SHOW FARMERS HOW TO FARM

P. R. R. TO TILL SOIL

Experimental Agriculture by Railroad

UNUSED LANDS TO BE RECLAIMED

Model Farm Is To Be Established on Eastern Shore for the Education of Farmers and to Benefit Pennsylvania's Traffic.

The Pennsylvania Railroad in order to encourage agriculture along its lines, writes A. A. B. in the Boston Transcript, has purchased a farm of fifty acres at Bacon, Del., on the Delaware Railroad, which it controls. It is proposed at this farm to operate an experimental agricultural station for the benefit of farmers in the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia peninsula, with the idea that thereby the advantages of the section from an agricultural point of view will be exploited throughout the country.

The inception of the present undertaking goes back to the fall of 1898, when James McCrea, now president of the Pennsylvania road, made a trip over the lines in the territory which the experimental farm is intended to serve. He saw thousands of acres in one of the richest agricultural districts in the world idle, and this despite the fact that farms adjoining the abandoned ones are flourishing, with their products in demand in many markets.

Accordingly a committee of the Pennsylvania Railroad's board of directors was appointed to look into the matter and to report on the practicability of having the railroad enter the farming business. The report was so favorable that it was determined to go ahead, and fifty acres were bought as a starter. To indicate the extent of the opportunity for agricultural development in this peninsula one need only consult the census, which shows that according to the latest figures there are 3,916,800 acres of land in the peninsula, of which only 2,058,299 are under cultivation. All told, 28,355 farms occupy the acres in use, giving a total population of about 500,000 people on the farms and in the villages and towns.

The farm land that has been purchased is of the kind that is ordinarily called "worked out." That is to say that it has deteriorated under the cultivation of many seasons to a point at which its productive energy is far below the normal. It was selected for precisely this reason. The belief was that its productivity could be restored, and that this fact would in itself be the best advertisement for the farm, and the best invitation to farmers to re-settle the uncultivated acres of the Peninsula.

It is needless to say that these activities are not engaged in merely because the officials of the Pennsylvania road have a scientific interest in agriculture. Their object—frankly expressed by these officials—is to develop traffic for the Pennsylvania lines and at the same time to make the patrons of the road feel that it takes a real interest in their welfare, because if they are prosperous the lines will do good business. It is the application of that much abused phrase, "enlightened self-interest," as it has not been applied by many of those who have fallen back on it to justify one vagary or another of corporation management. The result will be of interest to witness.

THE POPE HAS A REGULAR CLIPPING BUREAU AT WORK

Pius X Reads Only What Is Marked and Passed On by His Cardinal Secretary Merry del Val.

The Vatican now has a press clipping bureau. The Pope reads only two newspapers. The Observatore Romano, the official organ of the Holy-See, and the Difesa, of Venice.

All other Italian newspapers are read by a young journalist, who cuts all news of interest and sends the clippings to Cardinal Merry del Val. The cardinal marks in blue pencil anything of importance which he considers that the Pope ought to see and in turn sends the clippings of the day to the Pope, who only reads what is marked by his secretary of state.

A certain number of foreign newspapers are sent to the secretariate of state, where four clerks who know French, German, Spanish, and English cut out important paragraphs relating to Vatican news, translate them into Latin and send them to the Pope.

All the clippings are bound separately, divided according to countries and subdivided according to newspapers and carefully indexed for future reference.

PARSONS AND CANNON

Speaker Charged With Dealing With Tammany

THE OLD MAN TALKS OF SKUNKS

"Parsons! Why He's the Fellow who Struck Hands With Hearst Down There."—Washington Interested.

The national Capitol is keenly interested in the specific charge made by Representative Herbert Parsons of New York that Tammany Hall was in a deal with certain up-State New York Republicans, through which Speaker Cannon and his organization in the House of Representatives received the support of certain New York Democratic congressmen in the fight over the House rules, last spring. At the time the rules fight came off there was a great deal of gossip to the effect that there was a deal of some sort, but no one was willing to make a specific charge. Now Mr. Parsons finds it worth while to make this charge.

When Cannon's attention was attracted to this charge he said—"If Parsons is looking for a scrap he'll have plenty of chances for it." Continuing he said: "I don't make a hullabaloo about such things," he explained. "When I first used to go hunting as a boy along the Wabash I saw one kind of animal that I never had seen before, and kicked at it. I was weeks in recovering, and since that time I never have kicked at that kind of animal—in private life or in politics."

Recalling the name Parsons the Speaker said "Parsons! Why he's the fellow who struck hands with Hearst down there—you remember when it was Hearst against Hughes?"

It may be said that the up-State New York Republicans who would know of a deal of the sort Parsons alleges if there was one, say emphatically that no such deal was made. At the time the vote was taken last March, the authority for the current rumor that a deal had been made with Tammany was of the highest character.

JOHN EARLY DEPENDENT ON CHARITY AND WIFE

Stigma of "Leper" Denies Him Needed Employment.—Ostracised From Salvation Army in New York.

John Early, with the stigma of "leper" attached to him, has become an object of charity and is practically ostracised from the Salvation Army, with which he has been associated since coming to New York, says the Washington Herald.

The charity being extended to Early and his family is being conducted anonymously. A "Mrs. Mary R. P." has sent two checks to a Brooklyn paper to be used for the support of the Early family. One was for $25 and the other for $10.

Early is still practically destitute, as he has been unable to get work, for no one will employ him, because of the stigma placed upon him by the Washington health authorities.

Mr. Early and his wife were formerly officers of the Salvation Army, but the army has done practically nothing for him since he was quarantined a year ago. He applied to the officers of the Salvation Army when he was in dire need a few weeks ago and he was given no encouragement whatever nor any promise of employment.

The only income of his family since his pension was cut off has been earned by his faithful wife, a frail little woman, who has done odd jobs for the neighbors.

New Freight Yards at Hagerstown.

Work on the reconstruction of the yards of the Western Maryland Railroad in Hagerstown began this week. Enlargement of the yards has become necessary, owing to the increase in the freight business brought about by the traffic relations between the Western Maryland and the Philadelphia and Reading railroads, by which the crews of the latter road will run through to Hagerstown from Rutherford. The sum of $10,000 will be expended in making improvements in the south end of the yards. The present trackage system will be rearranged and six additional tracks will be laid.

Middletown's Paving Row.

The Burgess and Commissioners of Middletown have secured an injunction against the Middletown Savings Bank, requiring the bank to show cause on or before October 9 why it should not remove a pavement recently laid in front of the building which it is alleged does not conform with the grades of the town.

John R. Walsh was sentenced to five years imprisonment for misapplying bank funds in Chicago.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE DINNER

A FITTING END TO OLD HOME WEEK LABORS

Banquet Served To Those Who Made the Celebration Successful and a Few of Their Friends.

STEPS TAKEN TO FORM PERMANENT BUSINESS MEN'S ORGANIZATION

Eloquent Speeches in Response to Toasts.—Our Town Lauded, Our Neighbors Praised, Our County Honored, Our Ladies Remembered, Our Institutions Commended, Our Firemen Extolled, Our Facilities Noticed and Lessons Learned From Big Celebration.

On Tuesday evening the gentlemen who so successfully planned and carried through Emmitsburg's Old Home Week celebration met again at a banquet at the Emmitt House and with them were several other prominent men of town as their guests. In all about thirty people enjoyed the splendid menu furnished by Mr. Breichner. It was a little after half past nine when the guests assembled and the banquet began. The following menu was prepared:

Blue Points
Consomme Royal
Olives
Celery
Salted almonds
Baked Rock, Egg Sauce.
Stewed Duck
Potatoes au Delmonico
Cabbage with Cream
Lobster Salad
Stuffed Baked Tomatoes
Saddle of Mutton, Currant Jelly Sauce
Orange Cake
Lady Fingers
Crackers
Bon Bons
Cheese
Cafe Noir

Vincent Sebald, Esq., was toastmaster and the first speaker called on was Rev. Mr. Gluck, pastor of the Reformed Church who responded to the toast, "Our Town."

Mr. Gluck spoke of the enjoyment he had at the many meetings of the Executive Committee during the few weeks preceding the celebration and his subsequent pleasure during that memorable week. While not a native of Emmitsburg, and never having tasted the magic waters of the old Street Pump, whoever drank of which could never long abide outside the limits of the town, yet in the six years he had the honor to be a resident of the place he had become very much as those who quenched their thirst at the historic pump. During the time of his residence here, Mr. Gluck said, he learned to know and respect the people; he had become acquainted with their strong points and these had added to the genuine affection he felt for the place.

