SENATE LAUGHS AT JINGOES

HANDS-OFF IN MEXICO

Whole Cabinet Agrees With President Taft

SEN. STONE OF MO. CAN'T SEE IT

No Power is Pressing Us.—France, Germany and Italy Acting Through Their Agents.—Reply to Stone's Speech.

The accidental killing and wounding of Americans in El Paso during the heavy fighting in Juarez has not changed in the slightest the determination of the Administration and Congress not to send soldiers across the border. The situation was discussed at length at a meeting of the Cabinet Tuesday morning, and it is understood that complete agreement on this point exists among the Cabinet officers. At the same time, speeches in the Senate disapproving of a second jingo effort by Senator Stone and a statement by Representative Sulzer, Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, showed conclusively that the course of avoiding aggressive action meets with the indorsement of the lawmakers.

President Taft is determined that only two reasons shall have weight with him in asking Congress for authority for armed intervention—the wholesale and wanton slaughter of American citizens or the demand from foreign Governments that their nationals be protected. As far as the first condition is concerned the Diaz Government and the revolutionist authorities seem to be vying with each other to prevent it being ever realized. As to the second condition, it is becoming more and more apparent that, at least for the present, no foreign government intends to assume the onus by asking us to commit what would be beyond question an act of war. Indeed such care has been exercised by the two Mexican factions toward all foreigners that no power feels itself particularly aggrieved with the possible exception of Spain. It is not thought that Spain is prepared to ask the United States to assume responsibility for the protection of her citizens and their property in Mexico.

Concerning the debate in the Senate we print the following reply to Senator Stone:

"The Senator says that many Americans are being killed along the border," said Mr. Bacon, "and that is the lamentable fact. But has the Senator thought how many would be killed if we followed his suggestion and authorized the President to send our armies across the Rio Grande? Thousands of Americans are living within the confines of Mexico, and what is the accidental death of a few persons along the border—regrettable as those deaths are—in comparison to the fate that would meet the Americans surrounded in Mexico?"

"Does the Senator think we would cross into that civil war as the allies of President Diaz, or of the insurgents? It is my judgment that the one certain thing in the turmoil now boiling to the south of us that we would find both factions in arms against us. And if we once raised our flag in Mexico can the Senator say when—if ever—we would be able to haul it down? The conditions he recites at Douglas and El Paso are indeed tragic, but there are some things in life beyond the reach of remedy. To my mind the highest duty before the Americans is to show patience in the present crisis and not add to an already grievous situation."

TAFT NOT TO BE COERCED BY POLITICS OR FARMERS

President Makes Plain to Grangers His Attitude on Reciprocity With Canada in Blunt Talk.

President Taft indulged in some plain talk in explaining to 25 members of the National Grange that he does not intend to play politics with the Canadian reciprocity agreement even if the enactment of that measure by Congress costs him the farmer vote.

The President told his visitors bluntly that he was sorry to hear that Republican farmers would desert the party if the agreement goes through, but fear of such desertion would not change his conviction as to the wisdom of such legislation. He said he believed reciprocity to be the best thing for the whole country, and that he did not intend to argue it.

N. P. Hall, master of the Michigan Grange, spokesman for the farmers, intimated strongly that the farmer doesn't like reciprocity and that Republican votes are likely to be lost if it was passed.

The revolution in Haiti is growing.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IN FIGHT FOR GOVERNOR

Would Elect an Executive Who Will Not Veto Local Option Laws.—Warning Issued to Two Parties.

The Anti-Saloon League announces that it intends if necessary to take a hand in the campaign for Governor. In a statement just issued the League says:

"It will do no good to elect a legislature which will pass the local option bill if we permit the liquor interests to elect a Governor who will veto it. The legislature can be changed in two years but if the liquor traffic gets the Governor in means four years delay.

"The League does not ask either party to declare against the saloons, but earnestly appeals to the leaders of both parties to co-operate with it in preventing a bitter and wholly unnecessary fight on the local option question this fall by nominating men who will declare in favor of handing the liquor question back to the people for decision.

"The League has no candidate in either party and is not trying to dictate either nomination, and it the Democratic party nominates a good man who is satisfactory on this question the League will not oppose him. But of those candidates already mentioned it will especially oppose Col. Buchanan Schley, because in the recent Washington county campaign he stood for the saloons when the question was voted upon, and by standing for the repeal of the Washington county law took away from the people of his home county the right to vote at all. It will also oppose Gen. Murray Vandiver, the Democratic State Chairman."

MURDER HINTED AT BY THE ANNAPOLIS CORONER

Mrs. Dora H. White Not Drowned But Probably Choked.—Miss Shores Her Sister Was Drowned.

That Mrs. Dora H. White, wife of John H. White, of Annapolis, who mysteriously disappeared from her home at Annapolis on the night of April 5, and whose body was found floating in Spa creek nearly three weeks afterward, died by means other than drowning, was the opinion expressed by Dr. Walton H. Hopkins, county health officer, before the coroner's inquest, which was held before Police Justice John N. Davis acting as coroner.

Dr. Hopkins performed the autopsy upon the body of Mrs. White and also upon that of her sister, Miss Alice Shores, with whom she disappeared and whose body was also found in Spa creek. He said the marks upon Mrs. White's body were of a severe nature, and further test of the lungs indicated that she was dead before her body went into the water, as there was an absence of water in them. The lungs of Miss Shores showed that she came to her death by drowning. The description given would indicate that Mrs. White was probably choked to death.

COAL-CLAIMS FRAUD DENIED BY ATTORNEY

Cunningham's Lawyer Declares Alaska Patents Should Be Recognized.—Sec. Fisher Will Decide.

Final argument in the hearing on the Cunningham Alaskan coal land claims was presented Tuesday before Secretary of the Interior Fisher and the Land Office Board, in whose hands rests the final decision as to whether Clarence Cunningham and thirty-two other claimants have a right to patents to certain coal lands in Alaska.

Nothing but suggestion and suspicion ever have existed, declared John P. Gray, attorney for the claimants, to prove that any attempt was made to defraud the Government. The evidence in his opinion, had amply answered the suspicions of conspiracy. He told the tribunal that there can be no middle ground, that either Cunningham and the others were guilty of conspiracy and perjury or are entitled to their patents. He quoted freely from testimony which had been introduced to prove his contention that there never had been any agreement between the various claimants, but that each entryman had been acting in his own behalf.

DIAZ'S MANIFESTO PUBLISHED

Madero Believes in Diaz and Commends His Patriotic Spirit While Predicting Speedy Peace

HIS RESIGNATION WILL BE HANDED IN WHEN QUIET IS RESTORED

That Will Be When Diaz's Judgment and Conscience Deem it Propitious For Such Action.—This Qualification is Distrusted by Many Mexicans and The End is Not Yet In Sight.—Reproduction of Portions of the Document.

The manifesto addressed to the citizens of Mexico by their President, Porfirio Diaz, on Sunday, has been in some instances very favorably received. Francisco I. Madero, the self-styled "provisional President," says that it has changed everything. "Peace negotiations will be taken up again at once. I predict very early a restoration of peaceful conditions throughout the Republic. The manifesto proves the patriotic spirit of General Diaz."

