DEATH OF EMMITSBURG'S OLDEST MALE CITIZEN

LEWIS MARTIN MOTTER.

Mr. Lewis Martin Motter, Emmitsburg's oldest male citizen, died at his home on Wednesday afternoon, April 27, at the very advanced age of ninety-five years, two months and twenty-one days. On Dec. 15, 1907 Mr. Motter took to his bed where he remained until his death. He suffered very little during these two years his infirmity being due almost entirely to his age and the gradual giving away of his physical self. Up until the day of his death his mental faculties were practically unimpaired.

Mr. Motter was the son of Mr. Lewis Motter and was born February 6th, 1815, in the house in which he died. He succeeded to the business of Mr. Lewis Motter and from 1837 to 1885 conducted the tannery business purchased by his father from Mr. Christian Flautt in 1798. The deceased was successful in business and became a prominent citizen of the state, being elected to the Legislature in 1853.

On March 24, 1840 he married Miss Alice Rudisel, of Taneytown. Eight children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Motter four of whom survive him. Mrs. Motter died on February 14, 1899.

Shortly after he took up the tanning business he became identified with the Gettysburg National Bank as a director and remained such for about fifty-three years. In politics Mr. Motter was a Democrat. His first vote for a president was cast for W. H. Harrison, the Whig candidate who was elected in 1840. When he closed out the tanning business in 1885 he devoted his time to farming, managing his various properties and other business affairs. For years he was a director in the Emmitsburg Water Company. He was very successful in business and was one of Emmitsburg's wealthiest citizens. Up to the time of his death he was the oldest living alumnus of Mount St. Mary's College.

Mr. Motter was a life long member of the Reformed Church and up to within a few years ago was in regular attendance at religious service, and perhaps there was no man of his age in the whole denomination who was as regular a communicant. His interest in the church dates back to the days of his childhood. He served as a member of its governing bodies and evinced much interest in its affairs.

As the last representative of the older generation of the Motter family, in their day leading citizens of this part of the state, it may be timely to mention the fact that Mr. Motter was the younger brother of Mr. Joshua Motter, who up to the time of his death in 1875 was the leading merchant in this district, and of Mr. Samuel Motter, the founder of THE CHRONICLE, both gentlemen so closely identified with the interests of this community that to mention them is to call to mind almost every advance made in Emmitsburg and vicinity during their life.

Mr. Motter is survived by two sons, Rev. I. M. Motter, of Frederick, and Mr. L. E. Motter, of Kansas City, who for the last two years had been with his father at Emmitsburg; and by two daughters, Mrs. A. A. Hack and Mrs. G. B. Resser, both at home.

The funeral service will be held at the house on Saturday at 12 o'clock noon. The interment will be made in the Lutheran Cemetery.

Mr. Motter was such a familiar figure in Emmitsburg and so much associated with the entire district that it was only natural that any one who knew anything about the locality at all, even though he had not visited it, knew about Mr. Motter. The old gentleman was a very interesting conversationalist and was gifted with an unusually clear memory which made his talks most interesting, especially when he dwelt on reminiscences. He was fond of speaking of the early days of Emmitsburg and was always referred to when there was any doubt about things that happened in the long ago. For this and other things that endeared him to this community he will be greatly missed.

Foreigners for some fancied wrong killed a mine foreman at Avella, Pa. He was crowned with thorns pressed deeply into his brow and then crucified.

ROOSEVELT FOR SENATOR

A POLITICIAN'S PLAN

Thought to Be Reasonable and Good for Party

ADMINISTRATION TO BE HELPED

Best Place From Which to Refuse the Crown Until He Is Sure No Strings Are Attached.—Might Wait Even Until 1916.

What to do with our ex-President is the most annoying, burdensome and trying question of the day to many of our national politicians. This question bids fair to be satisfactorily solved, at least for the party leaders who are vainly grasping at any straw that may indicate success, if the plans of certain prominent New York politicians go through. This is the scheme: Theodore Roosevelt will be named as the Republican candidate for Senator at the Republican State Convention in September. Between the consummation of this bold scheme and its defeat stands Theodore, who up to date has not made public his political mind.

The man who is responsible for the senatorship plan remarks: "If he (Roosevelt) has any idea of running for president in 1912, or four years after that—and there isn't a soul that I know of who knows his plans—he will have to make some sacrifice to help the party out of the hole that it is in now. Of course, it is ridiculous to talk of running him for governor. He has too little to gain and too much to lose. If, however, the state convention should declare in favor of him for senator he would really not be an active candidate for office, and on the other hand he would in all probability save not only the Legislature, but the whole state ticket."

"By going into the Senate Roosevelt would please both wings of the party—the progressives, who are anxiously awaiting his return, believing that he will help them in their fight, and the stand-patters, who are praying that his friendship for Taft and his well-known spirit of organization will keep him from causing a further split in the party."

"Only the other day a Roosevelt man who is now a strong friend of Taft said that he was very sure that Roosevelt would not do anything to embarrass the President, and would be a worker for peace in the party rather than a troublemaker. That in itself was rather significant to me. The friends of Taft are more than worried lest Roosevelt prove a 'disturbing factor.' If then, he refuses to go into the Senate, nobody will believe that he is not planning for the presidential nomination in 1912."

"The progressives will welcome him into the Senate, naturally, and friends of the administration will be glad to see him reasonably settled. From Roosevelt's point of view, it will be a good move to make. If he is desirous of being President again, the Senate is the best place from which to refuse the crown until he is quite sure there are no strings attached to it. He can stay there two or six years, or until it seems safe for the Republicans to come out of their cyclone cellars. If the party should be defeated two years from now he would have four years in the Senate in which to make himself ready for 1916, and if he made good and his popularity kept up he would not only be the candidate then, but he could be President without feeling that he had violated the third-term precedent."

The Emperor of Germany has ordered that Arthur Nevin's Indian opera, "Poia," be given at the Royal opera in honor of ex-President Roosevelt during his visit to the castle in Berlin.

SENATE IN THE NEAR FUTURE

REPUBLICANS WEAKER

Possibilities Under Present Political Conditions

FIVE STATES READY TO CHANGE

New Senate No More To Know Old Republican Guard.—Two Parties More Evenly Matched With Advantage To Country.

With the retirement of Messrs. Aldrich and Hale and the conceded strength of the Insurgents in the Upper House, speculation as to the complexion of the Senate in the near future is in order. The Democratic side in the present Congress reached its lowest strength but the pendulum is swinging back and whether the oscillation will carry it to the other side or not depends on the adjustment that has been made by those cognizant of things political. The Springfield Republican sums up the situation in this wise:

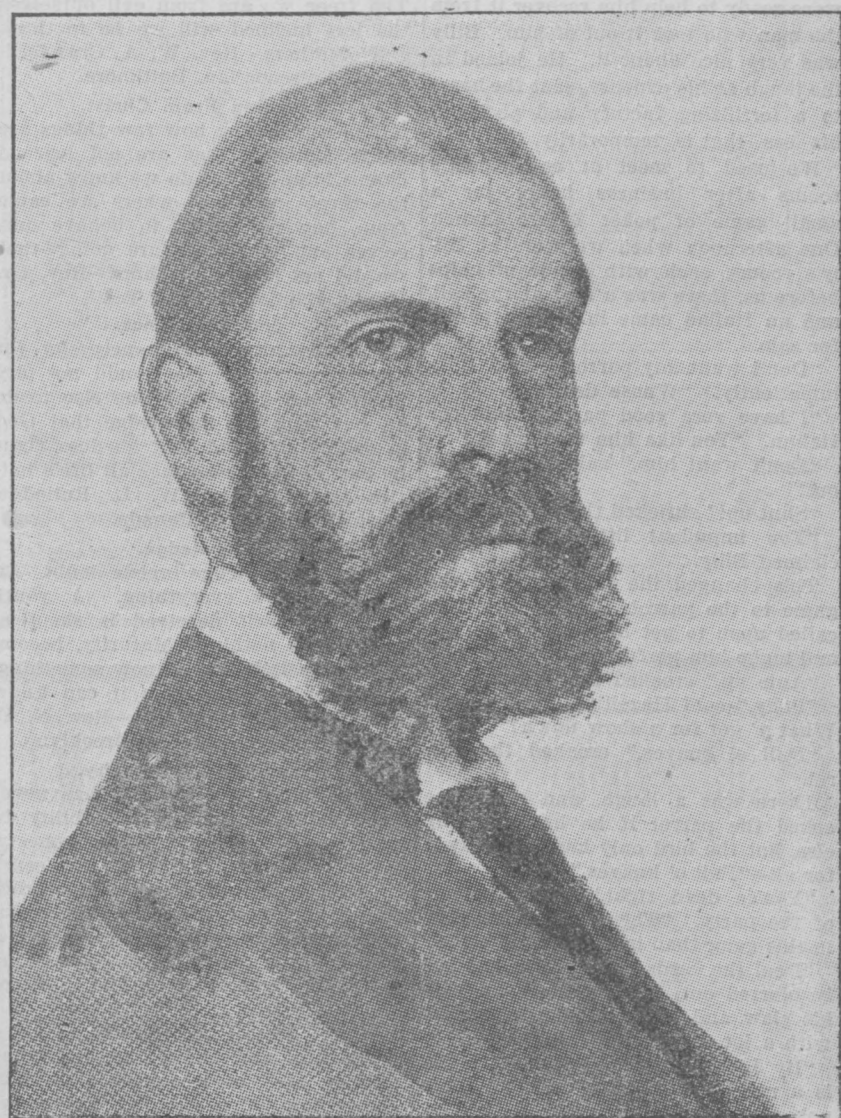

Scanning swiftly the possibilities under present political conditions, the states of New York, Ohio and Indiana are certainly trembling on the brink of political convulsion, and in each of those states United States senators are to be chosen by the next Legislature to succeed Depew, Dick and Beveridge respectively. If Democratic governors can be elected next November in New York and Ohio, the bright prospect for Democratic Legislatures must be conceded. In Indiana Mr. Beveridge is in a difficult position because he must win in spite of the indifference and possibly the antagonism of the regular Republicans of the state, some of whom have not hesitated to proclaim their wish for his retirement even at the cost of giving a second Indiana senatorship to the Democrats. Insurgent Republican senators in other states, indeed, who must now seek re-election, are threatened in the same way by the animosity of the regulars of the party. Mr. La Follette of Wisconsin undoubtedly will need support from the radical wing of the Wisconsin Democracy if he is to be returned, for the Republican stalwarts are so bitterly opposed to him that a Democrat in his seat would seem preferable to the senator's re-election. Still another Republican insurgent is Senator Burkett of Nebraska, who may encounter similar obstacles from the conservative wing of his own party. In Missouri, it may be taken for granted, in view of the by-election in the old De Armond district, that Senator Warner's seat will be recaptured by the Democrats.

Here, then, are Democratic possibilities that challenge serious attention in six states, five of them being northern states for many years securely held by the Republican party. In a genuine tidal wave, moreover, account should be taken of the "surprises" that usually accompany political revolutions, and one might look for them in such states as California and Washington on the Pacific coast, where successors to Senators Flint and Piles will be chosen. Secretary Ballinger comes from the state of Washington and it is not impossible that the warfare waged against him by Mr. Pinchot and his friends, to the great injury of Mr. Ballinger's success in the cabinet, will result in Democratic gains in the Washington Legislature. In California there is a strong Republican insurgent faction and the lack of party harmony may exercise an influence in the election of Mr. Flint's successor.

If New Mexico and Arizona should be admitted to the Union by the present Congress, in conformity with Republican pledges, four new Democratic senators from those states could be looked for with considerable confidence. The

GOV. CHARLES E. HUGHES FOR THE SUPREME COURT

On Monday President Taft sent to the Senate the name of Charles E. Hughes, Governor of New York, for confirmation as associate justice of the Supreme Court. The President tendered the appointment to Governor Hughes on Friday and on Sunday it was accepted by that gentleman.

Mr. Hughes was born in Glen Falls, N. Y., in 1862, the son of a Baptist minister. He is a graduate of Brown University and of the Columbia Law School, where he was a prize-fellow from 1884 to 1887. In 1891 and 1893 he taught law at Cornell, where for several years he was a lecturer. Mr. Hughes practiced law in New York since 1893. He is a member of the Republican, University, Lawyers', Cornell and Brown Clubs, and of the American and State Bar Associations and the Baptist Social Union. He has three children—two girls and a son, Charles E. Hughes, Jr.

He has always been a straight Republican, though he has never had much to do with organization politics. Prior to his election as Governor he was known as one of the ablest lawyers in New York. He first came prominently before the public in March, 1904, when he was invited to be the counsel for the New York Legislative Gas Inquiry Committee, and later in conducting the case of the Legislative Insurance Investigating Committee.

As inquisitor-in-chief of the gas investigation, he wrung from the officials of the gas and electric light companies a large fund of information in a short time, surprising the politicians by his ability to grasp details of importance. The thoroughness of his work enabled the committee to make a report to the Legislature, on which important legislation was based.

The story of the life insurance investigation of 1908 is still recent history.

This week Postmaster-General Hitchcock returned $4,000,000 of the deficiency fund appropriated to the Post office Department.

Day after day, under the patient, tireless, relentless inquisition of Mr. Hughes, a whole fabric of financial and political corruption was exposed. At the hour when the hunt was hottest, the Republicans of New York city offered Mr. Hughes a Mayoralty nomination, a nomination which, under the conditions then existing, insured election. The offer was declined. As a citizen, Mr. Hughes saw his plain public duty was to complete his work and from this duty no honor, however high, could distract him.

Mr. Hughes next drafted that vast body of insurance laws, setting a standard for insurance legislation in the whole nation, protecting the interests of millions of policy holders.

Governor Hughes' first message to the Legislature contained the recommendation for the enactment of the now famous Public Service Commission law. His annual messages have contained recommendations for ballot reform and permissive direct nominations. His opposition prevented the spoliation of the forest reserves of the State by private power manufacturers, while his insistence established in law and in practice the principle of payment by corporations for grants of rights to use the public waters of the State for power purposes.

Under Governor Hughes' administration a new spirit of efficiency has been instilled into the public service of New York State. Administrative branches have been reorganized and service in State employ commensurate with that demanded in private business has been insisted upon.

Intellectually, Governor Hughes is a human dynamo—steady, tireless and scintillating; physically he is tall, big-boned, well-knit, but rather spare of frame; in speech he is prompt and quick; his manner is attractive and his presence magnetic.

PROGRAMME IN ENGLAND FOR ROOSEVELT'S VISIT

To Receive Address in Gold Casket at Guildhall and Doctor's Degree at Cambridge University.

Theodore Roosevelt will arrive in London May 16, and on that day will dine at Dorchester house with Ambassador and Mrs. Reid and the staff of the embassy. He will be received by King Edward the following day, and at the conclusion of the audience will proceed to Oxford, where he will be entertained by the vice-chancellor, T. C. Warren, president of Magdalen College. May 18 will be devoted to a reception to the Rhodes and other American scholars, luncheon with the heads of the university, and the Romanes lecture, which is certain to attract much attention.

For Col. Roosevelt May 25 will be a day long to be remembered, as on that day he will be received at the guildhall and will be presented with an address in a gold casket. In the evening he will leave for Cambridge, and on the morning of the next day Cambridge University will confer upon him a doctor's degree.

ANOTHER MARYLANDER AFTER PEARRE'S PLACE

Brainard H. Warner, Jr., Aspires to Represent This District in Congress.—Montgomery Man.

Brainard H. Warner, Jr., of Kensington, is a candidate for the Republican Congressional nomination in this district to succeed Representative George A. Pearre. His friends are already actively at work in an effort to control the Montgomery county delegation to the nominating convention, and it is said the candidacy of the Kensington man is meeting with favor among the rank and file of the party. It is claimed that if Mr. Warner secures the endorsement of his own county he stands a good chance of being named as his party's standard bearer.

Mr. Warner is a son of B. H. Warner Sr., who made a fight for the nomination two years ago. He is a lawyer, with offices in Washington, and is said to be a young man of ability. He is known as a hustler, and is expected to put up a lively fight for the honor he seeks.

TWO TICKETS TO BE VOTED ON AT MONDAY'S ELECTION.

Following the meeting of April 19 at which time a ticket was named for the coming town election, another meeting was held and a second ticket named to be voted on at the same election. The result of the registration of the two days shows that 170 citizens are entitled to cast their ballots on Monday next at Firemen's Hall. This is the first time in the history of Emmitsburg that registration was necessary and the enrollment shows that only a few failed to take advantage of the opportunity afforded them to participate in the selection of town officers. The following are the two tickets:

For Burgess, To Serve One Year,
SAMUEL L. ROWE.

For Commissioner, To Serve One Year,
MILLARD F. SHUFF.

For Commissioner, To Serve Two Years,
E. E. ZIMMERMAN.

For Commissioner, To Serve Three Years,
DR. JNO. McC. FOREMAN.

For Burgess, To Serve One Year,
SAMUEL L. ROWE.

For Commissioner, To Serve One Year,

For Commissioner, To Serve Two Years,
J. H. ROSENSTEEL.

For Commissioner, To Serve Three Years,
OSCAR D. FRAILEY.

FULL O' KNAVES

(Original.)

After Tom Hazeltine sold Billy Nutting a doped horse for $100 that returned to skin and bone as soon as he failed to get his meals of arsenic Billy was trying to "get it back" on Tom. You see, we fellows all understood one another, and no one of the gang spared another. After a fellow had been sold he laughed with the rest and bided his time to get even. But Hazeltine stuck Nutting for a larger amount than we fellows liked to see, and we were ready to help him recover it from the man who took it out of him. Billy was very nice about it. He joined in the laugh at his expense, sent the horse to a fertilizing factory and pocketed his loss—that is, temporarily.

We used to meet at each other's rooms after business hours for a small game of poker before dinner. One afternoon when we were at Billy's rooms, each with a pile of chips before us, there was a ring at the bell, and an Italian came in with a parrot for sale.

