COST OF HIGH LIVING

TO A PRODIGAL PEOPLE

Not The High Cost of Living Says J. J. Hill

CHASE REUBEN BACK TO FARM

Why We Eat More Than We Used To.—More Pleasant to Live High and Spend Than to Be Temperate and Save.—Politicians' Cure.

"It isn't the high cost of living; it's the cost of high living that disturbs the consumers of the country." Thus speaketh the prophet of the Northwest, James J. Hill. This is a nation of prodigals and the husks are not palatable; they hurt our gums. Nor do we consort with swine except in the shape of sausage and pork chops. But the parable will be worked out someday for some of us and then for the fatted calf. Hill, before mentioned would have us believe that the indulgent father who will order the best for his returning son lives on a farm and after the hunger of the prodigal has been relieved will put the boy to work on the home place. In other words it's back to the farm for the husky wanderer if he wants relief and the sooner he hikes homeward and begins to produce the sooner will we all be able to gratify ourselves with the fat of the land without hurting the feelings of our bank account. Hurry homeward, young man, and get to work and give us a show for our money; our turn will come as we travel round the circle, but now that it is your turn shake yourself together and make the sacrifice for we are hungry and good things come high nowadays and we don't know how to farm or to be thrifty, nor do we want to learn.

"The wrath which accompanies the dearth of things we all have been buying so freely is perplexing," says the New York Times. "Have not 90,000,000 of us striven to sell our respective goods or services as high as possible? Is it amazing that we have succeeded all too well at last, and how many among us are so free from sin in method that we can afford unanimously to reproach each his neighbor? It is one of the humors of the situation that the Federation of Labor is attacking the Steel Trust at Washington at this moment, an incident which serves to illustrate that they are not alone to blame. The rise in wages is one universal factor in the increase of costs, and the labor market is as artificial as any other. The wicked gamblers on the Exchanges of the blame cities must bear their share of the vices, and they have for company in their guilt the pools of the producers of cotton, tobacco, and wheat. There are those who think that Congress is responsible by its passage of a tariff which deprives us of access to cheaper markets, and who laugh at the idea of a Congressional investigation of the causes of dear living. It might be well for somebody to inquire why we eat six bushels of wheat now instead of four. This is a phenomenon less obscure than the effect of the increasing supply of gold. Only the political economists understand that, and there are doubters that the economists really know at all. But the problem why we eat more than we

A REVALUATION ACT

County Commissioners of State Adopt a Plan

MILLIONS ADDED BY NEW COUNT

Like Previous Measure.—Counties Divided Into Districts.—Governor to Appoint Two Assessors.

The legislative committee of the Federated Association of County Commissioners, of which Commissioner Henry P. Mann, of Baltimore county, is president met Tuesday and adopted the bill providing for a reassessment and revaluation of property in the counties.

The bill to a great extent is similar to the measure under which the late assessment of the State was made. The counties are divided into districts, there being one to eight districts in each county. The Governor is to appoint two assessors at large for each district, while the County Commissioners of each county are to appoint an assessor for each election district. The assessments are to be made by the three assessors in each district and submitted to the County Commissioners.

The assessors appointed by the Governor are to receive $5 a day, while those named by the County Commissioners are to be paid the same amount and $2 additional a day for serving as clerks to the assessors. The assessment is to be completed in 90 days, although the Governor will be empowered to increase this limit if he deems it necessary. The assessment is to begin on the first Tuesday of next May, when the assessors will meet at the court-houses of the different counties. The bill contains 84 typewritten pages.

The members of the committee are Dr. Charles L. Mattfield, of Baltimore county, chairman; Mr. William N. Cooper, of Wicomico county; Mr. D. Lindley Sloan, of Allegany county; Mr. James W. Owens, of Anne Arundel county, and Mr. James J. Lindsay, of Baltimore county. Mr. Mann also attended the meeting. The Commissioners later will have several more bills for the Legislature.

Governor Crothers will support the reassessment bill. Through its adoption it is believed the taxable basis of the State will be increased many millions of dollars.

Check on County Commissioners.

A bill is to be introduced in the Legislature which if passed will serve as a check on monies received by the county commissioners of Washington county. The proposed bill will limit the number of sittings of the commissioners to one day a week and such other extra days as may be actually necessary. The commissioners are now paid per diem. There is some sentiment in favor of putting the board upon a regular salary. According to the annual financial statement of the county the president of the board last year drew $22.80. Another commissioner drew $528.28. There is also talk of putting the county attorney, who drew $720 last year, on a salary.

Heavy penalties were imposed by Judge R. W. Taylor, in federal court at Toledo, O., upon principal members of the Ohio band of Black Hands found guilty of conspiracy to use the mails to extort money from Italians living in Ohio and Indiana.

ROOSEVELT TO SUCCEED TAFT

CONCERTED MOVEMENT ON FOR THAT PURPOSE

Return From Africa In June Will Be The Time For Beginning of Active Work by His Friends

PRESIDENT TAFT'S ADMINISTRATION BECOMING MORE UNPOPULAR

Mighty Hunter Ignorant of the Plans Being Made for His Future.—Recent Message to Congress on Conservation of National Resources and Action in Fight Against High Prices May Help to Popularize Taft and Force Elba Movement to the Background.

(Special Washington Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—That a concerted movement is on foot beneath the surface to bring about the reelection of Theodore Roosevelt by the Republican party two and one-half years hence to the presidency of the United States as the successor of President Taft is indicated by certain facts which have been brought to light in Washington during the past few days.

Back of the movement are several out-and-out Roosevelt men in Congress, former government officials who served under him during his administration, and several Washington correspondents and magazine writers. They met recently at a private house and discussed plans of campaign. Every effort has been made to keep the names of those any person, whether actively interested in politics in an official way or not, mentioned Roosevelt favorably, he was immediately suspected of being a member of the "club." The thought of Elba was not carried to the conclusion at Waterloo and St. Helena, but that did not matter.

This Elba talk was further assisted by expressed dissatisfaction with the attitude of President Taft in declaring the Payne tariff law to be the best of all those enacted in the history of the country, in commanding Senator Aldrich and in sustaining Secretary Ballinger in the charges made against him. But there was no attempt to organize this dissatisfaction in any way until the meeting of the congenial spirits who

STATE FACES DEFICIT

Maryland's Funded Debt Being Added to Yearly

SHOULD HAVE NO PUBLIC DEBT

Crazy Quilt Methods of Baltimore Being Repeated By State in Good Roads Affair as Now Conducted.

Discussing the treasury conditions in Maryland and the possibility of facing a deficit in revenue to meet needed requirements, the financial circular of Hambleton & Co. says:

"Conditions have reached such a stage that the State of Maryland is facing a deficit in its revenue, and, not only so, but is at each session of the Legislature adding to the funded debt of the State. The State of Maryland should have no public debt, and if its affairs were administered in a business-like manner the tax rate would be decreased to a minimum and not increased, as it promises to be at present.

"Several years ago the State adopted a policy of building roads through the issue of bonds at the expense of the taxpayers. The result has been practically the same as the system of street paving in Baltimore, fortunately now abolished, which paving consisted of detached patches of modern pavements in localities controlled by ward politicians, with the result that we have a crazy-quilt patch-work system of paving all over the city, without any reference to the general benefit of the city and its people.

"The same thing is going on now in the counties through the building of these State roads. Not only so, but these roads are costing at the rate of at least $10,000 per mile, a cost out of all reason and which, if persisted in, together with the extravagance which is now so pronounced in the Legislature, will cause the tax rate to be raised every two years, and finally will be so onerous that the people will rise up in their wrath and relegate to obscurity the party responsible. The policy of road building by the State should be stopped at once.

"There should certainly be no increase in the debt of the State for this purpose. The counties should build their own roads, and we are glad to note that Baltimore county is contemplating the issue of bonds for road-making purposes."

Students Use "Dope"

Red and Black, the official weekly publication of Washington and Jefferson College, accuses many students of being addicted to the "dope" habit, and demands an investigation. "The use of vicious drugs among the students," says the paper, "has grown to an alarming extent, and instant measures should be taken to stop the practice." Especially at examination periods is the use of drugs prevalent. Students worn out in preparation for examinations are in no shape to enter upon the tests, and that in order to sharpen their wits temporarily they resort to the use of drugs. Strychnine is especially used.

