SIX REGULARS ELECTED

Dalzell Will Be Chairman of Rules Committee

TWO BALLOTS WERE NECESSARY

Besides Chairman Republican Members Will Be Smith, (Iowa) Fassett, Lawrence, Boutell and Smith of California.

With only the friendliest sort of rivalry, although arousing a keen interest, the Republican caucus Wednesday selected the six members of the Rules Committee apportioned to the Republican majority of the House. The following, all members of the regular wing of the party, were chosen.

Walter I. Smith, of Iowa, 168 votes.
John Dalzell, Pennsylvania, 146 votes.
George P. Lawrence, of Massachusetts, 126 votes.

J. Sloat Fesset, New York, 113 votes.
Sylvester C. Smith, California, 136 votes.

Henry S. Boutell, Illinois, 108 votes.
Two ballots were taken, the four first named receiving a majority of the votes cast on the first ballot and the two last members being chosen on the second ballot.

The six members named represent a slate prepared by Representative Tawney, of Minnesota, during the day after numerous conferences with both regulars and "insurgents."

The vote in the caucus was taken by written ballot, each member writing the names of six men for whom he desired to vote. There were 19 names placed in nomination, and a large number of these received complimentary votes. Representative Gardner, of Massachusetts, received 33 votes, the highest number cast for any "insurgent."

The only incident which threatened to produce anything approaching excitement was when Representative Tawney arose soon after the meeting began and offered a resolution proposing the list of six men as named.

Immediately there was an objection from an insurgent from Iowa to the restricted nominations and an informal nominating ballot was proposed. To this Mr. Tawney demurred, and Representative McCall, of Massachusetts, told the former that in New England, when "a slate was brought into a convention" that it was generally considered not a very democratic way of doing things. He believed there should be an open ballot. Representative Payne, of New York, the majority leader, settled the controversy by declaring, amid applause in favor of an informal ballot. Mr. Tawney withdrew his resolution and list. His slate nevertheless proved successful on the ballots which followed.

Following was the first vote:
Smith, of Iowa, 168; Dalzell, 146; Lawrence, 126; Fassett, 113; Smith, of California, 92; Boutell, 85; Kahn, 56; Longworth, 33; Gardner, 33; Gaines, 29; Stevens, of Minnesota, 16; McCall, 16; Maltby, 16; Lowden, 14; Hamilton, 12; Parsons, 12; Denby, 12; Martin, 9, and a number of scattering votes. Murdoch received 6; Davidson 5; Cooper, of Wisconsin, 4; Madison, 4, and Fish, 3. This was the extent of the insurgents' strength aside from the Gardner vote.

On the second ballot Smith and Boutell won easily, with a long list of candidates who received smaller votes.

The members will rank on the enlarged rules committee according to their seniority of service, which will give the chairmanship to Mr. Dalzell. The Democrats met last night to name the four members allotted to the minority, and the whole list will be brought before the House to-day for formal election.

Frederick Fireman Killed.

William Davis, 63 years old, driver of the Junior Fire Company, of Frederick, had his skull crushed at the entrance of the engine house and was instantly killed. His body pitched forward on the pavement in front of the steamer and was run over. The accident was due to a new horse which in its eagerness to get off with the engine could not be managed. While the driver was buckling the harness the horses started the wagon to the fire. In attempting to check them Mr. Davis was dragged in a narrow place until the door was reached where his head hit a projecting iron rod. The blow crushed his skull and he was pitched forward on the pavement.

Lieut. Shackleton, who holds the record of "Farthest South," and who is now in this country, has his plans advanced for another Antarctic expedition in 1911.

THREE CONTROL HOUSE

Members of Triumvirate That Hold Power

THE MINORITY HAS NO CHANCE

Speaker, Dalzell, Smith and Democrats Clark and Fitzgerald in the "Big" Committee that Runs Things.

The Speaker, John Dalzell of Pennsylvania, Walter I. Smith of Iowa, Champ Clark of Missouri, John J. Fitzgerald of New York. The five men are the Committee on Rules as that body is now constituted, and of these five the first three, the Speaker, Dalzell, and Smith, are the CHAMP CLARK, DEMOCRATIC FLOOR LEADER.

Republicans who do its work. Clark and Fitzgerald are the Democrats, and under no circumstances, can circumvent the wishes and purposes of the other three, because the Speaker of the House always has on the committee his two most trusted captains.

In no other legislative body in the world does such a small group of men exercise such tremendous power. This Committee on Rules can, and does, amend the rules of the procedure of the House permanently or temporarily, as it sees fit, so long as the majority party in the House is a harmonious working body. Against it the minority is as powerless as a babe. The committee can bring in a "special rule" so as to pass or defeat any bill it pleases, or it can vote into the procedure of the House a permanent amendment to the rules.

Dalzell is the parliamentary standby of the Speaker; Smith is the bludgeon of debate; the two Democrats are figureheads.

MRS. SLOCUM KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

General J. Franklin Bell Seriously Injured.—Machine Ran Into Trolley Car in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Herbert J. Slocum, wife of Major Slocum, of the Seventh Cavalry, was killed Wednesday morning when the automobile of Maj.-Gen. J. Franklin Bell, in which she was riding, was struck by a Rockville trolley car in the suburbs of Washington. General Bell, who was also in the motorcar, had his head cut and a rib broken and was badly injured.

The accident occurred when Sergeant Edward Ward, of the Signal Corps, General Bell's chauffeur, attempted to cross the Wisconsin avenue car track at Garfield street. Ward, together with Motorman J. W. Speinbaugh and conductor J. H. Norris, the crew of the Rockville car which struck the automobile, were placed under arrest to await the result of the inquest held over Mrs. Slocum's body yesterday but at the direction of Major Sylvester they were paroled.

WILDLY DRUNKEN MAN KILLS TWO TRAINMEN

High Pressure Hose and Three Hundred Men Finally Kill Him at Station in Wilmington, Del.

J. H. Betha, of South Carolina, on Wednesday afternoon murdered the conductor and porter of the Pullman car "Czarina," of the Royal Blue Limited while the train was passing through Newark, Del. He was drunk.

The Royal Blue, with Bethea alone in the Czarina with the dead men roused into Wilmington at 10 miles an hour. The police and a posse of citizens shot the South Carolinian to death after an hour's fighting in the depot.

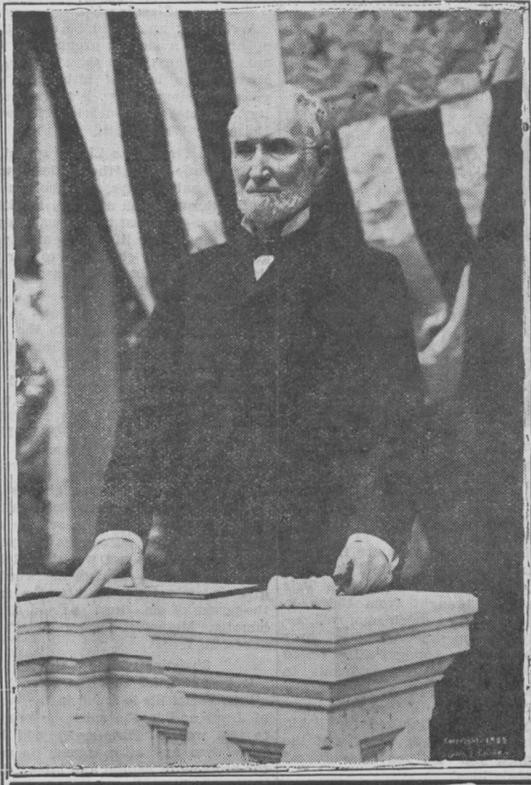

During the fight a high pressure stream of water was used to drive the crazed man from the car and it was on the platform that he was shot. Three men were wounded.

Another Roosevelt Committee.

Another "Roosevelt committee" was named in New York when the Republican Club elected a list of prominent men to make suitable arrangements for a club celebration on the return of Theodore Roosevelt. Many on the committee have already been named.

CANNONISM GOES DOWN — BEFORE INSURGENTS

VICTORY CROWNS EFFORTS AFTER FIVE YEARS OF STRUGGLE

THE DEFEATED EXPONENT OF CANNONISM.