The manifesto was published throughout the City of Mexico on Monday morning. It related the details of the reforms already in course of enactment and the events leading up to the negotiations for peace. After this it read as follows:

"The result of this private initiative was, as is known, an agreement for the suspension of hostilities concluded between the general in command of the federal forces at Ciudad Juarez and the rebel leaders of that region, in order that during the truce thus arranged the government might learn the proposed conditions or bases on which order might be restored. The government named a delegate in the person of a distinguished justice of the Supreme Court, to whom instructions were given, conceived in as broad a spirit of liberality and concord as was compatible with the dignity of the republic and the stability of the very peace which it was sought to bring about.

"The government's good will and its evident desire to make ample concessions and afford effective guarantees for the early execution of its intentions were, perhaps, interpreted by the rebels' chief as signs of weakness or of slender faith in the justice of its cause. But in any case, the negotiations came to naught, owing to the preposterousness of the demand formulated by the representatives of the revolutionists as a condition for the declaration of their own terms, a demand absolutely inconsistent with all ideas of legality.

"If the demand of the revolutionists, that the President of the republic should resign in the midst of the present difficulties, were to be allowed, it would expose the nation to all the contingencies and dangers of new elections, which, according to constitutional provisions, would have to be held at once, while political passions are in effervescence and before order could be re-established throughout the republic.

"Again, to fix a given date for the resignation would involve the same drawbacks, seeing that it is impossible to foresee when the disturbances will end; and, what is still worse, such a course would impair the prestige and

BRITISH STATE AID TO HELP ALL CLASSES OF LABOR

Chancellor Lloyd George Hopes to Embrace Every Section of Workers in His Insurance Plan.

The Lloyd George Insurance bill is receiving flattering consideration by the English Parliament. This bill embodies the largest application of State Socialism ever attempted by any country. When in operation it will embrace every section of the working population of the British Isles. Its working may be illustrated by the way the Chancellor expects it to benefit domestic servants.

"Each servant will have her card, and 6d. (12 cents) in stamps must be affixed to it each week, 3d. coming from the servant and 3d. from the employer. When she changes places she will take the card with her. She will join one of the approved friendly societies, her card standing for her subscription to it, and in case of sickness she will receive free medical attendance and medicine, a sickness allowance of 7s. 6d. a week for the first three months, and 5s. a week for the next three months, just like any other woman."

Brunswick Depositors Disappointed.

Hundreds of depositors of the defunct Brunswick Savings Bank were dismayed Wednesday over the prospect of long proceedings in court before the first distribution of deposits. It was hoped that the initial payment of 25 per cent. was close at hand, but proceedings were begun Wednesday which, it is understood, will delay matters for an indefinite time.

authority of the nation's chief at the very time when those qualities are most needed to buttress the political situation, of which the mainstays are the sound sense of our people and the attitude of the army, whose brave and exemplary conduct has been a source of pride to the republic.

"It is not, therefore, a sentiment of personal vanity that led the President, to whom power has become more than ever a burden of bitter contrarities and immense responsibilities, to refuse to yield to the demand of the insurgents. No, it is duty; the supreme duty of bringing back the country to the sway of law and order at any sacrifice, including that of his life if necessary.

"Furthermore, to allow the presidency of the republic, the supreme authority in the nation, to become the sport of the will and pleasure of more or less armed groups, would not certainly conduce to the restoration of peace, which must ever rest on the respect for law, but, on the contrary, would open a new and most sinister chapter of anarchy in our history, the persistence and consequences of which it would be impossible to foretell.

"The President of the republic, who thus has the honor of addressing the Mexican people at these solemn moments, will, let there be no doubt, retire from power when his conscience tells him that he can do so without giving over the country to anarchy, and he will then retire in the dignified manner which the nation has a right to expect, and to which he himself is entitled as a ruler, who may have made many mistakes but who has also fought in defense of his country and has served her with loyal devotion.

"The failure of the peace negotiations will, perhaps, entail a renewal and aggravation of revolutionary activity. If, unfortunately, should that be the case, the government on its side will redouble its efforts, relying on the loyalty of our heroic army to quell the rebellion. But in order, promptly and efficaciously, to ward off the dangers which threaten our social fabric and the country's autonomy, the government needs the support of the people's patriotism and cooperating efforts. It feels that it has that support, and with it it is confident of saving the nation.

PORFIRIO DIAZ.
In the capital city the manifesto was not construed favorably. The part relating to Diaz's judgment and conscience is too vague, it seems, to satisfy. It is even intimated that the copy sent to Madero, which delighted him so, was made palatable by many changes, omissions and additions.

OHIO SENATE WANTS WHITEWASH INQUIRY

Contrary to Gov. Harmon's Wishes They Appoint Committee to Investigate Bribery Charges.

The Ohio Senate, against the protest Gov. Harmon, passed a resolution offered by Senator Hudson for an inquiry into conduct of the State Senators in connection with alleged legislative bribery, contrary to a rule of the Senate which allows the presiding officer to name all committees. The resolution carried with it the names of the Senators for the committee, and the presiding officer could offer no objections.

Senators Green, Purington, and Krause are on the committee. The other members named, though they declared they would not serve, are Senators Dean, Todd, Dore, Deaton, Keller, Douster and Finnefrock. The action of the Senate in appointing its own committee to probe bribery charges among its members is unprecedented, and has in its train the possibilities of an "immunity bath" for the accused legislators.

CLOISTER POETESS TO RECEIVE DEGREE OF LITT. D.

St. Joseph's Will Honor "Mercedes" At Commencement.—Was Sister of Charity Till End of Civil War.

Sister Mary Antonio, formerly of Pittsburgh and for many years a member of the faculty of St. Xavier's Academy, Beatty, Pa., is to enjoy the distinction on June 16 of being the second member of the Mercy Order in the world to be honored for literary attainments. His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, acting for the Sisters of Charity at St. Joseph's Academy, at the commencement exercises will confer on Sister Antonio the degree of doctor of literature, in recognition of her literary work in the service of morals and religion. Several hundred of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia alumnae of St. Xavier's are planning to come to Emmitsburg next month for the occasion.

Under the nom de plume of "Mercedes" Sister Antonio has written poetry and prose for nearly all the big magazines in America. Her pen productions have frequently been reproduced and favorably commented upon in other countries. The London Standard recently wrote a magazine in which one of her poems appeared and asked concerning the identity of "Mercedes." The information was not forthcoming, because the editor of the magazine himself did not know her right name. It is now for the first time that the identity of "Mercedes" is made public. Sister Antonio's books are to be found in all important libraries of the country.

Sister Antonio is a native of Philadelphia and is a full cousin of Mother Katherine Drexel, a member of the noted Eastern family of that name. Her father was Anthony J. Gallagher, a pioneer of the Quaker City, and her early education was obtained at the select school of St. Mary's, Sixth and Spruce streets, Philadelphia. Sister Antonio entered the Order of the Sisters of Charity after she had attended St. Joseph's Academy at Emmitsburg. As a member of this order she remained until the close of the Civil War, when she became a Sister of Mercy.

Sister Antonio spent a number of years among the poor of Pittsburgh, engaged in the academy work during the day and teaching the mill boys at night. She was for three years treasurer, or bursar, of the Mercy Order in Pittsburgh.

MORE AMERICANS KILLED BY STRAY MEXICAN SHOTS

Madero Can't Control Men and Jaurez Sustains Another Attack.—American Commanders Worried.

