GOVERNOR CROTHERS NOT A CANDIDATE FOR RENOMINATION

GOV. CROTHERS IS OUT OF RACE

HE IS NOT A CANDIDATE FOR RENOMINATION

Fight Now Between Democratic Rank and File and Bosses.—Between Lee and Gorman.

GOVERNOR THROWS HIS STRENGTH TO SUPPORT OF SENATOR LEE

Gorman and What He Represents Not Popular in The State.—His Former Methods Taken as a Fair Example of His Future Plans.—Congressman Lewis Comes out Square and Fair for the People's Candidate.—Democratic Hopes Bright for November Election.

The Democratic party's situation has at last been clarified by the announced withdrawal of Governor Crothers from the field as a candidate and the turning over of his influence and following to Senator Blair Lee. With Mr. Crothers out the Progressive Democratic Association declaring themselves for Lee and the announcement that Baltimore City Solicitor Poe has been selected as candidate for attorney-general, the thing is about settled and the contest next November will be between Senator Lee and Phillips Lee Goldsborough with the chances favorable for Lee.

Up to the time of the Governor's announcement it looked like a bitter fight between Lee and Gorman, and if Gorman was successful it was the general opinion that Maryland would go Republican at the election.

In order to assist in having Maryland in the Democratic column in the Presidential election next year Governor Crothers withdrew as a candidate for renomination. This he did in a speech delivered at Annapolis on Monday. At the same time he also declared that he would support State Senator Blair Lee for the Democratic nomination for Governor on the ground that he represented better than any other candidate the policy of progressiveness instituted by the State four years ago and because he thinks Senator Lee will have a better chance of victory in the general election.

The Governor said he will make several speeches in the campaign. This means the beginning of an active canvass, with the Governor and Congressman Talbot back of Senator Lee.

With only two candidates in the field on the Democratic side and one on the Republican ticket, the second-choice feature of the Primary Election law is eliminated. The contest being between Senator Lee and Gorman makes it a matter of course that either one will be nominated on the first ballot. There are 129 votes in convention. There cannot be a tie. Either one or the other must get a sufficient number to be nominated on the first ballot.

The following clippings from state papers give an idea of the strength of these two men:

The Federalburg Courier says "Mr. Arthur P. Gorman, would-be Governor of Maryland visited Shiloh Camp last Thursday. We hope the visit did the Senator good, but we question its effect upon the camp. If Mr. Gorman is bidding for the support of Church and Christian people he will have to do much more than come to a Camp Meeting. He will have to explain his conduct during the last session of the Legislature, when he opposed all reform measures and stood pat with the saloon gang and the lawless element. Furthermore he must 'bring forth fruits, meet for repentance.' We advise the gentlemen to hunt the 'Mourners' bench' when he visits a camp again."

Out in Garrett county the same objectionable opinion of Gorman prevails if the Garrett Journal at all reflects the popular mind. It says: "Of course the bluff out up by John Walter Smith in his advocacy of Col. Buck Schley was too thin and too weak to bear a bead. He and Murray Vandiver are alone responsible for the aspirations of Mr. Gorman and if we can see the situation at present, he will be woefully left when the ballots are counted at the primaries."

Under the heading "Duty of the Voter," the Midland Journal raps Gorman in this way:

"This will be the first time in the history of the State that direct nominations have been made for Governor, and it is the duty of every voter to go to the primaries and express his preference, and not supinely permit the party bosses to place the man they have chosen at the head of the ticket, who in this instance happens to be Gorman, the gang being solidly lined up behind him.

"You owe this service to yourself, and by the direct primary you have an opportunity to register your protest against the methods of the machine, that has all too long controlled party affairs in this State, and selected candidates as it pleased, with hardly a word of protest from the average voter. This lack of interest on the part of the voter has allowed the professional politician to fatten off the 'spoils' without hindrance, but with the direct primary in force and other candidates in the field representing progressive legislation, a new order of things political is dawning in the State which it is the duty of every voter to help along and prevent the clique of bosses naming any man they choose, without regard to what he represents, or the wishes of the people.

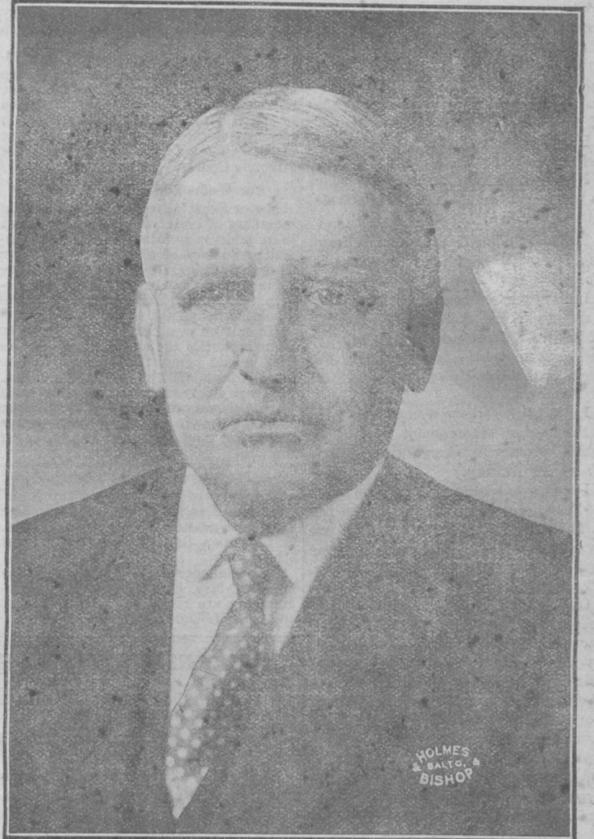

"It should not be a question as to who is backing any individual candidate but each and every man should be permitted to make the race on his individual merits, without let or hindrance from any faction or set of men. The fitness of the man should be the only question to be met, and not whether the candidate belongs to this or that faction.

"And it is by this direct primary that the opportunity is afforded to express your individual preference, and take the control out of the hands of the machine, which rarely represents any thing except the wishes of a handful of professional politicians."

On the other hand and of the other Democratic candidate the tone is decidedly favorable. This from the Denton Journal:

"State Senator Blair Lee has a record in the higher branch of the Maryland Legislature which challenges our admiration. Senator Lee put into form and was instrumental in passing many good laws, one of which, the direct primary law, brings to the hand of every voter the right to elect his own representatives."

BLAIR LEE, WHO GETS THE GOVERNOR'S SUPPORT IN THE PRIMARY CAMPAIGN.

CREDITORS OF BRUNSWICK BANK TO GET ONE THIRD

Failure of Savings Bank Cause of Much Hardship to People.—First Payment Next Week of $72,569.

Distribution of $72,569.91 will be made by the receivers of the defunct Brunswick Savings Bank to depositors as soon as possible after August 17 provided no objection is filed in court. This will be the first distribution and it will be made on a 33 1/3 per cent. basis. The receivers have $80,070.04 in hand and after deducting $7,500.13, costs of liquidation, the balance will be paid pro rata to the depositors. There are 814 claims, aggregating $217,079.41.

The distribution was ordered by the court. It is the intention of the receivers, John S. Newman and Millard F. Shafer, to make another distribution as the money can be collected. It is estimated that the bank will finally pay 50 or 55 per cent. of the claims against it.

"The closing of this bank," says the Brunswick Herald, "and the long delay in adjusting its affairs, has been the greatest hardship the town has ever undergone. Many of our people had all of their savings in this bank and were left almost destitute. In addition to this the closing of the bank just after pay-day caught a lot of our business men with large deposits in the bank, thus working an additional hardship as many were compelled to make temporary arrangements to tide the trouble over. The delay in adjustment has made it necessary to continue these temporary arrangements from time to time, much to the worry and cost of our business interests. There were a number of cases where depositors had their comfortable little incomes tied up and were compelled to go to work and earn a living by their own hand. It is to be hoped that this distribution will be made promptly and this tension and hardship among our business interests and citizens in a measure at least relieved."

Buick Man Killed Near Middletown.

A. W. Ayres, an employee of the Pittsburgh branch of the Buick Motor Company was thrown from a motorcycle along the National Pike, about three miles west of Middletown, about noon Monday, and died at 9:30 o'clock that night at the Frederick City Hospital. He was going west, and just as he was about to start up the South Mountain he was seen to fall from the machine and was dragged some distance before he was released from the motorcycle, which continued to run some distance. He was carried to the home of Mr. Shank, nearby, where Dr. Davis, of Boonsboro, and Dr. Hauver, of Middletown, were summoned. They found a fracture of the skull.

MR. TAFT'S INTEREST IN LINCOLN HIGHWAY PLAN

Congressman Lewis Promises that a Vigorous Effort Will Be Made To Have Measure Authorized.

Through the influence of Congressmen Lewis and Borland, President Taft has become interested in the proposed Lincoln Highway. Mr. Lewis says that a vigorous effort would be made in the next Congress to have the $2,000,000 appropriated for a Lincoln monument diverted for the construction of a highway across Maryland to Gettysburg.

At present the appropriation bill provides for a monument in the city of Washington. Going upon that basis the memorial commission has practically picked Potomac Park for the site. There is opposition in Congress to an expenditure for this purpose. The roadway people think this big sum of money should be expended for a more practical purpose than contemplated in the monument.

ROOSEVELT TESTIFIES TO LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

Takes Entire Responsibility For Tennessee Iron Company Deal.—Was Done to Check Financial Panic.

The Stanley Investigating Committee was told by Roosevelt on Saturday that he, Roosevelt, accepted full responsibility for his action in telling Judge Gary and H. C. Frick that he saw nothing in the proposed absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company by the United States Steel Corporation in the panic days of 1907, that made it his duty to interpose any objections. He ground his stand on the fact that this merger was the one thing that would check the panic, and it did check it.

This is probably the first time a former United States President has ever appeared before a legislative committee to explain or defend an official act while in that office.

Middletown's Paving Troubles.