After five years of constant effort the Insurgent-Democratic coalition succeeded in liberalizing the rules of the House of Representatives and Cannonism was defeated. The fight came to an end on Saturday after three days of acute effort. Since then and even during the hour of victory a sharp distinction was drawn between Cannon and Cannonism and the battle was against a system begun under Samuel J. Randall. The results of the fight are partially shown in the following paragraphs:

Cannonism is overthrown.

The Speaker is removed from the Committee on Rules by forty majority. The Committee on Rules is enlarged to ten members.

The House retains Cannon as speaker by a vote of 191 to 155.

New Committee on Rules to be nominated in party caucuses.

Insurgents and regulars will unite to carry out the Taft legislative programme.

All agreed that the fight was on Cannonism, not on Cannon.

The La Floette cohorts and five other insurgents voted to depose Cannon.

The Rules Committee alone will be changed.

The Republican party is enabled now to look forward to a more harmonious condition and the Taft programme will receive the attention of the members so long devoted to the fight on Cannonism.

The old man, that is Joseph Cannon, proved himself one of the strongest characters in the political history of the nation.

After three days of hard work, and three nights too, he came back at his enemies alert, erect and ready for fight even if defeated. Speaking from a manuscript he addressed the House in words that will likely become historic. He said:

"Gentlemen of the House of Representatives: Actions, not words, determine the conduct and the sincerity of men in the affairs of life. This is a government by the people, acting through the representatives of a majority of the people. Results cannot be had except by a majority, and in the House of Representatives a majority, being responsible, should have full power and should exercise that power; otherwise the majority is inefficient and does not perform its function.

"The office of minority is to put the majority on its good behavior, advocating in good faith the policies which it professes, ever ready to take advantage of the mistakes of the majority party and appeal to the country for its vindication.

"From time to time heretofore the majority has become the minority, as in the present case, and from time to time hereafter the majority will become the minority. The country believes that the Republican party has a majority of forty-four in the House of Representatives at this time, yet such is not the case.

"The present Speaker of the House has, to the best of his ability and judgment, co-operated with the Republican party, and so far in the history of this Congress the Republican party in the House has been enabled by a very small majority, when the test came, to legislate in conformity with the policies and the platform of the Republican party. Such action, of course, begot criticism—which the Speaker does not deprecate—on the part of the minority party.

"The Speaker cannot be unmindful of the fact, as evinced by three previous elections to the Speakership, that in the past he has enjoyed the confidence of the Republican party of the country and of the Republican members of the House, but the assault upon the Speaker of the House by the minority, supplemented by the efforts of the so-called insurgents, shows that the Democratic minority, aided by a number of so-called insurgents, constituting 15 per cent. of the majority in the House, is now in the majority and that the Speaker of the House is not in harmony with the actual majority of the House, as evidenced by the vote just taken.

"There are two courses open for the Speaker to pursue. One is to resign and permit the new combination of Democrats and insurgents to choose a Speaker in harmony with its acts and purposes. The other is for that combination to declare a vacancy in the office of Speaker and proceed to the election of a new Speaker.

"After consideration, at this state of the session of the House, with much of important legislation pending involving the pledges of the Republican platform and their crystallization into law, believing that his resignation might consume weeks of time in the reorganization of the House, the Speaker, being in harmony with Republican policies and desirous of carrying them out, declines by his own motion to precipitate a contest upon the House in the election of a new Speaker, a contest that might greatly endanger the final passage of all legislation necessary to redeem Republican pledges and fulfill Republican promises.

"This is one reason why the Speaker does not resign at once, and another reason is this: In the judgment of the present Speaker a resignation, in and of itself, is a confession of weakness or mistake, or an apology for past actions.

"The speaker is not conscious of having done any political wrong. The same rules are in force in this House that have been in force for two decades. (Continued on page 8.)

GARFIELD TO CUT TAFT

He Will Not Run on President's Platform

TALKS STRONG FOR ROOSEVELT

Will Make Better Speech If He Can Find a Place to Deliver It.—Ohio's Political Whirlpool.

James R. Garfield, who has been mentioned as the next Republican candidate for Governor of Ohio, will not seek the honor, but will come out in a speech in Ohio, within the next few days, violently attacking the Taft Administration and declaring that he cannot run on a platform which "will embody the Roosevelt policies."

Such action on the part of Garfield will be another element of chaos in the Republican situation in the President's State. This speech will be made before the Tippecanoe Club in Cleveland some night next week, if the Club will stand for such utterances before it. If it refuses to hear the speech, the former Secretary of the Interior will deliver it elsewhere.

Mr. Garfield's determination is one of the most sensational developments in the Buckeye State's badly muddled political history of recent months. Mr. Taft less than two months ago told some of the Ohio politicians that he would do nothing to defeat Garfield's ambition for the Governorship, though he had been told that Garfield was not particularly friendly toward the Administration.

PHILADELPHIA STRIKERS WIN OUT IN LONG FIGHT

Senator Boies Penrose Lays Down The Law To Magnates And Makes Them Come to Time at Once.

The Philadelphia street car strike was broken on Sunday night by United States Senator Boies Penrose. He forced the directors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company to accept the terms outlined last Friday. Under unveiled threats Penrose forced these men to give nearly all that was asked by the strikers. These are the terms demanded and granted:

Company will take back all men on strike and restore them to old runs and priority on wage and promotion lists.

Company must pay $2 a day to all men kept waiting.

Board of arbitration to decide fate of 173 men dismissed for cause.

Company must deal with employees through grievance committee which gives unions representation.

Strikers to get increase of 1 cent per hour.

NATIONAL GUARDS TO EN-CAMP AT GETTYSBURG IN JULY

War Department Names Rendezvous for the Militiamen of Maryland and Four Other States.

The next encampment at which the Maryland National Guard will serve will be at Gettysburg, Pa., according to an order issued from the War Department at Washington Wednesday.

Besides the Maryland National Guard, the National Guards of the District of Columbia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey will also participate. The encampment will begin about July 15 next.

Capt. B. H. Wells, of the Quartermaster's Department of the United States Army, has been inspecting the proposed sites, and it is understood has recommended Gettysburg as the place for the next encampment.

Railroad Strike Settled.

All questions in dispute between the 27,000 firemen on Western railroads and the railroad managers will be amicably settled, according to an arrangement reached Monday through the aid of United States Commissioner of Labor C. P. Neill.

EXCITEMENT IN WASHINGTON

AFFAIRS AT CAPITOL

Fighting in House, Senate and Supreme Court

SEN. CUMMINS ATTACKS ALDRICH

Formidable Legal Talent of Government and Standard Oil Trust in Appeal Case Argue on Dissolution of Corporation.

(Special Washington Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—With the Insurgents and Democrats practically in control of the House of Representatives and thoroughly determined to wrest from Speaker Cannon his power at the earliest possible date; with the fighting forced in the Senate against both Senator Aldrich and the Administration by Senator Cummins, of Iowa, and his fellow-Insurgents in that body, and with the greatest legal battle in a generation in the Supreme Court of the United States over the case which will determine whether the Standard Oil Company shall be dissolved under the Sherman anti-trust law, the past week in Washington has been replete with excitement.

Coincident with the fight made against the Speaker and the Regular organization in the House, the Insurgents in the Senate have thrown down the gauntlet to Aldrich. In a speech in that body Senator Cummins attacked the Administration's bill to amend the Interstate Commerce act of 1896 on the ground that it was in reality an attempt to repeal the railway rate law, enacted after the now historic fight made against that law by the railroads. Senator Aldrich replied that the bill was submitted by the Attorney-General and the President, implying that if any blame was attached to the bill it should be laid at the door of those who formulated it. Senator Aldrich sought by veiled statements to read Cummins out of the party. Senator Bailey pointed out to the Senate that Aldrich was really trying to bring out that Cummins was opposed to the Administration. The latter made the very significant admission that this was true.

