BEGIN FIGHT

NEW YORK CAMPAIGN

Hearst Jumps Into Fight and Hurls Hot Shot

OBJECTS TO ROOT AND THEODORE

at Independence League Meetings in New York and Brooklyn.-Hearst Indorses Himself.

The third party in the New York held two mass meetings, one in New York and the other in Brooklyn. The principal speakers were John J. Hopper, candidate for Governor; Mr. Hearst and Robert Stewart, candidate for Attorney-General.

Mr. Hearst said:

"I am not in politics to control conventions, but to fight the corrupt machines of the old parties that do control conventions. I am not opposed to the Republican party through any personal prejudices. I would joyfully join a Republican party led by a Lincoln, but I cannot get aboard any Republican bandwagon drawn by Root and Roosevelt trotting contentedly in double har-

"I will not be dragged anywhere on any road in any political chariot drawn by Root and Roosevelt as leaders and Woodruff and Aldridge as wheelers.

"Some two months ago Mr. Roosevelt declared that he was going to drive in the State of New York. Then he went out to Colorado to do it.

"After a couple of weeks' waiting I wrote an article telling Mr. Roosevelt that if he was sincere in his fight against the bosses he should come home to New York and attend to that important business.

"Mr. Roosevelt read an extract from that article and said that he was going home to fight the bosses. But he did not go. He lingered lotus-eating in Illinois, listening to the music of the cheers. He wasted precious time peace seeking in Pennsylvania. He arrived in his own State only two days before the primaries. And when the reporters gathered to catch the clarion call he declared that he could not say anything until he 'had brushed the dust off his clothes.

people. He wrested the control of his until his health is fully restored. party from the hands of his enemy, 'Boss' Barnes, and reposed it in the hands of his personal friend, 'Boss'

As for the Democratic ticket, Mr. Hearst said:

"I was brought up a Democrat and I might even be voting for the Demofind any Democrats on the ticket to vote for.

"I will make it my particular business to drive out the Republican black horse cavalry and also the Democratic black-leg infantry. Regardless of parties, the Independence League will ed more severely than the east. train upon this band of brigands the heavy artillery of publicity.

"I indorse every candidate upon the State ticket, even including the Lieutenant-Governor."

Mr. Hearst is candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

WRITER OF FAMOUS BATTLE

HYMN DEAD AT NINETY-ONE Julia Ward Howe, Poet Authoress and

home, Middletown, R. I., on Monday. A severe cold and her advanced age were the indirect causes of her death. She was 91 years old.

Mrs. Howe was a New York woman by birth, the daughter of Samuel Ward a wealthy banker. When 24 years old she moved to Boston, the home of her fered. husband, Dr. S. G. Howe. It was there that she did her literary work. Of all her writings, much of which is of a high literary standard, the best and most popular is the famous war-time song, "The Battle Hymn of the Re-Republic," written in 1861 in Washington, and sung to the tune of "John Brown's Body." The poem is given in another place.

Tucker explained that the Frederick end of the Frederick-Emmitsburg road was a part of the Woodsboro pike and was nearly three miles long. For this the owners asked $28,000. Mr. Tucker said this could be done without by reach Frederick.

Chairman Tucker produced a letter dated February, 1909, from the owners of the Emmitsburg pike giving the same information that Dr. Clark had presented. He made the point that the Commission had long had the facts in its possession.

"By buying the pike now," suggested the Governor, "you relieve the people by taking the tollgate off. The object is not to rebuild the road now but to remove the gates. (Continued on page 2.)

SENATOR J. P. DOLLIVER DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Career Ended of One of the Big Figures in Public Life. - Was Born in West Virginia in 1858.

Senator Dolliver died at his home at Fort Dodge, Iowa, on Saturday night. He had been ill for some time but his death was unexpected.

Senator Dolliver was a strong figure in public life. He was born in West Virginia in 1858. In 1881 he moved to Iowa and in 1888 was elected to the Fifty-first Congress as a representative of the Tenth district on the Republican ticket, that being his first political office, and he was continued in the Fiftysecond, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fiftyfifth and Fifty-sixth Congresses.

