Northern Central Railroad Votes That Amount

Demands For Better Shipping Facilities Made the Change Imperative.-New Freight Depot and Tracks Promised.

That the Northern Central Railway Company at a recent meeting of the board of directors decided to spend $30,-000 for improvement of its freight facilities in Frederick will come as welcome news to the residents of this city, says the Evening Post.

At a meeting of the directors, this determination was reached. Preliminary surveys have already been made, and it is probable that work will be started in the near future.

The plan is to purchase the triangular piece of ground to the northeast of the present passenger station. A number of dwellings now occupy this site. It is on the east side of East street and is between Church and Second streets. BRUNSWICK SAVINGS BANK RECEIVERS HAVING TROUBLE

Application Being Made for Appointment of Auxiliary Receiver in Virginia to Avoid Trouble.

Considerable difficulty is being experienced by Messrs. John S. Newman and Millard F. Shafer, receivers of the Brunswick Savings Bank, in liquidating OLD FREIGHT WAREHOUSE TO GO the affairs of that institution. One of latest obstacles met with is the fact that a considerable number of the notes representing indebtedness to the bank are held by persons whose domicils are across the line in Virginia, in which State many of the depositors live.

Several of the depositors mentioned have attached the notes held in their State, claiming that these assets of the bank are outside of the jurisdiction of the receivers, and they are in a position for that reason to make themselves preferred creditors, which claim if allowed by the court, will lessen the amount of the ultimate dividend to the other stockholders. In order to thwart the plans of the depositors in Virginia, application has been made to the court for the appointment of an auxiliary receiver in Virginia.

Stir into this half a pound of blanched and ground sweet almonds, with the cake mixture; sprinkle on top of each a few finely chopped almonds, and bake until the sides shrink from the sides of the mold.

Fritter Batter.

Sift together one cup of flour and a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt; beat well the yolks of two eggs, and add to them gradually half a cupful of milk, then stir this slowly into the flour, beating until smooth; add a tablespoonful of melted butter or olive oil, and stand aside for an hour or more; if the weather is cold, over night is preferable. When ready to use, add the whites of the eggs beaten very stiffly. With this batter, one may make fritters of fowl meats, oyster fritters, clam, cauliflower, and many other kinds of fruit or vegetable fritters, using the batter for all.

GOOD ROADS AND THE F. & E. PIKE.

If there exists any doubt whatsoever as to the position of THE CHRONICLE in respect of good roads in general and the advisability of the purchase by the State of the Frederick and Emmitsburg Pike in particular, let that doubt be dispelled forthwith. THE CHRONICLE is and always has been for good roads; not for $12,000 a mile roads, however,not for roads that are intended to show up well in illustrated magazine pictures-not "socalled" model examples that begin and end no where, but for practical roads, built solidly, drained properly, that can be maintained reasonably and that are intended for continuous thoroughfares or for connecting links between constantly travelled roads of considerable mileage. It does not require $12,000 a mile for this kind of construction and to tax the people on any such basis is unreasonable and unwar-

In regard to the F. & E. Turnpike we have but this to say The Good Roads Commission has dallied about and evaded long enough the proposition to acquire this franchise. It is one of the best and most reasonable assets that has been offered the Commission in many a day. This pike traverses a thickly populated and rich country; it is well made and can be easily and properly maintained at comparatively low cost. The people want it, there is good reason for their wanting also. it, and they are entitled to have it. Incidentally this end of the county deserves recognition in respect of good roads as well as other things and it is about time it was receiving it.

> There is a happy medium that calls for no effort whatever. It is the natural, spontaneous address of one who greets his fellowman on the thoroughfare just as he would welcome a guest into his own home. Many people put their physical and mental ailments into their greetings, just as they do into their conversations. If they have had a sleepless night they want all their friends to know it, and if they have met with reverses the pall of discontent is displayed on their physiognomy.

The Easton Gazette, for some months has been agitating the question, and urging the Republican party to declare in its platform for the right of the people to vote for or against prohibition of the liquor traffic. Many of the new laws passed in recent years have been such as have not been desired by the people, but have been forced through by certain interests antagonistic to our real needs and benefit. The state road law is one of these and the primary election law is another. Both are first-class frauds, as far as commensurate public benefit is concerned, compared with their cost.

