JAP ANSWERS HOBSON

WAR AN IMPOSSIBILITY

Physical Difficulties In Way of Such an Action

CALLS MERRIMACH HERO DREAMER

To Transport a Real Army Japan
Would Have to Impress Every Steamer Afloat in Japanese
Waters.—War a Dream.

Some one has come to the defense of this country against Hobson, and it is a Japanese naval officer, naval attache of the Mikado at Washington. Commander Tokutar Hiraga was interviewed by the New York Times and gave his opinion which does not at all agree with the Hobson talk.

"War between Japan and the United States is an impossibility now or at any time," He said Hobson is a dreamer. "Do you know that one of the hardest things for me to realize is that he is a naval officer? I know perfectly well that he is, and I know his brilliant record, but when I read his speeches in Congress I find it difficult to persuade myself that he knows the sea or to ever have been aboard a canal boat.

"Mr. Hobson and men like him talk about a war between Japan and the United States as if it were the easiest thing in the world to bring about. It is not easy to make war. It is hard. It is hard even in ordinary circumstances when the belligerent nations have only to cross a boundary line; it is practically impossible when they would have to cross an ocean like the Pacific.

"Did you ever stop to consider the difficulties in the way of moving a division of troops over sea by transport?

"A one-hundred-ton small boat can carry fifty soldiers or less, and that is all. It is 3,445 miles from Japan to Hawaii and 2,288 miles from there to San Francisco. I suppose those figures convey nothing to your mind, but if you could realize that the distance from Maine to Florida is only a fraction of the distance between San Francisco and Hawaii and perfectly inconsiderable when you begin to count up the miles between Honolulu and Yokohama you might have some idea of what a transport force with a battleship escort would be up against.

"And then remember this. A transport is a thing almost impossible to protect on a long voyage. Speaking from a military standpoint, it is the hardest thing in the world to guard a transport. To transport a real army we would have to impress every steamer afloat in Japanese waters.

"Here is one illustration which will show you the practical difficulties in the way of such a thing as Capt. Hobson so easily predicts. During the Russian war we had a fleet guarding six transports in the Straits of Korea. Three Russian cruisers came along, and sank the transports. Mind you, this was only eighty miles off the Japanese coast, and you might almost say that they were on our own waters. What would happen if we tried to convey a fleet of transports across the Pacific Ocean to a point 5,000 miles away?"

Commander Hiraga took a puff at his cigarette and meditated. "I don't want to talk military matters," he said, watching the smoke rings lift up toward the ceiling. "I would like to talk about psychology. Do you suppose Congressman Hobson dreams these things, or imagines them in his waking moments? To take him at his word one would assume that nothing is necessary to get an army across the Pacific Ocean except to get a few ships together and put several thousand men on board them. I have been through more wars than Mr. Hobson has, and I tell you it is impossible. If the thing which he predicts could occur, your whole Pacific Coast would be devastated by Japanese soldiery. It is as impossible as to imagine the advent of an army from Mars.

"And Hobson is a navy man!"

"He dreams, I say. It is because of this nightmare habit of his that we Japanese never take any interest in Mr. Hobson's speeches."

When asked about a naval war he said "That is a dream too."

Of the Philippines he said: "As a citizen of Japan I can assure you unofficially that we don't want the Philippines. We spent ten years taking care of Formosa, and it is only now that Formosa can stand on her own feet. If we took the Philippines we would not only duplicate that experience but in all probability it would take us a great deal longer than it did with Formosa to make this island self-sustaining. I'll tell you what I'll do," he added, with the rainbow smile that is one of the most ingratiating about this young commander, "if you'll give us the islands and pay the expenses of running them we'll take them. That's about as far as we'll go. Is it a bargain?"

JOHN LEE CARROLL ONCE GOVERNOR IS DEAD

Former Maryland Chief Executive Succumbs to Old Age in Washington.
—Member of Historic Family.

John Lee Carroll, former chief executive of Maryland, died at his home in Washington Monday morning. His death was due to the weakness of old age, he being in his 81st year.

He was governor of Maryland in 1876-80. His family is one of the most distinguished in the history of the State. Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, signer of the Declaration of Independence, was his great-grandfather. In 1851 John Lee Carroll, at the age of 21, was admitted to the Maryland State bar. He was elected State Senator in 1867 and re-elected at the expiration of his term. After a bitter contest in 1875 he was elected Governor of Maryland over J. Morrison Harris of the "Know Nothing Party." His election was contested before the Legislature, but finally he was declared elected. During his administration from 1876 to 1880 occurred the famous Baltimore & Ohio Railroad strike, one of the greatest in railroad history. Federal aid had to be sought before the strike was broken.

Gov. Carroll was twice married, first to Miss Anita Phelps of New York, and in 1877 to Miss Mary Carter Thompson, of Staunton, Va. He is survived by three daughters and three sons, Countess de Kergerlay and the Baroness La Grange, of Paris; Mrs. Robbins, of New York, Royal and Philip Carroll, of New York, and Charles Carroll, of Paris.

INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOLS FOR PREVENTION OF FIRE

Suggestion Made by State Fire Marshal Kwell Meets With The Approval of Governor Crothers.

State Fire Marshal Thomas J. Ewell has laid before Governor Crothers a suggestion that a day be set apart in the public schools, to be known as Fire Prevention Day, when pupils will be instructed in the methods of preventing fires. Governor Crothers has approved the suggestion. He says he will do all within his power to help along the proposition.

The intention is to inform school children as well as their parents, how fires may be avoided by the destruction of useless rubbish, which is fuel to flames, and by other means.

The idea of instructing pupils in schools in methods of preventing fires had its origin in Nebraska, where the state fire marshal, in co-operation with the superintendent of schools, but without any law to support their action, inaugurated the fire prevention work through the State in the public schools. Wisconsin and Ohio have engaged in similar work.

Frederick Aroused Over School Play.

The giving of in a play by high school students, of Frederick, in which is a drinking scene, has brought about a storm of criticism from many residents of the city. The play was staged by F. H. Huseman of New York, and the closing number of "One Hundred and Fifty Minutes of Comedy and Fun" showed boys and girls sitting around tables and drinking, and in the finale standing on chairs and tables. Although the drinks imbibed by the "actors" are known to have been non-alcoholic, the critics say the depiction of such a scene should not have been permitted the students, and many of the mothers of the girls in the production forbade their attendance at the banquet which followed.

Frederick Auxiliary Water System.

Frederick has under advisement a plan to maintain a reservoir near the Monocacy, as an auxiliary to the reservoirs now used and those proposed. The water of the Monocacy could, by this means, be supplied to all manufacturing plants in dry times. Suggestions have also been made to the city authorities to conserve the rain fall by a series of small dams in the mountain streams.

Colored Woman Attempts Suicide.

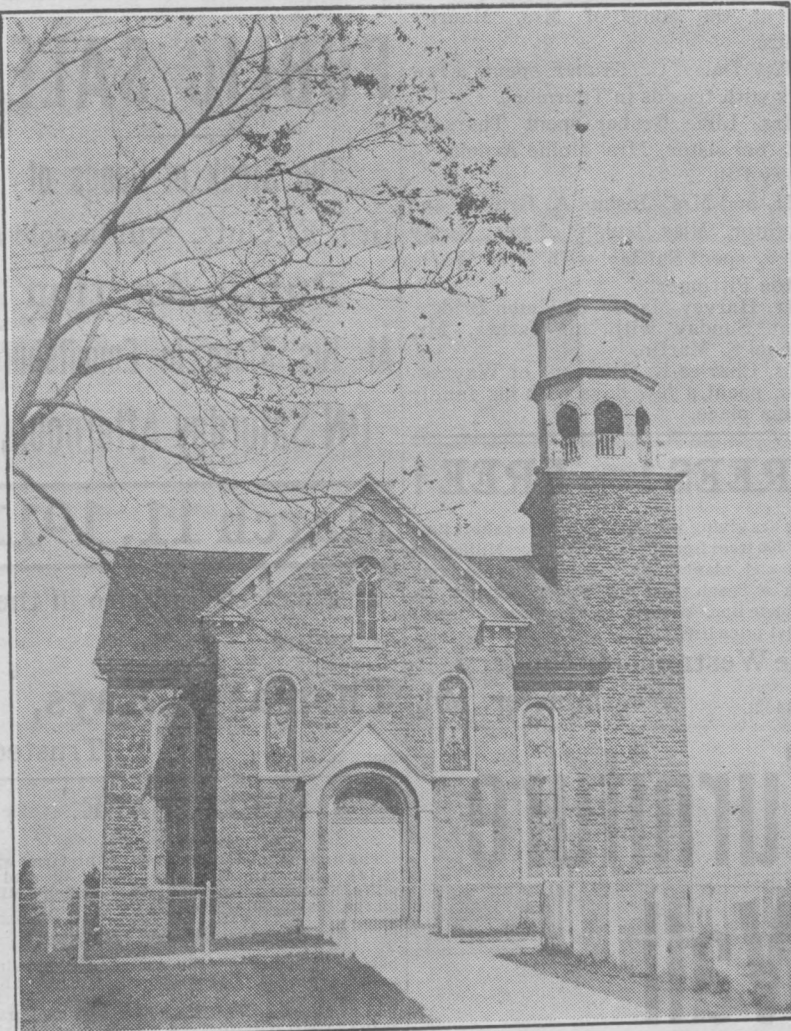

A Negro woman, it is supposed, attempted to commit suicide in Frederick on Saturday by taking poison. The woman and her husband had quarreled and this is supposed to have been the cause of her unsuccessful attempt on her life.

Sheriff Sits on Frederick.

Last Sunday Sheriff Grimes, in accord with instructions he had received from the grand jury sat down on all Sunday selling. The edict was a little hard on the smokers but they survived until Monday.

A bride and groom of Portland, Ore., were arrested in Mexico by snapshotting a jail and were incarcerated in the same jail for four hours.

PROTESTANT LAYMEN CONVENE

ELIASS EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH, EMMITSBURG, WHERE THE CONVENTION WAS HELD.

An interdenominational convention of the laymen of Protestant churches in Emmitsburg was held in the Lutheran Church last Friday afternoon and evening. The interest felt in the idea, which is handed down from the Laymen's Missionary Movement, was manifested by the large attendance of men from all parts of the district. At the afternoon meeting some 150 men comfortably filled the auditorium while almost as many ladies crowded the gallery. In the evening the church was filled with a mixed audience. The response to their invitation was most agreeable to the committee who had charge of the convention, and while they were not surprised at the size of the gathering, they were very much gratified. On the other hand those attending were enlightened and instructed by an able corps of speakers, masters in a way of the subjects they handled, which the committee had provided for the occasion.

At the afternoon session Rev. Mr. A. M. Gluck chairman of the executive committee, presided. Rev. Mr. M. L. Beard, of Thurmont, made the opening prayer, after which Rev. Mr. Gluck, in a few remarks, said that the primary object of this conference was to educate and inspire men with the needs, the aims and the work of the church, and as the first speaker introduced Rev. Dr. Luther Kuhlman, of Gettysburg, whose address was on "The Supremacy of Missions."