He called attention to Emmitsburg's ideal location and splendid natural advantages and remarked that this beautiful environment had its marked effect on the life and aims of the people. As residents of Pennsylvania both he and Prof. Strauss, who was seated next to him, had noticed the peculiar spirit of the people; a spirit that he, personally liked from the beginning of his life here. "It seemed to the speaker that all were ready to stand up for their town and if need be, fight for it.

There are things, he thought that might be better. More efforts should be made to bring the town before the general public, the state and county. Old Home Week showed the spirit of unity that pervades here. It was this shoulder to shoulder work that made it the unqualified success it was. With the same spirit other things could and should be done and he for one pledged himself to support anything that might be proposed to the advantage of the town, the county and the State.

WILBUR WRIGHT SAILS OVER NEW YORK HARBOR

Spectacular Achievement of Aviator Almost Suspends Business in Metropolis For a While.

Wilbur Wright made the most spectacular flight in his aeroplane on Monday at New York that has ever been made in this country. He rose from Governor's Island and sailed up the Hudson around Grant's tomb and back to the starting point, a distance of over eighteen miles.

During the flight business was practically suspended in all that part of Manhattan from which a view of his remarkable performance was available. Harbor craft shrieked their applause, cheer after cheer swept up from the banks of the Hudson and the lower bay, for the Dayton aviator had "made good," crowning the aviation program of the Hudson-Fulton celebration with a record.

REORGANIZE W. M. R. R.

First Step Towards This End Taken In Petition

PLAN ATTACKED IN U. S. COURT

Sale of Property Proposed.—Unsecured Creditors Complain.—Assessment On Stock Now Due.

The end of the receivership of the Western Maryland Railroad seems to be at hand. Friday the Equitable Trust Company of New York, successor to the Bowling Green Trust Company, the complainant in the receivership suit against the Western Maryland, filed a petition in the United States District Court asking for a decree for the foreclosure and sale of the railroad.

This proposed plan was attacked on Tuesday in the United States Circuit Court, in argument on the petition of George M. Alexander and Robert T. Cunningham, executors of the will of Lee L. Malone, of West Virginia, to hold up the reorganization sale of the railroad until their interests as unsecured creditors of the railroad have been preserved.

Judge Morris granted the petitioners leave to intervene in the receivership case, but refused to stay the foreclosure sale of the Western Maryland Railroad until some plan has been adopted for the benefit of the general creditors. On Saturday the question of signing the foreclosure will be taken up and it is supposed that something definite of the future of the road will be made known.

The sale of the property will be the first step in the moral reorganization of the road. These plans provide for $10,000,000 of 4 per cent. non-cumulative preferred stock, and $23,950,560 of a previously authorized issue of common stock. An assessment of 40 per cent. on a previously authorized issue of common stock has already been felt by the holdings of that issue, for the first instalment has fallen due and the time for deposits already expired. Stockholders are now preparing to pay instalment number two.

GOVERNMENT LOSES A POINT IN LIBEL CASE

Indianapolis Judge Refuses to Grant Continuance Until After New York Trial, October 20.

Judge Anderson of the United States district court last week at Indianapolis, Ind., refused an application by the department of justice for a continuance of the preliminary hearing of Delaven Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, who are under indictment by the federal grand jury of the District of Columbia charged with having criminally libeled Theodore Roosevelt, Douglas Robinson, William Nelson Cromwell, Charles P. Taft and others by intimating in published articles that there was corruption in the purchase of the Panama canal zone by the United States from the French companies.

The hearing was continued last June until October 11. The government asked for a continuance until after the trial of the publishers of the New York World on a similar charge, which trial is set for October 20 in New York city. The application was made through Charles W. Miller, United States attorney for the Indianapolis district. Attorneys for Smith and Williams, who are opposing their removal to the District of Columbia for trial, protested against further delay in the proceedings and the court upheld them.

New Record in Travel in New York.

In the seven days from Saturday, Sept 25 to Friday, Oct. 1, inclusive, 12,964,716 passengers were carried on the elevated and subway lines of New York City. Saturday's traffic would increase this number to more than 15,000,000. For the celebration the company issued 10,000 free passes to the officers and men of the foreign fleets and to the accredited delegates from other countries. Just how many took advantage of this courtesy it is impossible to tell. That this vast throng was handled without a single serious accident is considered remarkable among transportation men.

Jews Select Synagogue Site.

The prominent Jews of Frederick have secured a hall suitable for use as a synagogue, and the donation of a lot upon which to build synagogue is assured. For the present the purpose is to have Dr. Guttmacher, Dr. Rosenour or Rabbi Rubenstein, of Baltimore, to make weekly trips to Frederick and hold service for the local colony.

A considerable fall of snow was reported late last week from New York State.

DR. COOK HAS MORE FRIENDS

CAPTURES BALTIMORE

Ovation For Him at Every Stop in His Tour.

MORE INSTALMENTS OF STORY

Village of Annotok and Building Winter Quarters.—The Long Arctic Night.—How They Hunt the Narwhal.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook lectured in Baltimore last Monday night before 2,000 interested hearers and these people all, before the lecture was ended, became his warm friends. At Union Station when he left the train the crowds who had gathered gave him an ovation, and later the mayor and city tendered him a public reception.

In speaking of the way he was received the Baltimore Sun editorially said:

Dr. Cook has cause to be gratified at the welcome which was extended to him by Baltimore. His reception in Denmark, in New York and now in Baltimore is, in effect a popular vote of confidence. In all the trying ordeals through which Dr. Cook has passed since his return from the north he has conducted himself as a gentleman and a man of honor. His narrative of his marvelous journey across the ice of the Arctic Ocean to the North Pole rings true. His bearing, his fortitude and self-restraint under attack have excited public admiration, and the people believe in him. The welcome of the great discoverer in this city was what it ought to have been, and Dr. Cook could not help feeling that he was among friends. A large audience gathered last night in the Lyric to hear his account of his bitter experience amid the darkness and cold of the Arctic regions and listened with breathless interest to the story of one the greatest achievements of physical endurance and moral courage in the experience of mankind.

The Baltimore American remarked: Dr. Cook has stood before a Baltimore audience, an audience representative of the conservative sentiment that does not commit itself with undue haste to any side of a controversy, and has won its regard by his direct and unaffected manner of presenting his exploit. * * * Because of the magnetism of his personality Baltimoreans who heard his presentation of his trip to the Far North, who journeyed with him in fancy and by the aid of pictures as he recounted the circumstances of his great dash to the Pole with only the provisions that bare necessity entailed, would hear of his establishment of his claim with satisfaction.

The lecturer has won many friends, and has shown his capacity to make delightfully marketable an experience that is exceptional. Dr. Cook's lecture gave a detailed account of the sufferings and triumphs of his journey. How he and his party raced with starvation and death and won out. In short it was a condensed form of the story that is now appearing in the CHRONICLE, the third and fourth instalments of which will be found on pages two and three.

A police inspector, several police and detectives were indicted by the grand jury of Kings county, N. Y., charged with aiding and abetting bookmaking at Sheephead and Gravesend race tracks.

POET DAVIDSON'S BODY FOUND ON SEA SHORE

Mystery of His End Is Cleared Up.—The Sea Was His Final Resting Place.—Strange Funeral.

The body of Mr. John Davidson, the poet, who has been missing from his home in Penzance, England, for nearly six months, was found recently floating in the sea at the fishing village of Mousehole, three miles from Penzance. The body was borne through the village on a stretcher and placed in a hut adjoining the road to Penzance.

An inquest was held over the body, which showed a fracture of the skull and a round hole, which might have been made by a bullet through both temples. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of "found dead."

The funeral service and burial took place at sea. It was a modern "Passing of Arthur." Only a Tennyson lover could have conceived such a funeral—two little boats dived out of sight; the watchers gazed from the shore; a funeral service miles out at sea; and a coffin shot overboard weighted with lead to keep it twenty fathoms deep.

Albert Pulitzer, brother of the publisher of the New York World, committed suicide at Vienna, Austria, on Sunday.

(THIRD ARTICLE)

WITH a basty farewell to Mr. Bradley and the officers and encouraged with a cheer from all on board, we left the motherly yacht for our new home and mission. The yacht stood off to avoid drifting ice and await the return of the motorboat.

When we were set ashore we sat down and watched with saddened eyes the departure of our friends and the severing of the bond which had held us to the known world of life and happiness.

The village of Annootok is placed in a small bay just inside of Cape Inglefield. Its population changes much from year to year, according to the known luck of the chase or the ambition of the men to obtain new bear-skin trousers.