"Don't want any parrots," said Billy impatiently. "Whose deal?"

"I have a very good parrot," said the Italian. "You like him very much?"

"Don't want him," said Billy. "Get out!"

"Shut up!" shrieked the parrot. "You impudent little villain!" exclaimed Billy.

This changed the interest from the game to the parrot. The Italian was called upon to get him out of his box and make him perform.

"Ante up," croaked the parrot. "Polly," said Hazeltine, "pretty poll! What y' got for a show down?"

"Full o' knaves," croaked the parrot.

There was a laugh, and some one asked the parrot if he had anything else, but the bird only had one answer for all—"Full o' knaves."

"You're dead right," remarked one of the party. "There's more knavery in this gang than in a dozen jailbirds." "Deal the cards," the parrot suddenly blurted out, rubbing his beak with his claw and following the injunction with a lot of parrot cawings.

"By Jove," exclaimed Hazeltine, "he is a rare bird to have on hand for a poker party! He'd make no end o' fun. What you want for him?"

"Tell the gentleman your price, Poll," said the Italian.

"Two cents," said the parrot. "No, no!" interposed the owner. "Try again. Your price—your price."

"Seventy-five dollars," said Billy. "Great Scott!" exclaimed Billy. "Seventy-five dollars for a parrot?"

The Italian shrugged his shoulders. "Put him up at auction," said Billy, "with $75 a minimum."

The Italian agreed, the bird was put up, and Billy started the bidding by offering $25. Hazeltine, who was thinking what a treasure the bird would be at his own poker parties, offered $30, and the bidding became spirited. In a few minutes the price was run up to the limit, but none of the bidders seemed inclined to give way to the others. Eighty, eighty-five, ninety, were bid successively. At the last figure all dropped out except Billy Nutting and Tom Hazeltine, who continued to top each other $2 a bid. At ninety-five Hazeltine showed signs of weakening.

"Don't take water, Tom," whispered one of the party. "The bird's worth $200. There are plenty of parrots, but I never saw one that could talk like that."

"Ninety-six!" cried Hazeltine. "Raise it to ninety-seven," from Nutting.

"Ninety-eight!" from Hazeltine. "Ninety-nine!" from Nutting. "One hundred!" from Hazeltine.

"Sold!" cried the Italian. "You take da bird, I take da money."

There was a roar of laughter in which every one present joined except the successful buyer, who, taking fright at once, looked at the company with wonder and inquiry.

"Point up!" cried the parrot. This reassured the purchaser. He took a roll of bills from his pocket and handed $100 to the Italian, who made no delay in getting out.

"Come, Poll," said Billy; "show your owner what a bargain he's made. Talk about the game of poker."

Polly was silent.

"Tell us about those knaves you were mentioning."

The parrot manifested no interest in the subject, sitting stupidly on her perch. Each one of the party tried in turn to make her talk, but failed. Hazeltine, who had not yet got on to the sell, remarked that parrots were like children—they often wouldn't talk to strangers without their fathers or mothers egging them on. As soon as Poll got used to her new master she'd show up fine. So he took the bird home, and after he had gone we laughed till we all had side ache.

Weeks passed before Hazeltine would admit that his parrot was dumb as a lamp post. He had meanwhile spent a lot of money on a parrot teacher, who failed signally to get the bird to utter a single word. Finally Hazeltine sold the bird for a dollar and, having made up his mind that a trick had been played on him, asked how it had been done, whereupon he was informed that Billy had bought the bird for a song and had hired a ventriloquist to bring it to his rooms and make it talk just like a human being. Billy had recovered the hundred dollars Tom had taken out of him minus $10 he had paid the ventriloquist for his services.

Tom enjoyed the joke hugely, and now he is watching an opportunity to get it back on Billy.

BEVERLY WORTHINGTON.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

The secret of prosperity, the development and maintenance of manhood or womanhood is trust in God.—Rev. John F. Goucher, Methodist, Baltimore.

Successful Work.

The man who works with God is sure of success because his work is permanent, and he builds feeling sure his plans will go through.—Rev. Thomas Knox, Presbyterian, Aurora, Ill.

Be Free of Evil.

The persons who are most ready to suspect others of impropriety are the ones who are themselves improper. The freer we are from evil ourselves the less inclined will we be to think evil of others.—Rev. W. A. Crawford-Frost, Episcopalian, Baltimore.

Learning From Christ.

It is astonishing how few things are worth knowing that are not learned from Christ. What do we know about the three questions—where we came from, how we ought to behave ourselves and where we are going—that we did not learn from him?—Rev. Dr. Hanks, Baptist, El Paso, Tex.

Self Confidence.

Faith in himself is a necessity for any young man. He should not pity himself nor allow any one else to do so, but with the knowledge that God is on his side and that he does right he should be able to face all life's battles bravely.—Rev. W. L. Rutledge, Methodist, London, Canada.

Knowledge.

A little knowledge breeds doubt. A youth finding himself deceived is skeptical and knows nothing. Maturity, becoming sober, finds it can know something. Full manhood discovers it can know enough for practical life.—Rev. N. D. Hills, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

Insufficient Prosperity.

Mere material prosperity has never been sufficient to secure stability of government. Moral courage, honesty, liberal education and a healthy sense of religion are of greater importance in our national life than big crops, large bank deposits, enormous factories or extensive railways.—Rev. John G. Scott, Episcopalian, Hot Springs, Va.

Aim of Christianity.

The aim and end of the Christian religion are not weakness and inefficiency, but rather a perfect, full grown man. The best of the Roman ideal, physical strength; of the Greek ideal, mental culture; of the Hebrew ideal, justice, is taken, welded together and sublimed by a Christlike character. And that ideal man is not self developed, but formed and fashioned by Christ himself.—Rev. George R. Edmundson, Presbyterian, Denver.

Belief in Human Nature.

It is better to go on through life deceived, disappointed, betrayed on all sides, than to lose your confidence or belief in human nature. Believe in your fellow man, believe in God, believe in human nature and believe in Christ, who slumbers in the heart of every human being. Hold yourself to your own best self despite defeat and opposition. Go out in love and service for the joys that are set before you by Christ.—Rev. Dr. C. F. Aked, Baptist, New York.

Living Without God.

How many there are who live as if there were no obligations to God whatever. In short, they live as if there were no God, and yet they are all the while living off the very God they ignore. With many it is pure thoughtlessness, for at heart they are not wicked. And yet they are all the while living in open violation of God's requirements. With not a few it is a question whether they walk at all with God.—Rev. L. M. Zimmerman, Lutheran, Baltimore.

Functions of the Christian.

The greatest problem for the Christian man is to adjust himself to the callings and pursuits of this life that he may best serve God, his fellow men and the highest interests of his own soul. Instead of translating us to glory at our conversion God leaves us here that we may perfect personal holiness, working out our own salvation with fear and trembling and that we may win the world to our new found King. These are the two functions of the Christian. It is the will of God for his people to engage in the ordinary vocations of this world that they may earn an honest living and at the same time show forth to the world the saving and keeping power of Jesus Christ.—Rev. Dr. Curtis Lee Laws, Baptist, Brooklyn.

Value of Caring For Boys.

Take care of the boys and you take care of the future of civilization. Greet the boy and you salute the glory of tomorrow. Put your arms around the boys and you embrace the dawn of a coming day. Speak kindly to the boys and you put heart and hope and inspiration into coming moral movements that are to revolutionize the conditions of future society. Discourage a boy and you depress a state. Strike a boy in temper with word or blow and you produce discord in a coming symphony. Take hope from a boy and you take melody from a song. Whatever we do through our relations to the boys is recorded in their spirits and will be clearly seen in days to come. Let us educate the boys if we have to mortgage our lands to do it. They will pay the mortgages off a thousand times over in the next generation. Let us stint ourselves at every point except in the investments we make in the education of our children. To be skimp and meager there is to look in darkness the thought and gratitude necessary to keep our graves green when we are gone.—Rev. Dr. James W. Lee, Methodist, Atlanta, Ga.

Cooking With Sunlight.

Sun cooking—roasting and boiling by sunlight instead of coal or gas—has been going on for 300 years. There are sun stoves that roast a sirloin or boil a soup to perfection. They are only used, however, by scientists. A sun stove consists mainly of a mirror—a spherical mirror on a joint. There is also a reflector. The place for pot or plate is so situated that the mirror's rays can be focused on it accurately. A German, Baron Tebernhausen, was the first sun cook. He began in 1687 to boil water, and in 1688 he had very good success at baking eggs. Sir John Herschel and Buffon are other famous names associated with sun cooking. In California various sun cooks have boiled a gallon of water in twenty minutes, roasted meat in two hours and poached eggs in fifteen minutes—quite as good time as the ordinary fire makes. An odd thing about meat roasted by sun rays is that it has an unpleasant taste. This is avoided by the insertion of a plate of yellow glass between meat and mirror. In all solar stoves the sheet of yellow glass figures.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Queer English Laws.

"No statute law of England ever can be obsolete," a legal journal says. "Once enacted, it continues in binding force until repealed."