Behind Cummins in his fight against the commerce bill in its present form are all the Insurgents, and on the facts presented they will make a stand and attempt to override the Senate Regulars and materially amend the bill, with the aid of the Democrats. If they succeed they will be able to show the country that Senator Aldrich has no more power to deliver the Senate than has Speaker Cannon any longer the power to promise certain legislation enacted in a certain way in the House. Cummins let it be known in no uncertain terms that he was opposed to Aldrich and Aldrichism on all public questions and that he was upholding the promises made in the last platform adopted by the Republican national convention. He declared that the commerce bill, which creates a court of commerce, nullifies the present effectiveness of the Interstate Commerce Commission by enabling the railroads appealing from the orders of the Commission to bring suit in the courts against the United States and compelling the Commission to remain silent in such suits, which must be tried for the government by the Attorney-General and his assistants. The Senator argued that the Attorney-General would not employ assistants who had tried the case previously before the Commission and that therefore those suffering from the wrongs done them by the railroads would be at a disadvantage in sustaining the relief. The Speaker has construed the rules as Pinchot Goes to Meet Roosevelt.

Mr. Gifford Pinchot has sailed for Europe to meet Col. Roosevelt. The widely current rumor is that Mr. Pinchot goes to meet Mr. Roosevelt in compliance with a summons received by cable last Friday. Nobody in a position to know would either confirm or deny this part of the story, but there is no disposition to deny that Mr. Pinchot's principal errand is to meet Mr. Roosevelt. It is to be taken for granted, then, that the ex-President will receive from the deposed Chief Forester, with whom he has been for years on peculiarly intimate terms, his first direct information concerning the Balingier-Pinchot controversy.

It is now a misdemeanor for any woman to wear a long hatpin in public places in Chicago. Any woman caught wearing one is liable to arrest and a fine of $50.

How the Auto Did It

By IRVING CRANE

Copyright, 1906, by P. C. Eastment

Mazie Jefferson and her mother had come into the city from their country home to do some shopping, and because the cabman overcharged them and because Mazie turned indignant and said she would go to a police station before she would submit to be swindled a crowd began to gather.

Harry Finchly was in the crowd. He promptly espoused the cause of the woman and was struck by cabby's whip. In return he pulled cabby off the box and flung him about in the dust until the man looked like a bundle of lost rags. Then, no policeman having appeared to interfere with the natural course of events, the women were escorted to a hotel.

Cards were exchanged and thanks returned, and "all's well that ends well" would have been the finish had not young Mr. Finchly decided that Miss Mazie was an extremely fine looking girl. It had been at least a year since he had met her equal. Within two hours he was longing for another look into her brown eyes and recalling with satisfaction what a wealth of hair she had, how white and even were her teeth and what a cute dimple ornamented her chin. At the end of twenty-four hours romance and love were at work.

Of course Harry had been invited to call if he ever found himself in Westchester county. Miss Mazie, who did most of the talking to him as well as to the cabman, couldn't do less than issue this invitation, but she hadn't the least idea that her rescuer would ever take the trouble to travel their way. A surprise was in store for her. He made a call within a week, and he took pains to thoroughly identify himself.

His trip into the country was made in his automobile, and it soon became a regular thing for him to be seen skimming over the roads once a week. Mr. Jefferson liked him. Mrs. Jefferson thought he was a very proper man indeed, and Mazie—well, she wasn't telling her thoughts, but if they hadn't favored the young man in a general way he would have found her confined to her room with a convenient headache.

An acquaintance begun in April had progressed to September without a thing to mar it. It had ripened into friendship at least, and there were signs that it was nearing the critical point. Then one day Harry Finchly did an unwise thing. In his guileless and innocent way he mentioned that he had given a little dinner to a little actress the night before. In an instant the brown eyes that had been full of laughter began to harden.

He saw that he had made a mistake, and he began to hedge—that is, he explained that the mother of the little actress was at the dinner. The point of Miss Mazie's nose seemed to turn up. Mr. Finchly further explained that two aunts and two uncles of the actress were also at dinner. Half a minute later he was protesting that he would never have given the dinner but for the fact that the little actress seemed to be hungry and he felt sorry for her. It had not been much of a dinner anyhow. He had sat at one end of the dining room and the actress at the other, and they had chewed olives and drunk poor claret and confined their conversation to the weather.

In fact, Mr. Finchly did all possible in the next few minutes to repair his blunder. He even went the length of saying that the little actress had a cast in one eye and was probably twenty years older than she claimed to be, but when he had finished and could protest no more Miss Mazie asked to be excused for a moment, and he felt a chill around his heart. The mother came into the parlor to entertain him, and, although both made a great effort, conversation dragged.

When Miss Mazie walked out of the parlor she simply wanted to be alone for ten minutes to recover her self possession. She was furious at the little actress, at Mr. Finchly and at herself, but she didn't want the second person mentioned to even suspect such a state of affairs. She would smooth the lines out of her face, coax back a smile and return to him and say that she always had admired little actresses!

Her intentions were good and politic and diplomatic, but her temper got the best of her. Under the big walnut tree at the gate stood Mr. Finchly's auto. He always acted as his own chauffeur. Twenty times over he had taken the Jeffersons out for a spin, and Miss Mazie had entertained an idea for some time that she knew all about the running of the machine.

As she walked about to calm herself she caught sight of the auto, and there was mischief in her eyes as she ran toward it and climbed in. She actually did know enough to start the thing and get headed down the broad turnpike. Perhaps she knew enough to stop and turn, but the sensation of being alone gave her a helpless feeling. She put on speed instead of dimming it, and in the course of five minutes she was whizzing down that old colonial cow trail in a way that made the telephone poles sit up and wonder.

The first living thing met was a trusting and confiding calf that had escaped from a field and was wandering at large to broaden its mind. When it saw a cloud of dust coming down the pike, it trusted that a windfall of rich green grass was to be had for the picking up. It advanced to the middle of the road with eyes bulging out and ten seconds later woke up in a far distant spot and in a muzzled condition. Miss Mazie had the steering wheel in hand. In fact, she was frozen to it. She could hold the old machine reasonably straight in the middle of the road, but she was helpless beyond that.

The next incident was a load of hay with two farmers on top. They were men who had never harmed a human being, and they had no idea that any human being wanted to harm them. Rude was their awakening. They held the middle of the road until they saw that the auto meant to run into them head-on. Then they swerved and began to gesticulate and yell to the white faced girl. They said "Darn it" and "Dum it" and "By gosh" and succeeded in saving their lives. One hind wheel of the wagon was chopped off by the auto, however, and as the machine careened onward it also carried with it a fair sized haystack.

"Oh, Harry!" wailed the girl as she turned a corner and felt the machine running on two wheels, but Harry was not there. He had finally bade Mrs. Jefferson adieu and found his car gone. He was after it now with a horse and buggy. He was making six miles an hour, while the flier was flying along at nearly thirty.

A quarter of a mile beyond the turn a farmer was guiding a drove of hogs. There were twelve in the drove, and he was changing them from one lot to another. He knew that the Spanish war had ended and that the country was at peace, and he was humming a hymn, and the hogs were grunting grunts of satisfaction when that auto came howling down upon them. It seemed to be standing on its hind legs and pawing the air. It was hissing and gurgling and roaring and crying for blood.

"Gosh all hemlock!" shouted the farmer as he made for the fence and fell over into the field.

The hogs had no time for words or for athletics. It seemed to the weeping and terrified girl that the full dozen were picked up and flung sky high. Two of them came down in the back seat and installed themselves in comfortable positions for the remainder of the ride, while the others shot right and left, their remains to be gathered up by the owner later on.

The hog episode was scarcely two minutes old when a young man in a buggy appeared a mile ahead. He was a young man with red cheeks and a marble brow, who was driving to the city to invest in green goods. He held up his hand as a sign that his horse did not like autos. No good. Then he rose up in his buggy and waved his arm. He was still waving when the cloud of dust passed over him and left him a wreck on the sands of time. Some day he may tell his grandchildren that he was flung 200 feet high and 400 feet sideways, and he will not be exaggerating much either.

