become unusually affectionate. The animal is nervous and easily excited, but obeys any command of its owner.

There is a marked tendency in these early stages for the animal to seek quiet spots and to hide in corners or dark places.

This form of the disease occurs in only a small percentage of the cases. The symptoms are somewhat similar to those of furious rabies except that marked irritability is absent and there is an early appearance of paralysis.

After a person has been bitten do not kill the dog unless a competent veterinarian has pronounced the disease rabies or the dog is showing well-marked symptoms.

The best repressive measure is to muzzle dogs. The result of muzzling laws in Germany, Holland, England, Sweden and other foreign countries has been the eradication of the disease both among men and animals.

David Lewis Receiving Due Recognition

Representative David J. Lewis of Maryland, called on President Taft Monday by appointment and had a lengthy conference relative to the Postal Express bill, which has been attracting national attention since its introduction in the house by Mr. Lewis a month ago.

The Lewis bill is the newest and in some respects the most radical and original departure in parcels post legislation that has yet appeared, and, oddly enough, despite its novelty, it is the only solution of the parcels post problem so far offered that has aroused neither sneers nor downright opposition.

7-14-2ts G. W. WEAVER & SON. WICKERSHAM IS AFTER DR. HARVEY WILEY'S HEAD

Official Who Enforces Food and Drug Act Accused of Countenancing Illegal Salary to Dr. Rusby.

After having failed in many vigorous efforts to separate Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food expert, from his place at the head of the Bureau of Chemistry in the Department of Agriculture, his opponents seem at last in a fair way to succeed in their desire, and to carry with his retirement the reduction of L. F. Ceber, Chief of the Division of Drugs, and the dismissal of Dr. H. H. Rusby, head of the New York College of Pharmacy at Columbia University, employed by the drug division as an expert pharmacognocist.

A committee investigated the charge and its findings have been submitted to Attorney-General Wickersham and he has decided that the circumstances are so grave that the recommendations of the committee that Dr. Wiley be permitted to resign should be carried out. The papers are now before the President for final action.

This committee has had under investigation a charge that Dr. Wiley and Mr. Keblor conspired to give an illegal compensation to Dr. Rusby. The law said this per diem compensation should not exceed $11; Dr. Rusby has been paid about $20 and at times $50 a day.

Fairbanks on Atlantic City.

In speaking before an audience of Christian Endeavorers at Atlantic City, former Vice President Fairbanks said: "When I arrived here yesterday I would never have known it was Sunday save by looking at the calendar. The conditions were shameful, worse than in many European cities. Every store, saloon and place of amusement seemed to be running. Apparently the rulers of this town don't consider it a part of America. They act as though there were no laws. All this should be changed. It is a disgrace that this resort should be allowed to fracture the law with such impunity."

RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF MGR. FLYNN.

Mount St. Mary's, near Emmitsburg, Md. Meeting of Congregation of St. Anthony's Church, held to Draft Resolutions Commemorative of the Sympathy of its Members at the death of Monsignor D. J. Flynn, late President Emeritus of Mt. St. Mary's College.

The members of the congregation of St. Anthony's Church, near Mount St. Mary's College, were called together, after Mass, by the Rev. Pastor, George H. Tragger, who stated the object of the meeting and appointed a committee to draft resolutions, commemorative of the sorrow of the Congregation and expressive of their sympathy at the death of Rt. Rev. D. J. Flynn, late President Emeritus of Mount St. Mary's College.

Prof. Ernest Lagarde was called to the chair and John H. Roddy appointed secretary. The chairman, a personal friend and former teacher of the deceased paid due tribute to his memory. He had known him in his youth, and had early noted the traits of character and gifts which developed with the years and drew around him friends and admirers. After graduating at the College, the lamented prelate who had given his heart to God was ordained at the close of his theological studies, in 1883, and had labored for our beloved Redeemer, serving Him, sustaining the faithful and bringing many within the fold of the Church by his word and precepts. For upwards of 16 years he had labored on missionary charges in Delaware, when in 1899 he was called to his Alma Mater to become Treasurer and Prof. of Latin and Greek at the College. In every position to which he had been called, he brought a tireless energy and distinguished ability, the fruits of which are ample and are evidenced by the splendid edifices, the New Seminary Building and the beautiful College Chapel, erected during his Administration. The chairman, as he paid the tribute, would have wished to mingle his own words with those who will shortly speak his eulogy, telling of the many qualities that made the lamented prelate, near and dear to all, and particularly to emphasize the peerless gifts in which lay the real secret of his success; but he felt that he could scarcely trust himself in the onrush of emotions that sprang up with the memories of a cherished past.