Insubordination in the ranks of General Madero's army and a lust for the fight of which federal concessions apparently had deprived them caused a fierce attack on Jaurez, which culminated Monday night in a careful retreat of the insurgents after a day of continuous skirmishing. The 150 rebels who opened fire on the federals not only captured some of the important outposts, but carried the fighting into Jaurez. Failing reinforcements they retired.

The casualties of the insurgents and federals are not exactly known, but five people on the American side of the line were killed and at least 12 wounded. Thousands of people in El Paso dotted rooftops or lined the river banks in direct line of the fire. Colonel Steever, of the Fourth United States Cavalry, protested to both armies against the fire into American territory and it lessened considerable thereafter.

JUAREZ NOW PROVISIONAL CAPITAL OF MEXICO

Insurrectos Capture City After Three Days of Fighting.—Federal General Among Those Taken Prisoners.

Following the attack of Monday on Juarez, the Mexican rebels after their retreat returned in force and with the most severe fighting of the war captured the city on Wednesday. Among the captured is Gen. Juan J. Navarro, Federal commander.

Juarez is now the provisional capital of Mexico. The town the Federals thought impregnable to attack fell after a comparatively easy effort. The house-to-house advance, the same deadly fire which had driven the Federals from their trenches and outposts early Monday, when the skirmishing began, gave the rebels an entrance to the town hardly molested by the artillery of the Federals.

BURNS' REPLY TO GOMPERS

CALL EACH OTHER LIAR

Detective Resents Labor Leader's Charge

DYNAMITING CASE NO FRAME-UP

Brands Him as an Ass.—Compliments Mitchell.—Criminals All Look Alike, Rich or Poor.—Roosevelt the Man of the Hour.

William J. Burns was in New York over Sunday, in the interest of his case against the McNamaras, accused of dynamiting the Los Angeles Times Building, and just before leaving for Los Angeles he was interviewed concerning a statement which Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, had given out against him and his methods.

The dispatch was from Washington, and the detective after a silent perusal, in which he smiled cynically several times, read it aloud to two of his operatives who had come to confer with him on a case. This is the statement:

If William J. Burns has said that I am satisfied that the men indicted are guilty, as charged, or that there was not a "frame-up" or plot responsible for their arrests, he lies as he has lied in everything else connected with the case.

I have investigated the entire case, and I am more convinced than ever that there is a frame-up and a plot behind their arrests. Burns has lied through the entire case.

"What do you think of that?" he said, knitting his brow and stroking a silk hat which lay on the bureau. "I know what I think about it."

"I hate to get into any controversy," he quickly added, "but I must make my position clear."

Thereafter he took off his coat showing his broad shoulders, and he walked back and forth in the narrow room, talking incessantly, putting emphasis on the name of Gompers whenever he used it.

"I want to make clear to you the circumstances in the case," he began. "When I arrested my prisoners two men of prominence in the labor world acted in two very different ways. John Mitchell said that he would abide by the trial and that he hoped the men would be proved innocent. The other was Gompers. He flew into print immediately and at once charged a frame-up, without waiting for any evidence against the men. That brands him not only as an ass but as a liar.

"The people who are prejudiced against me don't seem to be able to understand that this is not a fight against the labor unions but a fight against individuals who are law breakers. I was employed by the Mayor of Los Angeles, and as my client I am personally responsible to him for all that I do. If the man guilty of blowing up the Los Angeles Times Building should have turned out to be the biggest banker in the country my delight would have been none the less keen had I apprehended him in such a murderous crime. Criminals all look alike to me.

"When I had all my evidence in hand on the wealthiest men in the United States—I will not give his name—said to me, 'Burns, I think you ought to tell Gompers about this and avoid a clash with the labor unions.' I told that man then and there that I didn't intend to do anything of the kind. Now, wouldn't that have been an assinine thing to do?"

WOMAN MURDERED AT MONT ALTO ACADEMY

William Reed Held on Suspicion of Shooting Mrs. Hurley.—Arrested by State Constable.

A cold-blooded murder was the outcome Tuesday morning of a fancied jealousy in which Mrs. Hurley, a middle aged woman, employed at the State Forestry Academy, near Mont Alto, was killed. William Reed, about 30 years old, is charged with the crime. It is alleged that Reed went to the home of Mrs. Hurley, and while engaged in conversation with the woman shot her three times, one bullet striking the heart.

Reed walked to Mont Alto, a distance of a mile, and when asked by a woman concerning the trouble at the Forestry Academy laughingly remarked "his girl" was ill. He started back toward the scene of the murder when he was overtaken by H. T. Bland, of the Pennsylvania State Constabulary, and was placed under arrest and taken to Chambersburg.

On Monday telephone connection between New York and Denver, a distance of 2,011 miles, was opened with no relay stations.

I told him that the news in my possession was only meant for one set of ears and that was the police department.

"I wish you reporters would ask me about things more pleasant," he suddenly said, the transition being voluntary.

"Have you seen Roosevelt about your case?" one of the reporters asked him. "No, I have not," he replied, "but I'd give a whole lot for his opinion. If you can say anything about my appreciation of that man, please do so."

"Do you think he will 'come back'?" some one else asked.

"That he certainly will if he tries. I think it is up to him to try. We are approaching the time when we can expect serious trouble in our industrial world and there is no man like Roosevelt when it comes to a proper settlement of differences."

MAY CHANGE INAUGURATION AND ELECTION DATES

Congress, It Is Said, Will Ratify Contemplated Change, Election to be in April Instead of November.

A change of the date of the inauguration of the President is assured of ratification by the Sixty-second Congress, and it is not improbable that similar action will be taken to change the date of holding the National elections.

The proposed amendment of the Constitution of the United States changes the date of the inauguration from March 4, usually an inclement day in Washington, to the last Thursday in April.

Provision is made for extending the term of officials, after the ratification, from March 4 till the April date.

The Swing.

How do you like to go up in a swing, Up in the air so blue?

Oh, I do think it the pleasantest thing Ever a child can do!

Up in the air and over the wall, Till I can see so wide, Rivers and trees and cattle and all Over the countryside—

Till I look down on the garden green, Down on the roof so brown— Up in the air I go flying again, Up in the air and down.

Daisies.

At evening when I go to bed I see the stars shine overhead; They are the little daisies white That dot the meadows of the night.

And often while I'm dreaming so, Across the sky the moon will go; It is a lady sweet and fair, Who comes to gather daisies there.

For when at morning I arise, There's not a star left in the skies; She's picked them all and dropped them down Into the meadows of the town.

Calling The Violet.

Dear little Violet, don't be afraid! Lift your blue eyes from the rocks mossy shade!

All the birds call for you out of the sky May is here waiting, and here, too am I.

Why do you shiver so, Violet sweet? Soft is the meadow-grass under my feet, Wrapped in your hood of green, Violet, why Peep from your earth-door so silent and shy?

Trickle the little brooks close to your bed; Softest of fleecy clouds float over head; "Ready and waiting!" the slender reeds sigh; "Ready and waiting!" we sing—May and I.

Come pretty Violet, winter's away; Come, for without you May isn't May Down through the sunshine wings flutter and fly; Quick, little Violet, open your eye!

Hear the rain whisper, "Dear Violet, come!" How can you stay in your underground home? Up in the pine-boughs for you the winds sigh; Homesick to see you are we—May and I.

—LUCY LARCOM.

Who Told The News?