A constable and an old wagon finally stopped the runaway. The officer saw it coming and shoved the ancient vehicle across the road. When the collision came the auto took a skate into the bushes and brought up against a tree and rested there. Before Miss Mazie could half explain matters she found herself before a country justice of the peace, and he was solemnly saying:

"This is certainly a case for the higher court. It is not only running away with an auto and letting it run away with you, but you have been stealing hogs."

Miss Mazie wept. She looked so pretty when she wept that the heart of the constable was touched. He took the justice outdoors and was trying to touch his heart and have the hog stealing charge left out when Harry Finchly drove up on the gallop. He had traced the auto by a trail of dead hogs and frightened farmers, and he had arrived just in time.

"Oh, Harry!" was all that the girl could say as she threw herself into his arms and sobbed on his shoulder.

That was quite enough. He patted her golden head and gave the justice to understand that his honor was descended from the Spartans and always died in the last ditch, and the fine was reduced to $10 and paid. Then came the brushing away of tears and the return home, followed by family rejoicing that the lamb had returned alive. Then—then—well, don't be stupid. Those things always turn out the same way, and it is the best way.

An Ancient Telephone.

In 1783 M. Linquet de la Bastille issued a prospectus, published in the "Correspondence Secrete," London, 1788 (volume 14, page 302), of "a singular machine or experience of the propagation of sound and the voice through tubes prolonged to a great distance." If it succeeded, he announced, people would be able to maintain with their sweethearts and friends at a distance of some hundreds of leagues a conversation which would "become somewhat public on the way, but by suppressing the names no one would be in the secret of the interlocutors." But it is not recorded that the scheme was put into practice. In a paper published in L'illustration for 1854 by M. Charles Boursein he says: "Let us imagine that a person speaks near to a mobile plate sufficiently flexible not to lose any of the vibrations produced by his voice and that this plate interrupts and establishes accordingly communication with a battery. Then we might have at a distance another plate which would give at the same time the same vibrations. An electric battery, two vibrating plates and a wire would be sufficient." In apportioning the honors of telephonic discovery M. Boursein at least would seem entitled to a share.

THE HOGS OF POULTRYDOM.

There are the Chester White, Berkshire, Duroc-Jersey, Poland-China, ratorback and the "end seat hogs," but we never dreamed those money king, duck blarneying, waddle fanciers would call their Pekin, Aylesbury, Rouen, Call, East India, Crested, Muscovy, India Runner and Blue Swedish ducks "the hogs of poultrydom."

A drop in admiration followed a rise in feed prices, and a fall in duck profits caused a rise in indignation. Nearly a million ducks a year in New York and Pennsylvania!

When those myriad flappers swing into the feed trough with their scowp shovels there is something doing, and, though a duckling grows to six pounds in ten weeks, at the present price of wheat, corn and meat scrap he looks smaller than a hog flea.

As the Chester Whites are the most popular of hogdom, so the Pekins are the Chester Whites of duckdom. This species was brought from China in 1874 and has been much improved, especially in appetite. Think of over 800,000 green or young Pekins raised in New York and Pennsylvania in 1907 and sold for 16 to 40 cents a pound!

Forty dollars a hundred for Pekin pork! The biped hog has licked the quadruped pig. Do you raise ducks? Congratulations!

For fine Pekins breed to this description:

Creamy white; long well formed head; leaden blue eyes; medium sized orange scoop shovel; longer neck in drake and stiff curled tall feathers; back long, broad, with concave sweep to upturned tail; round, full, prominent breast; short wings; body long, deep keel; thighs short; short and reddish orange shanks; toes short and connected by web; drakes eight pounds, ducks seven pounds, young stock one pound less. But these are not the only biped swine.

FEATHERS AND EGG SHELLS.

The slump in special pigeon trade is caused by the squab trust. Sorry to see the boys done and the enthusiasm dying down. Where are those trust busters?

Since the turkey is dropping back the goose is coming to the front. Many families had goose this year for Christmas who voted the new dish the best ever. May the tribe increase!

A pen of White Rocks was shipped to Japan from Bloomsburg, Pa., in January. The express was $50. The Rocks are no fighters. Games are the war birds. But perhaps they will banquet Bob Evans.

When you receive a big order, don't get giddy. Wait till the stock is in the hands of your customer and he sends you a blarney stone letter with the "rocks" before you go and make a marble statue of yourself in the newspaper.

Some fellows are not steady enough to run a decoy duck ranch. They change breeds so often that the monthly journal readers can't keep up to their ads. They are like changeable silk, only green is the most prominent color. Presto, change!

In feeding if your hens do not run for breakfast they are overfed or sick. If they show no signs of distress, look at the dropping board. If excrement has yellow tip, it is indigestion. Put a pint of venetian red to two quarts of water for this trouble.

Do you buy a rooster simply for his pretty comb and tail? You may cut off a good rooster's comb and tail and still have a good live rooster left. But if you cut off a poor rooster's comb and tail you will be the only rooster left—unless you are a poultry woman.

The frosty wall poultry house has been very numerous this winter. Causes—moisture from fowl breath, damp litter, accumulated droppings, ground floors, undried cement, absence of ventilators and dead air space. All can be remedied. For fowl breath use the ventilator and cloves.

The annual garden digging is often accompanied by the annual chicken house cleanup. You can imagine the ugly dreams of a flock that must sleep over a rotting mass of hen manure all summer and a thawing or frozen cess-pool all winter. The picture is sickening enough without making us feel crawly by mentioning the myriad lice.

Nothing but conversion can make the soul of man into a vast cathedral, and no man who understands the human heart will marvel that we must be born again.—Rev. A. H. C. Morse, Baptist, Brooklyn.

Cleaning Up.

A cleaning up should be a cleaning up and not a moving around. It will not mean anything, as a whole, to shovel up a load of filth from one place and simply move it to another.—Rev. Charles E. Guthrie, Methodist Episcopal, Washington.

Things That Make Life Fragrant.

The gentle traits, the modest qualities, the quiet tastes, the unobtrusive deeds, the unselfish attitude, the little attentions—it is just these small things which render our life fragrant, giving genuineness and character to our religion.—Rev. Abram S. Isaacs, Hebrew, Paterson, N. J.

What Christianity Does.

Christianity puts a man in the way of realizing the right kind of ambitions instead of the wrong kind. It warns us against seizing the shadow and letting go the substance. It gives us a scale of values which helps us against mistakes of judgment.—Dr. A. T. Hadley, Presbyterian, New Haven.

God's Purpose.

The purpose of God through this revelation for us is not knowledge alone. Men devote their lives to science and philosophy. His purpose is not physical power. It is not wealth and luxury. God comes through his word to give us eternal life and pardon from the power of sin.—Rev. Clayton E. Delamater, Methodist Episcopal, Providence, R. I.

Christianity and Labor.

It is my belief that the solvent for all our social ills is found in the words of Jesus and in the spirit he brought to this world. Christianity will help more than any other agency to solve the problem of capital and labor. It is my firm belief that in time the laborer will own the tools with which he labors and will hire from the capitalist what money he needs. The workingman, instead of working for the capitalist, will have the capitalist's money working for him.—Rev. Lyman Abbott, Congregationalist, New York.

Rendering Tribute to Christ.

There are three ways of rendering tribute to Christ—with the mind, the heart and the will. I do not appeal to your minds. No man of sense today denies the Christ. That day is past. I do not appeal to your hearts and work on your sympathies. It's easy enough to make women cry and get into a state of ecstasy so often mistaken for real surrender to Christ. I appeal to your will, for it's with the will alone that you must answer that great question, "What think ye of Christ?"—Rev. John Balcom Shaw, Presbyterian, Chicago.

Mankind's Need of the Church.

Man needs the church as a resting place for both body and soul. Many a man today would be a thousand times better off had he served more faithfully his God in the church when he was young, with a world of opportunities before him. It is not easy to live as we earnestly desire, even in the church, with all its hallowed influences thrown about us, but it is far more difficult to resist temptations independent of the church. It may be argued that some go to church in the morning and into the world the remainder of the day, but, even so, they are far better for the experience of having been in the presence of God and are kept the better from doing the things for which they would be sorry the next day.—Rev. Dr. L. M. Zimmerman, Lutheran, Baltimore.

The Clean Heart.