One thought, however, he felt that on this occasion he must give expression to. In the impressive scene of the passing away of Dr. Flynn, deeply and solemnly accentuated by the tolling of the new college bell, whose mournful knell was caught up like an undertone, by the bell of St. Anthony's parish church, a more startling effect was produced in the minds of those hurrying to the dying Priest's bedside, for, at the instant an electrical storm was scurrying over the mountain, and soon, the refreshing rain, like a mystical aspergil, was giving new life to drooping vegetation and invigorating those who were oppressed by the torrid heat; and it gave rise to this parallel. This priest in the functions of his holy office had frequently, after sprinkling his congregation with holy water votively offered up the holy sacrifice that God might send rain to the parched earth and relief to His suffering children; and, now that eternal love was to perfect in this priest whatever had been imperfect in his life, "the Master of the rain" came in the majesty of lightning and thunder to sprinkle the earth with rain, for "He scattereth the rain over the earth and sendeth the waters over the fields."

The Resolutions drawn up by the following committee, were then read and adopted. ERNEST LAGARDE, Chairman. JOHN H. RODDY, Secretary. HENRY ECKENRODE. VINCENT J. ECKENRODE. EDWARD P. McNULTY. CARROLL WALTER. JOHN M. RODDY. DANIEL F. RODDY.

Resolutions.

WHEREAS, altho' the long and lingering illness of Rt. Rev. Monsignor D. J. Flynn, President Emeritus of Mt. St. Mary's College, had prepared our community for the announcement at any moment of his death which occurred on Friday, the 7th inst., at 2 P. M., yet it came as a shock to us, as the late Prelate was held in high esteem and affection by all. He was, in a measure, closely connected with the best interests of our people, for by the recent splendid improvements of the College, which attest his skill and ability as an administrator, he contributed greatly to the prosperity and comforts of our people.

WHEREAS, in his death the Church has lost an eminent champion, the country a citizen distinguished for his integrity, we, as a congregation, feel that we have lost a friend, and that we were always better for having come under his influence, and we shall not forget his noble example and sustaining counsel.

Therefore, be it resolved, that in these resolutions which are expressive of our sympathy for his bereaved family—his brother, Rev. Joseph F. Flynn, of Georgetown, Ky., and his sister, Sister Devota, of the order of the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth, of Paducah, Ky., we also extend our sympathy to the Council and Faculty of Mount St.

Mary's College, to whom he was endeared by a life of devotion and sacrifice, in cooperating with his fellow laborers to make of the "Cradle of American Bishops" a more exalted and a stately Mt. St. Mary's.

Be it further resolved that the members of this Congregation attend his funeral from the College Chapel on Tuesday, 10th inst., at 10 a. M., and further, that on Sunday, the 16th inst., we shall offer our Holy Communion for the repose of his soul.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be delivered to his family and to the Council and Faculty of Mt. St. Mary's College; and, further, that these resolutions be published in the Emmitsburg Weekly Chronicle and the Catoctin Clarion of Thurmont, Md. JOHN H. RODDY, Sec'y.

ODDS AND ENDS

The Annapolis election on Monday resulted in a sweeping Democratic victory.

A House committee began an investigation into the charge that President Taft and his brother, Charles P. Taft, favored the Controller Bay grab in Alaska.

From government reports frost formed in Wyoming last Monday.

Among the most freakish things told of the break in the hot wave last Friday comes the story furnished by the Washington Evening Star that snow fell in that city at half past one that afternoon.

Philadelphia's total deaths from heat last week numbered 98; New York's 113; Baltimore's 31; Boston's 169.

So much ice was used in Frederick during last week that only regular buyers could be supplied. Much ice was shipped into the city.

A. A. Berle, aged sixteen, a graduate this year of Harvard, won the Patria society prize for the best essay on a subject connected with the political or diplomatic history of the United States.

The Federal Express, running from Boston to Washington without change, plunged down a 20-foot embankment on Tuesday at Bridgeport, Conn., and twelve passengers were killed and fifty-four injured.

The Maryland National Guards are encamped near Frederick.

PROGRESSIVE EMMITSBURG.

