesterday destroyed property valued at $140,000. The Fire Department was subjected to the severest test it has had since the terrific blaze of February 7 and 8, 1904, but proved equal to the task. No lives were lost, but 11 firemen were placed out of commission temporarily by smoke and one accident. Four warehouses and a pier were wiped out.

It is believed that the nominations for delegates to the county nominating convention will number 800.

Pays Government $2,000,000.

The American Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey and the New York corporation of the same name yesterday paid into the United States Treasury about $900,000, completing the payment of approximately $2,000,000 in settlement of fines and claims made by the Government in its recent charges of fraud on the part of the company, which is generally known as the Sugar Trust.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

The scholars of the primary department of the Public School have been asked to familiarize themselves with the poems published from time to time under this head:

MY GARDEN BED.

In my little garden bed,
Raked as nicely over,
First the tiny seeds I sow,
Then with soft earth cover.

Shining down the great round sun,
Smiles upon them often;
Little rain drops pattering down,
Help the seeds to soften.

Soon the little plant awakes,
Down the roots go creeping;
Up it lifts its tiny head,
Through the brown mold peeping.

High and higher still it grows,
Through the summer hours,
Till some happy day the buds
Will open into flowers.

IN THE HEART OF A SEED.

In the heart of a seed,
Buried deep, so deep,
A dear, little plant
Lay fast asleep.

"Wake," said the sunshine,
"And creep to the light;"
"Wake," said the voice
Of the raindrops bright.

The little plant heard,
And it rose to see
What the beautiful
Outside world might be.

Extra Hands At Copper Mine.

It is expected that within a month fifty additional men will be put to work in the Ellicott Metallic Copper Co's mine near Charmian, says the Gettysburg Times. The members of the company are much encouraged by the report of the assay of a lot of ore taken from the big dump on the property and they are assured of a profitable yield of copper, together with small quantities of gold and silver. The engine and pumping apparatus are to be put in first class condition and there will be further mining of the ore. It is said that a $60,000 stamp mill will be erected at the copper mine during the next year and the copper extracted from the ore there.

GETTYSBURG LETTER

Paul, only child of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Leister, died at their home along the Emmitsburg road Wednesday morning, of last week. He was aged about seven years. The funeral was held Friday at two o'clock.

Col. J. P. Nicholson, chairman of the National Park Commission, received the word last week that the date for the dedication of the Regular's monument had been changed from Sunday, May 30 to Monday, the 31st. The decoration of the graves of the veterans will likely take place in the morning of the 31st, while the dedicatory services are scheduled for 1.30 P. M.

Burglars entered the mill of L. C. Plank, at Table Rock, between 1 and 2 o'clock Thursday morning, blew open the safe and got away with about $110 in money and checks. A Mr. Funt, who was sleeping in the upper portion of the mill, was awakened by the explosion, procured a gun and took a shot at the departing marauders, but did not realize at the time what had occurred. The thieves went to Biglersville, broke open the tool house of the railroad company, appropriated a handcar, on which they traveled to Mount Holly Springs, where they boarded a freight train and made good their escape.

The excursion to Baltimore last Thursday was well patronized, there being one hundred and forty-eight full fare tickets sold at this place, with proportionate numbers all along the line.

On Friday evening the Mandolin and Glee Clubs, of Irving College, Mechanicsburg, gave a very interesting concert in Brua Chapel. The clubs consisted of twenty-eight students of the college, with Miss Mabel Frances Hall as director of the Glee Club, and Mr. W. D. Moyer, director of the Mandoline Club. The auditorium of the Chapel was filled and all were well pleased with the programme rendered, which consisted of selections by the entire club, quartets, piano and violin solos, and readings. The entertainment was given under the auspices of E. P. Miller's class of St. James' Sunday School. Several Gettysburg ladies are members of the club. The entertainment as a whole was a testimony to the thorough musical education to be procured at Irving.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of Rev. Dr. Barkley as pastor of the Reformed Churches of this place and St. Mark's appropriately celebrated this week. On Sunday morning Dr. Barkley preached his anniversary sermon; in the afternoon the meeting was in charge of the Ministerial Association and in the evening Dr. Shaffer, of Lancaster, delivered a sermon on the "Christian Ministry." Services were held Monday and Tuesday evening and on Wednesday. Rev. and Mrs. Barkley gave a reception in the lecture room of the church to the members and their friends.

Dr. T. C. Billheimer, of the Seminary, delivered a masterful and appropriate sermon Sunday evening to the members and friends of Gettys Lodge, No. 124, J. O. O. F., in their new and spacious lodge room in the First National Bank Building.

The Doctor is an Odd Fellow of long standing and it is needless to state that he held the attention of his auditors.

A number of the defendants pleaded guilty without trial. Several cases have been postponed until the August term of court.

The case of William Stanton, colored, charged with larceny, is the only one tried at this writing. The defendant was found guilty.

All the criminal cases have been postponed or settled, except that of Pierce Plank vs. B. G. Bush, receiver of the W. M. R. R. Co. This suit was brought to recover damages for cattle killed by an excursion train last fall.

The Grave of Samuel Emmit.

Samuel Emmit, his wife, Mary, and his son, William, who accomplished the finishing lay-out of the town of Emmitsburg, are all buried in the Presbyterian Cemetery in unmarked graves.

Before the triumphant procession meets the applause of the people at the Home Coming in July let us citizens at home and friends abroad contribute a small sum toward erecting tombstones over their graves, thus showing we are interested in a permanent tribute to the pioneer whose name our town bears.

On Saturday, May 15th, two young ladies will canvass the town from house to house to receive contributions which will be expended as stated.

The event is open to the world and will finally determine the world's champion at the classic distance of 26 miles 385 yards. The purse will be divided as follows: $5000 to the winner, $2000 to the second man, $1200 to the third, $800 to the fourth, $500 to the fifth, $300 to the sixth and $200 to the seventh man. Some of the leading runners invited to compete are St. Yves, Longboat, Dorando, Shrubbs, Hayes, Maloney Svanberg, White, Simpson and Carajal.

Maurice Powers, star catcher for the Philadelphia American League baseball club, died at a hospital in Philadelphia, Monday, of gangrene poisoning. Powers became ill in the opening game of the season with Boston on Easter Monday. He was seized with violent pains during the seventh inning, but as his team was winning he persisted in continuing the game until the end, when he fell unconscious and was hurried to a hospital. The physicians discovered he was suffering from strangulation of the intestines and he was operated upon, two other operations being subsequently performed.

Powers was thirty-three years old and was born in Pittsfield, Mass. He was a graduate from Holy Cross and later took a course in medicine at Notre Dame. He made his professional baseball debut in 1900 at Louisville. From there he went to Washington, and then to Indianapolis. He joined the Philadelphia Americans in 1901, being the oldest man on the team in point of service.

Penn. Wins Relay.

Pennsylvania won the four-mile relay at the fifteenth annual relay carnival of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Saturday in the most spectacular event of the day.

Mt. St. Mary's 2 Western Maryland 1

In a listless game Mt. St. Mary's defeated Western Maryland, on April 24, by the close score of 2 to 1. The Mountaineers were unable to hit Twigg frequently, while Connolly was likewise a puzzle to the visitors. M. S. M. scored their first run in the second. McHugh given a free pass stole second and third and scored on E. Connolly's single. The second tally came in the third, when Kelly drove the ball far out over the fence in the left garden, making the longest hit pulled off here this season. Western Maryland obtained their only run in the eighth. Gibson hit safe, got second on a passed ball by Gill, and tried to make home on Dooley's drive to center, but was nailed at the plate, Dooley going to second on the throw. Kelly's muff of Turner's grounder let Dooley cross the rubber in safety. Score.