Scattered about it were twelve seal-skin tents, which served as a summer shelter for an equal number of vigorous families. In other places nearer the sea were seven stone igloos. Upon these the work of reconstruction for winter shelter had already begun.

moons, and the periods are named in accord with the movements of various creatures of the chase.

In early September at Annootok the sun dips considerably under the northern horizon. There is no night. At sunset and at sunrise storm clouds hide the bursts of color which are the glory of twilight, and the electric afterglow is generally lost in the dull gray which bespeaks the torment of the storms of the setting sun.

The gloom of the coming winter night now thickens. The splendor of the summer day has gone. A day of six months and a night of six months are often ascribed to the polar regions as a whole, but this is only true of a very small area about the pole.

As we come south the sun slips under the horizon for an ever increasing part of each twenty-four hours. Preceding and following the night as we come from the pole there is a period of day and night which lengthens with the descent of latitude.

It is this period which enables us to retain the names of the usual seasons—summer for the double days, fall for the period of the setting sun. This season begins when the sun first dips

Eskimos must not only gather the greatest number possible, but must prepare the skins and make them into properly fitting garments.

In other places reindeer were abundant. This skin was very much in demand for sleeping bags, while the sinew was required for thread. In still other places seal was the luck of the chase, and its skin was one of our most important needs. Of it boots were ordered, and an immense amount of line and lashings was prepared.

Thus in one way or another every man, woman and most of the children of this tribe of 250 people were kept busy in the service of the expedition. The work was well done and with much better knowledge of the fitness of things than could be done by any possible gathering of white men.

Use of the Narwhal.

The quest of the walrus and the narwhal came in our own immediate plan of adventure. The unicorn, or narwhal, does not often come under the eye of the white man, though one of the first animals to leave our shores.

It gave for a brief spell good results in sport and useful material. The blubber is the pride of every house-keeper, for it gives a long, hot flame to the lamp, with no smoke to spot the igloo finery. The skin is regarded as quite a delicacy. Cut into squares, it looks and tastes like scallops, with only a slight aroma of train oil.

The meat dries easily and is thus prized as an appetizer or as a lunch to be eaten en route in sled or kayak. In this shape it was an extremely useful thing for us, for it took the place of pemmican for our less urgent journeys.

The narwhal, which, apart from its usefulness, is most interesting to denizens of the arctic deep, played in schools far off shore, usually along the edge of large ice. Its long ivory tusks rose under spouts of breath and spray.

When this glad sight was noted every kayak about camp was manned, and the Eskimos' skin canoes went like birds over the water. Some of the Eskimos rose to the ice fields and delivered harpoons from a secure footing. Others hid behind floating fragments of heavy ice and made a sudden rush as the animals passed.

Still others came up in the rear, for the narwhal cannot easily see backward and does not often turn to watch its enemies, its speed being so fast that it can easily keep ahead of other troublesome creatures.

Hunting the Narwhal.

The harpoon is always delivered at close range. When the dragging float marked the end of the line in tow of the frightened creature the line of skin canoes followed. The narwhal is timid by nature. Fearing to rise for breath, he plunged along until nearly strangulated. When it did come up there were several Eskimos near with drawn lances, which inflicted deep gashes.

Again the narwhal plunged deep down with but one breath and hurried along as best it could. But its speed slackened, and a line of crimson marked its hidden path. Loss of blood and want of air did not give it a chance to fight. Again it came up with a spout; again the lances were hurled.

The battle continued for several hours, with many exciting adventures, but in the end the narwhal always succumbed, offering a prize of several thousand pounds of meat and blubber. Victory, as a rule, was not gained until the hunters were far from home, also far from the shore line. But the Eskimo is a courageous hunter and an intelligent seaman.

Towing the Carcass.

To the huge carcass frail kayaks were hitched in a long line. Towing is slow, wind and sea combining to make the task difficult and dangerous.

DR. COOK IN ARCTIC COSTUME.

One sees nothing of the narwhal and very little of the kayak, for dashing seas wash over the little craft, but the double blade paddles seewash with the regularity of a pendulum.

Homecoming takes many hours and engenders a prodigious amount of hard work, but there is energy to spare, for a wealth of meat and fat is the culmination of all Eskimo ambition.

Seven of these ponderous animals were brought in during five days, making a heap of more than 40,000 pounds of food and fuel. Then the narwhals suddenly disappeared, and we saw no more of them.

Three white whales were also obtained in a similar way at Etah at about the same time.

AN ACT to amend Section one of Article one, title, "Elective Franchise," of the Constitution of this State, and to provide for the submission of said Amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring, that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section one of Article one, title, "Elective Franchise," of the Constitution of this State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section one of said Article one.

SEC. 1. All elections shall be by ballot, and every male citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, who has been a resident of the State for two years and of the Legislative District of Baltimore City or of the county in which he may offer to vote, for one year next preceding the election, and who, moreover, is duly registered as a qualified voter as provided in this Article, shall be entitled to vote, in the ward or election district in which he resides, at all elections hereafter to be held in this State, and in case any county or city shall be so divided as to form portions of different electoral districts for the election of Representatives in Congress, Senators, Delegates or other officers, then to entitle a person to vote for such officer, he must have been a resident of that part of the county or city which shall form a part of the electoral district in which he offers to vote, for one year next preceding the election; but a person who shall have acquired a residence in such county or city, entitling him to vote at any such election, shall be entitled to vote in the election district from which he removed, until he shall have acquired a residence in the part of the county or city to which he has removed.

Every male citizen of the United States having the above prescribed qualifications of age and residence shall be entitled to be registered so as to become a qualified voter if he be, first: a person who, on the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, or prior thereto, was entitled to vote under the laws of this State, or of any other State of the United States, wherein he then resided; or second: a male descendant of such last mentioned person; or third: a foreign born citizen of the United States naturalized between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article; or fourth: a male descendant of such last mentioned person; or fifth: a person who, in the presence of the officers of registration, shall, in his own handwriting, with pen and ink, without any aid, suggestion or memorandum whatsoever, and without any question or direction addressed to him by any of the officers of registration, make application to register correctly, stating in such application his name, age, date and place of birth, residence and occupation at the time and for the two years next preceding, the name or names of his employer or employers, if any, at the time and for the two years next preceding, and whether he has previously voted, and if so, the State, county or city and district or precinct in which he voted last, and also the name in full of the President of the United States, of one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, of the Governor of Maryland, of one of the Judges of the Court of Appeals of Maryland and of the Mayor of Baltimore City, if the applicant resides in Baltimore City, or of one of the County Commissioners of the county in which the applicant resides; and any person who is unable to comply with the foregoing requirements as to making application for registration in his own handwriting, solely because he is physically disabled from so doing; or sixth: a person, or the husband of a person, who at the time of his application for registration, is a bona fide owner of real or personal property in an amount of not less than five hundred dollars, is assessed therefore on the tax-books of the City of Baltimore or of one of the counties of this State, has been such owner and so assessed for two years next preceding his application for registration; shall have paid and shall produce receipts for the taxes on said property for said two years and shall at the time of his application make affidavit before the officers of registration that he is, or that he is the husband of the person who is the bona fide owner of the property so assessed to him or to her, as the case may be, and that he or she has been such owner for two years next preceding his application.

No person not qualified under some one of the above clauses shall be entitled to be registered as a qualified voter or be entitled to vote. Every written application to be registered, presented to the officers of registration by any person applying to be registered under the above fifth clause, shall be carefully preserved by said officers of registration and shall be produced in any Court, if required, as hereinafter provided. The affidavit of any applicant for registration, duly made to the officers of registration or in Court, that he, the applicant, is a person who was entitled to vote on or before the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, as aforesaid, or that he has become a naturalized citizen of the United States between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article, as aforesaid, or his affidavit upon information and belief that he is a descendant of a person who was entitled to vote on or before the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, or that he is a descendant of a person who has become a naturalized citizen of the United States between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article, shall be prima facie evidence of any of said facts so sworn to.

A willfully false statement upon the part of any applicant for registration in relation to any of the matters aforesaid shall be perjury, and punishable as perjury is punished by the laws of this State.

Any person who feels aggrieved by the action of any board of officers of registration in refusing to register him as a qualified voter, or in registering any disqualified person, may at any time, either before or after the last session of the board of officers of registration, but not later than the Tuesday next preceding the election, file a petition, verified by affidavit, in the Circuit Court for the county in which the cause of complaint arises, or, if the cause of complaint arises in Baltimore City, in any court of common law jurisdiction in said city, setting forth the grounds of his application and asking for the action of the board of officers of registration corrected. The court shall forthwith set the petition for hearing and direct summons to be issued requiring the board of officers of registration to appear and answer in said petition to attend at the hearing in person or by counsel, and where the object of the petition is to strike off the name of any person, summons shall also be issued for such person, which shall be served by the sheriff within the time therein designated; and said several courts shall have full jurisdiction and power to review the action of any board of officers of registration and to grant or withhold, as it may deem lawful and proper, the relief prayed for in the premises.