Oh, the sunshine told the bluebird, And the bluebird told the brook, That the dandelions were peeping From the woodland's sheltered nook; So the brook was blithe and happy, And it bubbled all the way, As it ran to tell the river Of the coming of the May.

Then the river told the meadow, And the meadow told the bee, That the tender buds were swelling On the old horse-chestnut tree; And the bee shook off its torpor, And it spread each gauzy wing, As it flew to tell the flowers Of the coming of the spring.

CARDINAL IS GIVEN PRINCELY RECEPTION

In honor of the golden jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church, and the silver jubilee of his elevation as a cardinal, the Catholic Club of New York gave a reception to Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, Wednesday night.

Six pages in black velvet court uniforms, shashed with white, and four young men bearing lighted tapers trimmed with scarlet ribbons, met the Cardinal at the clubhouse entrance. Following him were acolytes in white surplices, the Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory in full court uniform, members of the order wearing its gold and silver decorations, and prelates of the Church from New York and other cities.

The procession was greeted as it passed through the club rooms by a reception committee, whose members carried tiny silver and gold flags. They escorted the guest of honor to the ballroom, where there was a throne especially prepared for him. With Archbishop Farley standing at his right and Frank Gannon, President of the Catholic Club, at his left, Cardinal Gibbons took his seat upon the throne, while other members of his party grouped themselves closely about.

Waiting to be presented were more than 2,000 men and women, who thronged the ball room and adjoining rooms, all of which had been lavishly decorated with the Papal colors of yellow and white.

Back of the Cardinal's Throne were American flags, and the American colors were prominent in the Throne itself. The shield bearing the coat-of-arms, was quartered in the American colors, and decorated with a star, representing Columbia. Above the shield was the cross of the Church, made after a design used only for the Church princes, and above that was a Cardinal's hat, whose tassels, fifteen in number, indicated the rank above Archbishop, were draped in conventional design.

Three lion heads studded with gold and silver, indicated the nature of the jubilees being celebrated, while the Cardinal's motto, "Emitte Spiritum Tuum," formed the shield's base. It was a piece of heraldic designing such as had never been attempted in America before, and was considered by the thousands who admired it as an effective grouping of the American colors in a manner to serve the purposes of honoring the church's one American prince.

ADVANCED MODEL OF SMART TOILET FOR AFTERNOON WEAR
WHITE marquisette, embroidery and black satin are used in the construction of this smart toilet for afternoon wear. The lines of the gown are such that the black satin has the effect of forming the foundation with the white embroidery as an overdress. On the blouse the embroidery falls in a broad band to the waist and is continued in panel effect down the front of the skirt. Flounces under various modifications are again making their appearance, and the simulated flounce at the bottom of the tunic indicates that this is one of the most advanced models. The peasant sleeves and the bolero arrangement on the bodice are all according to the latest fashion dictates. The narrow velvet tie and silk tassels at the neck are duplicated by the narrow velvet girdle with its sashlike ends.

PRETTY PRINCESS PAINTS PORTRAITS
THIS is an excellent likeness of the Russian Princess Vilma Lwoff-Parlaghy, who has returned to her studio in Paris after having spent a most successful portrait painting season throughout the United States. She lives like the traditional princess, her rooms at the Plaza, in New York, costing her alone $25,000 a year. She has some twenty-five attendants in her train, including a giant Cossack, who, in full uniform, baby lamb hat and all, stands behind her chair at every meal, no matter where she may be dining. The princess is somewhat of a mystery, but there is no question as to her ability in portraiture. Her jewels and costumes are things at which to marvel, but she shuns society and devotes herself absolutely to her profession.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catocotin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

IS THERE NO REDRESS?

Has a commonwealth done its whole duty when it simply releases a man from the penitentiary after compelling him to serve twenty years of a life sentence for a murder of which he is at the end of that twenty years found guiltless? What are the man's rights in a case of this kind?

These questions are suggested by the ordeal undergone by one Andy Toth recently liberated from the Riverside Penitentiary and who, bearing a stigma unjustly inflicted, has since been unable to secure an honest occupation. Unwilling to be a burden to his relations and friends this poor fellow is now seeking a position under the warden of the very institution in which he was wrongly incarcerated. With ambition stunted by penal shadows and robbed of energy by the remembrance of an injustice which all time cannot efface, back he comes—an honest man shunned by honest folk—asking for the privilege of eking out an existence in a place supported by the State that blasted his reputation and his life. Is there no redress?

It is all very well to say that every man indicted for murder is tried by a jury of his peers and that the court simply sentences upon the verdict of these peers. Technically a wrong sentence under the conditions may be construed as right and justice, in so far as the letter of the law is concerned, may have been meted out, nevertheless it would seem but proper that the spirit of equity be given a place in cases similar to the one referred to and that some provision for reparation be made in the criminal code to cover circumstances such as are presented in this particular instance.

BASEBALL IN EMMITSBURG.

With so much good material at hand the wonder is that Emmitsburg no longer has a baseball club. It is remarked on every side that in former seasons, with the exception of a few years, the people here supported an amateur nine that more than held its own with any team with which it crossed bats. The sentiment prevails that Emmitsburg should once more come to the front with a winning aggregation. There is no town for miles around that patronizes the games more regularly and more generously and, under the circumstances, those who can play and who in playing derive and give so much enjoyment would be manifesting a spirit worse than that of indifference should they fail to come forward and organize for the Summer.

Nearly every town nearby has its club on the diamond and letters are constantly received here asking that a date be arranged for a game with Emmitsburg. The season is not far advanced; it would take very little time to warm up and straighten out the available timber and THE CHRONICLE suggests that in order that something practical may be done, all who are interested in baseball meet on Monday night at eight o'clock at the room adjoining the store of Mr. T. E. Zimmerman for the purpose of organizing a representative baseball club for Emmitsburg.

If Senator Blair Lee is a candidate for Governor he starts in with the advantage of being probably the only man in the State who understands his State's primary election law.—Baltimore News.

This in itself is a qualification not to be disparaged. But it may be remarked, in passing, that if there is one man who is thoroughly conversant with the history, the laws, the best traditions and the greatest needs of his State, that man is Blair Lee. Senator Lee has always stood for the people and for every measure that had for its object the welfare of Maryland and the Democratic party would make a very wise move in asking Senator Lee to be its nominee.

THE fashions of the French Revolution have not been heralded with much noise or protest, but nevertheless they are here in full force.—Exchange.

Let's see. The guillotine was very much in vogue during that period. Can it be that even this dreaded but very effective instrument will again become popular, now that Mr. Roosevelt is but a private citizen?

REPORT ON WINTER WHEAT

Average Condition Better Than First of May in Former Years—Other Crops.

The average condition of winter wheat on May 1 was 86.1, compared with 83.3 on April 1; 82.1 on May 1, 1910, and 86.0 the May 1 ten-year average, according to the May crop report of the Department of Agriculture.

The average condition of rye was 90.0, compared with 89.3 on April 1; 91.3 on May 1, 1910, and 89.7 the May 1 ten-year average.

The area of winter wheat to be harvested was about 31,367,000 acres, or 1,940,000 acres (6.6 per cent.) more than the area harvested in 1910, and 3,118,000 acres (9 per cent.) less than the area sown last fall (34,485,000 acres).