Dr. Kuhlman remarked the appropriate place the subject was given on the program for undoubtedly the work of missions is of primary importance, it is first on the programme of the church's work. We are living in a missionary age, whose era dates back almost a century and a half with Dr. Carey as the pioneer. In those days the work of evangelizing the world received little sympathy. Dr. Carey was stigmatized as a miserable enthusiast. Since then the church has made progress and now this question is not secondary. It is the one great question that stands supreme in our thought. If it dominates all other things we shall have accomplished something worth while.

Dr. Kuhlman emphasized the fact that men stand in greater need of awakening than women. In the past men have relegated the mission work to the women and children of the congregation. The fact of such a convention as the one he was addressing led the speaker to believe that the right kind of progress was being made and the work of missions was being put in the place of first importance, and further to the conviction of the correctness of his theme, "The Supremacy of Missions." This statement the speaker very eloquently established.

In the first place he showed that in our strictly material interests, in our human every day, ordinary life the Gospel of Christ is an absolute necessity. The only agent that will drive out selfishness, covetousness and the like is the Gospel. Ministers are doing more to bring about the best material conditions than any other agent.

As to the higher and spiritual interests of the race, the work of missions brings us in harmony with the supreme purpose in the mind and heart of God. He must be revealed to men and through this revelation redeem the world. Take all references to this purpose from his word and the Bible loses its coherence. Dr. Kuhlman traced this idea through the Old and New Testaments and closed his address with an appeal for greater interest in this supreme question.

The next speaker introduced was Rev. Yutaka Munakachi, of Tokio, Japan, now staying in Baltimore. His topic was "The Urgency and Crisis in the Far East." Rev. Munakachi is a man of brilliant intellect and unusual attainments. He complimented and thanked Dr. Kuhlman for his splendid address and in the course of his remarks, in no uncertain way, showed that this was the opportune time for the spread of the Gospel. Religious and all other boundaries are thrown down and we are in a new era of consciousness of the solidarity of the race. The obligation to take advantage of the times proceeds from God Himself.

"The Uprising of Men for World Conquest" was the subject of the next address which was delivered by Dr. Murray Galt Motter. Dr. Motter was born in Emmitsburg and baptised in the church from which he was speaking.

The central place that the cause of missions holds in the church was emphasized by the speaker. The first work of the whole church is to give the Gospel to the whole world. Man is flushed with power, eager with ambition and trembling with responsibility. Women have done the missionary work hitherto. What they have sowed we are called upon to reap. The Laymen's Missionary Movement began in prayer, it continues with prayer, and through prayer it will reach its full fruition. The proper spiritual life of the individual and congregation will directly influence the missionary work of the church. This share of the labor, at least, we all are constrained to bear.

The speaker outlined the enormity of the Laymen's Missionary Movement task. No satisfactory work can be done without a missionary pastor; no satisfactory work can be done without a missionary committee and there is no satisfactory missionary church without a missionary Sunday school.

The little work that has been done is not due to indifference so much as to a lack of knowledge. With a systematic missionary education the men will rise to the task. Money is necessary but it is more necessary that the men give the subject their thought and attention.

Beside the missionary committee the speaker laid particular stress on the weekly offerings and an every-member canvass of the congregation by authorized men working in pairs.

After Dr. Motter's address the meeting resolved itself into a conference and Emory L. Coblenz, Esq., of Frederick, presided.

"Christian Friends: I have been wondering whether you ever had a meeting exactly like this before. This is the

MR. GUY K. MOTTER TALKS OF HIS CANDIDACY

"Prosecution of Wrong, Maintenance of Right" Platform of Aspirant For State's Attorneyship.

When Guy K. Motter, Esq., of Frederick was in town on Tuesday, he was interviewed by THE CHRONICLE and in reply to a number of questions concerning his candidacy for the office of state's attorney, said:

"I seek the nomination because I feel that if elected I can serve my county and state to advantage by being absolutely fearless in office, and by being zealous in the impartial discharge of all duties pertaining thereto. What may be lacking in experience shall be more than counter-balanced by my earnestness, and if I shall be elected to the high position to which I aspire I shall be dictated to solely by a conscience that has always enabled me to distinguish between right and wrong. Without fear or favor to any man or any set of men, I shall prosecute all wrong, whosoever found and shall uphold the right under all conditions. This is the broad platform upon which I stand:

"The prosecution of wrong, the maintenance of right. No immunity, no promise to befriend, shall actuate me in procuring the suffrage of any man, either in the primaries looking to my nomination, or, in the event of my nomination, in the campaign looking to my election."

FEDERAL OFFICE HOLDERS NUMBER OVER 400,000

Of These 262,608 Are Under Civil Service Rules.—President Furnished Congress With Statement.

In compliance with a Senate resolution President Taft has furnished Congress a statement of the number of office holders in the country. He says there are in all 411,322 persons in office, which is .00045 per cent. of the entire population of the United States.

Of this number the President appoints by and with the advice and consent of the Senate but 9,846. There are under civil service rules 262,608, of which the Post Office Department has 147,727. The Treasury Department has 27,093, the War Department, exclusive of officers and enlisted men of the army, 28,102; the Department of Justice 5,700, the Department of Agriculture 12,519, the Department of the Interior 14,262, the Department of Commerce and Labor 14,707, the Government Printing Office 3,925, the Inter-State Commerce Commission 614, and the Smithsonian Institution 424.

The President has 993 appointments which do not require the consent of the Senate, and 846 of them are in the Department of Justice.

Lutheran Laymen Meet.

A conference of the Lutheran churches of the county in the interest of the Laymen's Missionary Movement was held at Frederick on Tuesday.

Following a banquet, addresses were made by Rev. C. P. Wiles, pastor of Keller Memorial Church, Washington; Frederick Ohrenschild, of Baltimore, and others.

Delegates from congregations at Middletown, Jefferson, Feagaville, Thurmont, Woodsboro, Walkersville, Brad-dock, Lewistown and Frederick were in attendance. A night session was also held.

Hagerstown Water Case Appealed.

The Washington County Water Company has taken an appeal from the decision of Judge Robert R. Henderson, who overruled the demurrer filed by the water company to the Mayor and Council's amended bill. The taking of the appeal will hold up for awhile this important litigation, which was begun by the Mayor and council to prevent the company from installing meters and to compel the company to comply with its contract by furnishing a full supply of pure water.

Mr. Reist to Return to York.

W. A. Reist, for the past year proprietor of the New City Hotel in Frederick, has purchased the equipment of the Colonial Hotel in York, and March 1 will again assume proprietorship of that hostelry, which is recognized as one of the finest hotels in Pennsylvania. Mr. C. B. Cox, the manager of the City Hotel will remain in charge, the hotel still being under the charge of Mr. Reist.

Health League Forming in Frederick.

A meeting was held in the Frederick Y. M. C. A. building on Tuesday to arrange for the organization of a health league. The object of such a league, it has been explained, is largely to educate the community against the use of tobacco among the young, and other forms of intemperance.

NEW CONGRESS NEXT APRIL

DEMOCRATS ALLREADY

Plans Adopted and Commit- Named For Tariff

DEMOCRATS HOUSE MAJORITY 67

Republican Majority in Senate Reduced to Ten.—Wholesale Changes in the House.—Convene Probably on April 4.

The 62nd Congress will in all probability, convene on Tuesday, April 4th. In the new Congress the political complexion of the Senate will be fifty-one Republicans and forty-one Democrats, the Republican majority of the present session having been reduced to ten. In the House there will be a Democratic majority of sixty-seven, as against a present Republican majority of forty.

The new Congress will be called to pass the reciprocity agreement, which is not expected to reach a vote in the present Senate, but the Democrats have decided, in addition to passing this agreement, to revise the wool, lumber, steel, and food products schedules of the present law and forward this revision to the Senate for action.

The Tariff Committee has been made up for the Democrats have announced that after passing the reciprocity agreement they will at once devise bills for the revision of various tariff schedules. On this committee which has been made up with great care so that nothing radical can be done, are the following: Underwood, of Alabama; Randell, of Texas; Kitchin, of North Carolina; Hull, of Tennessee; James, of Kentucky; Brantley, of Georgia; Shackelford, of Missouri; Peters, of Massachusetts; Harrison, of New York; Palmer, of Pennsylvania; Dixon, of Indiana; Rainey, of Illinois; Hammond, of Minnesota, and Hughes, of New Jersey.

Considering its relative size, the changes in the United States Senate on the convening of the extra session will be as marked as those in the House. The last of the famous "big six," who have been identified prominently in steering legislation in that body for the last twenty years, will have departed. They are Eugene Hale and Nelson W. Aldrich, Charles F. Johnson, a Democrat, succeeds one and Henry F. Lippett the other. Charles E. Townsend, the present Representative from Michigan, will take his place in the Senate in the old seat of Julius Caesar Burrows. Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, will also move his papers and effects over from the House to succeed Mr. Burkett, and John E. Kern, of Indiana, the running mate of William J. Bryan in the last national campaign, will claim the present seat of Albert J. Beveridge. Pomerene, of Ohio, will replace Charles Dick; Martine, of New Jersey, takes the place of Senator Kean; Chilton, of West Virginia, will assume the toga of Nathan Bay Scott, while James A. Reed will come from Missouri to relieve Senator Warner, and make that delegation solidly Democratic once more.

FREE GRAND OPERA AT BUSY CORNER FREDERICK

Music Lovers Given Chance to Hear Caruso, Scotti, Journet, Farrar and Gilbert in Faust.

One hundred people crowded the music store of L. R. Dertzbaugh in Frederick on Tuesday, as his guests at a concert at the Busy Corner Talking Machine Department, which concert was conducted by Mr. Lewis R. Dertzbaugh.

The programme for the occasion was a complete act from Faust. The machine used was the latest model Victor-Victrola, and the records some of the best among the Victor output. It was hard to realize that all the natural tones of the human voice could be reproduced on a record, but so true was the opera selections that to close the eyes was only to picture the artist before you, and much pleased indeed was the intelligent audience on this the first occasion of its kind.

Mr. Dertzbaugh made no charge for this entertainment and proposes to have one of a like kind each month on the twenty-eighth, the day on which all Victor records are put on sale.

The programme gave reproductions of Faust as given by the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company and the soloists were Caruso, Scotti, Journet, Farrar and Gilbert.

The mints will stop clicking off gold coins as soon as President Taft signs the bill which Congress has just passed permitting the Secretary of the Treasury to issue gold certificates against gold bullion and foreign gold coin.

first town that the men, the business men, have felt it their duty to come together to meditate on the kingdom of God. It means something. We need business in the church and the principles of the church in business." Continuing the chairman said that our obligations assumed in the church are as binding as any he had ever run across in business. Mr. Coblenz's remarks were very interesting and his suggestions and advice most timely.