What is the clean heart? It is the heart which has a spontaneous delight in the triumph of truth wherever it takes place. The clean mind, the clean heart, belongs to the man who persuades himself that he shall do his share and is never envious because another at the end of the day's work has garnered more. He is interested not so much in the reapers as in the harvest, and whenever truth triumphs, whenever beauty is brought out of ugliness, wherever holiness is disclosed out of wickedness, his heart rejoices. The clean mind is the mind that has spontaneous delight in the true, the good, the beautiful, wherever found. The clean mind is the mind which continually puts the emphasis on the best things of its own life, that learns by experience what are its best impulses and ever more and more puts the emphasis on the very best side of its nature. That is the clean man, the man who looks for and believes the best in other people. He has no secret joy when some high ideal is smashed. He has no morbid delight in recording moral accidents and prejudices. His heart has kept its native appetite, its fondness for clean, wholesome food. It is touched with that love which findeth the things that are worth finding.—Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, Unitarian, Washington.

Promises to the Dying.

A clergyman, discussing unhappy love affairs, said:

"Many a love tragedy is caused by a husband's promise to a dying wife that he will not marry again. He thinks when he makes this promise that it will be easy to keep. Whether it is easy or hard to keep, it is a promise rarely if ever broken. Time and time again widowers have sought me out for advice on this subject. They are in love, but they promised their dead wives not to marry again. Shall they break or keep this promise? I can only advise them to do as their conscience dictates. At the same time I think it is selfish of dying wives to extract such promises from their broken hearted husbands. Such promises, by the way, are rarely extracted by dying husbands from broken hearted wives. But, then, when the dead husband's will is read it is usually found that if the widow marries again the money is all taken from her. So it comes to the same thing in the end, doesn't it?"—New York Press.

A Fearful Duel.

The most terrible duel fought at any time in Paris was the one between Colonel D., an old Bonapartist officer, and M. de G. of the Gardes du Corps, a mere youth, but of herculean strength. The two men, lashed together so as to leave their right arms free, were armed with short knives, placed in a hackney coach and driven at a tearing gallop around the Place de la Concorde. They were taken out of the coach dead. The colonel had eighteen stabs, the youth only four, but one of these had pierced his heart.

Mastered the Q.

Hundreds of people have cured themselves of impediments in speech. One of last year's mayors as a young man used to find it almost impossible to pronounce words beginning with a "q." Every day for months he used to walk across St. James' park practicing this sentence aloud, "A quantity of quicksilver quietly quartered in a quagmire," until he conquered the impediment. Today he is one of the most fluent speakers in England.—London Tit-Bits.

Frederick Road Gets Franchise.

After a long deliberation, the Board of Aldermen, at a special session Friday night, passed an ordinance granting to the Frederick Railroad Company, recently formed by the merging of the Frederick and Middletown, and Braddock and Jefferson trolley systems and the Washington, Frederick and Thurmont steam road, a franchise to use Fifth street for either a steam or electric road. The granting of the franchise was opposed by Prof. Joseph H. Apple, president of the Woman's College, and local directors of the college on the ground that the directors are planning to remove the college from Frederick to a site in the northwest suburbs of the city, through which the road, in the event the franchise was given, will pass.

Planting Millions of Trees.

The Pennsylvania Railroad planted over a million trees last year, and since beginning its work in 1892 it has planted nearly 3,500,000 trees. Its little forests, formerly confined to spots between Philadelphia and Altoona, are now to be found also in New Jersey and Maryland. The railroad company maintains a forestry nursery at Morrisville, Pa., where the plants are grown, and where also is raised the ornamental shrubbery now being used extensively for planting around the stations.

Invitations have been sent to President Taft and former President Roosevelt by the Pioneers Monument Committee to visit Denver and participate to the dedication exercises, which will probably be held next fall.

NORTHERN CENTRAL IN LINE

Improvements to Terminal at Frederick Promised by Officials.
 After spending a day inspecting the station and terminal facilities in Frederick a committee sent over the road by General Superintendent Carson, of the Northern Central Railway, to inspect the company's depots and terminal facilities, pronounced the Frederick passenger station and the freight-handling accommodations the worst they had seen.
 They came in a special car and were met by President James H. Gambrill and other representatives of the Business Men's Association, who took them on a tour of inspection in automobiles about the city. They were favorably impressed with the business development and progress of the city and said that Frederick was growing and had excellent prospects of greater prosperity in the future. They said they would report that in order to get a share of the increased business which will come with Frederick's growth the Northern Central should lose no time in increasing its facilities here. Before leaving members of the party said conditions would be improved.

SURFACE INQUIRY AT WORK

Charges Against Pennsylvania Zoologist Prove Trivial.
 Adams county fruit growers will be interested to know that State Economic Zoologist, Harvey A. Surface was under fire for eight hours Tuesday in the opening session held by Secretary of Agriculture N. B. Critchfield on the charges brought against the State's scientist by his former assistant, A. F. Statterthwait, of Chester county, says the Gettysburg Times.
 Dr. Surface's official actions, his management of his division and his personal conduct in the office, all afforded basis for attacks, but under the sharp examination of his counsel many of the charges were shown to be trivial or else just Satterthwait's conceptions of ordinary incidents.
 It was brought out very plainly in the testimony of the former that he and his chief had differed in many matters prior to the disappearance of the assistant's name from the State pay roll last January.
 The zoologist says he will reply to all charges and show how little things have been magnified, and declares he will reveal the animus behind the charges.

GOVERNOR GLENN EXPECTS NEW YORK TO GO DRY

Executive of North Carolina Contrasts Empire State With Maine In Address at Metropolis.
 "The difference between the state of Maine and the city of New York," said former Gov. Robert B. Glenn of North Carolina in a prohibition address at Carnegie hall in New York, "is that in Maine you need a guide to get a drink and in New York you need a guardian to keep you from getting a drink, whether you want it or not."
 Gov. Glenn believes that in five years all New York state will be dry, except New York City and that the city itself will go dry within the next 10 years. "The antislavery league of New York state does not ask state-wide prohibition," he said; "that would be of no use to ask, but the league asks the best that can be expected now—that two-thirds of the population living in cities be given the right to vote on saloon or no saloon."

In Honor of Grover Cleveland.

Personal friends and political admirers of the late Grover Cleveland from many States united Saturday night in New York to honor his memory at the anniversary dinner of the National Democratic Club. Ten secretaries of the Cleveland Cabinets and their assistants were guests and five were speakers. David R. Francis, Secretary of the Interior during Cleveland's second term, said Mr. Cleveland was truly the father of national conservation, and the last official act of his career had been in behalf of conversation.

No Pension For Roosevelt.

The Senate committee on pensions agreed to report favorably bills to grant pensions of $5,000 a year to Frances F. Cleveland, widow of ex-President Grover Cleveland, and Mary Lord Harrison, widow of ex-President Benjamin Harrison. At the same time the committee declined to report a bill which would place ex-President Roosevelt on the retired list as commander-in-chief of the army and navy, and give him $10,000 a year the remainder of his life.

Dalzell For Rules Committee.

John Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, for chairman of the Rules Committee—that is the suggestion being pressed in the House now. The new chairman of the Rules Committee, all parties admit will be the real leader of the House. Dalzell is the mainstay of Cannon on the old Rules Committee, he is the most "dyed-in-the-wool" Regular in Congress. He is so close to Cannon that if he is selected it will be as if the new chairman were Cannon himself.

Communications intended for publication in this paper, letters of a business nature in relation to the Chronicle, and all orders for Job Printing to be done at this office should be addressed to THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE.

IT WAS BOUND TO COME.

A week ago "Uncle Joe" Cannon was a bigger man politically than the President. At the beginning of this session of Congress, when the first rumbling of distant battle was heard, he was thought by the "wise ones" to be invincible.

Now is the time—before they are rushed and their books are full—to engage the carpenter to make those repairs and improvements you have been thinking about.

It is as hard for some individuals to overcome prejudice as it is for others either to give up a bad habit or to acquire a good one.

stood erect in an effort to stop them and was swept off his feet. It was bound to come—this downfall of Cannon; a man who gauged his power as greater than that of the people.