The game on April 27th with Maryland Medical College was an easy victory for the Mountaineers. The Doctors secured only four scattered hits off Harkins, while the Mountaineers got eight hits, including a home run and a three bagger, six sacrifice hits, four passes on balls and four men walked hit by pitcher. The feature of the game was the usual home run this time scored by E. Connolly. Score.

Frederick Sporting Notes.

The Diamond basketball team was defeated at Martinburg by the close score, 21 to 18. During the season the Diamond team has played fifteen games winning ten of them.

Johnny Green who was with the Frederick baseball team last year is now playing with Toronto, Eastern League. Johnny fits well in fast company. This week his team played at Baltimore. Frederick takes much interest in his career.

Quite an exciting and interesting game of ball was played in Frederick on the grounds of the Maryland School the Deaf and Dumb, between the team from that institution and the Frederick A. C. The mutes were just a few too many for the A. C. and the score was 5 to 3. Zimmerman for the mutes pitched a fine game. Only four scattered hits were made off his delivery and thirteen men struck out. Wachtel of the A. C. struck out 8 men and allowed five hits.

The following is the result of the weekly roll off at the Diamond Alleys, Monday night:

Scattered Sporting Notes.

Alfred Shrubbs of Horsham, Eng., once more proved himself the greatest middle distance runner in the business by defeating Henri St. Yves of France at the American league grounds, New York, Saturday night. At no time was the result of the race in doubt. Shrubbs at the outset assumed a pace that the Frenchman could not follow with his pit-a-pat stride. When eight miles had been covered he had secured a lead of two laps, and this seemed to content him, he ran the remainder of the race at St. Yves's side.

MIDDLEBURG LETTER.

Mrs. E. A. Seabrook, who was very ill for several weeks, is slowly improving and is now able to be up and around in the house.

Savilla, the little daughter of Mr. Ed. Ritter, who was critically ill with pneumonia the past week, is now thought to be out of danger.

Mrs. Charles Devilbiss is slowly improving and is able to sit up again. Ernest, the little son of George Delphay, is very ill with appendicitis.

Walter Johnson met with a painful accident last Saturday while assisting at the raising of G. A. Koontz's barn. A large beam fell as it was being placed in position. To keep it from falling on several men he caught it with such a grip that two fingers on the left hand were split open and the bone splintered. Dr. William D. Brown dressed the wound and he is doing as well as could be expected.

John E. Humbert has his new barn under roof. He has further improved his place by erecting a handsome iron and wire fence the entire length of his property which adds much to its appearance.

Two horses, Belle of Jassamine and Consistent, owned by Mrs. R. W. Walden were among the winners at the Pimlico races on Tuesday. On Sunday, May 9th, at 10.30 A. M., Andrew B. Wood, President of the Antislavery League, will deliver an address in the M. E. Church. The public are cordially invited.

Mrs. William Stansbury, who was dangerously ill the past week, is rapidly recovering and hopes soon to be out again.

[Editorial from The Chronicle, June 8, 1906.]

EVERYBODY FOR IT.

Interest in the coming celebration of Old Home Week grows as the days go by. At each meeting of the Executive Committee more enthusiasm is shown; new duties are assumed; new attractions added to the tentative programme for the entertainment of the big crowd that is expected. Among the people generally Old Home Week is the leading topic, and private preparations are being made by many families to welcome absent members back to their old home. Of course everything in connection with this gala event is in a formative state as yet, and a week or two will elapse before the definite, final arrangements can be announced in full and the personnel of the large general committee made known. This committee, it will be remembered, is the all-important organization, the one on which will largely depend the outcome of the entire undertaking. But as it will include a member of practically every household in town, and as the citizens of Emmitsburg never do things by halves when once they take hold, it goes without saying that the Old Home Celebration in July will be and should be the most successful of any of this hospitable and progressive town's ventures. In the meantime public spirit, town pride and home loyalty should be manifested as never before. Each person, each merchant who owns this town as his home should exert every effort to make his business place, his property more attractive than ever that all home-comers, all visitors, all strangers may see Emmitsburg at its very best.

RURAL HIGH SCHOOL CHAMPIONSHIPS.

One of the most attractive features of last year's interscholastic field and track meet at Tome Institute, Port Deposit, was the championship series for Maryland boys attending rural High Schools. It was merely an experiment, but there were so many entries and the events so enthusiastically received that the directors of this school determined to "expand the scope of the movement" and make this series an annual affair. In pursuance of this policy the Tome Institute last week issued an invitation through the CHRONICLE to the members of the Emmitsburg High School to compete for the prizes to be offered this year, and we published it in the hope that not a few but many from the local school would avail themselves of this opportunity to uphold Emmitsburg district and win at least one of the prizes offered. Last year there were entries from our neighboring town, Thurmont, and it is a pleasure to recall it that the contestants from that place made an excellent showing at the initial meet.

It seems almost needless to speak of the advantages to be derived from athletics properly indulged in. Careful physical training is invaluable to every student. It goes beyond the merely physical. It affects his moral as well as his mental side and aids materially in the production of a healthy, well-balanced, normal mind. The purpose of the coming meet at Tome, as the published account stated, is to stimulate interest in athletics among rural schools; to awaken enthusiasm in a subject that is of the very greatest importance to boys who are looking forward to the larger responsibilities of life and who are anxious enough and wise enough to properly prepare themselves, in body and mind to cope with them.

Will the Emmitsburg High School enter the lists this year?

NOT SO BAD AFTER ALL.

In the general run of worldly affairs it must needs be that where comparatively few reap a large and immediate profit from the advance in the price of any given necessary commodity the many, for a time at least, must bear the burden resulting therefrom. The recent flurry in wheat, for instance, has worked out as a temporary hardship to a tremendous number of consumers, but at the same time it has "called into the market," as one paper puts it, "millions of bushels of wheat which we should not otherwise have had," and also "caused millions of acres to be put into wheat which otherwise would not have been." Here is where the future benefit comes in. Mr. Patten did not create any wheat; there was only a fixed amount in existence, nor did he destroy a single bushel. He traded in the commodity, he accumulated it, just as many a man has done with some particular stock, and there is no doubt that he made money. Any one can do the same thing with another commodity to-morrow or any other time, provided he has the capital, and all the laws in creation cannot really prevent it.

As it is the laws regulating the weight of loaves of bread are rarely enforced and, as Patten said, "five cents a loaf is a very convenient price for bread, but when wheat was selling for fifty cents I didn't notice that they reduced the price of bread."

There has been a flurry, of course, and a great deal of commotion has been created over it, but after it is all analyzed and the future taken into consideration, one is rather led to think that Patten has been as much of a benefactor as anything else.

DEPARTMENT LIDS ARE OFF.

The order of the President allowing the heads of departments to report direct to Congress in response to resolutions of the Senate and House is another instance of Mr. Taft's purpose to recognize the authority of Congress, and his desire to make the record of his administration an open book. It proves also that the present Cabinet is not to be dealt with by the Executive as though it were comprised of a set of figureheads each of whom had no responsibility other than the perfunctory departmental management of his particular bureau. Mr. Taft's idea, and it is the proper one, is that the cabinet officers have a responsibility far greater than this. They are members of his official council, and as such they are his advisors. He has assumed that the men whom he has appointed to responsible positions have constructive as well as executive ability and he has given them full rein in conducting their departments, requiring only that they produce results. Hence the order that each cabinet officer and each head of a department shall make direct response to either house of Congress, "except when in his judgment, it would be incompatible with public interests, in which case he should refer the matter to the President for his direction."