If such be really the case, there ought to be some lively times ahead for several classes of the community. For instance, what will builders have to say to the act which penalizes any person who erects a house without attaching to it at least four acres of land? This was one of "good Queen Bess'" laws, and it has most certainly never been repealed.

By another unrepealed statute, which dates back to the first year of King James I., it is enacted that not more than a penny may be charged for a quart of the best old ale nor more than a halfpenny for a like quantity of small beer. The penalty for each infraction of the act is 20 shillings, so that if it were rigidly enforced it would not need, apparently, a licensing bill to ruin the brewers. Then, again, a Catholic owning a horse is still legally obliged to sell it for £5 to anybody who chooses to offer that sum for it.—London Graphic.

The First Mourning Paper.

The oldest known letter written on black edged note paper as a sign of mourning appears to be one dated Jan. 5, 1683. In Addison's comedy of "The Drummer," 1715, reference is made to the fashion in the words, "My lady's mourning paper that is blacked at the edges." A few years later Allan Ramsay, who died in 1758, speaks in one of his poems of "the sable bordered sheet" as a messenger of sorrow. Mann, writing from Italy to Horace Walpole in 1745, says that it was universally used in Florence at that time. The superior elegance of this Italian note paper, with its narrow margin of black, explains its ready acceptance in this country, where it superseded the quarto sheet with a black border sometimes a quarter of an inch wide. In this way it probably gave an impetus to the fashion. But it is a mistake to suppose, as some have done, that the fashion was introduced from Italy.—London Answers.

Caught Alive.

A New Yorker, a big game hunter of many years' experience, was lion shooting in Uganda. He had excellent luck. Nearly every day he posed in a complacent attitude beside a freshly killed lion, and his photographer snapped him for the magazines.

One afternoon the photographer, who was taking a nap in the hut, was awakened by a loud noise. He rose and looked out. Sprinting toward him from the jungle, hat gone and coat-tails flying, came his chief, and, with terrible roars and growls, a huge lion bounded at his heels.

The photographer gazed spellbound at the strange and exciting picture. His chief, perceiving him, shouted: "Quick, quick! Open the door. George! I'm bringing him home alive!"—Washington Star.

Spoiling a Tragedy.

"If you don't marry me," he said desperately, "I shall kill myself."

"And write a note telling all about it?" queried the maid.

"Yes."

"And hold my photograph in your other hand?"

"I had thought about it."

"Well, just wait a minute," she said, "and I'll borrow pa's pistol for you. My, but won't it be romantic?"

The Head of the House.

It is folly to call the husband the head of the house; he is not. It is but a courtesy title at best, since in truth he is but an incident in the home life, while the wife and mother is its whole existence. Literally the sun of domestic happiness rises and sets in the face of the wife and mother.—Clara Morris in Housekeeper.

Not an Advertiser.

"Did you hang up any mistletoe last Christmas?" asked Erastus Pinkley.

"Deed I didn't," answered Miss Miami Brown. "I's got a little too much pride to advertise for ordinary courtesies dat a lady has a right to expect."—Exchange.

Suspicious.

Suitor—Of course I am.

Widow—What's the matter? You haven't lost your job, have you?—Pittsburg Press.

Too much is worse than want.—German Proverb.

Artistic Slips.

It is a frequent matter of lamentation on the part of artists that one of their number may spend genius and time on a piece of work, only to fall conspicuously in small detail.

There is a story that one Royal academician gave a hand five fingers and a thumb and that another painted a live lobster bright red.

The clever Goodall had been engaged in painting a number of laborers dragging a huge stone across the desert when a man of science entering the studio said to him: "I say, Goodall, if you want those fellows to pull that stone you must double their number. It would require just twice as many for the task."

But it is not modern painters alone who slip up on points of accuracy. Even Albrecht Durer in a scene representing Peter denying Christ painted one of the Roman soldiers in the act of smoking. Turner put a rainbow beside the sun, and in another picture he got fearfully tangled in the ship's rigging.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Fixing a Photographer.

Senator Stone of Missouri once made himself unpopular with a certain photographer. The latter individual appeared at the senator's room at the capitol and announced that he was there to take a picture. Stone expostulated, but in vain. A few days later the photographer again appeared and presented the pictures and also a bill for $10. Remembering how hopeless was his argument against having the picture taken, Senator Stone decided it would be still more useless for him to decline to pay for them. So he wrote a check. After the man's name was on the check he wrote the word "Photographer."

When the man presented the check at the senate disbursing office for payment, he was required to indorse the check and write after his name, just as it was written on the face of the check, the word "Photo-graffer."—St. Louis Republic.

Village Improvement.

The state grange of Massachusetts, comprising over 200 individual granges with a total membership of about 3,000, has decided to make village improvement a regular part of its work in the future, says Maxwell's Tallyman. The grange thus admits the value of improvement work and gives to it a broad interpretation, including among the proper fields for development the general environment, the home, the individual, the farm, the neighborhood and the town. The desire to co-operate with all other forces for the improvement of civic conditions is also expressed. The end in view, "an increase in the beauty and attractiveness" of the towns of the state, is commendable. By this alone may the town compete with the city and cease to be decadent. The grange has already done good work in this field in individual cases, and his broader movement promises much.

LEWIS MARTIN MOTTER.

"Of no distemper, of no blast he died,
But fell like autumn fruit that mellowed long."

These most appropriate lines of the poet Dryden seem to come to one's mind instinctively in connection with the life and death of Mr. Lewis Martin Motter, almost the last link between the past and present in this community noted for the longevity of its citizens.

No matter how well prepared we may be for words that warn us of the approach of death, no matter how certain we may feel that the end is near at hand the shock is inevitable, and so it was on Wednesday when the sad news spread over the town that the old gentleman whom everybody knew and by whom every one was known had breathed his last, so lightly did he seem to bear the burden of his years.

No illness, tedious and fatiguing, bore him down. No pain and suffering lingered by his side. His end was indeed like the falling of autumn fruit that had mellowed long. Tired as it were of the activities and the changes of the present age he sought the retirement of his room and finally the rest of a kindly couch. There, attended by those whom he loved and who ministered to his every want he bade adieu to earth until "the wheels of weary life at last stood still."

It was an active life that Mr. Motter led, and his interests, many and varied, for years called into practice the rare business ability which he possessed and which made him eminently successful in all of his commercial ventures. He did not shirk the duties entrusted to him by the political party to which he vowed allegiance. He was ever loyal to the principles it espoused and when his State needed his counsel at a time when being a legislator meant something Mr. Motter responded and served his commonwealth with credit to his party, and to himself.

Mr. Motter loved his home and he seemed happiest when his family and his friends were about him. Having a large connection some of these were almost always with him, and many are the friends that will miss his greeting and those pleasant chats they had with him near the old bench at the door.

FREDERICK COUNTY, AS USUAL, GETS LEFT.

It is always a safe bet that the "Eastern Sho'" and Southern Maryland will be well taken care of whenever the Legislature, the Governor or a special commission has anything of value to hand out. Baltimore county invariably figures in the result with a big share of the spoils, and the extreme Western part of the State manages to get all that is coming to her. Frederick county receives promises—nothing more—and yet she is made to do her part very liberally when the hat of the tax collector is passed around.

We all remember the fuss and feathers of the Road Commission; how the Governor and his appointees and the engineer of the board motored through Frederick county handing out verbal bouquets and assenting to this and that claim for a part of the road appropriation. But nothing but a memory was the result. This august body took its departure in the same manner in which it came—all smiles and assurances—but later on, when the time arrived to divide the exchequer for practical purposes, the other counties got their allotments and Frederick still got the smile—nothing more.

The Frederick Citizen put the matter before its readers very pointedly and comprehensively in this way:

"They went to St. Mary's and Worcester, and to every other county except Frederick. Why skip Frederick county? What has Frederick county done that she is thus slighted and ignored? It is a large and wealthy county, and has a large and intelligent population. She has three times as many people as Garrett county. The population of Frederick county equals the population of three counties on the Eastern Shore or Southern Maryland, yet each and all of these counties has been served and considered by the commission. Our people have been very reasonable and would have been very easily satisfied if the commission had done anything for this county, but they have not struck a blow. They could have done something. They could have taken over the Baltimore Pike and relieved the people of that toll at least. As it is they are paying taxes on the five million dollar loan and toll on the pike at the same time. But if not willing or ready to take either pike that they have determined to take, they could at least have built the New London road to New Market, and then the tenth of a mile South of Monrovia. It was all told, only about three miles, and connected with the Monrovia tellford road, already constructed under the Shoemaker Road Law, and gratified an immense amount of public travel in a good community. And besides this, these people were so reasonable, that they offered the commission to take an ordinary macadam pike and furnish the stone free, but the commission said that they would give them the new style road, but the commission so far has not given them anything, and not only has it not given them anything, but it has taken no step indicating that it intends to give them anything, as it has done in every other county in the State."