The primary election law, especially, is not wanted in Carroll county, by either party. While there has perhaps been some "bossing" of county nominating conventions, the general result of the old system has always been as satisfactory as any system can be. The direct primary plan may cure one evil, only to bring about several new ones. It will not guarantee better nominations, nor is it likely to distribute them equitably. It will not prevent ambitious persons from getting on the tickets, nor will it help the chances of more modest, but better men, to secure office. It will not bring party harmony, but is apt to stir up more personalism than would appear in the ing this. Many a good man, now discovered that he died from hemorrhand should be considered separate and old convention plan-personalisms that will have their effect on election day. And in addition, the cost of our already unnecessarily expensive elections will be greatly increased.

Direct primaries represents a phase of populistic agitation not wanted here. The "woolly" west should not be patterned after in its thirst for political sensationalism, and continuous political performances represented by "the initiative, referendum and recall''-a ter of right, the question of submit- sort of political moving picture show, of which, direct primaries forms a part. It will be worth while to be classed as "stand patters," in some respects, at least, rather than become infected with the delusion that the remedy for all its rests in running continuously to the people with little contentions for them to settle.

The truth is, a jury of twelve picked men is more to be depended on, for a just and intelligent verdict, than one thousand average citizens, and this truth applies in favor of the delegates to a convention, as compared with all the voters in a party in a county, not only as to the satisfaction connected with their choice, but with the peaceableness and content of the masses afterwards. - Carroll Record.

CROTHERS PETITIONS FOR

On His Way to Boston from Brooklyn via Emmitsburg. - Interesting Career.

Last Friday Mr. F. J. Cooper, of Allston, Mass., passed through town on his pedestrian tour of 1050 miles on a wager of $1,500. While in town he stopped at the Emmit House where he was interviewed. Mr. Cooper is a comely young man, twenty-three years old, standing six feet four and weighing 161 pounds.

By the terms of the wager Mr. Cooper is not allowed to beg or ask for anything, but he started his trip with three hundred photographs of himself which he dare sell. The entire distance, 1050 miles, must be covered in 45 days, twelve of which were taken in reaching Emmitsburg.

At 9 A. M. February 6th he left The Times office in Brooklyn and passed through Trenton, N. J., to Morristown then to Philadelphia where he was arrested for half an hour as a "bum." On his release he went to Darby, to Chester, Wilmington, Del., via Holyoke, to Newark, Aberdeen and Abingdon, to Baltimore, Elkridge, Washington, Tenallytown, Rockville, Frederick, Thurmont and Emmitsburg.

For a man so young Mr. Cooper has a remarkable career. He has been in every state in the Union yet never rode more than 500 miles in a passenger car. Shank's mare and freights took him where he desired. Of all the noted pedestrians Cooper says he is the only American one. The other celebrated men at this kind of work or sport are foreign born. Among his achievements may be mentioned the following: Walked from St. Louis to San Francisco in 36 days, then back to Reno, Nev., in -by far to keep up your subscrip- 9 days winning $1,000. The previous record from St. Louis to Frisco was 39 days held by Dan O'Leary. At Albany, N. Y., on a mile track he covered 221 miles in 6 days and 6 nights. Of test only three finished. He has walked 100 miles in 100 hours without sleep. This feat was performed at the Albany State Fair. He has been a professional walker for four years.

On Saturday he left Emmitsburg for Gettysburg, thence to Harrisburg, Elmira, N. Y., Albany and Boston.

Next June he will start from Boston for San Francisco for the World's cham-After you get one year be- pionship. He has already beaten one of Weston's Records having walked from Chicago to Portland in 44 days, Weston did it in 63 days.

ABOUT SALE ADVERTISEMENTS.

The buying public is very apt to size up a man's sale from the sale bill and newspaper advertisement he has printed. Those who have good stock and goods to offer are wise in calling attention to the fact in a well displayed advertisement and a bill of the proper size. This method attracts bidders and materially increases the revenue from the sale.

THE CHRONICLE already has a long list of sales. Add yours to the number and have your bills printed at this office. It will be worth your

USES OF THE BARLEY CROP.