After a controversy of two years the corporation of Middletown is pressing a case against the Middletown Savings Bank. It was in August two years ago that the case arose and there has been continual dispute ever since. The trouble is over a pavement in front of the bank which the Middletown officials claim was not put down according to the grade given by the municipality. The grade was given the bank, but for some reason, it is said, the bank did not see fit to put down the pavement according to the town grade. Work was started on the pavement, a concrete one, and was stopped by the town. By night the bank people completed the pavement and the town wants the court to order the pavement relaid to grade.

JAPAN INVITED TO JOIN IN UNIVERSAL PEACE PACT

Treaties between United States, Great Britain and France Simultaneously Signed At Washington.

An invitation has been extended to Japan, through Admiral Count Togo to join in the peace pact with United States, Great Britain and France, treaties with the other named nations having been simultaneously signed.

These treaties are considered as forming the greatest achievement of the Taft administration, with the possible exception of reciprocity, and as likely to go down to history as such. They are thought to put this country in the forefront of the great movement of the age. Yet the indications are that the Senate may delay ratification of them until the regular session of Congress in December and perhaps longer, for the reason that many Senators believe that that body might be curtailed in its constitutional power of giving its "advice and consent" in particular controversies that might arise and thereafter be submitted to an impartial tribunal.

Others object that if treaties were made with Great Britain and France there is no reason why one should not be made with Japan and, if so, the Pacific coast states might find it difficult to keep out Japanese undesirables in the event that their controversy should be submitted to arbitration.

On the other hand and of the other Democratic candidate the tone is decidedly favorable. This from the Denton Journal:

"State Senator Blair Lee has a record in the higher branch of the Maryland Legislature which challenges our admiration. Senator Lee put into form and was instrumental in passing many good laws, one of which, the direct primary law, brings to the hand of every voter the right to elect his own representatives."

Deposition in McSherry Will Case.

Judges Urner and Motter decided on Monday that the deposition of Frank McAleer, of Walkersville, may be taken in the McSherry will case. Mrs. Bertha McSherry Wimsatt and J. Roger McSherry have asked that the will of their mother, Mrs. Clara McSherry, wife of the late Chief Judge McSherry, be set aside. Miss Caroline McSherry and W. Clinton McSherry, executors, obtained from the court an injunction restraining the attorneys from taking the deposition. The injunction was laid, giving the customary right to show why it should not be made permanent. The Court decided that the deposition may be taken.

Last Administration in Fraud Suit.

A suit for $100,000 was filed in Washington last Saturday by Gen. J. F. King against Dr. E. B. Perrin. It is said that new light will be shed through this suit on acts of the Roosevelt administration regarding reservation of land in Arizona and that gross frauds are ascribed to members whose names are not divulged.

Lewis Urges Frederick Claim.

Representative Lewis has introduced in the House a bill providing for the reimbursement of the people of Frederick for the $200,000 which they paid Gen. Jubal Early, the Confederate leader, who, on July 9, 1864, threatened to pillage and burn the city. The bill was referred to the Committee on War Claims.

SHAKE-UP IN DIPLOMATIC SERVICE ON TUESDAY

Baltimore Diplomat Goes to Argentine Republic.—Two New Names Added One Without Experience.

The long-expected shake-up in the United States diplomatic service came on Tuesday. All but two of the appointments go to men who are already in the service. One of these, Mr. Brice, of New York, who is the new Minister to the Netherlands, has had no experience in the diplomatic department. He was formerly a member of Congress. The other appointments are:

John G. A. Leishman, of Pittsburgh, now Ambassador at Rome, to be Ambassador to Germany.

Thomas J. O'Brien, of Grand Rapids, Mich., now Ambassador to Japan, to be Ambassador to Italy.

Charles Page Bryan, of Chicago, Minister to Belgium, to be Ambassador to Japan.

Larz Anderson, of Boston and Washington, formerly attached to the American Embassy at London, to be Minister to Belgium.

John Ridely Carter, of Baltimore, now Minister to the Balkan States, to be Minister to the Argentine Republic.

John B. Jackson, of Newark, N. J., now Minister to Cuba, to be Minister to the Balkan States.

Arthur M. Beaupre, of Aurora, Ill., now Minister to the Netherlands, to be Minister to Cuba.

W. M. RAILROAD WILL SPEND MILLIONS IN BALTIMORE

Terminals at Hillen Station and Port Covington to be Improved.—Work Started at City Station.

President Alexander Robertson, of the Western Maryland Company, announced Tuesday that the Western Maryland would spend nearly seven million dollars in the construction and equipment of terminals in Baltimore. This large expenditure, he said, would be necessary to provide means for the handling of the increased traffic which the road will gain through its connection with the New York system.

This money will be spent in providing modern yards at Port Covington and Hillen Station, where the Western Maryland has purchased an entire block. The houses are now being torn down. In accord with the ideas of modern railroad engineering three sets of tracks will be laid in each yard, one set known as the receiving tracks, another as departure tracks and the third as distributing tracks. At Port Covington two piers are to be constructed, and at Hillen Station a new warehouse.

Cholera Spreading in Italy.

The Public Health and Marine Hospital Service has announced that cholera is spreading in Italy, and has extended to Leghorn and Genoa. In a week's time 20 died in Naples, in Naples province 74 deaths, in the remainder of continental Italy 51.

FORMER CITIZEN WRITES OF HIS TRAVELS

Series of Interesting Accounts of a Swing Through the United States.

Canton, O., Aug 3, 1911. Here we are in beautiful Canton, O., one of the cleanest, brightest, richest cities of 50,000 in the States. I breakfasted this morning in the Sisters' Hospital, formerly President McKinley's home.

Our first afternoon's run was to Martinsburg, W. Va., which I deem well worth honorable mention, as her example is a lesson to other cities which are allowing "well enough to be alone." Some twenty years since it was a freight terminus of the B. & O. R. R.—was satisfied with the company's pay-roll and did not advance. The railroad, for reasons of business, changed the terminus from Martinsburg and Keyser to Brunswick and Cumberland, and Martinsburg found herself sidetracked and helpless.

This aroused the dormant energy which had settled on them, and now listen to results. They advertised their town, offered inducements to manufacturers to locate in their midst, and the following response is for record: The Middlesex Knitting Co., The Kilburn Knitting Machine Co., Auburn Wagon Works, Crawford Woolen Mills, Shenandoah Pants Factory, Stewart Vehicle Co., Standard Stone and Lime Co., Security Lime & Stone Quarry, Blair Lime Stone Quarry, National Stone Quarry, Rothwell, Lovett Cold Storage & Ice Plant.

One of the above employs seven hundred. The heavy pay-rolls from these and other smaller plants have made the town a city booming with prosperity. Real estate has advanced—population doubled—signs of activity everywhere evident on all sides; two hundred autos in use and twenty more ordered. I heard while waiting for my train to depart, that a gentleman had sold the apples now growing in his orchard, a few miles out, for fifty thousand dollars. A liveryman remarked that he expected to be busy for three months with the "apple men." Delicious peaches were flooding the city from Berkeley county. The change from the old slow town of fifteen years ago, to the smart, business swing of to-day, appeared to me to be worth this little communication to you.

The trip over the Pittsburgh and Connellsville was wild mountain scenery except the beautiful Myersdale Valley smiling in the midst of its rugged surroundings. Then came the coke ovens and smoke telling us that we were entering the coal and iron region that has made Pennsylvania so rich and famous.

We struck Pittsburgh the first of the month (pay-day) when business was at its height. Visited the new Cathedral, Carnegie Museum, whence we had a splendid view of the elegant Schenley Park and the University buildings. East Liberty with its lovely homes, Sharpsburg to call on Father Rosensteel and his dear old Emmitsburg mother, Allegheny, and off via the Pennsylvania Railroad to Alliance, O., thence to Canton by trolley, where I am now resting long enough to pen this. To Chicago to-morrow, where I hope to meet a number of friends—some who saw the light first at the foot of the Blue Ridge, not far from you.

Taneytown Fair Largely Attended.

Oehler's Grove was crowded on Tuesday when the Maryland State Grange Fair began at Taneytown. Some 400 farmers, many of them with their families, were there on the opening day and this crowd was largely augmented during the other days of the fair. The full programme as published in the CHRONICLE some time ago was carried out and the success of the affair was phenomenal. It is estimated that 8,000 attended the Fair on Wednesday.

Perkins May Go To Jail.

George W. Perkins, a director of the United States Steel Corporation and one of the men said to have aided in averting financial disaster during the panic of 1907, faces the alternative of answering questions of the House committee of inquiry into the Steel Corporation bearing on his personal campaign contributions and those made by the New York Life Insurance Company, or of being cited before the bar of the House of Representatives.

A PRAYER.

'Tis not the radiance of the moon That shines on man below,
 'Tis not the sun's reflected light That casts that gentle glow.
 But God's great glory from above Is shed on us to-day,
 To lead us on that sacred path From which so many stray.

Oh Lord! in Thy great mercy Keep us free from sin and shame,
 And lead us to that holy place From whence the Master came.

And now, oh Father, as we give Ourselves in trust to Thee,
 May every passing thought or dream Incline us righteously.

That on the morrow when we rise,
 Again our work to start,
 We go with love and friendship To all, within our heart.

LOCAL COUNTY POLITICIANS MEET IN FREDERICK

Democrat and Republican Committees Start Campaign and Name Candidates.—Strong For Lee.

Committeemen of the Republican and Democratic parties of this county met in Frederick last Saturday.

The Democrats selected Dr. Ralph G. Browning, of Myersville, for state senator. Aside from a statement from Charles H. Baughman, the leaders prefer to follow in the matter of choice of candidate for governor. Mr. Baughman, however, was not at all timid, he said:

"Lee will carry Frederick county by a large majority. The tide is so strongly in his favor that no combination of conditions can possibly defeat him here. He is the logical candidate for Frederick county to back and our people will vote for him solidly. He is gaining strength every day and will sweep the county at the primaries."

Chairman Conley asked the co-operation of the party in an active campaign. Besides selecting candidates for office at the primaries a new State Committee of five members and six delegates to the State convention will be elected. All candidates must file notice of their intention to run for office not later than August 12.