At this point in the conference a set of resolutions drawn up by the Executive Committee were read and with amendments and additions suggested by Dr. Motter, Rev. Dr. Kuhlman, Rev. Dr. Reinwald and the chairman, were adopted. They are as follows:

We, the Executive Committee of the Laymen's Missionary Convention in Emmitsburg, Md., recognizing that the mission of the whole Church is to give the Gospel to the whole world, and, whereas, it is deemed expedient to utilize the spirit of this Convention to the good of the Churches here represented, do hereby offer the following resolutions for their prayerful consideration:

1. Resolved, That we urge all congregations, even those that are struggling and weak, to meet in full, the apportionment asked of them for the carrying on of the work of the Church at large.

2. Resolved, That over and above this, the attention of individuals who have been blessed with means, be called to the great privilege of supporting native workers as their representatives on the foreign field.

3. Resolved, That in view of the great opportunities before the Church of Christ, we commend the plan of special gifts for special objects.

4. Resolved, That a missionary committee of men be appointed in each congregation by the governing body to put in force the Laymen's Movement in their congregation, and also to organize mission study classes.

5. Resolved, That the weekly method of gathering the finances of the congregations both for current expenses and for benevolence, be adopted.

6. Resolved, That an every-member canvass be made in each congregation for the purpose of putting the finances of the church, both for current expenses and for benevolence, upon a proper business basis.

7. Resolved, That we recommend to the members of the Churches here represented that they subscribe for and read the missionary magazines published by their respective denominations.

8. Resolved, That we call upon every man within the Church to recognize the full responsibility the Master has laid upon him.

9. Resolved, That we call upon every man outside the Church of Christ to take his rightful place in the army of the Lord.

10. Resolved, That the Interdenominational Committee which has provided for the convention be continued and that they arrange at some time in the future for an interdenominational meeting at which they can hear the report of the results of the operation of the ideas suggested in these resolutions.

In the absence of Rev. Mr. Hensley, of the Presbyterian Church, Rev. Richard Kootz, of the Methodist Church, conducted the opening service in the evening.

Rev. Dr. Reinwald welcomed the large audience. He declared that this meeting marked a new era in the Christian life of the community. This town had never entertained such a gathering. Dr. Reinwald introduced as the first speaker Mr. H. T. Domer, of Washington, who spoke on "Man's Opportunity and Responsibility."

Mr. Domer said that it is the man-spirit that counts in this life, their courage and daring. We are not here by accident, but we are given being for some specific object. It is important therefore that we should discover this object and live for its accomplishment. Highest in place the speaker said was our duty to the church and this he explained in an eloquent manner. Every man should place his shoulder behind something in the church.

Every man had at least one talent. This should be put to good use. It ought to be every churchman's ambition to be on the church board or council. It is inspiring to contemplate the system of the great boards of the church. Their members are the personal agents of the individual units of the congregation and the responsibility for their support rests on each member of the church.

In the matter of missions Mr. Domer said that while each man could not go personally into the field yet he could, and it is his duty to, give the equivalent of this personal service. "Now is the opportune time."

On account of the unavoidable absence of Mr. Joseph D. Baker, the next speaker on the programme, Mr. Coblenz, who spoke in the afternoon, kindly assented to address the conference in the evening and was the next speaker introduced. In beginning his remarks he said that this was not a time for a man who professed Christianity to shirk any duty and it gave him pleasure to again be able to talk to the audience and would take the same subject that was set down for Mr. Baker, "The Duties of Our Churches," changing it only to read "The Duties of Our Church Members."

He spoke at first of the disgust he had for a sham and of how many played that part in these days. People are not willing to be known as what they really are. This, he declared, is a great mistake. Be what you are and accept your responsibilities. All of us are playing the role of Christians; are we real or practising a sham? The speaker's message was "Go do something," Center yourself in Christ not in self. The vows of membership in the church are terribly binding, no legal bond is more so. We are to renounce the world, the flesh and the devil.

When men become Christ centered, when they take their part of the responsibility and work there will be no trouble about money. You can't keep it away. In his many business dealings he said, there has never been any trouble about getting money if you tell the people facts, and it will be the case in the church's business provided its members have a proper interest in its affairs and work. The money will come with the other energies that are created by such interest.

The last speaker on the programme, Mr. William F. Cochran, of Baltimore, could not be present. His place was taken by Rev. Munakachi, who gave a most eloquent and scholarly appreciation of Christ and Christianity.

MAGAZINES WIN FOR A TIME

But Taft Warns them of Trouble Ahead
Over Postal Rates.

Magazine publishers who are opposing the proposal of Postmaster General Hitchcock to increase the rate of postage on the advertising matter in their publication were informed Wednesday that they had won their point so far as the present session of Congress was concerned. Because of the pressure of business in the Senate and the fear of a filibuster by friends of the magazines, the provision for the increase has been omitted from the Post Office Appropriation bill as reported.

President Taft, however, had a set-to with some of the publishers Wednesday morning, and told them that he intended to keep up his fight to the end of his term if he did not win it before. He also told some of the things he thinks about the campaign they have waged against the proposition.

The delegation which was headed by Graham C. Patterson, editor of Pacific Monthly, and included representatives of various Western publications, told the President that all they wanted was a thorough investigation of the matter.

"You say you want an investigation," retorted the President. "Why, the Government of the United States has spent $250,000 to make an investigation. There was a hearing before the committee a year ago. It is nearly two years since I made a recommendation about this business. A year ago there was a hearing before the committee, and Mr. Wilder, who represented Butterwick's Magazine, made an answer which, as I understand it, was accepted by the Association of Periodicals as their answer. The reply of the Post Office showed it to be a very insufficient answer."

"There has been a very thorough investigation by the men who know most about it in the Post Office Department, and I must follow their recommendation because I believe it to be well founded. I am so certain that the Post Office Department has no prejudice in the slightest that I would be willing, but for continuous delays, to submit the issue again to anybody who is unprejudiced and who has intelligence enough and skill enough and experience enough to look into the matter. A delay is always a victory for those who are seeking to avoid a payment of what is due the Government."

ANNUAL PHILOMATHEAN PLAY.

On the evening of Washington's birthday the historic old Music Hall of Mt. St. Mary's College was the scene of an unusually brilliant theatrical. It was the occasion of the annual Philomathean play. This year's drama "The Barrier," a play dealing with the American Indian, proved a capital entertainment. It is rich in heart interest, while the comedy element is skillfully interspersed to relieve the tense dramatic moments. The play is cleverly written, consistent in plot, and abounds in stirring climaxes, which were keenly appreciated and well worked out by the players. The Philomathean Society is to be congratulated upon the excellent cast provided for the production.

In the stellar role Mr. William H. Sheridan, '11, gave a performance not soon to be forgotten. His Indian was natural, sympathetic and virile, and he brought out in a masterly manner the delicate shades of pathos and poetry in which the character abounds. His rendition evinced much study and was worthy of a well-schooled professional. It was a distinct creation.

As Dorothy, Mr. Thomas M. Mulhearn, '12, long famous for female impersonations, gave a charming rendition of a very difficult role. In his emotional scenes Mr. Mulhearn surpassed all his previous efforts.

Mr. Peter M. Stief gave a sparkling interpretation of Dick, a typical college man. A very pleasing stage presence aided him in making this role one of the hits of the evening.

Among the surprises of the production, Mr. Nicholas J. O'Neil, '12, stands out prominently. This was the gentleman's local debut, and he received a rousing ovation. His droll comedy methods caught the house and kept it in continual good humor.

A delightful bit of acting was the part of the messenger taken by Mr. John B. McCarthy, '12. His artistic touches made a small part stand out prominently and elicited much applause. Among the new-comers, J. Alan Hemmick, Jerome K. McMorris and Raymond J. McWilliams made a charming trio of buds and delighted the large audience with their clever acting.

William C. Keenan, '12, made a pompous chaplain, and carried off his scenes in a dignified manner.

To John H. J. Quigley, '12, fell the disagreeable role of the villain but he gave an admirable portrayal and won the approval of the house.

The remainder of the cast, Messrs. Mooney, Tahan, Eck, Campbell, McVeigh, Gaughan, Fagan, Reilly, McMorris, were excellent and rendered valuable aid toward the success of the production.

Mr. Gilbert J. Gannon, A. M., '08, had charge, and the finished production redounds greatly to his credit.

Prof. Fred A. Braun and his excellent orchestra rendered a pleasing musical programme. The play was superbly mounted and costumed.

No small credit is due Messrs. Tahan, Keenan, Glominger, Tomerlin and Rogers whose excellent work on the stage can only be rightly appreciated by those who were fortunate to witness the production.

Record Made by Sixty Hens.

M. Johnson, a poultry fancier of Glenville, N. J., made a wager that his 60 hens would lay 1,000 eggs during the month of February. When the contest was over at 5:30 Tuesday evening the last hen jumped off the nest, making the count 1,039.

Unusual Sentence by Mexicans.

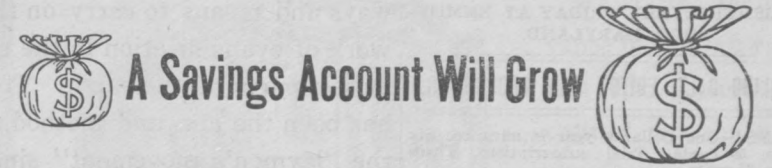

American residents of Zacatecas, Mexico, are sending out an appeal for aid from their countrymen in obtaining release from prison of J. A. Farrell, an American who was recently convicted of complicity in murder at that place and was sentenced to ten years in prison.

Farrell was arrested because the crime was committed with a pistol owned by him, and under Mexican law he was an accessory before the fact.

The shooting took place on the property of La Fe Mines, in Gaudalope, in the State of Zacatecas, where Farrell was master mechanic. A man named Jose Calvillo went on the property under influence of liquor, and proceeding to the storehouse of the company, threatened the life of Langote, the storekeeper, who rushed into the room where Farrell was busy writing letters, and begged for Farrell's pistol, as he was afraid Calvillo would kill him. Farrell did not like to lend the weapon, but Langote came again five minutes later, and this time Farrell gave in and handed him his automatic pistol.

THE CHRONICLE will be independent in politics, progressive in spirit and a champion of what it conceives to be right. Its columns will always be open for a dignified discussion by the people of any subject that may seem to them interesting, or that may in anywise be a benefit to the community at large.

THE LENTEN SEASON.

"The observance of a set time for self-examinings and self-denials," says the poet Herrick, "has been of untold benefit both in the church and the world," and experience has proved that this is so. The opportunity for self-examination, self-denial and discipline is once more at hand. To the busy world there has come a call, sanctioned by church and custom, for relaxation and retirement and for the reinvigoration of spirit that is obtained only through prayer and fasting and service and a close thought-association with Him who fasted those forty days in the wilderness. Even in its less religious aspect Lent is almost a necessity and one cannot fail to benefit by the observance of it. The rest from all-absorbing business and from the frantic pleasures of a pleasure-seeking age means recuperation for mind and body, and this in itself is good. It begets a tendency to think less of self and more of others and there follows charity in thought and act and a consideration of things above the purely mundane. But Lent has a fuller purpose and significance than this—one that looks to the highest needs of human nature, and only those who keep it in spirit and who constantly bear in mind on what it was founded can truly reap the advantages it has to offer.