The condition of the wheat crop on May 1 of the past five years averaged 85.7 per cent; the final yield, per acre, averaged 15.5 bushels. If the above ratio should prevail this year the condition of 86.1 per cent. would indicate a yield of 15.6 bushels per acre, which compares with 15.3 bushels, the final estimate or yield per acre in 1910. On the estimated area to be harvested, 15.6 bushels per acre would produce 5.4 per cent. more than the final estimate of production last year, 9.6 per cent. more than the final estimate of production last year, 9.6 per cent. more than the production of 1909.

The average condition of meadow (hay) lands was 84.7, compared with 89.8 in 1910, and a ten year average of 89.4.

Stocks of hay on farms are estimated as 7,546,000 tons (12.4 per cent. of crop), against 7,275,000 tons (11.2) on May 1, 1910.

The average condition of pastures was 81.3, compared with 89.3 in 1910, and a ten year average of 87.4.

Of spring plowing, 71.0 per cent. was completed up to May 1, compared with 80.3 per cent. in 1910, and ten year average of 67.2; of spring planting, 60.0 per cent. compared with 65.0 per cent. in 1910.

British Anthem's New Verse.

Perhaps the best supplementary verse to our National Anthem that is supplied by Mr. Martin Skeffington:

With England's crown to-day
We hail our King, and pray
God save the King!
Guide him in happiness,
Guard him in storm and stress,
Then in Thy Kingdom bless
And crown our King!

But five verses of National Anthem is quite enough, though in Chile they have 40, in Siam 60, and in Uruguay 70!—London Chronicle.

Interesting Paragraphic News From Various Sections of Maryland.

The United Fire Company of Frederick at a special meeting last week decided to purchase an automobile engine. The old steamer which has been in service many years became incapacitated several months ago and a committee was appointed to investigate the automobile fire fighter, with the result that a new one will be purchased. About three years ago the Independent Company bought an automobile engine which has given satisfaction. The city will donate $4,000 toward the new apparatus.

Harper's Ferry, W. Va., is a dry town but across the river on the Maryland side a license has been granted to Albertus Spencer to maintain a saloon. Judge Keedy of Washington county, signed the order in spite of the petition of the mayor of Harper's Ferry, on the ground that he did not have jurisdiction in the case; that under the local high license law the court could not refuse a license merely on the grounds contained in the petition filed by Mayor Martin. The latter will be required to pay the cost in the proceedings.

Several fires of apparently incendiary origin have alarmed the residents of the northwestern section of Hagerstown. Recently three different attempts have been made to burn stables in that section. Stables belonging to the Philip Heleine estate, James Royce and George Smith have been set on fire, but in each instance the firemen arrived in time to prevent serious results. Previous to these fires an effort was made to burn down the small frame dwelling occupied by Moses Gray, a colored man. In every case pieces of waste saturated with oil were found.

Mrs. Jennie L. The lad's foot became fastened between the rails at the street crossing and before he could release himself he was run down by a freight train. His left arm was cut off and his skull fractured.

That Miss Elizabeth B. For nine miles a forest of fire swept the peninsula lying between the Magothy River and Chesapeake Bay Saturday night, all Sunday, and Monday morning, when rain set in. More than 5,000 acres of woodland and fields have been burned over, half a dozen homes destroyed, a score of barns, outbuildings, and wharves are gone. The loss will reach $70,000.

A head-on collision between an extra Western Maryland freight and a work train at Hancock Monday morning resulted in the derailment of thirteen cars, damage to two engines, and injury to brakeman M. Judge McSherry in his will left all his property to his wife for life, and at her death he directed that she divide it among their children. Mrs. McSherry left practically the whole of the estate to three of the children who were at home with her—William Clinton McSherry, Miss Caroline McSherry and Mrs. Anne Ridgely Alvey. The other three children—J. Roger McSherry, Mrs. Clara Louise Alvarez and Mrs. Wimsatt—were given minor bequests.

RAY HENRY'S LETTER FROM OUR ARMY CAMP

First-Hand News Giving Accurate Account of the Manoeuver on Mexican Border Land

For the purpose of ascertaining the value of the new pack and try out the new squad mess plan, the 17th Infantry left Fort Sam Houston several mornings ago on a practice march to Hot Wells, Texas. Incidentally an effort will be made to establish the extreme limits to which elimination of the present quantity of baggage may be carried. With this in view the regiment took along only four field wagons and in bivouac the officers slept in dog tents, two in each.

That a thorough test may be made of the new pack, many of the officers have decided to carry it. Colonel VanArsdale has been entrusted with the mission to give the new pack a good try-out. Depending on his report and probably a number of others, the pack in question may be universally used in the United States Army.

While the eating utensils, bacon can and the like, of the new equipment are very similar to the old form, an eye will be kept on them also. To do this the regiment will mess in squads. Every eight or ten men will build a small fire and on this they will cook the frugal meal provided by the field ration. The 18th Infantry is busy on the drill ground working out a skirmish problem under the supervision of an inspector general. Part of the medical organization is on a hike to Leon Springs, and the 28th Infantry has the pleasure of being subjected to the new drill regulations. The new regulations are in harmony with the lessons taught or imparted by the wars between Russia and Japan and the Boers and British. One of the difficult problems in skirmish is how to keep up fire superiority and still keep the lines moving toward the objective. From present indications it would seem that the new system does this to a greater degree than did the old.

The 9th and 11th Regiments of Cavalry left for Leon Springs, Texas, accompanied by Company I Signal Corps. Extensive reconnaissance and rapid information service will be the purpose of this manoeuver.

At 4:30 every afternoon the aero squad assembles at the hangars for the purpose of learning the mysteries of aviation by Messrs. Ely and Coffyn. The intention is to explain to the officers forming the squad as much on the ground as possible. After that they will be taken on flights. The fact that the Wright machines have a duplicate set of levers for the control of the machine will make it possible to teach the would-be aviators without much trouble. Under favorable conditions the machine will be given to them under the supervision of an expert aviator. Should they prove unable to handle the machine at first, the instructor can correct their mistakes from his own seat.

Two special troop trains just reached here, one from New York City with 135 recruits and the other from St. Louis with 109 recruits. They were assigned to Infantry Regiments in the camp. Reports from recruit depots say hundreds of men are enlisting every day.

THE CHRONICLE came yesterday. "Always glad to get it."

Army Division Encountered Enemy.

The first two months of the mobilization having been spent in the training of recruits, the seasoning of men and instruction in regimental and brigade movements, Maj. General Carter's division of 13,000 men took the field on the morning of May 3, at 7:30 against theoretical enemy. Brig. General U. S. Schuyler in command of the Cavalry brigade, which was ordered to Leon Springs to screen the advance of the manoeuver division, reported he had made contact with the enemy and was heavily engaged. General Carter ordered Lieut. R. D. Foulis and Frank T. Coffyn in the Wright aeroplanes for a reconnaissance. They went out twenty miles and returned in forty-seven minutes, with the report of a hostile division composed of cavalry, infantry and artillery detached by the enemy to march around the right flank of the manoeuver division and attack the base and line of communication. The independent cavalry could not participate against the flanking column. Gen. Carter issued orders to meet the situation. Provost guards rounded up all the soldiers in the city, passes out of camp were revoked and the brigade commanders prepared their commands for the movements.