THE TIME TO GET BUSY.

These first Springlike days, so full of brightness, naturally start one—they ought to if they do not—to thinking about clearing up and making improvements around the home.

What makes a town look more inviting as the leaves put out and delicate Spring colors appear both in nature and in costume, than a background of freshly painted dwellings with everything trim and clean about them?

Winter has dulled the tint of many a home, and roofs and fences and shutters have suffered from wind and storm.

Now is the time—before they are rushed and their books are full—to engage the carpenter to make those repairs and improvements you have been thinking about.

WOULDN'T this be a gloomy old world if only the serious side of all the people in it were visible? Picture the average "social function" under such circumstances!

It is as hard for some individuals to overcome prejudice as it is for others either to give up a bad habit or to acquire a good one.

GIVE a politician a little cash and hold out to him the assurance that more will be forthcoming and then notice the zeal with which he works for the "public good."

A NEW club has just been incorporated at the Rhode Island State House, to be known as the Lietuowiskas Politiskiskas Tantiszkas.

But what the people of Rhode Island will be particularly curious about is what brands of soda and snuff the secretary of this club will take before he attempts to call the roll.

MANY so-called Christians, whose piety is of the mechanical order, become so hipped on the subject of the narrow path that their minds and hearts assume the knife blade quality and cut and whittle everything broad and big and generous.

"THE dignity of labor"! After all perhaps it is the tramp's inherent dislike of dignity, and not his hate of work, that is at the bottom of his unwillingness to exert himself by using his hands.

HISTORY has proved that a very good place for the average "reformer" to begin work is in his own home, and in nine cases out of ten, on himself.

BALTIMORE was first settled in 1662.—Baltimore News.

And it hasn't yet gotten beyond a good many of its 1662 methods of doing things.

"A COMPANY has been formed to develop the waterfalls of Iceland," says an exchange. Does this mean that we are even to have an ice-water trust?

WHAT has become of the old-fashioned prodigy who studied Latin, with the book propped open in front of her dish pan?—Acheson Globe.

No doubt she's cracked and in the sink like the dishes.

WE are reasonably sure that a corporation has no soul, but we are absolutely certain that it has a most capacious money stomach.

THE EASTER WORD.

[Frank Walcott Hutt in Zion's Herald] Lo, where He fareth on the tangled path, And pauseth on the flower-deserted way.

For every garden-close, on Easter day One word the Master hath.

And, as he scanneth all the hearts of men, And is aware that Faith shall bloom ere long, He quickeneth all His people with that strong

Wise utterance, again. The fields bestir them, in their glad surprise; Their byways know the immanence of Spring,

As to each creature of his fashioning The Master saith, "Arise."

Answering It.

A Boston woman, said Mr. Bliss Carman at a dinner in New York, once asked Lowell to write in her autograph album, and the poet, complying, wrote the line, "What is so rare as a day in June?"

The Little Boy—"Boo-oo! I'm so c-c-c-old." The Kind Old Gentleman—"Well, why don't you go indoors?"

The Little Boy—"Cos muvver says she'll warm me if I does."—The Sketch.

A Call For Cough Drops.

"I tell you I must have some money!" roared the king of Maritania, who was in sore financial straits.

"Alas!" sighed the guardian of the treasury, who was formerly the court jester, "all our coffers are empty."—Tit-Bits.

Going the Whole Hog.

She—"They say that an apple a day will keep the doctor away." He—"Why stop there? An onion a day will keep everybody away."—Boston Transcript.

STATE MISCELLANY

Interesting Paragraphic News From Various Sections of Maryland.

The whole brigade of midshipmen at Annapolis, 700 in number have been denied all liberty, on account of disrespect to an officer.

Two Cubans were saved from drowning on Sunday afternoon at Annapolis by the heroism of B. E. Kirwin, a hospital apprentice at the Naval Hospital.

The largest fire in a number of years destroyed $50,000 worth of property in Salisbury last week.

The Hagerstown Fair Association awarded to George B. McC. Wolf the contract to erect a new poultry exhibition building on the fair grounds for $12,235.

The audience that greeted Richard Pearson Hobson at Salisbury on Sunday was so large that the address had to be given in the open air.

The explosion of escaping natural gas from mains under the Potomac caused a passing locomotive to leave track at Ridgely, near Cumberland on Monday.

Frederick Wright, agent of the Maryland and Virginia Railway at Tuckahoe, near Denton, was burned to death Tuesday night, when the depot at that place was totally destroyed by fire.

One of the most interesting buildings in Frederick from an historical viewpoint, is to be torn down to make room for the erection of a new dwelling.

Jesse O. Moore, a superintendent at the plant of the Maryland Portland Cement and Lime Company, at Security, near Hagerstown, was buried under several tons of cement while giving directions to the workmen and seriously injured.

Attorney-General Straus and George E. Price, of West Virginia, at Washington, asked for an extension of time from the Supreme Court before setting the decree and designating the commissioners who are to run the boundary line between Maryland and West Virginia.

The annual report of the Cumberland coal trade and of the upper Potomac region, as compiled from official sources in the auditor's office of the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad at Cumberland, has just been issued and shows that a total of 6,000,130 tons of coal were mined and shipped during 1909.

The stockholders of the Blue Mountain House Company held their annual meeting in Hagerstown Tuesday afternoon and elected A. A. McComas, president; Charles S. Lane, vice-president; Henry H. Keedy, Jr., secretary-treasurer; Frederick W. McComas and John H. Harden, both of Baltimore, directors.

George O. Stine, a horse dealer of Hagerstown, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Long Monday on the charge of embezzling $650 from J. K. Strole, of Newville. In default of $750 bail Justice Hoffman committed him to jail for a hearing.

In compliance with the law the members of the Senate Finance Committee and the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Delegates, President Gorman of the Senate and Speaker Peoples of the House, accompanied by Treasurer Vandiver and Comptroller Hering, counted the securities of the State which are deposited at the State Deposit and Trust Company Monday.

The securities were found correct, and General Vandiver and Dr. Hering were commended for the manner in which they are kept.

With the view of having the State accept it, the authorities of St. John's College Wednesday executed a deed conveying the site of the Soldiers' monument on the rear of the college campus Annapolis.

The foundation of the monument, which is to be in honor of the French soldiers who lost their lives while aiding the colonies during the American revolution, has already been laid.

The plot is 100 feet square, with a 10-foot wide roadway to King George street. Many of the French soldiers were buried in the rear of the college campus.

Dr. McPherson Scott, Republican nominee for mayor of Hagerstown, who is making his fight in the campaign largely one against the Washington County Water Company, charging it with not living up to its contract with the city, will be 60 years old April 12.

He is one of the most prominent physicians in Western Maryland, and it was only by the hardest kind of persuasion that the Republicans induced him to enter the Mayoralty race.

Some Democrats say he has aspirations to become the Republican nominee for Congress this fall, but Dr. Scott's friends deny the report. A Republican leader stated that on several occasions Dr. Scott had been approached with reference to running for Congress, but that he had always said "No."

Discussion of Affairs in General from Leading Journals of The Country.

After the Storm Broke. (Springfield Republican.)

The slow-gathering storm which has been heading up in the prolonged legislative session of the House at Washington, with such mutterings of death and destruction to the Cannon machine, broke yesterday with all possible violence.

It leaves the speaker still seated in the accustomed place but his thick canopy of despotic power has been riven and blasted as by a blinding stroke of lightning.

Whether Mr. Root succeeds or fails it will be a satisfaction to see Republican politics in this state set above the cracker-and-cheese level and outside the bargain-counter-and-remnant-sale category for a time, however brief.

The sound of a heavy heel grinding among the peanut shells will be one of the most grateful noises that have tickled the ears of the New York Republicans for some time.

That's The Question. (Los Angeles Express.)

President Taft reports that the new tariff law is "working well." Yes, but who is it working?

Mr. Root's Job. (New York Sun.)

Few people will envy the Hon. Elihu Root his new job. Few Republicans will wish him anything but success at it.