Rev. Dr. Francis H. Rowley, pastor of the Commonwealth Avenue Baptist Church of Boston, was unanimously elected president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, to succeed the late George T. Angell, who founded the organization.

EXIT CANNON LEADERS SAY

REHABILITATE PARTY

Wants Harmony Among N. Y. Republicans

NEW LINE-UP IN EMPIRE STATE

Important Development Expected When Roosevelt Returns.—Constitutionality of New Corporation Tax in Payne Tariff Act.

(Special Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—It is now seriously proposed by many Republican members of the House who are personally friendly to Speaker Cannon but believe his usefulness to the party has ended that a caucus be called to put the party, in some diplomatic way, on record as to have the caucus held within a few weeks and to have it also make such minor changes in the rules as will satisfy the country that not only Cannon but Cannonism will be subverted. The Insurgents have pricked up their ears at this suggestion and are most willing to join in the call for the caucus, but they want to know what changes in the rules are contemplated. They will be content only with fundamental changes that will take away from the Speaker the power to appoint the chairmen of the various committees and will diminish the power of the Rules Committee to shut off debate and railroad important legislation through in a hurry. If the Speaker were unable to name the chairman and he did not have the Rules Committee, appointed by him, to back up his legislative plans, he would be the servant of the House instead of its master. He would be more like the Speaker of the British House of Commons, who is the impartial presiding officer of its proceedings. It is not likely that such fundamental changes will be made at this time because the Insurgents are in the minority of the present House Republicans, but in the event of a caucus on the subject they will endeavor to put up a good fight and further enhance their cause in the hope that in the Sixty-second Congress their aims may be achieved.

Considerable interest at present attaches to the political situation in the state of New York. Politicians of both parties have been much interested in the developments of the week, which have been of fundamental importance. At a dinner given in honor of Secretary Root and attended by the entire state delegation and many prominent federal officeholders and organization leaders, the Senator pointed out the necessity for harmony in order to keep New York in the Republican column next fall. Without going into the merits of the controversy in which Governor Hughes has been engaged during his incumbency, he stated that the latter had not been successful in bringing about harmonious conditions. This followed closely upon the announcement of Governor Hughes that he would not be a candidate for reelection. Representative Parsons resigned as chairman of the New York county committee, and it is rumored that State Chairman Woodruff will also retire. In fact there are indications that the party is in a state of transition.

RACING MATINEE ON SNOW COVERED STREETS

Mr. Brooke Boyle's Horse Wins Blue Ribbon For Speed From Col. Baughman, of Frederick.

The sporting blood of Emmitsburg was in evidence on Wednesday afternoon when a local horse driven and owned by Mr. J. Brooke Boyle carried off the honors in several impromptu races with horses from Frederick driven by Col. E. Austin Baughman. The defeated Frederick horses are the property of Col. Baughman and both are considered among the best at the county seat.

"Keepsake" and "Mountain Boy" were brought to Thurmont on Tuesday evening and driven here on Wednesday and at one o'clock the streets were crowded with teams and people to see the fun. The races between Mr. Boyle driving "Dick" and Col. Baughman's two fast ones of course were the main events but considerable interest was also shown in the other races. Mr. Morris Gillelan's horse driven by Mr. Robert Gillelan, carried off the honors with Mr. Ernest Walter's "Peanuts" closely contesting. Messrs. Richard Zacharias, Nervie Eyer, Chester Ohler, John Creager and Albert Adelsberger were also among the top notchers.

The streets were fairly well covered with snow and the sleighs slipped along at a rapid gait. "Dick," the winner, is a splendid goer and he was splendidly driven by Mr. Boyle. The carnival was greatly enjoyed and while the races were closely and warmly contested, the best of spirit prevailed. It has been a long time since conditions have made such a day's sport possible and the permission given by the Burgess, Mr. Shuff, and the Commissioners for the races, was greatly appreciated by all.

Emmitsburg enjoys a unique reputation and Wednesday's sports have not detracted any from the distinction it gained during Old Home Week when Emmitsburg showed the county and State what could be done by a determined and liberal people. When you want to pull off something let us know about it and it will be a success. We are safe in saying that nowhere on such short notice could so much be done as here in Emmitsburg.

At the conclusion of the racing matinee the "blue ribbon," in recognition of Emmitsburg's prowess, was presented to Mr. Boyle and another ribbon, light blue, given to Col. Baughman by courtesy. Col. Baughman desires to say that his horse, "Mountain Boy," was not in condition and that he gladly challenges Mr. Boyle for another race at Mr. Boyle's convenience.

present secret, but there is substantial evidence that the meeting was held and that the general purpose of the band of congenial spirits were agreed upon. Gifford Pinchot is understood to be interested in the movement.

Amid the criticism of the Administration that has been rife lately there has been much talk among the politicians at the National Capital of the possibility of Roosevelt returning from Africa next June, and taking advantage of that criticism to forward his own fortunes. Months before the criticism arose, rumors had been afloat of a misunderstanding between the former and present Presidents on the ground of inability on the part of Mr. Taft to always appreciate the advice of Mr. Roosevelt. Then what appeared to be specific efforts on the part of former Secretary Garfield, Forester Pinchot and others to cast discredit on the work of the present administration fanned the rumors of the Roosevelt return until Washington was quite alive with gossip about the matter. The former President was likened to Napoleon, who returned from Elba to overthrow the then existing government and again lead the armies of France, and the "Return from Elba Club" was organized in the minds of those who broached it. If hope for the triumphal return of the man who is now hunting in the wilds of Africa.

That former President Roosevelt is a party to any such organization or even knows anything about its existence is not believed here by those who are familiar with the situation. He declared before he sailed away that he had put politics aside and was intent upon seeking rest and recreation in hunting. He has been so far from the centers of civilization and has been so interested in his adventures and writing about them under the contracts he has with his publishers that he is not regarded as busying himself even indirectly with the political situation in the United States. Therefore, any efforts on the part of those whose wish for his return is father to the thought that he will seek to do so are regarded as spasmodic and ephemeral.

Meanwhile the opinion prevails here that the Elba movement has been at least temporarily forced into the background by the strong showing made by the Administration during the past few days. The message of the President on the subject of the conservation of the national resources made a good impression on the most progressive elements.

DAVID J. LEWIS ON INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS

Nation's Duty to Injured Outlined in Proposed Law For Maryland Miners and Families.

The terrible mine accidents of recent months beginning with the one at Cherry, Ill., and closing with the disaster in Kentucky, in which ten men are known to be dead and seventeen missing, have called particular attention to needed legislation in reference to these industrial accidents. Nor is the Maryland Legislature to be forgotten. The Hon. David J. Lewis, who made such a favorable impression here and elsewhere in his recent campaign for Congress, has printed the text of a proposed law applicable to Maryland's mining industry.

The booklet begins with a quotation from Senator Root: "To have a great enlightened nation ignoring the fact that in all industries there are accidents, and that every crushed foot, every broken arm, every ruined life that is expended in the business is a part of the cost of doing the business, is discreditable. All accidents, all injuries, are subject to the law of averages. The cost of support which is made necessary by the injuries suffered in the business is just as much a part of the cost of the business as the tools that are worn out and the material that is consumed. It ought to be paid for by the business as a part of that cost, and not left to the charity of the country at large." Continuing Mr. Lewis says of his bill: "The object is to raise a fund of two thousand dollars for the dependants of each miner killed, to be carefully administered with a view to the relief of the dependants and the preservation of the fund, under specific provisions of the bill, by the Orphans Court. To raise the fund a tax of one-half cent is imposed on each net ton of coal mined, to be collected by the County Treasurer, and a tax on each clay mine employer of thirty cents a month for each man employed. No sufficient statistics have been preserved of the clay mined, but the pay-rolls furnish a standard of the number of employes. The bill does not include injuries not resulting in death, because (a) the statistics are as yet insufficient to permit of an estimate as to their character or relation to [1] total disablement, [2] partial disablement, [3] permanent disablement, whether partial or total; because (b) in mining nearly all permanent and total disablements result in death, and because (c) no question of simulation, malingering or imposition on the fund can arise where its benefits are confined to deaths.

A STATE-WIDE PRIMARY Fight to Extend Direct Voting System.

Governor Crothers' fight to have the Legislature pass the State-wide primary election law is apparently meeting with much encouragement from many Baltimore Democrats, says the Sun.

It is known that Governor Crothers is making a canvass of the Legislature in an effort to get definite information as to how the members stand on the bill and secure from them a promise for its support.