The spirit of progress is in the air, the comment can be heard on every side. The visitors speak our praises. We all enjoy the advancement continuously going on. I hear some croakers say "where is it?" There are people who never see anything unless they are in it. Do you remember, or are you too young, when the dim light of the tallow dip or oil lamp gave the only light in the churches, stores and homes; when wood stoves were the only means of heating the same? How is it to-day? All the churches and some stores and dwellings are lighted by acetylene gas and heated by furnaces. We have an acetylene gas machine factory here. How many towns can say this? We have two ice cream factories and an up-to-date weekly paper, said to be the best equipped in the State outside the city. Prominent among our conveniences and improvements is the water works system. A reservoir on the mountain supplied from springs and without impurities, as is the case in many cities. One German said in reference to Crystal Fount, "How much more you drink, how much more you want." The broom factory, recently destroyed by fire, will resume operations. Our town is far above the average in the article of ice, as we have fourteen houses. Praise is due the inaugurators who gave the town this boon, for it is far reaching in its benefactions.

The time was when King Alcohol had no shame and his representatives perambulated our streets in all conditions. How improved the condition now; few represent this beastly condition to-day on our streets. Some may put the solution one way, others another. The real reason of the change is that the people can regulate their appetites better. They are living on a higher plane and are ashamed to be seen drunk on the streets.

Another mark of progress is the diminution of dogs. Dog fights, one of the results, were at that time watched by men as eagerly as the baseball or football game is watched today. Now we scarcely see a dog, except one driving cattle, or a substitute for a baby, in which great care is taken.

Do you remember when only a few pianos were in town, how we appreciated the music? To-day over seventy pianos and organs are in town. This is an index of refinement. Strangers reading this report will conclude we are a musical people. Yes, we are, so far as the instruments are concerned. Like Mr. Toodles, who had the baby shoes, "its handy to have them in the house."

We have street lamps, where many towns are without any. I do not say that they are the best kind, nor that our town is lighted better than towns elsewhere. We have tried high-priced lamps and well recommend contrivances, and all being failures, we are back to the starting point again. Most persons are satisfied, as many of them go to bed early. We have prospects for the future, when electric light will permeate every street, alley and road. The spirit of improvement around the dwelling is very manifest, adding to the general appearance. The rustic benches are evidence that social relations exist, as we see the matrons and the maids, the gay and frivolous, as well as the aged men and women all enjoying this comfort of outdoor life, seeing the passing multitude which perambulates the streets, indulging in joyous laughter, thus showing the good times they are having. We are a happy people and visitors think we are all rich. Do you remember when everybody worked, the girls all had plenty to do to sew, knit, and do general work? How is it now? Nobody works, all are well dressed and find time to walk the street at all hours, or go visiting near or far all seasons of the year, with no lack of money nor pressure of duties. How vast the difference from a few decades back!

The old street pump, which many know nothing about, is gone. In its stead a formidable fountain obstructs the street, and gives its cooling sprays to passers by. It is an improvement, but we know the pump is missed, as the weary traveler slaked his thirst at this old pump, and many thirsty horses were refreshed. As we approach the town from the West, each road to the corporate limits is built up. On Gettysburg street a fine appearance greets the eye as we draw near. The East end can rejoice in approach, with modern dwellings fascinating to behold. The Pike entrance is coming up, and the completion of the High School building will add a long-wanted need and show the advance in that line with which few towns will compare. We are ascending the scale of beauty in architecture as well as of usefulness, showing we are growing toward the aesthetic, in the light of all that pertains to the beautiful. We have no excuse to offer for customs or appearance, as we are on top. All know progress is the password, execution the practical side. As the revolving years go by new beauties will be added and the charm will extend its influence until we will be known as "Progressive Emmitsburg." The two institutions, Mt. St. Mary's and St. Joseph's, have been one cause of telling the world to look on the map and see our name there. Long may our inaugurated progress continue, until a greater fame may be our lot than we enjoy to-day. What other town could hold a Home Week and call the people from one end of the land to another, entertain the thousands, and have no indebtedness at its close? What other small town with a population of 1,054 could celebrate July 4 in such gigantic proportions that people came from far and near to witness the well-conducted Firemen's Picnic? Their park in the future will be an ornament. Some wonder why so many automobiles pass through our town. One hundred on a Sunday is an average, as well as the continuous stream through the week. It is because of our noted town. All roads, it was said, led to Rome; so it is with us, all roads lead to Emmitsburg. The people wish to see this progressive town; not country people only, but city people. It opens their eyes to see how everything is conducted. While we may never be a city, most of our people have city ways. We are not ashamed to speak of our good qualities. There is a history of Emmitsburg written by Helman. You should have one to know more about our colonial and up-to-date town.