Not only to Congress but also to the people, will this departure from former procedure be welcome. Nor will it lessen that popular feeling that Mr. Taft is endeavoring in still another way to take the whole country into his confidence.

ACCORDING to Mr. Emerson "The Conservative keeps the Reformer from going too fast, and the Reformer prevents the Conservative from standing still."

We call them by different names these days, in politics at least, but the application still holds good; and when each in his turn keeps his enthusiasm up to an unvarying standard, then it is that things are accomplished. Enthusiasm and conservatism are not incompatible. When the latter tinctures the former the result is the wise middle course. But if one of the other has to go, let it be the latter; for life, and work, and religion are all kept alive by enthusiasm, and the world is made better by it.

SAMUEL MUSICK is the melodious name of the foreman of public printing in Manila, P. I. As this is a promotion for Mr. Musick we take it that his ability to produce close harmony in his department is responsible for the advancement.

NEWSPAPER AS AN EDUCATOR

Excellent Influence of Good Paper in Family of Children.

A teacher, who had been a long time engaged in his profession, and witnessed the influence on a family of children, writes as follows: I have found it to be a universal fact, without exception, that those scholars of both sexes and all ages, who have access to newspapers at home, when compared with those who have not, are

1. Better readers, excellent in pronunciation, and consequently read more and understand better what they read.
2. They are better spellers; define words with greater ease and accuracy.
3. They obtain practical knowledge of geography in almost half the time required by others, as the newspapers have made them acquainted with the location of important places, of nations, their government, and doings on the globe.

4. They are better grammarians; for, having become so familiar with every style in newspapers, from the commonplace advertisement to the finished and classical oration of the statesman, they more readily comprehend the meaning of the text, and consequently analyze its construction with accuracy.

5. They write better compositions, using better language, containing more thoughts, more clearly and correctly expressed.

6. Those young men who have for years been readers of newspapers are always taking the lead in debating societies, exhibit a more extensive knowledge upon a greater variety of subjects, and express their views with greater fluency, clearness and correctness.—Pennsylvania School Journal.

Knew What He Was About.

He was out with his best girl, and as they strolled into the West-End restaurant he tried to put on an I-do-this-every-evening kind of look. When they were seated at a table a waiter approached them.

"Will monsieur have a la carte or table d'hôte?" he asked.

"Both," said the young man, "and put plenty of gravy on em."—Tit-Bits.

Blighted Hope.

"Papa," wrote the sweet girl, "I have become infatuated with calisthenics."

"Well, daughter," replied the old man, "If your heart's set on him I haven't a word to say; but I always did hope you'd marry an American."—Houston Post.

Willie, accompanied by his father, was visiting a circus and menagerie. "Oh papa," the boy exclaimed, as they passed before an elephant, "look at the big cow with her horns in her mouth eating hay with her tail!"—Christian Register.

ADANA THE PILLAGED

The America of Asia Minor.—Scene of Turkish Slaughter.

Adana is the capital of the province of the same name and has a population of nearly 100,000 people. The province of Adana is twice as large as the State of Massachusetts, with a population of 1,200,000 people. The five principal cities of the province are Adana, Tarsus, Mersina, Alexandretta and Hadjin. It is known as the "America" of Asia Minor. From all sections of the country come the able-bodied men seeking for work; especially this time of the year the capital is filled with agricultural laborers. During the harvest season the population of Greater Adana swells to from 350, to 400,000 souls. A forty-eight mile railroad connects the capital with Tarsus and Mersina.

The Christian population of Adana is 23,000. Of these 19,000 are Armenians, the remainder being Greeks, Protestants, Chibdys, Syrians, Assyrians, Mavronites and a few Europeans.

Beside the magnificent State College with over six hundred students and some thirty Mohammedan schools of the old type there is an American College for girls, two community schools with eight hundred pupils, a Jesuit college for girls, a Jesuit high school for both sexes and two large Roman Catholic schools, a Greek Seminary for girls and three Greek community schools for both sexes, a Chibdy and a Mavronite school, both Christian. The Armenians of Adana have three large community schools with nearly 2500 pupils.

The Turks of the province are the direct descendants of the warlike horde which, swooping down from Turkestan, conquered the eastern empire over five centuries ago. The Turk has no craving for wealth. He is contented with a leisurely life, and a comfortable income even if he has to labor for it. In fact he works hard while he is at it, but he doesn't care to work every day in the year. But his Christian neighbor is rather of an accidental temperament. He sets the pace for him. Eventually the Turk discovers that he will have to work hard to compete with his Christian neighbor for his bread and butter and even then he often comes out of the struggle with utterless bread. Thus the Turk has come to have no great love for his Christian neighbor.

The atrocities attributed to the Turks are due to the regime of the sultans who have chosen for their tools not the Turks properly speaking (for in the whole Turkish Empire there are only four and a half millions of real Turks), but those Albanians, Kurds, Arabs, Tartars, Syrians, Abudals, Chingianehs and other Moslem peoples who have nothing in common with the Turkish race, though identified with them simply because they are Mohammedans. Such is the case with the Turk of Adana. Impartially speaking, it is not the real Turk who is responsible for the atrocities attributed to him, but the fanatical races who are primarily responsible for the devastation of Adana.

Endowed with remarkable physique, of strong constitution, the Turks of Adana are sober, well-disciplined, bearing easily the fatigues of war, and able to endure the greatest privations. They are resigned under misfortune and temperate in good fortune. They are simple, hospitable and generous, grave and dignified. They are proud of their origin, having the greatest regard for the memories of their forefathers. Two virtues characterize them; obedience to their leaders and love of their families.

Quoted From a Recent Prosperity Speech.

Has it ever occurred to you, Mr. Chairman, that the cotton cloth made in South Carolina annually would make a sheet big enough to cover the entire face of America and Europe and lap over on the toes of Asia? Or, if all the cattle she raises in each year were one cow, she could browse on the tropical vegetation along the equator, while her tail switched icicles off the North Pole, and that her milk could float a shipload of her butter and cheese from Charleston to New York? Or, if all the mules we market each year were one mule, it would consume the entire annual corn crop of North Carolina in one meal, and kick the spots off the sun without swelling its sides or shaking its tail? Or, if the hogs we raise annually were one hog, that animal would dig the Panama Canal in three roots, without grunting, and its squeal would be loud enough to jar the cocoanuts off the trees along the Canal Zone.—New York Sun.

Two men were having an argument as to their respective strengths. "Why," said the first, every morning before breakfast I get a bucket and pull up ninety gallons from the well." "That's nothing," returned the other "I get a boat every morning and pull up the river."—Universalist Leader.

Discussion of Affairs in General from Leading Journals of The Country.

A Massachusetts Opinion.

(Boston Transcript.)

One of our morning contemporaries, in an article about planting of shade trees in Maryland along either side of the road, says that "adoption of the idea in Massachusetts would add to the benefits accruing from the work of the State Highway Commission. As a matter of fact the Highway Commission in Massachusetts started in 1904 the planting of various kinds of trees upon the sides of the highways throughout the State. Since that time maples, oaks, elms, poplars and other trees have been planted as seemed best fitted to the particular locality under consideration. More than sixteen thousand trees have been thus set out in the last five years. The State has a small nursery with something over five thousand saplings which it is developing for this purpose. The annual expenditure since 1904 has been over $5000, a total expenditure of more than $25,000. There is also a State forester who has charge not only of tree planting but of the proper care of trees afterwards, which is even more important than the first planting. This includes, of course, the destruction of gypsy and brown-tail moths. From this it will be seen that Maryland is about five years behind the times in regard to tree planting, and Massachusetts has little to learn in this regard from that State.