This is due to the fact, it is generally understood, that United States Senator Smith and President Gorman, of the Senate, are opposed to the passage of the act and are combining to defeat it.

The law still allows the nomination of Governor, Comptroller, Attorney-General and Clerk of the Court of Appeals to be made by convention and the nomination of other officers either by the Crawford county system or by convention, as the State Central Committee might see fit.

It is known that the friends of both Senator Smith and Mr. Gorman are refusing to commit themselves to the emissaries of Governor Crothers as to what their position will be on the bill, but are awaiting the outcome of a conference which Senator Smith will have with Governor Crothers one day this week.

While Governor Crothers has the whip hand to some extent because of his power of appointment, it is known that he is attempting to pass the primary law by some more effective means than dickering with appointments for a month or more.

Ex-Congressman Miles, Congressman Talbott, Senators Campbell and Coady, of Baltimore and several others aided the Governor in his fight in 1907 to have a primary law passed similar to the one now proposed.

It is thought probable that the Baltimore county delegation will support the Governor, and also that Mr. Miles will use his influence behind it.

CARMACK CASE BEING ARGUED Mystery of Holster Found in Victim's Pocket Retold.

In arguing in the Supreme Court at Nashville against the motion for a new trial for Col. D. B. Cooper and Robin Cooper, convicted of the murder of former United States Senator E. W. Carmack and sentenced to 20 years imprisonment, Attorney-General Cates on Wednesday laid special stress upon what is termed the "mysteries of the case."

These included the finding of a revolver holster in Senator Carmack's overcoat pocket, and the bullet which worked its way out of the wound in Robin Cooper's shoulder and was found in the bed.

The holster incident developed one of the surprises at the trial. Carmack's clothing had been searched carefully, but no holster was found.

About three weeks before the trial two attorneys for the defense asked to view the dead man's clothing. One of them, General Washington, put on the Carmack overcoat, ran his hand into the pocket and found the holster.

Nothing was said of the discovery until the trial, when the undertaker was on the stand. He was asked to search the overcoat and to his astonishment found the holster.

The State contended that Carmack never fired a shot; that Colonel Cooper, shooting at Carmack, unintentionally shot his son. Carmack's revolver turned up the next day with two shells empty.

Postal savings banks are being proposed in the Senate by the leading constitutional lawyers on the Democratic side on the ground that this legislation cannot be enacted under authority of the Constitution.

On Tuesday afternoon one of the most dangerous fires which has occurred in Baltimore in more than a year, was discovered in the stable yard of the Edwin Bennett Pottery Company.

Much alarm was felt by the city from the fact that a supply branch of the Standard Oil Company containing thousands of gallons of lubricating oil situated across the street from the stable where the fire broke out was in great danger, the flames almost reaching the tanks several times.

FOR NEW YORK'S GOVERNOR

Conditions in Empire State Point To Loeb, Especially as Hughes Declines Renomination.

Collector William Loeb, Jr., of the port of New York, the private secretary to Theodore Roosevelt when that doughty personage was President of the United States, and now considerable of a factor in the politics of his State, may be the next Governor of New York to succeed Governor Hughes, if a late dispatch to a Baltimore paper is correct.

The situation in New York is such that it is not at all impossible it will happen. Governor Hughes has announced he will not run again. The Republican party in the State is badly split. The charges of bribery in the Allds case and other developments have left the Republicans in bad shape.

In picking a candidate for Governor, it is widely felt by Republicans that it is necessary to select a man who will be able to point to his record and say he has done something in the way of reform.

SUPREME COURT'S BIRTHDAY

Has Heard 22000 Cases Since February 1, 1790.—"Honble John Jay" First Chief.

The Supreme Court of the United States had a notable birthday Tuesday. It was 120 years old, and by a coincidence the last case docketed on that natal day was the twenty-two-thousand-and-one since the court was organized.

The court convened for the first time in New York on February 1, 1790. The minutes of that meeting show that there was not a sufficient number of the justices present to transact business, and those present, at the first official act of the court, adjourned "until tomorrow at 1 of the clock."

On the first day the "Honble John Jay, Esq., Chief Justice; the Honble William Cushing, the Honble James Wilson, Esq., associated justices," were present. By the next day the "Honble James Iredell, Esq., associated justice," appeared, and the court was opened. It was on that day it appointed the first "crier" for the court.

In the first few years not many cases were brought to the court as compared with the present day. Now between 800 and 1,000 cases come up for consideration every year.

THAT POSTAL DEFICIT.

"Compelling the Congressional Record to pay postage at the rate of one cent a ton would also add considerably to the postoffice receipts." This bit of sarcasm from one of the paragraphers of the Toledo Blade appeals to one's sense of humor and at the same time hits a hard blow in emphasizing one of the weak spots in our postal system.

Apart from the convenience afforded senators and congressmen—and they are justly entitled to enjoy it—we have never yet discovered any practical use for the Congressional Record, unless it be that its pages make fairly good wrappers for some country newspapers.

thousands of bags of seed to the constituents of some way back congressman—seeds, by the way, that rarely "come up" when planted.

What the Department has a right to do in keeping its accounts is to charge itself (the people) only with those items that are for the legitimate transaction of the public's business with that department.

A NEW LOCK-UP BADLY NEEDED.

It must be admitted that there would be fewer street brawls and public disturbances in Emmitsburg such as we have recently had if the Corporation had a lock-up fit for a human being to be put in.

It has been suggested—and the idea is one that ought to be acted upon—that a wooden structure be erected for the detention of offenders, inside of which the present iron "coop" could be placed for the incarceration of the more dangerous class of prisoners.

This is a matter that should interest every citizen and the wife, son or daughter of every citizen who has the good name of his town at heart, and whatever, within reason, is inaugurated for this very practical and necessary object ought to meet with a general and a hearty response.

THE AVIATION MEET.

For some reason or other neither Baltimore nor the people of Maryland seem fully alive to the possibilities in connection with the proposed aviation meet at College Park.

undertaken this meet. Incidentally, we call the attention of Baltimore merchants to the signal and substantial success that attended the recent meet in Los Angeles, California.

So Albert T. Patrick is disbarred from practicing law by virtue of the fact that he is serving a life sentence for murder. This resourceful and energetic counsellor has given so many useful and heretofore unheard of hints to the legal profession as to the mode of gaining new trials that it seems but a matter of justice, now that he is denied the privilege of practicing before any court of justice, that the criminal lawyers of New York ought to give him the benefit of their services free of charge.

If the committee on Finance at Annapolis could run over to New York and interview one George McAneny, president of Manhattan Borough, it might pick up a point or two about cutting down Maryland's expense account.

CONTINUOUS applications for business property in the town and the increasing demands for farms near Emmitsburg indicate more than anything else that outsiders are anxious to locate among good, thrifty, and progressive people and Emmitsburg extends a very cordial welcome to all imbued with the spirit of progress who care to settle here.

DR. WILEY, of the Agricultural Department, has had a great deal to say about denatured alcohol lately, but, if our memory serves us rightly, he and President Taft have not yet satisfactorily settled the question about good-natured alcohol.

THE Annapolis Capital is getting back into its old habit of appropriating editorials from this paper. In one of last week's editions about a quarter of a column of its editorial space was taken up with an editorial which appeared in THE CHRONICLE two weeks ago.

EVEN at the risk of being criticized for making such a remark at this time we cannot refrain from suggesting that a cargo of stain removing soap and a tank or two of disinfectant to cleanse the morals of the French would be apropos while Paris has so much water at hand.

"In all the discussion of prices why does not some one make up a list of things which are cheaper than they ever were before," asks the Boston Transcript. For the simple reason, perhaps, that it would be impossible to find them.

THE State could have been saved another considerable item of expense had the printed copies of the Governor's message been mailed in wrappers instead of embossed envelopes.

THE only apparent difference between the legislators at Washington and those at Annapolis is that the former are wasting time and the latter, money.

A controlling interest in the Centerville Record has been sold to Edwin H. Brown, Jr. of the Centerville bar. After the issue Saturday the management of the paper passed into his hands. Mr. Brown is a son of the late Judge Edwin H. Brown. The Centerville Record has been edited and published in Queen Anne's county for the past 35 years. Most of that time it was owned and edited by the late Col. William Scott Roberts. On July 1, 1906, the paper was sold by Colonel Roberts to James T. Bright, who, since that time, has been the owner and publisher.