GOVERNOR'S VISIT TO SECURITY

Big Maryland Industry of Great Interest to Crothers.—Cement to the Amount of 600,000 Barrels a Year Produced.

The visit of Governor Crothers last Saturday to the large plants of the Security Cement & Lime Company called to the attention of the general public of Maryland a natural resource of this State with the wealth and development of which it was practically unfamiliar.

Great beds of Limestone approaching different degrees of purity underlie practically the whole of the Western Section of the State. For the manufacture of ballast metal and crude lime these deposits have been worked to a certain extent for a number of years, but it remained for the Maryland and United States Geological Surveys to investigate and determine the locations of the beds of purity which from their proximity to railroads could be worked with profit. Sectional reports have been prepared and published by the United States Geological Survey at different intervals and last year, under the direction of Drs. Edward B. Mathews and J. Sharshall Grasty, the Maryland Survey issued a complete report on the limestones of the State with special reference to their use in the manufacture of Cement and Lime.

Meanwhile, however, working on the reports of the National Survey and reports from specially retained experts, a company composed entirely of Maryland capitalists had organized a cement manufacturing company, the first Portland cement company in the State. After a thorough examination of all possible materials they selected a site two miles east of Hagerstown as the best and erected thereon a plant with a capacity of 800 barrels a day. This plant began operations three years ago. The high quality of the product manufactured from the Maryland limestones soon won recognition, with the result that in 1909, the original Company, the Maryland Portland Cement Company, consolidated with the Berkeley Limestone Company to form the Security Cement & Lime Company. The cement plant located at Security, Maryland, was trebled in capacity, and to-day, notwithstanding the congestion of the cement market which has caused the large cement mills in nearly every other section of the country to close down, the Maryland concern is turning out Cement at the rate of 600,000 a year.

The primary object of the trip which was made by the Governor and a number of prominent men from all sections of the State, as the guests of the security Cement & Lime Company, was to acquaint the public with the high grade road building materials which are to be found west of the mountains. The trip was made on special trains over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to Martinsburg, West Virginia, and thence over the Cumberland Valley to the Plants at Berkeley and Security.

An exhibit, displaying the products of the plant, had been arranged, which included all varieties of lime and road building materials. Governor Crothers displaying that deep interest in the improvement of the roads of the State which he has manifested since the day of his inauguration, examined closely the road metals, from the screenings which the leading road engineers have endorsed as an essential top dressing for all macadam roads, to the larger sized lumps of Limestone, which when used as the body of the road, cement and form a bed which not even the hard trap rock can compare with.

In a brief address the Governor complimented the members of the Company upon their magnificent plants, representing an outlay of $1,700,000 and urged the public to support the company, which purely a Maryland concern the only one of its kind in the State.

The Strength of Infants.

The myth of the infant Hercules who strangled two serpents in his cradle may not be a myth at all, but a fact. Modern science has proved that it is a possible feat. The newborn babe is relatively much stronger than a full grown man, according to the result of medical tests. The muscles of the forearm are surprisingly strong. A few hours after birth a baby suspended by its finger to a stick or to the finger of a person can hold itself in the air for ten seconds and in the case of particularly strong infants for as long as half a minute. At four days old the child's strength has increased, and the time is two and a half minutes for 98 per cent of babies. The maximum is attained at a fortnight. Few infants can hang on for more than one and a half minutes, though one exceptionally young Hercules remained suspended for two minutes and thirty-eight seconds by his right hand. After that he hung on with his left for fifteen seconds longer.

She Got Her Manuscript.

George Elliot was always solicitous about her manuscripts and was afraid she should lose them. Blackwood had occasion to send her the manuscript of "Daniel Deronda." She would not have it entrusted to the mail, and Mr. Blackwood said he would send it by his footman the next day. "Oh, don't," the author said. "He might stop at a public house and forget it!" Mr. Blackwood explained that this footman was a perfectly sober man of high character and went on to praise the man's virtues, but this did not reassure her at all. "If he is the sort of chivalrous Bayard that you describe," she said, "he is just the kind that would stop and help at a fire."