Wheat Supply and Demand.

(Springfield Republican.)

The true level of the wheat market is yet to be determined, but for the time being at least it appears that the Patten calculations regarding supply and demand were extravagantly pitched. Mr. Patten himself was said to have left Chicago to look over the wheat supply situation on the ground, but a snow-covered ranch up in the Colorado mountains is a queer place to go on such an errand. As he turns up in that quarter, his wheat market breaks with great violence, and where it will bring up finally remains to be seen. The effect of the break may be greater in bringing out held-back supplies of wheat than the high prices under the Patten up-bidding, which must have made most of the farmers with grain to sell think there was to be no top to the market.

When a Duty Becomes Criminal.

(Philadelphia Record.)

If the farmers have no wheat—and Patten says they haven't—then all the wheat there is in the country has passed into the hands of the middlemen, and all the profits from present prices go into their pockets. If there be a world's scarcity, suspending the duty will do no harm. If there be no scarcity it will do a great deal of good. If Canada has wheat, let it come in duty free till our harvest is gathered and let the people have bread at normal prices, Corner or no corner, to maintain a duty on wheat with the price where it is now is simply criminal.

The American Drama Of Violence

(Washington Star)

Note the acts of the drama and the dramatics persone, and how everything squared with the unities of picturesque and first-class violence as we have come to know and almost to approve it in this country.

Act I. The mob assembles, composed in the main and in its leadership of the better class of citizens. All are disgusted with the way justice has been administered in the community by officials they have helped commission. Argument: The proper way to secure justice is to abolish the law.

Act II. The mob moves upon the jail where the prisoners are confined. An officer of the court checks it for a moment with an appeal for the law. The law be dashed! Time for talk has passed. Time for action has arrived. Forward march! The mob expects every member to do his duty.

Act III. The jail is reached. A solitary guard is on duty. He does his duty, but what is one man against two hundred? All possible for him is to refuse to assist them, and that costs him a whack over the head. When he recovers his prisoners are gone, and he easily guesses the rest.

Act IV. The jail door yields, and the prisoners are reached. The leader of the quartet—a bad man from Texas named Miller—speaks for self and colleagues. No whining, no begging. An ideal bad man confronts his captors. He knows their errand, and bids them do their worst. He prepares calmly for death. He detaches a jewel from his shirt front for his wife, and another from his scarf for the jail guard who has been kind to him. Will the gentlemen kindly see that the presents are delivered?

Act V. The nooses are adjusted, and the prisoners are hoisted. No unnecessary noises. No unseemly demonstrations.

The play is done; the curtain drops. Slow falling to the prompter's bell. Oklahoma is a new State, but that does not explain this matter. Such a drama has been enacted in some of the oldest States of the Union, and is possible to-day nearly anywhere. The only special feature at Ada was that of the jewels. It is seldom a man able to wear diamonds is swung up by a mob in mob style. The favorite quarry of the mob is a friendless creature wearing rags, and with an empty pocket and an empty stomach.

The remedy? Ask the pulpit, with its record of ten thousand sermons against the mob. Ask the bench with its ten thousand addresses to grand juries to hunt down the law-breakers. Ask the newspapers, with their record of ten thousand editorials pointing out the dangers to popular government from contempt for the law.

Where To Doubt Is Treason

(Providence Journal.)

Why should there be doubt in any speculative mind that the wheat crop is abundant? Is not the Republican party still running the country?

Intolerance Rampant.

(Washington Herald.)

The effort to have the widow of Senator Carmack appointed postmistress at Columbia, Tenn., in order that she and her son may have ample means wherewith to live comfortably, is one that has commended itself heartily to The Washington Herald. We hope it will be successful. It seems to us that it surely deserves to be.

It is to be regretted deeply, nevertheless, that the movement might not have been permitted to progress without the unnecessary injection of any element of the venomous bitterness incident to the Senator's lamentable and violent death. Two or three Tennessee papers are loudly calling on Mrs. Carmack, and, they claim, with success, not to accept the office if any petition in her behalf bears the name of Gov. Malcolm R. Patterson, or if it is shown that he had anything whatever directly or indirectly, to do with the appointment, in the event that it shall be made all this growing out of a rumor 't that one of the present Senators from Tennessee had reported to the President that Gov. Patterson had said "the appointment would be most gratifying."

Nothing, to our way of thinking, could have been more natural than for the governor to give out just that statement. Whatever the political differences between himself and the late Senator may have been, we think the truce in the white face of the dead might operate to protect the governor from assaults of this kind if nothing else could. For him to have led in this movement would have been a mistake, bad taste, or whatever you care to call it, but that he should have let it be known, quietly and unostentatiously, that he would consider such an act proper and to be commended is very much and entirely to his credit. Instead of censuring the governor for it, we honor him.

And it would be well for Mrs. Carmack to consider, we imagine, in thinking upon this matter, whether those newspapers so vociferously urging a certain course of conduct on her in certain contingencies, real or imaginary, are actuated primarily by a real, honest desire to help her in her distress, or by a desire to keep alive the political hatred and strife incident to her husband's sad and altogether deplorable taking away. Are the bloodstained garments of Carmack being waved in this matter for a pure, commendable purpose, or are they being waved for a sinister reason, and with ulterior motives? Suppose through a mistake or vicious agitation against Gov. Patterson—a far fetched agitation, at worst—Mrs. Carmack should be induced to reject this probable offer and the two or three thousand dollar salary it carries; would these fierce and rampant "friends" get busy and find her something else as good, or even approximately as good? We doubt it, and with a doubt that is tall, large, and well developed. No; she would be editorially commended in glowing and even impassioned words—and left to make a living for herself and her boy by taking in sewing, perhaps!

We should be gratified more than we can say to see the widow provided for as it is being sought to provide for her. But it can be done without appeals to idiotic intolerance, and without nasty and utterly unjustifiable attacks on Gov. Patterson, even though he was of a political line-up stanchly antagonistic to her husband's.

"A Nation Of Perjurors."

(New York World.)

Opponents of an income tax, from Senator Aldrich down, are ringing the changes on Gladstone's remark that it made "a nation of perjurers." They are not in the least concerned about the perjury that results from a protective tariff.

Treasury officials are collecting evidence to show that the Government has been swindled out of $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 a year through the smuggling of foreign dress goods into this country. Within the last three months gowns worth tens of thousands of dollars have been confiscated by the New York customs authorities. But this, of course, is a trifling matter compared with the great governmental duty of safeguarding our millionaires against the temptation to commit perjury by swearing off part of their income taxes.

A baby's feet, like sea-shells pink,
Might tempt, should Heaven see meet,
An angel's lips to kiss, we think,
A baby's feet.

Like rose-hued sea-flowers toward the heat
They stretch and spread and wink
Their ten soft buds that part and meet.
No flower-bells that expand and shrink
Gleam half so heavenly sweet
As shine on life's untrodden brink—
A baby's feet.

II
A baby's hand, like rosebuds furl'd,
Whence yet no leaf expands,
Ope if you touch, though close upcurl'd,
A baby's hands.
Then, even as warriors grip their brands
When battle's bolt is hurl'd,
They close, clench'd hard like tightening bands.