The Board of Public Works met Tuesday afternoon at Annapolis to open sealed bids for an issue of state stock amounting to $1,000,000 for public road improvement. But there were no bids. The members of the board—Governor Crothers, Comptroller Hering and Treasurer Vandiver—were disappointed at the absence of bids. They agree in saying that the recent declarations by the Governor that the State Treasury faces a deficit was not responsible for the lack of bids. They can only attribute this lack to the fact that the stock is not attractive to investors because of the low rate of interest, 3 1/2 per cent. which the stock carries.

Discussion of Affairs in General from Leading Journals of The Country.

"Please Remove Your Hair"

(New York Times.)

The big hats of the women were bad enough, in fact are still bad enough, to account for if not justify masculine profanity. But the vexation of the male mind, and much physical discomfort to the obviously weaker and lesser sex, is caused by one of the prevailing modes of disarranging and destroying the beauty of woman's hair.

Resistance, indeed, seems to be useless. The head is in front of you, and when you move your head to get a view of the proceedings, the head moves too, keeping always in the line of vision. You crane your neck, and the structure in front of you rises the same instant. Your case is hopeless. We are assuming, for the sake of argument, that you are a mere man. Stern measures and much ridicule, indulged in with heaviness of heart, have somewhat abated the big hat nuisance indoors.

It Is Up To The People.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

No trust is necessary to a consumer, but consumers are necessary to a trust. The problem is to give this rule a practical point.

Right of Way For The Goat.

(Acheson Globe.)

The Tammany tiger is outclassed; the G. O. P. elephant is a back number; the Democratic mule is lost in the shuffle, and the only animal of interest in the great political menagerie is the goat, which the women have adopted to represent Equal Suffrage.

A man is just as powerless before a suffragette. All there is for a man to do if the walk is narrow and two can't pass is to step off in the mud if the one approaching is either a suffragette or a goat.

Mix up in The G. O. P.

(Brooklyn Eagle.)

With ex-Secretary Garfield criticizing the Baling policy, with Mr. Pinchot succeeding President Eliot as the head of the forestry reform society, with Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis arraigning from the bench the legal positions of Attorney-General Wickersham, and with all the Roosevelt old-guard in full hue and cry, there is really danger for the party which cannot get along without the country, especially as the country is coming to think that it can get along without the party, which cannot get along without it.

Drunk With Prosperity.

(Wall Street Journal.)

It is still in the power of Nature to inflict upon us disasters that can make our prosperity boasting look foolish. In the matter of crops we have had an unprecedented run of luck. The cotton showing last year was disappointing, but what we lost there we made up elsewhere. The aggregate of new wealth created was sufficient for the conduct of even our enormous business. To some extent we may feel proud. It would be better for us all if we merely felt grateful, and did not forget that such gifts can be withdrawn.

Against our losses by the snow, we must remember that it is also nature's beneficent provision for preparing the soil for these great harvests which form such an essential part of our national prosperity. This is not forgotten, but there are some of us who are old-fashioned enough to remember the dangers of that pride which goeth before destruction.

A Little About Theodore.

(Philadelphia Record.)

There might be some plausibility in the tale about ex-President Roosevelt and the speakership were it not for the consideration that the office of Speaker of the next House is already bespoken by a Democrat.

(Washington Post.)

T. R. for Speaker? Then away with the gavel and precedent, and let the joys of the big stick and "my rules" be unconfined.

(Atlanta Constitution.)

San Francisco wants Roosevelt to come home that way. And she has already had one big earthquake.

(Boston Transcript.)

Theodore Roosevelt continues to be suggested for every large-sized vacancy. "No help wanted here" may yet be stamped over the White House door.

Political Definitions.

(Minneapolis Journal.)

A democrat is one who does not believe in the regularity of any other democrat. A republican is one who believes in the irregularity of every other republican.

Duty of The Party in Power.

(Washington Post.)

Besides the duty of discharging its responsibility to all the people, the majority side of the Senate owes it to its party to follow a course calculated to extend its lease of power. Can it afford to hold in abeyance that which the people are so insistent upon having done at the earliest possible day? Can it hope to win if it justly rests under the reproach of having failed in a time of greatly distressed conditions, to do all in its power toward remedying the evil? It is the firm conviction of many Republicans in the Middle West that legislation at Washington has much to do with the high cost of living, and it would seem to be bad politics indeed for the Republicans to hesitate to meet this charge.

If the laws, by favoritism or ineffectiveness, contribute to the high cost of living the Republican party must face the music, for it makes the laws and can mend them. If the party does not dare to face the music now it will be compelled to later at the ballot box. If the Republicans in Congress dodge the question their Democratic brethren will bring it up.

A Striking Comparison

(Acheson Globe.)

Living expenses in Windsor, Canada, under free trade, are 25 per cent. cheaper than in Detroit, Mich., under a protective tariff. The two cities are only separated by the Detroit river. The following table ought to tell what class of people are benefitted by a protective tariff:

Table comparing prices of goods in Windsor and Detroit.

The Lure of Canada

(Hartford Times.)

The virgin and fertile soil of the Canadian Northwest is a magnet which is drawing multitudes of Americans to the Dominion. The total number of emigrants from the United States to Canada last year is officially computed at 90,148. The Canadian immigration commissioner estimates that the average wealth of these Yankee settlers is $1000, and if that guess is near the truth a large amount of capital moved across the border.

The movement of Americans to the cheap and fruitful lands of northwest Canada is a fact of economic importance. The development of western Canada is being pushed rapidly. New railroads are spanning the provinces, and rich agricultural, mineral and timber lands are being tapped.

Doubtless great are the opportunities of this new country, but the settlers must pay the price. It is a question as to just how many hardships they are willing to endure, and just how many privations they are willing to undergo. Life isn't beer and wittles under the northern sun. The winters are long and tedious, and impose a drain on the human system. But the summers with the long days of sunshine that make wheat grow at a rate that almost violates the speed laws, are glorious.

For hardy and intelligent settlers who are willing to forego the conveniences and attractions of an older civilization, western Canada has large rewards. But hardy and intelligent men are likely to get ahead anywhere.

Short Sermons on the Decalogue

THE TENTH COMMANDMENT.

"Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything that is thy neighbor's."

The preceding commandments touch rather the outward life, the tenth strikes at the root of all, it enters the citadel of the inner being. It reaches to the very root of unrighteousness, the evil and corrupt desires and concupiscence of the heart; "Thou shalt not covet."

This law provides for the exact observance of justice and equity among men in their actions, it is a law directed to the heart alone, the seat and fountain of all our thoughts, our desires, our emotions.

The Apostle Paul, though well versed in the law, candidly confesses that he would never have known the sinfulness of lust from the other commandments, had not the tenth been added. "Nay, I had not known lust, or concupiscence, except the law had said, Thou shalt not covet."

The all-wise Lawgiver knew therefore, the hypocrisy, and deceitfulness of the heart of man, He, both the blindness him of all excuse and all pretence, giving him this law, at once teaching him the exact and spiritual nature of all the rest. God knows, and we know, that out of the heart issue forth those pollutions that defile the whole man—evil thoughts, murders, and adulteries. It is necessary therefore, to keep the heart clean, for out of it are the issues of life.

This commandment exhorts to spiritual prudence, to observe the beginnings and conception of sin, to crush it, and destroy it, before it burst forth into open lawlessness, not only destroying our own manhood, but sometimes ruining the lives of those who have lovingly confided in us. And when sin is finished, it brings forth death, death spiritual and death eternal. It is not enough, therefore, that we cleanse the tongue, and the hands, the heart must be clean, and with the fountain of life pure, the whole manhood will be clean. He that destroys the least motion of an impure thought will not be likely to proceed to any injurious word or action.

Not only shall a man not covet but he must banish all discontent at his own estate, nor envy those who have been more highly favored with this world's goods. If we think of an all-wise sovereign carving each man's place and condition in the world, we cannot but think that he has done it much more wisely than we could do for ourselves. It is just as true in the matter of estate, as of our garments. We have no desire for the largest, for those that fit us best, are best for us.

And yet man is like the troubled sea, he is never at rest, and never satisfied. The servant longs to become master, the soldier to become general, the sailor to become Captain of the ship. And this undue vying with each other for place and power, this sin of covetousness, has ruined many a man's peace of mind, sent many to insane asylums, and not a few behind prison bars.

We would seek to crush no lawful desire for betterment in the world, but when aspiration takes the form of covetousness, it ought surely to be destroyed.