In determining whether any person who applied to be registered under the above fifth clause of this section was or was not entitled to be registered under said fifth clause, the court shall require the board of officers of registration complained against to produce the written application prepared and submitted by such person at the time he presented himself for registration to said board of officers of registration, and upon said written application the court shall determine whether or not said person; when he presented himself for registration, complied with the requirements of said fifth clause; and if the court shall determine the said written application, so prepared and submitted by said person, complied with the requirements of said fifth clause, and that said person was not disqualified under any other provisions of this Article of the Constitution to be registered upon the books of registry in question, then the Court shall order said person to be registered as a qualified voter, but if the court shall determine that said written application of said person failed to comply with the requirements of said fifth clause, or the said person was in any other respect under this Article of the Constitution disqualified to be registered upon the books of registry in question then the court shall order that said person shall not be registered upon said books of registry.

The court may enforce any order by attachment for contempt in said cases; neither party shall have any right of removal; exception may be taken to any ruling of the court at the hearing of said cases and an appeal shall be allowed to the Court of Appeals as in other cases; all such appeals shall be taken within five days from the date of the decision complained of and shall be heard and decided by the Court of Appeals upon the original papers, and otherwise, as the Court of Appeals may by rule prescribe, as soon as may be practicable.

The General Assembly shall have power to provide more fully by legislation not inconsistent with this section of this Article, for the hearing and determination of all such cases.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the foregoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be at the next General Election for members of the General Assembly to be held in this State submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of this State, and at said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment" as now prescribed by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment, as directed by the said Article XIV of the Constitution.

Approved February 25, 1908.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, AUSTIN L. CROTHERS, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the provisions of Section 1, of Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that a copy of said Act proposing an amendment to section 1 of Article 1 of the Constitution of said State, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State and in three newspapers in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months preceding the next General Election, which election will be held on November 2nd, 1909, at which election the said proposed amendment shall be submitted, in the form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection.

THE CONQUEST OF THE POLE

BY THE EXPLORER DR. FREDERICK A. COOK

The Most Absorbing Description of Adventure That Has Ever Been Written

(FOURTH ARTICLE)

STORMS now came up with such force and frequency that it was not safe to venture out in kayaks. A few walrus were captured from boats; then sea hunting was confined to the quest of seal through the young ice.

A similar quest was being followed at every village from Annotok to Cape York. But all sea activity would dreamers, nor was the project handicapped by the usual army of novices. For white men at best must be regarded as amateurs compared with the expert efficiency of the Eskimo in his own environment. Our food supply contained only the prime factors of primitive nourishment. Special foods and laboratory concoctions did not fill an important space in our larder.

SCENE AT THE NORTH POLE, PHOTOGRAPHED BY DR. COOK.

now soon be limited to a few open spaces near prominent headlands.

The scene of the real hunt changed from the sea to the land. We had as yet no caribou meat. The little auks gathered in nets during the summer and elder duck bagged later disappeared fast when used as steady diet. We must procure hare, ptarmigan and reindeer, for we had not yet learned to eat with a relish the fishy, liver-like substance which is characteristic of all marine mammals.

Guns and ammunition were distributed, and when the winds were easy enough to allow one to venture out every man sought the neighboring hills. Francke also took his exercise with a gun on his shoulder.

The combined results gave a long line of ptarmigan, two reindeer and sixteen hares. As snow covered the upper slopes the game was forced down near the sea, where we could still hope to hunt in the feeble light of the early part of the night.

No Anxiety For Winter.

With a larder fairly stocked and good prospects for other tasty meats we were spared the usual anxiety of a winter without winter supplies, and Francke was just the man to use this game to good effect, for he had a way of preparing our primitive provisions that made our dinners seem equal to a Holland House spread.

In the middle of October foxskins were prime, and then new steel traps were distributed and set near the many caches. By this time the Eskimos had all abandoned their sealskin tents and were snugly settled in their winter igloos. The ground was covered with snow, and the sea was nearly frozen over everywhere.

Everybody was busy preparing for the coming cold and night. The temperature was about 20 degrees below zero. Severe storms were becoming less frequent, and the air, though colder, was less humid and less disagreeable. An ice fort was formed, and the winter sledging was begun by short excursions to bait the fox traps and gather the foxes.

All these pursuits, with the work of building and repairing sleds, making dog harness and shaping new winter clothing, kept up a lively interest while the great crust which was to hold down the unruly deep for so many months thickened and closed.

Last Glimpse of the Dying Day.

During the last days of brief sunshine the weather cleared, and at noon on Oct. 24 everybody sought the freedom of the open for a last glimpse of the dying day. There was a charm of color and glitter, but no one seemed quite happy as the sun sank into the southern ice, for it was not to rise again for 113 days.

The Eskimos took this as a signal to enter a trance of sadness, in which the bereavement of each family and the discomforts of the year are enacted in dramatic chants or dances.

But to us the sunset of 1907 was inspiration for the final work in directing the shaping of the outfit with which to begin the conquest of the pole at sunrise of 1908. Most expeditions have had the advantage of the liberal hand of a government or of an ample private fund. We were denied both favors.

But we were not incumbered with a cargo of misfits devised by home

Nor had we balloons, automobiles, motor sleds or other freak devices. We did, however, have an abundance of the best hickory, suitable metal and all the raw material for the sled and its accessories, which were henceforth to be linked with our destiny.

The sled was evolved as the result of careful study of local environment and of the anticipated ice surface northward. We did not copy the McClintock sled, with its wide runners, which has been used by most explorers for fifty years. Nor did we abandon the old fashioned iron shoes for German silver strips.

What a Polar Sled Should Be.

The conditions which a polar sled must meet are too complex to outline here. In a broad sense it seemed that the best qualities of the best wood Yukon sled could be combined with the local fitness of the Eskimo craft, with tough hickory fiber and sealskin lashings to make elastic joints. With plenty of native ingenuity to foresee and provide for the strain of adaptability and endurance, the possibilities of our sled factory were very good.

For dog harness the Eskimo pattern was adopted, but canine economy is such that when rations are reduced to workable limits the leather strips disappear as food. To overcome this disaster the shoulder straps were made of folds of strong canvas, while the traces were cut from cotton log line.

A boat is an important adjunct to every sledge expedition which hopes to venture far from its base of operation. It is a matter of necessity even when following the new coast line, as is shown by the mishap of Mylius Erickson, for if he had had a boat he would himself have returned to tell the story of the Danish expedition to east Greenland.

Need for a boat comes with the changed conditions of the advancing season. Things must be carried for several months for a chance use in the last stages of the return; but, since food supplies are necessarily limited, delay is fatal. Therefore when open water prevents progress a boat becomes in the nature of a life preserver.

Foolish indeed is the explorer who ignores this detail of the problem. Transport of a boat, however, offers many serious objections. Nansen introduced the kayak, and most explorers since have adopted the same device. The Eskimo canoe serves the purpose very well, but to carry it for three months without hopeless destruction requires an amount of energy which stamps the polar venture with failure.

Selecting a Boat.

Sectional boats, aluminium boats, skin boats and other devices have been tried, but to all there is the same fatal objection of impossible transportation. It seems rather odd that the ordinary folding canvas boat has not been pressed into this service.

We found it to fit the situation exactly, selecting a twelve foot Eureka shaped boat with wooden frame. The slats, spreaders and floor pieces were utilized as parts of sleds. The canvas cover served as a floor cloth for our sleeping bags. Thus the boat did useful service for a hundred days and was never in evidence as a cumbersome device.

When at last the craft was spread and covered, in it we carried the sled. In it we camped, in it we sought game, the meat of which took the place of exhausted supplies. Without it we, too, would not have returned.

Preparation of the staple food supply is of even greater importance than means of locomotion. To the success of a prolonged arctic enterprise in transit successive experience is bound to dictate a wise choice of equipment, but it does not often educate the stomach.

From the published accounts of arctic travelers it is impossible to select a satisfactory menu for future explorers, and I hasten to add that perhaps our experience will be equally unsatisfactory to subsequent victims.

Nor is it safe to listen to scientific advice, for the stomach is the one organ of the body which stands as the autocrat over every other human sense and passion and will not easily yield to foreign dictates.