Whether Mr. Root succeeds or fails it will be a satisfaction to see Republican politics in this state set above the cracker-and-cheese level and outside the bargain-counter-and-remnant-sale category for a time, however brief.

Poor Dr. Cook. (Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

It appears that New York has not paid for the key of the city presented to Dr. Cook. Possibly the money had to be diverted to changing the lock of the city.

Brotherhood. (Universalist Leader.)

We are all talking brotherhood now; some day we shall be living it. We are all speculating as to just what it means, and trying to bring everyone else to our definition.

Perhaps Charles Wagner has come near to a working definition which we can all apply when he says: "To love others, to grow in gentleness and strength, to despise our fellows less, to have less fear of those great in a worldly sense, and less disdain for those of humble appearances, this is the task of brotherhood, kindness and faith."

Certainly Strenuous. (St. Louis Post Dispatch.)

If Governor Hadley had a good press agent and a brass band he would make a running mate for Teddy. Last Monday he inspected a drainage district, killed seven ducks, caught seven fish, made one address to school children at 6 P. M. and a speech at 8 P. M., attended a banquet of prominent citizens at 10 P. M., and rose next morning to take part in a wolf hunt.

Failure Of The Meat Strike. (Hartford Courant.)

Probably no one was surprised by the failure of the meat strike. The boycott was taken rather seriously in Cleveland, but even there, when it came to an end, meat was considerably higher than when the strike began.

The Sale of Legislation. (New York Evening Post.)

The Tribune rightly points out that the big development in the Allds inquiry yesterday shows beyond dispute the necessity of a complete investigation of the Legislature.

The revelation that Allds received $6000 or $7000 in bills from the printing ring as a "legal fee" when he was instrumental in getting a claim for $21,000 through the Legislature, demonstrates clearly the kind of business this man was in.

But the date of the transaction was not 1901 or 1902 or 1903. It was 1909—last year! This must silence the machine talk that the purchasing and selling of legislation are a thing of the past.

mark that he hasn't seen the proofs, and that, therefore, nothing is doing in the reward line. Why doesn't he display the same thoughtful mood toward providing $40,000 for a lot of rivers which won't be helped by it? Because he is a Congressman, presumably.

Failure Of The Meat Strike. (Hartford Courant.)

Probably no one was surprised by the failure of the meat strike. The boycott was taken rather seriously in Cleveland, but even there, when it came to an end, meat was considerably higher than when the strike began.

Several small markets were closed and their proprietors were the chief sufferers. The beef trust was not even inconvenienced. There is a way, no doubt to bring food combines to terms, but the boycotters haven't found the right way.

The Sale of Legislation. (New York Evening Post.)

The Tribune rightly points out that the big development in the Allds inquiry yesterday shows beyond dispute the necessity of a complete investigation of the Legislature.

The revelation that Allds received $6000 or $7000 in bills from the printing ring as a "legal fee" when he was instrumental in getting a claim for $21,000 through the Legislature, demonstrates clearly the kind of business this man was in.

But the date of the transaction was not 1901 or 1902 or 1903. It was 1909—last year! This must silence the machine talk that the purchasing and selling of legislation are a thing of the past.

And that it is useless to rattle dry bones. Allds testified that he had never received a retainer in this case, nor a payment on account, nor rendered a bill. As usual, his "fee" was received in cash—what an antipathy to checks he has!

While the attorney of record in the case, a former assembly man who had been on the rules committee with Allds at the time of the bribery Conger charges, received only $1000 as his fee, between $6000 and $7000 was paid to Allds, or one-third of the sum voted by the Legislature, $21,000.

Allds never appeared in court, never wrote a brief, or prepared a motion; merely "consulted" with the attorney-general. He gave, of course, no receipt for his fee, which was paid after the passage of the legislation. What was the nature of the service that Mr. Allds rendered that induced the Argus printing company to give him $7000 of a claim already cut from $34,705 to $21,000? There can be only one answer. Yet this was the man the Republican party chose as its leader of the Senate in 1910.

Review.

Golden Text—Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people. Matt. 4:23.

The following may be used as a new and complete lesson, or as a review of the twelve preceding lessons.

The date and title of each past lesson, where found, the Golden Text, and one question from each lesson follow.

Jan. 2—John the Forerunner of Jesus Matt. 3:1-12 Golden Text. The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight. Matt. 3:3.

Jan. 9.—The Baptism and Temptation of Jesus. Matt. 3:13-17; 4:1-11. Golden Text. In that he hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted. Heb. 2:18.

Verses 13, 14.—What light have we to guide us in our decisions, which is superior to reason?

Jan. 16.—The Beginning of the Galilean Ministry. Matt. 4:12-25. Golden Text. The people who sat in darkness saw great light. Matt. 4:16.

Jan. 23.—True Blessedness. Matt. 5:1-16. Golden Text. Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God. Matt. 5:8.

Verse 3.—What in the last analysis, is the essential qualification for being a subject of the kingdom of God on earth?

Jan. 30.—Some Laws of the Kingdom Matt. 5:17-26, 33-48. Golden Text. Be ye therefore perfect as your father which is in heaven is perfect. Matt. 5:48.

Verses 17-20.—How many persons can you recall from the scriptures or otherwise, who did the perfect will of God on earth?

Feb. 6.—Almsgiving and Prayer. Matt. 6:1-15. Golden Text. Take heed that ye do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them. Matt. 6:1 (R. V.)

Verses 5, 6.—Why does Jesus so strongly recommend private prayer, and what are its advantages?

Feb. 13.—Worldliness and Trust. Matt. 6:19-34. Golden Text. Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you. Matt. 6:33.

Verse 19.—What would Jesus have every man to consider as his chief "treasure"? See verse 33.

Feb. 20.—The Golden Rule—Temperance Lesson—Matt. 7:1-12. Golden Text. Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them, for this is the law and the prophets. Matt. 7:12.

Verses 1, 2.—When men condemn others on mere suspicion, what is generally the real ground of their condemnation?

Feb. 27.—False and True Discipleship. Matt. 7:13-29. Golden Text. Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. Matt. 7:21.

March 6.—Jesus the Healer. Matt. 8:2-17. Golden Text. Himself took our infirmities and bare our sicknesses. Matt. 8:17.

Verses 6, 7.—So far as the records show, Jesus while in the flesh, healed all the sick ones that were brought to him, is that sufficient to prove that he will do the same to-day?

March 13.—Two Mighty Works. Matt. 8:23-34. Golden Text. What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him! Matt. 8:27.

Verse 27.—Which would be of the greater benefit to mankind for God to run the universe, and the affairs of man, on fixed laws, or by miracles? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

On Thursday afternoon and evening, March 17, the Philomathean Society of Mount St. Mary's College, presented its annual dramatic production.

To Thomas Mulhearn, who appeared as Amy Lee, the college widow, the laurels of the evening must be accorded. Without a doubt he is the cleverest feminine impersonator who ever graced the Mountain footlights.

The cast in order of appearance: Bab, adopted child, Louis Miller; Mr. Brooks, father of Henry, John Fagan; Guy Marks, I. D., Linus Ryding; Henry Brooks, No. 7, Cletus Keating; Peter, valet to Lord Chillingworth, Edward O'Neil; Mrs. Brooks, mother of Henry, Peter Stewart; Helen Baldwin, Joseph McGee; Caleb Weston, Thomas Roche; Bill Carter, captain of crew, William Sheridan; Lord Chillingworth, English lord, John Tierney; Mollie Rtnskool, a Frenchman, James Walsh, Ned Andrews, college sport, Ed. J. Chaisty, Jr.; Amy Dixon, college widow, Thomas Mulhearn; Prof. Dixon, John Victory.

Synopsis: Act I. Parlor in Henry's home at Redville, on New Year's night. Act II. Curiosity room in Delta Sigma Fraternity House. A morning in June. Act III. Same as Act II. Afternoon. Act IV. Same as Act II. Evening. About nineteen months elapse between Acts I and II.

The orchestra under the direction of Prof. Braun, acquitted itself in its usual brilliant style. The incidental music by the Professor added greatly to the dramatic situations. To Mr. Gilbert Gannon, under whose direction rehearsals were conducted and the play staged great credit is due. He spared no trouble to insure the success of the play.