In a healthy state of mind toward God, and toward our fellowmen, we will cease to covet, not only so, but we will rejoice and be glad at a neighbor's prosperity. With the Commandments before us, and with a strong desire to have clean hands, and a pure heart, we shall journey on hopefully toward Emmanuel's land, where beyond all unhallowed desires, and beyond the rasping cares of time, we shall at last sit down in peace among the great company who have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb of God.

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

Almsgiving and Prayer. Matt. 6:1-15.

Golden Text. Take heed that ye do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them. Matt. 6:1.

Verses 1-4—What definition would you give of an hypocrite?

If a man is really trying to be a true Christian, but loves to have his good works acknowledged by the church and the world, and takes pains to have that done, how would you characterize him?

If a man gives more to religion and charity when the fact is published, than he does when it is not known, in what class would you place him?

If one gives with the motive of helping his fellows, and to glorify God, will the fact that his beneficence is published displease God? Why?

Verses 5, 6—Give reasons for your opinion as to whether there are those to-day, who act as if they were religious in the matter of going to church etc., but who are not actually true to God?

How would you describe a man who goes to church or prayer meeting, chiefly to help his business or profession?

If a man prays longer in public than he does in private, is he necessarily a hypocrite?

Why does Jesus so strongly recommend private prayer, and what are its advantages?

Verses 7—What can you say for or against long or short private prayers?

In what class would you put those private prayers which consist only of reading, or reciting, set prayers, and in repeating a form of words?

* Verse 8—As God certainly knows

Zelaya Not to Be Forgotten.

The State Department has not abandoned its plan of attempting to make Zelaya pay the penalty of his crimes. Representations will be made to the government of Nicaragua, when a competent one is established, demanding that steps be taken to this end. It is assumed that any country will accede to the demand for Zelaya's extradition on the ground that he is a social pirate and a menace to civilization. If this is granted the Legislature of Nicaragua can turn him over to the ordinary courts for trial as a criminal.

New York's new subway will cost $240,000,000.

what things we have need of before we ask him, what is the use in praying for them? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 9—Did Jesus give the "Lord's Prayer" as a form to be used, or as a model for comprehensiveness and brevity, or for both or for some other reason?

What was the chief thing in the life and personal testimony of Jesus, which also should, and may, be the chief thing in the life of every man?

Verse 10—What should we long and pray for more than all else?

What would turn earth and its sorrows, into Heaven with all its blessedness?

Verse 11—Have Christians a right to expect that God will supply all the necessities of life, and does he always do so?

Is God under obligation to supply us with daily bread?

Verse 12—On what grounds does God forgive us our sins?

Does Jesus mean here that God will forgive us exactly as we forgive others, or is there a difference?

Verse 13—In what way does God lead us into temptation?

Verses 14, 15—If we forgive our fellows, is God under obligation to forgive us?

University Kicks On Football.

Football got a severe jolt at the University of Chicago Saturday, when the board of physical culture and athletics laid the 1910 program on the table, pending the meeting of the national football rules committee, soon to be held. Coach Stagg was told to make out a schedule for soccer football, and unless the rules of the national committee suit the university professors it is intimated that soccer will supersede the old-time American game.

Thousands of dollars are being sent from this country to Paris to aid the sufferers from the flood.

We call to your attention our Surplus and Profits of nearly $14,000.00, all of which has been earned since Jan. 4th, 1908, which shows a capable management. This record of earnings should be sufficient to convince the most skeptical of our ability to pay 4 per cent. with safety. The safety of any Bank lies in its management, and the ability of its management is shown in its profits. Our profits in the first two years have been equal to more than 50 per cent. on the Capital, a record not equalled by any Bank in the County. We solicit your business.

A FAIR EXCHANGE

MANY people have things that they no longer have use for, but keep them in the house, taking up room and doing no one any good.

THE CHRONICLE

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Miss Marian Smith, of Taneytown, is the guest of Miss Anna Long.

Messrs. Lucien Beam, Alexander Colliflower and Robert Cook visited at the home of the Misses Colliflower in Graceham Monday evening.

SKUNKS AND SKIDDOES

Polar Bears, Chinese Chickens, Bingsmogles and Lilliehoos To Be Raised Near Pen Mar.

Dippy Duke, special correspondent from the Booby Hatch on South Mountain says that a number of energetic residents near Pen Mar, who had their olfactory nerves paralyzed, intend to start a skunk incubator back in the woods near the latter place.

Another account gives it in this wise: The farm will be stocked with skunks to be caught in the mountain, and in a few years it is estimated that the farm will be paying the owners well, as skunk pelts are selling for $3.50 to $4.50 according to their quality.

Lewis S. Brown, another resident of Roadside, who was recently appointed a deputy game warden, will engage in raising bears at the new game preserve near the White Pine Sanatorium, in the South mountain. Mr. Brown will purchase a pair of young brown bears for propagating purposes, as these animals are very scarce in that region. Ten years ago bears were plentiful in the South mountain, but hunters have either killed or driven them off to more remote sections. Other acquisitions of wild game including turkeys and pheasants will be added to the game preserve. Seventy-five pens of wild turkeys and some Chinese pheasants will be secured and liberated. It is also the purpose of Mr. Brown and others interested in the propagation of turry and feathered game to purchase quail and other game birds for the preserve.

Railroad Adopts By-Laws.

At the annual meeting of the Frederick Railroad Company on Tuesday, by-laws for the government of the company in accordance with the terms of agreement under which recent consolidation of the companies forming the new corporation was effected were adopted. At this meeting directors were elected for the following year.

LOCAL BREVITIES

The Emmitt Cornet Band serenaded Mr. and Mrs. George Ernest Lingg, at the home of the bride, near town, on Tuesday night.

Last Friday the streets were alive with people who were drawn to Emmitsburg by the CHRONICLE advertisement of Hoke's Clearance Sale. At nine o'clock 111 people were there when the doors opened and all day long the store was thronged by those who came to take advantage of the low prices. Forty-eight teams at ten o'clock were hitched near the store. Yesterday Miss Ruth Gillelan held a clearance sale at the Utility Shop and from early in the morning until late in the evening the place was crowded.

"Carnation Day" was not forgotten by the people of Emmitsburg. Beside the displays in various windows a number of people wore McKinley's favorite flower.

Prof. B. J. Eckenrode, of Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, N. Y., in a letter to THE CHRONICLE declared "that every upright citizen of Emmitsburg should endorse your plea for electric lights and a town hall, both of which are essential for a progressive town. We all hope to see the day when there will be a Greater Emmitsburg."

The snow on Friday and Saturday closed up the pike and several other roads.

Service of the Frederick County Telephone Company was discontinued here at one o'clock p. m., on February 1.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company will begin removing the poles of the merged Frederick County Company in the near future.

It is believed that the C. & P. Telephone Company will engage Drs. William Snider and Daniel Shorb to engineer their lines to the North Pole. Their acceptance is contingent on the safe arrival of a carload of fur earmuffs.

A horse driven by Mr. Ed. Stansbury ran off on Monday night and demolished the sleigh, throwing Mr. Stansbury and a young lady accompanying him into a snow bank. No one was hurt. The horse fell short distance out the Taneytown road and was caught.

Miss Sarah Miller took her scholars out sleighing on Tuesday afternoon. From the way the children cheered they enjoyed the outing immensely.

The streets were given over to the speeders on Tuesday and several exciting heats were pulled off. The sleighing in town was as good as it could be.

Mr. Charles C. Reeder has leased from Miss Columbia Winter her property on West Main street and will take possession April 1.

Sunday is the 95th anniversary of the birth of our oldest male citizen, Mr. Lewis Martin Motter. Mr. Motter was born on Feb. 6, 1815.

The only mishap on Wednesday at the Carnival was when Mr. Creager's sleigh broke down as he was leaving the course. No one was hurt.

The County Commissioners have accepted the new 60-foot iron bridge over Cattail Branch on the Taneytown Road.

The Lutheran Church of this community dates its origin in the year 1757, on the banks of Toms Creek two and one half miles East of Emmitsburg. This primitive structure was built of logs. According to a historical letter of Rev. John G. Young written to Rev. Dr. Helmuth, Philadelphia, and filed in the archives of Mount Airy Lutheran Seminary the year 1757 establishes the date of this congregation's beginning. At a later date a new church was built on this site by the Lutheran and the Reformed congregations.