The problem differs with every man. It differs with every expedition, and it is radically different with every nation. Thus when De Gerlache forced Norwegian food into French stomachs he learned that there was a nationality in gastronomy.

Depending on Eskimo Food.

In this respect, as in others, I was helped very much by the people who were to line up my forces. The Eskimo is ever hungry, but his taste is normal. Things of doubtful value in nutrition form no part in his dietary. Animal food, meat and fat, is entirely satisfactory as a steady diet without other adjuncts. His food requires neither salt nor sugar, nor is cooking a matter of necessity.

Quantity is important, but quality applies only to the relative proportion of fat. With this key to the gastronomy of our lockers, pemmican was selected as the staple food, which also served equally well for the dogs.

We had an ample supply of pemmican, made by Armour, of pounded dried beef, sprinkled with a few raisins, some currants and a small quantity of sugar. This mixture was

THE TRUTH OF THE MATTER.

There is not a more powerful advocate or a more relentless prosecutor than the press. Nor is there a fairer minded jury, when in possession of all the facts in the case, than the American public. Like any other jury, however, it has to deal only with the evidence presented, which unfortunately at times is distorted. Take the case of Dr. Osler for instance. Certainly no one has been the victim of so much misrepresentation as he who through the error of a reporter who did not comprehend his remarks, was made to say that a man's usefulness was at an end when he reached the age of forty and that he should then be chloroformed.

Now in point of fact this is exactly the opposite of what Dr. Osler said. His theme in his memorable address was "The Increasing Length of Man's Activity both Physical and Mental," and in that address he referred to Anthony Trollope's proposal that all men should be chloroformed at forty as having reached the limit of their usefulness, and declared with emphasis that he (Osler) could not subscribe to that idea nor would he even set sixty years as the limit of man's productive capacity.

It is surprising that any one knowing Dr. Osler—so good, so generous, so perfectly genuine a man—could for an instant credit such a statement as coming from him. Dr. Osler is a man whom the imposter, the trifler and the quack in the profession may well fear. He is also a man who, standing at the head of his noble profession, has done more to advance the cause of civilization, by teaching proper living than perhaps any other man.

FROM now until about next June every third member of Philadelphia's male population will carry a little green bag. You know it is very bad form for a Philadelphian to carry a package, no matter how small or how neat. But just so it is concealed within the folds of a green bag it is permissible for him to carry anything from a sweater sandwich to a pair of rubber boots.

WHAT'S this about Peary resigning from the Navy? It strikes us that instead of thinking about getting out of the service a man who has had twenty-three years leave of absence had better be taking steps to get in to it again.

THE interest manifested in some unusual little street scene by the residents of a rural community never fails to amuse our brethren of the cities. And yet when a horse falls on a city street, or a tire blows up, or two men begin a loud and warm argument, a thousand pedestrians, who the moment before were clipping off a ten-mile-an-hour pace, come to a sudden halt and remain on the spot until their curiosity has been satisfied—even if it takes an hour. Which shows that after all human nature is the same everywhere.

WU TING FANG is alleged to have stated that the North Pole was discovered by the Chinese six thousand years ago. We don't want to doubt this august personage's veracity, but some how or other Bret Harte's lines about the Chinese character make us feel like asking for a little corroborative testimony in support of this statement. And, by the way, going back six thousand years takes us to the dynasty of that well-known emperor Li Heep, and this ought to be taken into consideration.

BARNARD College sophomores have served notice on the freshmen that they mustn't wear rats in their hair. Barnard sophomores evidently have a sentiment of genuine kindness for the freshmen. — Washington Times.

A kindness suggested, no doubt, by the thought that the number of white mice in the average freshman's head would make anything like rats more than superfluous.

THE earth is being disturbed by a syzygy, according to the astronomers. We have scanned the heavens with our telescope and see nothing of it. Does it look like a comet? — Philadelphia Inquirer.

No indeed, a syzygy doesn't look anything like a comet. It resembles a cross between a hickory and a star fish and can only be observed through a Schlitzscope.

THE minimum salary paid to its pastor by a certain church in New York State is eight hundred dollars. The present incumbent refuses to accept more than seven hundred and the church authorities don't know what to do about it. It looks to us like a case requiring the services of an alienist.

"ACCORDING to herbal lore," reads the horoscope in a Philadelphia daily, "cabbage, pumpkin, cucumbers and cress are good under the moon." Likewise good "under the belt," we've found, when properly served.

AFTER all wasn't it considerate in Messrs. Bryan and Bailey to spare the country the big dose of hot air that would have been generated had that much talked of debate been pulled off by them?

"THE outlook so far promises a season of usual sanity in the world of hats," is a current fashion note. A little hard on the cartoonists, to be sure, but on the whole very welcome news.

ACCORDING to our notion the New York woman who has undertaken the task of "expounding Christian Science with its errors eliminated" will have her hands pretty full.

WAR is not the only thing in connection with which General Sherman might very appropriately have used that short and expressive word.

It is probably unnecessary to state that the roses worn by Uncle Joe Cannon every day throughout the session are not grown in the bed on which the Speaker lies.

THAT one day will soon be here on which—as on no other—the voter with a grievance can register his personal dislike of a candidate.

THAT band of "Holy Rollers" would have a great deal more fun and at the same time put more money in their coffer if they opened a skating rink.

WAS there a mistake in the name of the host who entertained the crew of the Roosevelt? Might it not be Rumpus instead of Bumpus?

THINGS are evidently not all peaches and cream in the Republican ranks in Washington county. Think who's there, too!

THREE JOLLY HUNTERS.

O there were three jolly youngsters;
And a-hunting they did go,
With a setter-dog and a pointer-dog
And a yaller-dog also.
Looky there!

And they hunted and they hal-looed;
And the first thing they did find
Was a dingling-dangling hornet's-nest
A-swinging in the wind.
Looky there!

And the first one said "What is it?"
Said the next "Let's punch and see,"
And the third one said a mile from there,
"I wish we'd let it be!"
Looky there! (Showing the back of his neck.)

And they hunted and they hal-looed;
And the next thing they did raise
Was a bobbin bunny cotton-tail
That vanished from their gaze.
Looky there!

One said it was a hot base-ball,
Zippt through the brambly thatch.
But the others said 'twas a note by post,
Or a telegraph-dispatch.
Looky there!

So they hunted and they hal-looed;
And the next thing they did sight,
Was a great big bull-dog chasing them,
And a farmer hollering "Skite!"
Looky there!

And the first one said "Hi-jinkum!"
And the next "Hi-jinkum-jee!"
And the last one said, "Them very words,
Has just occurred to me!"
Looky there! (Showing the tattered seat of his pants.)

A New Counterfeit Found.

A new counterfeit $5 silver certificate has appeared in Michigan and other places and the Secret Service has issued a warning to the public. The counterfeit bears the Indian head and is of the series of 1879, has the signatures of United States Treasurer Treat and Register Vernon and is described as having check letter "B," face plate No. 1,242 and back plate No. 862. It is a well-executed photographic production on two pieces of paper, between which a few pieces of silk have been distributed. The face of the note is deceptive. The treasury number is "D 67,061,242." Acting Chief Morgan of the Secret Service, says the counterfeiters have made no attempt to color either the treasury number, seal or denominational character on the left end of the bill, and that the ragged and irregular edges of the note indicate cutting with a penknife.

More Hudson-Fulton Stamps.

The Post Office Department has made a request upon the Secretary of the Treasury to authorize the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to issue twenty million additional Hudson-Fulton commemorative postage stamps, or such number less than that quantity as can be made without renewing the plates. The original issue of these stamps was fifty million. The demand for them has been so great that the Post Office Department has been unable to supply them.

Monterey to Rise in Concrete.

In order to prepare against such contingencies as the recent flood, Monterey will rebuild its devastated section in reinforced concrete. The advisability of this step was forcibly demonstrated by a re-enforced concrete bridge over the river that caused the havoc. Although every house for blocks had been completely swept away, the bridge, assailed with even greater fury, did not give away, and stands to-day as a graphic demonstration of the superiority of the material composing it.

Discussion of Affairs in General from Leading Journals of The Country.

Architect And Man.
(Collier's Weekly.)

Charles McKim is dead. His friends White and Saint-Gaudens, have gone before,—our two foremost architects and our greatest sculptor swept away in less than three short years. The firm of McKim Mead & White have done much for the United States. A leading part was theirs in the healthy growth of architecture now seen about us. They loved the victories of the old world and taught them to the new. White was the more original; McKim the more exquisite; both were artists, learned, sensitive, and devoted. What they have done will crumble, but it will have taught hundreds of others how to follow. The latest to go, McKim, was in nature as delicate as a child, as shy, as eager, and as keen. The school at Rome marks his wish that young American should shape themselves amid prodigies of human character and mind. He was a bulwark against the outrages of such Goths as Cannon in the fair capital of the nation. His ear and heart were ever open; his time and strength were at the service of the worthiest tasks. Artist and man, organizer and citizen, McKim was among the finest products of our day. As he passes away, there comes into being the latest testimonial to his talent—that in which he shows in New York, as he showed at Washington, how noble a monument, in proper hands, the terminal of a great railway system may become.