And The Catoclin Clarion, in behalf of the people, righteously indignant at the course pursued by the commission, said last week, in part:

The taxpayers of Frederick county as well as the whole State, have had saddled upon them a new assessment which was directly fostered by the Governor for the purpose of getting a large increase in State taxes, this tax to help build more roads, so we are told. The State tax rate has been raised to pay the increase occasioned by large bond issues, which are to build more good roads and with it all Frederick county, one of the most prosperous agricultural counties in the United States (ranking 3d) and standing at the head of the counties of the State, gets nothing for her taxes so far as good roads are concerned, while the other counties are getting all they want and promptly.

The injustice of the whole procedure is a glaring injustice and one that the people of Frederick county are protesting against in no uncertain terms. This county does not deny the claim of other counties for a part—even a considerable part—of the road appropriation, but she does revolt at this arbitrary and high hand way of ignoring her altogether. Most of the other counties asked for much and got much. Frederick asked for very little and got nothing.

Now the interesting question is, Will the people of Frederick county simply protest at long range? or will they get together and make themselves heard, and, what is most important of all, insist on and demand what is theirs by right?

If Mr. Taft's administration will become memorable for nothing else, the appointment of Charles Evans Hughes to the Supreme Court will certainly keep it from being overlooked. It is doubtful if there is a man in either public or private life better qualified for the high position to which he has been raised than Governor Hughes, nor could the President have made any other appointment that would have been more acceptable to the country at large.

THERE is no impropriety in sending Mr. Roosevelt the first ticket for the Jeffries-Johnson fight in California. Years ago when the Colonel was a member of the Columbia Athletic Club in Washington he could be counted on to be present at every bout, and every one knows that Teddy loves a fight. And incidentally he has fought for some mighty good things.

WHEN WILLIE KISSES TEDDY.

The country feared 'twas coming from the time he left the swamp To enter upper Egypt in semiroyal pomp, But that will be as silence to the diplomatic din

When Willie kisses Teddy at the bahn-hof in Berlin.
He made the Tiber tremble with the row he raised in Rome,
He turned the Danube purple seeing Kossuth in his home,
But the Spree will halt its current and will call the shipping in,
When Willie kisses Teddy at the bahn-hof in Berlin.

No king has dared to kiss him, for he's got a shifty right,
Still, the kaiser is no coward, and he will not dodge a fight;
But if they bite in clinches, it is certain who will win
When Willie kisses Teddy at the bahn-hof in Berlin.

Interesting Paragraphic News From Various Sections of Maryland.

Senator John Walter Smith, who was critically ill at Atlantic City, is able to be about and his entire recovery is but a matter of a few days.

The business of the Central Hardware Company, of Frederick, which has been conducting a general hardware business in that city and making a specialty of sporting goods, has been purchased by Arthur E. Levy who took charge of the business Monday.

Charles H. E. Fraley, of Frederick, through his attorney, Samuel A. Lewis has filed suit in the Circuit Court for an absolute divorce from his wife, Mary S. Fraley. The parties were married at Lewistown, Md., on December 19, 1884, by Rev. J. Milton Snyder. The defendant is residing at Catoclin Furnace, this county.

Announcement was made from the Adjutant-General's office here today that July 1 to 9 have been selected as the dates for the attendance of the troops of the Maryland National Guard at the camp of instruction at Gettysburg, Pa., this summer. It has not been definitely decided, though it is probable that the whole brigade will attend the camp.

Though an investigation has been in progress at the Naval General Hospital for some time, the identity of the cruel heartless and malicious person who stole the gold watch and class ring belonging to the late Midshipman Earle D. Wilson, of Covington, Ky., while he was on his death bed, completely paralyzed from the injuries sustained in a football game, will perhaps never be known.

Though the sessions of the Anne Arundel grand jury are, of course, absolutely secret, it has developed that the jury is making a thorough investigation into the alleged sale of intoxicants to midshipmen, college students and candidates for the Naval Academy, and it is reliably understood that evidence sufficient to return presentments against one or more places in Annapolis has been secured.

The mayor and council of Hagerstown are in trouble over the city's lights. The Hagerstown Electric Railway Company has been furnishing light and the city officials hold that the franchise does not confer such authority. This war between the municipal plant and the other company has been waged by price-cutting and the railway people have secured contracts to light the Federal building and the new First National Bank.

Citizens of the southeastern section of Hagerstown on Saturday attempted to mob the official dogcatcher of Hagerstown, while he was engaged in his work of rounding up stray dogs. The trouble is alleged to have grown out of the failure of a youth to pay over the dollar after he had redeemed a dog that had been caught by Brown. Armed with brooms and clubs, women and men went after Brown, but he managed to escape and was out of danger by the time the officers arrived.

A building and improvement boom is in progress at Walkersville, which when completed will rank that place close to the top of the largest and most progressive towns of the county. A number of new houses are being built, an excellent system of waterworks has just been installed, a meeting was held last night to formulate plans for the organizations of an active fire company and a movement has been started for a new bridge across the Monocacy river which will open up a large section of country whose trade will materially increase the business interests of the town.

Elmer W. Deen, state's attorney for Caroline county, was found dead in his bed, at his home, in Denton, Monday night. Physicians who examined the remains say that death was due to heart disease. Mr. Deen was alone in the house when death came. Last Saturday his wife went to Wilmington, Del., to visit relatives. She returned home Monday night. The house was dark and the door was locked. She entered through a window opening on the porch, and going to his room, found him dead in bed. He was clad in his night dress.

The Savings Bank of Libertytown was opened last Saturday. Robert C. McCandish was elected president; James M. Sappington vice president. The following constitute the board of directors: James M. Sappington, Col. Chas. T. Levisness, Jr., Rev. Samuel J. Kavanaugh, Charles E. Durbin, Dr. Otis B. Stone, George D. Browning, Robert C. McCandish, Benjamin E. Hammaker, DeWarren H. Reynolds, Eugene Hammond, F. Loraine Simpson, Sidney Sappington, Charles F. Smith and R. Frank Sappington. A number of bank presidents and financiers are interested in the new institution. Mr. McCandish, the president, has had much experience in banking at Cumberland Md., and other places. He will reside at Libertytown and take charge of the new institution.

Discussion of Affairs in General from Leading Journals of The Country.

Real And Imitation Patriots.
(Philadelphia Record.)

Gov. Folk of Missouri, who rose to fame by breaking up two gangs of political thieves one in the St. Louis city government and one in the Missouri Legislature, said on one occasion that he knew a man whose emotions were so stirred by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" that he actually shed tears because his country was at peace and there was no opportunity for him to risk his life in its behalf, and just three weeks from that day he was in a criminal court confessing his partnership in a gang of legislative thieves who were using their official position to extort blackmail from corporations.

The man who sheds emotional tears over the "Star Spangled Banner" is an imitation patriot; the real patriot would never dream of levying blackmail, would indignantly refuse a bribe, and would do everything in his power to expose, punish and break up legislative corruption.

The organization of themselves into a society by a lot of local patriots is very interesting, but it would be still more interesting to know whether most of them are real or imitation patriots. Are they going to sing the "Star Spangled Banner" and shed tears at their own sentimentality, or are they going to do all they can to prevent the repetition of such practices as prevailed at the polls in the November election? Are they going to make genuflections in the presence of the flag, or are they going to do all in their power to prevent the election of political corruptionists? Are they going to erect statues of George Washington, or are they going to heed the warning he uttered in his farewell address against the "baleful spirit of party"? Will their patriotism confine itself to reciting Lincoln's Gettysburg address, or will they try to give effect to its plea for government of the people, by the people and for the people by fighting ballot box stuffers and the stealers of primary elections?

We undoubtedly need real patriotism, but we can get along very well without any more of the sentimental variety than we have at present.

The Day Of Wrath.

(Philadelphia North American.)
Aldridge was smashed simply because he was a cog in the machine that the people are going to smash. He was hit first and hit hard, simply because he did not have sense enough to dodge, as Aldrich and Hale are doing. He was hit before bigger men simply because the people have not yet had the chance to speak their sentiment about the Balingers and Wickershams and the money bags back of them.

Hughes And The Supreme Court.
(Washington Dispatch To The Boston Herald.)

It is understood that President Taft has decided to offer the vacant place on the supreme court bench to Gov. Hughes but that the definite offer has not as yet been sent to the governor. The president has been interested to ascertain whether such an appointment would be acceptable to Gov. Hughes or not, and the information this evening is that although he has not yet heard directly from the governor on that score he has learned that the offer probably would be acceptable.

It is felt among senators interested in the matter, especially upon the judiciary committee, which will first pass upon whatever nomination is made, that Gov. Hughes is the most desirable man who could be chosen. There is a growing effort on the part of western men, however, to have the appointment go to their section of the country. Their difficulty is in the lack of available timber. It has been suggested by several senators that it would be a fine thing for the president to appoint Hughes with the understanding that in case Chief Justice Fuller should retire Hughes would be advanced to that place.

Even Crooks Approve.
(Washington Herald.)

The enthusiasm in favor of Gov. Hughes for the Supreme Court of the United States is not altogether confined to his friends. A large number of crooks, political and otherwise, in New York State positively are praying that he may be promoted.

Jolt To The Administration.
(Springfield Republican.)