On August 23, 1900, he was appointed by the then Gov. Leslie M. Shaw to fill a vacancy in the United States Senate, caused by the death of Senator Gear. He was elected in 1902 to succeed himself, and re-elected in 1907 for a term which would have expired on March 3, 1913.

The Colonel's Little Game.

The yells of the mob act on Col. Roosevelt like the smell of brandy on a dipsomaniac. His excitement increases, his moral resolution and his pledges sag. One more drink for the one; one more term for the other.

The friends of Mr. Taft will not be the dupes of his predecessor, who is bound to be, or at worst, to name, his successor. Already in this State the Republicans are being told that they must vote the Roosevelt ticket in order to support Mr. Taft's administration. That is, they must help Col. Roosevelt cut Mr. Taft's throat.

SELECTING SEED CORN.

Better Run Risk of Frost Than Pick the Ears Too Early.

The first step toward better seed corn for next year must be taken in the fall by selecting the seed ears from the stalks in the field. The corn should be allowed to mature well on the stalk. By selecting the earliest maturing ears and picking them from the stalk as soon as the husks begin to turn yellow, which is a common practice, earliness is secured at the expense of vitality, writes Professor Moore of the two sticks thus, end on end, he the University of Wisconsin in the American Agriculturist.

A slight frost will not injure corn if it is well matured, and it is better to run the risk of a frost than to pick the ears too early. The latter part of the growing season seems to improve the vitality of the corn greatly.

Care should be taken in picking seed to secure ears which are attached to the stalk about three feet above the ground. Those ears which grow either very high or very low upon the stalk form grey is the more frequent in use. should be rejected, as they are undesirable, having characteristics which we do not desire. For the same reason we should avoid selecting ears with very short or long shanks or from deformed stalks.

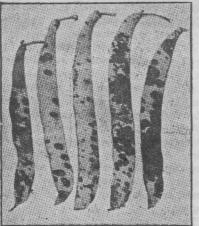

Go into the field after the husks on the ears have turned yellow and sestalks. Put them in sacks or baskets and bring them to the side of the field and husk. It is well to follow definite rows in securing seed corn, otherwise a large number of good ears are missed. After the corn is husked many ears will be found imperfect and should be discarded. Only those ears should be retained for curing for seed that are of good form. Seed corn should be put into the proper place for curing the same day that it is taken in accordance with precedent, but is from the field.

The Hindu jugglers and acrobats are the latest stories told of them is about a performer who went through many wonderful feats perched on the top of a single bamboo stick about fifteen feet in height. The top of the stick was tied to a girdle around his waist. and a leg rest was provided by a cushion a few feet down the pole. Perched on this slender stick he hopped and danced about in the liveliest way, accompanied by the tapping of a drum. It would be considered a skillful feat to walk about with ease on a pair of stilts fifteen feet in height, but this Hindu showed a marvelous power of equilibrium on a single stick. He did other things even more wonderful. For example, he balanced a light stick on his nose and a heavy one on his chin and then threw the heavy one into the air with his head and caught it on the end of a light one. While balancing minister, and, though he is only three and a half years of age, his father considers it quite time he learned properly to observe grace on coming to the table. His parents have more than once endeavored to explain to him the reasons for his so doing, but | shad the little boy regards it as no more than an amusing game.

The other afternoon his older sister made another attempt to interest him in this duty. All were seated at dinner, and on the first words of the grace William's small head dropped in his hands in apparent reverence. His sister, secretly pleased with her success, stole a glance at him, when, to the consternation of the family, he sprang up, shouting gleefully:

BATTLE HYMN OF THE REPUBLIC. JULIA WARD HOWE.

Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord; He is tramping out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored; He hath loosed the fateful lightning of His terrible swift sword; His truth is marching on.

I have seen Him in the watchfires of a hundred circling camps; They have builded Him an altar in the evening dews and damps; I can read His righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps; His day is marching on.

I have read a fiery Gospel, writ in burnished rows of steel; "As ye deal with my contemnors, so with you My grace shall deal; Let the Hero, born of woman, crush the serpent with his heel, Since God is marching on."