Some time was given to discussing candidates for county offices. A lively contest is in progress for State's Attorney between Guy K. Motter and Samuel J. Lewis. A contest is also on between James A. Jones and Charles Fagan for Sheriff. As no candidates had been mentioned for the other offices, the following slate was tentatively arranged:

Associate Judge—Edwin C. Peter.
 Senator—Dr. Ralph G. Browning, Myersville.

House of Delegates—Alvin Wood, Frederick; Leonard Barrick, Woodsboro; Markel Nelson, McKaigs; H. Keefer De Lauter, Middletown; Thomas Lee Horsey, Petersburg; Richard C. Cromwell and Jacob A. Kanode.

County Treasurer—John Hershberger or George S. Rodock.

County Commissioners—Pratby Kimmel, Charles J. Barrick and John A. Holter.

Judges of the Orphans' Court—Lewis C. Etchison, Jefferson; J. Allen Grumbine, Braddock; John T. Best, Frederick, and Charles E. Keller.

County Surveyor—George M. Hett.
 Sheriff—James A. Jones or Charles J. Fagan.

State's Attorney—Guy K. Motter or Samuel J. Lewis.

The Republican committee meeting was attended by representatives of every district. Chairman George R. Dennis presided, and addresses were made by Reno S. Harp, Dr. Routzahn, Aaron Anders and Fulton B. Rice. Forms were distributed to the districts to be filed with the Election Supervisors for a new county committee.

The full list of Republican candidates is as follows:

State's Attorney—George R. Dennis, Jesse F. R. Heagey, William H. Hinks and Aaron R. Anders.

Sheriff—Scott Welty, Frederick; James H. Crum, Mount Pleasant; Clarence G. Boller, Woodsboro, and Fulton B. Rice, Jefferson.

Judges of the Orphans' Court—William W. Osburn, John E. Phleeger, George T. Rhoderick, H. Milton Kefauver, Frederick; John W. Mumford, Braddock; David M. Whipp, Burkittsville; John C. Castle, J. W. Shafer, Middletown; W. Horman, Urbana; George H. Whitmore, Liberty; Albert W. Ecker, Woodsboro, and W. Scott Kefauver, Burkittsville.

County Commissioners—William H. Hogarth, New Market; J. Stewart Annan, Emmitsburg; David H. Roelkey, Petersburg; Warren E. Dudderer, Linganore; Thomas E. Cling, Urbana, and Lewis H. Bowls, Burkittsville.

State Senator—John P. T. Mathias, Thurmont, and William S. Richards, Brunswick.

House of Delegates—Emory C. Remsburg, Buckeystown; Harry C. Hull and Dr. Atlee A. Radcliffe, Frederick.
 Surveyor—Emory C. Crum and Rufus A. Rager, Frederick.

Westminster's New Newspaper.

A new Republican newspaper will be started in Westminster in the near future by the Mather's Printing Company. That company, which has a large printing plant, has purchased the plant of the Westminster Printing Company, a job printing establishment conducted by John H. Mitten and C. Levine Price, both of whom go into the employ of the Mather Company. Both were formerly connected with the American Sentinel, the oldest newspaper in the county and the organ of the Republican party. Mr. Mitten was connected with the Sentinel for 43 years, first as foreman of the typographical department and then, for nearly 40 years, as its business manager. Mr. Price was an apprentice and journeyman printer in the office seven or eight years.

GIST BLAIR EXPLAINS TITLE

Is a Progressive Democratic Republican.—His Optimistic Beliefs.

"A progressive democratic Republican is just what I mean," says Gist Blair, Esq., of Montgomery county in the Montgomery Press. Continuing he says: "A conflict between established wealth and privilege on one side and the people on the other seems to be approaching in our political world. My signature attempts to explain in three words a true and just position for any man. 'Progressive' means the proper frame of mind towards necessary new laws and their strict application when secured so as to protect the masses of the people in their just rights and all of the people under the new conditions of our present complex civilization. 'Democratic' signifies that I believe in the masses of the people, and what is more to the point, in their intelligence and goodness of heart. The man who represents the people must be sympathetic with them and accessible to every voter. I believe in the peaceful revolution of the past which has helped make more democratic this great country of ours. I believe in the revolution that Jefferson brought to our constitution and laws; I believe in Jackson and in Lincoln, both of whom stood for the Union. I believe that the forces which make all of these men and heroes possible are still to be found in the hearts and minds of our countrymen, be they poor or be they rich, and that when the occasion arises these forces can be depended upon. I claim further to be a real Democrat and not a Democrat masquerading under the name. Every man with a heart, and with or without a pocket book, is a man to me for all that, and a man who makes the difference between them on account of the pocketbook, is a man to me who is not a Democrat but who masquerades as one. I am a Republican and accept its traditions as forming the wisest political faith now before us, although I am not a fanatic. I believe in equal laws and the enforcement of the laws equally, the protective tariff in the interest of labor, in an enlarged and beautiful Washington, and that changes in our laws rendering them more Democratic should be systematic and careful, rather than sudden or erratic and in accord with our present system of government. As an example, I believe in the Parcels Post. It should be introduced with as little delay as possible as part of our present post office system. And I believe in President Taft.

"Permit me to explain this by something similar to what I remember having read in Blackstone's Commentaries many years ago concerning the laws of England, from whose great fountain of liberty we received in the beginning, as from a mother, that element of freedom which has made us what we are. The government of the United States, its Constitution and Laws have been so strongly built and so highly finished that an attentive contemplation of it will furnish its best panegyric. It is a just government, and while it can be made better, its foundations are and have been in the people themselves. Its extensive plans, the diversified distribution of its part,—all are the work of unselfish and intelligent founders, and created to form a harmonious whole, practical in every way, so as to demonstrate the elegant proportions of an ornamental structure adapted to useful functions. Its success proves it to be good and useful, not to the rich alone, but to every man of us. Its faults have not been concealed from view, and that is why so much is made of them. We must all recognize every government has defects, practically arising from the constant change in life itself. Our government has a peculiarly elastic property, however, so that change can easily be made from time to time in it by the people themselves when demanded, and we all concur, in preserving these elastic forms, so the people may quickly and readily change the government, the laws or those in power, and readily enforce their will. Tendencies toward Socialism in form or in substance in a country so large and diversified as ours seem to me at this time to be most unwise, and all such experiments should be left to the state governments, the county government, or the cities, if made at all. It is the special duty of every citizen to sustain and preserve and beautify this noble pile of constitution and government by law, which, as citizens of our great Democratic country we have had transmitted down to us, as well as to improve it. These great American institutions of government which we enjoy we must be careful to transmit to posterity and future generations, who will claim them at our hands as their best birthright and noblest inheritance of mankind."

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoclin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

WHAT THEY STAND FOR.

In the withdrawal of Governor Crothers, only two candidates on the Democratic side remain in the race for the gubernatorial nomination, Blair Lee and Arthur Pue Gorman. Senator Lee is the author of the Primary law under which the nominations in both parties will be made, and, living up to the spirit and the letter of that law he, from the very first, has made his appeal and is now making it to the people. Senator Gorman, never in sympathy with any policy whereby the people might freely express their views and take a direct part in outlining matters political, is in the hands of distinctively professional politicians and through them has manipulated and is manipulating his campaign.

The public record of Senator Lee stands out conspicuously as a passport to popular favor. It is a record of good measures proposed and good measures accomplished—all in the interest and to the advantage of the many. The State and its welfare has been the dominant thought in Senator Lee's mind, and with this high principle before him he has labored honestly, fearlessly and successfully, and the fruits of his labors are now being enjoyed by the people.

Senator Gorman's public record has marked him, as it has been aply put, as the "most conspicuous of reactionaries in Maryland politics." He is an exponent of ring rule and absolutism and is a co-laborer with that class who make a business of politics, and who seek to hold a perpetual lien on all public offices, and his attitude on questions affecting the welfare of the masses has not in times past, to say the least, been marked by any degree of solicitous feeling for the people. Whether or not Senator Gorman's views have materially changed in the comparatively short time since he formally announced his intended retirement to private life, cannot be determined by any of his acts or statements; so that one is constrained to revert to his public career and judge him fairly by that.

Senator Lee has ever been a progressive. He has never allowed his actions to be directed by a ring. Openly and courageously and uncoerced he has taken a fair and manly stand on all public questions, and he may be counted upon to pursue the same consistent course should he be nominated and elected.

JOHN STEWART ANNAN ENTITLED TO REELECTION.

As it is well known, Mr. J. Stewart Annan, of Emmitsburg, is a candidate to succeed himself on the board of County Commissioners. Mr. Annan, as is equally well known, has been most conscientious in performing every duty pertaining to his office. During the term he has served Emmitsburg, Thurmont, Creagerstown and Hauvers districts the roads for miles around have been kept in excellent condition, bridges have been built, new roads opened, old roads reconstructed and culverts innumerable supplied. All complaints have received careful consideration at his hands and all suggestions made by taxpayers have been courteously received and, when practicable, promptly acted upon.

Mr. Annan's one term in office has given him wide experience and fitted him to serve the people even to their better advantage in the future. And as our upper districts, big and important as they are, have by every valid reason a right to representation on the board, and as they have been so ably represented by Mr. Annan during the past four years, the property owners irrespective of party, owe it to themselves and to the present incumbent to renominate and reelect him County Commissioner.

THE STREET "PIANNER."

The tuneless street "pianner," playing old "Star Spangled Banner," is a cussed and a devilish affair. It comes around and hammers, while you're still in your pajamas, and it greets you when you seek your downy lair. When you're hot and nearly crazy, when you're tired, sleepy, lazy, this infernal box of trouble grinds away. Or when you are so busy, that you're daffy, dippy, dizzy, that's the time the "Dago" loudest starts to play. You get troubled, you get irate, you get fierce as any pirate, and you scowl and tell the owner to go hence. Or being without guile, you hand out a pleasant smile, and you try to buy him off with several pence. E'en when he leaves your door, you can certain be and sure, that you'll hear the thing first up the street, then down. And do what all you will, both your ears will get their fill, ere the torture box is trundled out of town.