The question immediately arises whether the Taft legislative program will be more likely to go through the two houses now that Messrs Aldrich and Hale have joined the illustrious "has-beens." The situation is very singular. In both House and Senate the leaders to whom the president intrusted the administration program are no longer leaders in any real sense. Messrs. Cannon, Aldrich and Hale can scarcely feel that fighting zest for legislative achievement in the remaining months of the session which they would otherwise have exhibited. A certain soreness and stiffness of limb must afflict each of them. Meanwhile, a reorganization of the congressional leadership with these men officially eliminated is not possible until a new Congress shall assemble. Under these circumstances, it will be remarkable if the administration gets half of what it desires.

Ham And Bacon.

(Philadelphia North American.)
Senator Bacon made a speech on the cost of living. Now, if Congressman Ham would give his testimony, the case would be complete.

Victory Through Newspapers.
(Editor and Publisher.)

Again there is new subject matter for those who have been warning the American public against "government by journalism."

George W. Aldridge, a conspicuous leader of the New York State Republican "organization," and for years the so-called Republican "boss" of Monroe county, which includes the territory of the city of Rochester, controlled a convention several weeks ago just as he had controlled conventions before that time, and had himself nominated for Congress.

The newspapers of the whole State protested. They called upon the people of Rochester to repudiate the candidacy of Mr. Aldridge. They made him an issue of the whole State. He was beaten last Tuesday by nearly 6,000 in a district which gave the last Republican candidate for Congress a plurality of 10,167.

The "organization" blames the newspapers.

Some Day Perhaps.
(Boston Transcript.)

The $40,000 memorial to the late Speaker Reed will be unveiled in August. Perhaps Danville will do as much for Cannon some day.

Senator Hale And The Navy.
(Army and Navy Register.)

Mr. Hale has been a prominent figure in the House and Senate for many years and has been an independent and influential factor in naval legislation. It would be too much to expect that he has not encountered criticism from within the naval service. There are those who do not fully appreciate what he has done for the navy and this is largely due to the fact that they have not understood the situation at the capitol. That opinion is also attributable to the circumstances that Mr. Hale has not done all that was asked of him or done it in the way which was expected and desired. His retirement from the Senate, and therefore from the most prominent place in that body in framing naval legislation, is a distinct loss to the navy. It will be a long time before the service gets as good a friend on the floor or in committee as Mr. Hale has been, despite his critics. The new conditions in the Senate are somewhat unusual. With Mr. Hale's retirement and Senator Perkins' ill-health and Mr. Tillman's practical withdrawal from activity, the navy must look for new champions of its needs. Probably that office would fall, under the logical evolution of senatorial power, to Senators Gallinger or Lodge, but it is at this time impossible to more than conjecture as to the influence which those members of the regular organization will retain in these days of the growing prestige of the insurgent element. There is a good chance for new blood; it is certain that the successor of Mr. Hale cannot attain the position of the retiring senator from Maine, and the state loses a man who had much to do with national issues.

Revising The Course Of Study.

Course of study in the political kindergarten needs revision. Why not make the start by cutting "What's in it for me" from the curriculum?

Color Line In Cuba.
(Springfield Republican.)

Whatever the defects of Spanish rule in Cuba, there was no serious development of the color line, and racial antagonism between whites and blacks never became a menace to public order. Recent events, however, indicate that this kind of a development has begun since the introduction of a paramount American influence. Evidently the island has just escaped that characteristic form of insurrection known as "taking to the woods," with soldiers of color on the firing line. Gen. Evaristo Estrozo, who has been arrested, is professedly the leader of "the independent party of color." The white and black question in Cuba is one of the problems of the future, and no doubt it was sure to be precipitated as soon as American ideas of social equalities were introduced in the more luxurious clubs, cafes and hotels of Havana.

Clean Enough For Outlook Staff.
(Springfield Republican.)

The latest report from Maxim Gorky is that he has renounced socialism, become an optimist, dropped the pen name Gorky, which means bitter, and married Mme. Andrieva, on whose account American hotels declined to receive him. Apparently he might come over now and join the staff of the Outlook.

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

(Copyright 1909 by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.)

May 1st, 1910.

Two Sabbath Incidents.—Matt. xii: 1-14.

Golden Text.—I will have mercy and not sacrifice. Matt. xii:7.

Verses 1, 2.—Why is it either right or wrong to walk or drive, for pleasure on the Sabbath day?

Was there any Jewish law which would justify the disciples in plucking the ears of another man's wheat on the Sabbath day? (See Deut. xxiii:25.)

See Ex. xx:10, and say whether the law for the Sabbath there given, forbids, absolutely, all manner of work or whether under it, works of necessity and of mercy would be allowable?

How do you account for the fact that the Pharisees, the religious teachers of that day, had such narrow views of the Sabbath and were so critical with Jesus?

* If Jesus were to come to this country incognito, and preach and teach in our towns and cities, without any church authority, how would he be received by the clergy and the churches? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 3-5.—What defence did Jesus make when they accused him of allowing his disciples to break the Sabbath?

Look up I Sam. xxi:1-1; also Lev. xxiv:5-9, and say what bearing this reference of Jesus has upon the case in dispute?

What reason is there to believe that God never intended the Sabbath to be kept, in such a narrow way, as the Pharisees in those days taught? (See Mark ii:23 to iii:6.)

Give an example of how it is possible to keep the letter of the Sabbath law and violate its spirit, and to break the letter and preserve its spirit?

Verses 6-8.—What is the only law of God that must be kept, without any exception by all men and angels?

What attitude should we always take, toward those who do things of which we cannot approve?

Did Jesus have any rights, in regard to Sabbath observance, not possessed by other good men?

What did Jesus mean by saying he was the Lord of the Sabbath?

Is every good man lord of the Sabbath in the sense that he has a right to keep it, in any way that God may direct him?

Verses 9-10.—Is it legitimate to do all kinds of good on the Sabbath day, or is there a limit?

We say that these Pharisees were jealous of Jesus and therefore sought occasion to accuse him. Now what is jealousy? What prompts it? What are its effects?

Verses 11-12.—What reason can you give as to whether persons who are compelled to work on the Sabbath, on the rule Jesus here suggests, are under obligation to rest some other day?

"How much is a man better than a sheep?"

Jesus says "it is lawful to do well on the Sabbath day," but what reason is there to believe that every man is under obligation to actually do some specific good on each Sabbath day?

Verse 13.—How can you demonstrate that obedience to God always results in a supply of our needs?

Does God propose in these days that our bodily diseases should be cured miraculously, as in this case?

Verse 14.—Was it the goodness, or the popularity of Jesus, or both, which inspired the hatred of these Jews and does the same law operate to-day?

Lesson for Sunday, May 8th, 1910.—Temperance Lesson. Prov. xxiii:29-35.

Forty-Two Want Licenses.

A period of anxiety to liquor dealers expired April 20 when the time elapsed for filing objections in court to applicants for licenses. Forty-two applications were registered in the clerk's office and under the law objections may be filed to issuing a license unless the law is strictly complied with. Last year the Anti-Saloon League filed objections in 16 cases, all of which were sustained by the court. George A. Pearre, attorney for the league made a close examination of the new applicants and in all found the letter of law complied with.

EMMITSBURG HIGH SCHOOL WINS TWO GAMES

Taneytown and Gettysburg Both Defeated by Local Boys.—Game With Brunswick Promised.

On Friday afternoon, April 22, the base ball team of the Emmitsburg High School journeyed to Taneytown and defeated the town's nine on their grounds. Owing to Frailey's bad arm C. Rowe was put behind the bat but otherwise the regular line-up played the game from start to finish. G. Stokes' phenomenal pitching was the feature of the game. Time and again with no men down, the bases being filled, he struck out in succession the three facing him. The score was 3 to 2. On Saturday the boys played the strong nine from Gettysburg High School, administering a good coat of white-wash to the tune of 2-0.

The team deserves a great deal of credit not only for the article of ball played in the two games, but for the true gentlemanliness which they showed at all times. At Taneytown in all stages of the game nothing was said or done that did not do the town and school they represented honor and glory, and they came away with nothing but best wishes from all the Taneytown spectators. Boys! keep up the good work.

Lovers of the game in town can look forward to a few good games yet as Westminster, Thurmont, Brunswick and Middletown have been scheduled to play in the next few weeks, and that which the boys are especially anxious to win is the Brunswick game, because of the article of ball that team has played so far and also because the debating team from that school will be here at that time to debate with our boys.

CHURCH NEWS

Tuberculosis Sunday was observed in the Lutheran Church on the 24th. Rev. Dr. Charles Reinwald delivered a sermon appropriate to the occasion. Taking for his text, "I wish that in all things thou mayest prosper and be in health even as thy soul prospereth," he said in part:

"This 24th day of April has been designated 'Tuberculosis Sunday.' From many thousands of pulpits of our American churches, by concerted arrangement, this subject is to engage attention and presentation.

"Needles to say, the 'white plague' is carrying annually in our nation, to premature graves, no less than 200,000 of our population. Of this number Pennsylvania contributes about 10,000 each year, a sum equal to the numerical strength of her National Guard.