The first pastor was Rev. John G. Bager, who was succeeded by no less than four ministers until in the year 1897. The present stone structure was erected conjointly by the Lutheran and the Reformed Congregations and used by both on alternate Sundays until the year 1869, when the Lutheran congregation became sole owner by right of purchase.

The present stone edifice was remodeled in the year 1835, also in 1870. In the year 1897, the Centennial Celebration of the church was observed with a varied and impressive program, covering a period of four days, Sept. 30, Oct. 3, 1897. A full account was furnished in THE CHRONICLE Oct. 8, 1897.

In the Centennial year the church was renovated and improved by placing new circular oak pews, art glass memorial windows of beautiful design, new pulpit and chancel furniture.

Fourteen ministers have served the congregation since 1797. Rev. John F. Ruthrauff, Rev. John G. Grob, Rev. John N. Hoffman, Rev. Samuel Finckel, Rev. Ezra Keller, Rev. Solomon Sentman, Rev. John Welfley, Rev. Chas. Collins, Rev. J. Henry Bishop, Rev.

Washington V. Gotwald, Rev. E. S. Johnston, D.D., Rev. Luther DeYoe, Rev. O. G. Klinger, Rev. Chas. Reinewald.

Recent improvements are a new heating plant, walls refrescoed, new carpet, new roof, new floor, a new concrete avenue from the Main street to the church, and other improvements within the present pastorate of 17 years involving an expenditure of about $3,500.

The membership numbers 340 persons. During the past year the congregation contributed for benevolent causes $368.00 and for all local and general work $2,170.00. The church property has improved with age, and continues to serve the sacred purpose of its erection through Winter's cold and Summer's heat.

Pastors of Emmitsburg Elias Ev. Lutheran Church. Rev. John George Bager, 1757-1759; vacant, 1759-1761; Rev. Ludwig Beck, 1761-1767; vacant, 1767-1769; Rev. Charles F. Wildbahn, 1769-1782. Then Lutherans united with Reformed and built a new church on the old location, and also a school house, 1782. Rev. Jno. G. Young of St. John's Lutheran Church supplied the Emmitsburg church. Rev. Guenther Wingert, 1794-1795; Rev. John F. Ruthrauff, Greencastle, 1797-1802; Rev. John G. Grob, Taneytown, 1802-1823; Rev. John N. Hoffman, 1828-1833; Rev. Samuel D. Finckel, 1834-1837; Rev. David J. Lewis For Congress. "I suppose David J. Lewis can have the nomination for Congress again if he wants it," said Mr. Rohrbach. "He made an excellent run two years ago, when he cut down the Republican majority, which has been as high as 3500 to 400. Although there was some dissatisfaction among the Republicans then, I suppose there will be next time also if Pearre is a candidate again, and the general sentiment against the Republicans because of high prices ought to be sufficient, with Mr. Lewis' great popularity, to enable him to pull through with a comfortable majority."

Some of the Sixth district men seem to think, however, that Alexander Hagner of Washington county and not George A. Pearre may be the Republican candidate this fall says the News.

CHURCH NEWS

Mrs. Mary R. Haslip, a prominent temperance advocate and lecturer who is very active in the ranks of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, will address an Emmitsburg audience, under the auspices of the local branch of the union, tonight in the Methodist Church. Every one is invited to attend.

The Mite Society of the Presbyterian Church will hold its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. James A. Helman.

Wednesday was Candlemas Day, and was observed in all Catholic Churches. The popular name Candlemas is derived from the ceremony which the Church of Rome dictates to be observed on this day, namely, a blessing of candles by the clergy, and a distribution of them among the people, by whom they are afterward carried lighted in solemn procession.

The festival, at whatever date it took its rise—and the date is unknown in Christian history other than that it occurs on February 2—has been designated to commemorate the churching or purification of Mary; and the candle-bearing is understood to refer to what Simeon said when he took the infant Jesus in his arms and declared that he was a "light to lighten the Gentiles."

Considering the importance attached to Candlemas Day for many ages, it is scarcely surprising that there is a superstition throughout Christendom that good weather on this day indicates a long continuance of winter and a bad crop, and that its being foul, is, on the contrary, a good omen. An old Scottish rhyme says:

If Candlemas Day be dry and fair,
The half of winter's to come and fair;
If Candlemas Day be wet and foul,
The half o' winter's gane at Yule.

In Germany there are two proverbial expressions on this subject: First, The shepherd would rather see the wolf enter his stable on Candlemas Day than the sun. Second, The badger peeps out of his hole on Candlemas Day, and when he finds snow, walks abroad, but if he sees the sun a-shining, he draws back into his hole. It is not improbable that these notions, like the festival of Candlemas itself, are derived from pagan times, and have existed since the very infancy of our race.

MOUNTAIN TROLLEYS TO BE EXTENDED

Hagerstown, Pen Mar, Harrisburg Will be Connected.—Looked-For Extension to Shippensburg.

An extension of the trolley system now being operated from Waynesboro to Pen Mar from the latter resort to Blue Ridge Summit has been decided upon by the directors of the road, and a committee has been appointed to go over the proposed route at the earliest time to arrange for purchasing a right of way for the line. It is also proposed to extend the line from Chambersburg to Shippensburg, which will form a portion of the link whereby all of the traction lines in the Cumberland Valley between Hagerstown and Harrisburg, Pa., will be connected.

The extension to Shippensburg has been under consideration for some time, but until this time nothing definite had been done. The directors believe that the construction of the line from Pen Mar to Blue Ridge Summit will prove a paying proposition, as that section of the mountain is being rapidly developed by wealthy residents of Baltimore, Washington, Norfolk, Philadelphia and other cities who have erected cottages on the mountain and spend their summers there. The line will give additional facilities for travel between the two resorts at probably a lower rate than on the Western Maryland railroad. The Shippensburg extension will be an important link in joining the traction lines in the upper end of the valley which are controlled by Harrisburg capital.

How to Use Fertilizers Intelligently.

"Nitrogen promotes growth," says the Farm Journal in speaking of fertilizers. "phosphates promote fruitfulness and early maturity and potash increases quality," says Professor Hammond, in Gardening.

The nitrogenous fertilizers are nitrate of soda, sulphate of ammonia, dried blood, horn, hoof, etc. Nitrate of soda (100-150 pounds per acre) is a powerful stimulant; on this account it should be applied to the growing crop and not to the soil for any length of time before it will be used by the crop; nitrate of soda is readily washed from the soil by rain.

Sulphate of ammonia (100-150 pounds per acre) has to undergo alteration in the soil before it can be used by the plant, and may therefore be applied two or three weeks before the crop needs it. Sulphate of ammonia should never be used on sour land. Dried blood (up to 200 pounds per acre) contains as much nitrogen as nitrate of soda, and becomes available to the plant almost as quickly as sulphate of ammonia. Horn or hoof meal is very slow in acting, and not recommended for gardens.

Phosphates are contained in superphosphate or acid phosphate, basic slag, bones (all forms), rock phosphate.

Superphosphate (up to 400 pounds per acre) is valuable on account of the phosphate being soluble in water; it should not be used on sour land, nor applied long before it is needed. Especially useful on land containing much lime.

Basic slag (up to 600 pounds per acre) is valuable on account of its content of phosphate and lime; it is especially useful on sour land and stiff clay, and is best applied three months before it is needed. It is useless on land containing much lime.

Bones (up to 400 pounds per acre) are best when they have been steamed or boiled, since the fat is mostly removed thereby. Should be in a very fine dust, the finer the better, and applied some time before needed. May be applied to any land.

Rock phosphate (up to 1,000 pounds per acre) is very slow in action and should be ground as fine as possible. It gives best results when mixed with fresh farmyard manure, the mixture being allowed to stand until the manure is ready to be used.

Sulphate of potash (up to 150 pounds per acre) is the best form to use generally; it is rather more expensive than muriate, and may be applied a short time before the plant needs it.

Muriate of potash (up to 150 pounds per acre) contains about the same amount of potash as the sulphate but in a less desirable form. For this reason it is best applied some considerable time before it is needed, so that the injurious principles may be removed by rain. Its harmful effects are especially evident with potatoes, beets and tobacco.

Kainit contains less potash than the muriate and sulphate.

Wood ashes contain about one-eighth the amount of potash contained in muriate and sulphate. They are especially valuable on sour land.

Watch for Tuberculosis.