THE Town Commissioners, so we are informed, will soon give their attention to the resurfacing of the streets of Emmitsburg. This will be in keeping with the very decided improvements made to the sidewalks by the progressive people of the community. This summer there has been great advancement all along the line and it is understood that more painting and more constructing will be done before the season is over.

GINGER jags having become the rage in Middletown where, under the watchful eye and the moral guidance of that excellent paper, The Valley Register, all is usually law and order, peace and prosperity, the State's Attorney's good offices have been asked in suppressing the sale of that "medicine" that didn't make Milwaukee famous. Any kind of a jag is bad enough, but a ginger jag, 93 per cent. alcohol, must be hot stuff, indeed,—hot enough to burn an asbestos Indian off his base.

THE band-wagon politicians will be very anxious for the next few weeks. As it is they are finding it no easy job to play the diplomatic game—refraining from saying too much one way or the other. But just wait until they see which way the cat's going to jump and they will all come out as the "original" man, and there will be more "I told you so's" than one could count on an adding machine.

ISN'T it somewhat strange that Hobson was not appointed on that committee to entertain Admiral Togo?

A Challenge Trollope Declined.
The late George Smith, the English publisher, tells in his reminiscences how Anthony Trollope when offered £2,000 for a serial stood out for another £1,000 and finally suggested a toss for the amount in dispute. "I asked him if he wished to ruin me and said that if my banker heard of my tossing authors for their copyright he would certainly close my account. We ultimately came to an agreement on my terms, which were sufficiently liberal. But I felt uncomfortable; I felt mean; I had refused a challenge. To relieve my mind I said: 'Now, that is settled. If you will come over the way to my club, where we can have a little room to ourselves for five minutes, I will toss you for £1,000 with pleasure.' Mr. Trollope did not accept the offer."

A Competent School Official.
There was a quarrel among the school board men once in an Essex town, and an official from London was sent down to settle it. The official gathered the board about him. He said he would hear the chairman first. "What, Mr. Chairman," he began, "was the cause of this quarrel?" "Well, ye see, sir," said the chairman, "we had an argument over spelling, and I wrote—to—"
"You're a liar!" broke in another board man. "You can't write!"

Starting a Scrap.
Mrs. Scragginton (in the midst of her reading)—Here is an account of a woman turning on the gas while her husband was asleep and asphyxiating him. Mr. Scragginton—Very considerate of her, I'm sure. Some wives wake their husbands up and then talk them to death.—Puck.

Not His Fault.
"You pay too little attention to your personal appearance. Remember that clothes make the man."
"Yes, but for me the man says he won't make any more clothes!"—Dorfbarber.

The Modern Child.
"When you come home from school bring a pound of sugar with you."
"Sorry, mother, but our union forbids us to carry anything else but our school satchels."—Pele Mele.

Breaking It Gently.
Beginner—Now you've seen my style do you think you can tell me what sort of a golfer I shall make? Professional—Yes, sir, if you can stand the shock.—World of Golf.

The Real Truth.
The truth about mothers-in-law is that they have kept many a son-in-law from having to work for a living.—Galveston News.

Eddystone Lighthouse.

The Eddystone lighthouse, fourteen miles off Plymouth, England, and exposed to the full fury of the south-western seas, was built by Winstanley in four seasons. Begun in 1696 and finished in 1700, it was destroyed in the dreadful storm of 1703. The second structure was completed in 1709 and destroyed in 1755, after it had faced the wind and the waves for something over forty-six years. The third tower, finished in 1759 and condemned in 1878, was followed by the present wonderful structure, which since 1882 has been defying the elements while it flashed out over the terrible waters its saving light. Since the brave Winstanley built the first Eddystone lighthouse similar sentinels along all the coasts of the oceans, and those who sail upon the great deeps of the earth are forewarned and forearmed against the dangers which threaten them.—New York American.

An Effective Prayer.

"Years ago," says a well known actor, "I appeared in an amateur performance of a play that had a distinct religious flavor. The leading player had studied for the ministry and had a deep and sonorous voice. In one of the scenes the lights were supposed to be turned down and a raging storm simulated. The accompanying lines were:
"O Lord, deliver us from the powers of darkness."
The leading man spoke the lines, but darkness didn't follow. He spoke them again, and still the stage was distressingly light. Finally he roared:
"O Lord, deliver us from the power of darkness and also give that fool gas man sense enough to turn down the lights."
"The gas lights went down, and the audience roared."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Bible as a Detective.

The Bible was used until quite recent years for the detection of thieves. Dr. Jessopp told in 1882 how there were still persons living who had witnessed the ordeal to which an East Anglian parson subjected his servants when his cash box was missing. He ordered them all into his bedroom and ranged them around the walls. From the center of the ceiling hung the rope used to lower coffins into the churchyard graves, wound round a Bible, from the leaves of which projected the church door key. This was sent spinning round, and the one at whom the key pointed when it stopped was proclaimed as the thief. Happily the man thus marked out was able to prove an alibi. But this did not convince the servants that the test was a bad one. They only concluded that the thief was not there.—London Chronicle.

An Unbeliever.

"This here paper says as how they've just discovered the remains of a thirty-five foot saurian in Nevada."
"What in thunder's a saurian?"
"Blamed if I know. I s'pose mebbe it's somethin' like a sardine."
"Hub! You ign'rant chump, they ain't no thirty-five foot sardines."
"Well, there could be the remains of one, couldn't they?"
"Haw-haw! Who'd ever buy a box of them things?"
"Darn you, you're just like all the rest of these smart guys that are upsettin' religion. I think they is remains of thirty-five foot sardines in Nevada. I got faith to suppose that they is also remains of men big enough to buy 'em by the box an' eat 'em on crackers. You know what you are? You are one of these here atheists!"—New York Journal.

Pyramid of the Sun.

The most colossal structure of prehistoric man in America, known as the pyramid of the sun, is at Teotihuacan, Mexico, not far from the capital. Close to the great pyramid stands the pyramid of the moon, which the builders regarded as the wife of the sun, and surrounding them are nearly 200 mounds of greater or lesser magnitude, which tradition says were crowned by temples and public buildings. Two hundred and sixty-eight steps lead to the summit of the pyramid of the sun, which is 216 feet high. It is 761 feet square at the base, and the summit is 59 by 105 feet.—National Geographic Magazine.

A Real One.

"Is this a problem play?" asked the one night stand critic of the manager.
"It is," replied that worthy.
"And what," asked the critic, "is the special problem presented?"
"How to get money enough into the box office for railroad fares to our next date," said the manager, with pointed brevity.—Baltimore American.

The Other Side.

"It's all very well for the minister to preach from the text, 'Remember Lot's wife,'" said an overworked, discouraged matron, "but I wish he would now give us an encouraging sermon upon the wife's lot."

The Puzzle.

A Boston girl who was watching a farmer milk a cow adjusted her glasses and said, "It is all very plain except that I don't understand how you turn it off."

They Get It.

Nell—Men are such helpless things. Belle—Yes; they can't even fall in love without a good bit of assistance.—Philadelphia Record.

Most of our riches lie in the ability to check foolish desires.

Too Much Papa.

This bit of humor and pathos is from the Hawaiian Star: "An amusing incident is related of a young service matron who had relinquished her husband for two years and who, having before his departure insisted on a good photograph, applied herself assiduously to the upbringing of her two-year-old baby with a view to the child's familiarity with her distant father. Each day she would call the baby girl to her and, kneeling beside her, would hold up the photograph, pointing out each feature to the child.

"One day the officer came home, and the baby girl, then four years old, was summoned. 'Come dear,' said her mother in glee, 'papa has come home at last!' The child surveyed the officer in perplexity and finally shook her head.

"What is the matter, dear?" asked her mother. 'Well,' replied the child, he looks something like my papa, but my papa hasn't any legs!"

Humor of the Barometer.

It was a beautiful barometer. It glistened from its splendid wooden case with a spick and spanness that boasted of its newness. Its rich framework clearly advertised the large price that had been paid for it. Its owner was justly proud. But it possessed one drawback—it wouldn't work. Ever since it had been purchased it had remained at "set fair" whatever the weather had happened to be. And the weather had happened to be particularly wet. At last its owner grew weary of its external beauty and exasperated over its internal stupidity. One day when the rain was pouring extra hard he tore the weather indicator from the wall and took it out into the road.

For a moment the needle hesitated. Then as the raindrops began to dim the glass it made up its mind and moved slowly round to "very dry."—London Answers.

An Innocent Victim.

General F. D. Grant, at a dinner at West Point, once analyzed the military genius of Washington.
"Washington," he said, "gave us our independence by campaigning faultlessly. He never made mistakes. There have been more brilliant soldiers than Washington, but there has never been so sure a one. In warfare, you must know, the smallest mistake may lose a whole battle, a whole campaign, a whole cause. And that reminds me of poor Tom White.
"Tom White failed in business owing to the mistake of one single letter made by his stenographer. Tom's patron in business was a deaf millionaire who was very touchy about his deafness. This millionaire turned from a good friend to a bitter enemy—he foreclosed on Tom—because the unhappy fellow's stenographer accidentally began a letter to him 'Deaf Sir.'"

A Gilded Gown.

During the reign of King George I Lord Hervey, a cultured man, gave this description of the fine dress of a distinguished woman:
"The Duchess of Queensberry's clothes pleased me most. They were white satin embroidered, the bottom of the petticoat brown hills, covered with all sorts of weeds, and every breadth had an old stump of a tree than ran up almost to the top of the petticoat, broken and ragged and worked with brown chenille, round which twined nasturtiums, ivy, honeysuckles, periwinkles, convolvuluses and all sorts of twining vines, which spread and covered the petticoat. Many of the leaves were finished in gold, and part of the stumps of the trees looked like the gliding of the sun."

Grown Cautious.

Chatty Lodger (to landlord) — You seem to have seen a good deal. What are you? Landlord—Well, sir, I were a lion tamer, and I'd be there now if I hadn't a married; but, you see, my wife were a knife thrower in the same show, and she got to practicing her turn on me. Well, thinks I, life ain't too long to run no risks, so I took on a safe job and become a steeplejack.—London Punch.

A Word to Be Avoided.