THE MISSIONARY CONVENTION.

If enthusiasm counts for anything—and there can be but little enthusiasm where interest is lacking—the Interdenominational Laymen's Missionary Convention held in Emmitsburg last week was a complete success. It speaks well for the times that men with large interests, men of many professions and callings, busy men in all walks of life give up their ordinary avocations and come together in the big centers of population in response to religion's call, and in conventions and formal meetings give freely of their time and brains and effort and money in furnishing ways and means to carry on the work of evangelization in the remotest parts of the earth. This has been the aim and method of the "laymen's movement" since it was inaugurated; and only through each layman's realization that the responsibility for the spread of christianity rests on him as well as on the clergy—that he is indeed his "brother's keeper"—has this movement, already powerful in its effect, spread so rapidly throughout the civilized world.

During the past year laymen's conventions have been held in many of our larger cities. The work has extended beyond them into cities of smaller size and is now making itself felt in the rural communities. Only a few weeks ago a large convention attended by very earnest men was in session in Frederick and the outgrowth of that meeting was the splendid convention of last Friday in the Lutheran Church—a well attended convention characterized by able, eloquent and practical addresses that seemed to inspire and uplift. The whole effect of this convention, however, will be of little avail if the resolutions recommended by that body are not adopted and their provisions carried out by the respective congregations to which they are to be submitted. These resolutions call for very businesslike methods and above all for much individual effort and responsibility without which no cause howsoever good can prosper.

REPAIR THE STREETS.

On several occasions lately reference has been made in these columns to the unsatisfactory condition of the streets of Emmitsburg. Voicing the opinion of the citizens of the town, THE CHRONICLE has urged the Commissioners to take immediate action. There are a number of ditches, troughs and holes here and there in prominent places and the mud that has been churned up for months past is many inches deep in some localities. There is no valid reason why the streets should not be scraped without further ado. Now is the time to do it. The best time of all.

There are a number of sidewalks also (and some that once were sidewalks) that should claim the careful attention of Emmitsburg's governing body. It has the legal right to insist that property owners keep their respective sidewalks in repair, and the Commissioners by failing to enforce the law voluntarily invite criticism upon their non action.

ACCORDING to a special dispatch to the New York Times, Pope Pius X, through the Vatican organ, has condemned in emphatic terms the present style in women's dress. In view of the extremes to which ultra society has gone in this respect a castigation from so high an authority is welcomed in the interest of common decency and feminine morality. "In the old Roman days," the Pontiff is credited with saying, "the demi-monde was publicly marked; but now even young women called ladies so dress that one class is mistaken for the other." It must be admitted that society has lately established a standard for in-delicacy in apparel heretofore unheard of and it is to be hoped that every womanly woman will lose no occasion for putting her stamp of disapproval upon "sheath gowns," "harem skirts" and all apparel akin to these.

THE people of Baltimore are fortunate in having the chance to nominate Mayor Mahool for a second term. The ring politicians are after the job hot foot, but for the sake of decency and the city's welfare it behooves every interest in Baltimore to come out strongly for the intrepid, clean and honest little fellow who has given and desires to continue giving the tax payers the full worth of their money.

Story of Queue Day in Shanghai.

A dispatch from Shanghai dated February 1 as published in the New York Times gives the following interesting incidents in connection with cutting off of queues in a public tea garden in that city.

Some time ago a society for the promotion of queue cutting was started locally, largely on the initiative of Huany Siueph, and it was arranged by advertisement that a demonstration on these lines should take place.

Accordingly, between 1 and 2 o'clock in the afternoon, a very large number of Chinese proceeded to flock to the place, and shortly before the latter hour operations began. It was anticipated that Wu Ting-fang would be present to inaugurate the proceedings by having his own queue cut off publicly, but he was unable to do so, and it is understood that the operation was performed privately at his house in Avenue Road.

Some members of the society started the afternoon's work by inviting the audience to come forward to have their queues removed. It was not long before the invitation was accepted, and as each applicant for the barber's attention came up and had the hirsute appendage shown away there was loud applause from the spectators, who completely filled the large hall.

Shortly after the opening of the demonstration an individual ascended the platform, and delivered an oration in which he spoke against the proceedings. His remarks had the effect of raising the ire of the audience, and there was every evidence that if he continued he would be hustled off the platform. He ceased just in time to prevent this, and thereafter the proceedings went on with the utmost harmony and enthusiasm.

In response to the calls of the leaders one after another came forward and the afternoon wore on with no perceptible diminution of the numbers. Several of those who went to have their queues cut off delivered short addresses upon the virtue of queue cutting and the uselessness of the appendage, and the afternoon passed "instructively" and merrily.

As soon as those who had publicly discarded their queues were finished with the ceremony they proceeded to one of the side rooms and here a novel and interesting sight could be witnessed. With scissors and comb one would dress the hair of the other, and as amateur barbers their efforts were perhaps not altogether so successful as to entitle them to a place in a hairdresser's establishment. Nevertheless, it did for the time being, and all afternoon a steady stream of queueless Chinamen could be seen leaving the vicinity.

At the same time as this was in progress a number of barbers were at work round about the hall, and those too modest to have the queue cut off in public were being operated upon here. There can be no doubt that a lot of real enthusiasm is behind the movement, and in the course of the next few weeks many more queues will go. It is expected that there will be a meeting for this purpose on the fifteenth day of each month.

How "Vaudeville" "Arose."

How many of the people who earn their living in vaudeville, and of the still greater number who take their chief pleasure therein, know how the modern sense of the word "arose"? The latest serious railway accident in France has suggested the subject.

The scene of it was Vire, a picturesque little town in the heart of what the French call the Norman Switzerland. There, beneath the lofty donjon which is all that remains of Henry I's great castle, is the little hamlet of Vaux de Vire, the dwelling place in the fifteenth century of Oliver Basselin, the author of a series of witty drinking songs.

One of the best known of them made merry over the singer's own red nose entitling the red nosed comedian of today to claim an ancient and literary pedigree. It was from Vaux de Vire and its merry singer that the word, corrupted into vaudeville, passed into the French language and afterward into our own. —New York Sun.

STATE MISCELLANY

Interesting Paragraphic News From Various Sections of Maryland.

The prospects are that nearly $500,000 will be spent in public and business buildings in Cumberland this year, besides at least $100,000 for private residences.

On Saturday Rev. Dr. Thomas Hamilton Lewis on the rounding out of 25 years as president of Western Maryland College, was presented with a beautiful silver testimonial at the alumni banquet held at Hotel Stafford, Baltimore.

When George W. Taylor, a Williamsport merchant, opened his mail he found a "Black Hand" letter. The missive, scrawled in a peculiar hand, read: "Sell your goods at right prices or you will be fixed. Beware!" The letter bore no signature outside of a large black hand crudely drawn.

Burned beyond recognition, Roy Johnson, a prominent young man of Salisbury died in the Peninsula General Hospital, as the result of an explosion of gasoline in the Middle Neck road, near that city, Saturday afternoon. Mr. Johnson had charge of one of the large steam rollers of the county, and had been engaged for sometime working on that road.

Prof. Benjamin Smith, supervisor of colored schools for Washington county, has planned to hold an industrial conference for the colored people of that county at Court Hall, Hagerstown, March 15. The industrial and rural school problem will be discussed. M. Bates Stephens, William S. Powell, Harry S. Cummings, Prof. George H. C. Williams, Prof. McDonald and Prof. Saunders will be present.

Millard Twigg and C. Nethkin, of Keyser, executors of Charles E. Twigg who was found dead with his bride-to-be, Grace Elloser, at the home of the latter, in Cumberland, December 31, came to Cumberland and claimed the personal property of Twigg. So much regarded as evidence has been told lately that it is assured now the case is bound to be brought to the attention of the April grand jury.

Allen J. Winebrenner, Sr., 78 years old, retired merchant of Frederick, died after a long illness of paralysis Monday night. He was born at Hanover, Pa., and came to Frederick when 21 years old. For about 20 years he was engaged in the grocery business, after which he retired. He is survived by a widow, formerly Miss Caroline Ebert, three sons—George B., of Philadelphia, Samuel E. and Edward Winebrenner, and one daughter, Miss Mollie Winebrenner.

Mrs. William Sharp, a bride of seven weeks, became a widow Sunday by the voluntary act of her husband, who committed suicide by hanging himself with a hay rope, in his barn, just across the line from Carroll, in Baltimore county, about a mile and a half from Alesia. Mrs. Sharp went to the barn for some purpose and found Mr. Sharp hanging by the neck. He had apparently been dead for an hour or two. Financial troubles, it is said, led to the commission of the rash act, as he was worried over a considerable indebtedness.

DO TRUSTS MAKE MONEY?

Net profits of Swift & Co. for the fiscal year ended September 30, 1910, were according to the figures presented at the annual meeting recently, $7,000,000. This is equal to 11.75 per cent. on the outstanding capital of $60,000,000. These profits compare with 13.66 per cent. earned in 1909 and 12.60 in 1908. The company 7 per cent. in dividends, leaving $2,850,000 to be carried to surplus, which item now stands at $24,850,000.

The stockholders voted to increase the capital to $75,000,000. Shareholders of record January 16 will have the right to subscribe in proportion to their holdings one share of new stock for each four shares previously held. The full amount of the authorized increase, $15,000,000, is to be issued.

The financial statement submitted at the meeting of stockholders showed an increase for the year of $2,000,525 in cash and $2,558,700 in accounts receivable. The inventory jumped $6,749,471, being $33,795,488, against $27,046,017 the previous year.

Among the liabilities, bills payable increased $10,662,550. This, of course, is off-set by the gain in quick assets.

L. F. Swift, president of the company, said, among other things, to the shareholders:

"Swift & Co.'s result sheets show less than 3 per cent. profit on sales during 1910. A profit is made on by-products which were wasted before we had learned how to utilize them by the aid of modern machinery and scientific handling."

English Earl Entertains 30,000.

At the christening of the heir of Earl and Countess Fitzwilliam in Yorkshire, 30,000 people were entertained. An ox roasted whole, 17,000 sandwiches, 30,000 buns, four tons of cake and bread, and 2,000 gallons of beer were some items of the list of provisions consumed. The park bore the appearance of a vast encampment.

Bill For Post Office Site Passed.

The bill appropriating $25,000 for the purchase of a site for the new post office building at Frederick has been passed.

EDITORIALS FROM MARYLAND EXCHANGES.

The Calender and Matrimony.

Just now the ages at which other people marry seem to be a distressing subject to some legislators and several clubwomen. Ought a man under 21 to marry? Should a girl under 18 marry? They all are thinking it over carefully. These people say they must not, and it has as least given a number of women an opportunity to put forth cherished ideas. They claim that many women marry men at 19 whom they never would marry at 25. Well, there are women who marry men at 25 whom they don't want at 30.