Outlook Is Unitarian.
(Springfield Republican.)

The Outlook's critical tone concerning some aspects of President Taft's administration marks its politics as unitarian, that is to say, it has but one, god, and he's in Africa.

The Pity Of It.
(New York World.)

The pity is that Comdr. Peary could not discover the pole without revealing so much of himself.

Fof $1 Per Word.
(New Haven Journal Courier.)

Lord Northcliffe, publisher of the London Times, says that "Theodore Roosevelt is one of the few men of this or any other age great enough to say what he thinks." He certainly says it anyway whether it is a proof of greatness or not.

Farmers As Railroad Owners.
(Atlanta Constitution.)

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has suggested that with the great impending prosperity of the farmers of America, the men behind the plough would invest wholesale in railroad securities, in small lots of course, provided the Government supplied a more rigid and unwavering supervision of these great properties.

The idea is commendable from many standpoints, and from none more strikingly than in the additional protection the practice would afford both to railroad and to farmer.

For one thing, if the farmers of the country were larger holders of railroad securities, they would speedily become more patient and intelligent students of great public questions. With this change would come an amelioration, if not an entire disappearance, of the so-called "baiting" of the railroads, for it is upon ignorance and prejudice alone that the demagogue feeds.

Contrariwise, the railroads would themselves be of necessity coerced into a continuous rectitude. Engaged largely in hauling the freight of the forces supporting them, they would be faced with a check upon over-capitalization and unfair discriminations such as is afforded by no other present device.

Might Have Been Worse.
(Indianapolis News.)

Um-m-m, well as regards General Fred Grant, it will have to be admitted that an army officer in uniform in a prohibition parade is unusual, to say the least. But at least the people would rather see him in a prohibition than in a liquor parade.

Harmon As Democratic Joshua.
(Atlanta Georgian.)

Since the death of Gov. Johnson the eyes of the country have been focussed upon Gov. Harmon of Ohio. Apart from the prestige which Gov. Harmon gained in President Cleveland's cabinet, he is commended by his consistent record of public service and by his success in swinging the Buckeye state into the Democratic columns in the last governor's election.

But the choice of Gov. Harmon presents grave difficulties. Mr. Taft is also from Ohio. Quite naturally he will desire the support of his own state as an endorsement of his policies. To this end not only the full force of the administration, but the concentrated strength of the national organization will be directed toward the capture of this stronghold. To compass his reelection Gov. Harmon will have to overcome tremendous odds. The fight of his life is before him. He can count upon few recruits from the Foraker

Enviably Railroad Records.
(Railroad Age Gazette.)

Railways which have succeeded in carrying passengers for a year without killing any of them should be modest in stating the fact; the Erie reports that it has maintained this record of safety for five years. During this time the number of passengers carried, multiplied by the number of miles which they have traveled, produces the very respectable figure of 3½ billions. During this time the mileage of passenger trains was 50 millions. We would offer only the most friendly congratulations to the numerous roads which have lately been able to boast of their safety records, but really, it is becoming difficult to invent a sufficient variety of phrases to fit the differing conditions. It is harder than trying to be hospitable, in the same breath, to an English and a German admiral.

Here is the Central Vermont, for instance, reporting 7½ years' immunity; but then the Central Vermont carried only 10 or a dozen millions of passengers, making the total passenger mileage a beggarly 300 millions, or thereabouts, a figure not to be mentioned in comparison with the Erie's. Again there are two sides to everything. The Rutland News, commenting on this 7½ years' record, says:—

"The Central Vermont has the enviable record of not having killed a passenger in 7½ years. This railway company has, through its poor train service broken many a heart and caused an infinite amount of profanity on the part of its patrons, but all that doesn't count in an indictment against it in the mortality column. There is no record of Central Vermont trains ever running down anybody by reason of their excessive speed.

Who shall say that it would not have been better to sacrifice a few lives to save those myriads of damaged hearts and tempers? Seriously, though, why should moderation in speed be despised? Nothing is plainer than that many derailments and collisions have been due mainly to running trains at higher speed than the track or the facilities were fitted for; nor that many notable records of immunity from disaster have been the result of consistent cautiousness on the part of railway managers who had the courage to refrain from competing with better equipped neighbors. This is not the whole story, of course, but it is an element that ought to receive more attention than it does.

The Saving Power.
(Minneapolis Journal.)

Edison watched the electrical display of the Hudson-Fulton celebration that transformed Manhattan into a city of the geni and made of the Palisades a scenic display as in some Titan theatre.

Edison had thoughts of the wonders to be of the rising of the curtain that has concealed from us the nature of the universe and the character of its mysterious forces.

An old man now, who has himself wrought great changes, Edison was stirred to speculation. His trained imagination ran out upon the rails of the future, foreseeing that day which his mortal eyes can scarcely hope to see—the day of man's real knowledge and power.

While statesmen intrigue, generals plan, and people hate, men of science are striving to win for mankind knowledge and power. Men such as Edison, such as the investigators who are eradicating disease, such as the chemists who are unlocking the composition of substances; are they to whom honor is due. They, if anybody, will nullify the evils of great armies, of popular passions, of imperial ambitions.

Humorous Fate Trips A Favorite.
(Springfield Republican.)

Fate has overtaken T. R. this year in one of her humorous veins; just as he was coming home to talk giraffe and elephant. Fate has thrust in before him two finders of the North Pole, who for six months will monopolize the public attention by adventures he never thought of and of topics of which he knows less (if less be possible, as Johnson said) than of everything else. It is the trotting match between the muk ox and the rhinoceros, the dressing match between the Nairobi native, who like the prophet, has little honor in her own country, and the fur-clad, blubber digesting Eskimo, with the mercury 50 below zero.

The Essence Of Discovery.
(Brooklyn Life.)

Discussing the question whether Hudson discovered the river which bears his name, a writer in Current Literature concludes: "After all, it is not the man who first sees a thing but the man who first makes the world see it that is hailed as the real discoverer." In view of this fact it may not be inappropriate to inquire whether anybody is yet entitled to be hailed as the discoverer of the North Pole.

IT is far more easy not to feel, than always to feel rightly, and not to act, than always, to act well. For he that is determined to admire only that which is beautiful, imposes a much harder task upon himself than he that, being determined not to see that which is the contrary, effects it by simply shutting his eyes.—Colton.

DISSIMULATION is but a faint kind of policy or wisdom; for it asketh a strong wit and a strong heart to know when to tell truth, and to do it; therefore, it is the weaker sort of politicians that are the greatest dissemblers.—Bacon.

THE desire of power in excess caused angels to fall; the desire of knowledge in excess caused men to fall; but in charity is no excess, neither can man or angels come into danger by it.—Bacon.

IN all ordinary cases we see intuitively at first view, what is our duty, what is the honest part. In these cases doubt and deliberation is of itself dishonesty.—Bishop Butler.

Paul a Prisoner—The Plot. Acts 22: 30 to 23: 35.

Golden Text—I will say of the Lord He is my refuge and my fortress; my God, in Him will I trust. Ps. 91: 2.

Nerse 30—Which showed the fairer spirit toward Paul, the Roman chief Captain or the Jews?

If you had to be tried on a question of religious doctrine, basing your decision on history, which court would you select, a committee of secular judges, or a committee of professional priests?

Verse 1-2—What was it, in Paul's opening statement, which caused the high priest to have him slapped on the mouth?

When Christians these days profess to live all the time well pleasing to God, is it a popular testimony with average Christian people?

Why did the high priests object to Paul's profession of having "lived in all good conscience before God"?

Is it possible, and is it the duty of every Christian, to live all the time, "with a good conscience before God"?

Verse 3-5—When either pope, bishop, priest or parson, acts like a demagogue, why should he not receive the treatment due a demagogue?

Should the fact that a bad man is on the bench, or at the bar, or in the pulpit, secure for him the respect of good men, for the sake of the office, or of "the cloth"?

Verse 6-10—When Paul saw the spirit of this Jewish Council, did he probably change the style of his address, and if so, why did he do so?

When a jury is packed, or prejudiced against the prisoner and there is no hope for acquittal, what is the next best thing for the prisoner to aim for?