Wife—Well, did you find out what it was I said that offended Mrs. Young-bridge? Hub—Yes, her husband told me. It seems that you remarked, "I see you're installed in your new home," and as they're furnished on the installment plan she thought you were trying to be funny at their expense.—Boston Transcript.

Quite a Help.

"Is your boy Josh much of a help to you?"
"Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "He is making a collection of insects. Of course he don't catch as many as he could if he wouldn't stop to label 'em, but, then, you know, every little helps."—Washington Star.

Anecdotes.

"What is an anecdote, pa?"
"An anecdote, my son, is a short and funny tale which at once reminds the other fellow of a tale which is neither short nor funny."—Puck.

A Choice of Words.

"You sold me that horse as free from faults. Why, it's blind."
"Blind? Well, that's not a fault; that's a cruel misfortune."

He Heard Her.

"My daughter's piano lessons have been a great expense to me."
"That so? Did some neighbor see you?"

If you live by nature you will never be poor; if by opinion, never rich.—Epicurus.

Waking the Sleepers.

In a diary kept in 1646 it is asserted that "Allen Brydges has been chosen to wake the sleepers in meeting and, being much proud of his place, must needs have a fox tail fixed to the end of a long staffe, wherewith he may brush the faces of them that will have naps in time of discourse." This energetic individual was likewise armed with "a sharpe thorne" for the benefit of those who "be most sounde." There is a record of the use of this implement upon Mr. Tomkins, who was sleeping comfortably in the corner of his pew when Allen "thrust his staff behind Dame Ballard to give him a grievous prick upon the hand, whereupon Mr. Tomkins did spring much above the floor and with terrible force did strike his head against the wall and also to the great wonder of all 'prophane' exclaim in a loud voice, 'Buss the woodchuck!' he dreaming, as it seemed, that a woodchuck had seized him and bit his hand."

Packed at Home.

As the new district visitor looked at Mr. Leahy and noted his determined chin she had a momentary sensation of reluctance to question him, but she overcame it and began her appointed task.

"Where do you deposit your wages, Mr. Leahy, if you've no objection to telling me?" she asked. "I am trying to interest the neighborhood in the excellent People's bank, lately started."
"Sure, I'd as soon tell you as not," said Mr. Leahy cheerfully. "Tis tin dollars a week I earn. Whin I've paid the rint, the provision and grocery bills an' the milkman an' bought what's needed for Celia an' me an' the five children I deposit the rist of the money in barr's, ma'am. I uses sugar barr's mostly. They're a bit larger and so holds more. But whin I can't get them I make shift wid plain flour barr's."—Youth's Companion.

Curious Forgetfulness.

It is difficult to combine the attributes of the beau and the business man, and the famous Lord Alvanley did not attempt the task. Largely as the result of that philosophy which led him to cavil at a friend's weakness in "muddling away his fortune in paying tradesmen's bills," he one day found himself in financial difficulties and asked Charles Greville, the author of the "Journals," to put his affairs in order. The two men—Mr. Lewis Melville describes the incident in "Some Eccentrics and a Woman"—spent a day over accounts, and Greville found that the task he had undertaken would not be so difficult as he had been given to understand. His relief was not long lived, however, for on the following morning he received a note from Alvanley saying he had quite forgotten a debt of £50,000.

Her Early Resolutions.

This story was told by an Englishman who lived a century ago. He was dining out in London and sat by a lady whom he did not know. Their conversation turned upon early resolutions and how very seldom they were kept, and the lady said: "Well, when I was a girl I made three resolutions—first, I determined that I would never marry a soldier; second, that I would never marry an Irishman, and, third, that I would not be long engaged. And all those three resolutions I broke. Whom do you think I did marry? The Duke of Wellington! He was a soldier and an Irishman, and I was engaged to him for twelve years." This was Lady Katherine Pakenham. It was an unhappy marriage, and the couple mostly lived apart.

Between Them.

"Yes," said Mrs. Catchem, "those are my daughters over there on the sofa. They have half a million between them."

It was not until they were married to those daughters that the young men who overheard the remark found out that Mrs. Catchem referred to the rich old gentleman who sat on the sofa between the girls. Mrs. Catchem could not tell a lie, but she knew how to speak the truth to the best advantage.

Suited to the Occasion.

Nurse Girl—Oh, ma'am, what shall I do? The twins have fallen down the well. Fond Parent—Dear me, how annoying! Just go into the library—very gently so as not to disturb Fido—and get the last number of the Modern Mother's Magazine. It contains a fine article on "How to Bring Up Children."—Town Topics.

Making It Pleasant.

"How does your sister like the engagement ring I gave her, Johnny?"
"I think it's a little too small, Mr. Lover. She has awful trouble getting it off when the other fellows call to see her."

The New Composers.

A correspondent reports that at a recent function in his town Miss Daisy Defoe presided at the piano and beautifully played Mendol & Sons' Wedding March.—Missouri Sharpshooter.

Make the Best of It.

Make the best of everything; think the best of everybody; hope the best for yourself. By so doing you will be lifting yourself and those about you to a higher plane of living.

His Standard.

"Pa, were you always good?"
"Hum—well, my boy, I will say that I've always abided by the decisions of the United States supreme court."—Detroit Free Press.

Great pleasures are made up of petty sacrifices.—Emerson.

A DIPLOMATIC MISSION

By MARJORIE CLOUGH

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"Count," said the minister of foreign affairs to a young diplomat who had entered his service, "I wish you to get ready to leave Berlin tonight. Changes have occurred in China affecting the German, French and English interests there. If we reach England before the French cabinet can send an emissary England will act with us, for we can so represent the matter that it will appear to be to her interest to do so. If France is ahead of us England's action will be reversed. Here is a suit case containing all the papers you will need. Go at once to London and, without waiting to make a toilet, thence to the foreign office in Downing street. Endeavor to make the minister commit himself before you leave him."

Count Otto von Holwig left Berlin on the evening train for Ostend, intending to cross the English channel at that point. On the same train was a lady who, on coming to one of the main stops, alighted from her car and, passing along toward the rear, looking in at the open doors, finally entered the compartment occupied by the ambassador. She took a seat and threw her head back on to the cushion with every appearance of suffering.

Besides Von Holwig there were two men and a woman in the compartment, all of whom cast glances toward and appeared to take an interest in the suffering woman. She held her handkerchief to her face so that they could not see what she looked like and now and again emitted a low groan. The other woman in the compartment asked if she could do anything for her, but the invalid without speaking repulsed her by a wave of the hand.

Presently the sufferer started up and exclaimed, "It's all gone!" The men noticed that she was beautiful, and the smile she wore was a winning change from the evidences of agony she had given vent to. "And now," she added, "I must explain to you good people. I am a sufferer from facial neuralgia. When one of the attacks leaves me I need a brace." She took a gold mounted flask from a bag and several tiny glasses. Filling one of the glasses, she handed it to one of the men, who took it. Then, filling another glass, she handed it to the next man, who tried to beg off. But a certain winning, dominating force that was about her prevailed. The next man she offered a drink was Von Holwig. He declined, and the lady could not persuade him. She then gave a glass to her woman fellow passenger, who after a fruitless effort to put it aside accepted it.

After all who held glasses had emptied them the lady brought out a box of cigarettes, which she likewise passed around. This also the count refused. But the lady gave him a look as if to accuse him of insulting her by this second refusal, and he gave in.

When the train stopped again the lady who had facial neuralgia left the compartment, closing the door behind her. A fat old gentleman opened it to enter and paused. There were three men and a woman asleep. The compartment was full of cigarette smoke to which was attached a strange odor. The old man called the guard and pointed to the sleepers.

"There's been a robbery here," said the guard. "These people have been drugged. Ten to one all their money has been taken." He shook one of the men, who gradually opened his eyes and looked at him dazed. Then another and another was aroused, Von Holwig among the number. He awoke with a start and looked about him for his suit case.

"Lost anything, sir?" asked the guard.

Von Holwig, white as a sheet, did not reply for some time, then answered, "No." He knew that he had been tricked by a woman and did not propose to give away state secrets. He left the car, sat down on a bench and tried to recover from both the effect of the drug he had smoked and the ruin of his career as a diplomat.

On the boat at Ostend on which passengers were gathering to cross the channel to Dover a gentleman stood looking anxiously up the way that led to the steamer. Now and again he would take out his watch impatiently and note the time. But five minutes remained before the boat would start, and the gentleman had given a sigh, indicating that some one he was looking for would not come, when a cab, the driver lashing his horse, came galloping down the street. The gentleman hurried to the dock and handed out a lady, who held in her hand a suit case.

"Good," he said. "You have won, and you shall have your reward. Go to Paris and report that your mission was successful, and there is good reason to believe that upon the foundation you have laid I shall be able to bring England to our views."

The next morning before dawn M. Caylor, representing the French government, drew up before the London residence of the secretary for foreign affairs, called him out of bed and announced that certain affairs in China required his immediate attention. The secretary dismissed the matter in a passing gown, and the French ambassador when he left carried with him the assurance that such orders as he desired would be issued.

FOOTWEAR NOTES.

Dainty Shoes and Slippers Worn by Smart Femininity.

The cleft skirts have made women give more attention to footwear, and never has there been such a display of slippers and hosiery novelties.

Black leather shoes for afternoon wear have a narrow band, a sort of underlay along the collar, of red, violet, green or gray kid, ribbon ties and hosiery matching the band in color.

A neat slipper in brown suede has this band or underlay in a lighter shade to match the hosiery. A black satin slipper had a purple kid heel and filing of the same shade and a handsome cut steel buckle.

Satin slippers overlaid with lace are popular. Those of silver cloth overlaid with black chintilly have a buckle made of rhinestones with a silver cloth underlay.

A smart boot has the lower part of patent leather and the top of black and white checked fabric.