No rosebuds yet by dawn imperial'd
Match, even in loveliest lands,
The sweetest flowers in all the world—
A baby's hands.

III
A baby's eyes, ere speech begin,
Ere lips learn words or sighs,
Bless all things bright enough to win
A baby's eyes.

Love, while the sweet thing laughs and lies,
And sleep flows out and in,
Lies perfect in them Paradise.

Their glance might cast out pain and sin
Their speech make dumb the wise,
By mute glad godhead felt within
A baby's eyes.

To Make Cloth Water-Proof.

"Take eight ounces of sugar of lead, eight ounces of powdered alum and two and one half gallons of lukewarm water," says Woman's Home Companion for April. "Mix in a tub, and let stand for twenty-four hours. Stir thoroughly when first mixed and occasionally for the first hour, to dissolve the ingredients. Take the garment (overcoat, suit or dress, anything of woolen or cotton material,) brush thoroughly, and let soak for twenty-four hours. Take out, let drip until almost dry (don't wring,) hang in the air until dry, then press as usual. Water will fall off as from the proverbial 'duck's back.' One can use a suit treated in this way, on hunting trips and in a driving rain, and come home dry. It does not destroy or interfere with the ventilation or injure the fabric in the slightest degree. The quantities as given here cost about twenty cents, and will successfully water-proof an overcoat and suit, or in proportion."

WHEN SPRING REALLY COMES

A surly exile, see old winter go!
The March wind full of glee mocks his despair,
And slyly tweaks his ice-stiff beard and hair
Till scattered strands whirl back in lashing snow.
While boisterously the rough young wind doth blow
In the old man's hail-beat face, nor ought doth care.
Grows Winter, glancing back, "Who follows there
At whose sweet voice both March and I must go?"
"Tis I," smiles dainty Spring, and as she shakes
Her sunlit tresses, earth reflects her smile;
The sweet air tingles with new life and wakes
Each flower and chattering sun-kissed brook the while
Blithe birds pour out their clear notes, welcoming
With tuneful song the radiant, fair young Spring!

Tuberculosis Cattle.

Enough Nebraska cattle are being condemned for tuberculosis to warrant radical action to stamp out the disease. As compared with the human disease this is easy, though hard on the owner of the condemned stock. The method is to apply the tuberculin test, destroy the infected animals, disinfect the stables where the rest are kept, and take pains to prevent adding infected animals to a healthy herd. Scientists disagree as to the danger of transmitting bovine tuberculosis to man, but most people prefer to be on the safe side. The Israelites had put the ban on the flesh of tuberculosis animals as far back as the Egyptian captivity. From this or some other cause they are to this day peculiarly free from tuberculosis. One would rather not consume so much even as the raw milk of a tuberculous cow.

Illustration of Spokane Spirit.

Mr. A. C. Guthrie, an esteemed subscriber of THE CHRONICLE, sent to this office a copy of the Spokesman-Review, Spokane, Wash., which contained an article which illustrates the spirit that has made some Western cities famous, and that could with advantage be emulated here in the East. It seems that Spokane needed $70,000 to carry on certain public enterprises during the year. Every financial institution, business concern, professional man, capitalist and property owner in the city was notified of this need and within a few days $31,594 was subscribed. This spirit of cooperation is what has made the far West what it is.

BIG AUTOMOBILE TOUR MAY 15

Washington Club To Pass Through Emmitsburg That Afternoon.

Messrs. O. G. Hoff, salesmanager of the Baltimore branch of the Oldsmobile Motor Company, and H. G. Ward, automobile editor of the Washington Post, sailed into town last Friday afternoon on the "Good Ship Neptune," the pathfinder of the Washington Automobile Club. Mr. Ward took several photographs of the Square which will be used to illustrate the account of the run of the Washington club that will pass through town on May 15 at about 2 o'clock.

Some fifty cars will take part in this run and about 100 members of the automobile club will make the trip. Starting from Washington they will go through Frederick, Hagerstown, Waynesboro, Emmitsburg and home.

The following checking places have been fixed: Rockville, in front of the courthouse; Frederick, Soltz garage; Hagerstown, the public square, Potomac and Washington streets; Waynesboro, Leland Hotel; Emmitsburg, public square fountain; Westminster, Main-Court Inn.

The distances between checking stations as officially measured by the committee are as follows: Washington, Fourteenth street and Park road, to Rockville, 14.5 miles; Rockville to Frederick, 28.8 miles; Frederick to Hagerstown, 26.7 miles; Hagerstown to Waynesboro, 12.2 miles; Waynesboro to Emmitsburg, 16 miles; Emmitsburg to Westminster, 21 miles; Westminster to the clubhouse of the Automobile Club, 45.5 miles.

In speaking of the trip Mr. Hoff voiced the general sentiment of those who have been here that he never travelled among more courteous and hospitable people. Of the roads these gentlemen were not so complimentary. "Eliminate the water brakes in your roads and thousands of tourists will pass through this way in a year, and incidentally drop a little coin," said Mr. Ward. The completion of the State road is eagerly looked forward to by thousands of automobilists. The Post has taken an active part in the good road movement and its ably edited automobile department has been largely instrumental in the improvement of highways not only in and around Washington but all over this State and Virginia.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Mrs. H. N. Hosley is visiting in this place.

Miss Amelia H. Annan is visiting in Taneytown.

Mr. J. M. Kerrigan was home for several days.

Mr. L. Edwin Motter spent a few days in Baltimore this week.

Messrs. Clarence and Charles Rider spent a few days in Baltimore.

Miss Edith Welsh, of Liberty, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Boyle.

Mr. John Matthews and Miss Mary C. Wiegand, spent a day in Bridgeport.

Mrs. L. M. Zimmerman and family have returned from a visit to Thurmont.

Mrs. M. J. Spalding has returned home from a two weeks' visit to Baltimore.

Miss Mae Long and Miss Georgina Kreitz spent last Saturday and Sunday in Taneytown.

Mr. George P. Rowe, of Portland, Oregon, is visiting his brother, Eugene L. Rowe, Esq.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Nunemaker are visiting Mr. Nunemaker's brother, Mr. C. B. Nunemaker, of Hanover.

Dr. Alice M. Seabrook, of the Woman's Hospital, Philadelphia, spent Sunday with her brother, Mr. E. A. Seabrook, of near town.

J. R. HOKE—E. E. EYLER.

On Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock Joseph Robert Hoke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hoke, and Miss Effie Elizabeth Eyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Eyer of near town, were married by Rev. J. O. Hayden in St. Vincent's House. They were attended by Miss Fannie Hoke, sister of the groom, and Mr. Robert Vincent L. A. Kerrigan, of Emmitsburg. The bride was gown in a blue travelling suit.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party was given a luncheon at the home of the groom's parents. The dining room was beautifully decorated. Mr. and Mrs. Hoke left on the three o'clock train for Baltimore and Washington. At Baltimore they were sumptuously entertained by Mrs. William Rosensteel, sister of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoke will return to Emmitsburg this evening and a reception will be given them at the home of the bride's parents. The Vigilant Hose Company and the Emmitt Cornet Band will attend the reception in a body. The young couple expect to begin housekeeping in the Fall.

A beautiful photograph of Miss Anita Hack, niece of Mr. A. A. Hack, of this place, was published in the Baltimore Sun of last Sunday.

BALTIMORE PRESBYTERY MEETS

Rev. Mr. Craig Declines Honor of Being Moderator.