Paul's defense was clearly the truth, but was it the whole truth?

Is it always wise or right to tell the whole truth?

What was Paul's real crime, from the standpoint of this Council?

The state of Oregon will collect from the estate of the late E. H. Harriman as soon as the appraisal of his railroad property is made, it is thought, approximately $500,000 as an inheritance tax.

What was the difference between the brief of the Parisees and the Sadducees, as to immortality?

What good reason is there for the belief that the soul will live after death?

What did Paul's tactics result in, besides dividing the enemy?

Is it always or sometimes true that, "when rogues fall out honest men get their dues," and how did it work in this case?

Verse 11—Does God generally time His visits to us when we need Him most?

In what guise or shape did the Lord appear to Paul, and how did he speak to him?

There is no way to take the miraculous out of the New Testament without destroying it, now in view of that fact, why did not God rescue Paul, in this instance, as he did from the prison at Philippi?

Can you trace any rule by which God was governed in performing New Testament miracles?

Verses 12-14—What was the plot which was formed to bring about Paul's death?

Is it possible that these forty men, with such a murderous intent, could think they were doing God's service?

Verses 16-24—How was this murderous plot frustrated?

*How can you trace God's hand in this natural deliverance, as clearly as if it had been done miraculously? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 25-30—What fault can you find, or what can you commend, in the actions of this Claudius Lysias from start to finish?

Verses 31-35—Was Paul just as much under the loving care of God, and were his best interests being served as if he had been at Liberty?

Lesson for Sunday Oct. 17th 1909. Paul a prisoner—Before Felix. Acts 24.

MINISTERS TO RECEIVE MORE PAY

Decision of Baltimore Presbytery Concerning Salary of Members.

The Presbytery of Baltimore convened at Bel Air on Monday. The fixing of a minimum salary of $1000 for married men and $800 for single men was one of the important things decided. A resolution was adopted to the effect that the Presbytery hereafter will decline, except in extraordinary cases, to place a call in the hands of a minister unless it could assure him an annual minimum salary of $1,000 a year, if married, and $800 if single. The cost of a manse will be taken into consideration in computing the salary.

The Presbytery also announced that it will group two or more churches under one pastor whenever it is found that the increased minimum salaries decided on cannot be met otherwise. An effort will be made by the Presbytery to have the salaries of pastor now receiving a sum below the new minimum raised to that amount.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

ENTERED TWENTY-EIGHTH YEAR

Banking Firm of Annan, Horner & Co., Established on Oct. 2, 1882.

The banking firm of Annan, Horner & Co., entered its 28th year last Friday. To be more exact, the birthday of this institution was on Saturday, the 2nd. In 1882 when the firm was established the first of October came on Sunday, and although it dates its beginning of each new year October 1, yet the true date of its inception was October 2, 1882.

In those days, twenty-seven years ago, the bank was housed in the basement of the residence then occupied by the late J. C. Annan, and since his death by the family of the late Dr. R. L. Annan. The present president of the bank, Mr. I. S. Annan, has been its head ever since its beginning. Major O. A. Horner was the first cashier.

In the issue of THE CHRONICLE for Oct. 7, 1882 the following notice appeared under the heading "New Banking Firm."

The new banking house of Annan, Horner & Co., advertised in this issue will supply a much needed want in the business facilities of our community. The well-known standing and energy of the parties, guarantee the success of their enterprise.

The advertisement referred to in the above, set forth the facts that Annan, Horner & Co., Bankers and Brokers, Emmitsburg, are prepared to transact a general banking business at their banking house in Emmitsburg.

"Money loaned, checks and drafts cashed, and collections made on all points. Deposits received subject to checks, and drafts furnished on Baltimore and New York. Negotiable paper discounted, and accounts collected."

"Our rates will be those usually charged by county banks, and we will transact business in accordance with banking regulations."

How the firm has succeeded is part of the business history of Emmitsburg. In 1883, Mr. E. L. Annan became teller of the bank and for these 26 years has been connected with the institution. Mr. A. A. Horner entered the bank as teller shortly after the death of his father, Major Horner.

In 1889 the beautiful home of the bank was built and since that date it has occupied its present quarters. The business of this institution has steadily increased and to-day, fully justified by the large business the firm does, they have increased the rate of interest on special and savings deposits to 4 per cent. a rate unusually large on such accounts.

The Emmitsburg Savings Bank pays 4 per cent. on interest deposits.

ABRAHAMS-TROXELL.

The home of Mrs. Mary E. Troxell was the scene of a very pretty wedding, on Tuesday, Oct. 5, at one o'clock, when her youngest daughter, Miss Elizabeth, became the bride of Mr. Charles E. Abrahams, Jr., of Baltimore.

The bridal party, consisting of Miss Janet Zacharias, of Chambersburg, cousin of the bride and maid of honor, and Mr. Melvin Abrahams, of Baltimore, brother of the groom and best man, entered the parlor to the strains of the bridal march from Lohengrin, played by Miss Mary Whistler, of Carlisle.

The bride's pastor, Rev. Mr. A. M. Gluck, of Emmitsburg, performed the ceremony, using the impressive ring service of the Reformed Church.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white swiss trimmed with baby Irish lace and insertion and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses; her maid wore pink silk mousseline and carried pink carnations.

The house was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, ferns and potted plants. Light refreshments were served, after which the bridal couple left on the afternoon train for Niagara Falls and other points north.

Guests were present from Emmitsburg, York Road, Linwood, Baltimore, Chambersburg, Carlisle, Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Front Royal, Va.

ROBBINS-MOTTER.

The wedding was one of the most brilliant social events that has occurred in Frederick for sometime. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. Spangler Kieffer, of Hagerstown, Md. Miss Lillian Motter, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Mr. Donald G. Robbins, of Springfield, Mass., brother of the groom, was best man. After an extended wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Robbins will reside at Harrisburg, Pa.

EMMITSBURG LIBRARY

What a Stranger Thinks of Our Institution

PLACE IT HOLDS IN COMMUNITY

Suggestions Made by Miss Farr, the State Library Organizer.—Library An Important Factor.

Emmitsburg has reason to be proud of its Public Library and other towns of larger population might profit by its example. After the public school, the public library is the most important factor in a community and when the two work in unison they form an ideal combination. The public school teaches our children to read but the public library teaches them how and what to read. It furnishes also for those who have few educational advantages a means of bettering their conditions. It provides good reading for the man who may have had the best education but who has but little means to provide himself with the books he most desires. And even for the man who has sufficient means it opens up new channels of thought into which he would not have wandered had he depended upon the books he should purchase for himself.

That Emmitsburg appreciates its public library is evinced by the interest shown in it. There are not public libraries of the same size that can boast of as large a number of current periodicals, two-thirds of which are donated by generous patrons.

Miss Farr, the State library organizer who was in town last week suggested to the Board of Trustees that they raise a free ticket fund. She stated that in every town there are many people of means who have enough reading matter in their homes that they do not feel the need of subscribing to the library while on the other hand there are those to whom a library ticket would be a great boon. Miss Farr proposed that the former might be willing to subscribe for a library ticket which the trustees might quietly and unobtrusively give to some one who would appreciate the use of the library.

In many towns library associations are formed, the members of which pay their annual dues not for the privilege of using the library but for the maintenance of the library giving every one in town the free use of the books.

Until one makes a study of library work he cannot realize the amount of missionary work that is done by the library and the librarian. In the Carnegie library in Pittsburgh the librarians learn from the Juvenile Court the families that need help and endeavor to draw children away from crime. They have established a "story hour" to which children not particularly interested in reading are invited. The librarian tells to the circle of little ones an interesting and entertaining story hoping thereby to gradually lead the children to the reading of the books. "Home libraries" are sent to the homes of the poor, the child to whose home the case is sent is made librarian. A visitor from the library meets the group of children in the "Home Library" once a week, plays games with them and talks with them about the books. We could enumerate many other branches of library work did space admit.

Miss Farr has put the Emmitsburg Public Library down as a red letter library on her list and hopes to spend a longer time in Emmitsburg in her second tour of the State.

REPUTATION OF CHIEF JUDGE

Hon. G. H. Worthington's Attainments Appreciated All Over the Country.

The following communication is taken from the Frederick Citizen of December 4, 1908 under the heading "A Well Deserved Compliment to Chief Judge Glenn H. Worthington."