TO NULLIFY PUBLICITY FEATURE

United States Senate Moves to Make Corporation Tax Secret.

Practical repeal of the publicity feature of the corporation tax is placed in the hands of President Taft through an amendment inserted by the Senate Committee on Appropriations in the Legislative Appropriation bill just reported. It says that the returns shall be made public only upon order of the President, when he deems it for the public interests. An appropriation of $100,000 is made for the expenses of collection of the new tax.

Though he insisted upon having it placed in the law, complaints have been made to the President that the publicity requirement of the corporation tax works a hardship upon corporations in competition with firms organized as companies. Through the payment of the tax and the submission of returns, it is asserted, the business secrets of corporations could be placed in the hands of their rivals.

POEMS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The following poems have been selected by Miss Ella V. Kreig, primary supervisor, for use in the public schools of the county during the month of March:

Spring.

The alder by the river
Shakes out her powdery curls;
The willow buds in silver,
For little boys and girls.

The little birds fly-over
And oh, how sweet they sing!
To tell the happy children
That once again 'tis spring.

The gay green grass comes creeping
So soft beneath their feet;
The frogs begin to ripple
A music clear and sweet.

And buttercups are coming,
And scarlet columbine,
And in the sunny meadows
The dandelions shine.

And just as many daisies
As their soft hands can hold
The little ones may gather,
All fair in white and gold.

Here blooms the warm red clover,
There peeps the violet blue;
O happy little children!
God made them all for you.

—CELIA THAXTER.

The Sparrow's Song.

I'm only a little sparrow,
A bird of low degree;
My life is of little value,
But the dear Lord cares for me.

He gives me a coat of feathers;
It is very plain, I know,
Without a speck of crimson—
For it was not made for show.

But it keeps me warm in winter,
And it shields me from the rain;
Were it bordered with gold and purple,
Perhaps it would make me vain.

But now the springtime cometh,
I will build me a little nest,
With many a chirp of pleasure
In the spot I like the best.

I have no barn or storehouse,
I neither sow nor reap,
God gives me a sparrow's portion,
And never a seed to keep.

If my meat is sometimes scanty,
Clean picking makes it sweet;
I have always enough to feed me
And life is more than meat.

I know there are many sparrows,—
All over the world they are found—
But our Heavenly Father knoweth
When one of them falls to the ground.

CANNONISM GOES DOWN

he found them, and as they have been construed by previous speakers from Thomas B. Reed's incumbency down to the present time.

"Heretofore the Speaker has been a member of the Committee on Rules covering a period of sixty years, and the present Speaker neither has sought new power nor has he unjustly used that already conferred upon him.

"There has been much talk on the part of the minority and the insurgents of the 'czarism' of the Speaker, culminating in the action taken to-day. The real truth is that there is no coherent Republican majority in the House of Representatives. Therefore the real majority ought to have the courage of its convictions and logically meet the situation that confronts it.

"The Speaker now believes, and has always believed, that this is a government through parties, and that parties act only through majorities. The Speaker has always believed in and bowed to the will of the majority in convention, in caucus and in the legislative halls, and to-day profoundly believes that to act otherwise is to disorganize parties, is to prevent coherent action in any legislative body, is to make impossible the reflection of the wishes of the people in statutes and in laws.

"The Speaker has always held that under the Constitution it is a question of the highest privilege for an actual majority of the House at any time to choose a new Speaker, and again notifies the House that the Speaker will at this moment, or at any other time while he remains Speaker, entertain in conformity with the highest constitutional privilege a motion by any member to vacate the office of the Speakership and choose a new Speaker, and, under existing conditions, would welcome such action upon the part of the actual majority of the House, so that power and responsibility may rest with the Democratic and insurgent members who by the last vote evidently constitute a majority of this House. The chair is now ready to entertain such motion."

A motion to this effect was made by Mr. Burleson. Mr. Cannon surrendered the chair to Rep. Payne and retired to his private office. The vote was taken and the resolution was defeated 191 to 155.

COL. THEODORE ROOSEVELT DUE IN NEW YORK JUNE 17

Deeply Touched by Preparations for Reception.—Says it Must be Non-Partisan and Non-Sectional.

Theodore Roosevelt will sail for New York on the steamer Kaiserin Auguste Victoria June 10. This is according to his latest plan, and it will bring him into the port on Friday, June 17.

He made the following brief statement at Shellal, Egypt: "Naturally I am deeply touched and pleased to learn that my fellow-countrymen feel they would like to receive me on my return to New York. I shall be more than glad to see them, but my reception must be nonpartisan. It must be participated in by Republicans, Democrats, Populists and men of other or no political faith alike—in short, by all who care to take part in such a reception whatever their politics may be or whether they be easterner, westerner, northerner or southerner."

PINCHOT-BALLINGER CASE IS ALMOST CLOSED

Secretary Ballinger to Take Stand Next Week.—Guggenheim-Morgan Syndicate to be Probed.

Gifford Pinchot concluded his case against Secretary Ballinger Saturday when Frederick H. Newell, director of the reclamation service, testified about his service under the present and the former administrations of the Interior Department. Louis D. Brandeis, attorney for L. R. Glavis, announced that when the committee meets to-day he will examine representatives of the Guggenheim-Morgan syndicate who conducted negotiations with the Cunninghams, looking to the acquirement of coal lands in Alaska.

Mr. Brandeis said he had one or two other witnesses to examine also, but that he expected to complete his case to-morrow. Secretary Ballinger will then take the stand and will be followed by Commissioner Dennett and other officials of the Interior Department who have been criticised and attacked by Glavis and Pinchot.

PITTSBURGH GRAFTERS SCARED OVER KLEIN'S CONFESSION

Said to Have Implicated Sixty or More Former and Present Councilmen.—Former Officeholders Busy.

Councilman John F. Klein, of Pittsburgh, about to go to jail for grafting, made a confession of the whole councilmanic bribery plot which has been simmering since June 1908. This has caused much uneasiness among former officeholders and the scene around the city hall and Fort Pitt hotel, where detectives have suites of rooms, was very animated.

Klein in his confession is said to implicate 60 or more former and present councilmen, and for many hours detectives were busy serving notice on the men so named.

ONE OF THE RESULTS OF CANNON'S DOWNFALL

Publication of Campaign Expenses May Become a National Law.—Speaker and Leaders Oppose It.

Perry Belmont, president of the National Publicity Law association, declared at Washington, that the defeat of Speaker Cannon would favorably and vitally affect the passage of a measure requiring the publication of campaign contribution.

"The Insurgent Republicans generally and the Democrats to a man are in favor of it," he declared. "The Speaker and the present Republican leaders in partial control of the House, backed by a high tariff and associated interests, have stubbornly resisted the enactment of such a law."

Boston School of Matrimony.

A school of matrimony, in which the prime essentials of instruction in successful wedded happiness are now being taught, is the latest innovation among Boston's modern training institutions. In this school a group of girls, including some from many of the best families in the city, are being trained five days weekly in the arts which will equip them to become ideal wives, mothers, and homemakers.

forded them by the Commission. In the Supreme Court during the week appeared the most formidable legal talent in the government and outside the government in the case of the appeal from the United States Circuit Court to determine whether the Standard Oil Company shall be dissolved. It is admitted here that this is the most important case that has been tried since the income tax case and perhaps since the Dred Scott decision which upheld slavery. Frank B. Kellogg and Attorney-General Wickersham argued that the court should mete out to the Standard Oil Company punishment to fit the crimes enumerated by them in putting it out of business and preventing it from stifling competition by owning a majority of the stock in its subsidiary companies. The trust lawyers argued that the process of buying the plants of its competitors was merely good business and did not necessarily disobey the law. In reply to the severe arraignment of the trust by Mr. Kellogg was a pirate in the business world, Messrs. Milburn, Johnson and Watson, counsel for the Oil Company, who defended its methods. The record in the case is so voluminous that it is unlikely the court will render a decision before autumn.

Frederick Taylor Faulkner, of Kentucky, second secretary of the American Legation at Shanghai, China, was brought back to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., to serve five years for embezzlement.