"In point of fatal results, numerically considered, it stands first in many sections. It is, however, found to be a preventable disease, and up to a certain stage, a curable disease, by the use of proper care and caution.

"Ignorance, indifference and uncleanness have done much to promote its insidious infection and are responsible for its wide-spread prevalence. To-day there is an organized crusade against its desolating and distressing influence and effects, largely under the direction of the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. Reasonable regard and precaution will prove a great blessing and benefit to many individuals, homes and communities.

"Our mention of this subject to-day is designed to serve as a suggestion and hint to the wise. It seeks to serve in a campaign of education. It offers a slight contribution of help in making life and its home surroundings pure, clean and attractive,—to purify the spots and places that are hostile to home, health and happiness.

"We seek to emphasize sanitation and healthful conditions for every household and community. In the book of Revelation it is written: 'There shall in no wise enter into the city, anything that defileth.' It belongs to the height of wisdom that all our State and subordinate officers should enact and enforce rigidly all such provisions which minister to health and prosperity. St. Paul said to the Philippians: 'Do thyself no harm.'

"The application relates to the protection and life and health of the body as well as that of the soul. Prize the fresh air, the pure water, the healing sunshine, the great world of out of doors, with its saving ministry and virtue.

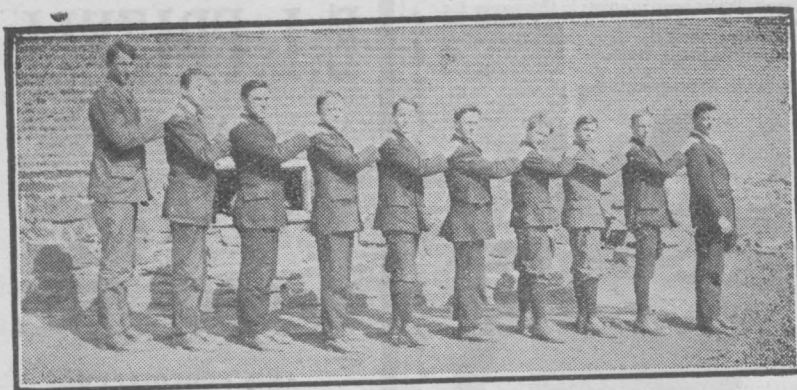

"The Mosaic code was most explicit in giving directions safeguarding health. Cleansings, washings and sanitation were strictly observed."

Rev. Joseph W. Cochran, D. D., secretary of the Board of Ministerial Education of the Presbyterian Church, a resident of Philadelphia, will preach in the Presbyterian Church next Sunday morning.

TWO BRIDGES ASKED FOR

Citizens Along Monocacy Petition County Commissioners.

The appeal of a number of residents of this district living near Muma's Ford on the Monocacy has had its desired effect on the County Commissioners. On Monday these citizens in good number appeared before the Commissioners and asked that steps be taken toward the erection of a bridge across the Monocacy at that point. As the Monocacy at Muma's is the dividing line between Carroll and Frederick counties, the bridge would have to be built and maintained at the joint expense of the two counties. The matter will be taken up with the Carroll county Commissioners.

At the same session of the County Commissioners a petition was also presented for the erection of a bridge across the Monocacy at Biggs' Ford, in Walkersville district, many residents of that district appearing before the board in support of the petition. On account of the high water, it was stated, Biggs' Ford is not passable many months of the year.

Confer With Roads Commission.

Members of the Board of County Commissioners of Frederick County, accompanied by the board's attorney, George R. Dennis, went to Baltimore to-day to confer with the State Roads Commission in regard to the construction of the proposed road from Jefferson, in Frederick county, to Weverton, Md., a distance of about seven miles. This road is one agreed upon for building under the appropriation for road improvements in Maryland, and it is probable that arrangements will be made for the work to be done by the County Commissioners, under the supervision of the State Roads Commission, which will pay for it. The road will connect at Jefferson with the Frederick and Jefferson turnpike, between Jefferson and Frederick, which the State Roads Commission will purchase.

Baseball at The College.

On Saturday Mount St. Mary's defeated Susquehanna 5 to 0. The feature of the game was the pitching of Engel for the College. He allowed his opponents neither a hit nor a run and struck out eight men. The support given him was excellent.

On Tuesday the Frederick Y. M. C. A. team defeated the collegians 4 to 0. Kirwan for the college pitched well but his support was bad. The first man at the bat for Frederick sent one out into deep center for a home run. Notwithstanding this start Kirwan kept the strong Frederick players guessing until the eighth when a base on balls, sacrifice hits and a few errors gave them two runs. Muth pitched for Frederick.

Dividends on Steel Common were raised to 5 per cent.

Frederick Wins Three Games.

The Frederick Young Men's Christian Association continues winning games. On Saturday the Manhattan Athletic Club of Washington was defeated at Frederick by the score of 6 to 2. Truth seems to be evincible. Only four hits were made in Saturday's game by Manhattan. In the first inning Frederick landed on the ball for three runs. Both sides played loosely in the field.

The game with Mount St. Mary's on Tuesday was another victory. Score 4 to 0.

Emmitsburg 10, Thurmont 3.

The High School defeated the Thurmont High School yesterday afternoon on the home field by the score 10 to 3. Two singles by Kerrigan and Stokes and a two-bagger by Rowe, coupled with a few errors of the visitors gave the locals the game in the sixth. Thurmont 0 0 0 2 0 0 1 0 — 3-9-8
Emmitsburg 0 0 0 1 0 6 1 2 x—10-7-3

MARYLAND REPUBLICANS

State Central Committee Meets At Baltimore and Arranged for Conventions.

The Republican State Central Committee met in Baltimore on Wednesday to select dates for the primaries and conventions at which candidates for Congress are to be selected. Every county sent its full quota to the meeting.

The meeting attacked the state administration and condemned as outrageous the behavior of some of the supervisors at the last election and indicated a determination on the part of the Republicans to appeal to the Federal courts for redress. The leaders in those counties in which fair play had been denied had their first opportunity to ventilate the wrongs inflicted upon their people, and it was the unanimous sentiment that the time had arrived for action.

In every district except the Sixth an agreement as to dates and places for the convention was quickly reached. Concerning the Sixth some favored Cumberland while others Frederick for the place of convention. It was finally decided to hold it at Frederick on Thursday, June 9.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of our dear father, Jeremiah Houck, who died two years ago, April 27, 1910.

Gone But Not Forgotten.

Hour by hour we saw him fade,
And slowly sink away,
Yet in our hearts we often prayed,
That he might longer stay.
You are not forgotten, father dear,
Nor ever will you be,
For as long as life shall last,
I will remember thee.

Death has robbed us of our grandfather,
Whom we loved and cherished dear,
It was grandfather, Yes, dear grandfather,
Can we help but shed a tear.

MD. PRESS ASSOCIATION
DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINED

Havre de Grace Received the Scribes With Open Arms.—Fine Dinner Served.

The members of the Maryland Press Association, were splendidly entertained on Wednesday by the mayor and city council of Havre de Grace.

The Association was tendered a fish dinner on the banks of the Susquehanna River. The guests were given an opportunity to see the hauling of the seines by steam power from floats anchored in the river and to see some of the fish products for which Maryland is noted.

Col. William S. Powell, president of the association and recently appointed to the new Conservation Commission by the Governor, said in speaking of the trip: "The most surprising thing about the trip is the fact that our famous Maryland shad seem to be in dire jeopardy. We witnessed a haul which yielded only two fish, whereas under ordinary circumstances there would have been about 300 easily. Five years ago they were in the habit of catching 500. State Fish Commissioner Samuel J. Twilley, of the Eastern Shore, came to Havre de Grace to-day to get stock for the rivers in his territory and went away empty-handed. The condition is a serious one, and it is due to the fact that fish go up to the fresh water to spawn and there they are caught in the nets of private individuals by the score. I think this means work for the Conservation Commission. As I understand it, the commission can only recommend to the Legislature that certain laws be passed, but we can also take it up with the Federal Government, where action will probably be quicker."

ACTIVITIES AT SHORBSVILLE
(For The Chronicle.)

Mr. Wm. Glacken added an extensive improvement to the property of Uncle Daniel Shorb this week. He constructed and placed in the forty foot well, a pump, which throws the water with such force that Daniel is laying pipes to the water trough in the barn yard, and expects to be able to pump water to the barn within a few days time.

The improvement now under discussion for this section of country is an independent telephone line connecting the residences of Jno. Eyler and D. T. Shorb with that of Michael Glacken, which is now under course of construction. Some of the poles have already been distributed along the way.

Miss Susan Shorb of Waynesboro is home for the summer with her parents Mr. and Mrs. D. Shorb her school having closed for the season.

GOVERNOR HUGHES'
SUCCESSOR HORACE WHITE

Man Who Will Take The Place of Empire State Executive Has Long Been Engaged in Politics.