Messrs. Editors:

"In looking over a recent number of the 'Lawyers Reports Annotated, Vol. 14, New Series, at page 389, was found the opinion delivered in the Court of Appeals of Maryland, February 5th, 1908, through his Honor Chief Judge Glenn H. Worthington, in the case of the Central of Georgia Railroad Company vs. Maurice Eichburg, which deserves some notice at the hands of the legal profession, and of the citizens of the Judicial Circuit in which his Honor Chief Judge Worthington now presides with so much satisfaction to those who may have business in his court."

As "The Lawyers Reports Annotated," is a standard work of high authority among members of the legal profession all over the United States, and as it selects through its experienced editors only such opinions as are deemed of permanent value to the profession, it is evidential of the high standing that his Honor already occupies on the bench, that this opinion which he has delivered in the Maryland Court of Appeals, should have been selected for publication in these reports.

As his fellow citizens naturally take an interest and pride in the success which has attended the work of Judge Worthington in the short time that he has been upon the bench, I have deemed it well to ask this space in your paper to bring to the attention of your readers the high character of the judicial work already done by Judge Worthington and the appreciation with which it has been received by members of the bench and bar, not only in Maryland, but throughout the United States.

The work required of members of the Court of Appeals is difficult and arduous, but Judge Worthington gives evidence of legal attainments, of untiring industry and an aptitude for his work that must command the respect and attention of his fellow citizens and the writer hopes that he will be retained in his high position by the voters of this Judicial Circuit."

FREE TRAINING OF NURSES.

Scholarships Made Available by The Philadelphia School For Nurses.

Philadelphia has an exhibition of practical benevolence in the work of the Philadelphia School for Nurses which is of surprising interest to every one interested in the care of the sick, the education of nurses and the promotion of public health and sanitation.

Several large classes of students are about to be enrolled in this school, and they will, doubtless, witness the extension of the work of the institution in accordance with plans now developing as a result of recent New England conferences. A large number of free two-year scholarships are available to young women throughout the entire country, preference being given to those living in the smaller towns and cities, and the rural districts. These scholarships include room, board, laundering, uniforms, all necessary instruction, and railroad fare paid to the student's home town upon the completion of the course. A preparatory home study course and a short residence course are also available to those who desire to quickly prepare themselves for self-support, but are unable to devote two years to study. Any reader of this paper who may be interested in the general subject can, by addressing the School at 2219 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., get full details of the work, and the scholarships now available.

HEIRS IN THIS COUNTRYOnly $81,000,000 Over in Germany Are Eagerly Waiting a Hoffman to Claim Them.Members of the Hoffman family in Frederick, says the News of that place, descendents of the Hoffman who over two hundred years ago came to this country from Germany and settled on the True Friendship tract near Creagerstown, this county, are interested in a report that they are among the heirs to a fortune said to amount to $81,000-000, which is being held in Germany, awaiting the final determination of the number and identity of the legal heirs to be distributed among them.Among those said to be heirs to this immense fortune are Mrs. Michael Fogle, of Water street, this city, who is a daughter of John H. Hoffman, of near Creagerstown, and Mr. Clarence
H. Hoffman, a son of John S. Hoffman, of near Creagerstown, the latter being a brother of Mrs. Fogle. George W.
Hoffman, who also lives near Creagerstown, is a brother of John H. Hoffman, and his prospects of sharing in the distribution of the fortune in Germany are, of course, the same as those of John H. Hoffman. Both of these brothers have a number of children, most of whom live near Creagerstown.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE DINNER.

has cast its beams far away and the work done in all sections of the continent by the devoted Sisters from St. Joseph's in the Valley, has spread everywhere the fame of Emmitsburg. Scholars, orators, jurists and statesmen from Mt. St. Mary's, Emmitsburg, have added to the fame of the town, and have made it one of the most noted places in all our broad land. The fame of St. Joseph's and its sacred foundress has made Emmitsburg a shrine to all who reverence holiness and self-sacrificing devotion, whatever may be their creed or religious belief. Whether Catholic or non-Catholic, all who respect goodness, unselfishness and devotion to the highest human ideals revere the memory of Mother Seton and her associates, and look upon Emmitsburg as the honored and holy place where she offered up her life as a sacrifice to her duty.

"The Institutions of Emmitsburg. Why gentlemen they are the crown of her glory. The town is known far and wide by her institutions. No other town of the same size in the United States has won such fame as our otherwise humble village, and in the history of American Christianity Emmitsburg is named more frequently than any other place.

"To speak of these institutions in detail would be superfluous. No matter what creed any inhabitant of our town may profess he is proud of Mt. St. Mary's and St. Joseph's. For more than a century these great institutions have been sending into the world an army of devoted men and women, all of whom have in some degree added to the fame and lustre of the land we love. The light has been shining from the Mountain all these years and rising from the Valley it still rises in undiminished and even greater glory today. The prosperity of these places has been coincident with the prosperity of the town and surrounding country and they have grown into fame together and are sources of pride and inspiration to all citizens. Emmitsburg is proud of them and counts them as its chief treasure.

"We are also proud of our excellent schools, St. Euphemia's and the High School, which rank as equal to those of much larger and more pretentious places. Side by side these two schools are doing their work for the betterment of the community and are models of what such schools should be, in their different ways. They are justly sources of pride to all and should be cared for and cherished as among the best of our possessions.

"Gentlemen, in this closing event of our notable and very successful celebration I wish to congratulate our town and its people, on the possession of so much that is creditable to us as a community; and especially do I desire to congratulate the Committees in charge on the admirable manner in which they performed the duties assigned to them.

The toastmaster in most complimentary terms referred to the firemen of Emmitsburg who, on several occasions, have done splendid service to the community, and he called on the president of the Vigilant Hose Company, a charter member of that organization and a man whose efforts and influence have largely made the organization what it is today, Mr. Charles R. Hoke.

Mr. Hoke warned the gentlemen that he was not a public speaker and he considered it a privilege to call on Mr. George P. Rowe, Esq., one of the invited guests of the occasion, as better able to eloquently respond to this toast. Mr. Rowe graciously accepted the honor and said that he considered it an extraordinary honor to be a guest at such a splendid banquet and in such surroundings. It is a great source of personal satisfaction, he said, to sit at a table where on one side was Rev. Mr. Gluck, and on the other side Rev. Father Hayden, two gentlemen whom Emmitsburg had learned to honor and revere—to be with his loyal friend, Charles R. Hoke and to honor the fire department that had saved St. Joseph's Academy, the fruit of the virtues and character of Mother Seton, from almost total destruction. In those dark hours when the flames threatened that institution the appeal for help was heard, the response was immediate. Without the efforts of the firemen those buildings would have been laid in ruin.

Mr. Rowe spoke of the bravery and nobleness of firemen and told of the funeral in St. Louis of the brave O'Toole who was killed in the pursuit of his duty as a fireman. This man, an example of courage, was followed to his grave by the rich and poor alike and the whole city honored his memory.

Mr. A. A. Horner was asked to tell of our facilities. Mr. Horner said that all at the board were acquainted with our facilities and as there were no strangers present to be informed he would not take up any more of the time. On account of the unavoidable absence of Mr. Galt who would have been called on to respond to the toast, "Our Press," Mr. Higbee was asked to make a few remarks.

The closing words of the evening were delivered by the toastmaster, Mr. Sebald, who spoke on the lessons of Old Home Week. He told of the meetings where all was not peace and where sentiments were freely expressed but after a decision was made all joined in forgetting their personal feelings and ideas. Mr. Sebald said that with such unanimity of action almost anything is possible. With this spirit, he said, we ought to do something for our community and then he suggested the idea of a trades organization or business men's association who would do their fighting at their meetings and outside be a unit. Then he mentioned several things that might be done and closed by asking that a committee be appointed to draft regulations necessary for such an organization and submit them to the public at a meeting. "We have made the beginning and we must not lose the lessons learned by experience."

Upon the motion of Mr. Horner, Mr. Sebald was made chairman with the power to appoint this committee.

After this had been attended to the banquet was over. It was a delightful evening to all present.

PRETTY JUMPER DRESS.

ONE of the most thoroughly comfortable and serviceable designs for young girls for everyday and school wear is the jumper with a dainty, sheer guimpe of a tub material. The one illustrated depends for its attractiveness upon the irregular shaped princess panel in front, broadened to extend over each shoulder to the waist line at the back and to form a pretty finish for the yoke all around. The skirt is in full fitted style from the panel in front around to the back, where it is fastened under the last two inverted plaits.

four sizes—for girls from six to twelve years of age. To copy it for a girl eight years of age requires 3 yards of material 36 inches wide or 2½ yards 44 inches wide.

Any reader of this paper who desires to secure this pattern may do so by sending 10 cents to this office. Give the number, 4377, state size desired and write the full address plainly. The pattern will be forwarded promptly by mail.