The loose coat made in double-breasted style and finished with a big collar is a becoming one to young girls. This coat takes straight lines and is very easy and simple to make.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes for girls of ten, twelve and fourteen years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 7098, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

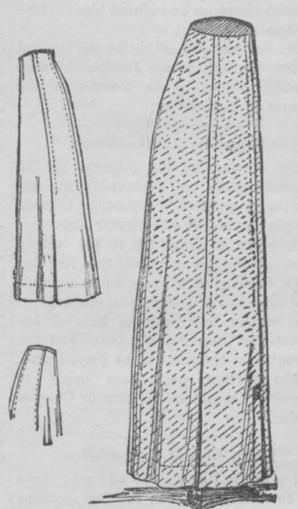

LA MODE'S DOINGS.

Fetching Veils Add Beauty to Pretty Headgear.

Veilings of fine thread woven in spider webs and trailing leaves are fashionable. For those who dislike the patterned veilings there are those of heavy thread in large meshes.

Tiny buttons of colored enamel metal, jet or steel are used on the new blouses.

The habit of riding in motors has become so widespread that the motor bonnet is as important as the everyday hat. There are new ones made up entirely of wide and narrow plaited frills. These are put on a thin gauze foundation which is stiffened with wire. The frills are often made of black and white ribbon and held in place around the middle of the bonnet by a two inch band of black velvet. Green is a favorite color for summer, and stone gray has proved a serviceable one.

A four gored skirt that gives the suggestion of a panel at the front and back is a favorite this summer. The skirt pictured is of this style and may be worn with a natural or high waist line.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 22 to 34 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 7094, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

A FAIR EXCHANGE

MANY people have things that they no longer have use for, but keep them in the house taking up room and doing no one any good.

Better sell or trade off things you don't want. Advertise them and you will find that there are people ready to take them and pay cash, or trade for them. You will find it easy through the Columns of

THE CHRONICLE

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Miss Gertrude Annan is spending several days in Hanover.

Miss Helen J. Rowe, who visited her father, Mr. Nathaniel Rowe has returned to Baltimore.

Taft Invited to Frederick.

Representatives of the Frederick Board of Trade have communicated with Congressman Lewis for an interview with President Taft, at which time a formal invitation will be extended to the President to attend the convention of the Associated Boards of Trade, which will meet there in the fall. The time of this meeting has not been decided on in hopes that the President would have a date convenient to all concerned.

Hagerstown Social Clubs Fined.

Six Hagerstown clubs and secret societies were fined by Judge M. L. Keedy $150 and cost for violating the Washington county high license liquor law by selling liquor to their members without a license. The traversers were the Elks, Eagles, Owls, Moose and the Big Pool Fishing Club and the Friendship Rod and Gun Club. They all entered pleas of guilty through their respective attorneys.

Good Price Asked for Pike.

Stockholders of the Woodsboro and Frederick turnpike at their annual meeting offered to sell to the Good Roads Commission for $2,000 a mile. The pike is seven miles long and runs between Ceresville and Woodsboro. It passes through Walkersville and the Glades sections and has two tollgates. Built about 50 years ago.

MR. NATHANIEL ROWE NINETY AND HALF AND HEARTY

Emmitsburg's Record Kept up by Nonagenarian Who in No Way is Incapacitated by His Age.

To be ninety years old is a rare distinction but to be ninety years old and still maintain your faculties and vigor as does Mr. Nathaniel Rowe is truly remarkable even in Emmitsburg. On Tuesday last Mr. Rowe reached this age.

On the eighth of August, 1821, on the farm now owned by the Zimmermans, about three miles from Emmitsburg, on the road running West from the intermittent Cat Tail branch where it crosses the Taneytown road, Mr. Rowe was born. Until he was seventeen he worked for his grandfather, after that he became apprenticed to a Mr. Armstrong, a gunsmith, and moved to Emmitsburg. At the end of three years he thought himself capable of conducting business for himself and for many years he maintained his position here as one of the best mechanics in Frederick county.

The history of this community for the last seventy years is fresh in Mr. Rowe's mind and his way of recounting them adds interest to the stories. The cholera epidemic of 1853 that was instrumental in reducing our population from 700 to 350 is as fresh in his memory as if it had occurred last year. And well it may be for Mr. Rowe was active in taking care of the afflicted. His remarkable physical health warded off the dread disease and while he saw many die, he, himself, was not taken ill.

When the civil war broke out he was thirty-nine years old and of course remembers the stirring scenes along the border line in the sixties. Before the battle of Gettysburg the Army of the Potomac camped here. The officers' headquarters were at the house now occupied by Mr. Jacob Topper, while the army was stationed along the meadows north of town and in fields near St. Joseph's. Generals Howard, Sigel and Reynolds were here, the first at St. Joseph's and the last at the home of Dr. Annan, then our leading citizen. Six New York officers took supper with Mr. Rowe before the battle. On the day after the victory, mourning the loss of two of their companions killed in the carnage of the three days' fight, the four surviving officers again were Mr. Rowe's guests.

During the retreat of the Army of Virginia, Mr. Rowe was halted near Mount St. Mary's College by three officers anxious for reliable information concerning the roads. These officers were Stewart, Wade Hampton and Fitzhugh Lee. While the men passed by him Mr. Rowe noticed hundreds of horses captured in Pennsylvania by the invaders. Among the men was a Mr. Carr, an Emmitsburg carpenter, who dropped from ranks and informed Mr. Rowe of the distinguished men who had questioned him.

All these things are related by this elderly gentleman in an inimitable way that is delightful to the listener. In selecting candidates Mr. Rowe was not always as successful as he was in business. His first vote was for Henry Clay the defeated Whig candidate. But he was not alone, for Clay's majority here was large. When the names of the great parties with their issues changed Mr. Rowe became a Democrat.

The Misses Hoke to Teach in Pennsylvania.

Misses Lottie and Lilly Hoke, recently graduated from St. Joseph's Academy and given the degree of A. B., have been appointed as teachers, Miss Lottie at Harrisin, Pa., and Miss Lilly at Mt. Joy, Franklin county, Pa. These schools will open on September 11.

Broom Company Will Build.

At a meeting of the officers of the Emmitsburg Broom Company it was decided to build a plant on their grounds on Frederick street, and they hope to be ready to resume business by the 15th of December next. Mr. E. E. Zimmerman, president of the directors, appointed a committee of three to have charge of the erection of building. This committee consists of Annan Horner, Vincent Sebald and W. D. Colliflower.

Strenuous Treatment of a Horse.

On Tuesday Dr. Reigle removed 3 1/2 inches of a whip from the throat of a horse belonging to Mr. Bernard Hobbs. The animal choked on some food and the whip, wrong end first, was pushed down its throat to relieve it. The horse bit the end off and Dr. Reigle's services were necessary.

Malone Among World's Best Shots.

Mr. Clarence Malone, of Frederick, who is well known here having assisted our local baseball team on occasions, is named one of the world's best shots. This means that he will be qualified to shoot in the premier class with the best marksman in the world.

Ex-Sheriff Zimmerman Dead.

Daniel Zimmerman, of Woodsboro, an ex-sheriff of Frederick county, died at his home Monday morning about 8:30 o'clock of cancer, aged 69 years. For many years Mr. Zimmerman was prominent in Republican politics in this county and was elected sheriff in 1893. He was a farmer.

The garden of Mrs. Michael Hoke is producing probably the finest tomatoes in town. A specimen of the famous "Beefsteak" variety plucked from one of Mrs. Hoke's vines and sent to the CHRONICLE office weighed one pound and nine ounces. Who can beat it?

A new brick gutter has been laid in front of the property occupied by Mr. C. T. Zacharias.

Miss Mary Mondorff, who has been seriously ill, is improving.

The wrapper factory, under the management of Burgess Rowe, will resume operations on Monday.

Mr. John Wantz is greatly improving his property on Green street. Another room has been added to the front of the house, which is increased another story.

A gutter has been laid in front of the Payne property, West Main street.

Every branch of a pear tree in the garden of Mrs. J. M. Adelsberger is bending with the fine fruit it is producing this season. A small branch of the tree sent to this office had so many pears on it there was scarcely room for the leaves.

The Fountain has been repaired, drained and cleaned.

The public schools of the county will reopen on Tuesday, September 5th. It is expected that the Emmitsburg High School building, which has been undergoing extensive repairs, will be completed by this date.

Drunks in Local Option Middletown.

Drunks, numerous and underaged, have been noticed frequently in Middletown, this county, much to the horror of the authorities. The source of these jags has been traced to Jamaica ginger, colic cure, as sold by grocers. The medicine is 93 per cent. alcohol. Schlitz beer, by way of comparison, contains 37-10 per cent. alcohol. Several of the merchants who dealt in the medicine had been selling it for years, but until this time no complaint had been made.

Thurmont Minister Refuses To Be Touched.

Elder John S. Weybright, of Thurmont, while in Baltimore, was berated by a man giving his name as John J. Healey, because he refused him carfare to Sparrows Point.

Healey was locked up at the Central Police Station, where Justice Grannan sentenced him to six months in the House of Correction.

Eager For Another Game.

On account of the interest in the baseball game on Wednesday the following proposition or challenge is made by players not on the regular nine: A purse of from $25 to $50, either sum at the pleasure of the Regular nine, to be covered by an equal amount, the total amount to be the property of the winner in a game of baseball between the Emmitsburg team and the Irregulars, the same to be played here. For further particulars apply to Messrs. Rosensteel, Hemler or Charley Rider.

Youth Dies of Hydrophobia.

Ira Lewis Risser, one of the victims of the mad dog that bit five persons several weeks ago, died at Maugansville, near Hagerstown, on Tuesday of hydrophobia. Although he suffered terribly he was conscious till the end.

The person who borrowed the china bed pan belonging to Mrs. Michael Hoke will please return the same at once.

MRS. MICHAEL HOKE.

Miss Sue Guthrie's sale of household effects and farming implements has been postponed until to-morrow, Aug. 12, at 12:30 P. M.

EMMIT HOUSE OUTING PARTY.

Mr. Breichner Entertains His Guests With a Picnic.