The troops marched with field equipment and rations reduced to a minimum for field service. We went out same as if it were to be an actual battle. During the mobilization the officers and non-commissioned officers have worked 4,000 recruits into something like condition for service. The men have been taught to take care of themselves and of each other under field service regulations. They have learned the details of camp sanitation and by practice marches and participation in brigade movements have been hardened and made acquainted with extended order drill. They are now in much better condition than when they arrived. All have gone through the temporary indisposition incident to vaccination, and sickness of all sorts has been practically eliminated.

Along with training of the men, company officers have had practice in the administration of the regimental units and have learned to deliver their men at a given point in the best possible condition for service.

The brightest intellects in the army have been at work revising the drill regulations, trying out new equipment and investigating with a view to amplifying and amending the field service regulations, otherwise known as the "Army's Bible."

Value Received to Taxpayers.

This is, accordingly, the earliest possible moment that Major General Carter could have ordered his division into the field. To do so before would have been like teaching a child to ride horseback before it had learned to walk. Army officers say extensive battle drills would have profited the general officers nothing. Every Colonel in the division has handled a regiment in actual battle. Every general in the division has commanded regiments in action and the larger units in the big summer manoeuvres. The taxpayer who thinks he has received nothing for his money because he has not seen a lot of powder burned, a large quantity of expensive ammunition shot away and all the flubdub to which he is used in encampments of the National Guard, is much mistaken.

The quiet earnest work that has been done in sanitation alone has saved the taxpayer money on the pension list. He can take the word of army experts alone for it that a sick list of less than 2 per cent. in the division is not due to the excellent climate of San Antonio or the antecedent health of the 13,000 men now here. Set down such a body of men in Paradise, they say, and without vigilant sanitation more diseases than the pharmacopia can cure would appear.

The one constant factor that generals of all time have had is the individual. The soldier of to-day is no better than one of Caesar's legionaries, a grenadier of Frederick the Great, or one of the Old Guard of Napoleon. The rifle and artillery of one nation to-day is as good as that of another. The successful general of modern times depends upon team work, the rapid co-ordination of different arms of the service. But in the last analysis this team work depends upon the condition and resourcefulness of the man.

General Carter in his skeleton of a division at last has a body of men in condition to take the field for any service. This is the opinion of experts who have been looking over the result of two months of as hard work as a commander ever had. In the simulated battle of last Wednesday the general used the instruments he had, in a manner, perfected. It is the opinion of the writer that this division, or a part of it, will get ample chance to show its metal within one month, not in theory but actual service. The situation in Mexico is almost to a point where Uncle Sam cannot long delay intervention.

Youth in Washington Pest House Will be Taken Care of by Relatives in the Philippine Islands.

Anacieto Palabay, the young Filipino leper confined in a pest house at Washington, is to be returned to relatives and friends in the Philippines. Manuel L. A FAIR EXCHANGE

MANY people have things that they no longer have use for, but keep them in the house taking up room and doing no one any good.

Better sell or trade off things you don't want. Advertise them and you will find that there are people ready to take them and pay cash, or trade for them. You will find it easy through the Columns of

THE CHRONICLE

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but if frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Musselman, of Gettysburg, were the guests of the Misses Hoke on Sunday.

To Highfield By Trolley.

The trolley extension of the Chambersburg, Greencastle and Waynesboro Street Railway Company's line from Pen Mar to Highfield was opened on Sunday last. Several hundred passengers took the trip on that day. In this connection it is interesting to those familiar with this popular resort to learn that some one in Lancaster, Pa., has come out with an elaborate explanation of the name Pen Mar. "It is of Cornish extraction," says the Lancaster man, and he quotes an ancient rhyme to prove it. The fact is that Pen Mar is so called because it is on the Mason and Dixon line, with Pennsylvania on one side and Maryland on the other, the first three letters of each State name being used to form the word.

ST. JOSEPH'S AND ST. MARY'S EACH WIN AT BASEBALL

Each Defeated the Other on Home Grounds.—Third Game Promised Early Next Month.

Last Saturday in the first game between Mount St. Mary's and Mount St. Joseph's college baseball teams the locals were defeated on their home grounds 4 to 1. On Wednesday Mount St. Mary's squared things by defeating the Baltimoreans at Irvington 5 to 2.

Inside baseball won the first game. Mount St. Mary's accumulated 4 errors in the Saturday game and only connected for four hits.

On Wednesday the tables were turned. Eight errors were made by St. Joseph's. The line-up for Mt. St. Mary's was changed for this game. Sebald took McHugh's place, Campbell played left instead of Wymard and Kilgallon played short instead of McMorris, who took Rice's place in center field.

The third game of the season is promised early in June and an effort will be made to have it played at the Oriole Park.

BAKER—ADAMS.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Joseph's Catholic Church Wednesday morning at 5.45 when Miss Estella J. Adams became the wife of Mr. James A. Baker, Rev. J. O. Hayden performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial High Mass. Mr. Lewis Cooper, of Baltimore, was groomsmen, and Mrs. Cooper, a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. The bride was attired in a gown of net over white silk, wore gloves and veil, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid was dressed in white silk. The altar was elaborately but tastefully decorated for the occasion and the music was of the usual high order.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. In the evening, from seven to ten thirty, a reception was held at the home of the groom. About 75 guests were present. The Emmet Cornet Band was on hand and furnished excellent music. The Junior Callithumpians also furnished a serenade. Delicious refreshments were served in abundance.

Harem Skirt at Hagerstown.

The first harem skirt seen in Hagerstown made its appearance on the street Friday afternoon, creating a sensation. The young woman, who gave her name as Miss Daisy Warner, was accompanied by another young woman and a young man. Her costume consisted of a skirt reaching to the knees and divided below.

"Tatters" Disports at St. Anthony's Hall.

Last week the citizens of Mt. St. Mary's were given a genuine surprise when the Tithematic Society presented "Tatters," a western drama. Sophia Wetzel appeared in the soubrette title role and scored a great hit. She was sweet, winsome, pretty, coquettish and kept the audience in good humor. William Rosensteel, as the persecuted half-breed, was good in a pathetic way and made love in telling style. James McNulty and Francis Kelley, respectively as "Major Timberlake" and "Moses," joined hands to furnish laughs and were mighty successful with their comedy. Frank McNulty, as the Easterner, with a shady past and a deserted wife to his credit, did some fine work. Alice McNulty made a haughty, stately temperance lecturer, and deserved a better fate than to be "mounted" on an old mare and set adrift in the howling wilderness." Beulah Wetzel was a coy ingenue and was so lovely that no one could blame the black but amorous "Moses Lillyblossom" for falling in love with her. Allen and Elmer Kreitz were typical deep-dyed villains. Ernest Wetzel and Elmer Bailey were clever and spoke their lines well. George Rosensteel, Albert McNulty and John Hobbs completed the well-balanced cast. Miss Annie Corry directed the play, and the success redounds to her credit, to her excellent taste and good judgment.

Miss Emma Moore took charge of the musical programme, and saw to it that her part of the entertainment was well carried out. James McNulty sang in good voice. Sophia Wetzel's "Garden of Roses" had a heart appeal, while Elmer Bailey's dance aroused every soul in the audience. William Rosensteel's address pleased, and the satisfied audience filed out.

Short Crop of Cow Peas. Prices Are Going Up. The enormous demand for Cow Peas last year carried the price very high, and as the crop is very short and the acreage is rapidly extending, there are many indications which point to much higher prices as the sowing season approaches.