Horace White, who will succeed Mr. Hughes as Governor of New York, was born in Buffalo on October 7, 1865. He is the son of Horace K. White and a nephew of Andrew D. White, once president of Cornell University and afterward ambassador to Germany. Mr. White's family went to Syracuse when he was four years old, and there he prepared for college, entering Cornell, where he was graduated with honors in 1887. He took prizes in oratory in both his junior and senior years. After studying law in the offices of Senator Frank Hitchcock for two years he finished his legal education with a course in the Columbia law school, and was admitted to practice in 1890. He soon formed a partnership with Harry F. King, the managing clerk in Mr. Hitchcock's office, and after Mr. King's death, in 1893, with Jerome L. Cheney.

At the age of 21 Mr. White took an active interest in politics, and in 1895 he was elected state senator, being the youngest man in the Senate. He was re-elected in 1898, 1900, 1902, 1904 and 1906, each time by a large majority. While in the Senate Mr. White served on several important committees, and was chairman of the cities committee. He was first talked of as a possible candidate for lieutenant-governor in 1900. In 1908 when Gov. Hughes was re-elected Mr. White was elected lieutenant-governor.

Mr. Lloyd said that Twain died one of the greatest scholars of the world.

The funeral of Samuel Langhorne Clemens, "Mark Twain," who died at his home in Redding, Conn., on April 21, was held in the Brick Presbyterian Church, New York, on Saturday afternoon. The service was a simple one, devoid of all pomp. His remains were taken to Elmira, N. Y., where they were interred by the side of his wife.

Mark Twain was the greatest of American humorists. He was born in Florida, Mo., on November 30, 1835. Starting out with only a scanty school education he was at different times a printer, pilot on the Mississippi river, private secretary to his brother who was secretary of Nevada territory, miner, editor, reporter, lecturer and author.

PEACE PALACE OPENED

Million-Dollar Building the Gift of Carnegie

PRESIDENT TAFT MAKES SPEECH

Brilliant Reception in Evening Attended by Nearly 2,000 Invited Guests.
—Beautiful Scene.

The new million-dollar peace palace of the American Republics was dedicated on Tuesday afternoon at Washington. President Taft, Cardinal Gibbons, former Secretary of State Root, Secretary of State Knox, Ambassador de la Barra, of Mexico; John Barrett, director of the Bureau of the American Republics; Bishop Harding and Albert Kelsey, the architect, all addressed the brilliant official audience that was present.

With President Taft and Mr. Carnegie, the donor of the building, as the principal speakers, the keynote of the oratory was permanent peace in the Americas, to be maintained through closer friendship and union and not by wars or threats of wars.

President Taft made the only extemporaneous address of the afternoon, and it was generally pronounced one of the ablest he ever delivered. He praised former President Roosevelt and former Secretary Knox for their efforts in behalf of peace not only in America, but throughout the world, and metaphorically emblazoned the name of Carnegie across the walls of the Hall of the Ambassadors as the great international pacificator of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

President Taft made known that the policy of the previous administration in maintaining the most cordial relations with Latin-America will be carried out by him. Secretary Knox stood for peace, he said, and he proposed to see that every possible step would be taken to preserve harmony throughout the Western Hemisphere.

Mr. Carnegie went so far as to express the hope that some day Canada, with the consent of Great Britain, would join the family of peaceful American republics.

The most brilliant feature of the ceremonies was the reception in the evening given by the governing board, of which Ambassador de la Barra is dean and Secretary Knox chairman of office, to Mr. Carnegie and the President. Mrs. Taft and Mrs. Carnegie were present and a special committee, headed by the Mexican Ambassador, formed the receiving line. The Marine Band played in the great hall, and an orchestra stationed in the darkened balcony rendered music during the evening. The patio was illuminated and the five colors of the 21 nations were displayed in the fountain in the centre. Nearly 2,000 guests attended the reception.

SENATE IN THE NEAR FUTURE

extreme Southwest is naturally Democratic, along traditional southern lines, and the quick capture of Oklahoma by the Democrats, does not afford encouragement for Republican success in the commonwealths on the Mexican frontier. Without the slightest reference to the possibilities in such Republican states as Michigan, Connecticut, Wyoming, North Dakota, Minnesota, Delaware and New Jersey—although the chances of the gain of Democratic senators in Montana and Nevada should not be ignored—it is evident that the Democratic strength in the Senate of the next Congress may easily rise above 40. At present that strength is 33 out of a total membership of 92.

In the new Senate, which no more will know the old Republican guard led by such men as Messrs. Aldrich and Hale, the evening up of the strength of the two parties may be counted upon with confidence and even be welcomed as an advantage to the country. For 10 years at least the official opposition in the Senate has been too feeble to be effective, and when it has threatened to be effective it has been too easily disintegrated by the blandishments of the executive power. An accession of party strength will hearten the Senate Democracy and increase its sense of responsibility, while the appearance in its ranks of a number of Democrats from populous Northern states will lighten the party's prestige by augmenting its influence. The new Republican leadership, at the same time, cannot fail to be invigorated because party discipline is much the easier to maintain when the opposing parties do not exhibit great disparity in strength.

As a second chamber, the United States Senate is the most powerful legislative body in the world and it is of much importance that it should never become so one-sided in its balance of political forces and so hopelessly given over to conservatism as such a body as the British House of Lords. A more stable equilibrium and an even balance of parties in its membership than has for two years past prevailed, together with the transformation in its leadership now assured, cannot fail to secure for the Senate a larger measure of public confidence than of late it has enjoyed.

Col. Roosevelt's lecture at the Sorbonne, Paris, created a tremendous impression throughout France.

NINE MEN ARRESTED ON ALLEGED FRAUD CHARGEFar Reaching Scheme Which Cost Jewellers Some $500,000 Nipped By Government Detectives.

Arrests made in Alabama and Texas by special agents of the Government it is believed exposed one of the most wide-spread frauds ever perpetrated. The men arrested are charged with conspiring to defraud and with withholding assets from a trustee in bankruptcy, but in a statement made by M. D. Rothschild, president of the Jewelers' Board of Trade, 17 Maiden Lane, whose agents have been investigating the case for the last eight months, mention is made of allegations of arson and insurance frauds, which will be sifted.

The Shreve brothers, who are among those arrested operated a chain of general stores throughout Alabama, and it is charged that they obtained credit from merchants in New York and other cities and there concealed the goods they bought. Goods were transferred from one store to another and from one city to another until all trace of them was lost by the companies from which they had been purchased.

UNION BRIDGE'S LARGE
FACTORY BEGINS WORKTidewater Portland Cement Company's Lime Plant Opened.—Beginning of Gigantic Industry.

The Tidewater Portland Cement Works at Union Bridge was formerly opened last week and a large and representative body of Baltimore's business men were on hand at the time of the opening. The lime plant is the only portion of the works that is completed at this time. Work on the cement plant, which is designed to be one of the most extensive and complete in the country, is being carried on with great energy by several hundred workmen.

All the buildings will be fireproof and of steel and concrete construction. All the labor obtainable is at work on the plants. Crushers, pulverizers and kilns will be electrically driven throughout for a daily output of 2,500 barrels of gray Portland cement and 500 barrels of white. The Tidewater Company is to-day operating the largest hydrating lime plant in the East, with contracts in sight for its entire output for the season at the market price, owing to the superior quality of the material produced. Its kilns are equipped with the newest firing device, which assures uniform heat and lime with no core.

ALBANY LAUDS HUGHES

Resolutions Adopted by New York AssemblyEFFECT PENDING LEGISLATION
Friends of Governor Downcast at Prospect of Losing Him.—Opponents Gratified at Appointment.

Gov. Charles E. Hughes, whose appointment to the United States Supreme court has been announced was accorded special honor by the New York State Assembly, which unanimously adopted a resolution of congratulation and appreciation. The resolution, offered by a New York city member, follows:

"The Assembly of the State of New York extends to Gov. Charles E. Hughes its hearty good wishes upon his being appointed by President Taft for a position on the Supreme Court bench of the United States. Hearty congratulations accompany our well wishes for a long, useful and distinguished career in the court.

"Governor Hughes has won distinction and great public credit since his occupancy of the highest place within the gift of the people of New York State, and he will take his place in the history of this Commonwealth as one of the greatest chief executives New York has ever had. He has always championed good, clean, government; he has stood for the rights of the people and by his boldness, fearlessness and his honesty of intention and purpose has endeared himself to all classes of our citizens.

"In his elevation to the position of justice of the Supreme Court, the highest tribunal in the land, the State of New York has been signally honored."

Governor Hughes' determination to accept the offer of President Taft to name him for the judgeship was the subject of much speculation at Albany as to the effect it would have upon pending legislation and the coming campaign. Friends and supporters of the Governor were plainly downcast at the prospect of losing so valuable a leader. Those who in the past have opposed his policies had little to say other than to express their gratification at his appointment, which will remove him from the field of active politics. All agree, however, that the Governor's service in behalf of the Republican party will be greatly missed in the coming campaign.

The legislative program probably will not be materially affected by the Governor's action. With the exception of the question of direct nominations, which is soon to be thrashed out, the most important of Governor Hughes' recommendations are slated for passage. The resolution calling for a thorough investigation of corrupt practices has practically been adopted.