Mr. J. W. Breichner, proprietor of the Emmit House, treated his guests to a delightful outing at Gingell's Mill Grove, on Monday, August 7. Dinner and supper were prepared and served in the open and during the day baseball and various amusements were indulged in. Altogether a very delightful day was enjoyed by all. Those present were: Mrs. Ann Coffay, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Mahon and children, Evelyn, Mary Ellen and John; Mr. John J. ("Sunny") Mahon and wife, Mr. Ed. Davis, manager of The Rennett, and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Lynch, Miss K. G. Stack, Mr. Harry Jackson, Miss Anna Jackson, Miss Mary A. Fallon, Mrs. Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Andrews, all of Baltimore; Mrs. G. Fink Sinsabaugh and Mr. Charles J. Reilly, of Washington, D. C., Mr. Sidney O'Donoghue, Passaic, N. J.; Miss Anna Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Breichner, and sons, Mark and Newman, of Emmitsburg. The party was conveyed to and from the grounds in Mr. J. F. Winegardner's automobile.

Thurmont Man at School of Horsemanship.

Mr. Victor Pryor is spending the week at Pleasant Hill, Ohio. He has accepted the invitation of Prof. Beery, president of the famous school of horsemanship, to attend the second home coming of the students. While there he will witness some remarkable feats of horsemanship. Among the interesting things on the program during the week is the breaking of horses of various bad habits, that have been shipped to Prof. Beery from distant points. A vicious stallion has been shipped more than a thousand miles to be conquered. A car load of bronchos, fresh from the West, will be driven during the week. Students attend these homecomings from every state in the Union and many from Canada.

At Work Repairing Pike.

A force of men under State employ are making repairs on the pike, widening the road bed and fixing boundaries and gutters and drains.

Indications point to considerable activity in the work of road repair around Frederick within the next few months. The Commission considering the establishment of a crusher on the Emmitsburg pike sent U. D. Uhler, engineer of the maintenance of way, to Frederick the latter part of last week, looking toward the securing of some quarry rights. He was successful in his quest and next week a plant will be shipped in and set up on the Sunday place between Harmony Grove and Lewistown.

Judge President of Wilson College.

Supreme Justice Stewart has been elected President pro tem. of Wilson College, Chambersburg. Rev. M. Blair, spoken of for this position, will not be the successor to Dr. Reaser. A committee consisting of Justice Stewart, J. Nevin Pomeroy and Dr. Ella B. Everett, of Philadelphia, has been named to select a dean for the college. The committee to select a president will be named later.

BADLY BITTEN BY HORSE

Visiting Child Wounded in Head and Arm.—Eighteen Stitches Taken in Cut.

Yesterday afternoon a child of Mrs. N. C. Dotterer, of Baltimore, visiting at the home of Mrs. Whitmore, Mrs. Dotterer's mother, was badly wounded by horse. The animal bit the child in the head and arm. Drs. Jamison and Brawner were called in and the gashes were so long that it took eighteen stitches to draw the edges together.

Fatal End to Frederick Fight.

As a result of a pistol wound received in a fight with William Phillips, in Frederick, John Johnson is dead. Johnson was from Baltimore and was in Frederick attending the Knights of Pythias convention there. While under the influence of liquor, he wrecked the restaurant of Phillips and received a wound which resulted in his death. Gangrene developed in the wound.

Old Frederick Church to Be Improved.

Extensive repairs are to be made on the Evangelical Reformed Church, Frederick, Rev. Henri L. G. Kieffer, pastor. The estimated cost of these improvements is $13,500, but other improvements to be made to the church property, including the painting of the exterior of the church, the installation of a steam heating plant, the laying of new sidewalks, and the enlargement of the infant Sunday school room, will bring the total expenditure up to the neighborhood of $25,000.

Brunswick Wants Improvements.

The town authorities of Brunswick have asked the County Commissioners for $6,500 for municipal improvements. The town is about to spend $17,000 for repairs to Park avenue. About $5,000 is to be raised by a bond issue, $1,000 by subscription, $5,000 by assessments and the balance is asked from the county.

GETTYSBURG

A new electric company is talked of for Gettysburg, to be known as the People's Light Company of Gettysburg.

John Spangler has purchased the Sowers restaurant, Chambersburg street, and taken charge of same.

Prof. and Mrs. Oscar G. Klinger have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Blanche Swope Klinger, to Mr. William McLure, of St. Louis, Missouri.

J. H. Stover, the barber, caught a bass in Witherow's Dam one day last week that measured twenty-one inches and weighed four pounds.

C. B. Tate, of Cumberland township has purchased the good will and fixtures of the Washington Hotel, Carlisle street, and will take charge August 17th.

John F. Fagen has sold the good will and fixtures of the Globe Hotel, York street, to Charles Schlagle, of Shamokin, who took charge on Monday.

The annual summer meeting of the teachers of Adams county will be held in Brua Chapel on August 24th.

On Sunday Dr. T. T. Tate celebrated his 88th birthday. All of his children were home for the occasion.

C. H. Musselman, of Biglerville, was recently elected a director in the First National Bank of Gettysburg.

Quite a number of Gettysburgians are enjoying camp life along the different streams.

G. M. Houston and family, of Jacksonville, Florida, passed through Gettysburg last Wednesday in an automobile. When near Abbottstown Mr. Houston discovered that he had lost his pocketbook containing $176. They came back this far over their route, but failed to recover the money.

Gettysburg will hold its first Chautauqua from Aug. 13 to 27. The sessions will be held in a big tent which will be pitched on Cemetery Hill near the Jenny Wade house. Dr. John G. Scorer, "The Flag Lecturer of Phila.," will be the Superintendent. Some of the best entertainers and musical attractions will appear on the program furnishing entertainment and music which will meet the tastes of all.

The lecturers are of note and even national fame, among them being: Dr. Robert Forbes of Phila.; Dr. A. W. Lamar of Ga.; Captain Richmond P. Hobson, Congressman from Alabama; Dr. Robert J. Douthat of W. Va.; Dr. W. T. S. Culp of Ohio; Dr. W. A. Granville, President of Penn'a Gettysburg College.

Dr. Edwin E. Sparks, President of Penn'a State College; and H. M. Neely of Phila. "The Aviation Man." Mr. Neely desires to bring an airship to Gettysburg to make a flight. His lecture will be illustrated with still and motion pictures and three working models. The program includes among other special days, a Lincoln day, an Educational day and a G. A. R. day, and a Hobson day. On these days special excursions to Gettysburg will be run on all the railroads entering Gettysburg. Hobson day without a doubt will be the biggest of the ten Chautauqua days.

ACROSS THE LINE

John A. Hoffman was found dead last Friday morning, about 11.30 o'clock at the Neely lime kilns north east of town. He had gone to work at the usual time, about 6.30 o'clock, and had been engaged during the morning in plastering the arch of the kiln preparatory to setting it afire. It is supposed that while thus engaged he inhaled a great quantity of the fumes from another kiln, which was burning. When he was overcome he was splitting kindling with which to start the fire. When his body was found it was perfectly cold and life had been extinct for several hours. "Duffy" Hoffman, as he was familiarly known, was well liked by all who knew him and his tragic death cast a gloom over the entire community.

The suddenness of his death was a terrible shock to his aged father and mother and to his wife, whose father, Anthony G. Sanders, who lives with her, is very ill at this writing. He was aged 44 years, 9 months and 1 day. He is survived by his wife, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Hoffman and the following brothers and sisters: Charles A. Hoffman, Hamiltonban township, James H. Hoffman, Gettysburg, Frank Hoffman, Funkstown, Md.; Marshall Hoffman, Smithsburg, Md.; Mrs. Ebenezer Sites, Gettysburg, R. D., and Mrs. Aaron Reynolds, Smithsburg, Md.

Funeral was held Sunday afternoon with services at the house conducted by Rev. E. W. Stonebraker of the Reformed church. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery. The pallbearers were D. Clyde Musselman, D. Percy Polley, Stanley Swope and Harry Shryock.

Besides the brothers and sisters of deceased, who were here to attend the funeral, the following brothers-in-law were here: Peter and Harvey Sanders and James Peters, of Chambersburg; James S., and Edward Sanders, and E. M. Sites of Gettysburg and Aaron Reynolds, of Smithsburg.

Clarence Singley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Singley of Hamiltonban township, had his left leg crushed between the knee and ankle by being caught under a pile of falling lumber, while engaged in loading a car with lumber at Virginia Mills Station Friday afternoon. He was taken by Dr. Trout, to a York hospital on the evening train.

United States Puts "H" to Pittsburg

The postoffice Department Tuesday added a long-belated "H" to the city of Pittsburg, so that it will now read officially "Pittsburgh." In consequence President Taft sent to the Senate the nomination of William H. Davis, postmaster at Pittsburg, to be postmaster at "Pittsburgh." A renomination always is required in cases where the names of postoffices are changed.

Pope's Condition Very Serious.

The Pope fell into a stupor from pain and exhaustion and the excessive heat on Wednesday. It is expected that when he arouses he will be much improved but it is unlikely that he will recover entirely. He is depressed by a prophecy that he will die within the ninth year of his pontificate. His eight anniversary was celebrated on Wednesday.

Fairfield Baseball Schedule.

(Special to the Chronicle.)

On Saturday Aug. 12th, Emmitsburg will cross bats with the local team for the fifth time this season. Game called at 2.30 P. M.

On Thursday, Aug. 17th, York Springs will play here. Game opens at 2.30 P. M. This promises to be the strongest team we have met this season. They and East Berlin team are to meet in the near future on the Gettysburg diamond to decide which is the better team. That they both feel confident is proven by the fact that each team is reported as having posted a side bet of one hundred dollars, the same together with gate receipts to go to the winner. All ball enthusiasts who wish to get a "line" on one of these two teams should come to Fairfield on Aug. 17th.

August 19th, Fairfield plays at McKnightstown.

August 26th, McKnightstown plays here.

Sept. 2nd, Irishtown plays here. Sept. 4th (Labor Day) Fairfield plays at Monterey.

Gems In Verse

TO A BRIDE.

HERE'S a fond little house bulded deep in your heart, And its curtains are daintily white.

Its contour is noble, its angles are true, And through the diaphanous, glimmering night The moon drapes its roof in a cloud of delight.

There are quaint little dishes on clean little shelves And jellies and jams by the score, And each day you add some remarkable thing, Remembering gayly that never before Was such a collection of goodies galore.