He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat; He is sifting out the hearts of men before His judgment-seat; Oh! be swift, my soul, to answer Him! be jubilent my feet! Our God is marching on.

In the beauty of the lilies, Christ was born across the sea, With a glory in His bosom that transfigures you and me; As he died to make men holy, let us die to make men free, While God is marching on.

A PERSONALS.

500000000000000000000 It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

METAL SHINGLES Laid 20 years ago are as good as new to-day and have never needed repairs. Think of it! What other roofing will last as long and look as well?

SAVE YOUR BARN TIMBERS.

Care and Attention Will Often Avert Need of Rebuilding.

A carpenter was telling me the other day that he knew of a barn which had been new silled three times in the space of sixteen years, says a correspondent of the American Cultivator. Think of what a burden of work and expense that would be!

But that is what is going on all over the country every year. The sills, sleepers and posts of our barns rot away, and we must replace them or let the buildings go down.

The trouble many times in such cases is that we have not provided air enough around our foundation timbers. Nothing rots timber like being shut away from the air.

Now, by putting here and there in the wall of our barns a small frame of plank, say, eight inches square and building the stones or cement about it we have furnished opportunity for the air to get in and lengthen the life of our timbers. Over these squares we may tack a piece of wire cloth to keep out cats and other small animals.

Especially is some such thing needed if the building is one in which we sometimes wash the wagons and carriages with a hose or with a pail of water and sponge. The water trickling down, added to the lack of ventilation, will soon cause the best of timbers to decay. In such cases there ought to be good drainage as well as an opening for the air to get in about

Some kinds of wood are more susceptible to decay than others. Of our native woods red beech, chestnut or oak is probably the best.

How many farmers know exact name and variety of the corn they are growing?

Saves Time and Temper.

The annoyance and discomfort of having the cow switch her tail and liberally bespatter your face with mud and fifth during the milking time can be avoided with the simple device shown in illustra- b tion, which may be made with a piece of wire and a pair of pinchers in a few moments. The wire is bent at the center into a spring coil, as shown at The one end is then bent into a coil to furnish a hold for the fingers c while adjusting the device to the tail above the brush. The opposite end is bent into a loop, as shown at a, through which a string is tied, and the opposite end fastened to the stall, away from the milker. This is easily and quickly placed and as easily released when through milking. The cow cannot strike the milker with her tail, thus throwing into the milk much filth and germs, so from a point of cleanliness as well as comfort it is of value.-Iowa Homestead.

Poultry Pointers.

Sell the young cockerels that are not needed for breeding stock and save the food that they will consume.

Do not expect the hens that have been faithful layers during the summer to keep this up all winter. You may be disappointed if you do.

Fresh, pure drinking water frequently changed is indispensable to poultry health and comfort. The fowls do not enjoy stale drinking water any better than humans do.

Clover makes a splendid winter pasture for all kinds of fowls. Plant crimson clover in the orchard and let the fowls have access to it. It will build up the orchard soil and furnish nutritious feed for the fowls.

For an autumn and winter feed for poultry cabbage is well liked. This is hung up so the fowls can just reach it. Large sugar beets are also good. These are chopped up fine or cut open or sometimes crushed. Common field turnips are also good.

If it is desired to fatten turkeys for market begin to increase the rations gradually. Never attempt to fatten birds which in successive weighings show a loss of weight. Overfeeding does not cause blackhead, but it does frequently cause the sudden death of birds in which blackhead is present

The Lions and the Roses.

"An admirer in my younger days," said a woman lion tamer, "once sent me a bouquet of red roses, and I wore them in the ring to do my act. They came near doing for me. I had got my eight lions arranged in their pyramid when the lion at the top saw the red roses in my corsage. He mistook them for meat-lions have poor sightand down he leaped. He came for me open mouthed. Though I fired a blank cartridge in his face, he made with his paw a sweep at the roses that ripped me open from chin to waist. The other lions bounded forward. They weren't angry. They were hungry. I had intelligence enough to perceive that, and just as they were leaping on me I tore off my roses and threw them across the ring. The big brutes left me at once, and while they sniffed the roses with disappointed growls I staggered out of the iron door. I was young at the time, young and light headed, or I'd have known better than to wear anything red among hungry and nearsighted lions."-Buffalo Ex-