When Shaw Was Married.

"I was very ill when I was married," Bernard Shaw once wrote, "altogether a wreck on crutches and in an old jacket which the crutches had worn to rags. I had asked my friends, Graham Wallas and Henry Salt, to act as witnesses, and, of course, in honor of the occasion they were dressed in their best clothes. The registrar never imagined I could possibly be the bridegroom; he took me for the inevitable beggar who completes all wedding processions. Wallas, who is considerably over six feet high, seemed to him to be the hero of the occasion, and he was proceeding to marry him calmly to my betrothed when Wallas, thinking the formula rather strong for a mere witness, hesitated at the last moment and left the prize to me."—George Bernard Shaw—His Life and Works, by A. Henderson, M. A.

The Word Shibboleth.

The word "shibboleth," now applied to any kind of party watchword, has a Scriptural origin. In the fifth and sixth verses of the twelfth of Judges we read: "And the Gileadites took the fords of Jordan against the Ephraimites, and it was so that when any fugitive of Ephraim said, Let me go over, the men of Gilead said unto him, Art thou an Ephraimite? If he said Nay, then they said unto him, Say now Shibboleth, and he said Shibboleth, for he could not pronounce it right. Then they laid hold of him and slew him at the fords of Jordan. And there fell at that time of Ephraim forty and two thousand."

A Vicious Dwarf.

Bebe was the favorite dwarf of the former King Stanislas of Poland. Born in 1741 in Lorraine, at the age of five he was twenty-two inches high and at his death in 1764 thirty-three inches. He was neither physically nor mentally active. Once Count Borowlaski visited him, and he became so jealous of the former's superior manners and intellectual qualities that he attempted to throw his visitor into the fire, but was prevented by the household.

A Sure Sign.

That levity is a subject that is sometimes worth while avoiding has been learned to the sorrow of a would be undertaker.

At a recent examination of the state undertaking board among the questions asked of the many applicants was the following one:

"What do you consider as an infallible sign of death?" "Crape on the door," answered one.—Chicago Journal.

Progressing.

"I think Arthur would have proposed to me last night if you hadn't come in the room just when you did."

"What reason have you for believing that?"

"He had just taken both of my hands in his. He had never held more than one of them at a time before."

Tit For Tat.

"Jims thought he was going to bag the heilress."

"Well?"

"She gave him the sack."—Baltimore American.

Mistress—Well, Cooper, what is the weather to be like? Gardener—Well, mum, I dunno, but the paper do say "forecast."—London Punch.

ALFALFA IS FORAGE KING.

Grows Anywhere, Needs Only Intelligent Care and Brings Big Prices. Here are some points on alfalfa indicating principally its value to every farmer east, west, north or south. Mr. John Wasiti of Wisconsin in an interesting letter to Hoard's Dairyman says in part: "Six years ago many farmers in the vicinity of Monroe claimed it would not grow on their land. Several farmers started with a small patch and soon found it to be a good feed. Year by year they continued growing it in larger fields. Last year they raised such an amount that by heating in the mow it caught fire and destroyed lots of feed and many buildings. But that can all be overcome. If alfalfa is properly cured there is no more danger in itself heating than in timothy hay."

PLOWING FOR ALFALFA.

he owned 1,300 acres of alfalfa. Besides feeding his stock, he shipped hay and made a net profit of $109,000."

J. T. Anthony of Maryland says in the American Agriculturist: "Some ten years ago I made a start with alfalfa, and after a succession of failures and successes, covering more than half this period, the light began to break. In short, you have to learn how to grow alfalfa just as you must learn how to grow fruits or vegetables of the finest quality."

"Select a well drained piece of loam land, not necessarily a knoll, but a piece of land that is not wet and soggy, the subsoil of which is porous, so that the plants can send their taproots down, down, without striking water. If the plot selected is deficient in plant food and humus let these be supplied and the land cultivated in some hoed crop, such as tomatoes, potatoes or corn."

"It is a rank feeder, as evidenced by its tremendous root system, and as all plants take their food in solution both food and moisture must be present to sustain the young plant." Says the Orange Judd Farmer: "There is no longer a question but that alfalfa can be grown anywhere. The only requirement is that the soil be free from surplus moisture. In other words, it must be well drained. This being accomplished, a clay subsoil or even a hard pan is no barrier. Alfalfa roots have been known to grow through twenty feet of hard clay."