Whip-Poor-Will Cow Peas. The Whip-poor-wills are generally preferred in the Central and Southern States. They are bush form, early maturing and especially desirable for Peas.

New Era Cow Peas. New Era's are a little earlier and make more vine than the Whip-poor-wills.

Wonderfuls, Clay and Mixed Cow Peas. For Hay, the Wonderfuls or the Mixed Cow Peas are more productive, they should always be planted with an occasional grain of corn, Sorghum Seed, Kaffir Corn etc., which will prevent the vine from getting damaged by coming in contact with the ground.

Black Cow Peas. Black Cow Peas are a little later in maturing than the Clays, they make a good growth of vine, are exceptionally good for medium or poor land and will stand almost any amount of wet weather without injury.

THE WRONG BOOK

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

It was in the olden time, when travelers westward from the Missouri river went by wagon train system. I was a young man then and had some money which I had invested in the stock of a mining company on Clear Creek, about twenty miles west of Denver. News came that those operating the mine had struck a rich vein of ore, and I concluded to go out and look after my interests.

So I joined a wagon train at Kansas City consisting of two wagons. The owner, John Scarsdale, was taking his family out to Denver to settle there. They consisted of his wife, his son, Henry, twenty years old, and his daughter, Amelia. Henry had taken a course of medicine at an eastern university and was going to put out his shingle in Denver.

There is nothing like being thrown with a girl constantly and not seeing other girls to make a man fall in love. And I suppose it's the same with a girl in reference to the man. At any rate, we had been on the road but a few days when I began to consider Amelia attractive.

Dr. Henry Scarsdale had a whole library of medical books with him and studied whenever we were in camp. He was an enthusiast in his profession. He became a celebrated physician afterward, but at that time he was simply at the beginning of his career and always yearning for some one to fall ill that he might apply his knowledge.

Unfortunately I was destined to need his attention. My heart would get to beating rapidly at the slightest provocation. The young doctor on hearing of my trouble unpacked a box of books that he had intended not to open till he reached Denver, got out a volume on heart disease, ran his eye over the index till he came to "palpitation" and familiarized himself with my case. Then he improvised a stethoscope, placed it against my chest over my heart, listened and looked serious.

I knew by that look that I was doomed. He told me that I must not consider my case hopeless, which I understood to mean that it was hopeless, especially since he told me that I might live quite awhile. But the next morning, feeling more hopeful, I told the doctor that I thought he might have been mistaken, whereupon he said very decidedly that I would find out. If I lived to reach Denver it would be more than he expected.

This broke me all up again, and I continued to decline during the rest of the journey. I couldn't make the slightest motion without my heart beating like a trip hammer. I lost flesh and was so near run down that by the time we were approaching Denver a reclining place was made for me in one of the wagons.

I conceived a great respect for the medical diagnosing power of the young doctor. He had told me that if I reached Denver alive I would do well, and the nearer we got to the town the more rapidly my heart beat. It occurred to me that he didn't really expect me to live even so long as that. At any rate I made up my mind I would not.

When within ten miles of Denver in camp one evening I sent for Amelia Scarsdale and told her that, being at the point of death, I would have no further use for worldly wealth and handed her my mining shares that I had transferred to her. I refrained from telling her that I loved her, thinking that, being doomed, it would be better for her that I should keep my secret. Amelia was certainly very grateful, tried to comfort me and declared that if I lived she would transfer the shares to me. To this I replied that I had given up all hope; that when her brother told me it was not likely I would live to enter Denver I had doubted his power of diagnosis, but I had been getting worse ever since, and I knew now that he was right.

While we were talking Dr. Scarsdale came to the wagon and said to me:

"I fear I have made a mistake in your case. I got hold of a book on diseases of the heart. I have today been reading one on indigestion, and I shouldn't be surprised if your heart trouble is due to that cause."

"You say you fear you have made a mistake," I remarked.

"Yes."

"Well, I fear you haven't."

"Diet for a few days, and I have some peptonic pills I'll give you."

I took the doctor's pills, and the fact that he had got hold of the wrong book concerning my case convinced me that he was not infallible. My mind drifted in another channel, my heart stopped beating so rapidly, and I was a new man.

Amelia insisted on returning the mining shares, which made me feel very cheap. I went up in the mountains to the mine and returned a few weeks later a very rich man. I was much surprised that Amelia did not look so beautiful among other women as she had seemed on the alkali plains. Indeed, I thought her anything but beautiful. She imparted to me the fact that for two years she had had a lover in Denver and that she was to be married in a few days.

Here was my chance. I gave her a wedding present consisting of enough of the mining shares I owned to make her independent for life.

My medical experience convinced me of the power of mind over matter.

Fleeced the Queen.
When George IV. was crowned it was feared that the discarded Queen Caroline might appear and create a scene at Westminster abbey during the ceremony. A gentleman of the name of Chutneigh offered to go into the anteroom where Caroline was waiting and keep her engaged until the conclusion of the ceremony. That was a time when nearly everybody gambled, and the discarded queen was no exception to the rule. After a few casual remarks about the weather Chutneigh took three cards from his pocket and invited Caroline to "spot the lady." Time and again she backed her judgment with money and each time lost. Then she played higher stakes in the hope of retrieving her ill fortune. Her last guinea had been taken in by Chutneigh before she remembered her intention to be at the coronation. But it was too late. The ceremony was over, and the new king, "the greatest blackguard in all Europe," was on his way to the palace. To Mr. Chutneigh, who thus holds the credit of introducing the three card trick into England, a pension was granted.

Obeeyed Directions.
One of the small theaters in Pittsburgh at which moving pictures and vaudeville sketches alternate recently changed a sign which read: "Ladies that remove their hats will find mirrors and all conveniences on the room to the left as they pass out. Thank you for removing them." Some of their patrons acted too literally on the sign. Just before it was changed one of the employees saw a woman of rustic appearance and a happy expression leaving with several combs, a brush and two small hand mirrors.

"Say, what do you think you're doing with those things?" he demanded. She was taking them home, she informed him.

"Naw, yer not," said the man; "we don't put them things in there for you to take away."

"Well, of all things," exclaimed the indignant dame, "an' didn't I read with my own eyes that you would thank ladies to remove them. And ain't I a lady?"

Then the sign was changed.—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Fun Under Fire.
"One of the characteristics of my old comrade, Amos Stillman, Company A, Twenty-third Massachusetts volunteers, was bravery in actual fighting service," said the old soldier. "Another characteristic was a sense of humor which stood him in good stead even in the face of danger and contributed not a little to the gaiety of his comrades. At the battle of Cold Harbor, just before making the charge and while under the Confederate fire, our corporal, who was over six feet tall and scarcely bigger round than a gun barrel, became excited as the enemy's bullets plowed up the earth about him."

"What kind of place is this to keep a man in?" he demanded. "Absolutely without protection!"

"He had no more than spoken when Private Stillman stuck his ramrod in the ground."

"Here, corporal," said he; "get behind this."—Youth's Companion.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How There Came To Be Frogs

In White Vest and Green Coat

LONG ago when the world was young daddies told this story to their children, and I suppose they will continue doing so as long as the world lasts.

That was the way the daddy of Jack and Evelyn began his story for them one evening.