If you keep on raising the age until you get a limit where you can faithfully and conscientiously declare, "Now these people will be happy together for ever and ever," you will have reached the age of senility. Men and women aren't going to be happy and congenial together simply because the calendar shows they are getting along in years, or that they are five years older than they were five years ago. If a girl and a man are attracted to one another, they might as well get married before they begin to grow apart. A little while and they get to love their personal freedom. If they should marry then, they would be apt not to show so much of that sweet and amiable disposition which distinguished them in the early days of their courtship.

Get married if you want to, so long as you do it quietly. Marry for love when you're young, for companionship when you're wise, for a home if you desire, for money if you want it. And if the life isn't what you expect, play the game the best you can.

Don't blame your unrest on the calendar. We know women who were married at 18 or 19, and we never have had any fault to find with them—they get along amiable, sympathetically, with husbands. If they wish they had married later they don't make the subject dinner table chatter. Marriage is all right; take it or leave it, but don't check up your years to find out how much you really care for the other half. —Cumberland News.

Wider Use of School Houses.

Mr. John E. Semmes, of Baltimore, until recently president of the Baltimore School Board, believes that school houses should be used after school hours for lectures and other purposes along educational lines. The idea is a good one. Such a policy in the counties would be if possible, more beneficial than in the cities. The public should receive the largest measure of benefit from the people's money invested in school buildings. In many neighborhoods the school-houses are the only available buildings for lectures debating or literary societies, musicales etc. Subjects of interest to farmers and to their families, including domestic science would not only be highly educational but would serve the useful purpose of bringing together the people of the various communities in a social way that would otherwise be impossible. The subject is one that our School Board should carefully consider. —Bel Air Times.

Planting Orchards.

Planting orchards is "the order of the day" all around this section of the country and it is a good thing if pushed along to a finish. All around over these hills are worn out old fields (for grain) waiting for the resurrection of the enterprising fruit tree planters, who know how. Knowing how is the thing.

Hundreds of orchards have been planted years ago on the didn't-know how plan. The ground was not plowed thoroughly, plowed deep enough to give room for trees to root. People dug holes, put in some rich dirt upon which the young trees fed till the roots grew out to solid hard, mother earth, where they had to stop—they were up against it, could go no further and there they are; trees ten to twenty-five years old yielding little dwarfed fruit if any at all, for lack of proper nourishment. The roots could not expand in solid ground.

Here come the new orchardists, with big strong plows. They hitch three or four strong horses or mules up and plow, and plow, cross plow, rip and tear up the ground down three or four

CONCERNING SAN JOSE SCALE

The following Suggestions on the Control of the San Jose Scale Are Taken From an Exchange.

First, find out if you have scale. This is easy to the experienced eye. To the inexperienced it is also readily detected with a careful examination. At this season of the year a badly infested tree presents a grayish appearance, which upon close examination reveals to the naked eye little round scaly particles of various sizes which separate readily from the bark of the tree, and under which is protected the tiny insect, which, however, is too small to be observed. An examination in the summertime will show the young lice—yellowish in color—crawling about over the scales and branches of the tree. An examination of the fruit of a scale-infested tree also reveals the presence of the insect. Each scale located on fruit is surrounded by feet deep, then plant and watch the trees grow.

All over this country good fruit land lies waiting, waiting, waiting, going hungry and poor, and the land owners as poor, waiting for something to turn up.

Something is turning up now. Brains are at work. Scientists are analyzing the land and telling brainy people where and how to plant fruit trees. Old fields that old time farmers would gladly sell at ten or fifteen dollars per acre, are being made into five-hundred dollar per-acre land.

From the Potomac river to the Juniata lay thousands of acres of the finest kind of fruit lands with nothing growing thereon but a few pine bushes sassafras or locust sprouts. Old kildeer and whippoorwill fields upon which an Irishman's cow would starve to death unless fenced to keep her out. Young men are hauling ties and mine props to get tobacco and cigarettes to ruin their bodies and brains when they should be hauling apples to market, worth more per barrel than props per wagon load; chewing tobacco rather than eating apples, apple dumplings and pies. Instead of slaving themselves and their horses in rough weather, had they plowed deep and planned well they might be reading magazines, riding in autos and enjoying luxuries.

Get busy, boys. Learn how to plant fruit trees right, and also learn how to raise vegetables right. You can make forty grains grow where only one has grown before. Buy some of the old fields, plow deep while sluggards sleep and you'll have fruit to sell and keep. Get busy not only on fruit raising, but on all kinds of grains, vegetables, fowls and stock. Don't die in the ditch. There are "acres of diamonds" awaiting the diggers.—Cumberland Allegan-ian.

The Lincoln Memorial.

Both Houses of congress have passed a bill appropriating $2,000,000 to create a memorial to a man who was born in a log cabin that cost about $15 to build. The man was Abraham Lincoln. This is an extraordinarily large sum of public money to be expended upon a memorial to an individual, but the American republic is grateful to the man who by his wisdom, his unrelenting toil in the Presidential office preserved the Union which Washington established. Lincoln has become in a brief half century one of the best beloved and most renowned figures in all human history. Though a modern, he looms up like one of Plutarch's ancients, majestic and immortal.

Now that this large appropriation has been made and a commission appointed to decide upon the nature of the memorial it is to be hoped that the money will be expended in a manner that would meet the approval of Lincoln himself, who was a plain homespun practical sort of a man, with no frills. Various suggestions have been made as to what form the memorial shall take. A great portico embellished with sculptures, including, of course, a statue of Lincoln, with rows of Linden trees as a back ground, has been suggested in connection with a memorial bridge across the Potomac from Washington to Arlington. Another proposal is to build a monumental peristyle surrounding the plaza at the new Union station in Washington, the chief feature being a frieze inscribed with quotations from Lincoln's speeches. Still another suggestion is for the building of a magnificent road from Washington to Gettysburg.

It is highly probable that the Gettysburg road would appeal to Abraham Lincoln as the most fitting of the memorials outlined. A road is useful, and it may be made ornamental as well. With $2,000,000 at command the commission could create a work of art all the way from the national capital to the field of the greatest battle in the history of the republic. More and more as the years pass the people of this and other lands will make pilgrimages to that spot where was fought the pivotal battle of the civil war and where President Lincoln delivered the ablest and most noted speech of the century. The Lincoln memorial road would become an international highway for the lovers of liberty.—Frederick News.

a bright red blotch. After having discovered the presence of the scale, the next thing is to apply the remedy. This may be done any time during the dormant season, but as before stated it is preferable to do it in the early spring. In regard to the mixture to apply, either lime sulphur or some good miscible oil will accomplish the purpose. The lime sulphur mixture is by many considered preferable on account of its fungicidal properties. And of its different forms the concentrated is more satisfactory, either home made or factory made. Information in regard to making the different forms of Lime Sulphur wash is given in Farmers Bulletin No. 143, which may be obtained free from the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, College Park, Md. A complete spray calendar is also given in this Bulletin.

OPEN THE DOOR.

PEN the door of your heart, my lad,
To the angel of love and truth
When the world is full of unnumbered joys
In the beautiful dawn of youth,
Casting aside all things that mar,
Saying to wrong, "Depart!"
To the voices of hope that are calling you
Open the door of your heart.

Open the door of your heart, my lass,
To the things that shall abide,
To the holy thoughts that lift your soul
Like the stars of eventide.
All the fadeless flowers that bloom
In the realms of song and art
Are yours if you'll only give them room.
Open the door of your heart.

Open the door of your heart, my friend,
Heedless of class and creed,
When you hear the cry of a brother's voice,
The sob of a soul in need.
To the singing heavens that o'er you bend
You need no map or chart,
But only the love of the Master.
Open the door of your heart.

TIMELY NOTES FOR FARMERS

Clover and Grasses.—Sowing in March on Fall-Sown Grain.—Spring Fertilizing.

The high price of hay should give an additional incentive for sowing increased acreage of grasses and clovers the coming year. The high prices and indicated high prices of cow peas, soja beans and other leguminous crops, should also make clover more largely used and depended upon as a soil-improver, as at present values it costs less to seed per acre than any of the leguminous crops. The bountiful crops and resulting low prices of grain should also make farmers pay more attention to the improvement of the land, which can be accomplished by seeding down to grasses and clovers.

Grasses and clovers especially can be safely and satisfactorily seeded on fall-sown wheat, oats or other grain crops, during the month of March. Seeding at that time not only saves an extra preparation of the land, but the harrowing and cross-harrowing, which is desirable in order to give the grass and clover seed slight covering, acts as a cultivation and a decided benefit to the wheat and grain crops, increasing the yield to a considerable extent. In fact even if you do not seed clover and grasses on your wheat and fall-sown grain in the spring, it is to advantage to run the harrow over these crops so as to break the crust of the soil, which acts as a cultivation and materially increases the yield of the grain.

We have also found most excellent results from fertilizing wheat and other grains during the month of March, in preference to applying the fertilizer at the time wheat was seeded in the fall, and we strongly recommend to our customers, whether they seed clover or grasses or not, to fertilize their grain crops with 200 to 300 lbs of animal bone or a good grain fertilizer, at that time, and run the harrow over it to slightly incorporate it with the soil. The increased yields of grain will repay for the fertilizing and little extra labor required.—Wood's Crop Special.

Screened Against Suicides.

So many suicides in Chicago have jumped from the upper stories into the rotunda of buildings that the Building Department of the city has ordered the owners of such buildings to stretch screens across the second floor opening to protect those on the main floor from being struck by persons making suicidal leaps.

Air Passenger Service Started.

A man living in Los Angeles has leased a large tract near the city and will take into the air in his Curtiss biplane all who want to enjoy the sensation of flying, charging each a fee, the amount of which has not been settled. The exhibitions will be free, so far as those who do not care to fly are concerned. Mr. Walsh began studying aviation at Santa Ana, 34 miles south of Los Angeles, and has made such progress that last Sunday he took his wife and two children on a short flight.

Women Taught To Farm.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont has announced that she is going to organize a school of agriculture for women on her property, on Long Island. An experienced woman farmer will instruct the girls in the art of practical farming and how to make the land produce the best results. The institution will be in charge of a matron, who will teach the girls cooking, house-keeping, and homemaking. The girls are to be paid while learning, and their wages will increase with the work produced.

Maryland Gets $125,000 Appropriation.

Despite spirited opposition which developed, the three Maryland representatives, Congressmen Pearre, Kronmiller and Covington, have succeeded in securing an appropriation of $125,000 for the erection of range lights on Fort McHenry in Baltimore harbor. In the House bill was also incorporated an appropriation of $110,000 for the erection of an immigration station at Locust Point.

Three Empty Pulpits.

Middle Horse Valley, a prosperous section of Franklin county, Pa., situated between two spurs of the South mountain, has the unique distinction of being without a preacher or a postoffice. There are three churches in the valley, all without a pastor, and the residents, who have been deprived of the facilities of a postoffice, are compelled to cross the mountain, to get the mail.

Gun Shoots 1600 Times a Minute.