Nearly Equal to Corn In Feeding

Value-Directions For Preparation. Barley is nearly equal to corn in value for feeding purposes, but should not make up more than half of the grain ration for horses and cattle. For the best results in feeding to horses and cattle it should be crushed or coarsely ground, as this aids digestion and also reduces the danger of injury to the mouths of the animals from the beards. For hog feed, simply soaking the whole grain overnight will suffice. The finest kind of bacon is produced from feeding ground barley mixed with skimmilk. Barley is also an excellent feed for sheep. It can be fed whole or crushed.

Barley properly cut and cured will furnish a very nutritious hay that is readily eaten by all kinds of stock. When intended for hay it should be sown more thickly than when intended for grain. In growing winter barley for hay the mistake most commonly made is in letting the crop become too ripe in the belief that better results will be secured if the grain is allowed to fill. This is done at the expense of the stem and leaves, as much of the material from which the grain is produced is stored there. The barley is bearded, and if left too long before cutting the beards become hard and will injure the mouths of the animals. When the crop is cut in the flowering stage the beards are soft and will be found to be less injurious than if allowed to ripen further. The crop can be cut with a mower and handled like other hay.

Spring hooded barléy should be sown as early as possible in the spring after the danger of severe frosts is over. The plant has a large, juicy stem and very broad, green leaves. As the heads are not bearded, this variety is preferable to the Tennessee Winter for soiling and haymaking purposes. If sown early it will grow rapidly and yield a large quantity of excellent green feed, relished by all kinds of stock. If cut when the grain is in the milk stage it will yield a large crop of nutritious hay that will give better results in feeding than will most native hays .-Bulletin of United States Department of Agriculture.

Pruning In Winter.

Now is the best time to take out dead branches from old orchard trees, says the American Cultityator, Some of the leaves are still on, and it is easy to pick out dead limbs. Pruning now will save much extra work in the spring, when time is precious. Moreover, many insects and diseases will be destroyed. To make sure of it burn the limbs. Dead limbs provide excellent camping grounds for insects and diseases. Always cut close to the trunk; do not leave a stub.

To meet the requirements of a good farmer it is necessary to spend some of the winter weather in studying the problems of the farm.

Orchard and Garden.

Those who argue that fruit is uncertain and that the orchard is seldom profitable do not give an estimate of the work given their trees. It may be that their orchards do not get much attention, which, of course, explains why they are unprofitable.

Permanent labels for trees and shrubs may be made from zinc cut into strips. If the name is written on the zinc with an ordinary lead pencil it will prove indelible and will not be affected by the elements.

It is a good idea to plan now for an evergreen windbreak to protect your orchard, but do not set the trees now; wait until spring.

Store the ladders under cover, but give them a good coat of paint first.

Good garden implements are essential for successful gardening. Much of the benefit and pleasure derived from work in the garden is missed by having poor tools. Spend part of the winter leisure in getting the tools in shape.

Prepare the soil for your bedding plants which are to be planted next spring. You cannot take too much pains in preparing the soil.

If you have decided to diversify your crops carry out the idea by planting several kinds of fruits. The garden, too, should show a nice variety. You may specialize if you wish, but be sure to have something else besides your specialty.

Get busy with the saw and pruning shears and clean out every dead and eankered branch.

The Early Drum.

Drums are probably an eastern idea introduced by the crusaders into Europe. They are frequently mentioned in accounts of the first crusade. When queen made triumphal entry into Calais in 1347 "tambours" were among "'A woman may be covered in the instruments which were played church, but not when arraigned in a in their honor. Another of these was called a "nacaire" or kettledrum, taken, together with its name, from the Arabs. The poet Chaucer also mentioned this instrument in his description of the tournament in "The "And she would appear, in her legal Knight's Tale." The Finest and Most Beautiful Swan"

HINGS are not always what they seem," said daddy to the two children one evening, "as you will learn from the following story: "Once upon a time there was a mother duck which was sitting on some eggs. One of them had been put into her nest by the farmer, but she did not know that. What she did know was that the egg was larger than the others, that it took much longer to hatch and that when the shell finally broke out came a little one bigger and uglier than the rest of the brood. "'Oh, my!' said the mother duck. 'How much uglier this one is than the rest of my children!' But she was good, like all mothers, and gave food to the ugly little one and taught it how to swim just like the others.