This fond little house boasts a garden all green

In a wonderful plot at the rear, Where lettuce and spinach and various things That are crispy and crinkly and spicy and queer Grow in straight little rows that are perfectly dear.

And somehow the door of the house is his smile,

And his arms are the walls high and true,

And the roof is his knee and his voice and his hands

That weave the mysterious future for you,

As love always has done and always will do.

And then, though perhaps you may not have quite thought,

There are dear little uncertain feet That go pitter-patter aloft on the stair,

Where the echo of childish commotion rings sweet,

Your joyous approach to right merrily greet.

And all through the stainless and sunshiny years

May the little house tranquilly stand, And ever and ever may peace and content

And the patience that waits with those two hands in hand

Guard the brave little door that your true heart has planned.

—Woman's Home Companion.

SONG.

OUT of the dusky midnight, Over the silver dew, A spirit came With a heart of flame, Singing of you, of you.

Dawn rose over the mountains, Gold on the farthest height, And the robins sang Till the wildwood rang Only of love's delight.

Midnight and dawn and sunset— Rose of the east and west— Again I wait

At your garden gate, And the thorn is in my breast.

—Louis V. Ledoux in Century.

THE DEAREST PLACE.

I know the dearest little place, All sunny fair, And there's no other spot I fain Would go but there.

"Oh, is it sea or hill or stream Or desert wide?" You ask, "And will its days be sweet And calm beside?"

And then I laugh, "I do not know Nor do I care. The dearest spot, and you come, too, Is—anywhere!"

—Claire Wallace Flynn in Ainslee's.

FOUR T'S.

HERE are four T's too apt to run, 'Tis best to set a watch upon Our tongue.

Know when to speak, yet be content When silence is most eloquent.

Our time. Once lost, ne'er found, yet who can say He's overtaken yesterday?

Our thoughts. Oft when alone they take them wings And light upon forbidden things.

Our temper. Who in the family guards it best, Soon has control of all the rest.

—Pittsburg Press.

A MAIDEN.

OH, if I were the velvet rose Upon the red rose vine I'd climb to touch his window And make his casement fine.

AND if I were the little bird That twitters on the tree, All day I'd sing my love for him Till he should harken me.

BUT, since I am a maiden, I go with downcast eyes, And he will never hear the songs That he has turned to sighs.

AND, since I am a maiden, My love will never know That I could kiss him with a mouth More red than roses blow.

—Sara Teasdale.

FAITH.

Better trust all and be received And weep that trust and that deceiving Than doubt one heart that if believed Had blessed one's life with true believing.

Oh, in this mocking world too fast The doubting fiend o'ertakes our youth!

Better be cheated to the last Than lose the blessed hope of truth.

—Frances A. K. Butler.

IN SUMMER.

I KNOW not what it is, but when I pass Some running bit of water by the way, A river brimming silver in the grass And rippled by a trailing alder spray,

HOLD in my heart I cannot from an cry, It is so joyful at the merry sight; So gracious is the water running by, So full the simple grass is of delight.

AND if by chance a redwing, passing near, Should light beside me in the alder tree, And if above the ripple I should hear The lusty conversation of the bee—

I THINK that I should lift my voice and sing, I know that I should laugh and look around, As if to catch the meadows answering, As if expecting whispers from the ground.

—Phillip H. Savage.

LIME ON THE FARM.

Best Way to Test It Is to Try It on Small Patch.

Lime seems to be needed on parts of most farms. It corrects sourness, mellows heavy soils, helps light soils to retain moisture, favors the growth of clover and alfalfa and checks the increase of some plant diseases. The most certain way, according to Professor Brooks of the Massachusetts experiment station, to find out whether lime will help the soil is to try it on a small plot in a field to be tested. Apply twenty pounds of fresh selected lime to two square rods.

Beets are a good test crop, as they grow better upon a limed plot if the soil needed lime. An average of about one ton of lime to an acre will usually be enough. It can be used at any season when the land is not occupied by crops and when it can be plowed. It may be planted broadcast and worked into the soil with a harrow.

Professor Brooks has been looking up various sources of lime in New England markets, and he finds that it varies considerably in cost and desirability. Quicklime is really the cheapest form, because when buying it the purchaser does not have to pay for water that is taken up when slaking lime.

One hundred pounds of quicklime contains as much essential lime as 132 pounds of slaked lime, thirty-two pounds being moisture from the air, and it contains as much as 178 pounds of raw limestone.

Lime can be slaked in small heaps by applying just water enough to wet the lumps, using about two pailfuls of water to 100 pounds of lime. After a few days it will have crumbled to a powder. Most farmers slake the lime before applying, as the unslaked lime is very disagreeable to use, even with a manure spreader protected with bar-lap.

Finely ground limestone or marl works well on light soils, but ground limestone costs more for the results obtained as compared with quicklime. Sometimes refuse lime from tanneries is a very cheap source of lime, and it can usually be had for the hauling.

MAKE FARMHOUSE FIT.

Don't Build Compact City Dwelling on Your Spreading Green Fields.

In our great cities land is dear and houses must be adapted to small areas. Architects have studied how to get the most house on a limited space because the man of moderate means cannot afford to buy a big lot. City houses are built on these condensed plans and are very well adapted to such conditions. But we are sorry to see that some of these city house plans are being taken into the country. When set into the wide space of a farm they look out of harmony with their surroundings.

The farmhouse should have all the comforts and conveniences of the city house, but it should not look like the city house. It should be so designed as to fit into its surroundings. The old fashioned farm home, with its air of comfort and repose, is in better taste than the modern bottled city house is on the farm.

Farmhouses can be tasteful and adapted to their location without being

The Old Lady Made the Chicks Carry Cards to Their Owner

DOES it always pay to be polite, daddy?" asked Jack one evening when the frogs began croaking "Goterbed, goterbed!" "Surely," answered daddy. "If it wasn't for politeness everybody would go around the world squawking like an old wagon wheel with no axle grease on it. Why do you ask, Jack?" "Oh," replied the little boy, "it all seems like such an awful lot of fuss to me! And if you'll excuse me, daddy, it seems to me as if it meant the telling of a whole lot of fibs."

"Oh, dear," sighed daddy; "now you've come to a question that has puzzled many older and wiser heads than yours or mine. Personally I believe that a lie if spoken with kindly intent is not a lie at all; but hundreds of thousands of good folks would say that I was wicked to even hint at such a thing."

"Still, as I said before, my dears, that is one of the questions every one must sooner or later decide for herself or himself, and, besides, this seems to be more of a lecture than a story, so I'll have to tell you about a dear old lady who lived in our town who got the best of her neighbor, a crusty old church deacon, by deliberately but politely fibbing."

"His chickens would keep going in her yard and spilling her nice flowers, and every time she protested she would be met only with growls and told to keep her fences mended. So one day she wrote a lot of cards and tied each of them with a long thread to a kernel of corn. They read something like this:

"Dear Mr. Deacon—Please send your chickens over every day. They are such good company."

"Dear Mr. Deacon—Your chickens have overlooked my new tulip bulbs. I'm afraid I planted them too deep for the dear little things. I shall have the bulbs spaded up today."

"Dear Mr. Deacon—How much water shall I give your chickens for luncheon? My seeds must be very dry eating."

"Now, the deacon was a deacon, and each card told a deliberate story, but he went over to the old lady's house that afternoon and apologized, with the first laugh anybody had seen on his face for years."

"Doesn't politeness pay?" asked daddy.

"Clever politeness does," answered Evelyn.

"They were fibs just the same," insisted Jack.

"Oh, my poor head!" said daddy.

expensive, and it pays to see that they are so. A tasteful home has a sale value in the country just as it has anywhere, and farmhouses should be built with this idea in view.

Above all this, however, is the pleasure of living in a tasteful country home, one that is adapted to its purpose and fitted to its location. There is a satisfaction here that is not reckoned in dollars, but is worth trying to get.—National Stockman and Farmer.

A Good Chick Feed.

For a good cake for chicks as well as fowls (and also for dogs) take about a quart of cornmeal, a pint of wheat bran and a pint of flour. Mix with sufficient sour milk to make batter. Add two teaspoonfuls of soda stirred up in a little sour milk and salt to taste. The batter must not be made too thin, nor should the cakes be allowed to scorch. One big cake laid on the floor each day will make the little chicks grow beyond belief.

Farm Philosophy.

Education is our hope for better agriculture. Let us advance every interest that will help the cause of education.

Progress in farming is an individual problem from the solution of which the state, the nation and the world must benefit.

When planting trees about the house set them quite a distance off, say thirty feet. Let the sunshine in and save doctor's bills.

One of the first considerations in improving country life and in reducing the drudgery of farm work is the extensive use of improved farm machinery. Study your conditions and examine the implement catalogues for the tools you need. Efficient implements are the farmer's capital and usually bring profits when properly used.

Let Wife Have Own Money.

It is a deplorable fact that many a wife has to beg her husband for money after she has helped to make it. To have to ask for money, even when it is given willingly, is a disagreeable thing. Did you ever hear the story of the committee of women who pledged themselves to contribute $1 each to a worthy cause? The dollar was to be earned by hard work. The night of the collection some funny stories were told about how the money had been earned. "How did you earn your dollar?" the chairman asked a handsome woman. "I got it from my husband," was the reply. "There was no hard work about that," some one said. The woman smiled and answered, "You don't know my husband."

Keeping Rats From Chicks.

In one night rats will destroy enough chicks to pay for many a rod of first class fine meshed wire.

HUMANE HORSE COLLARS.

A man who works a sweat pad on his horse ought to have one on his own neck. It is cumbersome, hot, filthy and it breeds scabs. The up to date man has long ago discarded the cotton pad and uses a leather collar—smooth, no lumps, nor knots, nor sweat clots—that is, if he cleans it and oils it often enough.

A Feeling Allusion.

"I heard Uncle Joe talking about something he said he saw at the horse races, but I know better," confided the recently chastised small boy to his chum. "He saw 'em right here, and they're my ma and pa."

"What did he say?" asked the chum. "He said he saw a spanking team." —Baltimore American.