"This is the season when tuberculosis gets a hold upon the herds," says the Farm Journal. "Be vigilant in the care of all the stock. If you hear a cough in the cow stables, sheep pens or horse stalls, investigate it, and if possible remove the cause. Thorough ventilation without draftiness; plenty of sunlight, and forage free from dust and mold are essential to the health of animals in their confined winter quarters. 'Keep the calf stable dry. Don't keep even a private quart bottle hidden there. 'Never let a prompt horse work with a lazy driver. Fire the driver or cut down his feed. 'It is a good plan to have a pair of well-bred mares to make up the extra farm team for the light work. The colts dropped after fly time are 'clear gain.'"

The Kaiser Again Popular.

A despatch from Berlin speaks of the many evidences of good feeling toward the kaiser that appeared on his birthday, says the Chicago Record-Herald. "The unrestrained expressions of loyalty were everywhere noticeable and were in marked contrast with the coldness shown by the people a year ago."

At that time there had been considerable political friction over a question of imperial authority, but the despatches of the day did not indicate that the kaiser had actually lost his hold on the people. There was irritation, but no lack of loyalty, because the Germans know that he is intensely patriotic and wholly devoted to what he believes to be the best interests of the country.

No doubt also they are affected by his striking, vigorous personality, and would prefer such an energetic, forceful ruler with a genius for doing things to one whose first thought should be to avoid mistakes. So long as his heart is true and so long as he serves the country well it is not hard for them to forgive occasional mistakes.

Commander Peary wants Roosevelt to lead an expedition to discover the South Pole.

Picture Framing.

One of the hardest things in the world for the lay mind, that is, the nonartist mind, to accomplish, is the proper framing of a picture. One can spoil a picture by a bad frame quite as effectually as by running a knife through it. The first thing to remember is that the frame is a background, and the greatest success it can hope for is to lend itself to the character of the picture as to pass, as a frame, unnoticed. To do this it need not be sombre, if the picture does not demand it. In fact, a dark wood frame around a light French water color would be unpleasantly conspicuous. In general, if browns prevail in the picture, a brown frame would not give a jarring note. A grey-toned print would naturally be enclosed in a band of grey. Light water colors are often good framed in white, or, if they are sunny, in gilt. This matter of gilt, however, is the rock on which most people split. It belongs almost exclusively to heavy canvasses and to such light ones as those mentioned, and the enormous extent to which it is used is only a sign of bad taste and stupidity. Japanese prints require dull soft greys, in the plainest of narrow frames. A Japanese print in a fancy frame would be a monstrosity. If the print is very striking a frame of black is a possibility, but should not be attempted unless one is sure that it is right. Finally, a small subject requires a narrow frame, except where the picture is a small surface, and one wishes to give the impression of depth.

Finishing Touches.

For making sandwiches for afternoon tea a dainty filling to have on hand is cheese and nuts, which are put together in glass jars.

Spanish salmon also makes delicious sandwiches.

For afternoon tea cinnamon toast is very nice for a change. Toast thin slices of bread, butter while hot, and sprinkle with a mixture of ground cinnamon and powdered sugar. Spiced almonds, which come done up in Japanese boxes, are good used on the table in place of salted nuts.

Guava paste is good to serve with the crackers and cheese, when the salad is passed.

Preserved guava may be served as a sweet for dinner or lunch.

Another addition to the pantry shelf is the jar containing a paste of chicken and truffles, to be spread thinly on bread and butter for "hurry-up" sandwiches.

Spanish red peppers, celery, lettuce and mayonnaise make a delicious salad.

Things to Know.

A paste made of fine starch and a very little water spread on a bruised spot immediately after the blow will often prevent discoloration.

To remove shine from woolen goods—Two tablespoons of ammonia, two table-spoons rum, one and a half teaspoons of saltpetre, one quart of water. Moisten the cloth with the liquor, then rub it.

Cockroaches—Cucumber peel has been found to be very efficacious in ridding the house of cockroaches. It should be scattered around the kitchen in the evening, particularly into the corners of the room. The insects soon discover the peel, which acts as a poison.

To clean wall paper, dust it off with a soft cloth, then rub with the soft part of stale bread.

To take axle grease out of goods, rub the spots with lard. Rub the goods in the hand as if washing; let it stay on three hours; then wash out in cold water, using plenty of soap.

Rust may be removed by rubbing the article with sweet oil. Let it remain over night and then polish with powdered, unslacked lime.

Rub bread and meat boards with cut lemons, then wash with cold water. It is much better than scrubbing or scraping.

If the upper part or edge of the saucepan is well buttered you will find that chocolate, milk and other liquids will not boil over.

To Improve Methodist Church.

The Methodist Episcopal congregation of Frederick has determined to make extensive improvements to its church building. The plans include the erection of a new building in the rear of the church for the use of the infant department of the Sunday school with provision for the subsequent addition of a large building for the use of adult school. A new front will be erected, new windows placed in the sides and the side galleries removed. The interior will be renovated, new pews put in and a new pipe organ installed. The committee, is composed of Messrs. James H. Harris, John D. Hendrickson, R. Rush Lewis, L. F. Mullinix, George W. Heinlein, Dr. A. A. Radcliffe, E. K. Moore, C. E. Cline and S. Amos Urner.

Too Much For Stationery.

The economy fight in the Maryland Legislature was given a boost on Tuesday when Messrs. King, of Worcester and Twilley, of Wicomico, and Dr. Ashby, of Baltimore, raised objections at the meeting of the committee to bills of Messrs. King, state printers, and the Wm. J. C. Dulany Company. The bill of the Messrs. King, to which there was objection, was $22.50 for a ledger, which Mr. King, of the committee, said could be bought in the store of almost any stationer for $3.50. The Dulany Company wanted to be paid $158 for supplies for the Claims Committee. Final action was not taken on the bills.

George W. King says that his bill of $22.50 embraces several items, including a ledger of a special design, rubber stamps, pads and other supplies.

EXPORTS OF FARM PRODUCTS FROM OFFICIAL STATISTICS

Increase Has Been Greater Than That of Population.—Grain, Cotton and Packing-House Products.

Exports of farm products from the United States have increased from an average of $150,000,000 a year in the five-year period from 1851 to 1855 to more than $1,000,000,000 to 1908 according to statistics of the Department of Agriculture. The increase in exports has been greater than the increase in population. In 1851-55 the average value per capita of agricultural exports was $5.85; in 1901-05 it was $10.88; and since 1905 it has been still greater.

The chief products exported during the last half-century have been cotton, grain and grain products and packing-house products. The value of cottonseed products exported averaged during the last several years from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 a year. Grain exports in 1909 were valued at $215,000,000, an increase from $25,000,000 in 1851. Packing-house products have increased $10,000,000 in the 1851-55 period to $196,000,000 in 1908, the principal items in this group being pork, beef and oleo oil. Since 1905 there has been a decline in the exports of beef. Exports of tobacco, unmanufactured, averaged more than 300,000,000 pounds a year since 1895, with a yearly valuation of more than $30,000,000. Fruit exports increased from $71,000 in 1851 to $20,000,000 in 1904 and from $14,000,000 to $17,000,000 subsequently.

used to is not above common comprehension, and it lies pretty near the root of the matter.

"Living is dear because we are a nation of prodigals. We have had the money to spend and we have spent it. Last New Year's dividend disbursements were $202,000,000, and the wage scale was in keeping with that maximum distribution. We might have saved something and added to our capital, but we have chosen to eat and drink and be merry. The principle applies equally to diamonds and automobiles and breakfast foods. We buy proprietary brands of oats instead of cheaper sorts to be had in the same stores. We pay a nickel for a box of crackers when the same nickel would buy almost twice as much if spent in the same way as before the trusts practised their blandishments. Instead of patronizing the cheap shops we have gone to the nearest, or the ones with best service. We have the one with best service. We have not waited for the natural seasons, but have bought what we wanted when we wanted it. We have discovered this simultaneously, and we have altered the situation almost overnight. We have discovered that within limits we can control our expenditures."

"Nothing would ever convince the grower of wheat or cotton that the particular commodity he has to sell could be too high," remarks the Wall Street Journal. "No doubt he bombards his congressman with letters about the high prices of the things he has to buy. The class is one not deeply versed in economics, and it is in the rural districts that the belief is most firmly held that Government is a sort of vague entity possessing boundless wealth and power, derived from some mysterious source other than the people themselves."