Permission to wear a mustache was eagerly sought after in the middle of the last century. But now the virile decoration is discarded. Why? In those old days the Bank of England would not allow its employees to wear it and issued an order which might have come more appropriately from a bank of Ireland. It was to the effect that the mustache was not to be worn in business hours! A large drapery firm in London objected not only to the mustache, but to hair parted down the middle. There is more tolerance now. Men look younger when clean shaved. They are also more readable without the protection given by the mustache to the upper lip. If hearts can be worn on sleeves thoughts can be read on upper lips. But is it always wise to leave the legend unhidden? Men seldom like to be divined, as La Rochefoucauld remarked once and for all time.-London Express.

An Old Alarm Clock.

At Schramberg. in the Black forest, there is a responsible alarm clock that warned sleepers it was time to get up when Charles 1, was king of England. This was made in 1680, and it is deemed a remarkable piece of workmanship. In form it resembles a lantern wherein is a lighted candle, the wick of which is automatically clipped every minute by a pair of scissors. The candle is slowly pushed upward by a spring, which also controls the mechanism of the clock, and at the required hour of waking an alarm is sounded, and at the same time the movable sides of the lantern fall, and the room is flooded with light.

Daddy's Bedtime

OUNGSTERS," asked daddy one evening before beginning his bedtime story, "have you ever seen a pink cat?" "I never did," said Evelyn. "I've seen white cats and black cats and gray cats, but I never saw a pink one," said Jack. "Well, once upon a time there was a pink cat," said daddy, "and this is how it happened:

"This cat had been a nice, pretty white kitten-she was a very young catbut she had fallen into a coal bin and had spoiled her pretty white fur, so her mistress sent her out of her house. When the kitten caught a glimpse of herself in a store window, with her fur all streaked and spotted with the coal dust, she felt so ashamed that she crept into a corner and never came out again until she had licked off all the black. Then she went out looking for a

"It was cold weather, and the kitten wandered into the first door she came The door was that of a shop belonging to a man who dyed clothing, and when he saw the pretty white kitten he said: 'Ah, I have a good idea. I'll dye the cat and put it into the window for a show.' So he caught poor pussy and dipped her into the dye vat where there was a lot of blue, and when he took the animal out she was a beautiful blue. Then he placed her in the window, and all the people of the town came to look at the blue cat."

"But you said this was to be a story about a pink cat," said Jack. "So I did," was daddy's answer. "That comes later. After a time all the people in the town had seen the blue cat, and no one came to look at her any more. Then the dyer took pussy and washed her in something that took off the blue color, and then he dipped her into the pink vat. When pussy came out of that she was a pretty pink, and the dyer put her in the window again. "After awhile, however, pussy became tired of being stared at, so she tried to lick off the color, for she said to herself, 'If I can lick off this nasty pink I shall be white again, and the dyer will have to take me out of his window.' But, try as hard as she would, she could not lick off the dyestuff. She was 'fast color,' you see, as they say about stockings. "When poor pussy saw that she could not get the color off with her tongue she made up her mind to run away, so one day when the dyer wasn't looking and he had left the window open pussy ran away into the country. There she stayed a long time, hunting birds and little animals for food, until the color had quite worn off. Then she went back into town and found a home with a little girl who treated her kindly."

FEATURES OF FALL FASHIONS

Collars That Will Adorn the New Coats-Buckle Smartness.

The sailor collar promises to be a feature of the fall modes. Many of the autumn coats have wide, flat collars on sailor lines, and the advance showing of furs includes stoles that suggest the sailor collar in the square outline of the back.

Morning walking costumes are very simple in cut and texture and are quite short in the skirt, but full enough to allow of easy movement. Braid or silk cords are used for trimmings, with touches of fur on the collar and cuffs or velvet.

A cool starch blue tone is taking the place of the vivid hue that has been so much in vogue in Paris during the Old fashioned oblong buckles are now utilized in a variety of ways by dress-