A man from Toledo, Ohio, has received a patent for a gun carriage and gun that is capable of discharging 1600 shots a minute. The carriage is propelled by steam or gasoline and five guns are mounted on the carriage. The carriage can be run and placed in any position on a battlefield, and no rails are required for its field transportation.

IT IS EASIER

—by far to keep up your subscription if you pay in advance, than if you put off paying until "some other time." By paying REGULARLY you avoid the annoyance of "reminders" for accounts long past due, and you have the satisfaction of knowing that when your paper arrives it is yours by right—IT IS PAID FOR.

After you get one year behind you begin to put off, and before long you find that instead of owing one dollar, you owe two or three. Then it becomes harder still to settle.

You pay your rent promptly—why not pay promptly for the paper you read? If you fail to pay your rent you expect to be reminded of the fact, and if you ignore the notice you naturally expect to receive a polite request from an attorney.

The Post Office Department has made it obligatory upon publishers to keep their subscription lists up to the current year standard. This law is mandatory and admits of no discretion.

If, therefore, you owe for your paper for more than one year you will have only yourself to find fault with if collection is insisted upon.

Mr. L. E. Benchoff, of Cascade, Md., visited here this week.

Mr. William Sponseller, of Frederick, was in town on Tuesday.

Among the out-of-town clergy that attended the Laymen's Missionary Convention last Friday were Revs. Stonebraker, of Fairfield, Beard and Koontz, of Thurmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ott, of Taneytown, visited this place on Friday.

Mrs. John B. A. Wheatte, of Baltimore, and son, Raymond, of Mt. St. Mary's College, visited this place on Thursday of last week.

Mr. Frederick Troxell, of Baltimore, attended the funeral of Mr. Charles Rowe on Friday.

Miss Helen Rowe, of Baltimore, was in town on Saturday.

Miss Helen Sellers, who has been spending some time with her parents, has returned to Baltimore.

Messrs. Francis Rowe and Samuel Annan were in Rocky Ridge on Friday.

Mr. Legrande Hospelhorn, of near Gettysburg, visited here on Friday.

Mrs. Krise Byers, of Greenmount, Pa., visited her sister, Mrs. Edgar Moser, on Monday.

Miss Hazel Patterson, of Savage, near Baltimore, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Meade Patterson, on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Musselman, of Littlestown, spent some time with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bentz, and also visited Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Longenecker, of Zora, Pa.

Messrs. Donald Waesche and Ed. Daniels, of Thurmont, were in town on Sunday.

Mr. Charles J. Byrne, of Baltimore, spent several days here.

Mr. E. W. Shriver, of near Harney, spent Thursday in this place.

Mr. C. G. Brown, of Harney, who spent some time in Baltimore, stopped for some time in this place on his return home.

HAIR PULLING CASE BEFORE FREDERICK COURT

One Witness Drunk and Confined for Contempt of Court.—Decision Reserved.

The exhibit of a bunch of hair in court Tuesday afternoon was one of the reminders of a fierce fight between two women of Emmitsburg district, says the Frederick Post, for which one woman was indicted and upon which indictment she was tried Tuesday. The exhibit of hair formed a matted mass about the size of a man's two fists, and stood as evidence that the fight was one of earnest participants.

The recent grand jury indicted Mrs. Kate Willis for assaulting Mrs. Theresa Jennings. Mrs. Willis was tried Tuesday. The court reserved its decision, and permitted Mrs. Willis to go to her home. The husband, who was one of the witnesses in behalf of his wife, when called to testify was too drunk to do so, and was told to leave the stand by the court.

As he left he muttered something, and Judge Motter instructed Sheriff Grimes to take him to jail for contempt of court. He was taken to the sheriff's office in the courthouse and was released in time to catch the train to his home at Emmitsburg.

The Baltimore Sun's report gives it this way: "During the trial her husband was called to testify, but upon seeing his condition Judge Motter refused to permit him to be sworn, remarking that he 'ought to be in jail.' To the amazement of every one the prisoner asked the Judge why he didn't put him there. Judge Motter then turned him over to the Sheriff."

E. H. S. Literary Society.

The regular meeting of the E. H. S. Literary Society was held Friday, Feb. 24, 1911. The meeting was opened by singing "America." Emma Long, Bessie Dorsey and Pauline Baker were appointed judges for the debate, which was: Resolved, That Washington was greater than Lincoln. Affirmative speakers were: Samuel Keilholz, Hazel Boller and Naomi Harbaugh. Negative: Dunn Black and Edith Ohler. The decision of the judges and school was in favor of the affirmative speakers.

This was followed by Select Readings as follows: Flora Welty, "The Nation's Washington," Jones Baker, "A boy's chances," Eva Gosnell, "Washington's high principles," Estlin White "Present appreciation," Elizabeth Rowe, "Selection," Frank Topper, "Washington's Birthday."

The following compositions were prepared: Ruth Lynn, "Washington's manhood," Rosanna Ohler, "Washington's youth," Mary Mondorff, "How Emmitsburg took advantage of Washington's birthday," Pauline Baker, "Washington as a commander."

Then followed Current Events by Bessie Dorsey.

Those who recited were: Grant Springer, "Crown our Washington," Fred Wivell, "Tragedy," Prof. Strauss "Barbara Fritchie."

The extemporaneous speeches were delivered as follows: Louise Beam, "Culture of a High School girl," Ruth Stull, "Why I go to High School."

The Reading Circle was composed of Donald Agnew, "Life of Poet," Arthur Stokes, "Reading of poem," Elsie Springer, "Discussion of poem," "Washington was selected author, and his 'Farewell Address' was read. The meeting was closed by singing, "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

On Monday, Feb. 27, the following officers were elected: Bessie Dorsey, President, Emma Long, Vice-President, William Morrison, Secretary Robert Cook, Critic, Delbert Hospelhorn, Monitor.

PIKE SALE ORDERED

Good Roads Commission To Take Over Road

IT WILL COST THE STATE $21,000.00

Governor Made Motion and Board Acted Unanimously.—Engineer to Look Over Woodsboro End.

Yesterday a delegation of our influential citizens called on the Good Roads Commission at Baltimore to urge upon the State the advantage of purchasing the Emmitsburg and Frederick turnpike, they succeeded. By a unanimous vote, upon the motion of the Governor and second of President Remsen, the Commission decided to authorize the immediate purchase of the pike and to-day they have an engineer looking over the Woodsboro road at the Frederick end.

The delegation whose efforts in our behalf have been so successful was composed of Vincent Sebold, Esq., Messrs. Daniel Roddy, Hammaker, Winchester, Charles Waters, Hayward, and Hon. J. P. T. Mathias. Mr. Sebold was the first speaker, his plea was followed by Mr. Winchester, Mr. Waters and Mr. Hayward. After the Commission had listened to the remarks of these gentlemen Governor Crothers moved that the pike be purchased and President Remsen seconded the motion. As was above stated the board was unanimously in favor of the purchase and the pike will become state property in the near future. The price to be paid is $21,000.

SHORB—McCLEAF.

Charles E. Shorb and Miss Rose McCleaf, both of near Emmitsburg, were united in Marriage at the Lutheran parsonage by Rev. C. H. Rockey, Friday evening. Mr. Shorb and Miss McCleaf drove from Emmitsburg Friday and will spend a few days with relatives here before returning to their home. Mrs. Shorb is a daughter of Andrew McCleaf and is a young woman of happy disposition and many attractive qualities. Mr. Shorb is a carpenter by trade and an energetic and successful young man. He is a brother of Miss Susan Shorb, teacher of Pleasant Hill and Mrs. S. H. Myers and Mrs. Cathryn Grimes, of this place. They will make their future home near Emmitsburg. Their many friends wish them good luck.—Waynesboro Daily Record.

Disastrous Accident at Deerfield.

The two-story dwelling of Jesse Flohr, near Deerfield, was burned Tuesday night with nearly all its contents. A coal-oil lamp which Mrs. Flohr was carrying exploded in a bedroom upstairs and set fire to the bed clothing.

A sewing machine, a few dishes, and several articles of furniture were saved. Six years ago her child, whose clothes caught fire from a stove, was burned to death. Mrs. Flohr at that time was seriously burned while attempting to extinguish the fire in the child's clothes.

Sergeant Henry Tranferred.

Sergeant Ray H. Henry, of Fort Leavenworth, Kan., who made such a pleasant impression during his sojourn here last Summer, has received orders from the War Department at Washington, transferring him from the Army Service Schools to the 13th Infantry. Sergeant Henry will accompany the regiment to the Philippines, this month and will be in the Islands and Japan until next November, when he will return to the United States and pay a visit to Emmitsburg.

Almost Killed by a Bull.

After being laid up several weeks with rheumatism Mr. Albert Ramsburg, of Middletown, recovered sufficiently to go to the barn. As he entered the barnyard he was attacked by a bull, knocked down and rolled some distance. He escaped and made his way to the house, where he fainted. The farmer was so badly bruised that he is again confined to his bed.

New Lutheran Minister Called to Taneytown.

Rev. Luther B. Hafer, of Philadelphia, has received and accepted a call to the pastorate of the large Lutheran congregation at Taneytown and will be installed on Sunday next as the successor of Rev. William E. Wheeler, who resigned to engage in missionary work of the Lutheran Church in Chicago.

Inspectors Looking Over Cattle.

Dr. Reigle is assisting the inspectors of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Agricultural Department in a test of dairy cattle at the farm of Mr. George Zentz. The cattle are being tested for tuberculosis. The Doctor and inspectors are at work this afternoon.

Cupid Foiled by Mumps.

Miss Goldie May Williams, of Frederick, and her lover, Mr. John A. Zeigler, also of Frederick, had everything prepared for a secret marriage when Miss Williams was taken ill with the mumps. The license had been secured and the bride's mother discovered the plot, so it is all off for a time at least.

Married Sixty-Three Years.

Yesterday was the 63rd anniversary of the marriage of Squire and Mrs. Henry Stokes. Their life, most of which was spent in Emmitsburg has been not only happy but useful. The CHRONICLE joins with their other friends in the heartiest congratulations.

Miss Susan Forney, daughter of the late John S. Forney, died in a Philadelphia hospital last week, where she had been undergoing treatment for some time. The remains were brought here and interred in Evergreen Cemetery. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Harry Picking, and one brother, David J. Forney, both of this place.

Hanson W. Pfeffer died suddenly at his home on Baltimore street Friday morning aged 53 years and 22 days.

He had been complaining for some time, but his condition had not been considered serious.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, his mother and a number of brothers and sisters.

The "Junior Prom" was held at College on Friday evening and was largely attended.

Hugh M. and John W. McIlhenny have purchased the Spangler warehouse on Carlisle street. They took charge Monday morning.

The result of the bids for the new St. James' church were as follows:

William H. Johns, Gettysburg $35,900.

Wm. R. Dougherty, of Philadelphia, $57,000.

J. L. Menough, York, $43,450.

D. S. Solinger, Harrisburg; $37,987,33.

James Porter, Carlisle, $42,000.