"It is to the interest of our politicians to persuade people that most of the evils they suffer from can be cured by legislation. It would never do to tell the farmer the truth—that he and not the Legislature possesses the remedy for most of the evils from which he suffers. Probably the politician does not know any better. The representatives of a people are not ordinarily very much wiser than the people they represent."

"Commodities do not advance forever. High and low prices have their cycles. Cotton at sixteen cents is followed by a greatly increased acreage which brings the price down automatically. But there is one way in which the high price of commodities can be fought here and now. When President Ripley of the Atchison blames it all on the women, he is neither gallant nor just. But there is no doubt that domestic expenditure can be enormously curtailed. Our waste leaves us a margin which could be used to bring down the price of all commodities. What we need is a return to the thrifty habits of our forefathers."

"The meat strike, if it does nothing else, will at least teach a great people how much it is possible to do without, and that without seriously reducing the standard of comfort. Everybody would be a great deal better and healthier if he confined his consumption of meat to one meal a day. This would automatically reduce prices. * * * the first step to a reduction lies in the practice of individual economy."

Twenty Thousand For Port Deposit.

A bill appropriating $20,000 for the relief of Port Deposit was passed by the Maryland Legislature under a suspension of rules. This money will be distributed by a committee of citizens of the flood-stricken town.

A hundred men were killed in a mine disaster in Colorado on Monday.

A complete system founded on adequate statistics, when they have been collected and classified, ought to be, and finally will doubtless be, introduced. At present the pronounced evil of mining accidents will be substantially met by a system of death relief benefits. If the bill be confined to fatal accidents, as this one is, mining casualties can be simply dealt with. There are about six thousand men employed, and the fatal-accident percentage shows a working average from year to year. There is now added a table giving these fatal accidents, and certain percentages and ratios for the year 1890 to 1909.

"Mining is almost the only very perilous industry in the State which does not afford some protection to its victims. The railway industry is equally perilous, and has a much higher non-fatal list of victims of serious accident—but it is gratifying to know that the two leading railway companies of the State recognizing the duty of the industry to its victims, on their own initiative have organized extensive relief systems which greatly mitigate the individual consequences of their accidents. Both the Baltimore and Ohio and the Pennsylvania Railroad maintain such systems, and while the men pay for their accidents through monthly contributions, these companies supply the management and administration and also at their own expense pension the superannuated employees."

"There are special circumstances surrounding the miner which render the condition of his family peculiarly distressing when he is removed as their support. The mining settlements commonly have no other industries to which the daughters can go to help the widow; and until a young son grows mature enough to take his father's place in the mine, the local environment affords no opportunity of employment. Miners do not accumulate estates from their limited earnings, too often down to the bare living point by seasonal depressions in the business, which seldom give a full year's work. The accompaniment of these fatal accidents, accordingly, is the helpless poverty of the miner's dependents."

"It is believed that this session affords a very opportune time for passage of this legislation, if only in relation to the financial situation generally. The coal companies are just now entering upon what promises to be a most prosperous business era; though it is believed that a tax so small as five mills on the ton would not be felt at any time. Moreover the companies have just received a donation from the law amounting on the average to about ten cents a ton. Reference is here made to a recent decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, reducing the freight rate on Maryland coal by that amount. A differential of fifteen cents a ton had been imposed by the railway companies against Maryland coal in the form of larger freight rates on the Maryland product than on those of West Virginia and Pennsylvania, which in effect equalled an import tariff against the Maryland coal operators at the selling points where it is applied."

It is not out of place to recount here in connection with this text the mine mine horrors of a day?

The death list in the Primero (Col.) mine stands at 79. One man alone of those at work when the explosion took place was gotten out alive.

Ten men are known to be dead and 17 others are missing and supposed to be penned up in the Browder mine, near Drakesville, Ky., in which there was a gas explosion.

Two men were saved from the burning Sholl mine at South Bartonville, Ill., which is believed to have been set on fire.

The Cherry, Ill., mine was opened after being sealed since the explosion there, but how soon the 180 bodies supposed to be within can be brought out is problematical.

ments in the party, and Senator Nelson is now working on a bill which will carry into law the recommendations made. While the printed statements that the President intended to make a general attack upon the trusts met with a speedy denial at the White House, the announced intention of the Chief Executive to proceed to the limit of his power against those corporations doing business outside the law met with approval from those who were pleased with the radical steps taken by the last Administration. Throughout the country the fight against the present high retail prices for food stuffs has become very warm, and the President has made a good impression among members of Congress by proceeding against the beef trust. Wade Ellis, the former attorney-general of Ohio who made a reputation in that state by fighting the Standard Oil Company and is now assistant attorney-general of the United States, has orders from the President to proceed vigorously against the Chicago packers, against whom much evidence has been secured during the past few weeks by the Department of Justice.

METHODIST BISHOP FOSS DEAD OF PARALYSIS

President of University and Seventy-Seven Years Old.—Began Career as Teacher of Mathematics.

Rev. Dr. Cyrus D. Foss, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, and from 1875 to 1880 inclusive president of Wesleyan University at Middletown, Ct., died Saturday night at the Hahnemann hospital in Philadelphia, from paralysis. He was the son of an able Methodist minister, who dying before he was 50 years old had gained a large reputation; and his mother was notable also, and devoted to religion, reared three sons to the ministerial profession.

Cyrus David Foss was born at Kingston, N. Y., January 17, 1834, and was thus 77 years old. He was graduated at Wesleyan University at the head of his class; he taught mathematics at Amenia Seminary in Dutchess county and became its principal, and entering the New York conference in 1857 he was for 16 years pastor of leading churches in Brooklyn and New York. In 1875 he was elected president of his alma mater, and his administration was very successful, financially and educationally. In the course of his service there he served as delegate of the New York conference to the general conferences of 1872, 1876 and 1880. He was also delegate to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1878 and presented the fraternal salutation of American Methodism to the British Wesleyan conference in Wesley's "City Road Chapel" in 1886.

Elected bishop in 1880, he resigned from the presidency of the university at Middletown. Dr. Foss was a man of shrewd knowledge of men, of tact in managing affairs, of capacity in business, and he had a truly sympathetic nature as well as that good judgment which must always belong to a Methodist bishop, or indeed to a Methodist in any important position, for of all ecclesiastical bodies in Protestantism, this church knows how to do things.

cations of a general new line-up of forces within the Republican party in the State of New York. The charges of corruption that have been preferred against Senator Allds, recently selected leader of the upper body of the state legislature, have not added to the prestige of Chairman Woodruff, who is understood to have forced that selection. Senator Root is now the leader of the organization in the Empire State. When former President Roosevelt returns to this country in June it is expected that important developments will follow in the selection of new state leaders, in the gubernatorial situation and regarding the seat now occupied by Senator Depew. The Senator has entirely recovered his health, which was impaired by the public castigation he received at the time of the insurance investigation, and is preparing to become a candidate for reelection. He was endorsed during the week by the New York State Republican Club here. Both Mr. Roosevelt and Governor Hughes are considered possibilities in case the candidacy of either should be needed to help the party situation.

The constitutionality of the new corporation tax provision in the Payne tariff act will be determined soon by the Supreme Court of the United States when it renders an opinion in the case of Flint vs. Stone-Tracy Company, which has just been filed. The company is incorporated to do a general merchandise business at Windsor, Vermont. The party bringing the action is a stockholder who filed the suit to enjoin the company from paying the corporation tax to the government. The circuit court for the district of Vermont sustained the tax and an appeal was immediately taken. The significant fact in the appeal is that the attorney for the appellant is Maxwell Evarts, son of a former senator and attorney-general of the United States and now general counsel for R. S. Lovett, the successor of Harriman as head of the Union Pacific railroad system. Former Senator John C. Spooner, one of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the country, may appear in the case as he has also been associated with Lovett recently in a legal way. A great legal battle in the Supreme Court is predicted. The interest of the great corporations is aroused because the tax is a new step in federal procedure and is an avenue to complete corporation publicity. The law was framed under the direct supervision of the President. Senator Root, Secretary Knox, Attorney-General Wickersham and other very able lawyers were consulted, and the Administration is confident that the law will be upheld by the highest court.

And It Surely Is.

Teacher was telling her class little stories in natural history, and she asked if any one could tell her what a groundhog was. Up went a little hand, waving frantically. "Well, Carl, you may tell us what a groundhog is." "Please, ma'am, it's sausage."—Everybody's Magazine.