"It is the story of the way in which there came to be frogs on this earth," he went on. "Once upon a time there was a young mother. Her name was Latona, and she had twin babies, a boy and a girl. They were beautiful little children, and their mother loved them very dearly. Now, in the country in which Latona lived with her babies there was a queen named Juno. People used to say that Juno was a great queen, but that Latona was more beautiful than the queen, so Juno became jealous of Latona and decided to drive her away from her country. The poor young mother had to take her two babies and flee from Juno lest the queen do her an injury."

"The poor Latona had to go a long distance to get out of the reach of Queen Juno. It was hot weather, and she did not dare stop to give her poor little children anything to eat or drink. Besides, there was no place to rest until she reached the shores of a beautiful lake with clear, cool water, shaded by trees and bushes. 'I will stop here,' said Latona.

"But by the side of the lake there were some bad boys cutting sticks. They were dressed in green coats and white vests. They were cruel boys, and they would not let poor Latona and her babies rest. Whenever she tried to get near the water they drove her away with the sticks."

"She said to the boys: 'See my poor little babies. They are so thirsty, and I am so tired carrying them. Will you not let us have some of the water and let us rest in the grass?'"

"But the bad boys only stirred up the water with their sticks so that it became muddy and unfit to drink and said: 'Now come and drink! Now come and drink!'"

"Then poor Latona did not know what to do, for she felt that she could not go any farther. She laid down her babies and stretched her hands to heaven, praying for help. The boys saw her do this and mocked her more until a strange thing happened. They all became silent, and when Latona looked down she saw that for their cruelty to her they had been changed into frogs. They could not talk. All they could do was to croak and say something which sounds to some people like 'Come and drink! Come and drink!'"

And now all the frogs wear white vests and green coats and live in the mud."

reannot Plays.
"It is a tremendous undertaking to get a new play accepted and produced," once said the late Clyde Fitch to a friend. "So many are written, and so few ever see the light of day. An English playwright with a gift of humorous exaggeration illustrated this fact to me once. He told me how he submitted a play to a celebrated actor and how in the course of the conversation the actor remarked: 'Don't you think it is growing chilly in this room?' 'Yes; it is rather,' the young playwright admitted. 'Then the actor rang a bell, and a servant forthwith appeared. 'James,' said the actor, 'this room is rather cold. You may put three more manuscripts on the fire.'"—Lippincott's.

A Competent Critic.
A famous actor at an elaborate entertainment at a Fifth avenue millionaire's palace in New York rose to recite Mrs. Browning's "Dead Pan." As he announced his subject and prepared to begin he heard a lady near him say distinctly:

"What is the next piece? Something funny, I hope. Oh, yes—'The Dead Pan' Dear me, how odd! Of course it must be funny—something about bad cooking, I suppose."

The Bishop's Opinion.
"The late Bishop Whitaker," said a Philadelphia clergyman, "had very little sympathy with ultra high church leaning. A young divine once said to him at a Lenten lecture, 'Bishop, suppose I should burn a few pastilles during the service, do you think anything would happen?'"

"Bishop Whitaker smiled dryly, and, passing his hand down his white beard, he answered:

"A good deal would happen, my young friend. Your congregation would be incensed, your vestrymen would fume, and it's more than likely that you yourself would go up in smoke."

The Family Cat.
"Under normal conditions," says Chicago's health commissioner, "all the epidemic and local diseases thrive upon the family cat. The woman who refuses to give her child a red hot poker as a toy has no hesitancy in putting into its arms the most dangerous plaything—the family cat. It is no difficult matter to quarantine the child sick with scarlet fever or diphtheria, but the family cat goes where it pleases and comes when it likes."

Facing the Inevitable.
"Is it selfish ambition that inspires your eagerness to rush into official responsibility?"

"Not at all. It is merely a generous willingness to go to the front and stand my share of the harsh criticism that patriotic effort always receives."—Washington Star.

Knew His Business.
"She had him arrested for kissing her, and he was fined $500."

"Yet they are good friends now."

"Yes; he announced in open court that it was worth the price."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Farm and Garden

NEW FACTS; OLD MANURES.

Values of the Various Sorts of Fertilizer Set Forth Briefly.

Horse manure from city stables usually contains 70 to 75 per cent of water in the form in which such manure reaches the farmer. The solid portion of such manure contains of nitrogen from 0.5 to 0.8 per cent, phosphoric acid 0.3 to 0.5 per cent, potash 0.5 to 0.7 per cent, lime 0.5 to 0.8 per cent, with traces of magnesia. The drier the manure the larger the quantity of actual plant food elements in the ton. Computing the above named quantities of nitrogen therein as worth 20 cents per pound, phosphoric acid and potash each 4 cents a pound, the valuation of horse manure of the above range of composition works out from $2.64 to $4.16 per ton.

Sheep manure from stockyards and slaughter houses is sometimes sold in the market either under its own name or as so called "natural guano." Analysis of three such samples sold in Connecticut showed them to contain about as much nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash as could be bought in the form of fertilizer chemicals for $11 or $12. The sheep manure sold at from $25 to $33 a ton. But, as the station report says, it must also be remembered that 60 per cent of sheep manure consists of fine vegetable matter, which forms humus in the soil and has distinct value in feeding the soil bacteria and in regulating the water content of the soil.

A curious fertilizing material comes in small quantities from silk mills. It is called "cocoon dust" and consists of the dead bodies of silkworms. The Connecticut station found it to be extraordinarily rich in nitrogen, containing nearly 10 per cent of this substance; also small quantities of phosphoric acid and potash.

Sewage waste may be profitable as a fertilizer. The sludge which accumulates on the sand beds used for the purification of sewage at Rockville was found by the Connecticut station to contain of water 68 per cent, of nitrogen 1.34 per cent, with traces of phosphoric acid and potash. This material has almost three times as much nitrogen as stable manure, but it is probably much less available to crops because the more soluble and valuable part of the nitrogen has been removed by water and microbe action. Nevertheless if it can be got for the hauling it might pay for a short haul to plow under.—American Agriculturist.

DON'T CUT SOD WITH SPADE.

Make For Yourself This Ingenious Little Sledge and Halve Your Labor.

The construction of the sod cutter is clearly shown in the sketch. It may be well to add, says Farm Progress, that the knife blade dips downward about three-eighths of an inch in its width of two and one-half inches. The knife can be adjusted to cut the sod at the proper thickness.

Two men and a boy, with a team, recently cut enough sod to load a flat wagon holding one and one-quarter cubic yards, rolled the sod and loaded the wagon in a trifle more than an hour. The cutter is easily and cheaply made and is a great improvement over the spade.

Puckerless Persimmons.
Yes, it has been done. Do not laugh, you who have been handed persimmons and have bitten to the delight of uproarious spectators.

Our department of agriculture has earned additional fame by taking the pucker out.

We owe the discovery to the Japanese. For five years an expert has been at work for the government devising means to remove the pucker from the persimmon. Like all things, it is simple when you know how. The fruit is put into tanks into which carbon dioxide has been forced and left there three days. Taken out it is sweeter than a Bartlett pear and will keep three times as long.

What part will you take in the campaign for better farming? Much will be required at your hands. Have you determined to do your part?

A Modern Solomon.
"Do you think I am really your affinity?" asked Solomon's nine hundred and eighty-fifth wife coquettishly. "My dear," said the wisest guy, "you are one in a thousand." He got away with it too.—Toledo Blade.