Quigley Hafer, Chambersburg, $47,733.95.

Wm. J. Elliot, Catesville, $42,791.

These bids were all considered too high and the two lowest bidders were asked to change their figures in accordance with some changes, and as a result Mr. Johns bid $35,000, and will likely get the contract.

Saturday evening announcement was made of the wedding of Miss Ida May Hoke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hoke, of this place, and Mr. William H. Burd, of Cresson. The wedding took place at Wilmington, Delaware, on Saturday afternoon, February 18.

Miss Hoke had gone to Carlisle on the Friday previous to attend a dance of the Delta Chi legal fraternity of which Mr. Burd is a member. The next day they went to the Delaware city and were married by the Rev. George L. Wolf pastor of the First Methodist church of that place.

They left on a brief trip to Philadelphia and New York, the bride returning to Gettysburg on Monday and Mr. Burd returning to Carlisle to continue his studies in the Dickinson Law School. News of the wedding was kept a secret until Saturday evening.

An interesting Washington's birthday program was rendered in the Court House on last Wednesday evening, Feb. 22. The arrangements for the meeting were made by a joint committee from Battlefield Council No. 717, Order of Independent Americans, and Washington Camp No. 414, Patriotic Order Sons of America, under whose auspices the celebration of the illustrious American's birth was held.

The meeting was presided over by Prof. W. A. Burgeon, Supervising Principal of Schools, and opened promptly at 7.30. The opening number was "Onward Christian Soldiers," by the audience, followed by the invocation by Prof. C. F. Sanders, of the College, after which the program was carried out as follows: Selection, College quartet; Recitation, "The Cherry Tree Tale," Anna Oyler; Solo, "The Good Old U. S. A.," Robert Oyler; Recitation, "Washington," Edna Zinzand; Recitation, "Biography of Washington," Lillian Hitzmiller; Solo, "Mt. Vernon Telling Bell," Mrs. R. E. Zinn.

At this point Rev. J. B. Baker was scheduled to make an address, but was unable to be present, and Prof. C. F. Sanders made the address of the evening, making character sketches from the life of our first President. He started with Washington as a young man in the Virginia wilderness, following him through his entire career, showing his wonderful personality, indomitable courage, linked with tenderness, and his implicit faith in his Maker. He also commended the organizations of the principles of patriotism they insist on instilling in the minds of our future citizenship, and urging all to emulate the same loyal, self-sacrificing devotion which has made "The Father of His Country" dear to all.

The meeting closed by singing "America," M. K. Eckert presided at the piano.

Again on last Wednesday and Thursday evenings, our town people had the opportunity of witnessing a performance by local talent, and at the same time helping along a good cause, the Y. M. C. A.

This time our local talent appeared as black faced comedians, giving a minstrel show, under the direction of Mrs. E. T. Bennett, of the Bock Entertainment Company, who deserves credit for the able manner in which the parts were taken.

G. C. Fissel took the part of interlocutor; Miss Lily Dougherty and Ernest Ziegler, Tambo, and Miss Freda Buehler and Mr. Stallsmith, Bones, each carrying his or her part admirably.

The following musical numbers were rendered:—Opening chorus, medley, Entire Company; "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" Ernie Ziegler; "Meet me Tonight in Dreamland," R. E. Zinn; "Call me up Some Rainy Afternoon," Walter Berger; "In all my Dreams I Dream of You," Miss Ada Ocker.

"Morning After the Night Before," Earl Stallsmith; "Without You," Ted Miller; "Come After Breakfast. Bring Along your Lunch, And Leave Before Supper Time," T. E. Culp; "Come Along My Mandy," Entire Company.

Part Second. "Garden of Dreams," Mrs. R. E. Zinn; "Baseball chorus," William Timmis. In this Master William was accompanied by a base ball squad who did some athletic stunts.

"Gee! Ain't I Glad I'm Home Again," R. E. Zinn; "When the moon plays Peek-a-Boo," Miss Rudisill; Dance characteristic, Mlle. Benfanti; "I Love to Live in Loveland with a Girl Like You," Miss Rudisill.

At the beginning of the second part Miss Gladys Raymond sang "Look Out for Jimmy Valentine" accompanied in the chorus by one hundred little folks carrying toy pistols and doing several neat steps.

The performance closed with a cake walk by the entire cast.

Nearly all of the soloists were accompanied by choruses doing some neat steps.

Music was furnished by the Theatre Orchestra.

Lovers of music who failed to see the Musical Georgettes at Walter's Theatre Saturday evening missed one of the best programs ever given here. The Georgettes—husband, wife and daughter proved to be one of the most unique combinations on the road. They are thorough masters of the art of entertaining. Not only did they present the instruments known to all, but introduced a number of novelties seldom seen in the smaller towns. In addition to the musical numbers Mr. Georgette gave a bit of explanation in regard to the newer instruments, their origin, etc.

The program consisted of violin, cello and harp trios, saxophone solos, duets and trios, harp solos, violin solos, mandolin solos, banjo solos, Xylophone solos, and ocarina duets. Beside these they introduced musical aluminum tubes, producing perfect harmony by rubbing the tubes with rosined gloves, hand bell trios, organ chimes, musical flowers and marimbophone trios.

The program was a rare musical treat, and Manager Walter is to be congratulated on securing such talent.

Fairfield.—Mrs. Tirzah K. Plank died at the home of her son-in-law, Joseph W. Musselman, Friday at 11:30 o'clock A. M., of heart trouble and dropsy, at the age of 84 years, 1 month, 25 days. She is survived by three daughters: Mrs. Joseph Musselman, Mrs. Flora Brinkerhoff, of Fairfield, and Mrs. David Grove, of Chambersburg. She is also survived by one brother, B. F. Kittinger, of Philadelphia. Funeral was held on Monday in Marsh Creek Brethren Church. Interment in cemetery adjoining church, Rev. Hollinger, officiating.

Merle Edward, son of Harry and Jennie Brown, died very suddenly Friday evening, aged 7 months and 10 days. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services at the house conducted by Rev. W. K. Fleck, assisted by Rev. Chas. Dalzell. Interment in Union cemetery.

M. E. Brown and wife, of Harrisburg, attended this funeral of their nephew.

Willis Musselman left last Tuesday for Rochelle, Ill., where he expects to secure employment.

Rev. W. K. Fleck is building an extensive chicken house.

Prof. Krider, of Dickinson College, will preach in the M. E. Church, this place, Sunday at 2:30 o'clock.

Clifford Sanders is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sanders, at Hanover.

Mrs. John Baker and Miss Helen Sanders are visiting friends in Waynesboro this week.

Miss Agatha Sanders, of Guldens Station, is spending some time with her parents, Howard Sanders and wife.

William Krebs, of Hanover, is visiting George Eberly.

On Feb. 23, Mr. P. H. Riley, of Liberty township, was 73 years old. His friends reminded him that they had him in their thoughts, by sending him in all 107 post cards.

The population of a number of Adams county towns has been announced, some of them showing increases over the 1900 figures, while some have dropped:

	1910	1900
Arendtsville.....	383	393
Bendersville.....	355	342
Abbotstown.....	332	345
Biglerville.....	386
East Berlin.....	672	668
Fairfield.....	373	395
Littlestown.....	1347	1118
McSherrystown.....	1724	1490
New Oxford.....	838	663
York Springs.....	299	352

Biglerville was not a borough in 1900 and so no figures are given for the town's population at that time.

Arendtsville shows a decrease of 10; Abbotstown of 13; Fairfield of 22, and York Springs of 53.

A number of the larger county towns show substantial increases over the last census. Littlestown gained 229, McSherrystown 234, New Oxford 175, Bendersville 13 and East Berlin 4.

On Feb. 22 Liberty township lost one of its best teachers, when Miss Lucy Bowling, who teaches at the Lower Tract, became the wife of Mr. James Beard, of near Fairfield.

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago Miss Bowling was unjustly charged with severe and unwarranted punishment of a child, and a lawsuit was promised. But she, as many other teachers do, knew her duty, and in dealing with disobedient and stubborn children, when kind words fail, was constrained to use other means.

The patrons of the school, while sorry they are losing her as a teacher, are glad to know she will finish the present term, and they wish the married couple a happy and prosperous life.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross Baker entertained at a quilting bee on Thursday, the 23rd, at their home in Freedom township. A dinner was given to those taking part in the "bee." There were present Mesdames John A. Eyer, John Bell, George Rohrbach, Kerney Reid, Daniel Shorb, D. Grimes, Lewis Kugler and two sons and Mr. Kugler. This is the last meeting of the season.

Messrs. Charles and Roy Shorb were in Gettysburg one day last week.

Mr. Daniel Shorb is indisposed at his home near town.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Topper entertained a few friends at dinner and cards.

Mrs. Daniel Shorb spent Friday in town as the guest of Mrs. Isaiah Ohler.

NEWS FROM THE TRACT

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCoughlin and daughters of Roadside Pa., spent Sunday with Mr. David Beard and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wolf spent Sunday with their daughter Arbutus Wolf.

Miss Mary Motter has returned home after spending quite a while with her mother, Mrs. Humpert, of near Taneytown.

Our school reopened on Tuesday after being closed for a week owing to the teacher getting married. We wish her joy in her new school of life.

GOOD FOR DRAINAGE USE.

Pick Plow, Easily Made, Described and Praised by Wisconsin Farmer.

I have used this plow for digging trenches for laying tile on my Wisconsin farm for many years and am surprised that so useful and efficient an implement is not in more general use, says a Wisconsin correspondent of the Orange Judd Farmer. Any good blacksmith, with an assistant, can make this plow in less than two days. An old smith and his son made mine in one day. The total cost was only $8, including a heavy four foot chain for use in hitching to the plow when it is deep down in the ditch.

I first used it in 1894. I had heard that out in Minnesota men were charging 25 cents per rod to construct drainage ditches with the steam ditching machine. I was at it to build ditches more cheaply by the means of this simple homemade contrivance. On one piece of work, by using this plow and two horses, four men made a ditch 1,050 feet long, from two and one-half to three and one-half feet deep and one foot wide, in one day, from 8 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. This was in clay soil, which at the time happened to be very dry and was shoveled easily. If the ground had been wet, of course, so much could not have been accomplished.

In building ditches for tile I first plow it as deeply as possible, usually going over it twice with an ordinary plow. All the dirt that is not thrown out by the plow is then shoveled out. Next I go up and down the ditch with the pick plow. Ours is made to cut twelve inches wide, and by having it so strongly constructed that there is not much spring in it a uniform width and straight sides can be maintained in the ditch. After the ground is loosened we shovel out the loose dirt and then go over it again with the pick plow. We use an even eight feet long, so that the horses work far enough away from the ditch that there is no danger of their falling in. As additional depth is secured the hitch is lengthened, and the plow can be used in digging ditches three to four feet or more deep. Where we have to cross an elevation in the field which requires greater depth we go over that spot two or three times with the plow, bringing the bottom of the ditch down to the required level. Broadly speaking, the depth to which this can be used is limited only by the length of the chain to which the even is fastened.