Baltimore Presbytery met in Walbrook last week and was most hospitably entertained by the ladies of that congregation. Quite an honor was conferred on Rev. K. M. Craig, pastor of the local Presbyterian Church, when he was unanimously elected moderator. On account of recent illness Mr. Craig declined the honor and Rev. Mr. Frazer, president of New Windsor College, was elected to take his place.

On the second evening of the session two stirring addresses were delivered by William Anderson of the Antislavery League, and Rev. Mr. Stone. Mr. Stone is about to leave Baltimore for Chicago where he will take up the active work in Fourth Presbyterian Church in that place.

On the following evening the Presbytery as a body went to Northminster and listened to three addresses "Calvin's Influence on Political Development of the World," Rev. James R. Howerton, D. D., professor of philosophy at Washington and Lee University; "Calvin's Place in History," Hon. James Bryce, ambassador to the United States from Great Britain; "The Living John Calvin," Rev. D. J. Burrell, D. D., of Marble Collegiate Church New York. All the speakers brought out the idea that Geneva was the original home of liberty which finally became reflected all over the world.

In all probability Rev. Mr. Craig will attend the general assembly at Denver, Col., next month.

BIG AUTOMOBILE DAY MAY 15

Two Runs To Pass Through Emmitsburg At Nearly Same Time.

Beside the automobiles from Washington which will go through town about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, May 15, notice of which is given in another place, the Automobile Club of Maryland has selected the same day as the date on which it will hold a sealed bonnet endurance run.

The trip will be from Baltimore to Frederick, to Emmitsburg, on to Gettysburg and back to Baltimore.

The cars will be divided into four classes—touring cars up to 30 horsepower, touring cars above 30 horsepower, roadsters and tourabouts under 30 horsepower, and roadsters and tourabouts over 30 horsepower. The plans call for the cars leaving rather early in the morning, and the running schedule will take up about seven or eight hours. The time allowed will be different for the high and low powered cars.

WILLIAM H. FUSS.

After a lingering illness, which he bore with Christian fortitude, Mr. William H. Fuss, departed this life, Saturday afternoon, at 3.20. Although he had been ill a long while, he was wonderfully blessed by suffering no pain. He was only confined to bed the last two weeks. Words fail to describe the love and devotion, that was showered on Mr. and Mrs. Fuss, by every one, far and near, during his illness. There was no more widely known, few so highly respected, as Mr. William H. Fuss, both in his own locality and wherever he went.

A Christian man, for many years, he had taken an active part in all departments of the church, being one of the official board at Tom's Creek Church and Emmitsburg M. E. Church. The funeral was held Tuesday, at his late home, Alta Vista, where there was a short service, which was continued at the Methodist Church in Emmitsburg. The service was conducted by his devoted pastor, Rev. R. Koontz. His favorite hymns were sung, "Abide with Me," and "Asleep in Jesus." After reading of Scripture, the pastor gave a most impressive talk, to the large audience, who had assembled to pay their last act of respect to their beloved friend. Rev. Koontz feelingly eulogized the Christian character of the departed. The interment was in Mountain View Cemetery.

Mr. Fuss was aged 60 years and four months. He is survived by his widow, one son, Iva, of Frederick; and one daughter, Mrs. Stonesifer, of near Keysville.

Dr. Stone Director in Insurance Company.

Dr. D. E. Stone, Jr., has been elected a director of the Peoples Fire Insurance Company of Frederick. Dr. Stone is well-known in financial circles in this county and was recently elected president of the new savings bank to be formally opened on June 1.

One of the most noticeable improvements in preparation for Old Home Week is the home of Mr. Maurice Gillelan, which has been beautifully repainted by the firm of Gelwicks and Zurgable.

MARYLAND'S TENTH ARBOR DAY

Some Significant Facts Concerning Effect of Its Observance.

By proclamation of the Governor, Friday, April 30, has been designated as Arbor Day in Maryland this year. Special significance is attached by making it also Patrons Organization Day following out the suggestion made in the recent report of the Commission on country life.

Arbor Day is preeminently a school celebration. It was first observed in this State ten years ago although this is the thirty-seventh anniversary of its first observance in Nebraska under the institution of its founder, J. Sterling Morton, who later became United States Secretary of Agriculture.

The relation of our forests to the general welfare of the nation has led to a closer study of all our natural resources and their relation to the people generally. This led indirectly to the appointment of a commission on country life. An investigation of the conditions in the rural districts has demonstrated that much may be accomplished in making rural life more enjoyable by an organization of the patrons in school communities as suggested by the Governor.

HORSE STOLEN LAST FRIDAY

Animal Recovered on Saturday.—Arrest and Prosecution Likely.

On Friday night a horse belonging to Mr. John Mathews, hitched in front of Mr. Clutz's store, was taken by two men who drove out the Waynesboro road. Mr. Mathews was at the Opera House at the time and when he came for the team and found it gone he immediately telephoned to surrounding towns. On Saturday morning the horse was found hitched to a fence about a mile and a half above Zora on the pike.

Deputy Sheriff Ashbaugh has been put on the case and as the evidence against two men is pretty well founded, they will very likely be arrested and prosecuted. These offences are very serious and the conviction of a few disorderly people who sometimes drift into Emmitsburg would be very much appreciated.

YOUNG LADIES ON LONG JAUNT

On Horseback From Washington to Gettysburg and Return.

Nine young ladies from the National Park Seminary, Washington, accompanied by one of the faculty and a livery-groom, passed through Emmitsburg on Saturday on their way to Gettysburg. They spent the night there and returned through town on Sunday.

The trip is one that would entitle these ladies to Roosevelt's strenuous class, a coveted circle eagerly sought by army officers. They came by way of Leesburg and Bluemont, Va., Charlestown, W. Va., Sharpsburg, over the Antietam Battlefield, through Middletown, Frederick and on to Emmitsburg and Gettysburg.

EVERY MAN PAYS HIS WAY.

The following rather unusual inquiry came to this office concerning Old Home Week:

"It is to be understood that the people of Emmitsburg will pay the expenses of and provide accommodations for those who come for the Home Week celebration?"

It would seem to be scarcely necessary to answer this question, but, in order that there may be no possible misunderstanding about the arrangements for this big event it is deemed advisable to state that the invitations to be sent out will be simply formal expressions of welcome to former Emmitsburgians, visitors, and friends, so that they may all be present at one time to enjoy each other's company and to take part in the festivities and social events of that week. There will be all kinds of attractions and amusements and everything will be arranged to make this occasion a memorable one, but it is naturally understood that all who come will make their own preparations for their accommodations while here.

Celebrated Lecturer Here To-Night.

Mrs. Emma Graves Dietrick, of Lockport, N. Y., one of the national lecturers of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will speak in the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Emmitsburg, to-night at 7.30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited. No admission fee will be charged, but a collection for the work of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be taken.

Mr. Topper's Birthday Surprise.

Last Saturday Mr. M. A. Topper was delightfully surprised by about fifty of his friends. It was Mr. Topper's birthday. The guests were entertained with music and games. The refreshments consisting of ice cream, cakes, candy, nuts, and ginger ale. It was a very enjoyable evening for everyone present.

New Warehouses Under Construction.

Mr. Frizell has almost completed his new warehouses to the rear of his property on West Main street. He will conduct a general warehouse business dealing in coal, feed and making a specialty of seeds.

COME AGAIN PAULINE.

Most Excellent Performance by Taneytown Talent.

A crowded house welcomed "Pauline" to Emmitsburg last Friday evening. This was her first introduction to Emmitsburg's society and from the impression left she will be welcomed back at any time. This holds true of all those associated with "Pauline," chorus, Cullie the servant maid, Uncle Joe, Shady and Ruben, included.