"It is a very profitable crop. When sold for hay a good crop will bring

ALFALFA'S WONDERFUL ROOT.

[By courtesy Long Island Agronomist.] from $15 to $35 per acre. When used for stock feed it will often return $35 to $60. When grown for seed very frequently $30 has been secured."

"But in considering alfalfa the return from the crop is not the only consideration. It adds greatly to the richness of the soil. It takes nitrogen from the air and stores it up in large quantities for future crops. It is a protein feed and promises to solve the cheap feed problems on the high priced lands of the middle west. Farmers in this locality must have cheap feed if they are to raise live stock at a profit. They must have live stock if they are to keep up the fertility of their land. Corn and alfalfa, the corn being made into silage, with the addition of a little grain, will make milk, produce growth in young animals, will fatten beef cattle, will sustain horses, will assist in making pork cheaply and will produce eggs without number. It is also the best of mutton makers. In fact, no words of commendation can be considered extravagant. The plant is a marvel, and of this there can be no doubt."

MODISTIC JOTTINGS.

Fichu-like Wraps of Fine Chantilly Lace. Natural feather quills are seen in plain and amber colors. Fichu-like wraps of black chantilly or soft tafeta are smart and coquetish. An idea for linen and voile frocks is to place a twelve to sixteen inch colored band around the bottom of the skirt and then introduce a touch of the color in the waist. This design can be carried out in a variety of materials. Collars trimmed with black or with black and white are very chic. Pale blue linen trimmed with bias bands of black and white would be smart. Black and white silk trimmed with plain black and piped with green, cerise or cherry color would be attractive. Pongee would do for this dress; so would any of the thin striped or checked silks now on the market. The blouse, which might be made to go with a plain skirt, is worn over a lace guimpe.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VANITY FAIR.

Pin Tucks Are Used to Embellish Lingerie Dresses. The linen bathing suit is much worn. The plain top sleeves in mannish style or the kimono or peasant cut is still a dominant characteristic.

Pin tucks have again appeared in the lingerie blouse, with insertions of lace and fine embroideries. Rhinestone bandeaux have ostrich plumes, often uncured, standing up at one side. Now and then they are curled backward.

This child's dress is made with peasant sleeves and a smart paneled effect that may be carried out in embroidery or in some contrasting material. The skirt and body are in one, the fullness

WHITE SAILS.
 WHITE sails unfurled, ... Beyond the straight, dark sea Lies world on world of dreaming quietude. Wherein no angry murmur or unrest Disturbs the gentle swirls. Alone I flee The brazen combat of a crowded day And let my being sink into repose So deep, so infinitely calm and sweet That all the fragrant thoughts of discontent Fade from my mind like pictures from a screen.

White sails unfurled, ... So be it when my bark Sails bravely out across the misty dusk. No bitter murmurings of grief's unrest To rend the gentle swirls; just peace And ghostly silence like this, When through the swaying whisper of the waves God's voice drifts down to me. —Helen Hamilton Dudley.

"MUSIC IN CAMP."
 TWO armies covered hill and plain Where Rappahannock's waters Ran deeply crimsoned with the stain Of battle's recent slaughters.

THE summer clouds lay pitched like tents In meads of heavenly azure, And each dread gun of the elements Slept in its high embrasure.

THE breeze so softly blew it made No forest leaf to quiver, And the smoke of the random cannonade Rolled slowly from the river.

AND now where circling hills looked down, With cannon grimly planted, O'er listless camp and silent town The golden sunset slanted.

WHEN on the fervid air there came A strain, now rich, now tender, The music seemed itself aflame With day's departing splendor. —John R. Thompson.

FATE.
 TWO shall be born the whole wide world apart And speak in different tongues and have no thought Each of the other's being and have no need, And these o'er unknown seas to unknown lands Shall cross, escaping wreck, defying death, And all unconsciously shape every act to this one end— That one day, out of darkness, they shall meet And read life's meaning in each other's eyes.

And two shall walk some narrow way of life So nearly side by side that should one turn Ever so little space to right or left They must stand acknowledged, face to face, And yet with wistful eyes that never meet, With groping hands that never clasp and lips Calling in vain to ears that never hear, They seek each other all their weary days And die unsatisfied—and that is fate. —Susan Marr Spalding.