"The poor ugly duckling would have had a hard time of it if it had not been for its mother. The other ducks, even its own brothers and sisters, bit it, and the hens pecked at it. 'He is so big and ugly!' they all said.

"Only one thing made the ugly duckling a little happier. It could swim better and faster and farther than any of its brothers and sisters, even better than its mother. But after a time it became tired of all the trouble it was having. 'All the other birds try to bite me, and they make fun of me and ill treat me,' said the duckling to itself. 'I won't stand it any longer. I'm going to run away.'

"And run away it did. It was in the fall, and winter was near. For a time the poor ugly duckling had little trouble in finding enough food, but when it began to snow and the water froze it had a hard time. Indeed, it nearly died several times in the meadow grass where it made its home. But at last one beautiful morning the sun shone brightly, the birds sang again, and all the creatures knew that the springtime had come.

"They were all happy but the ugly duckling. The poor thing had no home. It stretched out its wings and found them bigger and stronger than ever, but it did not know where to go.

"Suddenly, swimming along slowly and very gracefully in the water, it side of the river. For a brief period, saw three swans, with beautiful long necks, swimming toward it. 'Oh,' said however, it enjoyed a certain fame as the ugly duckling to itself, 'I wish I was like one of those fine birds.' And it a health resort. That was, as Sir Henbowed its head in sorrow to think how ugly it was. But as it did so it saw its own reflection in the water, and what do you think it saw?"

"I don't know," said Evelyn and Jack together, which made daddy laugh. "Why," he said, "the ugly duckling had changed into a beautiful swan. It tures fled from the ravages of the great had never been a duckling at all, but a swan, which is considered so much more beautiful than a duck when it is full grown. The three swans welcomed it to their home, and the people to whom they belonged thought the new dicinal virtues in the nauseous smell." swan was the finest and most beautiful of the four."

IN FASHION'S REALM.

White Tulle Toques With Fur Bandings-Charming New Blouses. An interesting fashion in millinery which originated in Paris is the veiling of black velvet hats and toques with white tulle or net, which is banded with narrow strips of fur.

Porcelain bead embroidery on chiffon and crepe de chine composes some of the dainty new blouses. A practical notion is to veil the embroidery with a soft colored mousseline de soie, which is pretty as well as practical, for it prevents the bead embroidery from catching in the linings of coats.

The Milk In the Cocoanut.

Probably everybody has wondered at times what kind of stuff the "milk" of the cocoanut is. One inducement generally held out by the dealer to the prospective purchaser is that the nuts are "all milky." Recent analyses, however, have dissipated the delusion that the fluid has anything in common with real milk. It contains only 4 per cent up of mineral matter and tartaric acid. More than half of the sugar present is mannitol, the sweet principle of man-The all night and next day habits of na, which is sometimes found also in Phil May, the artist, have furnished wine as a product of normal grape sugar. The question has been discussed as to whether it would be profsee the crooked and the men who look across May one night and heard that itable to extract the cocoanut water for the sake of its cane sugar, but as this amounts to only one-tenth per cent the process would not be commercially successful in spite of the water being a waste product. Even if the water contained 5 per cent of sugar, as some specimens appear to have shown, the recovery of this amount would be unprofitablé. The juice of the sugar cane yields nearly 20 per cent of sugar. - New York

A Fine Talker.

"I like the looks of this parrot," said the lady who had stepped into the bird store. "Is he a good talker?" The proprietor replied that the bird was an excellent talker, and it was evident the customer was favorably impressed. "What is your price for him?" she isked. "The man had noticed the rich apparel worn by his customer, and he judged that there was a chance to make a little "easy money" at the expense of one who would never miss it. "Ten dollars," he said, with just the slightest possible hesitation. "Five dollars, madam," instantly croaked the parrot. "The lady looked at the proprietor, who had turned red. "He certainly is a fine talker," she said, "and he also seems to have good sense. I am willing to take him at his