The performance was a most agreeable surprise. It was not expected that Taneytown's purely amateur performers could give such a finished production. They were amateur only in name. The operetta was enjoyed from start to finish.

Special mention must be made of the part taken by Miss Josephine Reindollar. She was the favorite of the audience from her first appearance, and she truly deserved all the credit that was given her. Mr. Samuel Ott as "Shady," the colored valet, Mr. Clarence Ott, as "Ruben" and Mr. Edgar Yont, "Uncle Joe," were second choice.

The choruses were well balanced and sang splendidly. This was especially so of the ladies' chorus.

COMMITTEES BUSILY AT WORK

Old Home Week Celebration Will be The Biggest Thing Ever.

Another meeting of the Old Home Week Committee was held on Tuesday evening. The members of the executive committee are very much in earnest and are delighted with the prospects as far as they can see them. Of course nothing definite can be said of the celebration other than that it will be the biggest thing yet for Emmitsburg. In a short time the people will be acquainted with the plans of the committee and every one will be given plenty to do, which will be gladly done. The plans, it may be said, include every man, woman, and child within a reasonable distance of Emmitsburg.

ECKENRODE—KELLY.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Anthony's Church, Mt. St. Mary's, on Wednesday, at 7.30 A. M., when Miss Mary E. Kelly, daughter of Mr. J. F. Kelly, was joined in marriage to Mr. Charles E. Eckenrode, son of Mr. V. J. Eckenrode. The pastor, Rev. Geo. H. Traggesser performed the ceremony. The bridesmaid was Miss Alice Kelly a sister of the bride. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Bernard Eckenrode, as best man. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, after which the bridal couple took an early train for a tour of eastern cities.

The happy couple were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents, and have the best wishes of their numerous friends for long and happy lives.

Claude Brown's Condition.

The authorities at Montevue Hospital could give no definite answer to the inquiry made by THE CHRONICLE as to the recovery of Claude Brown who was taken there last week. He still suffers from paralysis probably brought on by other diseases with which he is afflicted. These, kidney trouble and tuberculosis, were probably the causes of his mental condition. Brown enjoyed a splendid reputation here. He was an industrious, sober and well behaved man. The first report concerning him was not correct in all its details.

Mr. John T. Long, who has recently had his residence on Gettysburg street repainted, will shortly have a concrete pavement laid.

Household Hints.

Our Big Feet Better Dressed Than Grandma's Little Ones.

Few girls of the present day can boast of the tiny feet of their mothers, but if they are larger they are better dressed and made to look smaller by the clever trickery called into play since the short walking skirt and narrow trains have made footwear play an important part in costumery. Pointed toes are only seen on the bargain counters, and the curved heels are in quite as bad taste; the accepted style is straight and high enough to arch the instep prettily. The vamp is short and toes round, two points which add much to the attractiveness of a shoe. The suede-like leather made for street boots has become popular. It has a magical effect in shortening the foot and is delightfully soft and comfortable. It is far from being a serviceable leather, but that matters very little when they are the smartest thing out. Tan and gray are the popular shades and white will be classed with them later on. It is possible to have any shade of this leather, if made to order. High laced shoes for morning wear or walking are undoubtedly most practical, but high-class makers recommend the buttoned ones for dress. Some of the dress shoes are decidedly theatrical, but every one wears them and comment is infrequent.—Style.

Mostly Skirts.

The corselet skirt is available among the new designs, and so is the jumper frock, but more recently introduced is the kilted skirt, the pleats of which are neatly stitched down around the hips, and left to fall loosely.

Lace and net over-ropes will be much worn over straight, untrimmed gowns, the handsomest of the robes being embroidered with jewels.

Most of the skirts are gored, but where the circular is deemed preferable, it is cut with quite an exaggerated width below the knees, still fitting snugly about the hips.

The three, four, and six piece skirts are most used among the gored varieties, as they can be more satisfactorily adapted to the new form of Directoire. A great many of the skirts hint at drapery, which emphasizes the fact also that the tendency is toward more fullness.

One Empire skirt that is slightly full around the waist line, cut circular, is cascaded down the front, giving excellent scope for band trimming or braiding with the new wide soutache.

Milady's Lingerie.

Among the most fascinating models to be seen at the French shops are little sacques of lingerie stuff, hand-made, exquisitely embroidered and inset with lace. Often a loose lining of white or colored India silk provides warmth without detracting from the sheer daintiness of the garment. These are necessarily high-priced and not to be dreamed of by the woman of moderate means. In these places are attractive sacques made of embroidered swisses, cross-barred lawns and figured batistes, requiring little trimming, and consequently, of moderate price. They are made with half long and rather wide sleeves and collarless, the narrow lace edging forming the finish, and in a deep hip length. These when made at home are very different from the ready made articles of poor quality and poorer cut. Some of the latest models have monks' hoods, for what purpose no one can explain. Others are of a straight length of 27-inch-wide material caught in the burnous loop in the back, and again at the edges under the arm. This style answers very well for a combing wrap, but is a little too careless looking for wear outside of one's room.—Style.

All Sorts of Hats.

For the most part shapes are high, with from one to three inches of brim, that is flattened against the head.

Materials are varied in straw and braid, and, for the early season, in net, shirred silk and marquisette.

Jet turbans are often stunning looking, but besides the probability of their becoming too common, they are very heavy.

Conservative persons prefer jetted net, and the hats are trimmed usually with morning glories, orchids, or French violets.

There are also combination hats, with brims of shirred satin or gauze and entire jet crowns. Straw is used in the same way, with a brim of shirred fabric.

The new sailor has a low broad crown and wide brim, a little wider at one side than the other. The sides curl up very slightly.

A new shade of blue has appeared in millinery, known both as the Bosphorus and the Danube. As its name implies, it is a water shade of blue, and is particularly effective in a bunch of fluffy novelty feathers.

Metalic net bids fair to be much used for hats for more dressy occasion during the coming season.

Lutheran Conference Next Week.

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the Middle Conference of the Maryland Lutheran Synod will be held at Braddock, this county. On Tuesday afternoon Rev. Charles Reinwald, of this place, will read a paper on "The Church, Her Growth in Missions."

BOUGHT BABOONS FOR MONKEYS

Blue Ridge Summit Merchant Learns of Mistake from Italian.

It was reported here last Sunday evening by a gentleman from Blue Ridge Summit that a practical joke had been played on Mr. Maurier, the popular merchant of Blue Ridge Summit. A story has been going the rounds of the press about a pair of so-called monkeys that gentleman had purchased in Baltimore a few weeks ago. He had a large cage in which the young fellows were kept and not being able to get anyone to attend to them he was constrained to do it himself. Desiring to make them docile he gave them certain liberties, and at last ventured to leave the door of the cage open while he drew some water for them. This looked easy for the captives and they got out as quick as greased lightning.

Some chinaware high up on the shelves of the store looked very much like their native cocoanuts. After them they went and the bull in the chinashop was not in it with these brutes. Teapots, jars and other pieces of fragile ware were tossed to the floor. After a hard chase a returned soldier from the Philippines, with a knowledge of the eccentricities of the monkey family, captured them.

A few days after this one of the early birds of spring, an Italian organ grinder, came on the scene with a real tame monk. He was invited in to see Mr. Maurier's pets and as soon as he saw them he exclaimed "Him no monkey—baboon. Bit a head off you by and by. No, me lika de monk, no want de baboon." Mr. Maurier had purchased young baboons instead of monkeys.