There is an old Flemish proverb which reads as follows: No grass, no cattle; no cattle, no manure; no manure, no crops.

Dairy Doings.

An ounce of the fluid extract of black haw in a pint of warm water will be found very valuable for a cow threatening abortion. A half dose can be repeated in two or three hours as often as necessary.

To the man of little money and many children the Shorthorn is a bonanza, supplying milk and butter and a good salable calf at weaning time. The Jersey, Ayrshire and Holstein are great milk and butter cows, but their calves are not to be considered when seeking cattle for the feed lot.

Calves are often troubled by ringworms. It is due to a vegetable parasite. The best treatment is sulphur ointment, made of powdered sulphur, lard, oil or grease. Wash the part affected with soap and water and then apply the sulphur ointment.

Cows require from one to eight ounces of salt per day. The more concentrates they receive the more salt they require. It should be where they can have access to it every day. According to an experiment made at the Wisconsin station, about two ounces per cow per day is the average amount required.

The Kansas Agricultural college grades cream as follows: First grade cream, 30 or more per cent of butter fat; second grade, 25 per cent and less than 30; third grade, having less than 25 per cent butter fat. Creameries like to get high testing cream, say 30 and above. They make more butter from this, as the overrun is greater.

Alfalfa hay is a most excellent feed for dairy cows. The animals always relish clean, bright alfalfa hay, and its milk producing value is high. The dairyman that has plenty of alfalfa is especially fortunate.

Never allow the cows to be excited by hard driving, abuse, loud talking or unnecessary disturbance. Do not expose them to cold or storms.

If you have six cows and no separator sell one of the cows and buy a separator. You will save work and make money by the deal.

Kindness to cows is one of the essential elements in profitable dairying. No matter how well cows are fed and sheltered, they will not be good milkers if they are handled roughly.

Raw Musk.

Musk in the raw looks a good deal like axle grease and smells worse. The popular notion that the musk of commerce is obtained from the muskrat is a mistake. There is obtained a somewhat similar perfume from the muskrat, but most of the supply comes from the musk deer, a creature that is carefully reared in India for the sake of the secretion. The secretion is shipped in the crude state and is used not only in the manufacture of the liquid perfume sold as musk, but also in very small quantities to give strength and staying power to many perfumes made from the essential oils of flowers. Curiously enough, the blossoms of two native plants have a noticeably musky odor. One is the small yellow blossom of a creeping vine known as the musk plant. Its odor is marked and is counterfeited in the commercial perfume called musk. The other is the bloodroot. The pure white blossom of that early spring plant has a distinct though delicate musky odor. A bean known as the musk bean is a cheap substitute for animal musk.

Fine Language.

In the school year of 1896-7, in the town of Topsfield, Mass., there was at least one committeeman whose command of language was unusual. This is shown by the annual report of the school committee for that season, part of which is copied here:

"The primary center school was instructed by Miss ——. Under the guidance of this master hand in genuine philosophic simplicity the school presented the same phase of unvarying successful advancement as in former years, from the dissident mouthings of half fledged juvenile articulation, through the winding passages of syllabicism to the Mount Hope of spell-binding, the same grateful interposition of gymnastic, vocal, recessive and studious enaction rendering every exercise equally a pastime and romancing the reality of the first efforts in dry study."—Youth's Companion.

An Ancient Die.

In the museum at Athens is shown what is probably the only genuine antique die used for coinage that is now extant. It was found in Egypt in 1904 and consists of bronze, engraved with the owl that was stamped on Athenian tetradrachma pieces, which contained about as much silver as three quarter dollars. The die is of scientific interest on account of the evidence it gives of the skill of the ancients three or four hundred years before Christ in metallurgy. It contains about 22½ per cent of tin and nearly 70 per cent of copper. It is extremely hard, but at the same time possesses a certain malleability, due to the great purity of the copper and tin, which were carefully freed from all traces of lead and zinc to preserve the hardness and from arsenic and antimony to avoid brittleness.—Harper's Weekly.

Found a Rhyme.

A bold poet once tried to overcome the difficulty of finding a rhyme for carpet by the following: "Sweet maid of the inn, 'tis surely no sin to toast such a beautiful bar pet; believe me, my dear, your feet would appear at home on a nobleman's carpet."—London Mail.

A Fine Haul.

"Back from your fishing trip, I see." "Yep." "Catch anything noteworthy?" "Caught four aces one night."—Washington Herald.

The Cook Ignored.

The prodigal son's father got a lot of applause for killing the fatted calf, but his mother didn't get a line of praise for cooking it.—Galveston News.

Symbolism Didn't Appeal.

"Charlie," sorrowfully sighed the young lady in the parlor of the concrete house on Washington avenue, "it is nearly 12 o'clock."

"Yes, Belinda," was the breathing response of her poetical companion, who was strolling on the sofa beside her, "the minute hand is drawing closer and closer to the hour hand, and when the time of midnight is chimed the two hands will be even as one. Oh, darling Belinda," he continued as he literally simulated the action of the minute hand, "may not the coming together of those two hands be symbolical of us?"

She broke away and stood firmly on her feet. "No, Charles Henry Smith," she retorted angrily, "those two hands will remain as one but a single second, and then the minute hand will divorce itself and go on its way alone. No, Mr. Smith, a minute hand that doesn't stick isn't the kind of symbolism I want!"—Boston Post.

Vernet in a Storm at Sea.

Vernet, the celebrated painter of sea pieces, eager in the study of nature, made several long voyages in his younger days in order to observe the various scenes which the changeable elements exhibit. In one of these excursions undertaken merely for the love of the art a most violent gale of wind arose, when Vernet, without attending to the perils with which he was surrounded, desired one of the sailors to lash him fast to some of the rigging. Soon after this request was granted the storm increased, attended with thunder and lightning and with every circumstance that could add to the horror of the scene, and consternation and terror sat on every countenance, but in the young painter every emotion was lost in that of admiration, which so wholly engrossed his attention that he every now and then exclaimed in the most enthusiastic terms, "Good heavens, what a noble scene!"

Knife Duels in Mexico.

A duel between cattle herders on the Mexican plains is about as savage and deadly a manner of fighting as one could possibly imagine. Each opponent extends his left arm, and a third party who has been selected to act as referee binds their wrists together with a thong of rawhide. He then places a knife in the right hand of each, and the fight is on. Needless to say, it does not last long. Every stab may be calculated upon to do damage, and it often happens that both duelists receive fatal wounds. Yet, in spite of the severe rules of the game, there are men who become experts and terrorize a whole neighborhood. They pride themselves on being able to strike so quickly and so surely that they can kill an opponent with the first blow and get away unscathed.—Exchange.

The Suicide of Hannibal.

Defeated at Zama, Hannibal fled to the east to avoid falling into the hands of the Romans and found temporary security in the dominions of Mithridates. He incited this monarch to engage in a Roman war, and his advice as to its conduct being rejected, the war proved unsuccessful, and Mithridates was required as one of the conditions of peace to deliver up Hannibal to his enemies, the Romans. The unfortunate Carthaginian heard of his approaching fate, swallowed the poison which for years he had carried about his person and expired just as the envoys arrived to take him in charge.

Rastus and His Razor.

"You are charged with carrying a razor," said the magistrate. "What have you to say?" "But hit's a safety razor," pleaded Rastus. "What difference does that make?" the court asked. "Well, yo' hono', a safety razor am carried only fo' de moral effect."

Cutting the Reeds For the Baskets

Daddy's Bedtime

Story—Rich Man and Poor Man

ONE evening daddy noticed that Evelyn looked sad. "What's the trouble, daughter?" he asked, and Evelyn told him that some little girls who lived near the home of Jack and Evelyn had refused to play with her because their daddies were wealthier than hers. "Don't worry, child," said daddy. "No doubt you can find other playmates." And that same evening this story of the rich man and the poor man was told to daddy.

"It happened in a country far away," began daddy, "that there were two men living. One was a very rich man, and one was a poor man who made his living by making baskets from reeds. The reeds grew in a marsh belonging to the poor man, but the marsh was in the way of his wealthy neighbor when he wanted to go hunting. So he asked the poor man to move away, and when the basket maker refused he called his men and had him put off his own land.

"The poor basket maker went to the king and complained. The king was wise and just, so he ordered the rich man taken away and left on a lonely island. And because he had forbidden his subjects to quarrel without coming to him with their disputes he ordered the poor man taken to the same island.

"Now, on that island there was a marsh in which grew reeds just like those from which baskets are made. The rich man tried to hide among the reeds, for he was afraid of the savages who lived on the island. But the savages soon saw him and the poor man and came to attack them.

"Then the two were afraid indeed. The rich man was the more scared, for he did not know at all what to do, but the poor man had a plan. When the savages came near to them he made signs meaning that he had something to give to them. The wild men stopped to look, so the basket maker quickly cut some of the reeds and made a coronet or crown. He took this and placed it on the head of the king or leader of the savages. The savage was greatly delighted and would not let his men harm the basket maker. Then the other savages crowded round and made signs that they, too, wanted crowns, and it kept the basket maker busy for some time making them.

"In the meantime the rich man, who was now poor, was trembling for his life. The savages wanted to kill him, but the basket maker told them by signs that even if the other man could not make baskets he could cut and gather the reeds for the crown. So they spared his life also.

"The two lived among the savages some months until the king of their own country sent for them. By that time the man who had been rich regretted his meanness and promised to give half his fortune to the basket maker when they should be back in their own country."

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

Satin Flowers Adorn Blouse Waists Ribbons Everywhere.

Flowers of thick satin ribbon trim hats, and tiny rosebuds in pendant fashion adorn chiffon blouses, and evening dresses for young girls are sometimes powdered with tiny roses in silk or satin, recalling the styles of 1830.

Neckwear is freely composed of ribbon of all kinds, particularly the tiny bow that finishes the turnover or lace collar.

Ribbons are on our muffs in the form of handsome bows introduced on flat pillow models, and bunches of flowers are to appear again as an adornment for the muff.

Jacket styles favor short, jaunty lines cut with straight seams, having less curve in under the arm than has been the nature of semimitting coats of the last three seasons.

The long, warm, cozy coat is one every girl is sure to want. This model is adapted to both misses and small women. It is made of rough finished cloth, the blanket variety being very chic.

VOGUE POINTS.

No "Mere Details" in a Woman's Costume Today.

It is a fact universally recognized today that in the matter of woman's dress there are no "mere details" and that every item of her toilet has a part in producing a total and harmonious effect.

A fashion innovation from the orient is fringe. It appears in a dainty finish to the heavy metal tunics, and there is a charming originality about a fringe which completes the apron panel so popular for the afternoon frock.

The newest shoe tips are straight in front, with a single dot in the center. Perforated tips are almost out.

hair gives a bewitching touch even to a plain face.

The simple blouse that is closed at the front is one greatly liked this season. Here is a model that is oddly shaped and most attractive. It will be found equally well adapted for the entire gown or separate waist.