The gifts came from Dayton, Greenville and Arcanum, Ohio; Harrisburg, Steelton, Waynesboro, Virginia Mills, Gettysburg, Pa., and Taneytown, Emmitsburg, Keysville, Baltimore and Irishtown, Md., and from his neighbors.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S UNIQUE GIFT

Sent to Him From Philippine Islands by Admirers.

President Taft has received a gift from the Philippines in the form of a large suit case which was used by John S. Hord, collector of internal revenue, in bringing to Washington commercial and industrial statistics for use in considering Philippine tariff legislation.

The frame is of mahogany and the front is made of small inlaid blocks of native wood, about one hundred and twenty different specimens, highly polished and bearing the initials "W. H. T." in native gold, and "P. I." in native mother of pearl. The back and sides are composed of caribou hides, and the handle is a piece of Manila hemp, with the inscription "Taft-Payne-Philippine Tariff" in gold letters. The gold was mined in Benguet and the pearls were found in Jolo. The presentation was made at the White House by General Edwards, chief of the Insular Bureau.

riod of authentic history the Scythian tribes have poured themselves into Europe: First in the fourth and fifth centuries when Rome fell; second in the tenth century when even France was ravaged; third, the Russian monarchy was destroyed and lay prostrate under the Tartars and Europe was only saved by Frederick II of Germany; fourth the inroads of the mighty Tamerlan.

During these calamities there was revealed to Europe the name and nation of the Turks. In Tartary an insurrection of slaves gave birth to the empire of Turkey. To the East, when the affairs were auspicious they invaded China. To the West the waters of the Volga ran red with the blood of their slain enemies. Gradually province after province of the Eastern Roman Empire was lopped off by the greedy Asiatics until there alone remained Constantinople.

In 1402 and 1422 the city sustained the onslaughts of their terrible enemy. The long deferred but inevitable moment of her fall arrived in 1453 and "the last of the Caesars" folded round him the imperial mantle, and remembered the name which he represented in the dignity of heroic death. For 53 days Mahomet II fought under the walls of the city and at last victory crowned his efforts. On the 29th of next month it will be 456 years since the Crescent drove the Cross from St. Sophia.

During these years of encampment on the soil of Europe this people has waged almost ceaseless warfare with some one or more of the other European or Asiatic powers. War seems its normal condition. "No other nation of Europe, and very few of those of Asia, have so utterly neglected the arts of peace as this great nation, which has occupied for these five centuries and more the garden and granary of the world. The Turk is indolent, and thinks it beneath his dignity to labor. If he can exercise a little brief authority over some trembling ghaour (infidel), or 'Christian dog,' he is in his element. Then all the savage in his nature comes out, and he readily demonstrates that 500 years of contact with civilization have not sufficed to render him, except in mere externals, one whit less a barbarian than when he was clad in sheepskin, and rode with his clan on the steppes of higher Asia."

Mr. Nassau W. Senior, once employed in the diplomatic service of the English Government said of the Turkish Government and people:

"Turkey exists for two purposes: first, to act as a dog in the manger, and to prevent any Christian power from possessing a country which she herself, in her present state, is unable to govern or protect; and secondly, for the benefit of some fifty or sixty bankers and usurers, and some thirty or forty pashas, who make fortunes out of its spoils."

To the shame of England and other Christian nations of Europe be it said that Mohammedan squatters remain on Christian soil, through their sufferance.

In 1854 Czar Nicholas of Russia in conversation with Sir Hamilton Seymour, the British ambassador at St. Petersburg, said "I repeat to you that the sick man is dying; and we must never allow such an event to take us by surprise." He therefore proposed that to avoid a European war when the demise took place, Russia and Great Britain should come at once to a private arrangement as to the disposal of the Sick Man's effects. The British government, on account of investments and Turkish loans, intimated its belief in the recovery of the Sick Man, and soon after fought by his side in the Crimean war. This occurrence, by the way originated the nickname of the Sultan, "Sick Man."

GREAT-WORLD WAR THREATENED

Peril In The Naval Rivalry Of England And Germany.

That a great world conflict is threatened between Great Britain and Germany over their naval armaments was the declaration of Andrew Carnegie in New York before the recent annual business meeting of the Peace Society, of which he is president. The time has come, he said, for the other nations of the world to intervene between the "two disturbing Powers." Mr. Carnegie said in part:

"Never in our day has the world's peace been so seriously threatened. Britain has discovered in Germany a menace to her existence. Germany, having equal rights upon the sea, fails to recognize the right of Britain to continue forever as mistress of the seas. Within a small radius the two gigantic fleets of Germany and Britain will operate, often in sight of each other. The topic of constant discussion on every lip will be their relative power and the probable consequence of battle. Under such strain a mere spark will suffice. Some day a few marines ashore from ships of the rival navies will have an encounter, and lo, the pent-up passions of the peoples of the two countries will sweep everything before them. Thus any trifle suffices to produce war."

"It is preeminently the mission of our peaceful industrial republic to lead the world to peace. One cannot but indulge the hope that our President in due time may find a way, perhaps, to invite the leading naval powers to consider whether some kind of an agreement could not be reached which would avert the appalling dangers which threaten to convulse the world in the not distant future."

Pardons in the Famous Goebel Case.

The pardon of former Governor Taylor, of Kentucky and former Secretary of State Finley by Governor Willson, of Kentucky was announced last Friday night. Shortly after the announcement an effigy of Willson was hung from a girder of a bridge in Frankfort. It was labeled "Gus Willson murderer of Justice."

ROAD BUILDING IN NORTH.

the materials used to be able to procure good results and account for failures. With this end in view the Highways Commission employed the State Chemist to make an analysis and physical tests of the materials.

The engineers say that so far as their experience goes it seems evident that to produce good results by the use of oil—which means to accomplish more than the laying of dust—it is necessary to use oils that have an asphaltic base. The larger the percentage of asphalt, the better the results. The experiments have demonstrated that the heavier oils, which must be heated to be applied, will last longer without being retreated; and the indications thus far are that these heavier oils, enriched with the right quantity of asphalt, will make a permanent roadbed when mixed in proper proportions with sand and will likely prove effective in resurfacing old macadam roads if a layer is put on two inches thick in the center and one inch on the sides.

Up in Massachusetts it cost about $100 a mile a year for repairs several years ago. Now since automobiles have been using the roads the cost has gone up to $120 a mile a year and even more.

A pleasing feature of the State roads in Massachusetts, notwithstanding the ravages of the gipsy moth, is the trees along the highways. Last year 1,184 trees were planted under the direction of the State forester. There are now in the nursery of the highways commission 5,000 trees, of which 3,000 are ready for planting this spring. The experiment of planting sumach and other wild growths on sandy banks of deep cuts, to keep the loose sand from sliding down or blowing away, has been tried with success.

In Rhode Island the commission inspected the best piece of "automobile road," they had ever seen. It is a bituminous macadam and cost from $8,000 to $15,000 a mile above the cost of ordinary macadam for a 14-foot road, with a 6-inch roll. The road consists of broken stone, over which heated bitumen is spread and covered with quarry dust and rolled.

Band of Counterfeiters Arrested.

Thousands of dollars in counterfeit currency, both of the United States and Italy, were seized by the police and Secret Service agents at New Rochelle, N. Y., Sunday in a house formerly occupied by three alleged counterfeiters who with a woman were arrested on Saturday. With the spurious money, a complete currency counterfeiting outfit was discovered, including presses, dies, engravers' and colored inks.
